

- Adequate information to identify the relevant data to be preserved including its location (custodian of the stored computer data, location of the computer system, etc.)
-

Article 16.1 of the Budapest Convention allows “expeditious preservation of specified computer data”. Thus, the data to be preserved have to be specified. Besides, the immateriality of this type of evidence requires a very concrete identification of the sought data.