FEDERAL FINANCIAL MONITORING SERVICE

INFORMATIVE MESSAGE

TYPICAL ISSUES PERTAINING TO APPLICATION OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF FEDERAL LAW NO.115-FZ ON COMBATING LEGALIZATION (LAUNDERING) OF CRIMINAL PROCEEDS AND FINANCING OF TERRORISM DATED 07.08.2001

1. Article 7, Clause 1, Par.1 of Federal Law No.115-FZ dated 07.08.2001 on Combating Legalization (Laundering) of Criminal Proceeds and Financing of Terrorism (hereinafter AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ) stipulates that institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets are obliged to identify a customer, customer's representative and (or) beneficiary prior to establishing business relationships. What should an institution do in a situation where it is impossible to identify a beneficiary prior to establishment of business relationship?

Listed in Article 7, Clause 1, Par.1 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ is the information/ data that shall be ascertained with respect to a customer, customer's representative and (or) beneficiary prior to establishing business relationship.

Besides that, Article 7, Clause 14 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ obliges customers to provide information to the institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets needed by the latter for complying with their obligations under AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ, including information on customers' beneficiaries and beneficial owners.

In addition to that, pursuant to Article 7, Clause 11 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ the institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets are entitled to refuse to conduct a transaction requested by a customer, except for crediting the incoming funds transferred to accounts of an individual or a legal entity, unaccompanied by the documents required for recording the information in accordance with the provisions of AML/CFT Law, and also if the institution's staff suspects (after implementing the AML/CFT internal controls) that such transaction is carried out for the ML or FT purposes.

However, in practice, there may be situations where it is impossible to identify specific contract (transaction) beneficiary(s) prior to establishing business relationship with a customer.

In our opinion, in such situations, it is necessary to document a transaction in compliance with the internal control rules and assess the risk of potential relation of such transaction to ML or FT. If a transaction is recognized as suspicious one, it shall be reported to the designated AML/CFT authority as required by Article 7, Clause 3 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ.

If there are no suspicions that a performed transaction is related to ML/FT, a relevant record shall be made in the customer file, or the transaction shall be documented in other manner as established by the internal control rules. In such situation, a beneficiary may be identified after a transaction (contract) is performed.

2. Can a customer's beneficiary or founder (head of a management company) be recognized as the beneficial owner? Do the beneficial owner identification requirements apply to situations where business relationships are established with individuals (natural persons)?

Article 3 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ defines a "beneficiary" and a "beneficial owner".

A beneficiary is defined as a person for whose benefit a customer acts, inter alia, under agency, commission and trust agreements, when carrying out transactions with funds or other assets.

Therefore, a beneficiary may be both an individual and legal entity who/that derives benefit from actions undertaken by a customer under an agreement (deal), i.e. derives benefit not from general business operations of a customer, but from a specific deal (transaction).

A beneficial owner is defined as an individual who ultimately owns (holds over 25% interest in), directly or indirectly (through third parties), a corporate customer or is capable of controlling actions of a customer.

The phrase "is capable of controlling actions of a customer" applies to both corporate customer and individual.

The institution should recognize an individual as the beneficial owner if such individual is capable of controlling a customer, taking into consideration the following factors:

- An individual holds, directly or indirectly (through third parties), controlling interest (over 25 percent) in a customer, or holds over 25 percent of customer's voting shares;

- An individual is entitled (capable), inter alia, under agreement entered into with a customer, exert direct or indirect (through third parties) significant influence over decisions made by the customer, use its powers to exert influence over amount of the customer's income, to force the customer to establish business relationships in the interests of such individual and/or is capable of exerting influence over customer's decisions pertaining to deals, including material terms and conditions of deals, and financial transactions;

- Other factors independently determined by an institution for recognizing an individual as the beneficial owner.

For the purposes of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ ability to control actions of an individual customer by other natural person, in our opinion, means the ability, other than that provided by legal rights and obligation, to exert influence over the customer's decisions related to transactions with funds or other assets. This may include ability to force, mentally or physically, a customer to carry out transactions with funds or other assets, or to conduct financial transactions at the direction of and for the benefit of a beneficial owner, or otherwise use the dependent status of a customer.

Therefore, institutions engaged in transactions with funds and other assets shall take measures that are reasonable and available under the circumstances for identifying beneficial owners, including natural persons, using all resources available to them.

