Measures in respect of institutions and organisations

A television channel, 12 associations and three newspapers which had connection to terrorist organisations and had operational activities of financing these organisations have been closed down.

Assessment and conclusion:

Measures taken with the decree-laws are intended for the continuity of the State and the restoration of the public order.

Furthermore, to avoid grievances, including the ones caused by FETÖ/PDY set-ups, arrangements such as the reinstatement of a number of public officials and the reopening of a number of institutions have also been made a following re-examination along with restoring their all rights.

Accordingly, Turkey as a state governed by the rule of law showed its commitment on the avoidance of grievances as soon as possible. The Government continues to take measures to the extent required by the state of emergency for ensuring the establishment of public order on the basis of human rights.
