EUROPEAN COMMISSION FOR THE EFFICIENCY OF JUSTICE (CEPEJ)

HFIII: Towards a better evaluation of the results of judicial reform efforts in the Western Balkans – phase II “Dashboard Western Balkans II”

Data collection 2022

Report prepared by the CEPEJ for the attention of the European Commission

Methodological Note

The methodology used for this report is fully based on the methodology used by the CEPEJ for its biennial evaluation cycles. The data is collected by using a questionnaire, which is filled out by the CEPEJ's Dashboard correspondents (the main contacts points within the judicial systems of the beneficiaries for this exercise). Their responses are statistically processed, analysed, and validated under the supervision of the CEPEJ Evaluation Working Group (CEPEJ-GT-EVAL). The CEPEJ works in full transparency with all beneficiaries during the whole process.

Data collection, validation and analysis

The CEPEJ Secretariat collects quantitative and qualitative data. Comments are also collected to provide additional information on the specificities of the beneficiaries' judicial system and to better contextualise the data.

From a methodological point of view, and with a commitment to quality, consistency and comparability of the data supplied, data collection is primarily assigned to the CEPEJ's Dashboard correspondents. The Dashboard correspondents are the unique interlocutors of the CEPEJ Secretariat when collecting and controlling data. The beneficiaries are liable for the quality of data provided in the survey.

According to the CEPEJ methodology, an extensive work is carried out by the CEPEJ Secretariat to verify the quality of the data submitted by the correspondents. This quality check process requires a certain amount of time in order to guarantee the reliability of the quantitative and qualitative data, which will eventually be presented to the European Commission (EC).

The data validation process has been implemented according to the CEPEJ's methodology. Nevertheless, the Beneficiary correspondent is responsible for the reliability and quality of the provided.

The first year of data collection for the Dashboard Western Balkans is 2019. This is considered as a base year to be presented in each consecutive cycle. The current report is based on the data from the reference year 2022. Evolutions/trends and variations using previous data collection are presented where relevant. CEPEJ will focus on up to 5 cycles (including the base year) in all the deliverables throughout the duration of the project.

The report is composed of two parts:

- Part 1- Comparative tables and graphs for all Western Balkans beneficiaries with summary overviews and comments per indicator (1 files)
- Part 2- Beneficiary profiles (6 files). There is one beneficiary profile per beneficiary, and each is divided in a Part A and a Part B.

This structure was discussed and agreed upon with the EC during previous cycle and was only updated in this cycle. The delivery date is 31 May for Part 1, and 30 June for Part 2.

It should be noted that the content of the Beneficiary profiles was elaborated by the CEPEJ Secretariat and the Greco Secretariat (with the assistance of one expert). Each Secretariat has implemented its own methodology. The analysis conducted by the CEPEJ Secretariat in the Beneficiary profiles is done based on the comments provided by the beneficiaries alongside the data.

The quality of data

The reader should always interpret the presented statistical figures together with the respective narrative comments.

The CEPEJ has chosen to process and show only the data which offered a high level of quality and accountability. Hence, it decided to disregard those replies that significantly varied between exercises and for which there was no relevant explanation provided by the Dashboard correspondent, to give sufficient guarantees of quality and reliability. For some issues covered by this study, no data could be provided. When a data is shown as “NA” (i.e., “Not available”), it means that the data was not available, the data could not be collected as such or no data meeting the quality and reliability requirements was provided by the deadline. As a consequence, there might be some instances where data are shown as “NA” while there was data presented in the previous CEPEJ exercises. This is critical to ensure a high level of data quality.

Definitions and abbreviations

- NA: data not available.
- NAP: data non applicable.
- CR: Clearance Rate. The Clearance rate is the ratio obtained by dividing the number of resolved cases by the number of incoming cases in a given period, expressed as a percentage. It demonstrates how the court, or the judicial system is coping with the in-flow of cases and allows comparison between systems regardless of their differences and individual characteristics.
- DT: Disposition Time. The Disposition Time is the calculated time necessary for a pending case to be resolved, considering the current pace of work. It is reached by dividing the number of pending cases at the end of a particular period by the number of resolved cases within that period, multiplied by 365. The Disposition Time is the ratio between pending cases and resolved cases (in days). It shows the theoretical duration for a court to solve all the pending cases.
- CMS Index: Case management system Index. The Case management system Index is an index 0 to 4 points calculated based on several questions within Q83 on the features and deployment rate of the case management system of the courts of each beneficiary. The methodology for the calculation provides one index point for each of the 5 questions for each case matter. The points for the 4 questions regarding the features of the CMS (i.e., excluding question on the deployment rate) are summarized and then multiplied by the deployment rate. In this way, if the system is not fully deployed, the value is lower than 4 even if all features are included to provide adequate evaluation.

Numbers indicated between brackets following the letter Q (for example Q12) refer to the questions of the CEPEJ Dashboard Western Balkans questionnaire.

Methodological disclaimer

1) The comparisons of data between beneficiaries with various geographical, economic and legal situations is a delicate task and should be approached with great caution. Indeed, the specificities of each system, which might explain differences in the data, should be taken into account (e.g., different judicial structures, the approach of the courts organisation, use of statistical tools to evaluate the systems, etc.). This is especially true when a particular region like the Western Balkans is compared to the European Union. Since the Western Balkans region presents its own peculiarities (e.g., per capita GDP, budget distribution, litigiousness rate, number of tasks handled by the judges, number of judges etc.), the comparison with the European Union region might be misleading. As requested by the European Commission, this report presents, where relevant, the EU median. However, the EU median should not be considered as a benchmark for the Western Balkans region, but it should rather be considered as a “reference” in the p

Furthermore, it is crucial to notice that the data for calculating the 2022 EU median have not been collected yet. Hence, the 2021 EU median is included in this report. Yet, the reference year for the Dashboard Western Balkans is 2022. These statistics should be referred for orientation only since they are not for the same reference year and for that reason, they are not comparable and should not be jointly analysed.

2) Some of the data might be updated or changed after each delivery (31 May and 30 June), in case of comments provided by the beneficiaries. According to the CEPEJ methodology, only the final version of the report can be disseminated, i.e., after considering the comments by the beneficiaries. Before then, all the collected data remain confidential.

3) Changed requested by beneficiaries after the delivery of this report may appear in future reports, since the CEPEJ's database is regularly updated. For this reason, previous cycles' data presented in this report might be different from data presented in the reports for the previous cycles.

4) It should also be noted that the summary statistics (minimum, maximum, average and median values) are presented in this report as an orientation only. Kosovo* is not included in these summary statistics. Indeed, the group of beneficiaries is too small for the summary to be statistically meaningful. These statistics are calculated by using quantitative data, hence excluding the "NA" or "NAP" answers. Furthermore, in case data are available only for one or two beneficiaries, the summary statistics would not be useful even as an orientation. Consequently, they are shown as "-".

5) When using the data provided by the CEPEJ in public reports, EC should always mention "Source: CEPEJ data". CEPEJ will only be able to produce comparison data tables and graphs between member States of the Council of Europe. If the EC wants to compare data between the six beneficiaries by constructing new charts and tables adding Kosovo*, it should be made clear that it is of its responsibility even if the source of the data is the CEPEJ. This should be mentioned under each relevant table and/or graph.

6) The difficulty to present data for previous year continues to be a constrain for half of the beneficiaries and affects the quality of the information collected and validated for them.

* This designation is without prejudice to positions on status, and is in line with UNSCR 1244 and the ICJ Opinion on the Kosovo Declaration of Independence.

Kosovo is not included in the calculation of summary statistics*

The provided figures for the population for Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, and Kosovo is for 2021, while for Montenegro it is given in accordance with the census from 2011.

The GDP per capita for Bosnia and Herzegovina, Montenegro, North Macedonia and Kosovo is for 2021

North Macedonia: a census of the population was undertaken in 2021. As a result, the figure for the population dropped in that year compared to the previous cycles.

North Macedonia: Because of the 2021 Census, the number of inhabitants changed dramatically between 2020 and 2021. For this reason, all the variations of values standardised by the number of inhabitants are mainly due to the variation in the population.

Serbia: A part of the Legal Aid budget is included in the Courts' budget and cannot be separated. Therefore, the Serbia' courts and legal aid budgets are not comparable to the others in the region.

Q004 (2021): Other expenses include: Office service costs (Letter, Office, toners, etc.) 1,456,599, Diet Travel Expenses 49,500, Transportation services 302,042, Expenditure on security guards 710,995, Maintenance 503,604, Software program 475,221, Other maintenance and operating costs 1,199,516

Q004 (2020): Figures given above are related to courts' budget only.

Q006 (2021): At the prosecution, office there is no budget allocated to training of public prosecution services. Please note that training of judges and prosecutors is allocated to the budget of School of Magistrates.

The difference between approved budget and implemented budget consists mainly in savings of payments due to the vetting process (dismissal of prosecutors, some vacancies of administrative staff and prosecutors, savings from building reconstructions, etc

Q013 (2021): Performance throughout 2021, the first year of full capacity operation of the free legal aid mechanism, has marked an increase in the number of court decisions that grant applicants the right to secondary legal aid and exemption from court fees and costs. We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

Q013 (2020): The above data is referred to the implemented/ allocated budget of Free Legal Aid Directorate for 2020. The difference between allocated budget and implemented budget has come as a result of delays in the recruitment of FLAD staff but also employees of primary legal aid service centers in the districts of the Republic of Albania. Also, another factor is related to the financing procedures of 12 authorized non-profit organizations which provide primary legal aid, a procedure which is expected to start in March 2021.

Following the approval of the legal aid law, the budget of legal aid was increased substantially to provide for primary and secondary legal aid. The law foresees the opening of legal clinics, that will provide primary legal aid to all citizens. For 2020, 8 legal clinics were foreseen to be opened. Additionally, the criteria for providing secondary legal aid were clarified in the law, and they granted legal aid to a considerate number of applicants. With the establishment of the Legal Aid Directorate, courts started to grant secondary legal aid to applicants. (the Directorate is in charge of administering the court decision, and making the payment to the lawyer, based on that court decision). Hence, all these activities, were supported by an increased budget.

Q013-2 (General Comment): Persons who have the right to receive secondary legal assistance, according to articles 11 or 12, of this the law, enjoy the right to exemption from:

- a) payment of general and special fees, according to the provisions of the law on court fees in the Republic of Albania;
- b) payment of court expenses (expenses for witnesses, experts, translators and inspection of items or on-site inspection), according to the provisions of the procedural legislation;
- c) the obligation to prepay the fee for the execution of the execution order at the service state judicial enforcement.

1. Exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses is granted on the basis of a request which is drawn up according to the request form approved by the Minister of Justice.

2. The request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses may presented:

- a) together with the request for secondary legal assistance;
- b) attached to the claim, in accordance with the provisions of the procedural legislation;
- c) at any stage of the process, until the judicial investigation is declared closed.

3. In the request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses may exemption from payment of one, some or all court fees and/or costs is requested judicial, according to the provisions of Article 25 of this law.

4. The request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses may presented by the person who enjoys the right to be exempted from paying court fees and court costs, by a legal representative or with a power of attorney, or by the spouse, cohabitant or first degree relative.

5. The request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses may presented in person or through the postal service.

The request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses is submitted to the competent court for examining the case in substance.

2. The court examines the request in accordance with the provisions in the procedural legislation and, as far as it is possible, with the provisions of Article 22 of this law.

3. The court, in accordance with the provisions of this law and the provisions of the procedural legislation, after review of the request decides:

- a) acceptance of the request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses;
- b) dismissal of the request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses.

Against the decision of the court, an appeal can be made to the court of appeal, according to the provisions of the article 22 of law.

4. The decision to accept the request for exemption from the payment of court fees and expenses court is immediately notified to the Directorate of Free Legal Aid.

The court decision on the exemption from the payment of court fees and expenses constitutes a title executive and executed in accordance with the provisions of the procedural legislation.

2. The payment of court expenses, for which the exemption has been established, is covered by the budget approved for the Ministry of Justice and paid by the Directorate of Free

Q013-2 (2021): The court costs for the beneficiary citizens are paid/covered by the Free Legal Aid Directorate according to the procedures for the payment of court costs (Article 28 (2)). The bylaw on the remuneration of experts and witnesses (Art 28 (3)) and the procedures for the payment of court costs (Art 28 (4), 7 (gj)) regulate with which amount and when experts and witnesses are paid.

Q007 (2020): budget planned based on the needs of the system

Q007 (2019): Please note that SPAK was established mid-2019 and its budget was approved through e midyear revision law. Hence, implemented budget is higher than approved budgeted.

Q009 (2020): The budget also includes the functioning of the vetting institutions (Independent Qualification Commission, Public Commissioners and Appeals College), the School of Magistrates, the High Prosecutorial Council and the Special Prosecution against Corruption and Organized Crime.

Q009 (2019): The budget also includes the functioning of the vetting institutions (Independent Qualification Commission, Public Commissioners and Appeals College), the School of Magistrates, the High Prosecutorial Council and the Special Prosecution against Corruption and Organised Crime. Please note that SPAK was established mid-2019 and its budget was approved through e midyear revision law. Hence, implemented budget is higher than approved budgeted.

Q010 (2022): During 2022 there have been no external donor's contributions, included in courts' budgets.

Q010 (2020): The above budget is the amount spent by the EU technical assistance mission EURALIUS, aiming to support the implementation of justice reform in Albania for 2020. However, please note that there are at least two other major projects aiming to support the justice system, one implemented by Council of Europe in Albania and the other by a contractor of USAID. However, no data are available for these project.

Q011 (2022): The exact answer is NAP we have not had any external donor fund.

Q011 (2020): 9 percent

Q004 (General Comment): Data on the approved budget are classified according to the economic classification adopted by the ministries of finance. The data regarding the approved budget is classified in a way that allows obtaining data only on the following elements that relate to question 4:

-TOTAL - Annual budget allocated to the functioning of all courts, and -1. Annual public budget allocated to (gross) salaries. The classification used for budget approval does not allow to obtain data on other elements referred to in question 4.

The reports on execution budgets make it possible to distinguish budget figures for all the elements in the table. The amounts of all items are calculated using the budget execution reports as the best possible estimation.

Q004 (2022): There are two reasons why the amounts allocated for judicial expenses and training in 2022 are higher compared to the amounts allocated in 2021. First, after operating at a limited capacity in 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the courts continued to operate at full capacity in 2022. Secondly, due to inflation, a significant increase in the prices of services was recorded in 2022, and therefore the services of expertise, interpretation and training have become more expensive. In several courts, the amount of funds allocated for these purposes increased by more than 100% in 2022 compared to 2021

As regards investment in new buildings, the amount of funds allocated for the construction of new court buildings fluctuates from year to year, because it directly depends on the amount of funds donated for this purpose.

Q004 (2021): 5. Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings: Based on the insight into the implemented budgets for 2021, it is evident that the amount of annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings has significantly decreased compared to 2020. The decline in investments is due to the slow process of public procurement in the last two years, which is a result of the COVID-19 outbreak. Other costs are the expenditures such as travel expenses and the costs for the purchase of office material and office equipment.

