degree of solvency (K4).

1.3. Indicators of working capital (business activity) effectiveness, earnings yield and profit-and-loss (return) indicators:

working capital turnover period (K5);

$$K1 = \text{code 1300} / \text{code 1600},$$

where:

code 1300 - an indicator as per code 1300 "Total capital" of the form "Accounting Balance Sheet" (hereinafter referred to as - Accounting Balance Sheet);

code 1600 - an indicator as per code 1600 "BALANCE (assets)" of Accounting Balance Sheet.

Equity-assets ratio (K1) shall be analyzed by means of assessing its behavior for the reporting periods under analysis, as well as through assessing the changes in the structure of capital components and determining the influence of the said changes on the ratio level.

2.2. Working capital to current assets ratio (K2) shall be found as the ratio of outstanding net worth to all the value of working capital as per the following formula:

$$K2 = (\text{code 1300} - \text{code 1100}) / \text{code 1200},$$

where:

code 1100 - an indicator as per code 1100 "Total non-current assets" of Accounting Balance Sheet; code 1200 - an indicator as per code 1200 "Total current assets" of Accounting Balance Sheet.

Working capital to current assets ratio (K2) characterizes the amount of working capital required to ensure financial stability when performing appropriate business activity.

2.3. Working capital ratio (K3) shall be found as the ratio of the volume of all working capital in the form of reserves, short-term receivables (excluding overdue payments) short-term financial investments, monetary assets and other current assets to current liabilities as per the following formula:

$$K3 = (\text{code 1200} - \text{code 5501} - 5540) / (\text{code 1500} - \text{code 1530}),$$

where:

code 5501 - an indicator as per code 5501 "Presence and flow of long-term receivables for the reporting year - total" of the explanations to Accounting Balance Sheet and as per the form "Profit and Loss Account" (hereinafter referred to as - Profit and Loss Account);

code 1500 - an indicator as per code 1500 "Total short-term liabilities" of Accounting Balance Sheet; code 1530 - an indicator as per code 1530 "Deferred revenues" of Accounting Balance Sheet.

Working capital ratio (K3) shows how much of current liabilities are covered with current assets. Analysis of the said ratio characterizes the payment potential of a legal entity assessed on condition of timely settlements with debtors, successful sales of final products and selling other elements of inventories.

The level of working capital ratio (K3) shall be assessed taking into consideration the specifics of industry classification and business activity of a legal entity, as well as the production lead time characteristic of the given type of business activity.

When analyzing working capital ratio (K3), materiality of overdue payables should be taken into account, since the presence of the said payables is the sign of non-sufficiency of funds required to meet current liabilities. Also, the volume and behavior of receivables and payables should be analyzed, which will allow for assessing the nature of the occurring changes.

2.4. Degree of solvency (K4) characterizes the general situation with solvency of a legal entity, the volume of borrowed funds of the said legal entity and possible debt repayment period for the said legal entity. Degree of solvency (K4) shall be found as per the following formula:

$$K4 = (\text{code 1500} - \text{code 1530} + \text{code 1400}) / (\text{code 2110} : T),$$

where:

code 1400 - an indicator as per code 1400 "Total long-term liabilities" of Accounting Balance Sheet;

code 2110 - an indicator as per code 2110 "Proceeds" of Profit and Loss Account;

T - is a reporting period in days.

2.5. Working capital turnover period (K5) shall be found as the ratio of the amount of proceeds to the average volume of working capital for the reporting period as per the following formula:

$$K5 = \text{code 2110} / ((\text{code 1200 start} + \text{code 1200 end}) \times 0.5),$$

where:

code 1200 start - an indicator as of the beginning of the reporting period as per code 1200 "Total current assets" of Accounting Balance Sheet; code 1200 end - an indicator as of the end of the reporting period as per code 1200 "Total current assets" of Accounting Balance Sheet.

Issuing from working capital turnover period (K5) the duration of one turnover in days (D1) shall be found as per the following formula:

where:

T - is a number of days in a reporting period.

Working capital turnover period (K5) shall be analyzed by means of assessing the rate of turnover of working capital and comparing the value of the said indicator to the values of the indicator for the previous periods taking into account the number of days in the reporting and previous periods. Issuing from the results of the said indicators, an increase or decrease in working capital turnover period shall be ascertained.

2.6. Receivables turnover ratio (K6) shall be found as the ratio of the amount of proceeds to the average volume of receivables for the reporting period as per the following formula:

$$K6 = \text{code 2110} / (\text{code 1230 start} + \text{code 1230 end.}) \times 0.5,$$

where:

code 1230 start - an indicator as of the beginning of the reporting period as per code 1230 "Accounts Receivable" of Accounting Balance Sheet; code 1230 end - an indicator as of the end of the reporting period as per code 1230 "Accounts Receivable" of Accounting Balance Sheet.

Issuing from receivables turnover ratio (K6), the duration of period of receivables collection in days (D2) shall be found as per the following formula:

where:

T - is a number of days in a reporting period.

When assessing the said indicator, it is worthwhile to analyze the quality of receivables to assess the volume and behavior of doubtful and overdue receivables, the increase of which is a sign of reduction in liquidity.

Furthermore, when analyzing receivables turnover, it is worthwhile to ascertain the share of receivables in the total volume of working capital.

2.7. Sales profit margin (K7) shall be found as the ratio of sales profit to proceeds as per the following formula:

$$K7 = (\text{code 2200} / \text{code 2110}) \times 100,$$

where:

code 2200 - an indicator as per code 2200 "Sales Profit (Loss)" of Profit and Loss Account.

Sales profit margin (K7) shows the profit margin per a rouble of the products sold, that is the degree of returns on investment.

The downward trend of the said indicator can be viewed as ineffective business activity of a legal entity, which is caused by high cost per a rouble of products, misallocation of productive resources forming a cost price, by decrease of production volumes and by other factors influencing the changes in sales profit margin. In case of the downward trend, to ensure more detailed assessment of effectiveness of business activity of a legal entity, it is recommended to identify the reasons for decreased sales profit margin, that including the reasons connected with the economic situation and market condition.

2.8. Return on equity (K8) shall be found as the ratio of profit before tax to working capital as per the following formula:

where:

code 2300 - an indicator "Profit (Loss) before Tax" of Profit and Loss Account.

Return on equity (K8) characterizes the productivity of working capital.

When analyzing return on equity (K8), it can be compared either to cost effectiveness of legal entities having a comparable value of assets and involved in similar type of activity or to industry average level of cost effectiveness of working capital for the given type of activity.

