Executive Summary

Number of European film releases

An estimated 1 281 European films premiered in theatres in 2010 in the 27 European and 10 non-European markets covered in the report ("the sample markets"). More than 90% of these films were released in at least one European country while just 103 of these European films (8%) also received a theatrical release outside of Europe.

Just looking at the 10 non-European markets included in the sample, an estimated 228 European films were released for the first time outside of Europe with the estimated number of European first releases in the individual market regions ranging from 58 in South Korea to 155 in Latin America.

>> See chapter 2 for further details.

No. of European first releases worldwide - 2010

Source: European Audiovisual Observatory after Rentrak

Admissions to European films

A total of over 378 million tickets were sold to European films in the 37 sample markets, about 70.4 million of which outside of Europe. This means that about 19% of total admissions to European films were generated outside of Europe.

With 39 million admissions the North American market was by far the largest market region for European films accounting for 55% of their total admissions outside of Europe.

In 2009 European films had sold almost 84 million tickets in the same non-European sample markets. Hence, admissions to European films outside of Europe declined 16% year-on-year.

>> See chapter 2 and Appendix 7 for further details.

GBO for European films

Applying average ticket prices for the individual markets European films generated an estimated gross box office of over EUR 2.35 billion worldwide, about MEUR 376 coming from outside of Europe. This means that cumulatively European films earned at least 16% of their total box office outside of Europe.

The importance of the North American market for European films is even more pronounced in terms of box office takings, accounting for 62% of total non-European GBO (MEUR 232.3).

>> See chapter 2 for further details.

Leading European film export countries

In 2010 France and the UK were by far the two most active European film exporting countries measured in terms of films released outside of Europe.

The picture looks slightly different when it comes to admissions generated by European films in the 10 non-European sample markets. Here the UK clearly takes the lead with the 100 British films on release selling almost 25 million tickets in the 10 non-European sample markets.

Thanks to the international success of Resident Evil: Afterlife, Germany took an exceptional second rank with German films selling over 17.3 million tickets. However, over 14.7 million of these tickets were sold to Resident Evil: Afterlife alone, making it the most successful European film outside of Europe in 2010. Similarly spurred by the success of the first two instalments of the Millenium trilogy, Swedish film had a successful international year taking rank 4 with 4.5 million admissions.

In which world markets were European films most successful?

By far the largest number of European first releases outside of Europe were released in the USA / Canada (128 premieres). The three largest Latin American markets, Mexico, Brazil and Argentina proved to be the second most important group of markets with over 70 European first releases in 2010.

Also in terms of admissions and box office the North American market was the single most important overseas market for European films. An estimated 39.0 million tickets were sold to European films in the US and Canada generating a GBO of MEUR 232.3. This represents 55% of the cumulative admissions and 62% of the cumulative box office takings generated by European films in the 10 non-European sample markets.

Thanks to higher ticket prices, Australia was the second largest market for European films in terms of GBO with MEUR 45.6 generated by European films, while Mexico ranked second in terms of admissions with European films selling 9.6 million tickets in 2010.

>> See chapter 6 for further details.

Synthèse

Nombre de films européens sortis en salle

En 2010, environ 1 281 films européens sont sortis en salle dans les 27 marchés européens et les 10 marchés non européens couverts par le rapport (désignés comme les « marchés de l'échantillon »). Plus de 90 % de ces films sont sortis dans au moins un pays européen et à peine 103 (8 %) ont été projetés dans des cinémas hors Europe.

Sur les 10 marchés non européens couverts par l'échantillon, environ 228 films européens étaient en première distribution dans des salles hors Europe, ce nombre variant selon les régions (de 58 en Corée du Sud à 155 en Amérique latine).