Q004 (2020): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of courts is different from actually implemented budget mainly because the courts could not implement some of the allocated budget funds, as certain number of judicial and non-judicial positions were not filled in during the reporting year since the ongoing recruitment procedures have not been finalized fully. In addition, one of the highest courts could not implement the allocated budget for setting up the new department for organized crime and corruption cases, because the new department has not been established. Furthermore, the implemented annual public budget for training and investments in new court buildings declined considerably in 2020 compared to 2019, because the courts could not use all of the funds allocated for these purposes due to the reduction of the relevant activities in the context of the measures undertaken against the spread of COVID-19 pandemic. Other costs are the expenditures such as travel expenses and the costs for the purchase of office material and office equipment.

Q004 (2019): Some of the allocated budget funds have not been implemented because certain number of judicial and non-judicial position remained vacant. The allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest instance courts has not been implemented. There is no continuity of planning budget funds for the construction of new court buildings. For this reason, the amount of funds spent for this purpose can vary significantly. That is the explanation for the variation in the implemented budget for investments in new (court) buildings. Other costs are the expenditures for travel expenses and purchase of office material and office equipment.

Q006 (2022): Some prosecution offices allocated a smaller amount of funding in connection with the training in the reporting year. However, the disparities in training funding for 2022 compared to 2021 are not significant considering the small value of absolute amounts the prosecution offices generally allocate for this purpose.

Q006 (2020): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all prosecutors' offices is different from actually implemented budget mainly because the prosecutors' offices could not implement some of the allocated budget funds, as certain number of judicial and non-judicial positions were not filled in during the reporting year since the ongoing recruitment procedures have not been finalized fully. Also, the allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest prosecutor's offices has not been implemented, because the new unit has not been established. The implemented annual public budget for training of public prosecution services declined considerably in 2020 compared to 2019, because the prosecutors' offices could not use all of the funds allocated for this purpose due to the reduction of the training activities in the context of the measures undertaken against the spread of COVID-19 pandemic.

Q006 (2019): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all prosecutors' offices from actually implemented budget is different mainly due to the following reasons: Some of the allocated budget funds have not been implemented because certain number of judicial and non-judicial position remained vacant. The allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest prosecutor's offices has not been implemented.

Q012 (General Comment): The legal aid is financed through the budgets of individual courts (e.g. funds for legal aid are mainly used to pay for the services of ex officio appointed attorneys in criminal cases) and the budgets of legal aid institutions that are government bodies independent from the courts. The accounting methodology does not make it possible to distinguish the amount of budget funds earmarked by the courts for legal aid from other funds which are planned within the same line in the court budget. Though, it is possible to differentiate the amount of funds spent for legal aid in the implemented court budget. On the other hand the lawyers employed by the government legal aid institutions provide legal aid in different legal fields (i.e. representation in criminal, civil, administrative court proceedings; provision of legal advice outside of court or other proceedings), therefore it is not possible to split the planned or implemented budget funds of the legal aid institutions between different legal fields. In conclusion, it is only possible to make the calculation of the annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid without dividing it among criminal and other than criminal cases.

Q007 (2020): The annual approved public budget allocated to the whole justice system was reduced in 2020 compared to 2019, due to the following circumstances:

- Prison system: A smaller amount of funds was planned for the construction of new prison buildings in 2020 following the completion of the new maximum-security prison in 2019;
- COVID-19 measures: In addition, some of the funds allocated in the 2020 budget for the justice system were transferred to finance the measures easing the economic and other problems caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Q007 (2019): Donor funds are not included in this figure.

Q008 (General Comment): There are no specialized institutions delivering probation services. The courts decide on some issues related to the probation matters, the relevant functionaries determine the matters related to the pardon of convicted defendants. Judicial management body is not included in the budgetary elements since the High Judicial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which is included in the budgetary elements has the regulatory functions within the judicial system of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Enforcement function (i.e. enforcement services) and judicial protection of juveniles are carried out within the courts and public prosecution services; related costs are included in the public budget of the court, public prosecution system and the whole justice system, however, there is no specific budget line related to the enforcement function of courts and judicial protection of juveniles by courts and public prosecution services; the budget allocated to social workers involved in the youth protection is not part of the judicial budget in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Refugees and asylum seekers services and immigration services are the responsibility of various institutions outside the justice system; in addition, related costs cannot be extracted from the overall budget of the relevant institutions. Notary chambers and notaries are not financed by the public budgets.

Q010 (2019): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina during 2019 implemented donor funded project activities aimed at reforming the courts and the public prosecution service in the amount of 2820650 EUR. Source of information is the HJPC annual report for 2019.

Overall amount of funds used to finance donor activities which are implemented by the international organisations (e.g. United States Agency for International Development, World Bank, etc) is not available since the HJPC is not implementing them.

Q011 (2022): Donor funds are not included in the budgets of courts, public prosecution services and legal aid institutions; the external funds are implemented in addition to the budgets within the projects financed by the donors or by a nongovernmental organization that provides legal aid in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The most important donors are: the European Commission, USAID, Sweden, Norway, and Switzerland.

Q011 (2021): External donors provide funding for the IT system in judiciary and aimed at improving functioning of judiciary. Donor funds are not included in the budgets of courts, public prosecution services and legal aid institutions; the external funds are implemented in addition to the budgets within the projects financed by the donors or by a non-governmental organization that provides legal aid throughout Bosnia and Herzegovina. Since 2018 there has been an increase in the budget allocated to courts buildings (maintenance, operating costs) which is due to the fact that the requests of courts for more funds for this purpose were approved during the preparation of the courts budget.

Discrepancy clarifications:

-Annual public budget allocated to court buildings (maintenance, operating costs) - There was an increase in the monetary amount due to the adaptation of official premises in several Montenegrin courts.

-Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings - There was an increase in the monetary amount due to the fact that construction works were carried out on the building of the Commercial Court of Montenegro on the adaptation of the building itself.

-Annual public budget allocated to training - There was a decrease in the said amount due to the fact that this year a smaller number of trainings was conducted compared to the previous reporting because of the COVID-19 pandemics.

North Macedonia

Q004 (General Comment): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc.

Q004 (2022): The court budget includes only the budget of all courts.

2. North Macedonia in 2022 allocated huge budget to investments in computerization (replacement of all old servers in all the courts and in the Judicial Council with new servers, 308 new computers, new laptops, 212 new printers, 64 new scanners, new softwares (for example: for evaluation of judges).

4. Maintenance of the court buildings and operating costs in 2022 are higher due to new prices of gas and electricity in our country and on the world level, as a consequences from COVID-19 and war in Ukraine.

5. In 2022, the renovation of the new building of Administrative court was finished. That was the second phase of the plan with smaller allocated budget for finishing the project, since the budget of first phase of the plan was larger and implemented in 2021.

7. All the prices and costs in 2022 are higher due to inflation. Please, see also explanation for category 4.

Q004 (2021): 2. In 2020 the courts were supplied with more IT equipment.

3. The expenses are higher due to higher amount of court expertise.

4. Expected increased amount of bills. 5. Reconstruction of the building of the Administrative court.

7. No supply on new cars and all cost are decreased because other expenses in other lines are higher.

Q004 (2020): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc. The court budget includes only the budgets of all courts.

The decreasing of the court budget in 2020 in total is due to the fact that with the rebalance of the budget in 2019, about 2 million euros were provided for non paid allowances on the judges from the previous years. This allowances were paid in 2019.

Regarding the line 3 which refers to the justice expenses, the significant reduction of the total amount is due to the fact that according to the Law on Criminal Procedure, costs for court expertise are no longer paid by the court budget. Now they are paying by the PPO Budget. From the court budget now are only paying court expertise for old cases which are long time in the system, before the new Law on criminal procedure start with implementation. In 2020, the number of this type of old cases for which the expertise was paid by the courts was significantly lower compared to previous years.

Regarding the line 5 (New court buildings), in 2019 money were provided for the renovation of the building of the Administrative Court. However, the renovation of the building was not realized, due to administrative-technical problems. In the 2020 budget, money for this purpose were not provided.

Line for training is not included here, but in the questions about the Academy for judges and public prosecutors.

Q004 (2019): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc. The court budget includes only the budgets of all courts.

The difference between approved and implemented budget in line 5 (new court buildings) is because in the budget for 2019 were planed money for reconstruction on the new building on Administrative court, which was not realized in 2019.

Line for training is not included here, but in the questions about the Academy for judges and public prosecutors.

There has been an increase since 2018 of the budget in (4.2) computerization due to the fact that in 2019 there wasn't a supply of IT equipment for the courts from international projects. There has also been an increase of the budget for (4.3) Justice expenses due to higher amounts for the lay judges, higher costs for court expertise and increased Bar Tarriff. There has been a decrease in the budget allocated to (4.4) court buildings because part was allocated instead to investments in new court buildings. Finally, there has been an increased budget for the category (4.7) Other because allowances of judges were paid for previous years (2016,2017,2018) and because new cars were supplied for all courts in 2019.

Q006 (2020): Presented budget is lower in comparison with last year, because approximately 4 million euros were distributed for the Special Public Prosecution office last year. The SPO is not exist anymore in the Macedonian justice system.

Q006 (2019): Presented budget is for all public prosecution offices in the State including The Public Prosecutor's Office for Prosecuting Criminal Offences Related to and Arising from the Content of the Illegally Intercepted Communication, known as the Special Prosecutor's Office, that was established with the Law on the Public Prosecutor's Office for Prosecuting Criminal Offence Related to and Arising from the Content of the Illegally Intercepted Communication, adopted by the Assembly on the 15th of September 2015. Budget of the Public Prosecution Office of the Republic of North Macedonia for 2019 is 10.060.753 Euro (approved) and 9.227.569 Euro (implemented) and Budget of Special Public prosecution office is: approved budget-3.717.610 Euro; implemented budget- 2.437.437 Euro.

Line for training is not included here, but in the questions about the Academy for training of judges and public prosecutors.

Q012 (2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are calculated according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

Q012 (2020): Provided data from courts and Ministry of Justice.

Budget is increased for implementation on the new Law on free legal aid and facilitation of the conditions for getting on free legal aid.

For line 2.for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services) budget is planed in total budget for free legal aid. Because of that it not possible to be given separately.

Q012 (2019): Provided data from courts and Ministry of Justice.

The budget for free legal aid in other than criminal cases for 2019 is increased in comparison with the budget from 2018. The budget on the Ministry of justice in 2018 was 3.000.000, 00 denars (48.780 euros) and for 2019 budget was 5.000.000,00 denars (81.301 euros). Budget is increased for implementation on the new Law on free legal aid and facilitation of the conditions for getting on free legal aid.

For line 2.for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services) budget is planed in total budget for free legal aid. Because of that it not possible to be given separately.

Q013 (2022): Implementation of the new Law on free legal aid was one of the strategic goals. Campaigns in 2022 through the whole country to raise awareness of beneficiaries about their rights to free legal aid were very successful. These Numbers are the proof for improvement of usage of free legal aid system in our country.

Q013 (2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are payed according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

Q013 (2020): The budget for the legal aid in criminal cases is composed by: the budget for ex-officio lawyers according to the Law on Criminal procedure and the poor law budget. There are no other criminal cases, except criminal cases brought to court.

A little increasing in the implemented public budget in the other than criminal cases, is due to the fact that we start with full implementation new Law on free legal aid where the conditions for obtaining legal aid are facilitated.

Q013 (2019): The amount of implemented budget for other than criminal cases is lower than approved budget because conditions were very strict for getting on free legal aid according to the provisions of the previous Law on free legal aid and the new Law start with implementation on 01.10.2019. Three months of implementation on the new Law is very short period for increasing the number of cases and according to that increasing of the implemented budget.

Q013-2 (2021): According to procedural laws and Law on free legal aid.

Q007 (General Comment): The Budget for the whole justice system includes: whole Court budget, budget of the Judicial Council, budget of Public Prosecution offices, budget of the Council of Public Prosecutors, Academy for judges and public prosecutors, Ministry of justice, Constitutional court, Prisons, State Attorney office and Ombudsman office.

The biggest portion of the justice budget is allocated to the courts, prisons and public prosecution offices.

Q007 (2020): In this budget are included court budget, budgets on Judicial Council, budget on Academy for judges and public prosecutors, Public Prosecution office, Ministry of justice, Constitutional court, Prisons, State Attorney office and Ombudsman office.

The biggest portion of the justice budget is allocated to the courts, prisons and public prosecution office.

Total approved budget is lower because there is no presented budget for the Special Public Prosecutor office and a lower court budget and the budget of the Academy for judges and public prosecutors. For the reasons please see comment on Q4.

Q007 (2019): In this budget are included court budget, budgets on Judicial Council, budget on Academy for judges and public prosecutors, Public Prosecution office, Ministry of justice, Constitutional court, Prisons, State Attorney office and Ombudsman office.

The biggest portion of the justice budget is allocated to the courts, prisons and public prosecution office.

The portion of implemented budges are less in the Academy for judges and public prosecutors and Prisons. In the budget for Academy were planed money for salaries for candidates in the seventh generation, but this generation did not start till the end of 2019.

Q009 (2022): Ombudsman, Academy for judges and public prosecutors and Council of Public Prosecutors.

Q009 (2021): Ombudsman budget, Judicial Academy budget and Council of Public Prosecutor's budget.

According to the new amendments in article 55 of the Law on the Council of Public Prosecutors of the Republic of North Macedonia(2020), the Council for Public Prosecutors has the separate budget as a user.

Q009 (2019): Ombudsman budget.

Q010 (2022): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2022, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular. Regional projects are included in the total amount.

Q010 (2021): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2021, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular. The amount is lower in the column budget allocated to courts in comparison to the last year, because for many of the projects where a larger amount of funds was allocated (ex. projects related with supply on equipment) finished at the end of 2020.

All relevant projects are counted in this question. Regional projects are not included in the total amount. Regional projects that were implemented in 2021 by the external donors in North Macedonia were: Regional Rule of Law initiative, Strengthening Enforcement in North Macedonia, Serbia, Kosovo, Albania, Global Program Combating Illicit Financial Flows, Countering Serious Crimes in the Western Balkans-IPA 2019, Open Regional Fund for SEE-Legal reform, Regional project Enhancing penitentiary capacities in addressing radicalisation in prisons in Western Balkans, Regional project: iPROCEEDS – Targeting crime proceeds on the Internet in South Eastern Europe and Turkey.

Q010 (2020): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2020, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular. Most of the projects started with implementation in 2019. For example, if the project last 24 months and started in June 2019 till June 2021, then according to the formula from the explanation note the higher amount from the project budget was spent in 2020. This is the reason, why in 2020 the budget is higher in comparison with 2019. Also, new projects started with implementation in 2020.

All relevant projects are counted in this question. Regional projects are not included in the total amount. Regional projects that were implemented in 2020 by the external donors in North Macedonia were: Regional Rule of Law initiative, Strengthening Enforcement in North Macedonia, Serbia, Kosovo, Albania, Global Program Combating Illicit Financial Flows, Countering Serious Crimes in the Western Balkans, Open Regional Fund for SEE-Legal reform, Building capacities of South Eastern Europe to conduct financial investigations to effectively detect, deter and prosecute money laundering and the financing of terrorism as well as enhance regional and inter-agency cooperation, Promoting rule of law and good governance through targeted border control measures at ports and airports.

