Introduction

This Issue is part of the "Regular Selective Information Flow" (RSIF). Its purpose is to keep the National Human Rights Structures permanently updated of Council of Europe norms and activities by way of regular transfer of information, which the Directorate of Human Rights carefully selects and tries to present in a user-friendly manner. The information is sent to the Contact Persons in the NHRs who are kindly asked to dispatch it within their offices.

Each Issue covers one month and is sent by the Directorate of Human Rights (DG I) to the Contact Persons a fortnight after the end of each observation period. This means that all information contained in any given issue is between four to eight weeks old.

The selection of the information included in the Issues is made by the "Versailles-St-Quentin Institutions Publiques" research centre (V.I.P., EA 3642 – University of Versailles-St-Quentin-en-Yvelines, France) under the responsibility of the Directorate of Human Rights. It is based on what is deemed relevant to the work of the NHRs (including Ombudsman Institutions, National Human Rights Commissions and Institutes, Anti-discrimination Bodies). A particular effort is made to render the selection as targeted and short as possible. Readers are expressly encouraged to give any feed-back that may allow for the improvement of the format and the contents of this tool.

The preparation of the RSIF, which has been funded so far by the Council of Europe, is supported this year by the "Directoire des Relations Internationales" and the "Versailles St-Quentin Institutions Publiques" research centre of the University of Versailles St-Quentin-en-Yvelines. It is entrusted to Alix Motais de Narbonne, Barbara Sanchez-Cadinot, Sarah Kaczmarczyk, Mariella Sognigbé, Pavlos Aimilios Marinatos and Yohann Ralle, with the technical help of Guillaume Verdier and under the supervision of Thibaut Fleury Graff, Ph.D, Associate Professor at Versailles St-Quentin-en-Yvelines University.

Part I: The activities of the European Court of Human Rights

A. Judgments

1. Judgments deemed of particular interest to the NHRs

The judgments presented under this heading are the ones for which a separate press release is issued by the Registry of the Court as well as other judgments considered relevant for the work of the NHRs. They correspond also to the themes addressed in the Peer-to-Peer Workshops. The judgments are thematically grouped. The information, except for the comments drafted by the Directorate of Human Rights, is based on the press releases of the Registry of the Court.

Some judgments are only available in French.

Please note that the Chamber judgments referred to hereunder become final in the circumstances set out in Article 44 § 2 of the Convention: “a) when the parties declare that they will not request that the case be referred to the Grand Chamber; or b) three months after the date of the judgment, if reference of the case to the Grand Chamber has not been requested; or c) when the panel of the Grand Chamber rejects the request to refer under Article 43”.

Note on the Importance Level:

According to the explanation available on the Court’s website, the following importance levels are given by the Court:

1 = High importance, Judgments which the Court considers make a significant contribution to the development, clarification or modification of its case-law, either generally or in relation to a particular State.

2 = Medium importance, Judgments which do not make a significant contribution to the case-law but nevertheless do not merely apply existing case-law.

3 = Low importance, Judgments with little legal interest - those applying existing case-law, friendly settlements and striking out judgments (unless these have any particular point of interest).

Each judgment presented in section 1 and 2 is accompanied by the indication of the importance level.

- Right to life (Art. 2)

AYDAN V. TURKEY (No. 16281/10) (IN FRENCH ONLY) (No. 16281/10) – Importance 2 – 12 march 2013 – Violations of Article 2 (substantive and procedural) – (i) Domestic authorities’ failure to prove that the use of lethal force had been absolutely necessary and (ii) domestic authorities’ failure to conduct an effective investigation into the death of the applicant’s relative – Violation of Article 6 § 1 – Excessive length of proceedings

The case concerned the accidental death of a passer-by who was shot by a gendarme on the fringes of a demonstration.

Article 2 (substantive)

In the Court’s view, it was not sufficiently established that the attack had been extremely violent. Therefore, it was not established that the use of lethal force, which had caused the death of the applicant’s relative, had been absolutely necessary within the meaning of Article 2. Furthermore, while the domestic courts had granted the gendarme a discharge, the Court considered that the application of such a discharge in this case was incompatible with the terms of Article 2 of the Convention. It therefore found a violation of that Article.

Article 2 (procedural)

The Court held that the authorities had not acted with the requisite diligence. Moreover, the Court considered that the domestic courts should have conducted more detailed inquiries or reassessed the evidence in order to explain the contradictions between the gendarmes' statements and those of the witnesses. Accordingly, the domestic authorities had not conducted an effective investigation into the death of the applicants' relative and there had therefore been another violation of Article 2.

Article 6 § 1

The Court noted that the two sets of proceedings instituted by the applicants had lasted for over seven years and two months and had still not been concluded. The Court considered that the length of the proceedings was excessive, in breach of Article 6 § 1.

Article 41 (just satisfaction)

The Court held that Turkey was to pay EUR 15,000 to the applicants in respect of pecuniary damage, up to EUR 50,000 to the applicants in respect of non-pecuniary damage, and EUR 5,000 to the applicants in respect of costs and expenses.

