(1) Campaigning for Human Rights online

The 4th Coordination meeting of the Campaign

On 23-25 September the 4th coordination meeting of activists and coordinators of the campaign was hosted by the Ministry of Social Affairs and Youth of Albania with the support of the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA). The meeting gathered national coordinators, members of national committees, online activists and campaign partners in Tirana to share practices and coordinate campaign initiatives for 2017. The meeting was opened by Blendi Klosi, Minister of Social Affairs and Youth, and Anne Brasseur, Ambassador of the No Hate Speech campaign, who was also interviewed on national TV. See also photo impressions from the meeting.

Parliamentarians express support for the campaign

On 16 September during the session on 'Mobilisation of Parliaments against hate for inclusive and non-racist societies' at the European Summit of Presidents and Speakers of National Parliaments, parliament members expressed support for the campaign and the work of the No hate Parliamentary Alliance. Anne Brasseur highlighted that human rights education is "a tool to empower young people to reject hate speech and discriminative narratives" while Olemic Thommessen (Norway) expressed support for the establishment of 22 July as the European Day for Victims of Hate Crime and encouraged parliamentarians to collaborate with the national campaign committees. Laura Boldrini (Italy) called on everybody to spread human rights narratives and be visible as a response to hate speech. More info can be found here.

Commemoration of the Roma Genocide

Ternype International Roma Youth Network organised the unique youth event "Dikh He Na Bister/Look and don't forget" in Krakow and Auschwitz-Birkenau on 2 August gathering about 400 young Roma and non-Roma from across Europe. The youth participants took part in a programme to commemorate and learn about the Roma Genocide and how to speak out against Antigypsyism and hate speech in Europe today. The supported by the Council of Europe through the Roma Youth Action Plan. A second large remembrance was organised by Romano Centre in Vienna.

Seminars and trainings

Throughout the summer several national NHS campaigns organised workshops and trainings. At the National Training Course on Human Rights Education 25 UK participants explored practical tools that can be used at local and national level for tackling hate speech, the speeches from the public debate held during the course can be read on their blog. At an international training course in Turkey youth activists enhance their ability to address human rights issues on social media through human rights education and intercultural learning. The Mediterranean Academy for Youth gathered 150 participants in Morocco addressing i.a. hate speech and other challenges young people are facing in the Mediterranean region.

Workshop to pilot the manual on counter narratives to hate speech

The French speaking NHSM in Belgium organised a workshop on developing counter and alternative narratives to hate speech on 4 August. The workshop was based on the methodology of the upcoming Council of Europe's Handbook on counter narratives to hates speech which will be available at the end of the year.

UN Resolution on the enjoyment of Human Rights online

At its 32nd session on 27 June, the UN Human Rights Council adopted a Resolution entitled "The Promotion, protection and enjoyment of human rights on the Internet". In Article 11 of the Resolution the Council stresses the importance of combating the advocacy of hatred that constitutes incitement to discrimination or violence on the Internet, by promoting tolerance and dialogue instead. The document also addresses gender-based violence and the gender divide online (Article 13).

Estonia

The Estonian NHS campaign was officially launched on 29 September. The campaign coordinator is Maari Poim.

Romania

The Romanian National Campaign Committee for the NHSM was established at its first meeting on 25 July.

(2) Council of Europe - main developments

For up-to-date CoE news please check the CoE website and the CoE Journal.

On 28 September, at the 1266th meeting of the Committee of Ministers, the Deputies adopted the Recommendation CM/Rec(2016)7 on young people's access to rights. The Recommendation was adopted in view of the fundamental role of young people and the work carried out by youth organisations in the development of societies. It bears in mind that young people's access to rights is a prerequisite for their personal development and their access to autonomy. Young people's unhindered and full access to their rights is considered to be an essential element of a culture of human rights, democracy and rule of law. The Recommendation calls for youth policies to be developed at all levels to promote and facilitate all young people's access to rights more effectively. Read more here

Secretary General Thorbjørn Jagland attended the Carry Light for Children event, organised on 18 September by the Council of Europe, UNICEF and the Estonian Mission to the UN with the goal to raise awareness about the precarious conditions of children and adolescents during migration. Council of Europe is currently working on an expedited timetable to help ensure that all migrant and refugee children and adolescents can enjoy their fundamental rights. As part of the CoE Chairmanship of Estonia, a conference children rights in the migration crisis will be organised on 3-4 November 2016 in Tallinn. More info here.