Q010 (2019): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2019, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. Q011 (2022): Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. That is budget of the external donors. The percent is a number of the project budget from the Q10 divided with the implemented budget from Q 4, 6, 13 and 7 multiplied by 100.

Budget allocated to the whole justice system is 0,7

Q011 (2020): Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. That is budget of the external donors. The percent is a number of the project budget from the Q10 divided with the implemented budget from Q 4, 6, 12/13 and 7 multiplied by 100.

Serbia

Q004 (General Comment): The budget system of RS provides for unified collection of court fees, which are all paid to one account. The collected court fees are a revenue of the Republic of Serbia, from which 40% is allocated to the High Judicial Council for current expenses of the courts, except for expenses for court staff and staff at the public prosecutor's office, and 20% is allocated to the Ministry of Justice to improve the financial situation of employees in the courts and the public prosecutors' offices who are court staff and the staff of the Public Prosecutor's Office, other expenditures as well as investments in accordance with the law. Therefore, the amounts which the High Judicial Council and the MoJ transfer to the courts for various items in Q6 also come from court fees.

Q004 (2022): Other: Seminars of judges, transportation, accommodation, solidarity aid, anniversary award, severance payments, new furniture, etc.

Q004 (2021): E.g. New furniture

The methodology of collecting budgetary data has been changed with cooperation with CEPEJ.

Q004 (2020): Other: Additional furniture for new court buildings

Part of the legal aid budget is included in "justice expenses" and cannot be calculated separately

Q004 (2019): Data for 4.1 encompasses:

Total Approved budget: 257,227,518.72eur Total Implemented budget: 250,696,887.46 eur

4.1.1 Judges' salaries (High Judicial Council and other direct budgetary users): Approved budget: 57,100,974.72 eur

Implemented budget: 55,810,889.47 eur

4.1.2.Salaries of court employees (civil servants and administrative, technical and other non-judicial engaged individuals (High Judicial Council and other direct budgetary users):

Approved budget: 83,117,765.21 eur

Implemented budget: 82,885,723.90 eur

Data for 4.2 covers: The funds spent for administrative equipment, furniture and computerization of courts (MoJ data), as well as the data of the judicial institutions on the state level (SCC, Misdemeanour Appellate Court, Commercial Appellate Court). This court budget data is from the 2018-2020 Evaluation Cycle (2018 data) onwards separated from the PPO data with the following formula, having in mind the proportional allocation of resources: courts: 85%; ppo's: 15%, in line with the needs of the courts and ppo's. The major increase in this category with respect to the 2018 data is due to the IT equipping and furnishing completely the Palace of Justice in Belgrade, which started work in 2019. For 2019, the approved budget for 4.3 justice expenses is 23 789 735 and implemented budget is 22 746 416; the approved budget for the category 4.7 "other" is 70 485 421 and implemented budget is 68 774 633. However those data were collected with a new methodology of the High Judicial Council which is not conform with CEPEJ methodology. Data for 4.3 (implemented) is given for expenses of judicial experts and court interpreters in court proceedings (data provided by High Judicial Council - HJC). The HJC from the corrected 2018 data onward shows in this category 65% of the economic classification no. 423, while the rest (lawyers, lay judges, etc.) is included under 4.7.

Data for 4.4. Annual public budget allocated to court buildings (maintenance, operating costs) – This court budget data is from the 2018-2020 Evaluation Cycle (2018 data) onwards separated from the PPO data with the following formula, having in mind the proportional allocation of resources: courts: 85%; ppo's: 15%, in line with the use of the building premises by the courts and ppo's. Data for 4.5. Annual public budget allocated to investment in new and reconstruction buildings - (ex. reconstruction of Palace of Justice, construction of a new palace of justice in Kragujevac). This court budget data is from the 2018-2020 Evaluation Cycle (2018 data) onwards separated from the PPO data with the following formula, having in mind the proportional allocation of resources: courts: 85%; ppo's: 15%, in line with the use of the building premises by the courts and ppo's. Data for 4.6. Annual public budget allocated to training – Annual public budget allocated to training is given in the section addressing the Judicial Academy.

Data for 4.7. Includes budget for HJC and MoJ as well as the data of the judicial institutions on the state level (SCC, Misdemeanour Appellate Court, Commercial Appellate Court). This court budget data is from the 2018-2020 Evaluation Cycle (2018 data) onwards separated from the PPO data with the following formula, having in mind the proportional allocation of resources: courts: 85%; ppo's: 15%. Includes other funds related to compensation of expenses for civil servants and employees (ex. costs of travel), jubilee awards, improving the material position of employees (stimulation).

Regarding the increase in this category with respect to the 2018 data, it is due to the many approved and effected payments made to citizens and companies (in bankruptcy

Q005 (2019): Data supplied by Ministry of Justice Sector for Material and Financial Affairs

Q006 (2021): The methodology of collecting budgetary data has been changed with cooperation with CEPEJ.

Q006 (2019): Supplied data is the sum of the budgets provided by the public prosecutor offices which are direct budget users (Republic Public Prosecutor's Office, War Crimes Prosecutor's Office and Organised Crime Prosecutor's Office), the MoJ and the State Prosecutorial Council (SPC). From 2018 the data is supplied as a new methodology is adopted: the budget categories which could not previously be differentiated from the court budget (buying of supplies, computers, investments in existing buildings, and other spending) are now differentiated with the following formula: courts: 85%; ppo's: 15%

Q012 (2021): The methodology of collecting budgetary data has been changed with cooperation with CEPEJ.

Q012 (2020): TOTAL - Annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) Total budget approved for 2020 was 6 million EUR. Nevertheless, due to COVID 19 and the fact that the budget was not spent during that budgetary year, there have been some adjustments to the total amount. 1. for cases brought to court (court fees and/or legal representation)

2. for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services)

Serbian law stipulates funding from the state budget and local self-government budget for cases brought to court (court fees and/or legal representation), as well as for mediators and public notaries as providers of free legal aid. These cases are funded 50% from the state budget and 50% from local self-government budget. The actual payment takes place following the completion of a certain phase of the proceedings. Given that the law started implementation on October 1st 2019, most cases brought to court have not yet been finalized.

Q012 (2019): The figures supplied by the HCC (High Court Council/High Judicial Council), Public Prosecution for War Crimes and Public Prosecution for Organised Crimes (12.1, 13.1 TOTAL) pertain to the costs for lawyers in criminal/civil proceedings (not including costs of ex officio defense prior to initiating of court proceedings).

Q013 (2022): Please note that the total amount refers only to the cases of granted free legal aid according the Law on free legal aid. This amount does not cover the free legal aid that was provided according to the Criminal Procedure Code (mandatory defense, etc.)

Q013: TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) - 92056 euros. A greater number of cases of free legal aid in 2022 resulted in a greater amount of money spent on the provided free legal aid. The amount for 2022 is higher compared to the previous two years, taking into account that during 2022 all measures against covid-19 were canceled.

Q013 (2021): The budget for the Legal Aid is executed based on the requests from the municipalities (local governments) and can cover only up to 50% of the total budget spent annually by municipalities (local governments), based on the Law on Legal Aid.

The Legal Aid does not include "mandatory representation in criminal cases" by lawyers, before the Serbian courts, which is the cost covered by the High Judicial Council.

Q013 (2020): TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2)

If the public budget actually implemented regarding legal aid is different from the annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid, please indicate the main reasons for the differences:

Data shall be available for the next report.

Q013 (2019): The figures supplied by the HCC (High Court Council/High Judicial Council), Public Prosecution for War Crimes and Public Prosecution for Organised Crimes (12.1, 13.1 TOTAL) pertain to the costs for lawyers in criminal/civil proceedings (not including costs of ex officio defence prior to initiating of court proceedings).

Q013-2 (General Comment): The Law on Civil Procedure, Article 168:

The court shall exempt from payment of the costs of the proceedings a party who, due to his general financial situation, is not able to bear these costs.

Exemption from payment of costs of proceedings includes exemption from payment of fees and exemption from advance payment for costs of witnesses, experts, on-site inspections and court announcements.

The court may also exempt a party from paying the fee, in accordance with a special law.

When making a decision on exemption from paying the costs of the procedure, the court considers all the circumstances, and especially takes into account the value of the subject matter of the dispute, the number of persons supported by the party and income and property owned by the party and its family members.

Q007 (2020): All data was collected except information from the State Council of Prosecutors, we did not obtain data from them

Q007 (2019): The Administration for the Enforcement of Criminal Sanctions has an approved budget of EUR 115,906,417.50 and implemented of EUR 104,867,913.29 High Court Council approved budget: EUR 1,357,583.12 and implemented budget: EUR 1,167,027.23 . State Prosecutorial Council approved budget: EUR 1,041,806.98 and implemented budget EUR 992,286.33

Ministry of Justice approved budget: EUR 13,579,998.10 and implemented budget: EUR 12,979,860.75 Constitutional Court: EUR 3,173,935.82 and implemented: EUR 2,900,116.52 The budget for State Attorney's Office: approved budget: EUR 8,447,421.95 and implemented EUR: 6,723,198.11 The indicated total amount does not include the total budget for legal aid as it is N/A (some available economic classifications are included). Budgets for courts, pp, prison system, high councils for the judiciary, state attorney's office, MoJ and Constitutional Court are included.

Q008 (2019): The indicated total amount DOES NOT INCLUDE the total budget for legal aid as it is N/A. However, some available economic classifications are included - of the HJC and the relevant prosecution offices. From 2020 the full budget should be available as the Law on Free Legal Aid (2018) will be applicable during the span of the whole year.

Q009 (2019): Other is not included. Throughout the cycles, we have indicated that "enforcement services" are not included (Chamber of Enforcement Agents and the work of the enforcement agents who are entrepreneurs). However, court enforcement services are included within the court budget.

Q010 (2020): EU projects can only present data from financial reports adopted by the Audit / Control, and the reporting period does not coincide necessarily with the calendar year. Namely, as the reports are submitted every 6 months, in this review it is possible to present data in relation to the following two periods (according to the approved financial reports): November 1, 2018-31. October 2019 = 565,656 (for the period of 12 months)

November 1, 2019-31. October 2020 = 863,544 (for the period of 12 months).

Data for the period running from 1 November 2020 will be known at the end of that period (March 2021), upon adoption by the Audit.

Within the Component 3 of IPA 2013 project, which dealt with corruption repression, joint trainings for prosecution, courts, MoI and other state authorities were organized. It is not possible to divide costs per each institution. USDOJ / OPDAT was organized joint trainings for prosecution, courts and MoI, and it is not possible to divide cost for each institution.

Also, certification courses for fraud and money laundering (82 454 EUR) was organized for representatives of different state authorities (MoI, prosecution, etc.), whose costs is not possible to divide. Within the item „donation of equipment and vehicles (total amount of eur 250.393), there is donation to the Main Group for fighting human trafficking that consist of MoI, Prosecution for organized crime, where is not possible to divide costs (eur 41 458), as well as donation of equipment and vehicles for Specialized departments for suppression of corruption, which is only dedicated to the prosecution (eur 208 935).

USAID GAI noted that there is no possibility to divide budget per institutions for 2019 and 2020, and that part of activities is being implements with funding from other donors.

OEBS organized joint trainings for courts, prosecution and MoI, and implemented budget is not possible to divide . OEBS Project Strengthening capacities of Serbian police in a fight against corruption, Phase 2 is primarily supported MoI, but there were organized joint trainings for MoI and prosecution, and implemented budget is not possible to divide.

Council of Europe Project Preventing money laundering and financing of terrorism in Serbia has been officially started 2020, but for the objective circumstances, implementation of activities started in November 2020. Within this period implementation of activities .started with other beneficiary institution's, and support to the RPPO is planned for 2021. The number Budget allocated to the whole justice system (question 7)- 3,941,467.

Q010 (2019): Projects are mostly implemented under the direct management modality (IPA), i.e. the donors themselves manage their funds - they are not paid into the budget and the MoJ/State does not have insight into the funds spent, nor has the budgetary data ever been collected as requested in the Questionnaire. The MoJ will look into modalities of gathering reliable data for the following evaluation cycle.

Q004 (2022): Digitalization of services;

New courts to be build;

No financing trainings for 2022 due to budget cut.

Q004 (2021): Justice expenses budget increased because as the courts proceeded with full capacity after Covid restrictions, more expertise and interpretation expenses became indispensable.

Budget allocated to court buildings was lowered due to budget cuts.

As regards budget allocated to court buildings, the new court buildings that began in the previous years were in process, therefore in 2021 the budget was lowered to the amount on finalising those court buildings projects.

As regards training budget, due to the other essential needs appeared during the year for the KJC, the training budget was cut.

Q004 (2020): Budget allocated to computerization includes 160,000 for buying computers and IT equipment for Kosovo Judicial Council and Courts, and 150,000 for the maintenance of the IT system. Concerning sub-q. 3, there is a considerable discrepancy with the data from the previous year. This is because, in the data from the last year, we did not deduct the amount dedicated to free legal aid. So, the data from the previous year regarding the total budget for this sector should be minus the sum dedicated to free legal aid. Concerning sub-Q. 4,5 and, the discrepancy between approved and implemented budget is a result of budgetary cuts because of the pandemic Covid 19. The differences in the approved and implemented budget of the sub2 is due to the purchase of new IT equipment(mainly new computers).

Q004 (2019): With regard to the budget allocated to training, there is a contract for training of IT staff and the payment has not been processed in 2019 but it will be processed in the first months of 2020 (it has not been processed yet). The implemented budget on new buildings differs significantly from the approved budget because there have planned four buildings to be built and only one of them has been built during 2019. Included in "Other" is the category good and services (includes office supplies and other material needed, i.e. paper, inventory etc.) as part of the KJC budge.

Q006 (2022): The initial approved budget for KPC was 17,144,178 € however, with budget reviews it was approved in the value of 14,596,934€ in total. The sum in the table 16,665,948.5 does not include the amount approved for lawyers (478,229.5€). In our budget categories we don't have separate category for budget for lawyers, but the budget code is named "legal representation cost" which include lawyers and experts. The total budget approved for this category was 956,459€.

Q006 (2021): The initial approved budget for KPC was 14,441,527.61 € however, with budget reviews it was approved in the value of 13,536,237.31€ in total. The sum of 13,114,257.84 does not include the amount approved for lawyers (421,979.5€). In prosecution's budget categories there is no separate category for budget for lawyers, but the budget code is named "legal representation cost" which includes lawyers and experts. The discrepancies in the budget allocated to training is because of budgetary cuts and reallocation of funds. The approved budget refers to the final version of the budget allocation. So, after the situation with COVID 19, the budget was reviewed and reallocated.

Q006 (2020): The discrepancies in the budget allocated to training is because of budgetary cuts and reallocation of funds. The approved budget refers to the final version of the budget allocation. So, after the situation with COVID 19, the budget was reviewed and reallocated.

Q006 (2019): It is impossible at this stage to get an answer from KJC on why there is a difference between approved and implemented budget because of the COVID situation.