2.9. Return on equity (K9) shall be found as the ratio of profit before tax to assets as per the following formula:

$$K9 = \text{code 2300} / ((\text{code 1600 start} + \text{code 1600 end.}) \times 0.5) \times 100$$

Return on assets (K9) characterizes profitability of the assets of average volume, determines how much profit before tax is accounted for by a rouble of asset value and shows effectiveness of managing the available capital.

2.10. The level of each of the specified indicator depends on the specifics of the activity of a legal entity, particularly the said level is determined by the entity's industry, production lead time, structure of reserves and expenses, as well as by the influence of exogenous factors on the financial position of institutions, such as the following: condition of the industry (type of business activity) to which the said institution belongs, significance of an institution in the industry (type of business activity), data on comparison of the said indicators over time by institutions operating under comparable conditions at the regional level, et cetera.

When ascertaining an optimal value of indicators or for the purposes of comparing them, the average level of the said indicators (developed among the legal entities of the given type of business activity (industry) operating under comparable conditions at the regional level or at the level of the Russian Federation) can be used.

When analyzing the values of the said indicators, it is worthwhile to compare the said indicators to the values or behavior of the same indicators of legal entities having comparable range and (or) type of business activity.

3. The codes of lines in the forms of Accounting Balance Sheet and of Profit and Loss Account are specified in accordance with Order No. 66n of the Ministry of Finance of the Russian Federation. Should the forms of accounting (financial) statements change, thus requiring an update of the formulae of indicator calculation, the principles for calculating the said indicators stipulated in the present Annex shall be employed.

Procedure for the Carrying out of the Evaluation of Conformity and the Documenting of Its Results

1. For the evaluation of conformity the following system of the evaluation of fulfillment of the requirements for ensuring the protection of information shall be used during money transfers:

the requirement for ensuring the protection of information during money transfers is not carried out at all - the numerical value of 0 shall be given to the evaluation;

the requirement for ensuring the protection of information during money transfers is carried out partially - the numerical value 0.25, 0.5 or 0.75 shall be given to the evaluation;

the requirement for ensuring the protection of information during money transfers is carried out completely - the numerical value 1 shall be given to the evaluation;

the performance of the requirement for ensuring the protection of information during money transfers is not a duty of the subject of the payment system - the symbolical value "n/e" (not evaluated) shall be given to the evaluation.

2. The evaluation of the fulfillment of the requirements for ensuring the protection of information during money transfers shall be determined on the basis of the following general approaches.

2.1. For the evaluation of the fulfillment of the requirements for ensuring the protection of information during money transfers fulfilled using organisational measures for the protection of information or use of technical means for the protection of information, the following approach (hereinafter - requirements of the category of check 1) shall be used:

the value 0 shall be put in if the procedure for the application of organisational measures for the protection of information or use of technical means for the protection of information is not set by internal documents of the money transfer operator, the payment system operator, operator of services of the payment infrastructure;

the value 0.25 shall be put in if the procedure for the application of organisational measures for the protection of information or use of technical means for the protection of information is set by internal documents of the money transfer operator, payment system operator, operator of services of the payment infrastructure, but the appropriate organisational measures for the protection of information are not applied, or technical means for the protection of information are not used;

the value 0.5 shall be put in if the procedure for the application of organisational measures for the protection of information or use of technical means for the protection of information is set by internal documents of the money transfer operator, the payment system operator, operator of services of the payment infrastructure, but the application of the appropriate organisational measures for the protection of information or use of technical means for the protection of information is not carried out in full conformity with the aforementioned procedure;

the value 0.75 shall be put in if the procedure for the application of organisational measures for the protection of information or use of technical means for the protection of information is set by internal documents of the money transfer operator, the payment system operator, operator of services of the payment infrastructure, but the application of the appropriate organisational measures for the protection of information or use of technical means for the protection of information is carried out almost in full conformity with the specified order;

the value 1 shall be put in if the procedure for the application of organisational measures for the protection of information or use of technical means for the protection of information is set by internal documents of the money transfer operator, the payment system operator, operator of services of the payment infrastructure, and the application of the appropriate organisational measures for the protection of information and use of technical means for the protection of information is carried out in full conformity with the aforementioned procedure.

2.2. For the evaluation of the fulfillment of the requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money establishing the necessity of providing for the presence of the document set by the present Regulations, the following general approach (hereinafter - requirements of category of check 2) is used:

value 0 shall be put in if the document is absent;

value 1 shall be put in if the document is available.

2.3. For the evaluation of the fulfillment of the requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money establishing the necessity of performance of activity determined by the present Regulations, the following general approach (hereinafter - requirements of category of check 3) shall be used:

value 0 shall be put in if the activity is not carried out;

value 0.5 shall be put in if the activity is carried out in part;

value 1 shall be put in if the activity is carried out fully.

3. In appendix 2 to the present Regulations the list of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money is given with an indication of the corresponding category of check.

4. For documenting the results of the evaluation of conformity the following form shall be used:

Form 1. Documenting the Results of the Evaluation of Conformity

No.	Formulation of the requirement for the protection of information during transfers of money	Evaluation of the fulfillment of the requirement of the value put down	Factors taken into account in the brief formulation of the substantiation of the
1	2	3	4

In column 2 of Form 1 there shall be reflected formulations of the requirements checked from the list of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money indicated in Appendix 2 to the present Regulations.

In column 3 of Form 1 the evaluations of the fulfillment of requirements for ensuring the protection of information shall be reflected during transfers of money;

In column 4 of Form 1 the factors which are taken into account at the evaluation, and the brief formulation of the substantiation of the evaluation given shall be reflected.

5. Using evaluations of the fulfillment of requirements, except for requirements on which the entries "n/o" are made, three generalized parameters shall be calculated of fulfillment of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money:

generalizing parameter $EV1_{PS}$ - describing the performance of a group of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of the money determined in Items 2.4 - 2.10 of the present Regulations, and calculated as the arithmetic average of evaluations of performance of the aforementioned requirements, multiplied by adjusting factor k_1 ;

generalizing parameter $EV2_{PS}$ - describing the performance of a group of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money determined in Items 2.11-2.17 of the present Regulations, and calculated as the arithmetic average of evaluations of performance of the aforementioned requirements, multiplied by adjusting factor k_2 ;

summary indicator R_{PS} - describing the performance of all requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money and assumed equal to the least of the values of generalizing parameters $EV1_{PS}$ and $EV2_{PS}$.

The accuracy of measurement of values of generalizing parameters while calculating the arithmetic average - two decimal places.

