State replies / Réponses de l'Etat

Question 10.2.

No. The production and possession of self-generated sexually explicit images and videos by children is not punishable under Art. 207a CC (see also answer to question 9.7. a to d):

With the Criminal Law Amendment Act 2017, Federal Law Gazette.vol. I no. 117/2017, which entered into force on the first of September 2017, a new para. 6 was introduced in Art. 207a CC to decriminalise such cases. This exception is applicable if a minor of or above the age of 14 produces or possesses a pornographic image of himself/herself or if the minor offers, provides, relinquishes, displays, or otherwise makes such an image available to others in the sense of para.1, para. 2 first alternatives or para. 3 of Art. 207a CC. The distribution is still punishable if it is done commercially (see Art. 70 CC).

BELGIUM / BELGIQUE

State replies / Réponses de l'Etat

Question 10.1.

Comme la Belgique n'a pas mis de réservation il faut répondre la question 10.2

Question 10.2.

Oui, voir l'article 383bis CP, mais avec l'explication donnée sous 9.2 :

La formulation recourant au terme "de droit" dans l'article 383bis du Code pénal, y inclus dans le § 2, fait écho au libellé de la Directive Abus sexuels dont le Considérant n°17 (inspiré du passage n°141 du Rapport explicatif de la Convention de Lanzarote) précise ce qui suit:

"(17) Dans le cadre de la pédopornographie, les termes "sans droit" permettent aux États membres de prévoir une défense pour les actes relatifs au matériel pornographique ayant, par exemple, un objectif médical, scientifique ou similaire. Ils permettent également de mener des activités en vertu de compétences légales nationales, telles que la détention légitime de pédopornographie par les autorités à des fins de poursuites pénales ou de prévention, de détection ou d'enquête pénale. En outre, ils n'excluent pas les défenses légales ou les principes similaires applicables qui exemptent une personne de sa responsabilité dans certaines circonstances, par exemple dans le contexte d'activités de signalement de tels cas via des lignes d'urgence, téléphoniques ou via l'internet."

L'expression "sans droit" permet donc d'"exclure de la portée de l'article 383bis les représentations didactiques, artistiques ou scientifiques qui doivent permettre l'exemption de toute poursuite" (C. Falzone et F. Gazan, "La pornographie enfantine en Belgique", JT, n°6313 – 21/2008 – 31/05/2008, p. 357 et sv., notamment la note 39. Voir aussi la section "La dimension immunitaire" dans la contribution de 2013 d'I. Wattier aux Qualifications juridiques (p.18 et 19) et le Rapport explicatif de la Convention de Lanzarote

Dans un article de doctrine récent, l'exemple suivant est donné :

« La jurisprudence (supérieure) pourrait tenir compte de la consensualité dans le cadre de l'interprétation de notions telles que la « débauche » et les « bonnes mœurs ». Elle semble être suffisamment ouverte à cela. Concernant la diffusion et la possession de pédopornographie, la qualification actuelle du délit offre certainement un point de référence pour une telle interprétation. Depuis la loi du 31 mai 2016, elle exige effectivement un caractère « illégal » pour le transfert comme pour la possession du matériel visé. Le caractère consensuel de la communication entre mineurs pourrait enlever cette illicéité. Si les mineurs sont trop jeunes (moins de seize ans) ou s'il devait y avoir une trop grande différence d'âge entre les personnes qui communiquent, on pourrait quand même encore toujours partir du principe que l'intéressé doit être protégé en punissant les faits. En juger autrement en agissant de manière répressive dans chaque cas, par exemple également lorsqu'il s'agit de mineurs considérés comme sexuellement majeurs, entraînerait qu'ils peuvent bel et bien poser des actes sexuels consensuels mais ne peuvent pas s'envoyer des images à caractère sexuel.