Q012 (2022): Budget increased

Q012 (2021): In KPC budget categories we don't have separate category for budget for lawyers, but the budget code is named "legal representation cost" which include lawyers and experts. The total budget approved for this category was 843,959€ which we divided in 2 and the budget approved for lawyers being 421,979.5€.

As for the discrepancies, they are due to Covid pandemic aftermath and budget review.

Q012 (2020): In this year, we have been able to obtain the data for categories 'cases brought to court and cases not brought to court' for criminal cases too. The budget concerning cases not brought to court is managed by Kosovo Prosecutorial Council(KPC), while the Budget concerning cases brought to court is managed by the Kosovo Judicial Council(KJC). Therefore, for cases not brought to court, we have used the data offered by KPC, while for cases brought to court, we have used the data from KJC.

Q012 (2019): For your information, in Kosovo, the budget for legal aid is divided between three institutions: Free legal aid agency (for civil cases), KJC and KPC (for criminal cases).

Q013 (2021): As there was quite a budget cut for legal aid in 2020 due to the pandemic, in 2021 the budget was increased.

Q013 (2020): There is a difference between the approved and the implemented budget for Legal Aid, mainly because of the pandemic Covid 19. However, in the category "cases not brought to court" in criminal cases, the discrepancy between the approved and implemented budget is because the approved budget includes legal aid and expertise. At this moment, we are not been able to localize only the budget dedicated to legal aid. The courts have been dealing only with emergency cases for two and a half months in 2020(mid-March to June). However, even after the June, courts have not worked in their full capacities, because the Covid-19 situation deteriorated again in July. The budget was reviewed in June, and significant reallocation in the budget were made. And of course, due to the lockdown, the number of criminal cases was lower compared to previous years and consequently, a part from the budget allocated to legal aid for criminal cases was reallocated.

Q013 (2019): For your information, in Kosovo, the budget for legal aid is divided between three institutions: Free legal aid agency (for civil cases), KJC and KPC (for criminal cases).

Q013-2 (2022): FLAA for its cases before the court is exempted from court fees.

Q013-2 (2021): NA

Q007 (2022): The budget includes:

-KJC: Approved: 30,350,365 and 28,540,350 implemented.

-KPC: Approved: 16,665,948 and 13,067,462 implemented.

-FLAA Approved: 1,877,134 and 1,692,393 implemented.

Q007 (2021): The figures provided for 2021 include the budget only for courts, prosecution and free legal aid. In the previous year, the whole justice system budget included more elements of the system and consequently more budget.

Q007 (2020): The discrepancy between the approved and the implemented budget, as we explained in previous section, is because of budgetary cuts and reallocation of funds in dealing with Covid 19.

Q009 (2021): The figures of the Question 007 provided for 2021 include the budget only for courts, prosecution and free legal aid.

Q010 (2022): -KJC during 2022 had donations in the amount of €350,783.24 and that from UNDP and GIZ mainly for the support of the administrative staff in some courts of Kosovo (€48,627.95) and from the Norwegian Government for the SMIL project (€302,155.29).

-Prosecutorial system is constantly being supported by international partners, donors and projects through trainings, events, roundtables and donations. The sum in the table includes all of these activities.

-For FLAA funds have been allocated for the extension of free legal aid in municipalities where there is no regional office and mobile office for providing free legal aid and raising the professional capacities of officials.

During 2022, FLAA was also supported by the donor USAID - JAK through these activities:

- Publication of the Manual of Legal Aid Practitioners in Kosovo in civil, family and property legal matters;
- Training for 5 trainers trained in the use of the Manual of Legal Aid Practitioners in Kosovo in civil, family and property legal matters and the realization of trainings;
- Drafting of the report Mapping the Needs of Communities for Justice 2022;
- Organization of training on Mediation for 24 officials of ANJF;
- ANJF Communication Strategy 2022 - 2025;
- Support in the organization of the Free Legal Aid Week (23 – 27 May)
- Organization of 3 thematic roundtables with the participation of representatives from ANJF and NGOs that offer free legal assistance;
- Setting up the Info stand and distributing brochures with information about the ANJF, in Prizren during the Dokufest festival;
- Placement of permanent information shelves with brochures for the ANJF in the Basic Court in Mitrovica (in the south and north);
- Preparation and publication of the Video with information on the Agency for Free Legal Aid in sign language - dedicated to deaf people;
- Preparation, promotion and distribution of brochures in Braille with information on the Agency for Free Legal Aid and services, dedicated to blind people;
- Distribution of 1,100 questionnaires in 11 branches of the association HANDIKOS throughout Kosovo and summary of data from the respondents.

The donor USAID - JAK has implemented the budget, so we have no knowledge about the amount spent for the above activities.

Q010 (2021): -The KJC has received donations from UNDP and GIZ mainly as support to the administrative staff of the courts (legal officer, translator).

The value of the donation from UNDP was € 26,997.77 while from GIZ was € 3,037.62

-Prosecutorial system is constantly being supported by international partners, donors and projects through trainings, events, roundtables and donations. The sum in the table includes all of these activities.

-Free Legal Aid Agency was supported by the donor GIZ and UNDP. The project of Providing Free Legal Aid, supported by the Donor GIZ, for the period 1 year January-December 2021, has employed 4 officials to provide free legal aid. The budget from the donor was in the amount of € 36,948.00. Meanwhile, the project Immediate Support for Recovery to COVID-19 supported by the Donor UNDP, has supported the Agency during 2021 with the amount of 10,240.00 €, has hired officials to provide free legal aid and a mobile clinic driver, from their salary € 8,018.76 and goods in the amount of € 2,221.24. The budget spent on this project was € 8,895.71.

Q010 (2020): In the category 'Budget allocated of the Whole Justice System" we have used data from the Aid Management Platform, where we generated this sum from the sub-category 'Legal and Judicial Development'. The last year we did not provide data in this question because there are no official numbers regarding the total contribution of external donors. So, please note that this is only an approximation and does not reflect the total amount of external donor funds with certainty. The real numbers can be different from what we offered here, but until we are able to find a way to get those data, we propose to use these data from the Aid Management Platform, as a general idea regarding external donor funds in Justice Sector. This estimate is by defect because there might be other projects which are not included: have refused to be included or for other reasons. The external donor funds which contribute to the budget of courts is not linear. These donations are annually based and can change from one year to another. For instance, an external donor can finance or support certain elements of courts, such as interpreters or other administrative staff. Same applies the Prosecution Services. We already collected the data from legal aid to.

Q010 (2019): With regard to courts, the sum is a donation from two international agencies: UNDP (148,619.54€) and GIZ (11,058.95 €)

With regard to Public Prosecution, the sum is the total of four donations: Donations from EULEX 12,013.00€, Training from EU 20,864.00€, UNDP 35,573.00€, Dutch Embassy 40,506.00€. There is also a donation from the US Embassy in Prishtina of IT equipment and furniture in the value of 175,655€. For clarification, these sums are not included in the annual budget of institutions.

Q011 (2021): Since the system does not allow decimals, below are the exact ratios for the above categories:

For Courts: 0.11%

For Prosecution services: 6.24%

For Legal Aid: 2,80%

Q011 (2020): Since the system does not allow decimals, the space between the numbers refers to a comma. i.e. 0 22 is 0,22%, 0 44 is 0,44%, 3 25 is 3,25% and 12 19 is 12,19%.

(2022): Total - Annual public budget allocated to the judicial system = TOTAL - Annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all courts (1 + 2 + 3 + 4 + 5 + 6 + 7) + Annual public budget allocated to the HJC + Annual public budget allocated to the CIT regarding the specific figures there is a discrepancy of 1 Euro. ;Total Annual public budget allocated to the judicial system: 27,824,922+ 2,385,360 +39,509 = 30,249,791

The training in courts is divided in 2 different parts, the training of magistrates is done by the School of Magistrates with their own budge, while the training of all non-magistrate staff is done by the HJC, for different reasons the budget this year has been planned as 0.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Data on the approved budget are classified according to the economic classification adopted by the ministries of finance. The data regarding the approved budget is classified in a way that allows obtaining data only on the following elements that relate to question 4:

-TOTAL - Annual budget allocated to the functioning of all courts, and -1. Annual public budget allocated to (gross) salaries. The classification used for budget approval does not allow to obtain data on other elements referred to in question 4.

The reports on execution budgets make it possible to distinguish budget figures for all the elements in the table. The amounts of all items are calculated using the budget execution reports as the best possible estimation.

(2022): There are two reasons why the amounts allocated for judicial expenses and training in 2022 are higher compared to the amounts allocated in 2021. First, after operating at a limited capacity in 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the courts continued to operate at full capacity in 2022. Secondly, due to inflation, a significant increase in the prices of services was recorded in 2022, and therefore the services of expertise, interpretation and training have become more expensive. In several courts, the amount of funds allocated for these purposes increased by more than 100% in 2022 compared to 2021

As regards investment in new buildings, the amount of funds allocated for the construction of new court buildings fluctuates from year to year, because it directly depends on the amount of funds donated for this purpose.

(2021): 5. Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings: Based on the insight into the implemented budgets for 2021, it is evident that the amount of annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings has significantly decreased compared to 2020. The decline in investments is due to the slow process of public procurement in the last two years, which is a result of the COVID-19 outbreak. Other costs are the expenditures such as travel expenses and the costs for the purchase of office material and office equipment.

(2020): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of courts is different from actually implemented budget mainly because the courts could not implement some of the allocated budget funds, as certain number of judicial and non-judicial positions were not filled in during the reporting year since the ongoing recruitment procedures have not been finalized fully. In addition, one of the highest courts could not implement the allocated budget for setting up the new department for organized crime and corruption cases, because the new department has not been established. Furthermore, the implemented annual public budget for training and investments in new court buildings declined considerably in 2020 compared to 2019, because the courts could not use all of the funds allocated for these purposes due to the reduction of the relevant activities in the context of the measures undertaken against the spread of COVID-19 pandemic. Other costs are the expenditures such as travel expenses and the costs for the purchase of office material and office equipment.

(2019): Some of the allocated budget funds have not been implemented because certain number of judicial and non-judicial position remained vacant. The allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest instance courts has not been implemented. There is no continuity of planning budget funds for the construction of new court buildings. For this reason, the amount of funds spent for this purpose can vary significantly. That is the explanation for the variation in the implemented budget for investments in new (court) buildings. Other costs are the expenditures for travel expenses and purchase of office material and office equipment.

Montenegro

(2022): -Differences relate to the enforcements via the Ministry of Finance (court experts and lawyers expenses) payed through enforcement procedures (e.g. bailiffs etc.)

- Other costs are other personal incomes, jubilee awards, severance payments, one time assistance payments, separate family life bonus, administrative/office material, fuel costs, energy bills, communication services, lawyer services, consulting services, banking services, licenses, insurances, employment contracts, utilities etc.

(2021): The difference relates to the enforcements through the Ministry of Finance (court experts and lawyers), which are being payed by enforced collection.

Since 2018 there has been an increase in the budget allocated to courts buildings (maintenance, operating costs) which is due to the fact that the requests of courts for more funds for this purpose were approved during the preparation of the courts budget.

Discrepancy clarifications:

-~~A~~Annual public budget allocated to court buildings (maintenance, operating costs) - There was an increase in the monetary amount due to the adaptation of official premises in several Montenegrin courts.

-~~A~~Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings - There was an increase in the monetary amount due to the fact that construction works were carried out on the building of the Commercial Court of Montenegro on the adaptation of the building itself.

-~~A~~Annual public budget allocated to training - There was a decrease in the said amount due to the fact that this year a smaller number of trainings was conducted compared to the previous reporting because of the COVID-19 pandemics.

North Macedonia

(General Comment): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc.

(2022): The court budget includes only the budget of all courts.

2. North Macedonia in 2022 allocated huge budget to investments in computerization (replacement of all old servers in all the courts and in the Judicial Council with new servers, 308 new computers, new laptops, 212 new printers, 64 new scanners, new softwares (for example: for evaluation of judges).
4. Maintenance of the court buildings and operating costs in 2022 are higher due to new prices of gas and electricity in our country and on the world level, as a consequences from COVID-19 and war in Ukraine.
5. In 2022, the renovation of the new building of Administrative court was finished. That was the second phase of the plan with smaller allocated budget for finishing the project, since the budget of first phase of the plan was larger and implemented in 2021.
7. All the prices and costs in 2022 are higher due to inflation. Please, see also explanation for category 4.

3. The expenses are higher due to higher amount of court expertise.
4. Expected increased amount of bills. 5. Reconstruction of the building of the Administrative court.
7. No supply on new cars and all cost are decreased because other expenses in other lines are higher.

(2020): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc. The court budget includes only the budgets of all courts.

The decreasing of the court budget in 2020 in total is due to the fact that with the rebalance of the budget in 2019, about 2 million euros were provided for non paid allowances on the judges from the previous years. This allowances were paid in 2019.

Regarding the line 3 which refers to the justice expenses, the significant reduction of the total amount is due to the fact that according to the Law on Criminal Procedure, costs for court expertise are no longer paid by the court budget. Now they are paying by the PPO Budget. From the court budget now are only paying court expertise for old cases which are long time in the system, before the new Law on criminal procedure start with implementation. In 2020, the number of this type of old cases for which the expertise was paid by the courts was significantly lower compared to previous years.

Regarding the line 5 (New court buildings), in 2019 money were provided for the renovation of the building of the Administrative Court. However, the renovation of the building was not realized, due to administrative-technical problems. In the 2020 budget, money for this purpose were not provided.

Line for training is not included here, but in the questions about the Academy for judges and public prosecutors.

(2019): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc. The court budget includes only the budgets of all courts.

The difference between approved and implemented budget in line 5 (new court buildings) is because in the budget for 2019 were planed money for reconstruction on the new building on Administrative court, which was not realized in 2019.

Line for training is not included here, but in the questions about the Academy for judges and public prosecutors.

There has been an increase since 2018 of the budget in (4.2) computerization due to the fact that in 2019 there wasn't a supply of IT equipment for the courts from international projects. There has also been an increase of the budget for (4.3) Justice expenses due to higher amounts for the lay judges, higher costs for court expertise and increased Bar Tarriff. There has been a decrease in the budget allocated to (4.4) court buildings because part was allocated instead to investments in new court buildings. Finally, there has been an increased budget for the category (4.7) Other because allowances of judges were paid for previous years (2016,2017,2018) and because new cars were supplied for all courts in 2019.

Serbia

(General Comment): The budget system of RS provides for unified collection of court fees, which are all paid to one account. The collected court fees are a revenue of the Republic of Serbia, from which 40% is allocated to the High Judicial Council for current expenses of the courts, except for expenses for court staff and staff at the public prosecutor's office, and 20% is allocated to the Ministry of Justice to improve the financial situation of employees in the courts and the public prosecutors' offices who are court staff and the staff of the Public Prosecutor's Office, other expenditures as well as investments in accordance with the law. Therefore, the amounts which the High Judicial Council and the MoJ transfer to the courts for various items in Q6 also come from court fees.