Entrées réalisées par les films européens

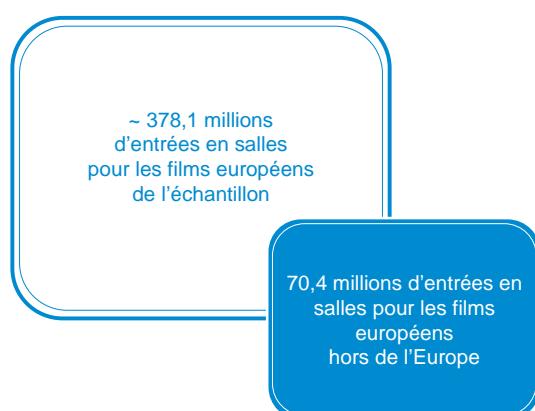

Sur les 37 marchés de l'échantillon, plus de 378 millions de billets ont été vendus pour les films européens, dont environ 70,4 millions hors Europe. Autrement dit, environ 19 % des entrées des films européens ont été générées hors Europe.

Avec 39 millions d'entrées, le marché de l'Amérique du Nord est, de loin, le principal marché pour les films européens. Il représente 55 % de leurs entrées totales hors Europe.

En 2009, les films européens avaient vendu presque 84 millions de billets sur les mêmes marchés non européens de l'échantillon. D'une année à l'autre, les entrées des films européens hors Europe ont ainsi reculé de 16 %.

Recettes brutes des salles générées par les films européens

Recettes brutes des salles des films européens sortis - 2010

En appliquant le prix moyen du billet dans chaque marché, les recettes brutes des salles pour les films européens sont estimées à plus de 2,35 milliards EUR dans le monde, dont 376 MEUR hors Europe. Autrement dit, globalement les films européens ont généré au moins 16 % de leurs recettes au guichet hors Europe.

L'importance du marché nord-américain pour les films européens est encore plus prononcée en ce qui concerne les recettes au guichet ; il représente 62 % des recettes brutes non européennes (232,3 MEUR).

Principaux pays d'exportation des films européens

En 2010, la France et le Royaume-Uni ont été, de loin, les deux pays d'exportation des films européens les plus actifs, selon le nombre de films sortis hors Europe.

La situation est légèrement différente pour les entrées générées par les films européens dans les 10 marchés non européens de l'échantillon. Là, le Royaume-Uni prend nettement la tête : 100 films britanniques sortis ont vendu près de 25 millions de billets sur ces marchés.

Grâce au succès international de Resident Evil: Afterlife, l'Allemagne occupe la deuxième place avec plus de 17,3 millions de billets. Toutefois, plus de 14,7 millions de ces billets ont été vendus pour Resident Evil: Afterlife, ce qui en fait le film européen à avoir connu le plus grand succès hors Europe en 2010. Également stimulé par le succès des deux premiers volets de la trilogie Millenium, le cinéma suédois a connu une année fructueuse. Il occupe la 4e place avec 4,5 millions d'entrées.

Dans quels marchés du monde, les films européens ont-ils rencontré le plus de succès ?

Le plus grand nombre de sorties en première distribution hors Europe a été enregistré, et de loin, aux USA / Canada (128 films inédits). Les trois principaux marchés d'Amérique latine (Mexique, Brésil et Argentine) constituent le deuxième groupe de marchés le plus important avec 70 films inédits européens sortis en 2010.

Pour les entrées et les recettes au guichet, le marché nord-américain a également été le plus important pour les films européens. Ces derniers ont vendu quelque 39 millions de billets aux Etats-Unis et au Canada et généré 232,3 MEUR de recettes. Cela représente 55 % du total des entrées et 62 % du total des recettes au guichet générées par les films européens dans les 10 marchés non européens de l'échantillon.

Grâce à un prix du billet plus élevé, l'Australie est le deuxième marché le plus important pour les films européens en ce qui concerne les recettes brutes des salles (45,6 MEUR), alors que le Mexique se classe deuxième pour les entrées (9,6 millions de billets vendus en 2010).

Zusammenfassung

Zahl der Kinostarts europäischer Filme

2010 kamen in den 27 europäischen Ländern und den 10 nicht europäischen Ländern, die in der Datenstichprobe berücksichtigt wurden, schätzungsweise 1 281 europäische Filme neu in die Kinos. Mehr als 90% dieser Filme wurden erstmals in Europa gezeigt, nur bei 103 dieser europäischen Filme (8%) erfolgte der Kinostart auch außerhalb Europas.