5.1. Adjusting factor k_1 shall be determined according to the following rules:
in case of absence of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money the evaluations of performance of which are used for calculating the generalizing parameter $EV1_{PS}$ and that are completely not carried out, adjusting factor k_1 shall be accepted as equal to 1;
for the case when the number of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money the evaluations of the performance of which are used for calculation of generalizing parameter $EV1_{PS}$ and which are completely not carried out, are more than zero, but less than eleven, adjusting factor k_1 shall be assumed equal to 0.85;
for the case when the number of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money evaluations of the performance of which are used for the calculation of generalizing parameter $EV1_{PS}$ and which are completely not carried out, are more or equal to eleven, the adjusting factor k_1 is accepted as 0.7.

5.2. Adjusting factor k_2 shall be determined according to the following rules:
in the case of absence of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money the evaluations of the performance of which are used for calculation of generalizing parameter $EV2_{ts}$ and which are completely not carried out, the adjusting factor k_2 is accepted to be equal to 1;
for the case when the number of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money the evaluations of the performance of which are used for calculation of generalizing parameter $EV2_{PS}$ and which are completely not carried out are more than zero but less than six, adjusting factor k_2 is accepted as equal to 0.85;
for the case when the number of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money the evaluations of performance of which are used for calculation of generalizing parameter $EV2_{PS}$ and which are completely not carried out are more than or equal to six, adjusting factor k_2 shall be assumed equal to 0.7.

6. For documenting the results of calculation of generalizing parameters of fulfillment of the requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money the following form shall be used:

Form 2. Documenting of the Results of Calculations of Generalizing Parameters of the Fulfillment of Requirements for Ensuring the Protection of Information During Transfers of Money

Generalizing parameter	Value of generalizing parameter

	EVI_{PS}
	$EV2_{PS}$
	R_{PS}

In column 2 of Form 2 the values of generalizing parameters shall be reflected.

7. On the basis of the calculated value of summary indicator R_{PS} a generalized judgment shall be formed about performance by the subject of the payment system of the requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money according to the following general approach:

if the value of summary indicator R_{PS} is more than or equal to 0.85 the work on ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money at the necessary level provides for the fulfillment of the established requirements (value of the quality assessment of the fulfillment of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money shall be "good");

if the value of summary indicator R_{PS} is more than or equal to 0.70 and less than 0.85 the work on ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money as a whole provides for the fulfillment of the established requirements (value of the quality assessment of the fulfillment of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money shall be "satisfactory");

if the value of summary indicator R_{PS} is more than or equal to 0.5 and less than 0.7 the work on ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money not in full provides for the performance of the established requirements (value of quality assessment of the fulfillment of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money shall be "doubtful");

if the value of summary indicator R_{PS} is less than 0.5 the work on ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money does not provide for the fulfillment of the established requirements (value of quality assessment of the fulfillment of requirements for ensuring the protection of information during transfers of money shall be "unsatisfactory").

Chapter 17. Specifics in the State Registration of Amendments, Introduced into the Credit Institution's Rules and Connected with a Change in the Size of Its Authorised Capital 17.1. The decision on an augmentation of the authorised capital is passed by the authorised management body of the credit institution in conformity with the federal laws and with its own Rules.

The adoption by the credit institution of the decision on an augmentation of its authorised capital is possible only after the size of its ownership funds (capital) is put into correspondence with the size of the authorised capital in the cases, established in the federal laws.

The demands, established in the present Item, are not applied if the provisional administration takes the decision on the introduction of amendments into the bank's Rules.

17.2. Taking of a decision on increase of authorised capital of the credit institution by its authorised managing body shall only be possible after the registration of the previous increase of its authorised capital (except for cases of acknowledgement of an issue of shares failed and cancellation of its state registration, taking of a decision on cancellation of placement of equity securities (for credit institutions that are joint stock companies) by the authorised body of the credit institution, cancellation of a decision on increase of the authorised capital (for credit institutions that are limited liability or supplementary liability companies) and other cases envisaged by federal laws).

The state registration of the amendments, introduced into the credit institution's Rules and connected with an augmentation of its authorised capital, shall be carried out after the complete remuneration by the acquirers of their shares (stakes) and (for a credit institution in the form of a joint stock company) of the registration of the report on the results of the issue of its shares or presenting of a notification of the results of an issue (additional issue) of shares in the cases established by the legislation of the Russian Federation on securities market.

If, in cases envisaged by the legislation of the Russian Federation on the securities market, the credit institution provides a notification of the results of issue (additional issue) of securities instead of the report on the results of issue (additional issue) of securities, the registration authority where such notification has been directed (Department for Licencing of Activities and Financial Rehabilitation of Credit Institutions of the Bank of Russia or a territorial representation of the Bank of Russia supervising the activities of the credit institution) shall send a statement from the register of issues (additional issues) of securities of credit institutions registered and cancelled by the Bank of Russia and issues (additional issues) of securities whose issuance has been suspended and resumed (hereinafter - the register), to the credit institution, according to the form given in Annex 27 to these Instructions, not later than on the business day following the day of entering the information into the register.

17.3. The cost of the property in non-monetary form, directed towards the remuneration of the credit institution's shares (stakes in the authorised capital) at the augmentation of the authorised capital, cannot exceed twenty percent of the summed up size of the funds, earlier entered in remuneration of the shares (stakes in the authorised capital) of the given credit institution and of the funds, entered in remuneration of its shares (stakes in the authorised capital) at the augmentation of its authorised capital.

If earlier (before an augmentation of the authorised capital) in remuneration of the credit institution's shares (stakes in the authorised capital) the property in non-monetary form was entered and if such property exists in the credit institution's ownership as at the moment of the remuneration of an increment in its authorised capital, the cost of the given property (in the estimate, approved by the credit institution's authorised body as at the moment of entry in remuneration of the shares (the stakes in the authorised capital)) shall be taken into account in the calculation of the restriction, mentioned in the first paragraph of the present Item.

Example: in remuneration of the credit institution's shares was earlier entered 300 million roubles (that is, the summary size of the funds, reflected on accounts for recording the authorised capital and the emission income, comprises 300 million roubles). The cost of the property in non-monetary form, earlier directed towards the remuneration of shares, comprises 60 million roubles. In addition are issued 160 shares with the nominal cost of one million roubles each, so the price of each share's placement is three million roubles.