- III-treatment / Conditions of detention / Deportation (Art. 3)

GÜLAY ÇETİN V. TURKEY (No. 44084/10) (IN FRENCH ONLY) – Importance 2 – 5 February 2013 - Violation of Article 3 – Inadequacy of arrangements for protecting pre-trial detainees with serious illnesses – Violation of Article 3 in conjunction with Article 14 – Discrimination between remand and convicted prisoners – Application of Article 46 – Recommendations made to domestic authorities to avoid new violations

The case concerned a person who complained that she had been kept in prison, initially pending trial and later following her conviction for murder, despite suffering from advanced cancer.

Article 3

The Court differentiated between the pre-trial detention period from the post-trial detention period. Regarding the pre-trial detention, the Court assessed there was a lack of a clear rule in the domestic system requiring judges to have due regard to the prisoner's clinical picture when applying domestic law. Indeed, this led the judges to an interpretation, which breached Article 3. Regarding the post-trial procedure, the Court held that domestic authorities were responsible for many delays in examining the applicant's requests for release based on her health. Therefore the Court concluded that the conditions of the applicant's detention during this time amounted to inhuman and degrading treatment, in breach of Article 3.

Article 3 in conjunction with Article 14

The Court referred in this connection to the Recommendation of the Committee of Ministers on the European Prison Rules, which called for the elimination of all forms of discrimination between remand and convicted prisoners. The Court considered that there had been no legitimate reason to depart from that principle in the applicant's case. Accordingly, the fact that the applicant had not been entitled to the protective measures applicable to convicted prisoners with serious illnesses had amounted to a violation of Article 14 in conjunction with Article 3.

Application of Article 46

The Court advised that Turkish law should afford equivalent protection to people in pre-trial detention and hence put an end to the discrimination they currently faced. Finally, the Court advised to simplify the currently very formal and long procedure for forensic medical examinations.

Article 41 (just satisfaction)

The Court held that Turkey was to pay the applicant's heirs 20,000 euros (EUR) in respect of non-pecuniary damage and EUR 2,000 for costs and expenses.

SALAKHOV AND ISLYAMOVA V. UKRAINE (No. 28005/08) – Importance 2 – 14 march 2013 – Four violations of Article 3 – Inadequate medical care in detention; inadequate medical assistance provided to the applicant; unjustified handcuffing of the applicant in hospital; mental suffering of the applicant’s mother – Violation of Article 2 (substantive and procedural) – (i) Domestic authorities’ failure to protect the life of the applicant and, (ii) to conduct an adequate investigation into the circumstances of his death – Violation of Article 34 – Domestic authorities’ failure to comply promptly with the interim measure indicated by the Court on 17 June 2008

The case concerned the lack of appropriate medical care given to a detainee, who died from AIDS two weeks after he was released from detention.

Article 3

Regarding the domestic authorities’ failure to submit copies of any relevant medical documents in the proceedings, the Court held that the applicant had not received adequate medical assistance for his deteriorating health in the detention centres, even assuming that the authorities had been unaware of his HIV infection. There had accordingly been a violation of Article 3 as regards the medical care in the detention facilities. Moreover, as the domestic authorities had acknowledged themselves, the Court found that the medical assistance provided to the applicant in the hospital was inadequate. There had therefore been another violation of Article 3. Furthermore, the Court found a violation of Article 3 on account of the handcuffing of the applicant in hospital. There was no indication that he had ever behaved violently or attempted to escape. His handcuffing could therefore not be justified by security considerations and in view of his poor state of health it had to be considered inhuman and degrading. Finally, the Court considered that the applicant’s mother had been a victim of inhuman treatment, in violation of Article 3. To reach this conclusion, the Court took numbers of factors into account, including the parent-child bond between her and her son and the activeness of her efforts to save his life.

Article 2 (substantive and procedural)

The Court found that the authorities had not done everything reasonably possible in the circumstances, in a timely manner, to try to save the applicant’s life. There had therefore been a violation of Article 2. Furthermore, the Court held that domestic authorities had failed to account sufficiently for the deterioration of the applicant health and his subsequent death. There had accordingly been a violation of Article 2 on that account as well.

Article 34

The Court held that there was no acceptable explanation for the domestic authorities’ failure to take immediate action to comply with the interim measure. The Court found that domestic authorities had failed to meet their obligations under Article 34.

Article 41 (just satisfaction)

The court held that Ukraine was to pay the applicant EUR 50,000 in her capacity as her son’s successor in the proceedings and EUR 10,000 in her personal capacity in respect of non-pecuniary damage and EUR 925 in respect of costs and expenses.

- Right to liberty and security (Art. 5)

OSTENDORF V. GERMANY (No.15598/08) – Importance 2 – 7 March 2013 – No violation of Article 5 § 1 (right to liberty and security) – Justified placement in police custody of a football supporter to prevent him from taking part in hooligan violence

The case concerned a football supporter’s complaint about his four-hour police custody in order to prevent him from organising and taking part in a violent brawl between football hooligans.

The Court first considered that, despite the relatively short duration of his detention, the applicant had been deprived of his liberty within the meaning of Article 5 § 1.

Article 5 § 1 (c)

The Court held that the applicant’s situation did not fall into the scope of article 5 § 1 (c). His police custody had served purely preventive purposes and was not aimed at bringing him before a judge in a criminal trial. Therefore, the Court disagreed with the domestic government’s opinion that the Court’s case law should be reversed to the effect that Article 5 § 1 (c) should be interpreted to cover also preventive police custody in circumstances such as in the applicant's case. Such an interpretation could not be reconciled with the wording of Article 5 § 1 (c) as a whole, which was to be read in conjunction with Article 5 § 3 (right of a detained person to trial within a reasonable time). Moreover, The Court was not convinced that the State's obligation under Articles 2 and 3 to protect the public from offences should be taken into account in the interpretation of Article 5 § 1 in that it warranted an authorisation of preventive police custody.