In den 10 nicht europäischen Ländern, die in der Stichprobe erfasst wurden, kamen etwa 228 europäische Filme erstmals außerhalb Europas in die Kinos. Die Zahl der Kinostarts in den einzelnen Märkten reichte von 58 in Südkorea bis 155 in Lateinamerika.

>> Ausführlichere Daten siehe in Kapitel 2.

Zahl der Kinostarts europäischer Filme weltweit - 2010

Besucher europäischer Filme

Insgesamt wurden für europäische Filme 2010 auf den 37 Märkten mehr als 378 Millionen Eintrittskarten verkauft, davon 70,4 Millionen außerhalb Europas. Das bedeutet, dass rund 19% aller Besucher europäischer Filme auf nicht europäische Länder entfielen.

Mit 39 Millionen Besuchern war der nordamerikanische Markt mit großem Abstand der bedeutendste Markt für europäische Filme. Auf den amerikanischen Markt entfielen 55% aller Besucher europäischer Filme außerhalb Europas.

2009 wurden auf den 10 nicht europäischen Märkten der Datenstichprobe noch fast 84,0 Millionen Kinokarten für europäische Filme verkauft. Die Zahl der Zuschauer europäischer Filme in den Ländern außerhalb Europas ist also von einem auf das nächste Jahr um 16% zurückgegangen.

>> Ausführlichere Daten siehe in Kapitel 2 und Anhang 7.

Umsätze europäischer Filme

Legt man durchschnittliche Eintrittspreise auf den einzelnen Märkten zugrunde, erzielten europäische Filme weltweit Bruttoeinspielergebnisse von mehr als 2,35 Milliarden EUR. Davon entfielen rund 376 Mio. EUR auf Länder außerhalb Europas. Insgesamt spielten europäische Filme damit mindestens 16% ihrer gesamten Erlöse außerhalb Europas ein.

Anhand der Umsätze wird noch deutlicher, welche bedeutende Rolle der nordamerikanische Markt für europäische Filme spielt: Dort wurden 62% aller Bruttoeinspielergebnisse außerhalb Europas erzielt (232,3 Mio. EUR).

Führende europäische Filmexportländer

Gemessen an der Zahl der Filme, die außerhalb Europas erstmals in die Kinos kamen, waren Frankreich und das Vereinigte Königreich 2010 mit großem Abstand die aktivsten europäischen Filmexportländer.

Ein wenig anders sieht das Bild aus, wenn man die Zahl der Besucher europäischer Filme in den 10 nicht europäischen Ländern der Datenstichprobe betrachtet. Hier nimmt das Vereinigte Königreich Platz eins ein: Für die 100 britischen Filme, die 2010 neu in die Kinos kamen, wurden fast 25,0 Millionen Eintrittskarten auf den 10 nicht europäischen Märkten verkauft.

Dank des internationalen Erfolgs von Resident Evil: Afterlife schaffte es Deutschland 2010 überraschenderweise auf Platz zwei. Für deutsche Filme wurden 2010 mehr als 17,3 Millionen Eintrittskarten verkauft. Davon entfielen allerdings mehr als 14,7 Millionen auf Resident Evil: Afterlife, der damit 2010 zum erfolgreichsten europäischen Film außerhalb Europas avancierte. Ein ähnliches Phänomen ist beim schwedischen Film feststellbar, wo die ersten beiden Teile der Millennium-Trilogie allein 4,5 Millionen Besucher in die Kinos lockten und Schweden in den 10 nicht europäischen Ländern Rang 4 sicherten.

>> Ausführlichere Daten siehe in Kapitel 3 und 5.

Auf welchen Weltmärkten waren europäische Filme am erfolgreichsten?

Der größte Teil der Kinostarts europäischer Filme außerhalb Europas erfolgte in den USA/Kanada (128 Premieren). An zweiter Stelle folgten die drei größten lateinamerikanischen Filmmärkte Mexiko, Brasilien und Argentinien. Dort kamen 2010 mehr als 70 europäische Filme erstmals in die Kinos.

