

COUNCIL OF EUROPE CONSEIL DE L'EUROPE

Strasbourg, 3 October 2011

T-PD-BUR(2011) 19_en

BUREAU OF THE CONSULTATIVE COMMITTEE OF THE CONVENTION FOR THE PROTECTION OF INDIVIDUALS WITH REGARD TO AUTOMATIC PROCESSING OF PERSONAL DATA [ETS No. 108]

Modernisation of Convention 108: proposals

Directorate General of Human Rights and Legal Affairs

INTRODUCTION

This document sets out the approach and objectives of the Convention's modernisation.

Its content is based on the results of the public consultation process carried out in Spring 2011, the discussions held at the T-PD bureau meetings of March and June as well as contributions from the scientific experts and observers associated to this modernisation work.

The present document aims at giving a first written translation of the outcomes of those discussions and will be subject of further consultations. The T-PD Plenary will examine and discuss those proposals at its forthcoming meeting (29 November - 2 December 2011) will finalise them at the following 2012 Plenary meeting, for subsequent submission to the Committee of Ministers.

EXTRACTS FROM THE REPORT OF THE 24th MEETING OF THE BUREAU OF THE CONSULTATIVE COMMITTEE (28-30 June)

General orientations

It is proposed to:

- maintain the Convention's provisions with more detailed sectoral texts by way of recommendations of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe;
- ensure for consistency and compatibility with the legal framework of the European Union;
- maintain technologically neutral provisions;
- reaffirm the Convention's potential as a universal standard and its open character.

Preamble

An essential balance to strike involves the freedom of expression, which takes on another dimension with the Internet: the various fundamental rights have to be reconciled (to be examined in the explanatory report, with a possible reference to the principle of the public's right of access to administrative documents).

Article 1 – Object and purpose

It is proposed to uphold the right to data protection and to refer to the concept of "jurisdiction" instead of "territory".

Article 2 – Definitions

"Personal data": this definition should not be changed (NB: crucial to ensure consistency with EU) but the explanatory report should be reviewed in order to extend the items relating to this definition (see in particular Recommendation (2010)13 on the protection of individuals with regard to automatic processing of personal data in the context of profiling : 'An individual is not considered "identifiable" if identification requires unreasonable time or effort').

"Automated data file": consensus to abandon this notion which is outdated and is only relevant in relation to non-automated files. Should the scope be extended to manual processing, a reference to "structured files" (see Directive 95/46 EU) may be necessary.

"Automatic processing": this definition, exhaustive at present, should be revised in order to be made open-ended and should in any case incorporate the step of the collection of data (to include, for instance, the consultation and the destruction of data). Reference could furthermore be made in the explanatory report to 'making available' under 'dissemination'.

"Controller of the file": notion to be revised and possibly to be replaced by "controller: (consistency with EU) with a reference to the various levels of responsibility.

New definitions, such as 'processor', 'service provider', 'recipient' or "manufacturer of technical equipment" should be incorporated if specific obligations are foreseen for them.

Article 3 – Scope

It clearly emerges from the replies to the consultation that it is advisable to preserve the comprehensive approach of the Convention, which applies to the public and private sectors alike.

It appears necessary to include an exception for household data processing. It will have to be examined how this shall relate to social networks, blogs etc. which require specific attention.

In respect of manual processing, even if rare, it could be covered in particular to counter the risk of bypassing the conventional obligations.

With regard to legal persons: Parties to the Convention should keep the possibility to extend the scope of the Convention to their data.

Article 4 – Duties of the Parties

The quality of the 'necessary measures' should be scrutinised a priori by the Committee in the framework of transborder flows provisions, in order to ensure that the conditions for the free flow of data are met.

Article 5 – Quality of data

This article should be revised in order to expressly incorporate the principle of proportionality and where necessary to highlight the grounds for a processing to be legitimate.

It was decided to deal with the introduction of new principles ("accountability", "privacy by design" i.e. the obligation to apply the principles of protection as from the designing stage) at a later stage.

Article 6 – Special categories of data

The present definition should be retained while adding new illustrations to the explanatory report underlining the functional aspect (data may become sensitive according to the purpose of the processing considered); this aspect could also be inserted in the article itself.

Article 7 – Data security

Security should apply to data as well as to its processing. The obligation to report security breaches should be introduced, but it is underlined that such an obligation should not become trivial (it should only concern breaches related to a certain volume of data). The conditions of this notification require examination (to whom, individuals, data protection authorities, how and when).

Article 8 – Additional safeguards for the data subject

Access to the origin of the data and to the underlying logic of the processing as well as the right of opposition should be introduced.

Certain hesitations were expressed with regard to the explicit inclusion of a “right to oblivion”. It is proposed to elaborate further the explanatory report in order to underline the link between the relevant provisions of the Convention (article 5.e – length of time of data storage, and article 8.c – right of rectification or erasure of data).

Article 9 – Exceptions and restrictions

For the time being, no amendments are proposed to this article.