Article 5 § 1 (b)

The Court found that the applicant's custody for four hours had been proportionate to the aim of securing the immediate fulfilment of his obligation – which was in the public interest – not to hinder the peaceful running of a sports event involving a large number of spectators. His custody had therefore been justified under Article 5 § 1 (b).

- Right to a fair trial (Art. 6)

GANI V. SPAIN (No. 61800/08) – Importance 2 – 19 February 2013 – No violation of Article 6 §§ 1 and 3 (d) – Fairness of proceedings despite the applicant's inability to question the victim of a rape he had been convicted for

The case concerned a convicted rapist's claim that he had not been given the opportunity to question the victim even though she was the only witness against him.

The Court recalled that admitting statements made by absent witnesses as evidence did not result in a breach of Article 6 and that an overall examination had to be carried out in order to determine whether the applicant's defence rights had been restricted. The Court maintains that the Spanish authorities could not be held responsible for a lack of diligence in this case. Firstly, the applicant's counsel had failed to attend a judicial interview with the victim during the investigative stage of the proceedings; secondly, the victim's statement at the hearing had been interrupted because of severe post-traumatic stress, later confirmed by medical experts. Alternative measures had been taken, however, in order to assure the rights of the defence, including reading out the victim's statements at the hearing and the trial court's thorough assessment of the evidence brought before it.

Therefore, the Court considers that the measures instituted by the Spanish authorities could sufficiently counterbalance the impossibility of the applicant to cross-examine the victim, resulting in a verdict that the applicant's right to a fair trial had not been deprived.

GARCIA MATEOS V. SPAIN (No. 38285/09) (IN FRENCH ONLY) – Importance 2 – 19 February 2013 – Violation of Article 6 § 1 combined with Article 14 – Domestic authorities' failure to remedy discrimination on grounds of sex

The case concerned a supermarket employee who had asked for a reduction in her working time because she had to look after her son, who at the time was under six years old.

The Court observed that the State's Constitutional Court, despite ruling in favour of the applicant by finding a violation of the principle of non-discrimination, had not properly enforced the execution of the decision given by the national courts and that a decision in favour of the applicant was not depriving her of "victim" status unless remedies were taken against this violation. When the applicant submitted a compensation claim because she was no longer qualified for a working-time reduction, her child had passed the age-limit and the Constitutional Court refused her claim without giving any indication about the possibility of taking her claim to other jurisdictions. Therefore from the Court's point of view, the reduction in working time had not been settled on the merits and her claim for compensation (her child having passed the age-limit) was refused according to the Constitutional Court's institutional law that did not provide a compensation right as a result of a violation of a fundamental right. Consequently, the Court found a violation of Article 6 § 1 in conjunction with Article 14.

Article 41(just satisfaction)

The Court held that Spain was to pay the applicant EUR 16,000 in respect of non-pecuniary damage.

VARELA GEIS V. SPAIN (No. 61005/09) (IN FRENCH ONLY) – Importance 2 – 5 March 2013 – Violation of Art. 6 §§ 1 and 3 (a) and (b) – Domestic authorities’ failure to notify to the applicant the amendment of charges against him

A bookshop owner who sold publications about the Holocaust complained that he had been convicted on appeal of “disseminating ideas or doctrines justifying acts of genocide”, an offence not corresponding either to the charges against him or to his conviction at first instance.

The Court acknowledged that the Convention did not impose any special formal requirements as to the manner in which the accused were to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation against them, but the provision of full, detailed information concerning the charges (both the material facts and their legal classification) was nevertheless an essential prerequisite for ensuring that the proceedings were fair and enabling the accused to prepare their defence. Therefore, while it is an undisputed right of the domestic court of appeal to reclassify the alleged offence in the case before it, the domestic court had not informed the applicant of the amended charge before the judgment, which led to the breach of the invoked article.

Under Article 41 (just satisfaction), the Court held that Spain was to pay the applicant EUR 8,000 euros in respect of non-pecuniary damage and EUR 5,000 in respect of costs and expenses.

OLEYNIKOV V. RUSSIA (No 36703/04) – Importance 3 – 14 March 2013 – Violation of Article 6 – Disproportionate rejection by Domestic courts’ of the applicant claim concerning the repayment of a loan

The case concerned a Russian national who complained about the refusal by the Russian courts to examine his claim concerning the repayment of a loan to the Trade representation of North Korea.

The Court held that the limitation of the applicant’s right of access to court had pursued the legitimate aim of promoting good relations between States through the respect of national sovereignty. However, it concluded that the Russian courts had failed to examine whether the nature of the transaction underlying the claim was of a private law nature and to take into account the provisions of international law in favour of restrictive immunity. The Court thus considered that the rejection by the domestic Courts of the applicant’s claim concerning the repayment of his loan had been disproportionate and had impaired the very essence of his right of access to a court, in violation of Article 6 § 1.

The applicant made no claim for compensation of non-pecuniary damage or for costs and expenses. Accordingly, the Court made no such award under Article 41 (just satisfaction).