On 22 September PACE Committee on Migration, Refugees and Displaced Persons called on European governments to protect unaccompanied migrant minors and to avoid them going missing. The draft resolution adopted stated that children and adolescents need to be protected from trafficking and criminal activities and the right to family reunion in case of separated migrant minors needs to be upheld. Furthermore, the resolution called for harmonisation of the rules concerning the establishment of guardians and legal representatives. The next plenary session of the Assembly in October will discuss the draft recommendation.

The Congress of the Local and Regional Authorities organised a youth based seminar in Chernihiv from in July within the framework of "Promoting local democracy in Ukraine" project, which is part of the Council of Europe Action Plan for Ukraine 2015-2017. Young leaders gathered to propose new local initiatives and discuss their role as future leaders. Participants were also engaged with Congress members Saimir Plaku (Albania) and Saara Ilvessalo (Finland), and experts on how to increase participation and introduce changes at the local level.

The Council of Europe Commissioner for Human Rights, Nils Muižnieks, stated in his latest Human Rights comment on 20 September that "no violence against children is acceptable, all violence is preventable". The statement takes stock of the 2006 UN Global study on violence against children and the UN Special Representative on Violence against Children results of a worldwide consultation of children in 2015, which highlighted that protection from violence was their second highest priority, right after education.

Following the meeting of Ministers for Foreign Affairs of the Council of Europe's 47 member States in Sofia on 18 May, the SG has entrusted the Special Representative of the Secretary General on migration and refugees, Tomáš Boček, with the with the preparation of an organisation-wide Action Plan for the protection of unaccompanied and other refugee and migrant children/adolescents. The Youth Department is actively supporting the development of the Action Plan which will be presented by the SRSG in early 2017.

The 17th edition of the University of Youth and Development was organised by the North-South Centre and partners on 18-25 September in Molina, Spain. The purpose of the university is to bring young people and youth workers from all over the world to debate, build their capacities and co-operate on youth policy related issues. This year the theme was 'connecting identities' and it gathered over 200 participants coming from 60 countries. During a whole week participants engaged in tackling the issue of stereotyping by working on developing ideas for a society based on empathy, solidarity and in which identities could be connected to each other. The Advisory Council on Youth was represented by Carmen Fischer. More info here.

On 1 September the new Special Representative of the Secretary General for Roma Issues, Valeriu Nicolae, a Romanian Roma, has taken up the post of Special Representative. Valeriu Nicolae brings a rich and diverse experience to the team. His human rights experience, in particular his work with schoolchildren in one of Bucharest's ghettoes, have provided him with an in-depth knowledge of the everyday problems faced by Roma communities. The 8th International Youth Camp "Dialogue" was held from 22 to 26 September at the "Ethnomir" centre in Kaluga region, Russian Federation. It brought together 65 participants who represent the youth and ethno-cultural organisations from different levels. The participants explored approaches and competences for intercultural dialogue and how youth work can influence on better development of intercultural dialogue at local and regional level. The event was attended by Paddy Hennelly, member of the Advisory Council on Youth.

The Council of Europe Expert Team for the Quality Label for Youth Centre visited the Killarney Youth Centre (KYC) on 27-28 September. The Killarney Youth Centre is a structure of and the headquarters of the Kerry Diocesan Youth Service (KDYS) and its main mission is to "empower young people to grow to their full potential, by enabling them to acquire the knowledge, attitudes and skills necessary for their well-being and for the enrichment of their communities". The KDYS provides a wide range of activities for all young people in the region through educational and social programmes and opportunities and has governmental, regional and local support in the implementation of its programme. It is recognised as one of the leading youth work organisations in the country being involved in numerous pioneering projects that have had significant impact on the development of youth work in Kerry and in Ireland. The Expert Team will be submitting its recommendation to the European Steering Committee on Youth during its meeting from 17-19 October.