Article 10 – Sanctions and remedies

It is decided not to set out in further details this article and to entrust to the Parties the provision of sanctions and available remedies. With regard to the powers of the supervisory authorities, it is underlined that they should be reinforced (ex officio action, intervention before the courts for existing proceedings).

Article 12 – Transborder data flows

This key question will have to be further examined “recognising that it is necessary to reconcile the fundamental values of the respect for privacy and the free flow of information between peoples” (preamble Convention 108). The co-existence of provisions on transborder data flows in both the Convention and article 2 of the additional Protocol (transfer of data to States which are not Parties) will have to be revised and the current provisions need to be examined with a view to agreeing on a new approach which would amend both the Convention and the Protocol.

Articles 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 Mutual assistance

To be discussed.

Articles 18, 19 and 20 – Consultative Committee

A strengthening of the Consultative Committee’s functions and powers should be foreseen. Whether and to what extent this requires additional provisions will be discussed.

TEXT OF THE CONVENTION – PROPOSALS

CURRENT TEXT OF THE CONVENTION	PROPOSALS
Preamble	Preamble
The member States of the Council of Europe, signatory hereto,	unchanged
Considering that the aim of the Council of Europe is to achieve greater unity between its members, based in particular on respect for the rule of law, as well as human rights and fundamental freedoms;	unchanged
Considering that it is desirable to extend the safeguards for everyone's rights and fundamental freedoms, and in particular the right to the respect for privacy, taking account of the increasing flow across frontiers of personal data undergoing automatic processing;	Considering that it is desirable to extend the safeguards for everyone's rights and fundamental freedoms, and in particular the right to the respect for privacy, including the right to control one's own data , taking account of the increasing flow across frontiers of personal data undergoing automatic processing;
Reaffirming at the same time their commitment to freedom of information regardless of frontiers;	Reaffirming at the same time their commitment to freedom of expression, including freedom of information , regardless of frontiers;
Recognising that it is necessary to reconcile the Fundamental values of the respect for privacy and the free flow of information between peoples,	unchanged
	Recognising that it is necessary to reconcile the right to data protection, and particularly respect for privacy, with freedom of expression and information;
	Considering that this convention permits account to be taken, in the implementation of the rules laid down therein, of the principle of the right of access to public documents;
Have agreed as follows:	unchanged
Chapter I – General provisions	Chapter I – General provisions
Article 1 – Object and purpose	Article 1 – Object and purpose
The purpose of this convention is to secure in the territory of each Party for every individual, whatever his nationality or residence, respect for his rights and fundamental freedoms, and in particular his right to privacy, with regard to automatic processing of personal data relating to	The purpose of this convention is to secure within the jurisdiction of each Party for every individual, whatever his nationality or residence, the right to data protection, namely respect for his rights and fundamental freedoms, and in particular his right to privacy, with regard to him ("data protection").	automatic processing of personal data relating to him.

Article 2 – Definitions	Article 2 – Definitions
For the purposes of this convention:
a "personal data" means any information relating to an identified or identifiable individual ("data subject");	Make an addition to the explanatory report specifying in particular that an individual is not considered "identifiable" if identification requires unreasonable time or effort.
b "automated data file" means any set of data undergoing automatic processing;	b "personal data file" (file) means any set of personal data structured and managed in such a way that it is possible to search for data by data subject;
c "automatic processing" includes the following operations if carried out in whole or in part by automated means: storage of data, carrying out of logical and/or arithmetical operations on those data, their alteration, erasure, retrieval or dissemination;	c "data processing" refers to operations carried out on personal data in whole or in part by automated means, and in particular the collection , storage, alteration, erasure, destruction, retrieval or communication of data, or the carrying out of logical and/or arithmetical operations on data; In the explanatory report, mention that communication also covers disclosure and dissemination.
d "controller of the file" means the natural or legal person, public authority, agency or any other body who is competent according to the national law to decide what should be the purpose of the automated data file, which categories of personal data should be stored and which operations should be applied to them.	d "controller" means the natural or legal person, public authority, agency or any other body having decision-making power with respect to data processing. In the explanatory report, specify that decision-making power covers the purposes and conditions of processing, the reasons justifying processing and the choice of data to be processed.
Article 3 – Scope	Article 3 – Scope
1 The Parties undertake to apply this convention to automated personal data files and automatic processing of personal data in the public and private sectors.	1 The Parties undertake to apply this convention to processing of personal data in the public and private sectors as well as to non-automated operations carried out on personal data contained or intended to be part of a file..
2 Any State may, at the time of signature or when depositing its instrument of ratification, acceptance, approval or accession, or at any later time, give notice by a declaration addressed to the Secretary General of the Council of Europe:	unchanged
a that it will not apply this convention to	Delete