- Right to respect for private and family life (Art. 8)

B. V. ROMANIA (No. 1285/03) (IN FRENCH ONLY) – Importance 2 – 19 February 2013 – Two violations of Article 8 – Improperness of the psychiatric confinement of the applicant; deprivation of the applicant’s right to take part in the decision-making process concerning the placement of her children

This case concerned the psychiatric confinement of a mother and the placement of her two minor children in residential care as a result of that decision.

The Court pointed out that there had been numerous precedents of improper confinement of individuals in Romania with psychiatric disorders, in spite of recent encouraging legislative changes in favour of patients’ rights mainly by enhancing the cooperation between hospital facilities and the competent authority in cases where there was no legal representative. In this case, however, the just balance between the interests of the person suffering from psychiatric disorders and other legitimate interests was not established. The Court noted a number of omissions questioning the procedure, which led to the compulsory admission of the applicant to the hospital. Thus, there was no evidence to suggest that the medical committee responsible for confirming the confinement measure had been in accordance with domestic law, nor was there any indication that the applicant was notified by the relevant confinement decision. There had therefore been a violation of Article 8 of the Convention.

Regarding the placement in care of her children, the Court observed the absence of special protection measures, especially through the official appointment of a lawyer, the designation of a guardian, or the impossibility of the applicant to have regular contact with the social workers, a contact that would have been the best mean for the applicant to communicate her opinion to the authorities. Therefore, there had been a further violation of Article 8.

Under Article 41 (just satisfaction), the Court held that Romania was to pay the applicant EUR 10,000 in respect of non-pecuniary damage.

RAW AND OTHERS V. FRANCE (No. 10131/11) (IN FRENCH ONLY) – Importance 2 – 7 March 2013 – Violation of Art. 8 - Domestic authorities’ failure to comply with an order to return children to their mother in the United Kingdom

The case concerned the failure to execute a judgment confirming an order to return underage children to their mother in the United Kingdom, their divorced parents having shared residence rights. The children wished to stay with their father in France.

The Court noted the rapidity with which the French authorities reacted once the procedure provided for by the Hague Convention had been launched. Thus, the Court acknowledged that the French authorities had used various methods to convince the father to cooperate in organising the children’s return to the United Kingdom. However, the Court emphasised that the French authorities gradually reduced their activity. Besides, the Court did not dispute the domestic authorities’ decision to give priority to an approach based on cooperation and negotiation rather than coercive measures against the father, it put forward that the domestic authorities had not taken all of the measures that they could reasonably have been demanded of them to facilitate execution of the domestic Court of Appeal’s judgment. Finally, the Court held that the children’s opinion had to be taken into account when applying the Hague Convention and Brussels Regulation II bis, but their objections were not necessarily sufficient to make a decision on their interests.

Just satisfaction (Article 41)

The Court held that France was to pay the applicants jointly EUR 5,000 in respect of non-pecuniary damage and EUR 5,500 in respect of costs and expenses.

BERNH LARSEN HOLDING AS AND OTHERS V. NORWAY (No. 24117/08) – Importance 2 – 14 march 2013 – No violation of Article 8 – Legitimate tax authorities’ request for company to provide copy of data stored in computer servers used jointly by several companies

The case concerned the complaint by three Norwegian companies about a decision of the tax authorities ordering tax auditors to be provided with a copy of all data on a computer server used jointly by the three companies.

The Court found that effective and adequate safeguards against abuse had been in place and a fair balance had been struck between the companies’ right to respect for “home” and “correspondence” and their interest in protecting the privacy of persons working for them, on the one hand, and the public interest in ensuring efficient inspection for tax assessment purposes, on the other hand. The Court held in particular that if the domestic relevant provisions did not confer on the tax authorities an unlimited discretion, the domestic measure had in part been made necessary by the applicant companies’ own choice to opt for “mixed archives” on a shared server. There had accordingly been no violation of Article 8.

- Freedom of expression (Art. 10)

EON V. FRANCE (IN FRENCH ONLY) (No. 26118/10) – Importance 2 – 14 March 2013 – Violation of Article 10 – Disproportionate criminal penalty imposed on the applicant for having insulted the President of France

The case concerned the applicant’s conviction for insulting the President of France. The applicant had waved a placard reading “Casse-toi, pov’con” (“Get lost, you sad prick”), a phrase uttered by the President himself several months previously.

The Court firstly held that the applicant’s conviction had amounted to “interference by public authority” with his right to freedom of expression. As the applicant’s criticisms had been political in nature, there was therefore little scope under Article 10 for restrictions on freedom of expression in the political sphere. Moreover, the applicant had chosen to adopt a satirical approach. The Court thus held that criminal penalties for such a conduct were likely to have a chilling effect on satirical contributions to discussion of matters of public interest, such discussion being fundamental to a democratic society. The criminal penalty imposed on the applicant had been disproportionate to the aim pursued and unnecessary in a democratic society. There had accordingly been a violation of Article 10.

Under Article 41 (just satisfaction), the Court held that the finding of a violation of Article 10 constituted sufficient just satisfaction for the non-pecuniary damage sustained by the applicant.

4. Length of proceedings cases

The judgments listed below are based on a classification which figures in the Registry's press release.

The role of the NHRs may be of particular relevance in that respect as well, as these judgments often reveal systemic defects, which the NHRs may be able to fix with the competent national authorities.