The founders of a corporate customer may be the individuals who hold, directly or indirectly, over 25% interest in such customer. In a situation where the controlling interest in a customer is held by its corporate founder, it is necessary (in compliance with AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ) to take all available measures for identifying the beneficial owner of such founder who shall be recognized as the ultimate beneficial owner capable of exerting indirect (through third parties) over actions of the corporate customer. If the undertaken available measures fail to identify the ultimate beneficial owner, the CEO of the corporate founder who holds the controlling interest in the customer may be recognized as the beneficial owner.

3. Pursuant to Article 7, Clause 1, Par.2 of AML/CFT Law in a situation where the beneficial owner identification measures undertaken under the said Law fail to identify a beneficial owner, the sole executive body of a customer may be recognized as the beneficial owner. Can the CEO of a management company be recognized as the beneficial owner?

In our opinion, the implementation of the internal control programs shall involve examination of the governing bodies of a customer that acts in the capacity of a management company. For implementation of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ it is necessary to take all available measures for identifying the beneficial owner of a management company - an individual who is ultimately capable of exerting indirect (through third parties) influence over actions of a corporate customer. If the undertaken available measures fail to identify such beneficial owner, the CEO of a management company may be recognized as the beneficial owner.

4. Can a customer be owned by several beneficial owners, or only one individual can be the beneficial owner under any circumstances?

Customers can be owned by one or several individuals (including those having family ties). In such situation, an institution shall qualify each of such individuals as the beneficial owner and shall ascertain the information/data on such individuals listed in Article 1, Clause 1, Par.1 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ.

5. Should the institutions verify whether or not a beneficial owner has the status of persons listed in Article 7.3 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ, and should the institutions check if a beneficial owner is included in the list of entities and individuals known to be linked to extremist activities or terrorism (hereinafter the List) or if an order is issued by the interdepartmental CFT coordination authority to freeze (restrain) funds or other assets of a beneficial owner?

To minimize the risk of misuse of the institutions by their customers for carrying out ML/FT transactions the institutions are recommended to include in their AML/CFT internal control rules the procedures for verifying whether or not a beneficial owner has the status of persons listed in Article 7.3 of the AML/CFT Law, whether or not a beneficial owner is included in the List, and whether or not an order is issued by the interdepartmental CFT coordination authority to freeze (restrain) funds or other assets of a beneficial owner.

6. Are the institutions exempted from the obligation to identify beneficial owners in a situation where a low risk level is assigned to a customer?

The AML/CFT Law contains no exemptions from the beneficial owner identification obligation depending on level of risk posed by a customer or amount of a transaction carried out by a customer. However, identification of beneficial owners is not required in the situations specified in Clauses 1.1, 1.2 and 1.4 of Article 7 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ.

7. What measures may be taken by an institution for identifying beneficial owners?

The institutions are entitled to take the following measures for identification of beneficial owners:

- Survey customers (circulate questionnaires to customers);
- Examine the incorporation documents of corporate customers;
- Interview customers and record the obtained information in the customer files (dossiers);
- Use external information sources legitimately available to and accessible by an institution;
- Take other measures as may be deemed appropriate by an institution

An individual shall be recognized as the beneficial owner based on analysis of all documents and (or) information on a customer and on such individual available to an institution.

8. How the institutions should document the results of the beneficial owner identification measures undertaken by them?

Information of the results of the efforts undertaken by an institution for identifying the beneficial owner of a customer may be recorded, inter alia, in the customer file.

When recording such data, it is recommended to include the following information:

- Measures taken for identification of a beneficial owner;
- A decision made by an institution to recognize an individual as the beneficial owner, including grounds for making such decision;
- Information on whether or not the taken measures resulted in identification of a beneficial owner or confirmed that an individual customer had no beneficial owner, including description of actions undertaken for identifying beneficial owner and verifying his/her identity;
- A decision made by an institution to recognize the sole executive body of a corporate customer as the beneficial owner, including grounds for making such decision.

9. According to Article 7, Clause 1, Par.1.1 of AML/CFT Law when establishing business relationships with and servicing corporate customers, the institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets shall obtain information on purpose and intended nature of such business relationships and regularly take measures that are reasonable and available under the circumstances for identifying business profile, financial standing and business reputation of customers.

What information and documents should be obtained by an institution for complying with this requirement, and how the findings shall be recorded/ documented?

Pursuant to Article 7, Clause 1, Par.1.1 of AML/CFT Law when establishing business relationships with and servicing corporate customers, the institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets shall obtain information on purpose and intended nature of such business relationships and regularly take measures that are reasonable and available under the circumstances for identifying business profile, financial standing and business reputation of customers.

The scope of information to be obtained shall be sufficient for adequate identification of the purpose and intended nature of business relationship.