certain categories of automated personal data files, a list of which will be deposited. In this list it shall not include, however, categories of automated data files subject under its domestic law to data protection provisions. Consequently, it shall amend this list by a new declaration whenever additional categories of automated personal data files are subjected to data protection provisions under its domestic law;
b that it will also apply this convention to information relating to groups of persons, associations, foundations, companies, corporations and any other bodies consisting directly or indirectly of individuals, whether or not such bodies possess legal personality;	unchanged
c that it will also apply this convention to personal data files which are not processed automatically.	Delete
	d that it will not apply this convention to processing of personal data carried out by a natural person for the exercise of activities which are not-for-profit and are exclusively personal or domestic, unless the data are made accessible to everyone (an indefinite number of people). (Variant: introduce this exception in Article 9 and limit it to certain provisions of the convention) In the explanatory report, possibly specify what is meant by exercise of exclusively personal or domestic activities.
3 Any State which has extended the scope of this convention by any of the declarations provided for in sub-paragraph 2.b or c above may give notice in the said declaration that such extensions shall apply only to certain categories of personal data files, a list of which will be deposited.	3 Any State which has extended the scope of this convention by a declaration provided for in sub-paragraph 2.b above may give notice in the said declaration that the extension shall apply only to certain categories of files, a list of which will be deposited.
4 Any Party which has excluded certain categories of automated personal data files by a declaration provided for in sub-paragraph 2.a above may not claim the application of this convention to such categories by a Party which has not excluded them.	Delete
5 Likewise, a Party which has not made one or other of the extensions provided for in sub-paragraphs 2b and c above may not claim the application of this convention on these points with respect to a Party which has made such extensions.	5 Likewise, a Party which has not made the extension provided for in sub-paragraph 2b above may not claim the application of this convention on this point with respect to a Party which has made such an extension.
6 The declarations provided for in paragraph 2 above shall take effect from the	unchanged

moment of the entry into force of the convention with regard to the State which has made them if they have been made at the time of signature or deposit of its instrument of ratification, acceptance, approval or accession, or three months after their receipt by the Secretary General of the Council of Europe if they have been made at any later time. These declarations may be withdrawn, in whole or in part, by a notification addressed to the Secretary General of the Council of Europe. Such withdrawals shall take effect three months after the date of receipt of such notification.
Chapter II – Basic principles for data protection	Chapter II – Basic principles for data protection
Article 4 – Duties of the Parties	Article 4 – Duties of the Parties
1 Each Party shall take the necessary measures in its domestic law to give effect to the basic principles for data protection set out in this chapter.	unchanged
2 These measures shall be taken at the latest at the time of entry into force of this convention in respect of that Party.	unchanged
Article 5 – Quality of data	Article 5 – Quality of data
Personal data undergoing automatic processing shall be:	Unchanged – except numbering paragraph 1
a obtained and processed fairly and lawfully;	unchanged
b stored for specified and legitimate purposes and not used in a way incompatible with those purposes;	b processed for specified and legitimate purposes and not used in a way incompatible with those purposes; In the explanatory report, give examples of compatible purposes, eg statistical or scientific research purposes, or use for one’s own marketing purposes
c adequate, relevant and not excessive in relation to the purposes for which they are stored;	c adequate, relevant and not excessive in relation to the purposes for which they are processed;
d accurate and, where necessary, kept up to date;	unchanged
e preserved in a form which permits identification of the data subjects for no longer than is required for the purpose for which those data are stored.	e preserved in a form which permits identification of the data subjects for no longer than is required for the purpose for which those data are processed;
	2 The processing of personal data and the choice of the means and methods used must be proportional to the interests, rights and freedoms of the data subjects.

	3 Each Party shall provide that the controller is responsible for ensuring respect for the principles set forth in paragraphs 1 and 2 and, in particular, that he must guarantee that those principles are respected from the initial design stage of the processing operations and carry out a data protection risk analysis before processing personal data.
	5bis Ensuring the legitimacy of processing of personal data
	Each Party shall provide that processing of personal data may not be carried out unless:
	a. it is provided for under domestic law where there is an overriding legitimate interest; (in the explanatory report, explain overriding legitimate interest, particularly with reference to the examples given in Article of Directive 95/46/EC)
	b. the data subject has given his specific, free and informed consent.
Article 6 – Special categories of data	Article 6 – Special categories of data
Personal data revealing racial origin, political opinions or religious or other beliefs, as well as personal data concerning health or sexual life, may not be processed automatically unless domestic law provides appropriate safeguards. The same shall apply to personal data relating to criminal convictions.	Personal data may not be processed for the racial origin, political opinions or religious or other beliefs which they reveal unless domestic law provides appropriate safeguards. The same shall apply to personal data relating to health or sex life, personal data relating to criminal convictions and personal data recognised by a Party as presenting a serious risk to the rights and interests of the data subject, in particular a risk of violation of physical integrity or illegal and arbitrary discrimination.
Article 7 – Data security	Article 7 – Data security
Appropriate security measures shall be taken for the protection of personal data stored in automated data files against accidental or unauthorised destruction or accidental loss as well as against unauthorised access, alteration or dissemination.	1 Appropriate security measures shall be taken against accidental or unauthorised destruction, or loss of personal data, as well as against unauthorised access, alteration or dissemination.
	2 Each Party shall provide that the controller shall notify the supervisory authorities within the meaning of Article 12ter of this convention of any security violations which may seriously interfere with the right to data protection. 3 Each Party shall provide that the controller must design data processing operations in such a way as to minimise the risk of interference with the right to data protection.