Part of the legal aid budget is included in "justice expenses" and cannot be calculated separately

(2019): Data for 4.1 encompasses:

Total Approved budget: 257,227,518.72eur Total Implemented budget: 250,696,887.46 eur

4.1.1 Judges' salaries (High Judicial Council and other direct budgetary users): Approved budget: 57,100,974.72 eur

Implemented budget: 55,810,889.47 eur

4.1.2.Salaries of court employees (civil servants and administrative, technical and other non-judicial engaged individuals (High Judicial Council and other direct budgetary users):

Approved budget: 83,117,765.21 eur

Implemented budget: 82,885,723.90 eur

Data for 4.2 covers: The funds spent for administrative equipment, furniture and computerization of courts (MoJ data), as well as the data of the judicial institutions on the state level (SCC, Misdemeanour Appellate Court, Commercial Appellate Court). This court budget data is from the 2018-2020 Evaluation Cycle (2018 data) onwards separated from the PPO data with the following formula, having in mind the proportional allocation of resources: courts: 85%; ppo's: 15%, in line with the needs of the courts and ppo's. The major increase in this category with respect to the 2018 data is due to the IT equipping and furnishing completely the Palace of Justice in Belgrade, which started work in 2019. For 2019, the approved budget for 4.3 justice expenses is 23 789 735 and implemented budget is 22 746 416; the approved budget for the category 4.7 "other" is 70 485 421 and implemented budget is 68 774 633. However those data were collected with a new methodology of the High Judicial Council which is not conform with CEPEJ methodology. Data for 4.3 (implemented) is given for expenses of judicial experts and court interpreters in court proceedings (data provided by High Judicial Council - HJC). The HJC from the corrected 2018 data onward shows in this category 65% of the economic classification no. 423, while the rest (lawyers, lay judges, etc.) is included under 4.7.

Data for 4.4. Annual public budget allocated to court buildings (maintenance, operating costs) – This court budget data is from the 2018-2020 Evaluation Cycle (2018 data) onwards separated from the PPO data with the following formula, having in mind the proportional allocation of resources: courts: 85%; ppo's: 15%, in line with the use of the building premises by the courts and ppo's. Data for 4.5. Annual public budget allocated to investment in new and reconstruction buildings - (ex. reconstruction of Palace of Justice, construction of a new palace of justice in Kragujevac). This court budget data is from the 2018-2020 Evaluation Cycle (2018 data) onwards separated from the PPO data with the following formula, having in mind the proportional allocation of resources: courts: 85%; ppo's: 15%, in line with the use of the building premises by the courts and ppo's. Data for 4.6. Annual public budget allocated to training – Annual public budget allocated to training is given in the section addressing the Judicial Academy.

Data for 4.7. Includes budget for HJC and MoJ as well as the data of the judicial institutions on the state level (SCC, Misdemeanour Appellate Court, Commercial Appellate Court). This court budget data is from the 2018-2020 Evaluation Cycle (2018 data) onwards separated from the PPO data with the following formula, having in mind the proportional allocation of resources: courts: 85%; ppo's: 15%. Includes other funds related to compensation of expenses for civil servants and employees (ex. costs of travel), jubilee awards, improving the material position of employees (stimulation).

Regarding the increase in this category with respect to the 2018 data, it is due to the many approved and effected payments made to citizens and companies (in bankruptcy

Kosovo*

(2022): Digitalization of services;

New courts to be build;

No financing trainings for 2022 due to budget cut.

(2021): Justice expenses budget increased because as the courts proceeded with full capacity after Covid restrictions, more expertise and interpretation expenses became indispensable.

Budget allocated to court buildings was lowered due to budget cuts.

As regards budget allocated to court buildings, the new court buildings that began in the previous years were in process, therefore in 2021 the budget was lowered to the amount on finalising those court buildings projects.

As regards training budget, due to the other essential needs appeared during the year for the KJC, the training budget was cut.

(2020): Budget allocated to computerization includes 160,000 for buying computers and IT equipment for Kosovo Judicial Council and Courts, and 150,000 for the maintenance of the IT system. Concerning sub-q. 3, there is a considerable discrepancy with the data from the previous year. This is because, in the data from the last year, we did not deduct the amount dedicated to free legal aid. So, the data from the previous year regarding the total budget for this sector should be minus the sum dedicated to free legal aid. Concerning sub-Q. 4,5 and, the discrepancy between approved and implemented budget is a result of budgetary cuts because of the pandemic Covid 19. The differences in the approved and implemented budget of the sub2 is due to the purchase of new IT equipment(mainly new computers).

(2019): With regard to the budget allocated to training, there is a contract for training of IT staff and the payment has not been processed in 2019 but it will be processed in the first months of 2020 (it has not been processed yet). The implemented budget on new buildings differs significantly from the approved budget because there have planned four buildings to be built and only one of them has been built during 2019. Included in "Other" is the category good and services (includes office supplies and other material needed, i.e. paper, inventory etc.) as part of the KJC budge.

Albania

(2021): At the prosecution, office there is no budget allocated to training of public prosecution services. Please note that training of judges and prosecutors is allocated to the budget of School of Magistrates.

The difference between approved budget and implemented budget consists mainly in savings of payments due to the vetting process (dismissal of prosecutors, some vacancies of administrative staff and prosecutors, savings from building reconstructions, etc

(2022): Some prosecution offices allocated a smaller amount of funding in connection with the training in the reporting year. However, the disparities in training funding for 2022 compared to 2021 are not significant considering the small value of absolute amounts the prosecution offices generally allocate for this purpose.

(2020): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all prosecutors' offices is different from actually implemented budget mainly because the prosecutors' offices could not implement some of the allocated budget funds, as certain number of judicial and non-judicial positions were not filled in during the reporting year since the ongoing recruitment procedures have not been finalized fully. Also, the allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest prosecutor's offices has not been implemented, because the new unit has not been established. The implemented annual public budget for training of public prosecution services declined considerably in 2020 compared to 2019, because the prosecutors' offices could not use all of the funds allocated for this purpose due to the reduction of the training activities in the context of the measures undertaken against the spread of COVID-19 pandemic.

(2019): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all prosecutors' offices from actually implemented budget is different mainly due to the following reasons: Some of the allocated budget funds have not been implemented because certain number of judicial and non-judicial position remained vacant. The allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest prosecutor's offices has not been implemented.

Montenegro

(2020): The difference between the approved and implemented budget was due to the budget rebalance, all pursuant to the Law on Amendments to the Budget Law (Official Gazette of Montenegro 61/2020 as of 24 June 2020).

(2019): Difference between the approved and implemented budget is related to the payment of the obligations from the previous period – court enforcements in the amount of 290.245,42€, which enforcement is being implemented through the Ministry of Finance.

(General Comment): The legal aid is financed through the budgets of individual courts (e.g. funds for legal aid are mainly used to pay for the services of ex officio appointed attorneys in criminal cases) and the budgets of legal aid institutions that are government bodies independent from the courts. The accounting methodology does not make it possible to distinguish the amount of budget funds earmarked by the courts for legal aid from other funds which are planned within the same line in the court budget. Though, it is possible to differentiate the amount of funds spent for legal aid in the implemented court budget. On the other hand the lawyers employed by the government legal aid institutions provide legal aid in different legal fields (i.e. representation in criminal, civil, administrative court proceedings; provision of legal advice outside of court or other proceedings), therefore it is not possible to split the planned or implemented budget funds of the legal aid institutions between different legal fields. In conclusion, it is only possible to make the calculation of the annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid without dividing it among criminal and other than criminal cases.

Montenegro

(2022): in 2022 no separate amount for legal aid for courts was allocated, but that was a part of the budget section 4146 - lawyer services. In 2022 for legal aid the amount implemented is 108.776 Eur

(2020): Free legal aid is always approved under account 4146 of the Budget of Montenegro (Law on Budget), which refers to all attorney's fees, so it is not possible to provide the requested information separately.

North Macedonia

(2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are calculated according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

Budget is increased for implementation on the new Law on free legal aid and facilitation of the conditions for getting on free legal aid.

For line 2.for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services) budget is planed in total budget for free legal aid. Because of that it not possible to be given separately.

The budget for free legal aid in other than criminal cases for 2019 is increased in comparison with the budget from 2018. The budget on the Ministry of justice in 2018 was 3.000.000, 00 denars (48.780 euros) and for 2019 budget was 5.000.000,00 denars (81.301 euros). 2. for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services)

Serbian law stipulates funding from the state budget and local self-government budget for cases brought to court (court fees and/or legal representation), as well as for mediators and public notaries as providers of free legal aid. These cases are funded 50% from the state budget and 50% from local self-government budget. The actual payment takes place following the completion of a certain phase of the proceedings. Given that the law started implementation on October 1st 2019, most cases brought to court have not yet been finalized.

(2019): The figures supplied by the HCC (High Court Council/High Judicial Council), Public Prosecution for War Crimes and Public Prosecution for Organised Crimes (12.1, 13.1 TOTAL) pertain to the costs for lawyers in criminal/civil proceedings (not including costs of ex officio defense prior to initiating of court proceedings).

Therefore, for cases not brought to court, we have used the data offered by KPC, while for cases brought to court, we have used the data from KJC.

(2019): For your information, in Kosovo, the budget for legal aid is divided between three institutions: Free legal aid agency (for civil cases), KJC and KPC (for criminal cases).

Question 013

Albania

(2021): Performance throughout 2021, the first year of full capacity operation of the free legal aid mechanism, has marked an increase in the number of court decisions that grant applicants the right to secondary legal aid and exemption from court fees and costs. We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

(2020): The above data is referred to the implemented/ allocated budget of Free Legal Aid Directorate for 2020. The difference between allocated budget and implemented budget has come as a result of delays in the recruitment of FLAD staff but also employees of primary legal aid service centers in the districts of the Republic of Albania. Also, another factor is related to the financing procedures of 12 authorized non-profit organizations which provide primary legal aid, a procedure which is expected to start in March 2021.

Following the approval of the legal aid law, the budget of legal aid was increased substantially to provide for primary and secondary legal aid. The law foresees the opening of legal clinics, that will provide primary legal aid to all citizens. For 2020, 8 legal clinics were foreseen to be opened. Additionally, the criteria for providing secondary legal aid were clarified in the law, and they granted legal aid to a considerate number of applicants. With the establishment of the Legal Aid Directorate, courts started to grant secondary legal aid to applicants. (the Directorate is in charge of administering the court decision, and making the payment to the lawyer, based on that court decision). Hence, all these activities, were supported by an increased budget.

Montenegro

(2022): in 2022 no separate amount for legal aid for courts was allocated, but that was a part of the budget section 4146 - lawyer services. In 2022 for legal aid the amount implemented is 108.776 Eur

(2020): A smaller number of requests for free legal aid were adopted, thus less money was spent.

North Macedonia

(2022): Implementation of the new Law on free legal aid was one of the strategic goals. Campaigns in 2022 through the whole country to raise awareness of beneficiaries about their rights to free legal aid were very successful. These Numbers are the proof for improvement of usage of free legal aid system in our country.

(2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are payed according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

(2020): The budget for the legal aid in criminal cases is composed by: the budget for ex-officio lawyers according to the Law on Criminal procedure and the poor law budget. There are no other criminal cases, except criminal cases brought to court.

A little increasing in the implemented public budget in the other than criminal cases, is due to the fact that we start with full implementation new Law on free legal aid where the conditions for obtaining legal aid are facilitated.

(2019): The amount of implemented budget for other than criminal cases is lower than approved budget because conditions were very strict for getting on free legal aid according to the provisions of the previous Law on free legal aid and the new Law start with implementation on 01.10.2019. Three months of implementation on the new Law is very short period for increasing the number of cases and according to that increasing of the implemented budget.

Serbia

(2022): Please note that the total amount refers only to the cases of granted free legal aid according the Law on free legal aid. This amount does not cover the free legal aid that was provided according to the Criminal Procedure Code (mandatory defense, etc.)

Q013: TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) - 92056 euros. A greater number of cases of free legal aid in 2022 resulted in a greater amount of money spent on the provided free legal aid. The amount for 2022 is higher compared to the previous two years, taking into account that during 2022 all measures against covid-19 were canceled.

(2021): The budget for the Legal Aid is executed based on the requests from the municipalities (local governments) and can cover only up to 50% of the total budget spent annually by municipalities (local governments), based on the Law on Legal Aid.

The Legal Aid does not include "mandatory representation in criminal cases" by lawyers, before the Serbian courts, which is the cost covered by the High Judicial Council.

(2020): TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2)

If the public budget actually implemented regarding legal aid is different from the annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid, please indicate the main reasons for the differences:

Data shall be available for the next report.

(2019): The figures supplied by the HCC (High Court Council/High Judicial Council), Public Prosecution for War Crimes and Public Prosecution for Organised Crimes (12.1, 13.1 TOTAL) pertain to the costs for lawyers in criminal/civil proceedings (not including costs of ex officio defence prior to initiating of court proceedings).

Kosovo*

(2021): As there was quite a budget cut for legal aid in 2020 due to the pandemic, in 2021 the budget was increased.

(2020): There is a difference between the approved and the implemented budget for Legal Aid, mainly because of the pandemic Covid 19. However, in the category "cases not brought to court" in criminal cases, the discrepancy between the approved and implemented budget is because the approved budget includes legal aid and expertise. At this moment, we are not been able to localize only the budget dedicated to legal aid. The courts have been dealing only with emergency cases for two and a half months in 2020 (mid-March to June). However, even after the June, courts have not worked in their full capacities, because the Codiv-19 situation deteriorated again in July. The budget was reviewed in June, and significant reallocation in the budget were made. And of course, due to the lockdown, the number of criminal cases was lower compared to previous years and consequently, a part from the budget allocated to legal aid for criminal cases was reallocated.

(2019): For your information, in Kosovo, the budget for legal aid is divided between three institutions: Free legal aid agency (for civil cases), KJC and KPC (for criminal cases).

Against the decision of the court, an appeal can be made to the court of appeal, according to the provisions of the article 22 of law.

4. The decision to accept the request for exemption from the payment of court fees and expenses court is immediately notified to the Directorate of Free Legal Aid.

The court decision on the exemption from the payment of court fees and expenses constitutes a title executive and executed in accordance with the provisions of the procedural legislation.

2. The payment of court expenses, for which the exemption has been established, is covered by the budget approved for the Ministry of Justice and paid by the Directorate of Free Legal Aid.

3. Payments made by the Free Legal Aid Directorate, according to point 2 of this article, cannot exceed the amount of remuneration for experts

(2021): The court costs for the beneficiary citizens are paid/covered by the Free Legal Aid Directorate according to the procedures for the payment of court costs (Article 28 (2)). The bylaw on the remuneration of experts and witnesses (Art 28 (3)) and the procedures for the payment of court costs (Art 28 (4), 7 (gj)) regulate with which amount and when experts and witnesses are paid.

Montenegro

(General Comment): Free legal aid is always approved under account 4146 of the Budget of Montenegro (Law on Budget), which refers to all attorney's fees, so it is not possible to provide the requested information separately

North Macedonia

(2021): According to procedural laws and Law on free legal aid.

Serbia

(General Comment): The Law on Civil Procedure, Article 168:

The court shall exempt from payment of the costs of the proceedings a party who, due to his general financial situation, is not able to bear these costs.

Exemption from payment of costs of proceedings includes exemption from payment of fees and exemption from advance payment for costs of witnesses, experts, on-site inspections and court announcements.