With respect to the length of non-criminal proceedings cases, the reasonableness of the length of proceedings is assessed in the light of the circumstances of the case and with reference to the following criteria: the complexity of the case, the conduct of the applicant and the relevant authorities and what was at stake for the applicant in the dispute (See for instance Cocchiarella v. Italy [GC], no. 64886/01, § 68, published in ECHR 2006, and Frydlender v. France [GC], no. 30979/96, § 43, ECHR 2000-VII).

C. The communicated cases

The European Court of Human Rights publishes on a weekly basis a list of the communicated cases on its website. These are cases concerning individual applications which are pending before the Court. They are communicated by the Court to the respondent State's Government with a statement of facts, the applicant's complaints and the questions put by the Court to the Government concerned. The decision to communicate a case lies with one of the Court's Chamber which is in charge of the case. A selection of those cases is proposed below.

NB: The statements of facts and complaints have been prepared by the Registry (solely in one of the official languages) on the basis of the applicant's submissions. The Court cannot be held responsible for the veracity of the information contained therein.

Please note that the Irish Human Rights Commission (IHRC) issues a monthly table on priority cases before the European Court of Human Rights with a focus on asylum / immigration, data protection, anti-terrorism / rule of law and disability cases for the attention of the European Group of NHRIs with a view to suggesting possible amicus curiae cases to the members of the Group. Des Hogan from the IHRC can provide you with these tables (dhogan@ihrc.ie).

Part IV: The work of other Council of Europe monitoring mechanisms

A. European Social Charter (ESC)

The decision on the merits of the complaint No. 68/2010 European Council of Police Trade Unions (CESP) v. France became public (06.03.2013)

In this case, registered on 18 May 2011, the complainant trade union alleged that the situation in France was not in conformity with Article 4 (right to a fair remuneration) of the Revised European Social Charter (Read more).

B. European Committee for the Prevention of Torture and inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (CPT)

[No work deemed relevant for the NHRs for the period under observation]

C. European Committee against Racism and Intolerance (ECRI)

ECRI published conclusions on the implementation of its priority recommendations in respect of Albania, Austria, Estonia and the United Kingdom (19.02.2013)

ECRI published conclusions on the implementation of a number of priority recommendations made in its country reports on Albania, Austria, Estonia and the United Kingdom, which had been released in 2010 (Read more).

ECRI published new report on Liechtenstein (19.02.2013)

ECRI published its fourth report on Liechtenstein. ECRI's Chair, Ms Eva Smith, said that, while there were positive developments, some issues of concern remained, including the legislation on Foreigners and the absence of a comprehensive civil and administrative legal framework aimed at combating racial discrimination in all fields of life (Read more – read the report: [\[EN\]](#) – [\[FR\]](#) – [\[DE\]](#)).

ECRI published new report on Ireland (19.02.2013)

ECRI published its fourth report on Ireland. ECRI's Chair, Ms Eva Smith, welcomed positive developments, but regretted that a number of concerns persisted. For example, a single protection determination procedure for persons in need of a protection status had not been adopted in Ireland and asylum seekers might not engage in paid employment (Read more – read the report: [\[EN\]](#) – [\[FR\]](#)).

ECRI to prepare report on Romania (14.03.2013)

A delegation of ECRI visited Romania from 4 to 8 March 2013 as the first step in the preparation of a monitoring report. During its visit, ECRI's delegation gathered information on the implementation of the recommendations it made to the authorities in its 2005 report and discussed new issues that had emerged since (Read more).

D. Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities (FCNM)

The Advisory Committee adopted opinions on Switzerland, Kosovo* and Bosnia and Herzegovina (07.03.2013)

The Advisory Committee on the FCNM adopted three opinions under the third cycle of monitoring the implementation of this convention. The Opinion on Switzerland was adopted on 5 March 2013, the Opinion on Kosovo* was adopted on 6 March 2013 and the Opinion on Bosnia and Herzegovina was adopted on 7 March 2013. They are restricted for the time being. The opinions will be submitted to the Committee of Ministers, which is to adopt conclusions and recommendations (See the opinions).

All reference to Kosovo, whether to the territory, institutions or population, in this text shall be understood in full compliance with United Nations Security Council Resolution 1244 and without prejudice to the status of Kosovo.*

Serbia: receipt of the third cycle State Report (14.03.2013).

Serbia submitted on 14 March 2013 its third state report, pursuant to Article 25, paragraph 2, of the FCNM. It is now up to the Advisory Committee to consider it and adopt an opinion intended for the Committee of Ministers (Read the report: [\[EN\]](#) – [\[SR\]](#)).

E. Group of States against Corruption (GRECO)

Addendum to the Compliance Report on Austria was published (19.02.2013).

This was the joint first and second evaluation round (Read the report).

GRECO praised UK parliament, judges and prosecutors for taking corruption prevention seriously (06.03.2013).

“Nothing emerged during the current evaluation which could indicate any element of corruption in relation to judges, nor is there evidence of judicial decisions being influenced in an inappropriate manner”, according to the 46-page report. In this context, the report also emphasised transparency in the judicial system and a lack of delays in handling cases by judges, stressing that the European Court of Human Rights had only found 22 cases since 1975 of “undue delays of judicial proceedings” (Read more – Read the report).

Second Compliance Report on the United Kingdom was published (06.03.2013).

This was the third evaluation round (Read the report).