Auch in Bezug auf die Zahl der Besucher und die Einspielergebnisse war der nordamerikanische Markt der bedeutendste Überseemarkt für europäische Filme. Hier wurden schätzungsweise 39,0 Millionen Kinokarten für europäische Filme verkauft und Umsätze in Höhe von 232,3 Millionen EUR erzielt. Das sind 55% aller Kinobesucher und 62% des gesamten Box Office, das von europäischen Filmen auf den 10 nicht europäischen Märkten der Datenstichprobe erzielt wurde.

Wegen der höheren Eintrittspreise war Australien der zweitgrößte Markt für europäische Filme nach dem Box Office. In Australien spielten europäische Filme 45,6 Millionen EUR ein. An zweiter Stelle steht Mexiko, was die Besucherzahlen betrifft. Dort wurden 2010 9,6 Millionen Kinokarten für europäische Filme verkauft.

1 Data sources & methodology

Data sources

The data sample analysed in this report comes from two sources. All European admissions data come from the European Audiovisual Observatory's LUMIERE database which collates admissions from a wide variety of sources, including national film agencies and statistics offices, inter-industry bodies, distributors' and exhibitors' associations, the trade press and a small number of private tracking bodies. This is supplemented and completed by data from the European Union's MEDIA Programme, on the basis of declarations made by distributors to its Automatic Distribution Support scheme.

Admissions data for the 10 non-European markets covered in this report have been provided by the European Union's MEDIA Programme which purchased the data from private tracking body Rentrak Corporation.

Methodology

The title-by-title admissions lists provided by Rentrak Corporation were imported into the LUMIERE database via a process of title matching. In cases where Rentrak could not provide any admission figures, admissions were estimated by dividing the gross box office result by the average annual ticket price of the market in question.

By integrating the non-European admissions into LUMIERE the European Audiovisual Observatory was in a position to calculate market shares for European films in non-European countries based on the same methodology as for the European markets. Of particular importance in this context is the allocation of a country of origin to any individual film.

In order to calculate market shares, each film is allocated a unique country of origin within the LUMIERE database. This country of origin corresponds to the country of the producer(s) of the film. In the case of international co-productions the film is assigned to the country which provides the majority share of production financing.

The identification of commercial first releases proves to be difficult due to patchy availability of the original release date of a film. This is particularly true for non-European markets. In order to estimate the number of first releases, all films were checked for admissions captured in the territory / region before 2010. All films produced in 2010 and 2009 with no registered prior admissions were assumed to be first releases in the respective territory / region. Films produced in 2007 and 2008 were checked individually for release dates on IMDB. For European markets this approach is fairly reliable due to the high coverage rate of LUMIERE over the past years. For non-European markets there is a higher margin of error as only 2009 data were available for checking prior admissions for this study. Hence some re-releases / holdovers / festival releases might be counted as commercial first releases and all data have to be considered estimates.

GBO figures are estimated by applying the average ticket price in a market to the number of admissions. In some markets where only GBO figures but no admission data were available, the same method is used to estimate admissions, as mentioned above.

Data scope

In principle the data set covers all feature films on release, i.e. having at least one commercial theatrical screening in one of the markets covered. This includes holdovers, re-releases, retrospectives, paid festival screenings etc. Alternative content screenings and short film compilations are not taken into account.

This report covers 2010 title-by-title admissions data for 10 non-European markets and puts them in the context of admissions data for another 27 European markets covered in the LUMIERE database:

Market region	Countries covered
North America	USA / Canada (US / CA) (treated as one market)
Latin America	Argentina (AR), Brazil (BR), Chile (CL), Colombia (CO), Mexico (MX), Venezuela (VE)
Oceania	Australia (AU), New Zealand (NZ)
South Korea	South Korea (KR)
Europe	Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Croatia, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Russia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, UK & Ireland (treated as one market)

However, please note that there are differences in the coverage rate of individual markets and in particular differences between Europe and non-European market regions which can distort the direct comparability of statistical indicators. This is particularly true with regard to the number of films on release: In many European countries LUMIERE seems to cover a comparatively higher number of smaller and repertoire films with very few admissions than Rentrak data outside of Europe. The number of films on release hence is portrayed as significantly higher than outside of Europe. Given the lack of comprehensive and fully comparable data sets, it can not be determined to what degree these are structural differences and to which degree this is simply caused by more limited data sets for non-European markets. Also note, that Rentrak data for the US and Canadian market seem to not provide full coverage of admissions to French language films e.g. in Québec.

