Planned activity(ies):

1. On 25 January 2012 the Office is going to organize a press conference followed by a round table „Personal Data Protection vs. Personal Data in Media?“.
2. As every year the Office for Personal Data Protection will launch in January 2012 a new competition for children and youth „My privacy! Don´t look, don´t poke about!“. This time the main issue will be the possibility of loss of keeping a check on their own information when having been once exposed on Internet and the possible impacts of such loss. The young people and children will be suggested two stories with open end and their task would be to finalize one of them and to present it in the form of a story, reflection or scenario, or to play the story recording the scene by video. The winner will be awarded at the International Film Festival for Children and Youth in June 2012 in Zlín. More detailed description follows. Suported by Czech Radio and public libraries association

Personal Data Protection Day 2012

Competition for children and youth

“My Privacy! Don´t Look, Don´t Poke about!” Sixth Year

One of the main issues linked to placing information on the internet involves the loss of control over that information. As soon as it becomes public it becomes accessible to search engines. It can be registered and forwarded by means of web tools such as social networking sites.

What does the young generation think of this? Children to 18 can use their imaginations to create two stories touching on the issue. They can write a short story, essay, film treatment or screenplay, or they can take their story and turn it into a video short or a comic strip, and send it to the Office for Personal Data Protection by 15th of April. The best entry will win a prize that will be presented in June, as is now traditional, at the International Film Festival for Children and Youth in Zlín.

All entries will be made accessible to the public and published in a brochure.

TEXT No. 1:

What happened when...

Marcela got gorgeous underwear from her mother for her 15th birthday. In the evening her parents went out and Marcela was allowed to throw a party in the family flat for her friends. Things got lively and they started to dance. The girls persuaded Marcela to put on a show like a go-go dancer and she changed into her mum's present... Petr took out his mobile and sent a few photos to Honza, who was home with a sore throat. Bored, and PC crazy, he immediately put the pics onto his computer and prepared a presentation that he sent to Marcela as a birthday present. It raised a big laugh because Honza added funny comments about how the professionals were developing at their school. A link to the presentation – which was after all on the internet – spread around the school.

Time passed and Marcela studied law. She was very ambitious, a star student, and applied for several lucrative and prestigious positions, including at international firms. But what happened when her internet present from Honza appeared among the materials that a selection commission had found on her online...

TEXT No. 2:

What happened when...

Milan's parents had been waiting a long time before their son was born and when it happened they treated him as a bit of a pet. They recorded his every baby step in a diary, but also in photos and videos. They sent the pictures and recorded "scenes" from their son's life to grandmothers and friends, as well as posting them on the internet in the form of a blog dedicated to their child's development. A naked Milan posed on a fur rug, in sand and at the pool. He laughed, cried, sat and learned to use a potty... He was cute, and growing...

At school he was a good pupil. He liked learning and was a decent piano player. He was popular and never had any conflict with teachers. He thought he would be accepted at the conservatory. But he was given to nerves and didn't manage to pass the test. In the end he decided to go to grammar school and then teaching school, where he would become a teacher of music and Czech. It worked out. But because he was good with people, and a capable teacher and organiser, he let his colleagues persuade him to enter a selection process for school director. That also worked out. The school was running fine, but... One day pictures downloaded from the internet appeared on the notice-board: the naked baby Milan posed on a fur rug, learned to use a potty, but this time the photos accompanied by comments about the school director... And then they began to circulate on the internet...

MONTENEGRO

PARTICIPATION FORM 2012

Member State or national or international body:Agency for Personal Data Protection

Address: Kralja Nikole 2, Podgorica

Contact: azlp@t-com.me

Website: www.azlp.me

Planned activity(ies):

Agency for Personal Data Protection of Montenegro will organise a Round Table with the topic "Video surveillance in protecting the property and individuals and violating the right to privacy" on 27 January. Initial presentation regarding this topic will be delivered by the member of the Council of the Agency for Personal Data Protection, Mr. Radenko Lacmanović. Organisational preparations are ongoing so that all the relevant representatives from the public and NGO sector, international organisations of Montenegro and commercial companies could attend. The Round Table, which will be announced in the all the media, will be attended by the representatives of the most important media in our country. Montenegro is organizing the Round Table for the first time on the occasion of 28 January, Personal Data Protection Day. Last year, there was an appropriate press conference held on 28 January where three members of the Council and the Director of the Agency for Personal Data Protection participated.

Place:	Date(s):
Podgorica	27.01.2012. 10:00h

Aim(s):

Purpose of organising the Round Table is public awareness raising regarding the right to privacy protection as well as making citizens aware that they are the owners of their own data and have the right to know who is processing their data, for which purposes and according to which legal basis.

Previous experience of the work of the Agency for Personal Data Protection indicates that the right to privacy protection is mostly violated by the installation of video surveillance in the manner contrary to the Personal Data Protection Law. The purpose of this Round Table is also to clarify to citizens, and to relevant bodies, institutions and commercial companies that the protection of property and persons can often be achieved without video surveillance as well as for the public to understand that video surveillance does not provide guarantees that the number of misdemeanours or criminal offences will decrease.

Planned activity(ies):

A Targeted Call for Evidence on upcoming EU proposals for a new data protection instrument from January to March 2012 will be launched by the UK Ministry of Justice.

Crispin Blunt, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Ministry of Justice, is speaking at the International Data Protection conference in Brussels on 27 January. This session is being hosted by the Council of Europe and the UK Chairmanship of the CoE Committee of Ministers.

The Information Commissioner's Office, the UK's data protection authority, will be launching an access aware guidance, which is a toolkit for organisations about handling subject access requests better.

Place:	Date(s):
Westminster, London	January-March 2012
Brussels, Belgium	27 January 2012

Aim(s):

The targeted Call for Evidence will seek the views of relevant stakeholders on potential items in the upcoming European Commission proposals.

Crispin Blunt's speech will emphasise support for the modernisation of Convention 108 and will outline what the UK believes the Convention can do to safeguard personal data.

The ICO's awareness guidance will seek to reduce the number of subject access requests (SARs) being handled incorrectly by data controllers as 28% of complaints received by the ICO relate to SARs.

Publicity envisaged: There will likely be some level of press coverage of the speech by Crispin Blunt.

There will be participation from key private sector stakeholders during the Targeted Call for Evidence and the ICO's guidance, which will raise the profile of the issue with them.