The court may also exempt a party from paying the fee, in accordance with a special law.

When making a decision on exemption from paying the costs of the procedure, the court considers all the circumstances, and especially takes into account the value of the subject matter of the dispute, the number of persons supported by the party and income and property owned by the party and its family members.

(2020): budget planned based on the needs of the system

(2019): Please note that SPAK was established mid-2019 and its budget was approved through the midyear revision law. Hence, implemented budget is higher than approved budget.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2020): The annual approved public budget allocated to the whole justice system was reduced in 2020 compared to 2019, due to the following circumstances:

- Prison system: A smaller amount of funds was planned for the construction of new prison buildings in 2020 following the completion of the new maximum-security prison in 2019;
- COVID-19 measures: In addition, some of the funds allocated in the 2020 budget for the justice system were transferred to finance the measures easing the economic and other problems caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

(General Comment): The Budget for the whole justice system includes: whole Court budget, budget of the Judicial Council, budget of Public Prosecution offices, budget of the Council of Public Prosecutors, Academy for judges and public prosecutors, Ministry of justice, Constitutional court, Prisons, State Attorney office and Ombudsman office. The biggest portion of the justice budget is allocated to the courts, prisons and public prosecution offices.

(2020): In this budget are included court budget, budgets on Judicial Council, budget on Academy for judges and public prosecutors, Public Prosecution office, Ministry of justice, Constitutional court, Prisons, State Attorney office and Ombudsman office.

The biggest portion of the justice budget is allocated to the courts, prisons and public prosecution office.

Total approved budget is lower because there is no presented budget for the Special Public Prosecutor office and a lower court budget and the budget of the Academy for judges and public prosecutors. For the reasons please see comment on Q4.

(2019): In this budget are included court budget, budgets on Judicial Council, budget on Academy for judges and public prosecutors, Public Prosecution office, Ministry of justice, Constitutional court, Prisons, State Attorney office and Ombudsman office.

The biggest portion of the justice budget is allocated to the courts, prisons and public prosecution office.

The portion of implemented budgets are less in the Academy for judges and public prosecutors and Prisons. In the budget for Academy were planned money for salaries for candidates in the seventh generation, but this generation did not start till the end of 2019.

(2019): The Administration for the Enforcement of Criminal Sanctions has an approved budget of EUR 115,906,417.50 and implemented of EUR 104,867,913.29 High Court Council approved budget: EUR 1,357,583.12 and implemented budget: EUR 1,167,027.23 . State Prosecutorial Council approved budget: EUR 1,041,806.98 and implemented budget EUR 992,286.33

Ministry of Justice approved budget: EUR 13,579,998.10 and implemented budget: EUR 12,979,860.75 Constitutional Court: EUR 3,173,935.82 and implemented: EUR 2,900,116.52

The budget for State Attorney's Office: approved budget: EUR 8,447,421.95 and implemented EUR: 6,723,198.11 The indicated total amount does not include the total budget for legal aid as it is N/A (some available economic classifications are included). Budgets for courts, pp, prison system, high councils for the judiciary, state attorney's office, MoJ and Constitutional Court are included.

Kosovo*

(2022): The budget includes:

-KJC: Approved: 30,350,365 and 28,540,350 implemented.

-KPC: Approved: 16,665,948 and 13,067,462 implemented.

-FLAA Approved: 1,877,134 and 1,692,393 implemented.

(2021): The figures provided for 2021 include the budget only for courts, prosecution and free legal aid. In the previous year, the whole justice system budget included more elements of the system and consequently more budget.

(2020): The discrepancy between the approved and the implemented budget, as we explained in previous section, is because of budgetary cuts and reallocation of funds in dealing with Covid 19.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): There are no specialized institutions delivering probation services. The courts decide on some issues related to the probation matters, the relevant functionaries determine the matters related to the pardon of convicted defendants. Judicial management body is not included in the budgetary elements since the High Judicial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which is included in the budgetary elements has the regulatory functions within the judicial system of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Enforcement function (i.e. enforcement services) and judicial protection of juveniles are carried out within the courts and public prosecution services; related costs are included in the public budget of the court, public prosecution system and the whole justice system, however, there is no specific budget line related to the enforcement function of courts and judicial protection of juveniles by courts and public prosecution services; the budget allocated to social workers involved in the youth protection is not part of the judicial budget in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Refugees and asylum seekers services and immigration services are the responsibility of various institutions outside the justice system; in addition, related costs cannot be extracted from the overall budget of the relevant institutions. Notary chambers and notaries are not financed by the public budgets.

Serbia

(2019): The indicated total amount DOES NOT INCLUDE the total budget for legal aid as it is N/A. However, some available economic classifications are included - of the HJC and the relevant prosecution offices. From 2020 the full budget should be available as the Law on Free Legal Aid (2018) will be applicable during the span of the whole year.

Question 010

Albania

(2020): The above budget is the amount spent by the EU technical assistance mission EURALIUS, aiming to support the implementation of justice reform in Albania for 2020. However, please note that there are at least two other major projects aiming to support the justice system, one implemented by Council of Europe in Albania and the other by a contractor of USAID. However, no data are available for these project.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2019): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina during 2019 implemented donor funded project activities aimed at reforming the courts and the public prosecution service in the amount of 2820650 EUR. Source of information is the HJPC annual report for 2019.

Overall amount of funds used to finance donor activities which are implemented by the international organisations (e.g. United States Agency for International Development, World Bank, etc) is not available since the HJPC is not implementing them.

In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2022, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular. Regional projects are included in the total amount.

(2021): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2021, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular.

The amount is lower in the column budget allocated to courts in comparison to the last year, because for many of the projects where a larger amount of funds was allocated (ex. projects related with supply on equipment) finished at the end of 2020.

All relevant projects are counted in this question. Regional projects are not included in the total amount. Regional projects that were implemented in 2021 by the external donors in North Macedonia were: Regional Rule of Law initiative, Strengthening Enforcement in North Macedonia, Serbia, Kosovo, Albania, Global Program Combating Illicit Financial Flows, Countering Serious Crimes in the Western Balkans-IPA 2019, Open Regional Fund for SEE-Legal reform, Regional project Enhancing penitentiary capacities in addressing radicalisation in prisons in Western Balkans, Regional project: iPROCEEDS – Targeting crime proceeds on the Internet in South Eastern Europe and Turkey.

(2020): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2020, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular. Most of the projects started with implementation in 2019. For example, if the project last 24 months and started in June 2019 till June 2021, then according to the formula from the explanation note the higher amount from the project budget was spent in 2020. This is the reason, why in 2020 the budget is higher in comparison with 2019. Also, new projects started with implementation in 2020.

All relevant projects are counted in this question. Regional projects are not included in the total amount. Regional projects that were implemented in 2020 by the external donors in North Macedonia were: Regional Rule of Law initiative, Strengthening Enforcement in North Macedonia, Serbia, Kosovo, Albania, Global Program Combating Illicit Financial Flows, Countering Serious Crimes in the Western Balkans, Open Regional Fund for SEE-Legal reform, Building capacities of South Eastern Europe to conduct financial investigations to effectively detect, deter and prosecute money laundering and the financing of terrorism as well as enhance regional and inter-agency cooperation, Promoting rule of law and good governance through targeted border control measures at ports and airports.

(2020): EU projects can only present data from financial reports adopted by the Audit / Control, and the reporting period does not coincide necessarily with the calendar year. Namely, as the reports are submitted every 6 months, in this review it is possible to present data in relation to the following two periods (according to the approved financial reports): November 1, 2018-31. October 2019 = 565,656 (for the period of 12 months)

November 1, 2019-31. October 2020 = 863,544 (for the period of 12 months).

Data for the period running from 1 November 2020 will be known at the end of that period (March 2021), upon adoption by the Audit.

Within the Component 3 of IPA 2013 project, which dealt with corruption repression, joint trainings for prosecution, courts, MoI and other state authorities were organized. It is not possible to divide costs per each institution. USDOJ / OPDAT was organized joint trainings for prosecution, courts and MoI, and it is not possible to divide cost for each institution. Also, certification courses for fraud and money laundering (82 454 EUR) was organised for representatives of different state authorities (MoI, prosecution, etc.), whose costs is not possible to divide. Within the item „donation of equipment and vehicles (total amount of eur 250.393), there is donation to the Main Group for fighting human trafficking that consist of MoI, Prosecution for organized crime, where is not possible to divide costs (eur 41 458), as well as donation of equipment and vehicles for Specialized departments for suppression of corruption, which is only dedicated to the prosecution (eur 208 935).

USAID GAI noted that there is no possibility to divide budget per institutions for 2019 and 2020, and that part of activities is being implements with funding from other donors. OEBS organized joint trainings for courts, prosecution and MoI, and implemented budget is not possible to divide . OEBS Project Strengthening capacities of Serbian police in a fight against corruption, Phase 2 is primarily supported MoI, but there were organized joint trainings for MoI and prosecution, and implemented budget is not possible to divide. Council of Europe Project Preventing money laundering and financing of terrorism in Serbia has been officially started 2020, but for the objective circumstances, implementation of activities started in November 2020. Within this period implementation of activities .started with other beneficiary institution's, and support to the RPPO is planned for 2021. The number Budget allocated to the whole justice system (question 7)- 3,941,467.

(2019): Projects are mostly implemented under the direct management modality (IPA), i.e. the donors themselves manage their funds - they are not paid into the budget and the MoJ/State does not have insight into the funds spent, nor has the budgetary data ever been collected as requested in the Questionnaire. The MoJ will look into modalities of gathering reliable data for the following evaluation cycle.

Kosovo*

(2022): -KJC during 2022 had donations in the amount of €350,783.24 and that from UNDP and GIZ mainly for the support of the administrative staff in some courts of Kosovo (€48,627.95) and from the Norwegian Government for the SMIL project (€302,155.29).

-Prosecutorial system is constantly being supported by international partners, donors and projects through trainings, events, roundtables and donations. The sum in the table includes all of these activities.

-For FLAA funds have been allocated for the extension of free legal aid in municipalities where there is no regional office and mobile office for providing free legal aid and raising the professional capacities of officials.

During 2022, FLAA was also supported by the donor USAID - JAK through these activities:

- Publication of the Manual of Legal Aid Practitioners in Kosovo in civil, family and property legal matters;
- Training for 5 trainers trained in the use of the Manual of Legal Aid Practitioners in Kosovo in civil, family and property legal matters and the realization of trainings;
- Drafting of the report Mapping the Needs of Communities for Justice 2022;
- Organization of training on Mediation for 24 officials of ANJF;
- ANJF Communication Strategy 2022 - 2025;
- Support in the organization of the Free Legal Aid Week (23 – 27 May)
- Organization of 3 thematic roundtables with the participation of representatives from ANJF and NGOs that offer free legal assistance;
- Setting up the Info stand and distributing brochures with information about the ANJF, in Prizren during the Dokufest festival;
- Placement of permanent information shelves with brochures for the ANJF in the Basic Court in Mitrovica (in the south and north);
- Preparation and publication of the Video with information on the Agency for Free Legal Aid in sign language - dedicated to deaf people;
- Preparation, promotion and distribution of brochures in Braille with information on the Agency for Free Legal Aid and services, dedicated to blind people;
- Distribution of 1,100 questionnaires in 11 branches of the association HANDIKOS throughout Kosovo and summary of data from the respondents.

The donor USAID - JAK has implemented the budget, so we have no knowledge about the amount spent for the above activities.

(2021): -The KJC has received donations from UNDP and GIZ mainly as support to the administrative staff of the courts (legal officer, translator).

The value of the donation from UNDP was € 26,997.77 while from GIZ was € 3,037.62

-Prosecutorial system is constantly being supported by international partners, donors and projects through trainings, events, roundtables and donations. The sum in the table includes all of these activities.

-Free Legal Aid Agency was supported by the donor GIZ and UNDP. The project of Providing Free Legal Aid, supported by the Donor GIZ, for the period 1 year January-December 2021, has employed 4 officials to provide free legal aid. The budget from the donor was in the amount of € 36,948.00. Meanwhile, the project Immediate Support for Recovery to COVID-19 supported by the Donor UNDP, has supported the Agency during 2021 with the amount of 10,240.00 €, has hired officials to provide free legal aid and a mobile clinic driver, from their salary € 8,018.76 and goods in the amount of € 2,221.24. The budget spent on this project was € 8,895.71.

(2020): In the category 'Budget allocated of the Whole Justice System" we have used data from the Aid Management Platform, where we generated this sum from the sub-category 'Legal and Judicial Development'. The last year we did not provide data in this question because there are no official numbers regarding the total contribution of external donors. So, please note that this is only an approximation and does not reflect the total amount of external donor funds with certainty. The real numbers can be different from what we offered here, but until we are able to find a way to get those data, we propose to use these data from the Aid Management Platform, as a general idea regarding external donor funds in Justice Sector. This estimate is by defect because there might be other projects which are not included: have refused to be included or for other reasons. The external donor funds which contribute to the budget of courts is not linear. These donations are annually based and can change from one year to another. For instance, an external donor can finance or support certain elements of courts, such as interpreters or other administrative staff. Same applies the Prosecution Services. We already collected the data from legal aid to.

(2019): With regard to courts, the sum is a donation from two international agencies: UNDP (148,619.54€) and GIZ (11,058.95 €)

With regard to Public Prosecution, the sum is the total of four donations: Donations from EULEX 12,013.00€, Training from EU 20,864.00€, UNDP 35,573.00€, Dutch Embassy 40,506.00€. Question 011

Albania

(2022): The exact answer is NAP we have not had any external donor fund.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2022): Donor funds are not included in the budgets of courts, public prosecution services and legal aid institutions; the external funds are implemented in addition to the budgets within the projects financed by the donors or by a nongovernmental organization that provides legal aid in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The most important donors are: the European Commission, USAID, Sweden, Norway, and Switzerland.

(2021): External donors provide funding for the IT system in judiciary and aimed at improving functioning of judiciary. Donor funds are not included in the budgets of courts, public prosecution services and legal aid institutions; the external funds are implemented in addition to the budgets within the projects financed by the donors or by a non-governmental organization that provides legal aid throughout Bosnia and Herzegovina. The biggest donors are: the European Commission, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, and USAID.

North Macedonia

(2022): Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. That is budget of the external donors. The percent is a number of the project budget from the Q10 divided with the implemented budget from Q 4, 6, 13 and 7 multiplied by 100.

Budget allocated to the whole justice system is 0,7

(2020): Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. That is budget of the external donors. The percent is a number of the project budget from the Q10 divided with the implemented budget from Q 4, 6, 12/13 and 7 multiplied by 100.

Serbia

(2019): Projects are mostly implemented under the direct management modality (IPA), i.e. the donors themselves manage their funds - they are not paid into the budget and the MoJ/State does not have insight into the funds spent, nor has the budgetary data ever been collected as requested in the Questionnaire. The MoJ will look into modalities of gathering reliable data for the following evaluation cycle.