Hence, all data in this report drawn from LUMIERE are to be interpreted as estimated minimum figures. Year-on-year comparisons are presented in the appendix.

Definitions

"European films"

European films are all films considered to be of European origin, ie to be produced and majority financed by a European country. In the context of this report all member states of the Council of Europe are considered to be European states.

EUR INC films, ie films which are produced and shot in Europe but financed by incoming investment sources from US studios, are generally not considered as European films. Because of their untypically high box office potential they would distort admission and global circulation statistics for 'typical' European films. In the context of this report they are hence generally considered as US films. They are however considered as European films in case they are considered as European films by Europa Cinemas, whose support mechanism requires the identification of European films. INC films considered as European films in the context of this study include e.g. The King's Speech, An Education and Cemetery Junction. See Appendix for full list of INC films, both considered as European as well as those films which are not.

"First release"

A "first release" is defined as the regular commercial (!) theatrical release in a territory. Festival screenings or preview screenings are not counted as first releases. See methodology section for difficulties in identifying first releases.

"On release"

Any film that has at least one commercial theatrical screening in a territory is considered as a film "on release". This includes holdovers, re-releases, retrospectives, paid festival screenings etc.

"Outside of Europe" / "non-European"

In the context of this report the terms "outside of Europe" or „non-European markets“ refer to the 10 non-European markets covered in this report.

"Europe"

Europe as a region of origin: all member states of the Council of Europe.

Europe as a market: the 27 European markets for which a sufficient amount of admissions data is available in the Observatory's LUMIERE database (see Data scope).

2 Market volume of European films

First releases

An estimated 1 281 European films premiered in theatres in 2010 in the 37 markets covered in the data sample. More than 90% of these films were released only in Europe while just 103 of these films (8%) also received a theatrical release outside of Europe (see Figure 1).

Just looking at non-European markets, about 228 European films were released for the first time outside of Europe (ie the 10 non-European sample markets covered in this report). As illustrated in Figure 4, the estimated number of European first releases in the individual market regions outside of Europe in 2010 ranges between 58 in South Korea and 155 in Latin America.

Films on release

Taking into account holdovers, re-releases and festival releases about 4 237 European films were on release in all the sample markets. In Europe about 4 133 European films were screened in theatres while the number was significantly lower in the non-European market regions: 177 in North America, 272 in Latin America, 116 in Oceania and 69 in South Korea. (See methodology for caveats in interpreting release figures.)

Admissions

A total of over 378 million tickets were sold to European films in the sample markets, about 70.4 million of which outside of Europe (see Figures 2 and 5). This means that at least 19% of total admissions to European films were generated outside of Europe. With 39.0 million admissions the North American market was the largest market region for European films accounting for 55% of their total international admissions.

GBO

Applying average ticket prices for the individual markets European films generated an estimated gross box office of over EUR 2.35 billion worldwide, about MEUR 376 coming from outside of Europe (see Figures 3 and 6). This means that cumulatively European films earned about 16% of their total box office outside of Europe. The importance of the North American market for European films is even more pronounced in terms of box office takings, accounting for 62% of total non-European GBO (MEUR 232.3). Despite selling three times as many tickets than Oceania, GBO takings in the Latin American sample countries (MEUR 62.4) was only slightly higher than in Oceania (MEUR 53.0) due to lower ticket prices.

3 Leading European film export countries

In terms of releases

In 2010 France and the UK were by far the two most active European film exporting countries measured in terms of films released outside of Europe.

As shown in Table 1, France leads both in terms of first releases as well as old releases with 72 French films released throughout the year and a total of 150 French films on release in at least one non-European market. France is followed by the UK with 53 first releases outside of Europe and a total of 100 films on release. On a cumulative basis French and UK films accounted for 55% of the number of European films on release outside of Europe.