The calculation of the cost of the property in non-monetary form, directed towards the remuneration of the credit institution's shares at an augmentation of the authorised capital, shall be carried out as follows:

- the cost of the property in non-monetary form, directed towards the remuneration of shares, cannot exceed $(300 + /160*3/) * 0.2 = 156$ million roubles (if the property in non-monetary form, entered earlier in remuneration of the shares, was realised by the credit institution);
- the cost of the property in non-monetary form, directed towards the remuneration of shares, cannot exceed $(300 + /160*3/) * 0.2 - 60 = 96$ million roubles (if the property in non-monetary form, entered earlier in remuneration of the shares, was not realised by the credit institution).

17.4. The lawfulness of the participation and the remuneration by the acquirers of the credit institution's shares (stakes) at an augmentation of its authorised capital is controlled by the Bank of Russia's territorial institution in the procedure, stipulated for the credit institutions, created by way of establishment, while taking into account the specifics stipulated in the present Chapter.

The procedure and the criteria for estimating the financial position of the acquirers of the credit institution's shares (partner shares) are laid down in the other normative acts of the Bank of Russia.

The provisions of the first and of the second paragraphs of the present Item shall not be applied, if the provisional administration adopts the decision on the introduction of amendments into the bank's Rules.

If the provisional administration passes the decision on the introduction of amendments into the bank's Rules in the part of an augmentation of its authorised capital, the lawfulness of the participation and of the remuneration of the bank's shares is to be controlled by the Bank of Russia's territorial institution, supervising its activity.

17.5. If the acquirer of the credit institution's shares (partner shares) is another credit institution, the Bank of Russia's territorial institution, supervising the activity of the credit institution augmenting its authorised capital, shall inquire after information on the financial position of the acquirer credit institution from the Bank of Russia's territorial institution at the place of its location.

The Bank of Russia's territorial institution at the place of location of the acquirer credit institution shall direct the conclusion on the latter's financial position, including information on the fulfilment by the acquirer credit institution of the obligatory reserve demands of the Bank of Russia, in the course of:

- five calendar days as from the moment of receipt of the inquiry, mentioned in the first paragraph of the present Item (at an augmentation of the authorised capital of the credit institution in the form of a joint-stock company);
- ten calendar days as from the moment of receipt of the inquiry, indicated in the first paragraph of the present Item (if the authorised capital of the credit institution in the form of a limited liability company or of a company with an additional responsibility is augmented).

The provisions of the present Item shall not be applied if the provisional administration takes the decision on the introduction of amendments into the bank's Rules.

17.6. Unless otherwise provided by Subitems 17.6.2, 17.6.3 and 17.6.4 of this Item, the Bank of Russia shall carry out an on-site check at the credit institution, to establish the sources of funds paid for the shares (interest) of the credit institution, in order to control the eligibility of payment for the shares (interest) of the credit institution by the purchasers, in the following cases:

- if the credit institution's authorised capital is increased by more than ten percent of the earlier registered size thereof;
- if there are grounds to believe that the remuneration of the credit institution's shares is made with a violation of the established demands.

The above-said check shall be appointed not later than in three working days after the day of arrival at the Bank of Russia's territorial institution of documents, submitted by the credit institution in the form of a joint stock company for checking the remuneration of the authorised capital in connection with the consideration by the Bank of Russia (by the Bank of Russia's territorial institution) of the question concerning the registration of the report on the results of the issue of the credit institution's shares, or of the documents, submitted by the credit institution in the form of a limited liability company or of a company with an additional responsibility for the state registration of the amendments, introduced into its Rules and connected with an augmentation of the authorised capital. The check shall be conducted within the time term, fixed in the federal laws and in the Bank of Russia's normative acts for the consideration of these documents. At the adoption of the decision on the registration of the report on the results of the issue of the credit institution's shares (on the state registration of the amendments, introduced into the credit institution's Rules and connected with an augmentation of the authorised capital) shall be taken into account the results of the check, completed within the time terms, fixed for the consideration of the above-said documents, or the preliminary results of the check, formalised by an intermediary check act or by the check act on the individual issues.

17.6.1. If in the course of conducting a check directly at the credit institution were exposed the facts of the remuneration of its shares (partner shares) with a violation of the demands of the federal laws and (or) of the Bank of Russia's normative acts, and if the check cannot be completed within the time terms, fixed for the consideration of the documents, the Bank of Russia's territorial institution shall adopt the negative decision with an obligatory direction to the credit institution of the motivated refusal on the ground of the intermediary check act, in which the exposed violations are reflected, comprising a ground for the refusal in the state registration.

If it is impossible to complete the check, conducted directly at the credit institution, within the time terms, fixed for the adoption of the decision on the state registration (hereinafter referred to as the established time terms), and if there are no grounds for preparing an intermediate check act, the decision on the question of the state registration shall be passed within the established time terms on the ground of the documents the credit institution has submitted to the Bank of Russia (to its territorial institution).

If after making the decision on the state registration of the changes introduced in the charter of the credit institution and connected with the increase of the authorised capital during the conclusion of the check conducted directly at the credit institution the infringements are exposed connected with payment of shares (units) of the credit institution the Bank of Russia's territorial institution shall make the demand to the credit institution about their elimination.

The check envisaged by this Item shall not be carried out, if the authorised capital of the credit institution is increased at the account of its property only.

17.6.3. in case of an increase in the authorised capital of a credit institution by more than ten percent of that registered earlier, and if the own funds (equity) of the credit institution as of the last reporting date before the day of taking a decision on increase of the own funds (equity) of the credit institution by its managing body is not less than 300 million roubles, the check cited in this Item can be omitted, if the following persons would directly or indirectly exert an essential influence on decisions taken by the management bodies of the shareholders (participants) of the credit institution and would set up direct or indirect (through third parties) control over the shareholders

THE CENTRAL BANK OF THE RUSSIAN FEDERATION

LETTER

No. 167-T of December 7, 2012

REGARDING THE NEED FOR CREDIT INSTITUTIONS TO FOCUS ATTENTION ON CERTAIN CUSTOMER TRANSACTIONS

The Central Bank's oversight activities in the country's credit institutions segment have revealed cases involving frequent transfer by credit institutions' resident clients of funds to the accounts of non-residents of the Republic of Belarus and the Republic of Kazakhstan made under foreign trade agreements (contracts) for import of goods into Russia from Belarus and Kazakhstan and involving the use of supporting documentation in the form of waybills (accompanying documents) of questionable authenticity executed by the Belorussian and Kazakh shippers <1> .