In our opinion, the phrase “regularly take measures that are reasonable and available under the circumstances” means that such purpose shall be identified each time when a customer carries out a transaction.

Information on financial standing and business reputation can be obtained from both a customer and other sources available to and accessible by an institution.

When compiling the list of information and documents required for this purpose, an institution should use its internal control rules.

It should also be noted that measures that are reasonable and available under the circumstances for identifying business profile, financial standing and business reputation shall be taken with respect to customers that are both legal entities and individual entrepreneurs.

10. In what manner and how frequently should the institutions monitor the official website of the designated AML/CFT authority for checking information on inclusion of a particular legal entity or an individual into the List and (or) on an official order to freeze funds or other assets of a particular legal entity or an individual?

According to Article 6, Clause 2, Par.2 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ information on legal entities and individuals included in the list of persons known to be linked to extremist activities or terrorism (hereinafter the List) shall be posted on the official website of the Federal Financial Monitoring Service.

It should be taken into account that pursuant to Clause 6 of the Regulation on Compiling the List of Legal Entities and Individuals Known to be Linked to Extremist Activities or Terrorism and Communicating the List to Institutions Engaged in Transactions with Funds or Other Assets adopted by RF Government Resolution No.27 dated January 18, 2003 (hereinafter the List Compilation and Communication Regulation) legal entities and (or) individuals are listed and delisted and the information on the listed persons is updated as soon as new information is provided by the relevant government authorities to Rosfinmonitoring.

In practice, information of the grounds for listing and delisting of legal entities and (or) individuals as well as new information that requires modification or clarification of data on the listed persons is often received by Rosfinmonitoring in online manner. In addition to that, Article 7, Clause 1, Par.6 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ requires institutions to freeze (restrain), without delay, funds or other assets of the listed legal entity or individual. Besides that, it is necessary to prevent unreasonable restriction of rights and legitimate interests of the delisted legal entities and individuals. Taken all above into consideration, in our opinion, the institution should monitor the Rosfinmonitoring official website on a daily basis for checking information on listed and delisted persons and updates with respect to the listed persons.

In our opinion, the specific procedure of monitoring of the Rosfinmonitoring official website should be independently established and clarified by the institutions in their internal control rules with due consideration for the RF laws and regulations, including Rosfinmonitoring's regulations, such as to ensure that measures involving freezing/unfreezing of funds or other assets of the listed/delisted legal entity or individual are taken in a timely manner.

11. According to Article 7, Clause 1, Par.3 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ in a situation where there are doubts about veracity and accuracy about previously obtained information, an institution shall update information on a customer, customer's representatives, beneficiaries and beneficial owners within seven business days following the day when such doubts arose.

What grounds (criteria) shall be used by an institution as a trigger for implementing these procedures?

Pursuant to Article 7, Clause 1, Par.3 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets are obliged to update information on customers, customers' representatives, beneficiaries and beneficial owners at least once a year, and where there are doubts about veracity and accuracy of previously obtained data, such information shall be updated within 7 business days following the day when doubts arose.

Doubts about veracity and accuracy of previously obtained data may constitute the grounds for updating information on customers, customers' representatives, beneficiaries and beneficial owners.

An institution may use information received from both a customer and other official sources for updating information on customers, customers' representatives, beneficiaries and beneficial owners.

12. What is the procedure of taking measures to freeze (restrain) funds or other assets under Article 6, Clause 1, Par.6 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ?

According to Article 6, Clause 1, Par.6 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets and individual entrepreneurs listed in Article 5 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ (hereinafter institutions and individual entrepreneurs) are obliged to take measures for freezing (restraining) funds or other assets without delay, but not later than one business day following publication (on the Rosfinmonitoring official website) of information on inclusion of a legal entity or individual in the list of persons known to be linked to extremist activity or terrorism (hereinafter the List), or not later than one business day following publication (on the Rosfinmonitoring official website) of an order/decision to take measures for freezing (restraining) funds or other assets of a legal entity or individual reasonably suspected of being linked to terrorist activity (including terrorist financing), if there are no sufficient grounds for including them into the aforementioned List (hereinafter the interdepartmental authority's order).

This provision means that institutions and individual entrepreneurs shall take measures for freezing (restraining) funds or other assets of all legal entities or individuals included in the List or indicated in the interdepartmental authority's order.

Institutions and individual entrepreneurs shall immediately inform Rosfinmonitoring on the undertaken measures in a manner established by the RF Government, while credit institutions shall report such information in a manner prescribed by the RF Central Bank.