Germany ranked third in 2010 with 27 first releases and a total of 48 films on release, followed by Spain and Italy with 14 first releases each and a total 38 and 30 films on release respectively.

In terms of admissions

The picture looks slightly different when it comes to admissions generated by European films as illustrated in Table 2. Here the UK clearly takes the lead with the 100 British films on release selling almost 25.0 million tickets in the 10 non-European sample markets.

Thanks to the international success of Resident Evil: Afterlife Germany took an exceptional second rank with German films generating over 17.3 million tickets. However, over 14.7 million of these tickets were sold to Resident Evil: Afterlife alone, making it the most successful European film outside of Europe in 2010.

Without a comparable breakout success France took rank three with almost 16.1 million tickets sold to the 150 French films on release outside of Europe.

2010 also proved a successful year for Swedish films (4.5 million admissions) thanks to the success of the first two instalments of the Millennium trilogy. While Spanish, Belgian and Italian films sold between 3.1 and 1.7 million tickets, films from other European countries generally could not attract more than 100 000 paying viewers outside of Europe.

In terms of “dependency” on non-European markets

To which degree did the individual European film industries “depend” in 2010 on theatrical admissions outside of Europe? Figure 1 shows the percentage shares of admissions on national, non-national European and non-European markets for each of the top 10 European film exporting countries in terms of admissions.

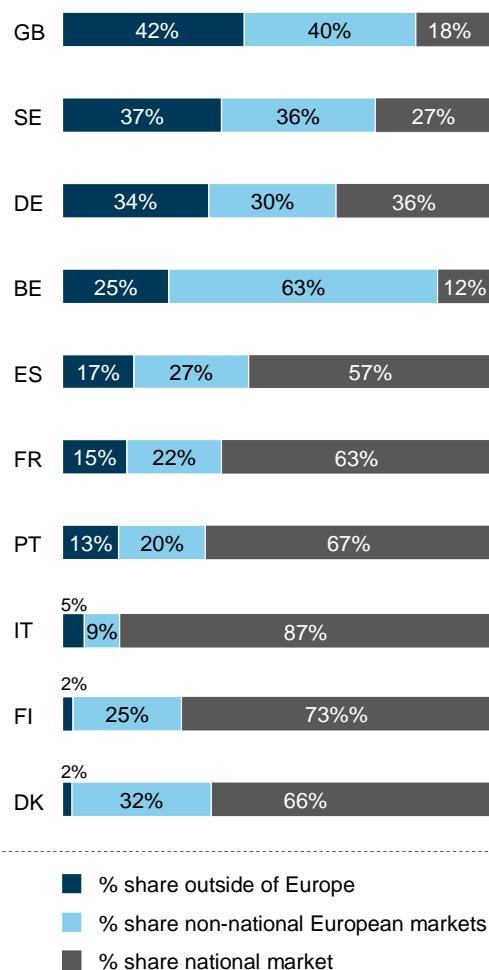

In 2010 four European film industries generated 25% or more of their total theatrical admissions on the 10 non-European markets covered in this report. The UK film industry clearly was most exposed to the distribution of its films outside of Europe with an estimated 42% of total admissions to British films generated outside of Europe.

The international success of Resident Evil: Afterlife (DE) and the first two instalments of the Millenium trilogy (SE) caused German and Swedish films to generate 37% and 34% of their “worldwide” admissions outside of Europe. The comparatively high share of 25% non-European admissions for Belgium can also be partly explained by the success of the 3D animation Sammy's avonturen: De geheime doorgang.

Lacking comparable breakout successes French and Spanish films generated 15% and 17% of their total ticket sales outside of Europe. With 13% Portugal was the only other European country to sell more than 10% of its total ticket sales outside of Europe, while admissions on non-European markets accounted for less than 5% for all other European countries, except for Hungary (7%).

4 Market share of European films

In terms of releases

Outside of Europe, European first releases accounted for around 20% of the estimated 1 130 films which were theatrically released for the first time in the 10 non-European sample markets (treated as one market).