<1> The indicator code is 1812 of the unusual transaction indicator list contained in the annex to the Bank of Russia Regulation No. 375-P of March 2, 2012 "On the requirements for internal control rules of the credit institution aimed at combating legalization (laundering) of proceeds from crime and financing of terrorism" (registered with the Ministry of Justice of the Russian Federation on April 6, 2012 under No. 23744 and published in the "Bulletin of the Bank of Russia" No. 20 of 18 April 2012).

The growing scale of these transactions, coupled with the doubts as to the authenticity of the supporting documents, suggests that the real objectives behind most of them may be tax evasion, payment for "gray" imports and money laundering.

In view of the above, and with the goal of spearheading the credit institutions' risk assessment efforts performed as part of the program for managing money laundering and terrorist financing risks, the Bank of Russia hereby advises credit institutions to pay extra attention to the above transactions in the event of their discovery, and in the cases specified in paragraph 3 of Article 7 of the Federal Law No. 115-FZ of August 7, 2001 "On combating legalization (laundering) of proceeds from crime and financing of terrorism" (Corpus of legislative acts of the Russian Federation, 2001, No. 33, Art. 3418, 2002, No. 30, Art. 3029; No. 44, Art. 4296, 2004, No. 31, Art. 3224, 2005, No. 47, Art. 4828, 2006, No. 31, Art. 3446, 3452, 2007, No. 16, Art. 1831; No. 31, Art. 3993, 4011; No. 49, Art. 6036, 2009, No. 23, Art. 2776; No 29, Art. 3600, 2010, No. 28, Art. 3553; No 30, Art. 4007; No. 31, Art. 4166, 2011, No. 27, Art. 3873; No. 46, Art. 6406, 2012, No. 30, Art. 4172):

submit the information on such transactions to the competent authority;

take steps provided for in the letter of the Bank of Russia No. 60-T of April 27, 2007 "On specifics of provision by credit institutions of remote banking services (including online banking)" ("Bulletin of the Bank of Russia" No. 25 of May 8, 2007) and the letter of the Bank of Russia No. 83-T of June 11, 2010 "On specifics of dealing by the authorized banks with waybills executed by shippers in the Republic of Belarus" ("Bulletin of the Bank of Russia" No. 33 of June 17, 2010).

No. 90-T of June 28, 2012

REGARDING THE INFORMATION POSTED ON THE FEDERAL TAX SERVICE (FTS OF RUSSIA) OFFICIAL WEBSITE

The Central Bank of the Russian Federation hereby brings to the attention of all concerned that the Russian Federal Tax Service regularly posts in the "Check Yourself and Counterparty" subsection of the "E-Services" section of its official website the details of the legal entities which cannot be reached at the address designated by them as their principal place of business in the Unified State Register of Legal Entities.

The Bank of Russia hereby advises all credit institutions:

- to use the information provided by the Federal Tax Service of Russia when considering the establishment of relationships with legal entities (including checking their registration with the tax authorities) and evaluating the risk as part of a money laundering and terrorist financing risks management programme;

- in the case provided for in paragraph 5.2 of Article 7 of the Federal Law "On combating legalization (laundering) of proceeds from crime and financing of terrorism" (hereinafter the "Federal Law"), to exercise the right of refusal to enter into an agreement of bank account (deposit) with the above legal entity; and if such agreement already exists, to deny that entity access to e-banking services, including refusal to execute the legal entity's instructions to carry out transactions through its bank account (deposit) signed with an equivalent of a handwritten signature, and insist on the submission of hard copy documents (the appropriate conditions should be provided for in the terms of the agreement signed between the credit institution and the client);

- to pay extra attention to such client's transactions;

- to submit the details of such client's transactions to the competent authority in accordance with paragraph 3 of Article 7 of the Federal Law governing the implementation of internal controls.

Should the credit institution possess any information regarding the above-mentioned legal entities, it should take steps to ensure compliance with the requirements of the Federal Law governing the identification of clients and their representatives (including establishing (verifying) the location of a legal entity or the place of residence (registration)/stay of an individual).

All information on the representatives of the said legal entities should be submitted to the Federal Service for Financial Monitoring in hard copy format (letter of the Bank of Russia No. 183-T of December 29, 2003).

No. 176-T of December 21, 2012

REGARDING THE INFORMATION OF THE FTS OF RUSSIA CONCERNING LIQUIDATED AND BEING LIQUIDATED LEGAL ENTITIES

(as amended by the letter of the Bank of Russia
No. 32-T of February 28, 2013)

The Bank of Russia hereby brings to the attention of all concerned that it has set up on the basis of the information contained in the Unified State Register of Legal Entities (USRLE), provided to the Bank of Russia by the Russian Federal Tax Service as part of the Information Sharing Agreement concluded between them, a database of legal entities that have either been liquidated (struck off the USRLE by the registering authority) or are in the process of being liquidated. The database, in a compressed RAR file, is available in the "Information on Liquidated and Being Liquidated Legal Entities" section of the Bank of Russia official website at: <http://www.cbr.ru/egrulinfo/>.

The data in the database is updated monthly.

The Bank of Russia advises credit institutions to use the data contained in the said database when considering the establishment or termination of relationships with legal entities, updating the current customer database of legal entities, and evaluating the risk as part of the money laundering and terrorist financing risks management programme.

Additionally, credit institutions should take into account, in particular, that:

once the legal entity has been entered by the registering authority in the USRLE as that undergoing a process of liquidation, the said entity may not act as a founder of new legal entities, including entities that are formed as the result of its restructuring (Article 20 of the Federal Law No. 129-FZ of August 8, 2011 "On state registration of legal entities and individual entrepreneurs");

the legal capacity of a legal entity is terminated once an entry about its deregistration has been made in the USRLE (paragraph 3 of Article 49 of the Civil Code of the Russian Federation); following which, such entity may no longer have any civil rights or incur obligations, just as it may not be a party to an undertaking, including a bank account (deposit) agreement (Article 307 of the Civil Code of the Russian Federation). As a general rule, the obligation is terminated with the liquidation of the legal entity (debtor or creditor) (Article 419 of the Civil Code of the Russian Federation).

Should the database contain information regarding liquidation or deregistration of the legal entity initiated by the registering authority, the credit institution is advised to verify the current status of the legal entity by placing an online request in the "Check Yourself and Counterparty" subsection of the "E-Services" section of the Federal Tax Service official website at www.nalog.ru. According to the Russian Federal Tax Service decree No. SAE-3-09/355@ of June 16, 2006 "On ensuring the publication and posting of data on state registration of legal entities in line with law of the Russian Federation on state registration of legal entities", the information posted on this website is updated weekly.