Compliance report on Serbia was published (06.03.2013).

This report is the third evaluation round (Read the report).

Addendum to the Compliance Report on the Russian Federation was published (15.03.2013).

This report was the joint first and second evaluation round (Read the report).

F. Committee of Experts on the Evaluation of Anti-Money Laundering Measures and the Financing of Terrorism (MONEYVAL)

MONEYVAL report on the 4th round assessment visit in Republic of Moldova was published (18.02.2013)

The report was adopted at MONEYVAL’s 40th Plenary Meeting (Strasbourg, 3 - 7 December 2012). The MONEYVAL 4th cycle of assessments was a follow-up round, in which important FATF

Recommendations have been re-assessed, as well as all those for which the state concerned received "Non-Compliant" (NC) or "Partially Compliant" (PC) ratings in its 3rd round report. This report on Moldova was not, therefore, a full assessment against the FATF 40 Recommendations and 9 Special Recommendations but was an update on major issues in the AML/CFT system in Moldova. According to MONEYVAL's procedures, Republic of Moldova will have to submit a follow-up report on the implementation of the report's recommendations by December 2014 (Read the report).

G. Group of Experts on Action against Trafficking in Human Beings (GRETA)

B. Recommendations and Resolutions adopted by the Committee of Ministers

[No work deemed relevant for the NHRs for the period under observation]

C. Other news of the Committee of Ministers

Council of Europe high officials attended UN Commission on Status of Women (04.03.2013)

Gilbert Saboya Sunyé, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Andorra and Chairman of the Committee of Ministers, Jean-Claude Mignon, President of the Parliamentary Assembly, and Gabriella Battaini-Dragnoni, Deputy Secretary General, addressed the UN Commission on the Status of Women, to promote the Istanbul Convention as an efficient and practical tool for governments to prevent and combat violence against women and domestic violence. In her speech, the Deputy Secretary General stressed that the Convention was drafted in Europe, but is not meant for Europe only. Any state can accede to it or use it as a model for national and regional legislation and policies. High-level bilateral meetings were also on the agenda of the Council of Europe high officials' visit to New York. A side event on the Convention's added value was organised by the Council of Europe and the French Permanent mission to the UN, with the participation of Najat Vallaud-Belkacem, Minister for Women's Rights and Government Spokesperson of France, and Lakshmi Puri, Assistant Secretary-General of the United Nations and Deputy Executive Director of UN Women (Read the Istanbul Convention – Read the speech by Gilbert Saboya Sunyé [in French only]).

Statement of the Committee of Ministers on recent executions in Japan and the United States (13.03.2013)

At the meeting of the Ministers' Deputies on 13 March 2013, the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe adopted the following statement: "The Committee of Ministers deplores the executions which have recently taken place in Japan and in the United States of America, observer States to the Council of Europe. These executions run counter to the growing trend against the death penalty at the international level as shown by the latest resolution on the moratorium on the use of the death penalty adopted at the United Nations. The Committee of Ministers reiterates its unequivocal opposition to capital punishment in all places and in all circumstances. It remains determined to continue its efforts towards global abolition and calls again on the Japanese and American authorities to put an end to this inhumane practice" (Read the statement).

Part VI: The parliamentary work

A. Resolutions and Recommendations of the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe (PACE)

NATURE OF THE TEXT	TEXT NUMBER	OBJECT	DATE
RESOLUTION	1923	Reinforcing the selection processes for experts of key Council of Europe human rights monitoring mechanisms. In consideration of the fact that the credibility of the Council of Europe depends on the efficacy and quality of its key human rights monitoring mechanisms, the PACE asserted that their members should be chosen only for their competence and relevant experience. The PACE proposed general minimum standards for the selection procedure. (Read more)	8 March 2013
	1924	Industrial heritage in Europe. The PACE recalled Europe's pioneering role in global industrialisation and considered that the effective protection of the European industrial heritage would require a European label. The PACE, calling for continuous encouragement of public involvement and volunteer work that generates awareness and appreciation of the value of the industrial heritage, supported the campaign of the European Federation of Associations of Industrial and Technical Heritage (E-FAITH) calling for a European Industrial Heritage Year in 2015. (Read more)
RECOMMENDATION	2012	Reinforcing the selection processes for experts of key Council of Europe human rights monitoring mechanisms. The Parliamentary Assembly referred to Resolution 1923 (2013) on the same subject and invited the Committee of Ministers to take into account its recommendations therein with respect to the reinforcement of national selection procedures and the quality of experts. Also, the PACE emphasised that the rules, which guarantee the independence of human rights monitoring bodies should provide for the withdrawal or the dismissal of an expert, found to be in a conflict of interest situation. ➤ Themes

“The promise to end violence against women is a commitment which must be honoured” (05.03.2013)

Jean Claude Mignon, President of the PACE, issued a declaration saying, “the promise to end violence against women is a commitment which must be honoured”. He pointed out the fact that the Istanbul Convention provides states with the means of doing so. Jean Claude Mignon said the Council of Europe has a major instrument at its disposal, namely the Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence, also known as the Istanbul Convention, which is the first binding text combining all the necessary ingredients: preventing violence, protecting victims, prosecuting those responsible and implementing integrated policies (Side event at the 57th Session of the Commission on the Status of Women)

Jean-Claude Mignon and Ban Ki-moon reiterated their desire to work together (06.03.2013)