	Article 7bis – Transparency of processing
	Each Party shall provide that every controller must guarantee transparency of data processing and in particular provide the data subjects with information concerning at least his identity, the purposes of the processing carried out by him, the recipients of the personal data and the means of exercising the rights set forth in Article 8, as well as any other information necessary to guarantee fair data processing.
Article 8 – Additional safeguards for the data subject	Article 8 – Additional safeguards for the data subject
Any person shall be enabled:	Any person shall be enabled:
a to establish the existence of an automated personal data file, its main purposes, as well as the identity and habitual residence or principal place of business of the controller of the file;	a to establish the existence of data processing , its main purposes, as well as the identity and habitual residence or principal place of business of the controller and the recipients or categories of recipients of the data ;
b to obtain at reasonable intervals and without excessive delay or expense confirmation of whether personal data relating to him are stored in the automated data file as well as communication to him of such data in an intelligible form;	b to obtain at reasonable intervals and without excessive delay or expense confirmation of whether data relating to him are being processed , communication to him of such data in an intelligible form and all available information on the origin of the data ; b' to obtain knowledge of the logic involved in the processing.
c to obtain, as the case may be, rectification or erasure of such data if these have been processed contrary to the provisions of domestic law giving effect to the basic principles set out in Articles 5 and 6 of this convention;	unchanged
d to have a remedy if a request for confirmation or, as the case may be, communication, rectification or erasure as referred to in paragraphs b and c of this article is not complied with.	d to have a remedy if a request for confirmation or, as the case may be, communication, rectification or erasure, or an objection , as referred to in paragraphs b, b', c and e of this article is not complied with.
	e to object at any time and for overriding reasons to processing of personal data concerning him.
Article 9 – Exceptions and restrictions	Article 9 – Exceptions and restrictions
1 No exception to the provisions of Articles 5, 6 and 8 of this convention shall be allowed except within the limits defined in this article.	1 No exception to the provisions of Articles 5 to 8 of this convention shall be allowed except within the limits defined in this article.
2 Derogation from the provisions of Articles 5, 6 and 8 of this convention shall be allowed when such derogation is provided for by the law of the Party and constitutes a necessary	2 Derogation from the provisions of Articles 5 to 8 of this convention shall be allowed when such derogation is provided for by the law of the Party and constitutes a necessary measure in a democratic society in the interests of:	measure in a democratic society in the interests of:

a protecting State security, public safety, the monetary interests of the State or the suppression of criminal offences;	a protecting State security, public safety, the monetary interests of the State or the prevention and suppression of criminal offences; In the explanatory report, specify by means of examples the scope of the provision, particularly as regards freedom of expression and information, the media, secrecy of communication and business or commercial secrecy.
b protecting the data subject or the rights and freedoms of others.	unchanged
3 Restrictions on the exercise of the rights specified in Article 8, paragraphs b, c and d, may be provided by law with respect to automated personal data files used for statistics or for scientific research purposes when there is obviously no risk of an infringement of the privacy of the data subjects.	3 Restrictions on the exercise of the rights specified in Article 8, paragraphs b, b' , c and d and e , may be provided by law with respect to automated personal data files used for statistics or for scientific research purposes when there is obviously no risk of an infringement of the privacy of the data subjects.
Article 10 – Sanctions and remedies	Article 10 – Sanctions and remedies
Each Party undertakes to establish appropriate sanctions and remedies for violations of provisions of domestic law giving effect to the basic principles for data protection set out in this chapter.	unchanged
	Article 10bis – Accountability
	Each Party shall provide that the controller shall:
	a. take all necessary measures to observe the domestic legal provisions giving effect to the principles and obligations of this convention;
	b. establish domestic mechanisms to verify and demonstrate to the data subjects and to the supervisory authorities provided for in Article 12ter of this convention the conformity of the data processing for which he is responsible in relation to the applicable law.
Article 11 – Extended protection	Article 11 – Extended protection
None of the provisions of this chapter shall be interpreted as limiting or otherwise affecting the possibility for a Party to grant data subjects a wider measure of protection than that stipulated in this convention.	unchanged
Chapter III – Transborder data flows	Chapter III – Transborder data flows
Article 12 – Transborder flows of personal data and domestic law	Article 12 – Transborder flows of personal data and domestic law
1 The following provisions shall apply to the transfer across national borders, by whatever medium, of personal data undergoing automatic processing or collected with a view to their being	1 Transfers of personal data between Parties or processing which is carried out within the jurisdiction of several Parties shall not be subject to special conditions insofar as the data