If after consulting the Federal Tax Service official website, there exist sufficient grounds to conclude that the legal entity in question has been liquidated, that is terminated without forming a successor, the credit institution shall:

refuse to enter into agreements with such entity; deem all agreements concluded with such entity previously null and void due to the absence of a party to the agreement (Articles 407, 419 of the Civil Code of the Russian Federation);

immediately stop using bank accounts of such entity for any transactions;

no later than the working day following the day of your visit to the Russian Federal Tax Service official website, close the respective customer account in the Registration Book of open accounts (paragraph 1.3 of the Bank of Russia Instruction No. 28-I of September 14, 2006 "On the opening and closing of bank and deposit accounts").

LETTER No.110-T dated June 19, 2013

ON SPECIAL ATTENTION TO BE PAID BY CREDIT INSTITUTIONS TO CERTAIN CUSTOMER TRANSACTIONS

(as amended by BoR Letter No.150-T dated 07.08.2013)

The supervision by the Bank of Russia of the operations of credit institutions has revealed cases where the Russian residents serviced by credit institutions make payments under international trade agreements (contracts) for importation of goods to the Russian Federation from the Republic of Kazakhstan by transferring funds to accounts opened with foreign banks located outside the Republic of Kazakhstan.

According to the BoR estimates funds in amount of about USD 10bln equivalent were transferred by the Russian residents to their respective counterparties under the aforementioned international trade agreements (contracts) to their accounts opened with banks located outside of the Republic of Kazakhstan in 2012. In reality, such transactions could be carried out for money laundering, terrorist financing and other illegal purposes.

It should be noted that according to the laws of the Republic of Kazakhstan the Kazakh residents must comply with the general requirement concerning repatriation of funds in the national and foreign currency, and funds in the national and foreign currency payable to the Kazakh residents for exported goods (work and services) shall be transferred and credited by them to the bank accounts opened with the authorized RK banks.

Given the above, the Bank of Russia recommends credit institution to implement their ML/FT risk management programs with due consideration for the fact that customers' transactions involving transfer of funds to accounts opened with foreign banks located outside Kazakhstan under international trade agreements (contracts) for importation of goods to the Russian Federation from the Republic of Kazakhstan pose the risk of misuse of a credit institution and its personnel for carrying out ML/FT transactions (paragraphs 4.2 and 4.8 of BoR Regulation No.375-P dated March 2, 2012 on Requirements for AML/CFT Internal Control Rules of Credit Institutions).

In this context, for proper management of the business reputation and legal risks as well as for establishment of appropriate risk assessment mechanism under the ML/FT risk management programs of credit institutions the Bank of Russia recommends to take the following measures upon detection by credit institutions of the aforementioned transactions of their customers:

- Pay enhanced attention to all transactions carried out by such customer;
- Report all transactions carried out by such customer to the designated AML/CFT authority as required by Article 7, Clause 3 of Federal Law No.115-FZ dated August 7, 2001 on Combating Legalization (Laundering) of Criminal Proceeds and Financing of Terrorism;
- Take actions/measures prescribed by BoR Letter No.60-T dated April 27, 2007 on Specificities of Servicing by Credit Institutions of Customers with the Use of Remote Account Access Technologies (including online banking);
- Provide all information on such customer, its/his/her counterparties, foreign trade agreements (contracts) entered into by it/him/her and other information available to a credit institution (its branch) to the local office of the Bank of Russia in the region where such credit institution (its branch) is located.

This Letter is agreed upon with the Federal Financial Monitoring Service (Dmitry G. Skobelkin).

This Letter shall be communicated to credit institutions.

LETTER No.14-T dated January 28, 2014

ON INFORMATIVE LETTER REGARDING IDENTIFICATION OF BENEFICIAL OWNERS BY INSTITUTIONS ENGAGED IN TRANSACTIONS WITH FUNDS OR OTHER ASSETS

The RF Central Bank hereby circulates the Informative Letter regarding identification of beneficial owners by institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets agreed upon with the Federal Financial Monitoring Services (Pavel V. Livadny, State Secretary and Deputy Director of Rosfinmonitoring) for practical application.

Deputy Chairman of the Bank of Russia
Dmitry G. Skobelkin

INFORMATIVE LETTER REGARDING IDENTIFICATION OF BENEFICIAL OWNERS BY INSTITUTIONS ENGAGED IN TRANSACTIONS WITH FUNDS OR OTHER ASSETS

Section I. Definition of Beneficial Owner

With respect to which customers an institution shall take measures that are reasonable and available under the circumstances for identifying their beneficial owners?

Since Article 3, Clause 11 of Federal Law No.115-FZ dated 07.08.2001 on Combating Legalization (Laundering) of Criminal Proceeds and Financing of Terrorism (hereinafter the AML/CFT Law) defines a “customer” as a legal entity and/or an individual serviced by an institution engaged in transactions with funds or other assets (hereinafter the institution), therefore, the institutions are obliged to take measures that are reasonable and available under the circumstances for identifying beneficial owners of both corporate and individual customers.

In a situation where a customer is owned or controlled by an individual through third parties, should the institutions identify all third parties who own such customer or are capable of controlling actions of such customer?

An individual other than the founder/shareholder of a corporate customer may own such customer or be able to control it through third parties (i.e. be the beneficial owner). In a situation where a customer is owned or controlled through third parties, the institutions shall obtain information confirming that the customer is in fact owned or controlled through third parties.

What factors shall be taken into account by an institution for recognizing an individual as the beneficial owner of a customer?

The institutions shall recognize an individual as the beneficial owner if such individual is capable of controlling actions of a customer, taking into consideration the following factors:

- An individual holds, directly or indirectly (through third parties), controlling interest (over 25 percent) in a customer, or holds over 25 percent of customer’s voting shares;
- An individual is entitled (capable), under agreement entered into with a customer, to exert direct or indirect (through third parties) substantial influence over the customer’s decisions pertaining to deals (including those posing “credit risk”, such as granting loans, guarantees, etc.), inter alia, over the important terms of conditions of such deals, and financial transactions and to exert influence over amount of the customer’s income;
- Other criteria independently identified by the institutions against which an individual will be qualified as the beneficial owner.

Can a customer be owned by several beneficial owners, or only one individual can be the beneficial owner under any circumstances?

Customers can be owned by one or several individuals (including those having family ties).

In such situation, the institutions shall qualify each of such individuals as the beneficial owner and shall ascertain the information/data on such individuals listed in Article 1, Clause 1, Par.1 of the AML/CFT Law.

In what situations a customer’s sole executive body can be qualified as the beneficial owner of such corporate customer?

