This year the competition topic is as follows:

Employ your imagination and try to show how you would imagine the world without privacy. There would not be any secret, you would not be able to leave any detail from your life to yourselves. How such a world would function? Would it be better or worse than our present world? How could such world come true – by giving up privacy and data protection of one´s free will, of ignorance, by mistake or has someone taken it by force? Let your imagination run wild as you write stories, essays or scenarios. You also can create and play a sketch and capture it on video.

We will not omit those who prefer drawing, painting or graphic arts either. Everyone knows or thinks at least that knows where to safely put money, where to place a secret notebook, how to hide a photo. But in what way shall we treat personal data? How and where can we deposit information about ourselves? Try to depict the safest place for personal data storage, how could it look like or where could it be.

We have divided both topics by age groups of 7 – 13 years and 14 – 18 years respectively.

Apart from individuals, schools, school clubs, libraries, leisure time establishments or different children teams may participate. Please let us know if you decide to work in groups and to develop some accompanying activities (discussion party, competition among classes. etc.). We can share the information on our website.

Authors of the best proposals can look forward to an interesting program accompanying the award ceremony.