Jean-Claude Mignon, PACE President, during his talks in New York with Ban Ki-moon, the UN Secretary General, and Lakshmi Puri, Deputy Director of UN Women, stated his desire to launch a joint appeal to as many countries as possible to ratify the Istanbul Convention to ensure that this instrument can come into force as soon as possible. He also warmly welcomed the COMMIT initiative launched by UN Women, under which a number of Council of Europe countries have already undertaken to ratify the Istanbul Convention. Jean-Claude Mignon and Ban Ki-moon reiterated their determination to work together on a number of conflicts in Europe and its neighbourhood and stressed that both organisations share the same values, with a common foundation, namely respect for human rights and the aspiration to peace (Read more – UN Women’s Website : EN – FR – ES)

Preserving European industrial heritage (08.03.2013)

In a resolution (1924) adopted by the Standing Committee meeting in Paris, the PACE has made a series of practical recommendations to member States with a view to preserving Europe’s industrial heritage. To ensure that such protection is effective, the PACE has proposed that a European label for industrial heritage be developed. The PACE has also invited the EU and UNESCO to consider the possibility of launching, together with the Council of Europe, a European Industrial Heritage Year in 2015 (Read more)

Internet and politics: warning against the risk of manipulation and populist excesses (11.03.2013)

Anne Brasseur, rapporteur on the subject of “Internet and politics” said at the end of a hearing on Internet and politics held by the Culture Committee in Paris, that since the Internet belongs to all the participants who make it up it does not actually belong to anybody, which means that it cannot be controlled as such and could be regarded as an area of absolute freedom. However, this apparent total freedom can lead to excesses. She notably drew attention to the problems linked to the digital divide, which risked generating a new form of exclusion and to the risk of Internet being hijacked by the authorities as a tool for controlling their citizens to the extent of actually negating the freedoms which the Internet seeks to serve as a vehicle for. (Read more)

The Committee on Culture in favour of appointing a European ombudsperson to ensure that the rights of young people are respected and protected (13.03.2013)

PACE’s Committee on Culture, Science, Education and Media, meeting in Paris, adopted a draft recommendation on “Young people’s access to fundamental rights” on the basis of a report by Michael Connarty, in which it pointed out that education is “a pillar of youth empowerment” and that measures must be taken rapidly to allow young people to make a successful start to their working lives. The committee underlined the importance of transversal policies and co-operation in this field and proposed that the Committee of Ministers be asked to appoint a European ombudsperson “to ensure that the rights of young people are respected and protected” (Read more – Read the draft recommendation – Read the report on Young Europeans: an urgent educational challenge).

Protecting on-line consumers: 30 million cyber-attacks in February 2013 alone (13.03.2013)

Greater awareness, transparency and accountability are essential in order to improve security in cyberspace, according to rapporteur Axel Fischer, speaking at a hearing organised by PACE’s Culture Committee in Paris, on “Improving user protection and security in cyberspace”. He emphasised that, while it is possible to impose a transparency requirement on commercial service providers and intermediaries, this may be more difficult where private social networks and user-generated content are concerned. He said there were 30 million attacks in cyberspace in the month of February alone, which may be giving an idea of the extent of the problem of consumer protection on the Internet. The rapporteur also proposed an agreement on a list of prohibited commercial practices and on pan-European benchmarking of quality standards in the commercial sector (Read more).

PACE parliamentary network in Berlin compared national strategies on child sex abuse (15.03.2013)

Working with people who have the potential to become abusers to stop them ever harming children and setting up “children’s houses” for child-friendly justice were among a number of innovative approaches to tackling child sex abuse discussed at a meeting of PACE’s ONE in FIVE network in Berlin the 14th March 2013. Participants also discussed the need for better data collection on where and how child abuse is taking place, how resources should be divided between addressing past abuse and preventing it in the future, and the need to anchor children’s rights in national constitutions (Read more).

➤ Countries

Armenia: Armenian election generally well-administered and fundamental freedoms respected, but some key concerns remain (19.02.2013)

Armenia’s presidential election was generally well-administered and was characterised by a respect for fundamental freedoms, including those of assembly and expression, concluded the delegation on international election observation. At the same time, a lack of impartiality on the part of the public administration and the misuse of administrative resources resulted in a blurring of the distinction between the activities of the state and those of the ruling party, the statement said (Read more).

Hungary: LGBT people’s rights: PACE rapporteur discussed developments in Hungarian legislation (01.03.2013)

Håkon Haugli, PACE rapporteur on “Tackling discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity”, ended a three-day fact-finding visit to Hungary during which discussions focused on the developments in Hungarian legislation and their possible impact on the situation of LGBT people, as well as on the implementation of the existing anti-discrimination regulations (Read more).

Hungary: PACE co-rapporteurs expressed their concerns about proposed Constitutional amendments in Hungary (06.03.2013)

Following their visit to Budapest from 25 to 27 February 2013, the co-rapporteurs of the PACE for the opinion on the opening of a monitoring procedure in respect of Hungary, Kerstin Lundgren and Jana Fischerová, have expressed their concern about the recently proposed amendments to the Hungarian Constitution (the so-called fourth amendment). They declared being concerned about the reintroduction, in this amendment, of a number of provisions that have been declared unconstitutional by the Constitutional Court of Hungary, and which the Venice Commission has indicated run counter to European standards (Read more – Motion signed by the 24 members of the Assembly).