If the undertaken beneficial owner identification measures provided for in the AML/CFT Law fail to identify the beneficial owner of a corporate customer, the sole executive body of such corporate customer shall be recognized as the beneficial owner.

The institution’s decision to recognize the sole executive body of a customer as the beneficial owner shall indicate the reasons that made it impossible to identify (other) beneficial owner, and the customer file (dossier) shall contain information indicating that the customer's sole executive body is recognized as the beneficial owner since a credit institution was unable to identify (other) beneficial owner, or since there is no such individual who ultimately, directly or indirectly (through third parties), owns the corporate customer or is able of controlling actions of such customer.

Section II. Beneficial Owner Identification Procedure

How the institutions should comply with the requirements set forth in the AML/CFT Law as they pertain to taking measures that are reasonable and available under the circumstances for identifying beneficial owners?

Article 7, Clause 1, Par.2 of the AML/CFT Law obliges the institutions to take measures that are reasonable and available under the circumstances for identifying beneficial owners, inter alia, for ascertaining information/data on them listed Article 7, Clause 1, Par.1 of the AML/CFT Law.

For complying with the requirement set forth in Article 7, Clause 1, Par.2 of the AML/CFT Law the institutions are recommended to include, among other things, the following elements in their AML/CFT internal control rules:

- Grounds for recognizing an individual as the beneficial owner (the qualifying indicators contained in the definition of a "beneficial owner" specified in the AML/CFT Law, such as direct or indirect (through third parties) ownership of a corporate customer (holding the controlling (over 25%) interest in a corporate customer), ways (types) of control over customer's actions);
- List of measures (procedures) aimed at identification by an institution of customers' beneficial owners and verification of their identity, including the list of documents and information that shall be requested from a customer;
- Grounds for recognizing the sole executive body of a corporate customer as the beneficial owner (in a situation where it is impossible to identify (other) beneficial owner);
- Procedure of making decision by an institution to recognize an individual as the beneficial owner;
- Procedure of documenting information and findings obtained in course of identification of beneficial owners;
- Other elements as may be deemed appropriate by an institution.

Should an institution verify whether or not a beneficial owner has the status of persons listed in Article 7.3 of the AML/CFT Law, and should an institution check if a beneficial owner is included in the list of entities and individuals known to be linked to extremist activities or terrorism (hereinafter the List) or if an order is issued by the interdepartmental CFT coordination authority to freeze (restrain) funds or other assets of a beneficial owner?

To minimize the risk of misuse of the institutions by their customers for carrying out ML/FT transactions the institutions are recommended to include in their AML/CFT internal control rules the procedures for verifying whether or not a beneficial owner has the status of persons listed in Article 7.3 of the AML/CFT Law, whether or not a beneficial owner is included in the List, and whether or not an order is issued by the interdepartmental CFT coordination authority to freeze (restrain) funds or other assets of a beneficial owner.

Are the institutions exempted from the obligation to identify beneficial owners in a situation where a low risk level is assigned to a customer?

The AML/CFT Law contains no exemptions from the beneficial owner identification obligation depending on level of risk posed by a customer or amount of a transaction carried out by a customer. However, identification of beneficial owners is not required in the situations specified in Clauses 1.1, 1.2 and 1.4 of Article 7 of the AML/CFT Law and also when establishing business relationships with persons listed in Article 7, Clause 1, Par.2 of the AML/CFT Law.

What measures may be taken by an institution for identifying beneficial owners?

The institutions are entitled to take the following measures for identification of beneficial owners:

- Include the obligation of a customer to inform the institution about its beneficial owners in the contract entered into with such customer;
- Survey customers (circulate customer questionnaires developed independently by an institution, responses to which allow for identifying beneficial owners);
- Examine the incorporation documents of corporate customers;
- Interview customers and record the obtained information in the customer files (dossiers);
- Use external information sources legitimately available to and accessible by an institution (e.g. mass media, Internet);
- Take other measures as may be deemed appropriate by an institution.

An individual shall be recognized as the beneficial owner based on the documents and (or) information on a customer and on such individual available to an institution.

How the institutions should document the results of the beneficial owner identification measures undertaken by them?

Information of the results of the efforts undertaken by an institution for identifying the beneficial owner of a customer may be recorded, inter alia, in the customer file (dossier).

When recording such data, it is recommended to include the following information:

- Measures taken for identification of a beneficial owner;
- A decision made by an institution to recognize an individual as the beneficial owner, including grounds for making such decision;
- Information on whether or not the taken measures resulted in identification of a beneficial owner or confirmed that a customer had no beneficial owner, including description of actions undertaken for identifying beneficial owner and verifying his/her identity;
- A decision made by an institution to recognize the sole executive body of a corporate customer as the beneficial owner, including grounds for making such decision.

What measures/ action the institutions are entitled to undertake in a situation where a customer refuses to provide information on its beneficial owner?

In a situation where a customer refuses to provide information on its beneficial owner, an institution is entitled to take measures (execute powers) listed in Clauses 5.2 and 11 of Article 7 of the AML/CFT Law.

LETTER No.73-T dated April 17, 2013

CUSTOMER TRANSACTIONS

1. In a situation where a resident customer requests a credit institution to issue a certificate of an import transaction under the international trade agreements (contracts) specified in BoR Letter No.167-T dated December 7, 2012 on Special Attention to be Paid by Credit Institutions to Certain Customer Transactions (hereinafter BoR Letter No.167-T), credit institutions are recommended to verify veracity of information contained in the documents presented by issuing such certificate, including registration data of counterparties of such resident (non-resident) customer and data on founders, shareholders/members and CEOs of non-resident legal entities against the official publicly available sources of information (e.g. register of companies) of countries where such non-residents are registered.

If a credit institution discovers that information and documents provided by a resident customer for issuing an import transaction certificate do not match the information obtained by the credit institution from the official publicly available sources of a country where a non-resident is registered, this fact shall be considered as failure by a resident customer to provide the required documents and information to the authorized bank (Clause 6.9, Par.6.9.3 of BoR Instruction No.138-I dated June 4, 2012 on Procedure of Providing by Residents and Non-Residents Foreign Exchange Transaction Documents and Information to the Authorized Banks, Issuing Import Transaction Certificates and Accounting for and Monitoring of Foreign Exchange Transactions).