automatically processed.	controllers and data recipients are subject to the provisions of domestic law giving effect to the principles and obligations of this convention.
2 A Party shall not, for the sole purpose of the protection of privacy, prohibit or subject to special authorisation transborder flows of personal data going to the territory of another Party.	2 Nevertheless, each Party shall be entitled to derogate from the provisions of paragraph 1 where:
3 Nevertheless, each Party shall be entitled to derogate from the provisions of paragraph 2:	a. the transfer is made from its territory to the territory of a non-Contracting State through the intermediary of the territory of another Party, in order to avoid such transfers resulting in circumvention of the legislation of the Party referred to at the beginning of this paragraph;
a insofar as its legislation includes specific regulations for certain categories of personal data or of automated personal data files, because of the nature of those data or those files, except where the regulations of the other Party provide an equivalent protection;	b. the Party from which the personal data are transferred is able to invoke non-compliance with the principles and obligations of this convention by the Party in which the recipient of the data is located.
b when the transfer is made from its territory to the territory of a non Contracting State through the intermediary of the territory of another Party, in order to avoid such transfers resulting in circumvention of the legislation of the Party referred to at the beginning of this paragraph.
Article 2 – Transborder flows of personal data to a recipient which is not subject to the jurisdiction of a Party to the Convention (Additional Protocol)	[Article 12bis – Transborder flows of personal data to a recipient not subject to the jurisdiction of a Party to the Convention]
1 Each Party shall provide for the transfer of personal data to a recipient that is subject to the jurisdiction of a State or organisation that is not Party to the Convention only if that State or organisation ensures an adequate level of protection for the intended data transfer.	1 Each Party shall provide that personal data which are processed under its jurisdiction shall enjoy an adequate level of protection based on the principles and obligations of this convention when the data are also processed outside its jurisdiction or the jurisdiction of another Party or are transferred to a recipient subject to the jurisdiction of a state or organisation which is not a Party to the convention.
2 By way of derogation from paragraph 1 of Article 2 of this Protocol, each Party may allow for the transfer of personal data :	2 An adequate level of protection based on the principles and obligations of this convention exists where:
a if domestic law provides for it because of :	a. the state or organisation to which the data are transferred and where they are processed has taken measures under its domestic law ensuring an adequate level of protection based on the principles and obligations of this convention;

– specific interests of the data subject, or	b. the controller responsible for processing or transfer has taken measures to ensure such adequate level of protection, particularly by means of contractual clauses, binding internal rules or similar measures and demonstrates to the competent supervisory authorities within the meaning of Article 12ter of this convention, at their request, the effectiveness of the measures taken.
– legitimate prevailing interests, especially important public interests, or	3 By way of derogation from paragraph 1 of this article, each Party may allow for the transfer of personal data if domestic law provides for it because of:
b if safeguards, which can in particular result from contractual clauses, are provided by the controller responsible for the transfer and are found adequate by the competent authorities according to domestic law.	– specific interests of the data subject,
	– legitimate prevailing interests, especially important public interests.]
	Chapter IIIbis Supervisory authorities
	Article 12ter Supervisory authorities (Art. 1 Additional Protocol)
	1. Each Party shall provide for one or more authorities to be responsible for ensuring compliance with the measures in its domestic law giving effect to the principles of this convention.
	2 a To this end, the said authorities shall have, in particular, powers of investigation and intervention, as well as the power to engage in legal proceedings or bring to the attention of the competent judicial authorities violations of provisions of domestic law giving effect to the principles of this convention.
	b Each supervisory authority shall hear claims lodged by any person concerning the protection of his/her rights and fundamental freedoms with regard to the processing of personal data within its competence.
	3 The supervisory authorities shall exercise their functions in complete independence. For this purpose, they shall have sufficient staff and financial resources and the necessary facilities. They shall not be subject to any external instructions.
	4 Decisions of the supervisory authorities which give rise to complaints may be appealed against through the courts.

	5 In accordance with the provisions of Chapter IV, and without prejudice to the provisions of Article 13 of the convention, the supervisory authorities shall co-operate with one another to the extent necessary for the performance of their duties, in particular by exchanging all useful information, by co-ordinating their investigations or interventions or by carrying out joint actions.
Chapter IV – Mutual assistance	Chapter IV – Mutual assistance
Article 13 – Co-operation between Parties	Article 13 – Co-operation between Parties
1 The Parties agree to render each other mutual assistance in order to implement this convention.	unchanged
2 For that purpose:	unchanged
a each Party shall designate one or more authorities, the name and address of each of which it shall communicate to the Secretary General of the Council of Europe;	a each Party shall designate one or more supervisory authorities within the meaning of Article 12ter of this convention, the name and address of each of which it shall communicate to the Secretary General of the Council of Europe;
b each Party which has designated more than one authority shall specify in its communication referred to in the previous sub-paragraph the competence of each authority.	b each Party which has designated more than one supervisory authority shall specify in its communication referred to in the previous sub-paragraph the competence of each authority.
3 An authority designated by a Party shall at the request of an authority designated by another Party:	unchanged
a furnish information on its law and administrative practice in the field of data protection;	unchanged
b take, in conformity with its domestic law and for the sole purpose of protection of privacy, all appropriate measures for furnishing factual information relating to specific automatic processing carried out in its territory, with the exception however of the personal data being processed.	unchanged
Article 14 – Assistance to data subjects resident abroad	Article 14 – Assistance to data subjects resident abroad
1 Each Party shall assist any person resident abroad to exercise the rights conferred by its domestic law giving effect to the principles set out in Article 8 of this convention.	unchanged
2 When such a person resides in the territory of another Party he shall be given the option of submitting his request through the intermediary of the authority designated by that Party.	When such a person resides in the territory of another Party he shall be given the option of submitting his request through the intermediary of the supervisory authority within the meaning of Article 12ter designated by that Party.