Il ne serait en tout cas pas insolite que la consensualité entraîne l'impunité de la communication lorsque nous examinons la communication éducative entre parent et enfant. Effectivement, on peut difficilement penser dans ce contexte que l'article 379, alinéa 1<sup>er</sup>, du Code pénal (incitation à la débauche) est violé. Dans la communication éducative entre parent et enfant, il ne sera en effet pas question de l'intention requise de « faire plaisir à l'autrui ». Ce même contexte n'est cependant pas sans difficulté. La question se pose également de savoir si dans ce cas, il sera question d'une diffusion et d'une possession de pornographie enfantine au sens de l'article 383bis du Code pénal. Pensez au parent qui reçoit de la part de son enfant une photo des organes sexuels de celui-ci dans un contexte éducatif, et les transfère ensuite à l'autre parent. Avant la modification législative de cet article par la loi du 31 mai 2016, il n'était pas évident d'échapper à cette qualification. Il aurait pu être considéré que le parent transférant la photo reçue à l'autre parent diffusait du matériel pornographique. En outre, la simple possession de cette photo risquait d'être punissable sur la base de l'article 383bis, § 2, du Code pénal. La seule manière d'échapper à cette incrimination était d'admettre que cette photo n'avait pas de caractère pornographique. En soi, cela est certainement défendable étant donné que la photo et son transfert n'ont pas l'intention d'être sexuellement stimulants ou autrement dit, d'exciter artificiellement les sens de la personne qui la regarde et d'offenser la pudeur du citoyen moyen en raison des attitudes ou comportements vicieux ou pervers qu'elle représente. Même s'il n'est pas sûr que chaque juge du fond aurait partagé cet avis. Il est à présent plus facile d'échapper à cette qualification du délit. En effet, elle exige à présent un caractère « illégal » pour le transfert comme pour la possession de la photo. En outre, la loi établit maintenant explicitement qu'une telle photographie n'équivaut à de la pornographie enfantine que si les organes sexuels apparaissent « à des fins principalement sexuelles ». Dans ce cas, on peut difficilement admettre qu'il s'agit de communication éducative telle que visée plus haut (A. DIERICKX, « Nootp nieuwe seksuele criminaliteit tot nieuwe seksuele misdrijven, Nullum Crimen, n° 3, 2017, p. 237-238). »

Enfin, il convient de rappeler le principe de l'opportunité des poursuites applicable en Belgique, principe qui est, depuis 1998, inscrit dans l'article 28quater du Code d'instruction criminelle :

« Compte tenu des directives de politique criminelle définies en vertu de l'article 143ter du Code judiciaire, le procureur du Roi juge de l'opportunité des poursuites. Il indique le motif des décisions de classement sans suite qu'il prend en la matière. Il exerce l'action publique suivant les modalités prévues par la loi. Le devoir et le droit d'information du procureur du Roi subsistent après l'intentement de l'action publique. Ce devoir et ce droit d'information cessent toutefois pour les faits dont le juge d'instruction est saisi, dans la mesure où l'information porterait sciemment atteinte à ses prérogatives, sans préjudice de la requisition prévue à l'article 28septies, alinéa premier, et dans la mesure où le juge d'instruction saisi de l'affaire ne décide pas de poursuivre lui-même l'ensemble de l'enquête. »

Question 10.2.

As written at Q. 9.7., children are not punishable if they produce sexual explicit images and/or videos of themselves, or of persons above the age of 18 y.o.. Children can be punishable, though, if they produce such images and/or videos of other persons under the age of 18 y.o. Thus, if the self-generated images and/or videos involve other persons under the age of 18. y.o., it can be regarded as child pornography, and the production and/or possession of such material can give ground to establish the criminal offence of child pornography, regardless of the fact that the other child gave consent or not, or they use it for their own private use.

Question 10.2.

There are no measures in Icelandic law to ensure the age set in application of Article 18(2) when the material is made with the child's consent and is solely for their own private use.

Production and/or possession of such material is not especially criminalised but could possibly be punishable according to Articles 2010 and 210A of the Penal Code. No indictments have been made in those kinds of cases.

ITALY / ITALIE

State replies / Réponses de l'Etat

Question 10.2.

The Italian system does not criminalize the production of self-generated sexually explicit material by children who have reached the age of sexual freedom (14 years), nor is there a sanction for the possession of such material by the same minor who has produced it in a consensual way, or for possession by another minor who has received this material directly from the minor who produced it.

See also Q. 8:

In the Italian criminal system at present there is no specific reference to self-generated sexually explicit images/contents/materials produced by children, neither are there specific provisions on the participation by more children in self-generated pedopornographic material, nor does legislation predetermine the extent of the validity of any consent given by the child who has produced self-generated sexually explicit or evocative images to sharing them through ICTs.

The matter of child pornography, as influenced by the indications contained in the Lanzarote Convention, is ruled by the provisions of the Criminal Code, articles 600-ter and 600-quater (for details see the answer to Question 20 of the General Overview Questionnaire and the answer to Q.9 below). Literally these provisions, as interpreted by the jurisprudence on the substance and by the consolidated case-law of the Supreme Court, do not expressly punish the production of self-generated child pornographic material by children and punish only cases in which such material is produced (or marketed, distributed, spread, transmitted, advertised, transferred, even electronically) "using minors under the age of eighteen".

