

North-South Centre

of the Council of Europe

REPORT of ACTIVITIES

Dear members of the Executive Committee of the North-South Centre of the Council of Europe

2017 was a good year for the North-South Centre.

We had the accessions of Bosnia and Herzegovina and Algeria to our Enlarged Partial Agreement. We have continued to work with other States to bring them into the North-South Centre family.

We have improved the relations with our members, having more bilateral or statutory meetings, in Strasbourg, in Lisbon, in Brussels and for the first time in a capital of a southern country, Rabat, reporting regularly the on-going development of our projects, and involving them or member States nationals in its implementation.

We had a better interaction with the Quadrilogue (Governments, Pace, Congress and Conference) and different structures of the Council of Europe, participating in each other's meetings, and receiving in the North-South Centre headquarters in Lisbon the Deputy Secretary General (twice) and other high representatives from several bodies of the organisation.

We have continued to reinforce the process of alignment and contribution to the work of the Council of Europe, bringing into it our specificities and views, in particular our special relationship with the South and beyond, through our different programmes and activities.

We have been able to implement all of the activities inserted in our calendar in the following dimensions - Global Development Education, Youth Cooperation, Empowerment of Women, and Diasporas –, thanks to the contributions of the member States to the budget of the North South-Centre, to the Joint Programme with the European Union and the voluntary contributions of Portugal, Malta and the Aga Khan Development Network, which allowed us to work with more partners and increase the number of beneficiaries. With a bottom-up and multilateral approaches, associated to the implementation of Council of Europe priorities and United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, the North-South Centre has been an institution that really fostered north-south dialogue, solidarity, inclusiveness and new partnerships.

We have also successfully concluded the two flagship events of the NSC: i) the choice of and the award of the North South Prize to two personalities representing the north and the south, Ms Nicolini for her outstanding work as Mayor of Lampedusa and Linosa to protect refugees and migrants, and Ms Brahmi, for her engagement in the consolidation of the Tunisian democratic process; ii) the Lisbon Forum, financed by the South Programme II, signed between the European Commission and OGD of the Council of Europe, which dealt with the overarching theme Interconnecting People: managing migration, avoiding populism, building inclusive societies and reinforcing north-south dialogue.

We have changed dramatically our image (see the new website and our public materials) and the way we communicate (newsletter and social networks), using them to reach out to more followers and analysing better and in a comprehensive and diverse manner the core issues in debate.

We have made an effort to better manage the Centre in terms of activities and financial and human resources. For instance, a 2017 Results Oriented Monitoring Mission Report on the iLegend programme on Global Education signed between the European Commission and the Council of Europe, implemented by the North-South Centre, responsible for around 40% of its budget, clearly recognised our added value, uniqueness, the quadrilogue approach and the project sustainability beyond 2018. Some measures were introduced to reinforce the project. On the other hand, the 2016 financial statements were considered in order. Auditors from the external audit team from the Council of Europe were in Lisbon last October and the Centre is already adopting measures to implement some of the recommendations then orally made; and we will continue to do this as soon as we have access to the final report. The ratio between programme expenditure and running costs vs staff costs is very significant. The hiring of two more experts for our team in the fields of Global Education and Youth has demonstrated the importance of having more funds available to better implement our programmes. Individual or collective training continued to be provided to increase the skills of our staff.

The North-South Centre transition from the Directorate on Democratic Governance and Anti-Discrimination to the Directorate on Democratic Citizenship and Participation within DG II has been done with success and is in place since last September. Guarantees were given that this migration would in no way change the nature, the position, the programmes and specificities of this Enlarged Partial Agreement, with 28 years of life.

A final word to the North-South Centre team, small but very effective and always available to bring the Centre to the next level.

In sum, I believe the five main priorities (more member States, more credibility, more alignment, secure the short/medium term future, improving the communication tools) I have outlined in October 2016 to the Executive Committee of the North-South Centre and deserved your support, were already achieved in 2017 within a certain degree of sustainability. That is why we have now a more credible institution, more participative, and more solid, with a better future in terms of activities and from a financial point of view. The door to its return to Africa was open in Rabat and the continuation of the cooperation with the European Union, vital to the Centre, is a very strong possibility under review, and we need to continue in this path. I hope the current turbulence in Strasbourg will not affect the development of this Enlarged Partial Agreement in terms of its autonomy, in its membership, in the neighbourhood policy of the CoE and in the access to European Union funds, all vital elements for the future of this institution.

Thank you very much for your resilient and valuable support.

Antonio Gamito

It aims at contributing to fulfilling its mission, in terms of capacity building of young people, by providing a real professional experience in an international environment.

The European Centre for Global Interdependence and Solidarity, more commonly known as the "North-South Centre of the Council of Europe", was created in November 1989, as a result of the European public campaign on North-South Interdependence and Solidarity launched in 1988 by the Council of Europe in cooperation with the then European Community.

OUR MISSION

The mission of the North-South Centre is to empower civil society, in particular youth and women, through intercultural dialogue and global citizenship education, in Council of Europe member states and neighbouring regions.

To this aim, and in particular through its multilateral activities, the North-South Centre responds mainly to four priority areas: global education, youth cooperation, empowerment of women and migration.

OUR METHODOLOGY

Under the principles of dialogue, partnership and solidarity, through a bottom-up approach, the North-South Centre brings together representatives of governments, national parliaments, local and regional authorities and civil society.

The Youth Cooperation programme promotes youth participation through training and capacity building. These empowering activities, aimed at young people and youth organisations, facilitate their participation in decision and policy making processes at all levels of governance.

NETWORK OF UNIVERSITIES ON YOUTH AND GLOBAL CITIZENSHIP

The Network of Universities is one of the main components of the Youth Cooperation programme and consists of a platform that gathers youth partners from all over the world in an effort to develop a coordinated system of capacity building activities that contribute to strengthen the interregional and global youth cooperation. For 17 years the different universities have offered a space where young people and youth workers come together as part of a global youth movement working against exclusion and discrimination and for inclusion and diversity.

The 2017 theme “Developing Global Identities”, allowed participants and political representatives to reflect on how youth organisations and youth work can empower young people as global citizens. Celebrating their diverse identities and facing their vulnerabilities, participants unleashed their potential to contribute to the implementation, monitoring and evaluation of the UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.