2. When a customer makes payments under the international trade agreements (contracts) specified in BoR Letter No.167-T (with properly issued import transaction certificates) and is subject to measures taken by credit institution in compliance with BoR Letter No.60-T dated April 27, 2007 on Specificities of Servicing by Credit Institutions of Customers with the Use of Remote Account Access Technologies (including online banking), the Bank of Russia additionally recommends credit institution to verify veracity of information, including registration data of counterparties of such resident (non-resident) customer and data on founders, shareholders/members and CEOs of non-resident legal entities against the official publicly available sources of information (e.g. register of companies) of countries where such non-residents are registered, as part of their AML/CFT risk management efforts.

If in course of implementing the internal AML/CFT controls a credit institution establishes that information provided by its customer does not match the information obtained by it from the official publicly available sources of a country where a non-resident is registered, this fact constitutes the grounds for refusal from conducting a foreign exchange transaction as provided for in Article 23, Clause 5, Par.4 of the Federal Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation and Monitoring.

We recommend credit institutions to report transactions specified in this Letter to the designated AML/CFT authority in compliance with Article 7, Clause 3 of the AML/CFT Law.

This Letter is agreed upon with the Federal Financial Monitoring Service (Dmitry G. Skobelkin).

This Letter shall be communicated to credit institutions.

ON BRINGING AML/CFT SYSTEM AND AML/CFT INTERNAL CONTROL RULES IN LINE WITH THE BoR REQUIREMENTS

The Bank of Russia issued Regulation No.375-P dated March 2, 2012 on Requirements for AML/CFT Internal Control Rules of Credit Institutions (registered by the RF Ministry of Justice on April 6, 2012 No.23744 and published in the BoR Gazzette No.20 dated April 18, 2012), which came into effect on April 29, 2012 (hereinafter the Regulation).

Paragraph 8.2 of the Regulation establishes the timeline (one year from the Regulation enactment date) within which credit institutions shall bring their AML/CFT systems and AML/CFT internal control rules in line with the requirements set forth in the Regulation.

To meet the established timeline, credit institutions are recommended to develop and adopt the action plans (that should specify, among other things, the departments/units and executive officers of a credit institution in charge of implementation of the plan and plan implementation timelines) to ensure that the AML/CFT systems and AML/CFT internal control rules are brought in line with the BoR Requirements by April 29, 2013.

LETTER No.150-T dated August 7, 2013

CUSTOMER TRANSACTIONS

In addition to BoR Letters No.104-T dated 10.06.2013 and No.110-T dated 19.06.2013 on special attention to be paid by credit institutions to certain customer transactions, the Bank of Russia hereby informs credit institutions about the following.

The supervision by the Bank of Russia of the operations of credit institutions has revealed cases where the Russian residents serviced by credit institutions make payments under international trade agreements (contracts) (entered into with residents of third countries other than the Customs Union member countries) for importation of goods to the Russian Federation from the Republic of Belarus or from the Republic of Kazakhstan by transferring funds to accounts opened with foreign banks located outside the Republic of Belarus or the Republic of Kazakhstan, respectively.

In the BoR's opinion, such transactions have no obvious economic rationale and obvious legitimate purpose.

In this context, for proper management of the business reputation risks as well as for prevention of misuse of credit institutions and their personnel for money laundering and terrorist financing, credit institutions are recommended to apply measures set forth in Article 7, Clause 11 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ dated August 7, 2001 each time when they receive a customer's order transfer funds to accounts opened in bank other than the RB or RK banks under international trade agreements (contracts) under which goods are imported to the Russian Federation from the Republic of Belarus or the Republic of Kazakhstan, respectively.

The local offices of the Bank of Russia shall monitor application by credit institutions of measures set forth in Article 7, Clause 11 of the AML/CFT Law in the situations specified in this Letter.

This Letter shall be communicated to credit institutions.

Chair of the RF Central Bank

CENTRAL BANK OF THE RUSSIAN FEDERATION

LETTER No.104-T dated June 10, 2013

ON SPECIAL ATTENTION TO BE PAID BY CREDIT INSTITUTIONS TO CERTAIN CUSTOMER TRANSACTIONS

(as amended by BoR Letter No.150-T dated 07.08.2013)

The supervision by the Bank of Russia of the operations of credit institutions has revealed cases where the Russian residents serviced by credit institutions make payments under international trade agreements (contracts) for importation of goods to the Russian Federation from the Republic of Belarus by transferring funds to accounts opened with foreign banks located outside the Republic of Belarus.

According to the BoR estimates funds in amount of over USD 15bln equivalent were transferred by the Russian residents to their respective counterparties under the aforementioned international trade agreements (contracts) to their accounts opened with banks located outside of the Republic of Belarus in 2012. In reality, such transactions could be carried out for money laundering, terrorist financing and other illegal purposes.

It should be noted that according to the Belarusian laws and regulations of the RB National Bank funds payable to the Belarusian residents for goods (proprietary information, exclusive rights to the results of intellectual activities), work and services supplied by them under the international trade agreements (contracts) shall be transferred and credited only to the accounts of such Belarusian residents opened with the RB banks.

Given the above, the Bank of Russia recommends credit institution to implement their ML/FT risk management programs with due consideration for the fact that customers' transactions involving transfer of funds to accounts opened with foreign banks located outside Belarus under international trade agreements (contracts) for importation of goods to the Russian Federation from the Republic of Belarus pose the risk of misuse of a credit institution and its personnel for carrying out ML/FT transactions (paragraphs 4.2 and 4.8 of BoR Regulation No.375-P dated March 2, 2012 on Requirements for AML/CFT Internal Control Rules of Credit Institutions).

In this context, for proper management of the business reputation and legal risks as well as for establishment of appropriate risk assessment mechanism under the ML/FT risk management programs of credit institutions the Bank of Russia recommends to take the following measures upon detection by credit institutions of the aforementioned transactions of their customers:

- Pay enhanced attention to all transactions carried out by such customer;
- Report all transactions carried out by such customer to the designated AML/CFT authority as required by Article 7, Clause 3 of Federal Law No.115-FZ dated August 7, 2001 on Combating Legalization (Laundering) of Criminal Proceeds and Financing of Terrorism;
- Take actions/measures prescribed by BoR Letter No.60-T dated April 27, 2007 on Specificities of Servicing by Credit Institutions of Customers with the Use of Remote Account Access Technologies (including online banking);
- Provide all information on such customer, its/his/her counterparties, foreign trade agreements (contracts) entered into by it/him/her and other information available to a credit institution (its branch) to the local office of the Bank of Russia in the region where such credit institution (its branch) is located.

This Letter is agreed upon with the Federal Financial Monitoring Service (Dmitry G. Skobelkin).

This Letter shall be communicated to credit institutions.
