The North-South Centre

The mission of the North South Centre of the Council of Europe, also known as the European Centre for Global Interdependence and Solidarity, is laid out in Resolution (89) 14 of 16 November 1989 and Resolution (93) 51 of 21 October 1993 of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe. According to the statutes of the Centre, its aim is to provide a framework for European co-operation for the purpose of increasing public awareness of global interdependence issues and to promote policies of solidarity in conformity with the aims and principles of the Council of Europe. The North-South Centre is often described as the Council of Europe's window to the world, because its purpose is to assert the validity of the values upheld by the Council beyond the European continent.

The work of the North-South Centre (NSC) of the Council of Europe (CoE) is based on the conviction that global education is a holistic education that opens people's eyes to the realities of the world, encouraging them to bring about a world of greater justice, equity and human rights for all. With this in view, global education encompasses development education, human rights education, education for sustainability, education for peace and conflict prevention and intercultural education, all of which represent the global dimensions of education for democratic citizenship. The Centre's objective is to facilitate development, enhance and sustain strategies and capacity-building for global education in the member states of the Council of Europe as well as on a global level, targeting institutions and practitioners, both in the formal and non-formal sector.

Building on the work developed by the NSC for the promotion of global education, a Recommendation was adopted in May 2011 by the CoE Committee of Ministers to support global education in the CoE member states<sup>1</sup>.

In 2012, the 2nd European Congress on Global Education: Education, Interdependence and Solidarity in a Changing World gathered over 200 stakeholders in Lisbon to assess the work achieved since the first Global Education Congress held in Maastricht in 2002, which established a European strategy framework for improving and increasing global education in Europe to the year 2015 (Maastricht Declaration) and to work on a set of strategic recommendations to tackle issues at stake.

The Lisbon European Congress on Global Education strategic recommendations covered the following five areas of work: 1) national strategy development and implementation; 2) curricular reform; 3) continuing professional development of educators; 4) quality support and monitoring; 5) campaigning and outreach.

Global Education Partnership

The NSC and the European Commission signed a Joint Management Agreement (JMA) in November 2008 for a period of three years (2009-2011), later extended to 2012. This JMA aimed at contributing to the efforts of the international community to strengthen public understanding and critical support for global and development education. The project was based on two main pillars: to strengthen global/development education (GE/DE) in the new member states of the European Union and to promote Africa-Europe youth cooperation in the context of the EU-Africa Strategy, targeting mainly civil society actors and local authorities. The project was coordinated by the NSC in close collaboration with national implementing partners – namely national civil society platforms – and in cooperation with CONCORD and the European Youth Forum. The project worked together with already existing capacity building initiatives in the field of global or development education in Central and Eastern Europe, such as the DEEEP and TRIALOG projects and built upon these experiences and accumulated competences. Moreover, it complemented the work of the European Multi-Stakeholder Steering Group on Development Education (MSH) and aimed to put the European Development Education Consensus into practice.

In the framework of this JMA, a series of national seminars were organised during which international guests and national stakeholders, from decision-makers to civil society representatives and educators, assessed the state of the art in the field of GE/DE in respective countries and identified issues at stake. The purpose of these meetings was to facilitate a multi-stakeholder dialogue, to learn from existing experiences, and to facilitate a coordinated work between decision-makers, civil society representatives and educators in the planning of a national strategy or of an action plan for the promotion of GE/DE in respective countries. This peer-learning methodology was subsequently complemented by a series of regional seminars for the Baltic Sea countries, the South East Europe/Mediterranean countries and the Visegrad countries.

In the meantime a new JMA has been signed for the period 2013-15 and its programme of activities has been extended to EU new and candidate countries, hence foreseeing GE/DE kick-off seminars in Croatia, the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Iceland, Montenegro, Serbia and Turkey.

The first kick-off seminar was successfully held in Montenegro in May 2013.

The second kick-off seminar was held in the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia in May 2014.

Objective of the Meeting

To launch the process related to the strengthening of GE/DE policies in Serbia, the NSC will organise a kick-off event in close collaboration with the Center for Youth Work. The objective of the meeting is to bring together all relevant national stakeholders in the field of education and global development education, as well as regional and international guests, in a consultation process.

In parallel, over the period 2013-15 national seminars will be held in the other three candidate countries while three regional seminars will be organised in the Baltic Sea region, the South East Europe/Mediterranean region and the Visegrad region. Concluding this phase, a third GE pan-European congress is foreseen in 2015.

The seminar in Serbia, like the three other national seminars planned in Croatia, Iceland and Turkey, and those realised in Montenegro (2013) and in the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia (2014), should strategically contribute to the development of global development education in the candidate countries by bringing together state and non-state key actors in GE/DE. The seminar should produce a national report on the state of GE/DE and initiate a national strategy process, while contributing to the European GE/DE multi stakeholder process and to the implementation of the recommendations of the Lisbon Global Education Congress. The results of the seminar should also contribute to the foreseen 2015 GE pan-European congress.

More specifically, the objectives of the kick-off seminar are to:

- provide the space for sharing policies and good practices – national and regional exchanges;
- learn from the regional cooperation to improve GE/DE, namely building on the results of the previous JMA regional seminars which took place in the Baltic Sea Region (2014), in the South East Europe/Mediterranean Region (2013), and in the Visegrad Region (2013);
- strengthen the capacity building among the main stakeholders of GE/DE in Serbia;
- identify potential roles and commitments by key stakeholders at national level;
- identify complementarities between different policy fields for education and to identify potential joint actions for increased coherence;
- strengthen the development of a national strategy process by opening a continuous consultation/working process between Serbian national stakeholders;
- contribute to the ongoing discussion and monitoring process that should lead to the sound implementation of the Lisbon Global Education Congress strategic recommendations.

Organisation and Working Methods

The co-organisers of the meeting are the Center for Youth Work, as the implementing partner, and the North-South Centre of the Council of Europe.

The implementing partner will take the responsibility of organising the meeting, in particular local logistical preparations such as participants board and lodging, seminar room arrangements, interpretation, general rapporteur of the meeting, local and international travel arrangements (for the international guests from neighbouring countries involved in the previous JMA national or regional seminars) as well as contributing to the content of the meeting.

Co-organisers will contribute to the elaboration of the programme content, suggestions of guest speakers and proposal of participants to invite.

The programme will be jointly decided upon by the partners mentioned above, where national and international experts are expected to contribute to the meeting.

The meeting should be held in English and national language and simultaneous interpretation made available during the meeting.

The cost for participants representing non-state actors and local authorities will be fully covered by the project. Cost related to governmental participation will be self-financed.

Programme Elements

- Introduction and welcome
