ACT No. 365/2004 Coll.

of 20-th of May 2004

on Equal Treatment in Certain Areas and Protection against Discrimination, and on amending and supplementing certain other laws as amended (Antidiscrimination Act)

Amendments: Finding of the Constitutional Court of Slovak Republic No. 539/2005 Coll.

Act No. 326/2007 Coll.

Act No. 85/2008 Coll.

The National Council of the Slovak Republic has agreed to enact the following Act:

Article I § 1 Scope

This Act provides for the application of the principle of equal treatment and lays down the means of legal protection in a case of violation of this principle.

§ 2 Basic provisions

- (1) Adherence to the principle of equal treatment shall lay in the prohibition of discrimination on grounds of sex, religion or belief, race, nationality or ethnic origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, marital or family status, colour, language, political affiliation or other conviction, national or social origin, property, lineage or any other status.
- (2) While adhering to the principle of equal treatment, observance shall also be paid to good morals for the purpose of broadening of protection against discrimination.
- (3) Adherence to the principle of equal treatment shall also rest in adoption of measures for the protection against discrimination.

- (1) Discrimination shall mean direct discrimination, indirect discrimination, harassment, sexual harassment; and victimisation; discrimination shall also mean an instruction to discriminate and incitement to discrimination.
- (2) Direct discrimination shall mean any action or omission where one person is treated less favourably than another person is, has been or would be treated in a comparable situation.
- (3) Indirect discrimination shall mean an apparently neutral provision, decision, instruction or practice which put a person at a disadvantage compared with the other person; indirect discrimination shall not mean provision, decision, instruction or practice objectively justified by a legitimate aim if such provision, decision, instruction or practice is appropriate and necessary for achieving of such aim.

- (4) Harassment shall mean conduct which creates or may create an intimidating, hostile, shameful, humiliating, degrading, disrespectful or offensive environment and whose intention or consequence is or may be the violation of person's freedom or human dignity.
- (5) Sexual harassment shall mean verbal, non-verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature whose intention or consequence is or may be a violation of person's dignity and which creates an intimidating, degrading, disrespectful, hostile or offensive environment.
- (6) An instruction to discriminate shall mean an action laying in the abuse of subordinate position of a person for the purpose of discrimination against a third person.
- (7) Incitement to discrimination shall mean persuading, affirming or inciting a person to discriminate against a third person.
- (8) Victimisation shall mean any action or omission which has adverse consequences for a person and is directly connected with
- a) seeking legal protection against discrimination for oneself or on behalf of another person, or
- b) giving testimony, providing an explanation or any other involvement of a person in a proceedings concerning the violation of the principle of equal treatment,
- c) submitting the complaint alleging the violation of the principle of equal treatment.
- (9) Discrimination against a legal entity shall mean the failure to observe the principle of equal treatment with respect to this entity on grounds set out in paragraph 2 section 1 with respect to its members, associates, shareholders, members of its bodies, employees, persons acting on its behalf or persons on behalf of which such legal entity is acting.
- (10) Refusal or endurance of discrimination by a person may not in any way effect the subsequent treatment of this person or behavior towards this person or constitute the basis for the decision related to this person.
- (11) Discrimination due to
- a) sex shall also mean the discrimination due to pregnancy or motherhood and the discrimination due to sex or gender identification
- b) race, nationality or ethnic origin shall also mean the discrimination due to the relationship to a person of certain race, nationality or ethnic origin,
- c) religion or faith shall also mean the discrimination due to the relationship to a person of certain religion or faith, as well as the discrimination of a person without religion,
- d) disability shall also mean the discrimination due to a previous health impediment or the discrimination of a person in the event that based on external signs of a person it would be possible to presume that the person has a disability.

- (1) Everyone is obliged to adhere to the principle of equal treatment in the field of employment and similar legal relations, social security, and healthcare, the provision of goods and services and education.
- (2) The principle of equal treatment pursuant to Section 1 is applied only in connection with the rights of persons established by special Acts. /1/

(3) To determine whether discrimination has occurred or not, no account shall be taken of whether the underlying reasons were based on facts or on erroneous assumptions.

- (1) This Act shall not apply to
- a) differences of treatment resulting from the requirements for entry and stay of aliens in the territory of the Slovak Republic, including the treatment of these aliens provided for under separate provisions /2/, except for citizens of a European Union Member State, citizens of States parties to the Treaty on European Economic Community and the Swiss Confederation, stateless persons, and members of their family,
 - b) differences of treatment based on disability or age, resulting from separate provisions/3/ regulating the service of members of armed forces, armed security services, armed services, National Security Office, Slovak Information Service and Fire and Rescue Service; aforesaid shall not apply to employee engaged in employment relations/3a/.
- (2) The provisions of this Act shall not prejudice the freedom of association or the right to establish trade unions.