13. Is it planned to revise RF Government Resolution No.27 dated 18.01.2003 on Adoption of the Regulation on Compiling the List of Legal Entities and Individuals Known to be Linked to Extremist Activities or Terrorism and Communicating the List to Institutions Engaged in Transactions with Funds or Other Assets (hereinafter Government Resolution No.27) following the adoption of Federal Law No.134-FZ dated on Amendments to Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation Pertaining to Combating Illicit Financial Transactions?

According to Instruction No.ISh-P13-6303 issued by the First Deputy Chair of the RF Government Igor Shuvalov on September 3, 2013 the Federal Financial Monitoring Service is tasked with drafting the relevant amendments to Government Resolution No.27.

Rosfinmonitoring has drafted the RF Government Resolution on Adoption of the Regulation on Compiling the List of Legal Entities and Individuals Known to be Linked to Extremist Activities or Terrorism and Communicating the List to Institutions Engaged in Transactions with Funds or Other Assets and Individual Entrepreneurs, which is currently circulated to the relevant ministries and departments for consideration and approval.

This draft Resolution is available on the official website www.regulation.gov.ru.

14. What constitutes the grounds for complete unfreezing of funds or other assets that have been frozen by an institution or an individual entrepreneur?

According to Article 6, Clause 1, Par.6 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ institutions and individual entrepreneurs are obliged to take measures for freezing (restraining) funds or other assets without delay, but not later than one business day following publication (on the Rosfinmonitoring official website) of information on inclusion of a legal entity or individual in the list of persons known to be linked to extremist activity or terrorism (hereinafter the List), or not later than one business day following publication (on the Rosfinmonitoring official website) of an order/ decision to take measures for freezing (restraining) funds or other assets of a legal entity or individual reasonably suspected of being linked to terrorist activity (including terrorist financing), if there are no sufficient grounds for including them into the aforementioned List.

This provision means that institutions and individual entrepreneurs shall take measures for freezing (restraining) funds or other assets of all legal entities or individuals included in the List.

If the updated List contains no information about a legal entity or individual that/who has been included in the previous version of the List (as of a specific date), this constitutes the grounds for unfreezing by an institution or individual entrepreneur of funds or other assets owned by such legal entity/ individual.

Given that AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ does not establish the specific unfreezing timelines, in our opinion, the timelines established for freezing of funds or other assets should apply to their unfreezing, i.e. the frozen funds or other assets should be unfrozen without delay, by not later than one business day following publication (on the Rosfinmonitoring official website) of information on delisting of a legal entity or individual.

As for unfreezing of funds or other assets of legal entities and individuals that have been frozen by the interdepartmental authority's order, it should be noted that the procedure of making such decision is established by the RF President Decree on Adoption of the Statute of the Interdepartmental CFT Coordination Authority, which draft is currently circulated to the relevant federal executive authorities for consideration and approval. Although the final version of the aforementioned draft Decree has not been agreed yet, it is planned that the Interdepartmental CFT Coordination Authority will issue specific decisions/orders (with individual reference numbers) to cancel the previously issued freezing decisions/orders.

15. What specific measures should be taken by institutions and individual entrepreneurs for freezing (restraining) funds or other assets?

Article 3 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ defines "freezing (restraining) of non-cash funds or book-entry securities" as prohibition to owners, institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets and other natural and legal persons to carry out transactions with funds and securities owned by a legal entity or individual included in the list or by a legal entity or individual reasonably suspected of being linked to terrorist activity (including terrorist financing), if there are no sufficient grounds for including them into the aforementioned list.

AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ does not describe specific freezing measures to be undertaken by institutions engaged in transactions with funds or other assets, inter alia, by credit institutions.

However, Article 7, Clause 2 of AML/CFT Law obliges institutions to develop AML/CFT internal control rules, requirements for which are established by RF Government, while the requirements for AML/CFT internal control rules of credit institutions are established by the RF Central Bank in coordination with Rosfinmonitoring.

Rosfinmonitoring has developed the relevant draft Resolution of the RF Government, which is available on the official website www.regulation.gov.ru.

Besides that, the Bank of Russia has drafted the Directive on amendments to the Regulation on the Requirements for AML/CFT Internal Control Rules of Credit Institutions (adopted by the Bank of Russia on 02.03.2012, No.375-P).

According to both draft documents the internal control rules shall include the program that establishes and defines the procedure of implementing measures for freezing (restraining) funds or other assets and the procedure of checking and identifying corporate and individual customers who have been or should be subject to freezing measures.

