Informations

The World Monuments Watch is a comprehensive global program aimed at identifying and preserving the world's endangered cultural landmarks. Launched with a major grant from the American Express Company in August 1995, the World Monuments Watch is a program of the World Monuments Fund, a private not-for-profit organization established in 1965 to help preserve the world's artistic and architectural heritage.

The World Monuments Watch encourages protection of endangered cultural heritage sites worldwide. An ever broadening array of factors ranging from natural disasters to population explosion and industrialization compromises the survival of the world's cultural patrimony. By targeting selected sites for immediate action, the World Monuments Watch calls attention to the need for innovative approaches to protecting other similarly threatened sites.

The World Monuments Watch is a two-part program: an annual List of 100 Most Endangered Sites, and the World Monuments Watch Fund.

The *List of 100 Most Endangered Sites is selected annually from the inventory of sites nominated. In order to be eligible, a complete nomination form must be received for a site. Nominations to the endangered sites inventory are solicited each year from governments, organizations active in the field of heritage conservation, and concerned individuals. The World Monuments Watch convenes a selection panel of international experts to evaluate nominations and select 100 sites worldwide to be included in the annual List of 100. Announcement of the annual List of 100 Most Endangered Sites is intended to focus local and international attention on the perils confronting these sites as well as increase awareness of the techniques to counter these perils. The World Monuments Watch is intended to call public attention to opportunities for initiating conservation efforts.

The *World Monuments Watch Fund provides financial assistance to selected sites on the annual List of 100 Most Endangered Sites. Not all sites on the annual List of 100 will receive financial assistance. In the first five years of the program (1996-2000) approximately $1 million per year will be distributed in grant funding through a gift from the American Express Company. The World Monuments Fund encourages contributions by other sponsors to help meet the conservation needs of additional sites on the World Monuments Watch List of 100 Most Endangered Sites.

Informations

World Monuments Watch est un programme de grande envergure destiné à identifier et à sauvegarder, sur les différents continents, les principaux monuments menacés de disparition à brève échéance. Établi en août 1995 grâce à un don important d'American Express Company, le programme World Monuments Watch a été conçu par World Monuments Fund, association privée, internationale, à but non lucratif, qui depuis 1965 consacre son activité à la sauvegarde du patrimoine artistique et culturel dans le monde.

World Monuments Watch souhaite développer au niveau international la protection de sites particulièrement exposés à des dangers toujours plus nombreux : catastrophes naturelles, explosion démographique, industrialisation... En désignant ainsi certains monuments pour une action de sauvegarde immédiate, World Monuments Watch met en lumière la nécessité de trouver de nouvelles approches pour protéger d'autres monuments également menacés.

Le programme World Monuments Watch comprend deux étapes différentes : d'abord la publication de la Liste annuelle des 100 monuments les plus menacés puis la sélection pour World Monuments Watch Fund.

La Liste annuelle des 100 monuments les plus menacés est établie à partir de l'ensemble des sites présentés. Pour être pris en compte chaque site doit être représenté par un formulaire de candidature complet. Chaque année l'ensemble des personnes concernées (administrations locales, organisations privées actives dans le domaine de la conservation du patrimoine et personnes privées) sont invitées à envoyer des dossiers de participation. Ensuite le World Monuments Fund réunit un comité de sélection composé d'experts internationaux pour étudier les candidatures et choisir les 100 sites sur les différents continents qui seront inscrits sur la Liste. La publication de la Liste des 100 Monuments les plus menacés a pour objectif d'attirer chaque année l'attention nationale et internationale sur les dangers qui menacent ces sites et d'augmenter l'intérêt pour les techniques utilisées pour les juguler. World Monuments Watch veut ainsi signaler au public les nouvelles opportunités de conservation.

World Monuments Watch Fund apporte en outre une aide financière à certains sites de la Liste des 100 Monuments les plus menacés. Il faut bien noter qu'un soutien financier ne sera pas systématiquement apporté à tous les sites. Dans les 5 premières années du programme (1996-2000) environ 1 million de dollars de subvention sera distribué chaque année grâce à un don de American Express Company. World Monuments Fund recherche la contribution d'autres mécènes pour répondre aux besoins de conservation du plus grand nombre possible de sites de la liste.