On 13 September, the Council of Europe, the City of Strasbourg, the University of Strasbourg and the European Youth Card Association (EYCA), launched the Youth Card in France. The goal of the Card is to promote the active role young people can play all over Europe and to encourage their cultural, professional and personal development - more information on the Youth Card here. The launch event was covered by radio, TV and social media: Alsace20 TV, Facebook and Twitter,

A promotional seminar to join the Partial Agreement on Youth Mobility through the Youth Card (PA) was organised on 28 September in Barcelona for interested member states not yet party to the PA. The seminar emphasized the added value of the PA and presented good practices from CoE member states on the Youth Card. Representative from Ukraine, Belarus, Georgia, Albania as well as a number of member states party to the PA and youth card member organisations attended the seminar.

EU-CoE youth partnership

At the occasion of the annual meeting of the Pool of European Youth Researchers on 6 September and the 12th Annual of the European Knowledge Centre on Youth Policy on 8 September, the EU-CoE youth partnership organised a research seminar on trends and perspectives on youth research in the European Youth Centre Budapest. The seminar brought together the PEYR and EKCYP as well as other experts to discuss questions of methodology, approaches and themes that are coming up as a result of the social, economic and political context in Europe today. Relevant themes that were considered important for the future were: learning mobility; participation and e-participation; bridges with formal education, vocational education and training and unemployment; transitions; young migrants and refugee, and the role of youth work; and building research infrastructure on youth.

The workshop "Connections, disconnections and reconnections – the social dimension of youth work, in history and today" was organized in Malta on 21-23 September. The aim of the meeting was to look at social inclusion of young people through youth and social work to identify concepts, tools and support measures for socially excluded young people and to promote a common understanding of youth work as social practice. The meeting was attended of some member state which had not been part of earlier reflections to tell their (hi-)stories about youth work.

Activities in October:

- EU Youth Conference and meeting of the Directors General for Youth, (Bratislava, 3-7 Oct)
- Getting across: A peer-learning seminar on cross-sectoral youth policy co-operation in the Western Balkans (Budva, Montenegro, 26-27 Oct)

Staff:

The Head of the Youth Policy Division has been appointed as from 1 November 2016. Florian Cescon will take over the post previously occupied by André-Jacques Dodin. Florian has been working in the secretariat of the Committee of Ministers and prior to this worked in the secretariat of the Youth Department's Partnership with the European Commission in the field of youth.

Hanjo Schild left the Youth Department in the end of September after almost 12 years. We thank Hanjo for the great contribution to the EU-Council of Europe Youth Partnership and the Youth Department as a whole, and wish him good luck in his new job!

The Youth Policy Division has a new trainee, Melina Nuhic. Maria Zanenghi has joined the European Youth Foundation team until the end of the year.

(4) DG II - Education Department

This section is dedicated to the latest news from the Education Department.

In the framework of the Pestalozzi Programme, three European workshops and one national training event took place in September:

From 19 to 23 September, a European Workshop titled "Education for all: Building inclusive and supportive school environments in the context of change" took place in Norway. The target involved teachers, head of schools and teacher trainers for the age group 6- 19 with the aim of being introduced to international legal obligations that states have in assisting young refugees in enjoying their right to education and their rights in education. Furthermore, the activities focused on developing an understanding of child rights in education and of the individual, institutional and structural challenges but also possibilities of providing inclusive education for all. More info can be found here.

From 28-30 September 2016 in Germany, "The European Language Portfolio (ELP)" workshop took place targeting teachers of age group 6-15. The aim of the course was to encourage teachers to implement language portfolio to their lessons and to use it as a tool for supporting students on their way to become autonomous learners. The workshop was also based on good practice examples. More info click here.

(5) Other news

On 22 September the United Nations Human Rights Council held a panel discussion on youth and human rights. The aim of the discussion was to identify challenges, best practices and lessons learned in the exercise of human rights by young people, as well as relevant opportunities for the empowerment of youth in the exercise of their rights. The conclusion noted that today's generation of young people was the largest in history which is why they are very important for the realization of the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda. More information here

The United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UN/DESA) prepared the World Youth Report on Youth Civic Engagement in July. The report provides thematic insights on economic, political and community engagement together with expert opinions to provide views into youth engagement. The summary of the report can be found here.

