Strasbourg, 22 March 2022

GT-BG(2022)4

EUROPEAN COMMITTEE ON DEMOCRACY AND GOVERNANCE (CDDG)

WORKING GROUP ON PRINCIPLES OF GOOD DEMOCRATIC GOVERNANCE (GT-BG)

REPORT OF THE 1st MEETING

24-25 February 2022, Hybrid meeting

Secretariat Memorandum prepared by the Directorate General of Democracy
Democratic Governance Division

1. Opening of the meeting

Mr Dan Popescu, Head of Democracy and Governance Department opened the meeting and welcomed the members of the working group. Mr Popescu expressed his confidence that the CDDG would be able to finalise the task of drafting a recommendation on good democratic governance at all levels by the end of the year, given the fact that the CDDG would be able to draw on 15 years of experience with the 12 Principles of Good Democratic Governance at local level.

The members introduced themselves in a tour de table. The list of participants can be found in Appendix I.

2. Election of Chair and Vice-Chair

Mr Peter Andre, Austria, was elected Chair and Ms Siobhan Smyth, United Kingdom, was elected Vice-Chair, both by acclamation.

3. Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted as it appears in Appendix II.

4. Terms of reference

The Secretariat provided information on the terms of reference of the working group, its working methods and timetable. Participation in the working group was open to all member States, however, expenses would be covered only for one expert from each of the 10 countries listed in the terms of reference. The working group is invited to make use of available technologies especially for a possible additional meeting to be held online with the aim to present a final draft to the CDDG by the end of the year.

One of the United Kingdom experts stressed that the draft recommendation was a significant move into the field of democracy and that the recommendation could make a substantial contribution to the work of the Council of Europe in this field.

5. Drafting a recommendation for the Committee of Ministers on 12 Principles of good democratic governance

The Secretariat gave an overview of the preliminary draft proposal of the recommendation, consisting of a preamble, actual recommendation and an appendix (see GT-BG(2022)3). Document GT-BG(2022)2 outlined possible issues for discussion, including among others how to refer to the impact of digital transformation on democracy and governance, how to address aspects possibly related to the separation of powers and concerning the title of the recommendation.

The working group also heard a presentation on the experience with the implementation of the 12 Principles of Good Democratic Governance at local level, and further proposals for the recommendation by Daniele Del Bianco and Ramona Velea, scientific experts.

They highlighted that the background document GT-BG(2022)3 was based on experience with the implementation of ELoGE in different member States and was supplemented with a semantic analysis of the list of references provided. The framework of the 12 Principles was useful when working with the different levels of government, as it provided a common reference for all, despite differences in competencies.

They presented a possible Appendix to the Recommendation, consisting of detailed elements under each principle with a definition, a rationale and key elements/indicators.

The ensuing discussion centred around questions relating to the purpose of the recommendation; the number, order and scope of principles to be addressed; a definition of good democratic governance; terminology, and possible gaps.

Overall, the working group welcomed the structure of the preliminary draft proposal and suggested that the principles could also be listed in the main body of the recommendation, while the explanation of each principle would be further set out in the appendix. Furthermore, members welcomed a proposal to clarify the terminology by providing a glossary.

Members discussed the appendix, principle by principle, based on presentations by the scientific experts. The purpose of the recommendation was twofold: it would help governments to continually strengthen the good democratic governance they provide to communities and people, while the latter would be informed of what to expect in this regard of those in power. The principles would thus provide a hallmark of well-functioning democracy as well as of effective governance. One of the main questions to be addressed was the interrelation of the principles with, and their added value for multi-level governance.

Members reiterated that the task was to develop principles of general applicability (to all levels). The working group should not seek to 'simply' apply to the national context the 12 Principles, instead it should build on lessons learned from the experience on local and regional level and formulate principles of general applicability for all levels. Therefore, more clarity as to how many and which principles are to be included was needed.

The working group proposed to elaborate a definition of good democratic governance to be included in the preamble, and to possibly refer to issues such as trust, the democratic backsliding, civic space, and the separation of powers in the preamble, too.

The member from Finland suggested to emphasise the links between democracy and economy, to acknowledge the implementation challenges of the Principles and to address ways to promote national uptake.