The case law has pronounced itself very recently in this regard, with reference to the phenomenon of sexting, in particular in a case of sexually explicit material produced by a girl under eighteen, which she had then transmitted to other children who, in turn, have sent it to other children without her knowledge. In fact, the holders of the self-generated material who had sent it to others were acquitted of the charges based on art. 600 ter of the Criminal Code (production and dissemination of pedopornographic material) since the Court declared that this provision punishes the transfer of pedopornographic material only when the material has been produced with third parties (adults or minors) using the minor, whereas in this case the material had been self-generated by the girl herself. In this sense, the notion of "pedopornographic material" to which the article refers to, is only the one produced by a person other than the minor being depicted, since the law makes a clear distinction between the user of the material and the minor depicted in the images [3rd Criminal Section of the Supreme Court ("Corte di Cassazione"), judgment of 21 March 2016, No. 11675]. Differently, the case of pedopornographic material which was self-produced and disseminated via ICTs with the participation of an adult or a minor who "uses" a child or more children can fall under the above-mentioned offenses.

Regarding the production of self-generated child pornographic content representing sexual acts among children, it should also be reminded that, in Italy, cases of sexual acts with children fall under different regulations based on the age groups, and that normally sexual consent requires at least the age of fourteen. The Italian law allows to have sexual intercourse with children who have reached the age of 14 if they are consenting to it and if they are not subject to a dominant position. In case of dominant positions (such as those of parents, guardians, teachers, caregivers, physicians, public officials or even partners) the child must be at least 16 years old for the consent to be valid, otherwise there is a criminal offence (art. 609quater of the Criminal Code: sexual acts with children). The age of consent to sexual acts reaches 18 years if the act involves the parent, even adoptive, or a guardian or a partner, and a child who is at least 16 years old, and there is an abuse of powers connected to his/her role. The age of consent validly granted to sexual acts goes down, on the other hand, to 13 years if both partners are underage, provided the age difference is less than 3 years. If the child is less than 10 years old, the offence is considered aggravated (art. 609-quater). Under the age of 14, there is "sexual intangibility" (with the above-mentioned exception of the child who has reached the age of 13): his/her consent is always considered invalid and therefore any sexual activity involving him/her is considered and punished as sexual violence. Therefore, the production of sexually explicit material with the involvement of a child (or more children) being 14 years old and committing sexual acts with other children, could possibly be considered as the above-mentioned criminal offense of sexual acts with children.

As regards the self-production and the transmission of child pornographic material by children, it should also be noted that the Italian Criminal Code punishes the "incitement to paedophilic practices and child pornography" (art. 414-bis of the Criminal Code), a crime that takes place whenever anyone (adult or underage), by any means and with any form of expression, publicly incites to commit, against children, one or more crimes of child prostitution, child pornography, possession of pornographic material (even if related to virtual pornography), sexual tourism, sexual violence, sexual acts with children and corruption of children. Those who publicly condones one or more of the above-mentioned crimes are also subject to the same sanction. That law also specifies that, with regard to such offences, it is not possible to invoke, as justification, artistic, literary, historical or social reasons or purposes, precisely to allow for the widest possible protection of children from behaviours that, disguised as artistic/cultural expressions, put them in danger of being sexually abused or exploited.

LATVIA / LETTONIE

State replies / Réponses de l'Etat

Question 10.2.

Yes, these actions are criminalized even when it involves children who have reached the age set in application of Article 18(2) where these images and/or videos are produced and possessed by them with their consent and solely for their own private use according to Part 2 of Section 166 of the Criminal Law, which stipulates that a person who commits visiting or demonstration of such pornographic performance or handling of such materials of pornographic nature which contain child pornography shall be held criminally liable.

The child's self-generated sexually explicit image or video, in accordance with Point 2 of Section 1 of the Law on Pornography Restrictions (in relation to definition of child's pornography please, see answer to question 9.1.a) is interpreted as a material which contain child pornography, because the above-mentioned law does not provide exceptions whether the producer is the child himself or another person, for example, adult.

Although, we point out that in practice, from the point of view of the best interests of the child, a minor may not be held liable for the possession or production of materials of the sexual nature of his own.

Question 10.1.

See response to question 9.7.:

Under § 219(6) StGB, criminal liability is excluded for the production or possession of child pornography material if production or possession of the pornographic depiction of an adolescent is with the adolescent's consent and for the adolescent's own use. According to the legal definition set out in § 74(1)(2) StGB, an adolescent is a person between the age of 14 and 18. The transfer of pornographic depictions by the adolescent depicted and the transfer of pornographic depictions of other adolescents or children by adolescents are, however, prohibited by criminal law.