Romania: Jean-Claude Mignon: ‘Acceptance of cohabitation in Romania reflects that country’s democratic maturity’ (26.02.2013)

PACE President Jean-Claude Mignon, concluding an official two-day visit to Bucharest, said that the acceptance of political cohabitation reflects Romania’s democratic maturity. Even if problems persist, for example in the fight against corruption, Mr Mignon noted the considerable progress achieved, and declared being convinced that Romania is destined to play a more important role in Europe in the future (Read more).

PACE President addresses the Romanian parliament (26.02.2013)

Speaking in the Romanian parliament, Jean-Claude Mignon, President of the PACE, welcomed “Romania’s contribution to stability in the region”. Referring to last summer’s political crisis, the President said to be pleased that the country had managed to settle its differences peacefully, seeing this as a “sign of democratic maturity” which he had “never doubted”. He also welcomed the “positive developments concerning Romania’s relations with the European Court of Human Rights”. (Read more – Read the speech [\[in French only\]](#))

Serbia: PACE President supports Serbia on the path to European integration (12.03.2013)

In his speech to the Serbian National Assembly, the PACE President Jean-Claude Mignon welcomed the major progress made by Serbia in honouring the commitments and obligations it entered into upon becoming a member of the Council of Europe. However, he added that there are still some areas where further efforts are required, and pointed out the necessity of resolving the situation regarding Kosovo which remains a sensitive issue, in order to sustain peace and reconciliation in the region (Read more – Speech of Jean Claude Mignon to the Serbian National Assembly [\[in French only\]](#)).

Tunisia: The transition process in Tunisia must not be jeopardised, said PACE rapporteur (21.02.2013)

Anne Brasseur, rapporteur of the PACE on Tunisia, endorsed the statement made by Jean Claude Mignon, President of the PACE, and condemned the murder of Chokri Belaid, leader of one of the opposition parties, aimed at destabilising the democratic transition process in Tunisia. As PACE rapporteur supporting the Tunisian revolution, called on all political stakeholders to act responsibly and constitute a stable government in order to honour the expectations of all Tunisians who made the revolution because they want to turn Tunisia into a democratic state (Read more).

Ukraine: PACE rapporteur said status of Tymoshenko and Lutsenko should be tested against definition of ‘political prisoner’ adopted by PACE (21.02.2013)

Pieter Omtzigt, at the end of a three-day information visit to Ukraine (19-21 February 2013), during which he met Mr Lutsenko in prison, stated it is urgent to address the status of former Prime Minister Yulia Tymoshenko and of the former Interior Minister Yuri Lutsenko as ‘political prisoners’ within the meaning of the definition adopted by the PACE in October 2012. He pointed out that Resolution 1862 (2012), had already called on the President of Ukraine to consider all legal means available for him to release Ms Tymoshenko and Mr Lutsenko, and indicated that if these demands were not met it could consider possible sanctions (Read more – Resolution 1862)

PACE rapporteurs strongly criticised the revocation of the parliamentary mandate of Ukrainian opposition MP Serhiy Vlasenko (07.03.2013)

The monitoring co-rapporteurs for Ukraine of the PACE, Mailis Reps and Marietta de Pourbaix-Lundin, together with the Rapporteur on “Keeping political and criminal responsibility separate”, Pieter Omtzigt, have jointly expressed their deep concern and disappointment at the revocation of the parliamentary mandate of Ukrainian opposition MP Serhiy Vlasenko by a decision of the Ukrainian High Administrative Court. The three rapporteurs asserted this “raises the spectre that Mr Vlasenko was being punished for being a political ally and legal adviser to jailed former Prime Minister Yulia Tymoshenko”. The monitoring co-rapporteurs for Ukraine of the PACE also announced their intention to visit Ukraine the 4 and 5 April in order to discuss the case of Mr Vlasenko with the competent authorities (Read more).

➤ Countries

The Czech Republic: Stronger efforts needed to end segregation of Roma (21.02.2013)

The Commissioner, releasing a report based on his visit carried out on 12-15 November 2012 said that in spite of encouraging steps undertaken by the authorities, such as integration strategies, segregation of Roma children, notably at school, remained a serious human rights concern in the Czech Republic (Read more – Read the comments of the Czech Republic).

Concerted efforts are needed to achieve progress on human rights protection in the Republic of Moldova (08.03.2013)

At the end of his four-day visit in Moldova, Nils Muižnieks, Council of Europe Commissioner for Human Rights said that the Republic of Moldova needs to continue its efforts to strengthen the independence, integrity and impartiality of the judiciary, while placing human rights at the forefront of on-going reforms. He welcomed the National Human Rights Action Plan as a positive step, but pointed out the need to ensure better communication about it, both internally and externally (Read More).

Europe should not fear migrants (15.03.2013)

The Commissioner Nils Muižnieks addressed a speech opening the conference “Immigration – a source of wealth and duties for Europe“ organised in Brussels by the French Economic, Social and Environmental Council, the European Economic and Social Committee, and the Council of Europe. He noted that migration continues to be a hot topic for many European countries, torn in a tug of war between the need for migrants, notably due to the demographic crisis of the native populations and the shortage of supply in workforce, on one hand, and a widespread fear of migrants, on the other hand (Read the speech).