3 The request for assistance shall contain all the necessary particulars, relating inter alia to:	unchanged
a the name, address and any other relevant particulars identifying the person making the request;	unchanged
b the automated personal data file to which the request pertains, or its controller;	b the data processing to which the request pertains, or its controller ;
c the purpose of the request.
Article 15 – Safeguards concerning assistance rendered by designated authorities.	Article 15 – Safeguards concerning assistance rendered by designated authorities
1 An authority designated by a Party which has received information from an authority designated by another Party either accompanying a request for assistance or in reply to its own request for assistance shall not use that information for purposes other than those specified in the request for assistance.	unchanged
2 Each Party shall see to it that the persons belonging to or acting on behalf of the designated authority shall be bound by appropriate obligations of secrecy or confidentiality with regard to that information.	unchanged
3 In no case may a designated authority be allowed to make under Article 14, paragraph 2, a request for assistance on behalf of a data subject resident abroad, of its own accord and without the express consent of the person concerned.	unchanged
Article 16 – Refusal of requests for assistance	Article 16 – Refusal of requests for assistance
A designated authority to which a request for assistance is addressed under Articles 13 or 14 of this convention may not refuse to comply with it unless:	unchanged
a the request is not compatible with the powers in the field of data protection of the authorities responsible for replying;	unchanged
b the request does not comply with the provisions of this convention;	unchanged
c compliance with the request would be incompatible with the sovereignty, security or public policy (ordre public) of the Party by which it was designated, or with the rights and fundamental freedoms of persons under the jurisdiction of that Party.	unchanged
Article 17 – Costs and procedures of assistance	Article 17 – Costs and procedures of assistance
1 Mutual assistance which the Parties render each other under Article 13 and assistance they render to data subjects abroad	unchanged

under Article 14 shall not give rise to the payment of any costs or fees other than those incurred for experts and interpreters. The latter costs or fees shall be borne by the Party which has designated the authority making the request for assistance.
2 The data subject may not be charged costs or fees in connection with the steps taken on his behalf in the territory of another Party other than those lawfully payable by residents of that Party.	unchanged
3 Other details concerning the assistance relating in particular to the forms and procedures and the languages to be used, shall be established directly between the Parties concerned.	unchanged
Chapter V – Consultative Committee.	Chapter V – Consultative Committee
Article 18 – Composition of the committee	Article 18 – Composition of the committee
1 A Consultative Committee shall be set up after the entry into force of this convention.	unchanged
2 Each Party shall appoint a representative to the committee and a deputy representative. Any member State of the Council of Europe which is not a Party to the convention shall have the right to be represented on the committee by an observer.	unchanged
3 The Consultative Committee may, by unanimous decision, invite any non-member State of the Council of Europe which is not a Party to the convention to be represented by an observer at a given meeting.	unchanged
Article 19 – Functions of the committee	Article 19 – Functions of the committee
The Consultative Committee:	unchanged
a may make proposals with a view to facilitating or improving the application of the convention;	unchanged
b may make proposals for amendment of this convention in accordance with Article 21;	unchanged
c shall formulate its opinion on any proposal for amendment of this convention which is referred to it in accordance with Article 21, paragraph 3;	unchanged
d may, at the request of a Party, express an opinion on any question concerning the application of this convention.	unchanged
	e prior to the accession of a State which is not a member of the Council of Europe, shall formulate its opinion on the opportunity for the Committee of Ministers to invite that State to accede to this Convention.

Article 20 – Procedure	Article 20 – Procedure
1 The Consultative Committee shall be convened by the Secretary General of the Council of Europe. Its first meeting shall be held within twelve months of the entry into force of this convention. It shall subsequently meet at least once every two years and in any case when one-third of the representatives of the Parties request its convocation.	unchanged
2 A majority of representatives of the Parties shall constitute a quorum for a meeting of the Consultative Committee.	unchanged
3 After each of its meetings, the Consultative Committee shall submit to the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe a report on its work and on the functioning of the convention.	unchanged
4 Subject to the provisions of this convention, the Consultative Committee shall draw up its own Rules of Procedure.	unchanged
Chapter VI – Amendments	Chapter VI – Amendments
Article 21 – Amendments.	Article 21 – Amendments
1 Amendments to this convention may be proposed by a Party, the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe or the Consultative Committee.	unchanged
2 Any proposal for amendment shall be communicated by the Secretary General of the Council of Europe to the member States of the Council of Europe and to every non-member State which has acceded to or has been invited to accede to this convention in accordance with the provisions of Article 23.	unchanged
3 Moreover, any amendment proposed by a Party or the Committee of Ministers shall be communicated to the Consultative Committee, which shall submit to the Committee of Ministers its opinion on that proposed amendment.	unchanged
4 The Committee of Ministers shall consider the proposed amendment and any opinion submitted by the Consultative Committee and may approve the amendment.	unchanged
5 The text of any amendment approved by the Committee of Ministers in accordance with paragraph 4 of this article shall be forwarded to the Parties for acceptance.	unchanged
6 Any amendment approved in accordance with paragraph 4 of this article shall come into force on the thirtieth day after all Parties have informed the Secretary General of their	unchanged acceptance thereof.