§ 5 The principle of equal treatment in social security, healthcare, provision of goods and services, and in education

- (1) In conformity with the principle of equal treatment, the discrimination on grounds set out in § 2 section 1 shall be prohibited in social security, healthcare, provision of goods and services, and in education.
- (2) The principle of equal treatment under section 1 shall apply only with regards to the rights of persons laid down under separate laws regulating access to and provision of
- a) social assistance, social insurance, old age pensions, complementary old age pensions, state social security allowance /4/ and social benefits,
- b) healthcare, /5/
- c) education, /6/
- d) goods and services, including housing, provided to the public by legal entities and natural persons entrepreneurs /7/.

§ 6 The principle of equal treatment in employment relations and other similar legal relations

- (1) In conformity with the principle of equal treatment, any discrimination on grounds set out under § 2 section 1 shall be prohibited in employment relations, similar legal relations and related legal relations.
- (2) The principle of equal treatment under section 1 shall apply only with regards to the rights of natural persons provided for under separate legal provisions regulating a)access to employment, occupation, other gainful activities or functions (hereinafter "employment"), including recruitment requirements and conditions and the manner of carrying out the process of selection for employment, /8/

- b) performance of employment and the conditions of performing the work in employment including remuneration, promotions and dismissal,
- c) access to vocational training, continuing vocational training and participation in programs of active labour market measures including access to counseling for employment selection and change of employment /9/ (hereinafter "vocational training"); and
- d) membership and participation in organizations of employees and employers and in organizations associating persons of a certain profession including the benefits provided by the organizations to their members.

- (1) In order to apply the principle of equal treatment employers shall take appropriate measures to enable a person with a disability to have access to employment, to the work of certain type, to promotion or access to vocational training; except if the adoption of such measures would impose a disproportionate burden on the employer.
- (2) To determine whether the measures referred to in section 1 give rise to a disproportionate burden, account shall be taken to
- a) the benefit that the adoption of the measure would mean for the disabled person,
- b) financial resources of the employer, including the possibility of obtaining funding or any other assistance for the adoption of measure, and
- c) the possibility of attaining the purpose of the measure referred to in section 1 by alternative means.
- (3) The measure shall not be considered as giving rise to disproportionate burden if its adoption by the employer is mandatory under separate legal provisions /10/.
- (4) Failure to adhere to the principle of equal treatment on grounds of disability shall be considered also refusal or omission of employer to adopt the measure in accordance with section 1.

§ 8 Admissible different treatment

- (1) Differences of treatment shall not constitute discrimination if they are objectively justified by the nature of occupational activities in employment or the circumstances under which such activities are carried out, provided that such reason constitutes a real and decisive requirement for employment under the condition that the aim is legitimate and the requirement is appropriate.
- (2) With regard to registered churches, religious societies and other legal entities whose activities are based on the religion or belief, differences of treatment on grounds of religion or belief shall not constitute discrimination, if it relates to the employment in such organisations or the performance of activities for such organisations and by reason of the nature of these activities or of the context in which they are carried out, religion or belief constitutes basic legitimate and justified requirement of occupation.
- (3) Differences of treatment on grounds of age shall not be deemed to constitute discrimination if they are objectively justified by a legitimate aim and the means of achieving that aim are appropriate and necessary, if it is laid down by a law.
- Differences of treatment on grounds of age shall not be deemed to constitute discrimination, particularly, if they consist in
- a) the fixing of a minimum or maximum age as a recruitment criterion,

- b) the setting of special conditions on access to employment and vocational training, and special conditions on employment, including remuneration and dismissal, for persons of a certain age bracket or persons with caring responsibilities, where such special conditions are intended to promote vocational integration or ensure the protection of such persons,
- c) the fixing of minimum age requirement, professional experience or seniority in service for access to employment or to certain advantages linked to employment.
- (4) With regard to occupational social security schemes, differences of treatment on grounds of age shall not be deemed to constitute discrimination if they consist in the fixing of age limits for entitlement to old age pension and disability pension in the context of such schemes including the fixing of different age limits in such schemes for employees or groups of employees, and the use of age criteria in actuarial calculations, provided this does not result in discrimination on the grounds of sex.
- (5) Differences of treatment on grounds of disability shall not be deemed to constitute discrimination where, by reason of the nature of employment or occupational activities, access to such employment or occupational activities is made conditional on meeting the health requirements.
- (6) Differences of treatment on grounds of age or disability in the provision of insurance services shall not be deemed to constitute discrimination where such treatment results from different levels of risk, verifiable by statistical or similar data, and where the terms of insurance services adequately reflect such risk.
- (7) Objectively justified differences of treatment on grounds of sex shall not be deemed to constitute discrimination
- a) if they consist in the fixing of different retirement age for men and women,
- b) if their purpose is the protection of pregnant women and mothers /11a/,
- c) if they consist in the provision of goods and services exclusively or preferentially to member of one sex, if it follows a legitimate aim and if the means to achieve this aim are appropriate and necessary
- (8) The use of differences in establishing the amount of an insurance premium or benefits by an insurance company or branch office of a foreign insurance company /11b/ based on gender differences, provided that such difference constitutes the determining factor in the assessment of the insurance risk arising from insurance contracts concluded according to special regulation /11c/ and this assessment is based on actuarial and statistical data, is not considered discrimination.
- (9) Costs related to pregnancy and motherhood may not lead to differences in the amount of insurance premium and benefits.