Children under the age of 14 have not reached the age of criminal responsibility and thus cannot be held criminally responsible for the production, possession, or transfer of pornographic depictions of a minor (i.e. of a person who has not reached the age of 18), irrespective of whether the depictions are transferred to other children/adolescents or to adults.

MALTA / MALTE

Question 10.1.

Malta has made a reservation to this effect.

Question 10.2.

Maltese law does not specify any particular age. Even a minor can be prosecuted if he engages in sexual activities with another minor.

- The offence of 'production' of child pornography is covered under Article 208A. (1) of the Maltese Criminal Code (Chapter 9 Laws of Malta), which stipulates that:
- Any citizen or permanent resident of Malta whether in Malta or outside Malta, as well as any person in Malta, who makes or produces permits to be made or produced any indecent material or produces, distributes, disseminates, imports, exports, offers, sells, supplies, transmits, makes available, procures for oneself or for another, or shows such indecent material shall, on conviction, be liable to imprisonment for a term from twelve months to five years.

The offence of possession of child pornography is however regulated by Article 208A (1B) of the Criminal Code, which states that:

- "Any person who acquires, knowingly obtains access through information and communication technologies to, or is in possession of, any indecent material which shows, depicts or represents a person under age, shall on conviction, be liable to imprisonment for a term from not exceeding three years".

Question 10.2.

The national law is unclear with regard to this situation and it should be applied by the analogy. For example a person cannot be punished for committing suicide or for self-harming. This situation is similar to the situation when images are self-produced by the person (child) for own private use. Therefore, it is considered that that the person (child) cannot be prosecuted. Yet, the national law is not precise with regard to this situation and does not exactly provide for the described situation.

The law distinguishes between a younger juvenile (14 to 16 years of age) and a juvenile (16 to 18 years of age), who may be tried in criminal proceedings and pronounced diversion measures (warning or attendance order) or criminal sanctions (correctional measures, a juvenile detention term, or security measures). A younger juvenile may only be sanctioned by correctional measures. An older juvenile may be sanctioned by correctional measures and, by exception and under conditions set by this Act, may also be sanctioned by a juvenile detention term. A juvenile may also, under conditions set by the law, be sanctioned by the security measures, save for the ban on engagement in a profession, business or duty and publication of the judgment. A juvenile may not be sanctioned by suspended sentence and court admonition. A person who, at the time of the commission of a criminal offense was younger than 14, does not have legal consequences for the abovementioned behaviour.

The Criminal Code of the Republic of Macedonia in paragraph 1 of the criminal act of Article 193 'Showing pornographic materials to a child' criminalises the actions of a person who sells, shows or by public presentation in some other way makes available pictures, audio-visual or other materials with a pornographic content, as well as the actions of the person who would take part in the presentation.

These persons shall be sentenced to prison between six months and three years.

Paragraph 2 stipulates imprisonment between three to five years if the act was committed with the use of media.

Paragraph 3 stipulates that the sentence referred to in paragraph 2 will be imposed to a person abusing a minor under the age of 14<sup>7</sup> for the purposes of audio-visual materials or other items with pornographic content or for pornographic presentation.

Paragraph 5 stipulates imprisonment of at least eight years for a person forcing a child under the age of 14 to produce or generate images or other materials with pornographic content or for a pornographic presentation.

However, this criminal act does not contain explicit criminalisation of self-generated production and/or possession of images/videos with sexually explicit content where the children produced these with their consent and solely for their own private use.

Question 10.2.

Production of pornographic content that includes minors above the age set in application of Article 18(2), is a criminal offence, provided in Art. 176/3 of the Criminal Code. In relation to this offence, the law does not contain any specific provisions regarding the production and/or possession of self-generated sexually explicit images and/or videos when it involves children who have reached the age set in application of Article 18(2) of the Convention but are below 18 years old, where these images and/or videos are produced and possessed by them with their consent and solely for their own private use.

It can be therefore concluded that the production of such material in context stated in the question (of self-generated sexually explicit images and/or videos when it involves children who have reached the age set in application of Article 18(2) of the Convention but are below 18 years old, where these images and/or videos are produced and possessed by them with their consent and solely for their own private use) is not incriminated, since this material lacks the elements of the pornographic content in Art. 176/3 of the Criminal Code.

Furthermore, the prohibitions in Section 10 a against depiction and possession do not apply to a person who draws, paints or in some other similar hand-crafted fashion produces a picture of the kind described in the first paragraph as long as it is not intended for dissemination, transfer, granted use, exhibition or in any other way be made available to others. Even in other cases the act shall not constitute a crime if, having regard to the circumstances, it is justifiable.