The International Youth Day is an awareness day organised by the United Nations every year on 12 August. The theme for year 2016 was "the Road to 2030: Eradicating Poverty and Achieving Sustainable Consumption and Production". It is linked to the UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and focuses on young people's role in ensuring poverty eradication and using sustainable consumption and production to achieve sustainable development. To read more about International Youth Day click here.

The Committee on the Rights of the Child adopted a General Comment on 'Public budgeting for the realization of children's rights' on 22 September. The General Comment will help States deliver commitments made to investment in children in the 2030 Agenda on Sustainable Development, the Addis Ababa Action Agenda, the UN Human Rights Council Resolution on 'Towards better investment in the rights of the child' and the European Commission's Recommendation on 'Investing in Children'. For more info see here.

On 8 September the International Day of Literacy was celebrated world-wide. This event marked its 50th anniversary of national and international engagement with efforts to increase literacy rates around the world. According to UNESCO an estimated 122 million youth globally are illiterate. Furthermore, 67 million young children do not attend school and 72 million adolescents do not exercise their right to education. More information here

UNHCR released a report on 15 September showing that 3.7 million school-age children have no school to go to. Furthermore, 1.75 million refugee children are not in primary school and 1.95 refugee adolescents are not in secondary schools. Refugees are five more times likely to be out of school than the global average. The report calls for governments to prioritize effective inclusion of refugee children in national systems and multi-year education sector plans. For more information click here

The International Labour Organization's (ILO) report "World Employment and Social Outlook 2016: Trends for Youth" provides updated figures on global and regional youth unemployment. It also looks at working poverty rates, decent work opportunities in both developed and developing economies as well as gender inequalities and migration trends among young people. Research shows that after a number of years of improvement, youth unemployment is set to rise in 2016 (expected to reach 13.1%) and young people are disproportionately affected by working poverty. It contains case studies, information and practical tools to engage young people across many topics related to cultural diversity. To read more click here.

Eurochild organised the conference Children's Rights Matter: Why Europe needs to invest in children in July. The conference brought together policy makers, professionals working with children, politicians as well as children and young people themselves to engage in dialogue and address the rights of children and adolescents in the context of challenges to economic and financial stability. More info on the event can be found here. To read the practical guide on how to organise a conference with the participation of children and young people see here.

Eurodesk information experts are running the Time to Move campaign which is a collection of events for young people organised during the month of October 2016. It involves a roadmap full of activities and possibilities to undertake internationally and gain experience for the future. The information on the activities is arranged in four categories: studying, volunteering, internships and travelling. For more information, check the European Youth Portal and Time to Move campaign

The European Foundation for the Improvement of Living and Working Conditions (Eurofund) published a report "Exploring the diversity of NEETs" in August aimed at better understanding the economic and social vulnerability of young people. NEET - young people not in employment, education or training - is a tool used to inform about youth-oriented policies in the EU member States. The report hopes to provide information that will help policymakers precisely target interventions that are intended to ease young people's engagement with the world of work and training. More info here.

On 12 September, a common statement "A new Europe for people, planet and prosperity for all" by 177 European and national civil society organisations – including the European Youth Forum and other youth NGO's - was made about the future of Europe. The statement emphasizes the need for young people to be more actively involved in decisions that shape the future of Europe.

Within the framework of the Council of Europe, the Legal Research Group of the European Law Students' Association (ELSA) successfully completed the report on Freedom of Expression - Protection of Journalistic Sources. The report examines the legal situation regarding the protection of 28 member states of the Council of Europe. Approximately 300 students and academics are the 'owners' of the report which is a result of a year effort and devotion. To read the report click here.

"Europe for Citizens" is an EU programme that gives voices to 500 million Europeans aimed at enhancing citizen participation in Europe. It encourages democratic participation, contributes to citizen's understanding of the EU, fosters European citizenship and raises awareness of remembrance. The campaign will be soon launched.