- (1) The adoption of temporary compensatory measures by state administrative bodies /11d/ targeted to eliminate forms of social and economic disadvantages and disadvantages arising due to age or disability, with the aim to ensure equality of opportunities in practice, is not considered discrimination. Such temporary compensatory measures, in particular, are measures
- a) consisting of the promotion of the interests of members of disadvantaged groups in employment, education, culture, healthcare and services; and
- b) ensuring the equality in access to employment and education especially through targeted preparation programs for members of disadvantaged groups or through dissemination of information on these programs or on possibilities to apply for jobs or places in the system of education.

- (2) Temporary compensatory measures provided for in section 1 may be adopted if
- a) obvious inequality exists;
- b) the aim of such measures is to decrease or eliminate this inequality;
- c) temporary compensatory measures are appropriate and essential to achieving the aim set.
- (3) Temporary compensatory measures may be adopted only in the areas provided for in this act. Such measures shall terminate once the inequality, which lead to the adoption of these measures, is eliminated. The bodies pursuant to section 1 shall be obliged to terminate the performance of these measures after achieveing the established aim.
- (4) The bodies pursuant to section 1 are obliged to continuously monitor, assess and publish adopted temporary compensatory measures with the aim of re-evaluating the eligibility of their further continuation and to submit reports to the Slovak National Centre for Human Right /11e/ on these facts.
- (5) The provisions of Sections 1 up to 4 are without prejudice to the provisions of § 7 and § 8, section 3 b) of this Act.

Legal protection and proceedings in matters concerning the violation of the principle of equal treatment

- (1) Under this Act, every person shall be entitled to equal treatment and protection against discrimination.
- (2) Every person who consider themselves wronged in their rights, interests protected by law and/or freedoms because the principle of equal treatment has not been applied may pursue their claims in judicial proceedings. He/she may, in particular, seek that the person violating the principle of equal treatment be made to refrain from such conduct and, where possible, rectify the illegal situation or provide adequate satisfaction.
- (3) Should adequate satisfaction prove to be not sufficient, especially where the violation of the principle of equal treatment has considerably impaired the dignity, social status and social functioning of the victim, the victim may also seek non-pecuniary damages in cash. The amount of non-pecuniary damages in cash shall be determined by the court, taking into account the extent of non-pecuniary damage and all underlying circumstances.
- (4) This Act shall not prejudice the entitlement to compensation for damages or other forms of compensation pursuant to separate provisions/12/.
- (5) Everyone is also entitled to the protection of his/her rights out of court through mediation /13/.

§ 10

- (1) Parties to the proceedings concerning the violation of the principle of equal treatment may also be represented by legal entities
- a) who have such authority under a separate law, or
- b) whose activities are aimed at or consist in the protection against discrimination.
- (2) If a legal entity takes up representation pursuant to section 1, it shall assign one of its members and/or employees to act on behalf of the person represented.

- (1) Proceedings concerning the violation of the principle of equal treatment shall be initiated by petition from a person who feels wronged by the violation of the principle of equal treatment (the "plaintiff" hereinafter). In the petition, the plaintiff is obliged to identify the person that has allegedly violated the principle of equal treatment (hereinafter "defendant").
- (2) The defendant has the obligation to prove that there was no violation of the principle of equal treatment if the facts submitted to a court by the plaintiff give rise to a reasonable assumption that such violation has indeed occurred.
- (3) The proceedings concerning the violation of the principle of equal treatment shall be governed by the Code of Civil Procedure unless this Act provides otherwise.

This Act transposes legal acts of the European Communities and the European Union, specified in the Annex.

§ 13 Transitory provision

Employers and relevant trade union bodies who concluded collective agreements under a separate provision are obliged to bring the provisions of collective agreements to compliance with this Act within six months from the date of entry into effect of this Act; this obligation shall also apply to internal regulations issued by employers.
