Enlarged Partial Agreement on Sport (EPAS): Factsheet

On 11 May 2007, the Council of Europe adopted Resolution CM/Res(2007)8, establishing the Enlarged Partial Agreement on Sport (EPAS), in order to give fresh momentum to pan-European sports co-operation and address the current challenges facing sport in Europe – building on more than thirty years of activity in the field.

EPAS provides a platform for intergovernmental sports co-operation between the public authorities of its member states. It also encourages dialogue between public authorities, sports federations and NGOs. This contributes to better governance, with the aim of making sport more ethical, more inclusive and safer.

EPAS aims to promote the development of any sport whose benefits are wide-reaching. It develops policies and standards, monitors them and helps with capacity-building and the exchange of good practices. It uses Council of Europe sports standards such as the European Sports Charter, the European Convention on Spectator Violence, the Anti-Doping Convention, the Convention on the Manipulation of Sports Competitions and the Convention on an Integrated Safety, Security and Service Approach at Football Matches and Other Sports Events, as the basis for drawing up its own strategies. In October 2021, the revised European Sports Charter was adopted, bringing it up to date with current priorities in sport. The Charter was last updated in 2001.

Different recommendations initially prepared by EPAS have been adopted by the Council of Europe's Committee of Ministers on issues of sports ethics, the autonomy of the sports movement, the protection of young athletes from dangers associated with migration, and gender mainstreaming. The Recommendation on the promotion of good governance in sport is one of the most recent of these and was adopted on 12 December 2018. The work done to draft a new recommendation on extreme martial arts and combat activities has finished and this recommendation was adopted by the Committee of Ministers in March 2021. Key recommendations such as the European Sports Charter are regularly monitored via evaluation visits in member states.

Since 2009, EPAS has carried out awareness-raising and co-operation activities on the promotion of diversity in and through sport, focusing successively on different groups (ethnic minorities, persons with disabilities, women, children, persons in detention, and newly arrived migrants and their integration via sport). EPAS continues to work on issues of concern for the safeguarding of human rights in sport at national and international levels. In 2021, EPAS focused on the theme of intersex and transgender athletes and their participation in sports activities and competitions, through its biennial diversity conference.

Since 2014, EPAS has strengthened its operational co-operation capacity by developing joint projects with the European Union and the sports movement, for example on the topics of gender equality, child protection (in particular the fight against sexual abuse in sport), and on good governance standards. In 2022, it will also focus on combating hate speech in sport.

Finally, Council of Europe Conferences of Ministers responsible for Sport continue to be organised regularly thanks to EPAS (Athens 2008, Baku 2010, Belgrade 2012, Macolin/Maggingen 2014, Budapest 2016, Tbilisi 2018 and Athens (online) 2020). The next Conference of Ministers will be held on 25-27 October 2022 in Antalya, Turkey.
