Works of Art have an Aura from a time when relationships with places were sacred.

The days of bottomless depths, grottos and lustral water are past, although their memory haunts us. We are now in an era of interconnection, flux and communication, as reflected in the contemporary Landscape.

How can possible Communion be restored? How can we foster the emergence of Beauty of Use?

This photographic record of the Everyday tries to provide an answer through time spent spotting signs, and by including and stratifying images deposited in the sediments of Time.