Chapter VII – Final clauses	Chapter VII – Final clauses
Article 22 – Entry into force	Article 22 – Entry into force
1 This convention shall be open for signature by the member States of the Council of Europe. It is subject to ratification, acceptance or approval. Instruments of ratification, acceptance or approval shall be deposited with the Secretary General of the Council of Europe.	unchanged
2 This convention shall enter into force on the first day of the month following the expiration of a period of three months after the date on which five member States of the Council of Europe have expressed their consent to be bound by the convention in accordance with the provisions of the preceding paragraph.	unchanged
3 In respect of any member State which subsequently expresses its consent to be bound by it, the convention shall enter into force on the first day of the month following the expiration of a period of three months after the date of deposit of the instrument of ratification, acceptance or approval.	unchanged
Article 23 – Accession by non-member States	Article 23 – Accession by non-member States
1 After the entry into force of this convention, the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe may invite any State not a member of the Council of Europe to accede to this convention by a decision taken by the majority provided for in Article 20.d of the Statute of the Council of Europe and by the unanimous vote of the representatives of the Contracting States entitled to sit on the committee.	After the entry into force of this convention, the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe may, in light of the opinion formulated by the Consultative Committee according to Article 19.1 , invite any State not a member of the Council of Europe to accede to this convention by a decision taken by the majority provided for in Article 20.d of the Statute of the Council of Europe and by unanimous vote of the representatives of the Contracting States entitled to sit on the Committee of Ministers . This decision shall be taken after having obtained the unanimous agreement of the other States having expressed their consent to be bound by this Convention.
2 In respect of any acceding State, the convention shall enter into force on the first day of the month following the expiration of a period of three months after the date of deposit of the instrument of accession with the Secretary General of the Council of Europe.	unchanged
Article 24 – Territorial clause	Article 24 – Territorial clause
1 Any State may at the time of signature or when depositing its instrument of ratification, acceptance, approval or accession, specify the territory or territories to which this convention	unchanged

shall apply.
2 Any State may at any later date, by a declaration addressed to the Secretary General of the Council of Europe, extend the application of this convention to any other territory specified in the declaration. In respect of such territory the convention shall enter into force on the first day of the month following the expiration of a period of three months after the date of receipt of such declaration by the Secretary General.	unchanged
3 Any declaration made under the two preceding paragraphs may, in respect of any territory specified in such declaration, be withdrawn by a notification addressed to the Secretary General. The withdrawal shall become effective on the first day of the month following the expiration of a period of six months after the date of receipt of such notification by the Secretary General.	unchanged
Article 25 – Reservations	Article 25 – Reservations
No reservation may be made in respect of the provisions of this convention.	unchanged
Article 26 – Denunciation	Article 26 – Denunciation
1 Any Party may at any time denounce this convention by means of a notification addressed to the Secretary General of the Council of Europe.	unchanged
2 Such denunciation shall become effective on the first day of the month following the expiration of a period of six months after the date of receipt of the notification by the Secretary General.	unchanged
Article 27 – Notifications	Article 27 – Notifications
The Secretary General of the Council of Europe shall notify the member States of the Council and any State which has acceded to this convention of:	unchanged
a any signature;	unchanged
b the deposit of any instrument of ratification, acceptance, approval or accession;
c any date of entry into force of this convention in accordance with Articles 22, 23 and 24;	unchanged
d any other act, notification or communication relating to this Convention.	unchanged

INTERNATIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE (ICC)

PROPOSAL TO THE COUNCIL OF EUROPE FOR REVISION OF CONVENTION 108 PROVISIONS ON TRANSBORDER DATA FLOWS

INTRODUCTION

The proposal, which has been drafted by Christopher Kuner and reviewed by Richard Thomas and members of the ICC Task Force on Privacy and the Protection of Personal Data, reflects the following general considerations:

- It was decided to draft a completely new provision, rather than simply combining the two existing ones. Any provision dealing with transborder data flows should be “future proof” and take into consideration the borderless nature of electronic communications and the evolving nature of the Internet.
- The proposal is drafted at a high level, and contains general principles only. Particular effort was made to keep the text clear and concise.
- The proposal may need to be supplemented by provisions in other sections of the Convention dealing with concepts that are not further specified here (e.g., the principle of accountability).
- Among the sources considered in the drafting were the EU Data Protection Directive 95/46; jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights and the European Court of Justice; papers of the Article 29 Working Party; and the Madrid Resolution.
- Explanatory notes are inserted in italics following the provisions to which they refer.

PROPOSED TEXT

Transborder flows of personal data

1. Each Party shall provide that personal data relating to individuals who are located in its territory shall receive an adequate level of protection based on the protections stipulated in this Convention when the data are processed outside its territory, provided that the processing results from an activity directed to such individuals or that otherwise manifests a sufficient connection to such Party.