Kosovo*

(2021): Since the system does not allow decimals, below are the exact ratios for the above categories:

For Courts: 0.11%

For Prosecution services: 6.24%

For Legal Aid: 2,80%

(2020): Since the system does not allow decimals, the space between the numbers refers to a comma. i.e. 0 22 is 0,22%, 0 44 is 0,44%, 3 25 is 3,25% and 12 19 is 12,19%.

Average monthly gross salary for a salaried employee, during in the end of 2022, is 66,014 ALL, increasing by 10.8%, compared to the data of previous years.

Q014 (2019): Data are available only for the third trimester of 2019. However, variances between trimesters are less than 5% (for the third trimester increase of the average salaries as compared with the second trimester was 3.7%; whereas the increase of the average salaries for the second trimester as compared with the first trimester was 4.5%). The average gross monthly salary was 51.870 ALL or 424.8 Euros.

Q015 (2022): The difference in amount from one year to another comes for two reasons:

the values are set in the Euro currency, which brings changes in the amount from year to year depending on the exchange rate at the time of reporting, since judges' salaries are calculated in Lek.

the maximum salary that is reported is the salary that is actually given to the judge who is paid more in the system and not the potential salary that the salary can go higher. This means that the maximum salary given, because it also includes the element of seniority at work, which of course changes every year.

Q015 (2020): The gross salary for the Appellate prosecutors is ALL 269268 and the net one is ALL 202687. While the salary in euro consists of the gross one of € 2025 and the net one of € 1524.

On the first January of 2019 the new salary scheme for judges and prosecutors entered into force. The new salary scheme, part of the justice reform law nearly doubled the salaries of judges and prosecutors, especially at first instance level.

A magistrate's salary is determined by the magistrate's affiliation to a salary group and the salary scale.

2. A magistrate's salary is categorised into salary groups (G), based on the following indicators:

a) Magistrates assuming their functions in first instance courts of general and administrative jurisdiction or prosecution offices attached to first instance courts (G1):

b) Magistrates assuming their functions in appeal courts of general and administrative jurisdiction, prosecution offices attached to courts of appeal, magistrates assuming their function at the Anti-corruption and Organised Crime Specialised Court of first instance (G2);

c) Magistrates assuming their functions at the High Court and General Prosecution Office, as well as magistrates assuming their functions at the Anti-Corruption and Organized Crime Court of Appeal and at the Special Prosecution Office (G3).

3. The seniority bonus in exercising the function shall be calculated at the extent of 2% of the reference basic salary for each year of service in the function, but not more than 25 years of service.

4. In the case of High Court judges, appointed from among jurists who do not come from a judicial career, for the purpose of determining the seniority of service in exercising the function, the seniority bonus is calculated as equivalent to that of 15 years' of judicial career.

5. The monthly gross salary of a magistrate consists of the following elements:

a) The basic reference salary for judicial and prosecutorial functions, which is equivalent to the 'function-related salary' of civil servants of first category, the third scale in the position of Director of the General Directorate at Prime Minister's Office or any other equivalent position, as set out by the Council of Ministers decision. The reference of the monthly basic salary for judicial and prosecutorial positions to the "function-related salary" according to the above provisions, does not aim at defining the relative value of judicial and prosecutorial positions as against the civil service positions or to enable its classification into the respective category or class.

b) Supplements to group salary, which is the amount resulting from the multiplication of the reference basis salary with the coefficient in percentage of the respective function exercised by the magistrate, referring to paragraph 2 of this Article, namely:

i) G1: 90 %

ii) G2: 98 %

Q018 (2022): Based on Article 16, paragraph 1, of law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", stipulates "The magistrates, who during the previous calendar year, had an exceptionally high ethical and professional evaluation, shall each year benefit a reward equal to a basic reference salary".

In paragraph 2 it is determined that: "The Councils shall adopt more detailed rules on the remuneration according to paragraph 1 of this article by:

a) restricting the entitlement to a maximum to 5 % of magistrates annually, being evaluated during the previous calendar year. b) setting out the criteria and procedure on the selection of the magistrates benefiting this entitlement."

Q018 (2020): The magistrates, who during the previous calendar year, had an exceptionally high ethical and professional evaluation, shall each year benefit a reward equal to a basic reference salary. The Councils can adopt more detailed rules on the remuneration by: a) Restricting the entitlement to 5 % of magistrates annually, being evaluated during the previous calendar year;

b) Setting out the criteria and procedure on the selection of the magistrates benefiting this entitlement. Part of the ethical and professional evaluation are also the organisational skills, as provided in article 74 of the law on status of judges and prosecutors. By the criterion of organisational skills the magistrates' ability to handle the workload and to handle judicial or investigatory procedures and skills to administer the judicial files are evaluated by avoiding that circumstances which do not depend on the magistrate and have negative effect on the results of the evaluation. The skills to handle the workload are measured based on the indicators to meet legal deadlines, to meet the minimum time standards, the average time spent on each case, the clearance rate of judicial cases and the average time to make a final judicial decision or a final prosecutorial decision in a case.

In the case of a judge, the skill of a judge to handle judicial procedures is measured by the indicators of the average number of hearings per case, conducting the necessary procedural actions for the organization of the judicial process, avoidance of unproductive court hearings, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

In case of a prosecutor, the skill of a prosecutor to handle efficiently investigation procedures and other procedures of the prosecutorial system is measured by the indicators of conducting necessary investigative and procedural actions within the set time frame, collection of necessary evidence, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

5. The skill to administer the judicial or prosecutorial files is measured by the indicators of the order, completeness and accuracy of documentation of the file.

Q018 (2019): The magistrates, who during the previous calendar year, had an exceptionally high ethical and professional evaluation, shall each year benefit a reward equal to a basic reference salary. The Councils can adopt more detailed rules on the remuneration by: a) Restricting the entitlement to 5 % of magistrates annually, being evaluated during the previous calendar year;

b) Setting out the criteria and procedure on the selection of the magistrates benefiting this entitlement. Part of the ethical and professional evaluation are also the organisational skills, as provided in article 74 of the law on status of judges and prosecutors. By the criterion of organisational skills the magistrates' ability to handle the workload and to handle judicial or investigatory procedures and skills to administer the judicial files are evaluated by avoiding that circumstances which do not depend on the magistrate and have negative effect on the results of the evaluation.

The skills to handle the workload are measured based on the indicators to meet legal deadlines, to meet the minimum time standards, the average time spent on each case, the clearance rate of judicial cases and the average time to make a final judicial decision or a final prosecutorial decision in a case.

In the case of a judge, the skill of a judge to handle judicial procedures is measured by the indicators of the average number of hearings per case, conducting the necessary procedural actions for the organization of the judicial process, avoidance of unproductive court hearings, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

In case of a prosecutor, the skill of a prosecutor to handle efficiently investigation procedures and other procedures of the prosecutorial system is measured by the indicators of conducting necessary investigative and procedural actions within the set time frame, collection of necessary evidence, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

5. The skill to administer the judicial or prosecutorial files is measured by the indicators of the order, completeness and accuracy of documentation of the file.

Q019 (2022): During the year 2022 there were appointed new judges to the supreme court

Q019 (2020): Please note that the High Court should have 19 judges. At the start of the vetting process, there were 17 judges in the High Court. However, in the end of the vetting process for the High Court only 2 judges remained at the High Court. The rest of them either resigned or were dismissed by the vetting process.

Currently the High court has 4 judges (one of them is currently acting as a member of the High Judicial Council, therefore his mandate as a High Court Judge has been Q019 (2019): The numbers provided above count the judges in the payroll list: 294 (141 m+153 f) judges effectively working on 31 December, 32 judges (24m + 8f) suspended from the IQC (due to the vetting process) and 3 judges (3m) on the process of appeal. Please note that the High Court should have 19 judges. At the start of the vetting process, there were 17 judges in the High Court. However, in the end of the vetting process for the High Court only 1 judge remained at the High Court. The rest of them either resigned or were dismissed by the vetting process.

Q019-1 (2022): The number of court presidents decreased due to different reasons. Several of the aforementioned court presidents were dismissed because of the vetting process, several of the first instance court presidents have been promoted to higher courts or have been appointed in the delegation scheme.

Q026 (2020): 2. non-judge staff assisting judges: new people were hired

4. technical staff: relocated

Q026 (2019): please note that there was a major change in the organisation of the justice system from 2016 to 2019, due to the justice reform, and therefore, discrepancies can occur due to these reasons. In any case, data for 2019 reflects the current status of non judge staff on the reporting period. There is no special gender related policy.

Q027 (2021): Public prosecutors and non-prosecutor staff.

Q027 (2020): 2. males non-judge staff working in courts at second instance: staff increased

Q028 (2021): Total number of prosecutors: 321 full-time equivalent, 205 posts actually filled.

Number of prosecutors at first instance level: 278 full-time equivalent, 177 posts actually filled.

Number of prosecutors at second instance (court of appeal) level: 26 full-time equivalent, 16 posts actually filled.

Number of prosecutors at Supreme Court level: 17 full-time equivalent, 12 posts actually filled.

Q028 (2020): The Special Prosecution prosecutors (currently 13 prosecutors) are included in the number of the prosecutors of first instance level (273) although they represent Special Prosecution even at Supreme Court level (not only representing before the first and second instance level). Also, from the 273 prosecutors acting in the first instance level, 6 prosecutors are currently commanded at High Prosecutorial Council as advisers.

Q028 (2019): Additionally, there are 8 prosecutors appointed to the Special Prosecution Against Corruption and Organised Crime (SPAK). SPAK prosecutors carry out investigations and represent the prosecution office in all three levels of the judiciary. Hence, their number has not been calculated in the numbers above.

Furthermore, it should be noted that the overall number of prosecutors should be 336 (277, first level, 27 appellate level, 17 General Prosecution Office and 15 SPAK Prosecution). Moreover, currently there are 20 prosecutors that have been suspended due to the vetting process. (1 in the General Prosecution Office, 6 in the Appellate Level and 13 in the first instance level).

Lastly, it should be noted that out of 258 prosecutors in the first instance level, 6 prosecutors have been seconded in the High Prosecutorial Council as legal advisors.

“Secondment” means the move of a magistrate to a non-magistrate position in an institution within the justice system, a position which is compatible with maintaining the independence and status. Variance of data might be explained due to the dismissals of the prosecutors and new incoming prosecutors to the system.

Q028-1 (2022): during the 2022 have been appointed head of prosecutions offices

Q032 (2021): From the total number, 160 are male judicial police officers and 40 are female judicial police officers. 112 are males having administrative duties and 295 are females having administrative duties.

Q032 (2020): 184 are judicial police officers (47 females and 137 males) and 486 other staff (273 females and 213 males).

Q032 (2019): Out of these, 191 are judicial police officers and 401 are supporting staff.

Q033 (2021): Total number of those who have lawyers' license/title is 11.934. However, the reported number (2633) is that of practicing lawyers.

Q033 (2019): As provided by the Bar Association around 40 - 42% are women. However, this figure is not official because the Bar Association does not keep any statistics/division based on gender.

Q034 (2021): There is no category of "legal advisors" within lawyers or legal profession. The only distinction is between lawyers – who draft and represent clients before all courts and assistant lawyers – who can represent only in few cases and only in the presence of the lawyer, where the later should take the permission from his/her client. The number above does not include assistant lawyers.

Q014 (General Comment): The Bosnia and Herzegovina Statistics Agency reports on the average gross salary in the country for the previous year (i.e. 2022 in this reporting cycle).

Q014 (2022): In 2022, according to the Agency for Statistics of Bosnia and Herzegovina salaries significantly increased both in the public sector and the private sector in Bosnia and Herzegovina, mostly due to various drastic changes in the domestic and global economy such as rise in inflation and increase in product prices.

Q015 (General Comment): First of all, the work experience affects the amount of net and gross salaries. The following assumptions were used for the above stated calculations of the salaries of judicial office holders (i. e. judges and prosecutors): three-year working experience of judge/prosecutor at the beginning of his/her career; twenty-year working experience of a judge/prosecutor of the supreme court or the highest appellate instance. There are somewhat different general regimes for the salary contributions in different jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, these regimes apply to the salaries of the judicial office holders as well. Having in mind the aforementioned factors, the above stated calculations of the salaries are made as the weighted average salary based on the number of judges/prosecutors. The method used to calculate net and gross salaries for judges/prosecutors is based on the basic salary amount as prescribed by law together with allowances added to the net salary subject to years of employment, and other contributions for the calculation of gross salaries. Deviations occur due to the application of different legal regulations on entity level, i.e. specifically with reference to judicial office positions in one of the jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e. the Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina), where there are far more judges than prosecutors, which directly impacts the calculation of overall indicators.

Q015 (2022): Due to the changes in the Dashboard Western Balkans Questionnaire for 2022, the amount of salaries of judges and public prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina at the Highest Appellate Instance is significantly higher in 2022 compared to the relevant figure included in the Dashboard Western Balkans Questionnaire for 2021.

The public sector employees are entitled to receive benefits in addition to wages such as health and retirement contributions, overtime pay, meal expense allowance, transport expense allowance, retirement pay, funeral expenses, etc.

Q019 (General Comment): The number of court presidents is included in the number of judges.

There are 3 courts of general jurisdiction in Bosnia and Herzegovina that are included in the Supreme Court category.

Firstly, at entity level, there are the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court and the Republika Srpska Supreme Court.

Both courts are competent to decide within the respective entity on legal remedies concerning decisions of the immediately lower courts.

Secondly, there is the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina at the State level. Its competencies are regulated by the Law on the Court of

Bosnia and Herzegovina and are related to criminal, administrative and appellate jurisdiction. However, the Court of Bosnia and

Herzegovina has no jurisdiction over the decisions adopted by the entity – level Supreme Courts. Within its criminal jurisdiction, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina tries cases pertaining to the specific category of crimes laid down by the laws of Bosnia and

Herzegovina, which include war crimes, organized crime, economic crime and corruption cases. The administrative jurisdiction means that the Court of Bosnia and

Herzegovina adjudicates cases pertaining to the decisions issued by the State institutions and other organizations in charge of public functions, such as property disputes related to the performance of public functions between the State and the entities, breaches of the election law, etc. Its Appellate Division only decides appeals against the decisions of the Court's first instance divisions. Accordingly, there are three Prosecutor's Offices representing criminal cases before the courts

that are included in the Supreme Court category: the Prosecutor's Office before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina; the Prosecutor's Office before the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court; the Prosecutor's Office before the Republika Srpska Supreme Court.

Q019 (2020): The numbers provided do not include information on the number of court presidents and reserve judges (Q20). The court presidents were excluded from the statistics provided for the Western Balkans indicators and questionnaire in order to ensure consistency with the statistics provided for the Q46 in the Questionnaire dashboard of Evaluation of the judicial systems (2018 - 2020). 76 court presidents were appointed on 31st December 2020.

Q019 (2019): The numbers provided do not include information on the number of court presidents and reserve judges (Q20).

Q020 (General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints reserve judges, following the request of the court president, for period of up to two years to assist courts in reducing case backlog. It is an established practice that the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council grants the court president's request to appoint reserve judges for multiple two-year judgeships if the backlog continues to be a significant problem for the court. The Council can occasionally appoint reserve judges to replace professional judges who are absent for the prolonged period of time. The reserve judges perform their duties on a full-time basis; an equal legal framework applies to professional and reserve judges (i.e. appointment procedure, salary, Code of ethics, performance targets, training etc.).