In Europe, European first releases accounted for 73% of the estimated 1 734 films premiering in the 27 European markets (treated as one market) covered in this study (see Figure 1).

Measured in terms of films on release, European films accounted for 25% of the 1 835 films being screened at least once in the 10 non-European markets covered. In contrast and thanks to a more comprehensive coverage for certain European markets, the LUMIERE database captured over 6 000 films on release in Europe. European films accounted for 69% of these films.

In terms of admissions

Outside of Europe, European films accounted for around 3% of the total admissions generated by all films on release in the 10 non-European sample markets.

In Europe, European films claimed an estimated market share of 26% of total admissions as captured in the LUMIERE database for 27 European markets (see Figure 2).

Number of releases

As can be seen in Table 3, by far the largest number of European first releases outside of Europe were released in the USA / Canada (128 premieres). The three largest Latin American markets, Mexico, Brazil and Argentina proved to be the second most important group of markets with over 70 European first releases in 2010. Australia, South Korea and New Zealand followed with between 50 and 60 European first releases.

The situation is more homogeneous when it comes to the number of holdovers / re-releases / festival releases which ranged between 25 and 50 in the majority of the 10 non-European markets covered in this study. Please refer to the methodology and data scope sections in chapter 1 for caveats regarding the coverage and interpretation of data concerning these 'old releases'.

The comparatively low number of films on release can hence either indicate a lower offer of 'repertoire' films outside of Europe and / or a less comprehensive coverage of these films with regard to data collection. As shown in Table 4, the country ranking does not change much when measured in terms of films on release with the USA / Canada (177 films) and Mexico (116) being the only two markets screening more than 100 European films. Most other markets had between 60 and 100 European films on release throughout 2010.

Admissions

Also in terms of admissions the North American market proves to be by far the most important overseas market for European films. An estimated 39.0 million tickets were sold to European films in the US and Canada. This represents 55% of the cumulative admissions generated by European films in the 10 non-European sample markets (see Table 5).

Mexico was the second largest market for European films in terms of admissions with 9.61 million tickets sold to screenings of European films in 2010.

Australia, South Korea and Brazil follow with admissions between 5.37 and 4.39 million while European films sold less than two million tickets in the remaining four Latin American markets and New Zealand.

As illustrated in Figure 1 (see next page), the market share of European films in terms of admissions generally ranges between 3% and 6% in the 10 non-European sample markets. Only in New Zealand is it higher (8%).

GBO

Thanks to a comparatively high average ticket price, the importance of the North American market is even more pronounced in terms of gross box office takings of European films. Based on the data available, the Observatory estimates that European films took over MEUR 232.3 at the US and Canadian box office, 62% of their cumulative non-European GBO takings.

Despite lower admissions Australia and South Korea overtake Mexico becoming the second and third largest markets for European films in terms of GBO with MEUR 45.6 and MEUR 28.3 respectively. Mexico and Brazil follow with MEUR 27.3 and MEUR 17.5.

Again thanks to a comparatively high average ticket price New Zealand takes rank 6 with MEUR 7.4 while European films generated between MEUR 2.2 to 6.2 in the remaining four Latin American markets, as illustrated in Table 6.

EUROPÄISCHE AUDIOVISUELLE INFORMATIONSSTELLE

EUROPEAN AUDIOVISUAL OBSERVATORY

Set up in December 1992, the European Audiovisual Observatory's mission is to gather and diffuse information on the audiovisual industry in Europe. The Observatory is a European public service body comprised of 39 member states and the European Union, represented by the European Commission. It operates within the legal framework of the Council of Europe and works alongside a number of partner and professional organisations from within the industry and with a network of correspondents. In addition to contributions to conferences, other major activities are the publication of a Yearbook, newsletters and reports, the compilation and management of databases and the provision of information through the Observatory's Internet site.

The LUMIERE database

The LUMIERE database compiles data on admissions to films released in European cinemas since 1996. The database is the result of collaboration between the European Audiovisual Observatory and various specialised national sources as well as the MEDIA Programme of the European Union.