Note:

- The text avoids using the term “data transfer”. It also does not refer to the “data controller”, so that it applies as well to data processors. While it is difficult in practice to localize the place of data processing, the reference to the processing of data “outside the territory” of a Party was included to make it clear that the provision is intended to apply solely to transborder data flows.
- The notion of an “adequate level of protection” is tied to the protections of Convention 108, and is further specified in sections 2 and 3 below. The term “protections stipulated in this Convention” is taken from current Article 11.
- The provision does not distinguish between data flows to CoE states and to non-CoE states. While this distinction was understandable when the Convention and the Additional Protocol were originally adopted, maintaining it would make the provision overly complex, and it is no longer tenable given the rapid development of the Internet.
- The second part of the sentence (beginning “provided that the processing results...”) specifies that the Convention’s provisions on transborder data flows do not apply when a data processing activity outside the territory of a Party does not manifest a sufficient connection to a Party (such as when an individual merely accesses a web site that is not directed to the individual or the Party in which the individual is located); this is consistent with the judgments of the ECJ in the Lindqvist and Pammer/Alpenhof cases, and with leading decisions of national courts dealing with Internet jurisdiction (e.g., the judgment of the German Federal Supreme Court of 29 March 2011, VI ZR 111/10). Questions such as whether a data processing activity is directed to individuals located in the territory of a Party, or is sufficiently connected to such Party, would be determined under the applicable national law implementing the Convention.

2. An adequate level of protection based on the protections stipulated in this Convention under section 1 may be provided as follows:
 - a. the State in which the organisation processing the personal data is located has been found under applicable domestic or international law to offer adequate protection based on the protections stipulated in this Convention; or
 - b. the organisation or organisations processing the personal data have been found to offer such protection; or

Note: The above two provisions would cover situations where either the State in which the organisation is located, or the organisation processing the data, has been found to offer adequate protection. Adequacy could be determined nationally or internationally (such as via an EU adequacy decision).

- c. the organisation or organisations processing the personal data have implemented appropriate and effective measures for ensuring such protection (such as through the use of contractual clauses, legally-binding internal privacy rules, or other similar measures), and can demonstrate such measures, and their effectiveness, on request from the relevant supervisory authority.

Note: The above provision implements the concept of accountability, and recognises the use of mechanisms such as standard contractual clauses and BCRs. Provided that suitable and effective measures are in place, it is intended to cover situations where processing occurs within or across a single organisation or where the data is transferred to a third party. The reference to “organisation or organisations” in sections 2(b) and 2(c) allows for transfers to multiple entities that have separately or jointly implemented effective protections to cover the data processing.

3. By way of derogation from sections 1 and 2, adequate protection need not be provided in the following cases:
 - a. the individual has given his consent unambiguously to the processing; or
 - b. the processing is necessary for the performance of a contract between the individual and the organisation processing the data or the implementation of precontractual measures taken in response to the individual’s request; or
 - c. the processing is necessary for the conclusion or performance of a contract concluded in the interest of the individual between the organisation processing the data and a third party; or
 - d. the processing is necessary or legally required on important public interest grounds, or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims; or
 - e. the processing is necessary in order to protect the vital interests of the individual.
 - f. Note: The above section 3 reflects Article 26(1)(a)-(e) of the Directive.

APPENDIX/ CURRENT TEXT

Convention 108 (1981):

Article 12 – Transborder flows of personal data and domestic law

1. The following provisions shall apply to the transfer across national borders, by whatever medium, of personal data undergoing automatic processing or collected with a view to their being automatically processed.
2. A Party shall not, for the sole purpose of the protection of privacy, prohibit or subject to special authorisation transborder flows of personal data going to the territory of another Party.
3. Nevertheless, each Party shall be entitled to derogate from the provisions of paragraph 2:
 - a. insofar as its legislation includes specific regulations for certain categories of personal data or of automated personal data files, because of the nature of those data or those files, except where the regulations of the other Party provide an equivalent protection;
 - b. when the transfer is made from its territory to the territory of a non-contracting State through the intermediary of the territory of another Party, in order to avoid such transfers resulting in circumvention of the legislation of the Party referred to at the beginning of this paragraph.

Additional Protocol to Convention 108 (2001):

Article 2 – Transborder flows of personal data to a recipient which is not subject to the jurisdiction of a Party to the Convention

1. Each Party shall provide for the transfer of personal data to a recipient that is subject to the jurisdiction of a State or organisation that is not Party to the Convention only if that State or organisation ensures an adequate level of protection for the intended data transfer.
2. By way of derogation from paragraph 1 of Article 2 of this Protocol, each Party may allow for the transfer of personal data:
 - a. if domestic law provides for it because of :
 - specific interests of the data subject, or
 - legitimate prevailing interests, especially important public interests, or
 - b. if safeguards, which can in particular result from contractual clauses, are provided by the controller responsible for the transfer and are found adequate by the competent authorities according to domestic law.