In this context, in our opinion, the nature of freezing measures should be determined independently by institutions and individual entrepreneurs with due consideration for the requirements set forth in the relevant Russian laws and regulations, while the freezing mechanism should include administrative, technical and other measures that prevent a legal entity or individual that/who is included in the list or is subject to the freezing order issued by the interdepartmental coordination authority from carrying out transactions with funds or other assets owned by them.

16. How should an institution or an individual entrepreneur respond when approached by the listed legal entity or individual?

The response of an institution or individual entrepreneur should depend on a particular request or question of a customer that/who is subject to freezing measures.

For example, if a customer requests to explain the reasons for freezing (restraining) its/his/her funds or other assets, an institution may inform such customer about refusal to execute its/his/her transaction order, as provided for in Article 4 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ.

Where a customer requests to carry out a transaction which involves crediting the incoming funds to its/his/her account, an institution (engaged in transactions with funds or other assets) is not entitled to refuse to perform such transaction, as provided for in Article 7, Clause 10 of AML/FT Law No.115-FZ.

However, if a customer whose funds or other assets have been frozen by an institution (engaged in transactions with funds or other assets) requests to carry out a transaction other than crediting the incoming funds to its/his/her account, the institution shall suspend such transaction for five business days from a day when the customer's order should be executed, as provided for in Article 7, Clause 10, Par.1 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ.

17. When will regulations establishing the procedure of filing freezing reports by institutions and individual entrepreneurs with Rosfinmonitoring be adopted?

According to Article 7, Clause 1, Par.6 of AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ the procedure of submission by institutions and individual entrepreneurs of information on freezing measures taken by them to the Federal Financial Monitoring Service is established by the RF Government, while the RF Central Bank establishes such procedure for credit institutions.

The Bank of Russia issued Directive No.3063-U dated September 19, 2013 on Procedure of Reporting by Credit Institutions to the Designated AML/CFT Authority on Measures Taken to Freeze (Restraining) Funds or other Assets of Entities and Individuals and on Identification of their Corporate and Individual Customers who are Liable to Freezing Measures, which came into effect on December 15, 2013.

Besides that, Rosfinmonitoring has drafted the RF Government Resolution that regulates the procedure of provision of information to Rosfinmonitoring by other institutions and individuals covered by AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ.

The draft RF Government Resolution on Adoption of the Regulation on Providing Information by Institutions Engaged in Transactions with Funds or Other Assets and Individual Entrepreneurs to the Federal Financial Monitoring Service and on Requesting Information by the Federal Financial Monitoring Service from Institutions Engaged in Transactions with Funds or Other Assets and Individual Entrepreneurs is available on the official website www.regulation.gov.ru.

18. What is the difference between freezing (restraining) of funds or other assets and suspension of transactions with funds or other assets carried out by legal entities or individuals that/who are subject to freezing measures?

According to AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ an individual included in the list of entities and individuals known to be linked to extremist activities or terrorism on the grounds specified in Article 7, Clause 2.1, Par.2, 4 and 5 of the AML/CFT Law is entitled to carry out the following transactions for covering his/her basic expenses and basic expenses of his/her dependent family members:

- 1) Carry out transactions with funds of other assets which involve receipt and spending of wages in amount not exceeding 10,000 rubles per month per dependent family member;
- 2) Carry out transactions with funds of other assets which involve receipt and spending of pension, allowance and/or other social benefits granted under the RF legislation and payment of taxes, fines and/or other mandatory payments under the obligations of an individual specified in the first paragraph of this Clause;

3) Carry out, in a manner established in Article 7, Clause 10 of the AML/CFT Law, transactions with funds of other assets which involve receipt and spending of wages in amount exceeding that indicated in the first subparagraph of this Clause and also make payments under the obligations undertaken by him/her before his/her listing.

Therefore, the requirement for institutions and individual entrepreneurs to freeze (restrain) funds or other assets does not apply to the transactions listed above.

At the same time, according to the AML/CFT Law the transaction suspension mechanism should be used only if a listed individual carries out transactions which involve receipt and spending of wages in amount exceeding 10,000 rubles and also if at least one of the parties to such transactions is a legal entity directly or indirectly owned or controlled by the listed entity or individual or a natural person or legal entity who/that acts on behalf or at the direction of such listed entity or individual.

We also pay your attention to the fact that according to AML/CFT Law No.115-FZ (as amended by Federal Law No.403-FZ dated 28.12.2013 on Modifications to the Federal Law on the National Payment System and to the AML/CFT Law) the time period of suspension of transactions with funds or other assets by institutions and individual entrepreneurs is extended to five days.