The working group considered that since the principles are interlinked and mutually reinforcing, they could not be prioritised or ranked. Members suggested to nonetheless develop a proposal to cluster or order the principles with a view to highlight the interrelation of the principles and to increase visibility, communicability and implementation.

The working group also noted the importance of ensuring the principles include Human Rights, Diversity and Inclusion in a broad sense and that appropriate language is used to convey this clearly.

Other key themes that were raised in discussions were multilevel governance including the quality of communication and effective distribution of powers between levels of government, as well as the impact that the principles have in a broader sense: they also do convey and establish the standards that can be expected of governments by their citizens. This wider impact would have to be considered as work progresses.

The representative from CINGO also made some drafting proposals, for example to replace reference to 2022 (page 3, point 4, with “particular upcoming importance that can be referred to...”); to include recent reports by The Expert Council on NGO Law, in particular, the three Thematic Studies of 2021 in the references (page 4, point 6); to add the UNESCO Recommendation on Ethics of AI, and FRA, Fundamental Rights and Artificial Intelligence, to the resources on digitalisation (page 17).

All proposals were noted and will be taken into account.

A presentation to be given by a representative of the Economist Intelligence Unit had to be cancelled (and would be rescheduled, if possible), due to unforeseen reasons.

Presentations from other Council of Europe bodies

Parliamentary Assembly

The working group heard a presentation by Ms Sonia Sirtori, Secretary to the Committee on Political Affairs and Democracy. She underlined the timeliness of the work, as all member States are affected in one way or another by democratic backsliding and erosion of trust in public institutions. Ms Sirtori gave a brief outline of the relevant PACE committees addressing issues in the remit of the work of CDDG, mentioning the Committee on Social Affairs, Health and Sustainable Development; the Committee on Legal Affairs and Human Rights and the Committee on the Honouring of Obligations and Commitments by Member States of the Council of Europe (Monitoring Committee). She highlighted that with regards to drafting of the recommendation, the Committee on Political Affairs and Democracy could be the main interlocutor, in particular its Sub-Committee on Democracy, chaired by Mr George Papandreou, Greece.

Ms Sirtori made suggestions to the effect that the CDDG develops and defines the concept of good democratic governance; to highlight trust as one link between democracy and good democratic governance and to refer to it in the preamble; to include in principle 4 a reference to the Council of Europe's work on access to information (Tromsø Convention) and to data protection; to expand on freedom of voters to form an opinion; and to draw on the Recommendation CM/Rec(2007)7 of the Committee of Ministers to member states on good administration and on Art. 41 from the EU Charter on Fundamental Rights, as well as the work of the Fundamental Rights Agency in general.

Overall, Ms Sirtori reiterated the readiness of PACE committees to contribute to the development of the recommendation. The Sub-Committee on Democracy would be submitting to the Secretariat a list with relevant resources to be included in the list of references.

Venice Commission

The working group also heard a presentation by Oliver Kask, Judge, Substitute member of the Venice Commission, President of the National Election Commission of Estonia. Mr Kask highlighted relevant work by Venice Commission, in particular with regards to principles of the rule of law and elections. The Venice Commission would be providing the Secretariat with a list of relevant resources to be included in the list of references.

Congress of Local and Regional Authorities

In addition, the working group heard an address from Roman Chlapak, Secretary of the Governance Committee. Mr Chlapak mentioned several relevant Congress standards, documents, and reports, including the Charter of local Self-Government, European Code of Conduct, and other references, to be provided to the CDDG Secretariat.

3. Conclusions

It was agreed that the experts would revise, and the Secretariat finalise the proposal in line with the discussion and detailed feedback received. Furthermore, the Secretariat would also gather additional resources to be included in the list of references. Members would have an opportunity to comment on the revised draft in writing. The latter would thereafter be reviewed by the Bureau meeting in March and then discussed at the 15th CDDG plenary meeting on 21-22 April 2022.

4. Other business

The working group heard a presentation on the experience with the implementation of ELoGE in the Slovak Republic.

5. Next meeting

The working group agreed to hold two more meetings to advance the drafting process: an informal online meeting on 9-10 June, in which members could also participate physically at their own expense, and a formal (hybrid or in-person) meeting on 15-16 September, with modalities to be determined.