The Council decided in 2022 that the number of reserve judges in the courts will gradually decrease. They will cease to perform this function no later than the end of 2026. Courts in which reserve judges work may request that the Council increase the number of regular judges if necessary due to the large number of pending cases. Q020 (2022): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina decided in 2022 that the number of reserve judges in the courts will gradually decrease. Courts in which reserve judges work may request that the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina increase the number of regular judges if necessary due to the large number of pending cases. Meanwhile, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has decided not to fill the positions of reserve judges in courts that become vacant by their retirement or appointment to other judicial positions. In this way, the total number of reserve judges was significantly reduced by the end of 2022.

Q021 (2022): In 2022, reserve judges resolved around 3% of the overall number of cases decided by the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Q021 (2021): In 2021, reserve judges resolved around 4% of the overall number of cases decided by the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Q021 (2020): In 2020, reserve judges disposed around 4% of the overall number of cases disposed by the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Q021 (2019): In 2019, reserve judges disposed around 4% of the overall number of cases disposed by the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Q022 (General Comment): Lay judges are citizens who hear and decide criminal cases together with professional judges. Lay judges are appointed by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and they play a role in the Bosnia and Herzegovina judicial system, due to application of previously valid criminal procedural laws that required their participation.

The procedural laws have been changed in a way that participation of lay judges is not required any longer, but due to a backlog of cases, their participation is still needed. Concretely, courts adjudicate the criminal law cases by panels that include lay judges if the proceedings were instituted before the currently valid Criminal Procedure Codes came into force.

Q022 (2022): In 2022, the trend of decreasing the number of non-professional judges continued, in line with a decrease in the number of old pending criminal cases in courts.

The High and Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints judicial associates in municipal courts (i.e. first instance courts) in one part of the country, the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, for an undetermined period. A judicial associate may proceed and decide non-contentious matters, enforcement matters, including payment orders, and small claims cases in accordance with the law and as assigned by the court president. Appeals against their decisions are decided by the second instance courts. As for the requirements in terms of qualifications set by the legislation, judicial associates must possess a law degree and have to pass the bar examination. The provisions of the Law on the High and Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina that refer to judges are applied accordingly also for judicial associates (i.e. appointment procedure, disciplinary procedure etc.).

Montenegro

Q014 (2019): Source: Statistical Office of Montenegro, Average earnings (wages) – Releases 2019

Q015 (2021): Regarding the average salary in the previous year in the Supreme State Prosecutor's Office, prosecutors had more years of service compared to prosecutors this year (who had a smaller number of years of service), so the average salary was higher for that reason. The number of years of service affects the salary of a judge. As the judges of the Supreme Court who retired in 2021 had the highest number of years of work experience, their retirement had the effect of reducing the average salary of judges, because judges with fewer years of service remained in the Supreme Court.

As the judges of the Supreme Court who retired in 2020 had the highest number of years of work experience, their retirement had the effect of reducing the average salary of judges, because judges with fewer years of service remained in the Supreme Court.

Q019 (2022): some of the judges were retired and in the meantime new judges elected

Q019 (2021): During 2021, the Judicial Council noted the termination of the judicial function for 54 judges. Out of that, 19 judges were in the position related to the second instance before the termination of their judicial function, while 12 judges performed the function of a judge of the Supreme Court of Montenegro. For this reason, there was a difference compared to last year's report. In particular, a number of judges have exercised their right to a pension. The procedure for selecting new judges takes some time. At the beginning of 2022, a number of new judges were elected (eg 11 new judges of the Supreme Court of Montenegro)

Q019 (2020): Even though the percentage discrepancy in the reported values seems drastic, those values may be misleading. The number of total judges has not changed drastically. Last year:

Number of Supreme Court professional judges total - 19 judges

Males:- 5

Females- 14

This year: total - 18

males - 3

Q019-1 (2022): new presidents elected in the meantime

Q026 (2021): Regarding "2. Non-judge (judicial) staff whose task is to assist the judges such as registrars" - this is not a significant discrepancy (last report there the answer was 78)

Please take into account that in last year's report, the percentage of women in the "Other non-judge staff" category was 17.48, while this year the percentage was 26.06, which we believe is not a big deviation.

Q026 (2020): The presidents of the courts submitted official data related to the number of full-time employees on December 31, 2020. We do not have a specific answer to the question why the structure of employees by certain categories has changed.

Q027 (2021): The Judicial Council pointed out the fact that there has been a reduction in the number of employees in the Supreme Court of Montenegro, and for that reason the number of men is lower compared to last year's report.

Q027 (2020): The presidents of the courts submitted official data related to the number of full-time employees on December 31, 2020. We do not have a specific answer to the question why the structure of employees by certain categories has changed.

Q028 (2022): Section 2 includes also prosecutors of the Special State Prosecutor's Office, Q028 (2021): Although in percentage terms these are changes that can be characterized as significant, we believe that these changes are not significant. Significant differences in percentages can occur because the total number of prosecutors is relatively small.

Q028 (2020): In the column "Number of prosecutors at first instance level", in addition to the number of state prosecutors in the basic state prosecutor's offices the number of special state prosecutors is included.

Q028 (2019): In the column "Number of prosecutors at first instance level", in addition to the number of state prosecutors in the basic state prosecutor's offices, the number of special state prosecutors is included, 13 in total, out of which 9 women and 4 men.

Q032 (2022): According to internal organization and systematization acts in state prosecutor's offices, there are employees with the following titles: secretary, head of cabinet, advisor, chief, head of registry office, independent advisor I, independent advisor II, independent advisor III, senior advisor I, senior advisor II, senior advisor III, advisor I, advisor II, advisor III, independent clerk, clerk, senior employee, employee and trainee.

Q033 (2022): Source of data: Bar Association

North Macedonia

Q015 (2022): In 2022 public prosecutors in the PPO for organized crime had an additional financial benefits of 35% of the salary every month. In 2022 the highest gross/net annual salary of the public prosecutor for organized crime was 26.179 /17.135 euros.

Also, in 2022 there were additional financial benefits for judges, 15-30%.

Q015 (2021): There are discrepancies from the last report because the lowest value of the salary for 2021 for the first instance professional judge at the beginning of his/her career is for the judge that has less professional experience than the judge before.

Q015 (2020): The annual salaries of judges are lower in 2020 in comparison to 2019, because in 2019 a higher amount of allowances has been paid on judges for the previous years. That type of allowances has not been paid in 2020.

Salaries of judges and public prosecutors are regulated in the Law on salaries for judges and the Law on salaries for public prosecutors.

Q015 (2019): Salaries of judges and public prosecutors are regulated in the Law on salaries for judges and the Law on salaries for public prosecutors.

Q016 (General Comment): In 2015 and 2018 the Parliament adopted amendments on The Law on judge`s salaries and on the Law on public prosecutor`s salaries.

These two laws introduced additional financial benefits for judges and public prosecutors for work under special conditions, work on confidence cases and for security risks.

These two laws introduced additional financial benefits for judges and public prosecutors for work under special conditions, work on confidence cases and for security risks.

Q019 (General Comment): The number of the judges is decreasing, due to the retirements and long process of trainings in Academy. From 2013 the only selections process to become a judge or as a public prosecutor is through the training (24 months) in the Academy for judges and prosecutors. So, the process of selection and appointment of qualified judges and prosecutors is around 3 years. Also, in the Strategy for reform of judicial sector 2017-2022 with Action plan, one of the strategic guidelines was 2.4.3. In row 2. - Number of second instance professional judges there are counted judges in all 4 appellate courts and judges in High Administrative court.

Q019-1 (2022): The numbers are too low, the difference is only 1 person.

Q022 (General Comment): Law on courts regulates the status, election, dismissal, and rights for lay judges. Lay judges participate in the trial when it is determined by the procedural laws (Law on Criminal Procedure, Law on Litigation Procedure etc.). Article 42 (Law on courts) regulates that every adult citizen of the Republic of North Macedonia who has completed at least secondary education, who is fluent in Macedonian language, has a reputation for exercising this function and is not older than 60 years, may be elected as a Lay judge. Lay judges shall be elected and dismissed by the Judicial Council of the Republic of North Macedonia under the conditions and in the procedure set by the law. A juvenile trial lay judge is elected from persons with experience in upbringing and education of young people. Discrimination on grounds of gender, race, color of the skin, national and social background, political and religious belief, material and social position shall be prohibited in election of judges and lay judges.

Equitable representation of the citizens from all communities shall be ensured when electing judges and lay judges without disturbing the criteria prescribed by law. A person who is related in vertical or horizontal line up to third degree or is a spouse of a judge or lay judge cannot be elected judge or lay judge in the same court. A person who is related in vertical or horizontal line up to third degree or is a spouse of a member of the Judicial Council cannot be elected judge or lay judge.

The Judicial Council is responsible for determination of the optimal number of judges and lay judges in the courts of the Republic of North Macedonia.

Upon completion of the election, the Lay judges shall mandatorily attend specialized training, organized by the Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors, after which the Academy shall issue a certificate for completed training to them.

The content, duration and the delivery of the training shall be defined by specialized programme for training of lay judges by the Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors.

Lay judge are elected for a period of four years and may be re-elected. The lay judges shall give the solemn oath in front of the president of the court where they are elected.

According to article 66 (Law on courts) “A lay judge cannot be held liable for a stated opinion and manner of deciding during the adoption“.

A procedure for damage compensation or another procedure cannot be conducted against a judge or a lay judge by a party that is not satisfied with the decision of the judge. According to the article 64(Law on courts), the lay judges shall be entitled to compensation for carrying out the activities of a lay judge and the Minister of Justice adopts detailed regulations on the compensations of the lay judges of a court decisions.

The office of a lay judge shall terminate upon:

- 1) personal request;
- 2) permanent loss of the ability to fulfill the duty of a lay judge;
- 3) conviction of a crime to an imprisonment sentence of at least six months;
- 4) unduly or negligent fulfillment of the duty of a lay judge, and
- 5) turning 60 years old.

Q022 (2020): Gross figure - Number is higher because of more elected lay judges in 2020.

Q026 (2022): 5. In 2021 the number of females as a part of court police was 3. Actually, in 2022 there are only 2 more females, discrepancy ratio is high because the numbers are too low.

Q026 (2021): Court police.

Q026 (2020): In this category are included the number of the employees in the judicial police.

Other non-judge staff - female: There are no a big difference in absolute numbers.

Q026 (2019): In this category are included the number of the employees in the judicial police.

Q027 (2020): Total non-judge staff working in courts at Supreme Court level - Female: Increasing is due to the new employees in the State PPO.

Q028 (2022): Perhaps, the reason for discrepancy is that the numbers are very low. For example, in 2021 there was 1 female prosecutor at Supreme Court level, in 2022 are 2 females.

Q028 (2021): One prosecutor is retired and other is part of the Council by function.

Q028 (2020): Number of prosecutors at Supreme Court level – Female: Lower number is because one of the prosecutors has been retired and new is not elected.

Q028-1 (2022): In 2021 there was 3 males - heads of PPO and 1 female. In 2022 there are 4 males.

Q028-1 (2021): The head of Public prosecution office in Radovish is acting head. The head of Public prosecution office in Skopje was elected at the beginning of 2022.

Q032 (2020): Higher number of employees last year was because of the employees in the Special Public Prosecution office. This category of employees is not working anymore in the public prosecution system.

Q032 (2019): In presented data is included the staff of the new Special Public Prosecution Office (90 employees). It should be noted that in this number is not included investigators that work for public prosecutors as judicial police and they are employed mostly by the Ministry of the interior, Financial Police and Custom

Q022 (General Comment): Chapter 6 of Law on Judges

SPECIAL PROVISIONS ON LAY JUDGES

Requirements for Appointment and Duration of Office

Article 81

Any national of the Republic of Serbia of legal age who is worthy of the function may be appointed as a lay judge.

A lay judge cannot be a member of a political party or politically active in any other way.

In appointing a lay judge sex, age, profession and social status, knowledge, competence, and affinities for specific type of matter shall be taken into account..

A lay judge is appointed to a period of five years and may be re-appointed.

Election and Termination of Office and Number of Judges

Article 10

The National Assembly and the High Judicial Council respectively decide on the election and termination of office of a judge and a president of the court, pursuant to this Law.

The High Judicial Council determines the number of judges and lay judges for each court.

The number of judges for misdemeanour courts, the Misdemeanour Appellate Court, and the Administrative Court, shall also be determined for each department outside the seat of the court.

The High Judicial Council reviews every five years the required number of judges and lay judges for every court.

The High Judicial Council may at its own initiative or at the proposal of a president of the court, president of a directly superior court, President of the Supreme Court of Cassation and the Minister responsible for the judiciary, review the required number of judges and lay judges before the expiry of the five-year period.

Procedure for Appointment

Article 82

The High Judicial Council appoints lay judges at the proposal of the Minister in charge of the judiciary.

Before making the proposal, the Minister shall obtain the opinion from the court to which a lay judge is to be appointed.

A person of legal age, not older than seventy years at the time of appointment, may be appointed as a lay judge.

Oath

Article 83

A lay judge shall take an oath before the president of the court to which the judge is appointed.

Q022 (2022): Lay judges in Serbia are legal laymen, who participate in some civil and some criminal trials in the first instance (with one exception in the 2nd instance) and have the right to ask questions, give their opinion and participate in the rendering of the verdict, although the final word rests with the professional judge who signs the verdict.

A lay judge cannot be a member of a political party, nor act politically in any other way. Also, a lay judge cannot provide legal services and professional advice for a fee, nor can he be a lawyer.

Other positions, jobs and procedures that are contrary to the dignity and independence of the judge or harmful to the reputation of the court are incompatible with the function of a lay judge.

When appointing lay judges, the gender, age, occupation and social position of the candidate, knowledge, expertise and inclination towards certain types of court cases are taken into account.

A lay judge must be of legal age and under 70 years of age.

He is appointed for five years by the HJSC on the proposal of the competent authority for the judiciary and he can be reappointed

Q022 (2020): The High Court Council enacted a decision on 23 December 2019 on the appointment of lay judges (judges jurors) for a mandate period of the following 5 years. The number of lay judges appointed by the decision was 2000. On 8 September 2020 The High Court Council enacted a decision on the appointment of 130 lay judges for mandate of 5 years. The effective number of lay judges is 2130.

Q022 (2019): Data of HCC. The High Judicial Council enacted a decision on 23 December 2014 on the appointment of lay judges (sudije porotnici) for a mandate period of the following 5 years, <https://vss.sud.rs/sr-lat/saop%C5%A1tenja/odluka-o-imenovanju-sudija-porotnika>. The number of lay judges appointed by the decision was 2564. However, due to various reasons, the effective number decreased to 2,123.

Q023 (General Comment): In first instance, in certain criminal and civil proceedings trial is carried by panel consisting of a professional judge and lay judges, i.e. 2-3 citizens who are not professionals.

Q023 (2020): In first instance, in certain criminal (possibility of over 8 years of prison sentence) and civil proceedings trial is carried by panel consisting of a professional judge and non-professional judges, i.e. 2-3 citizens who are appointed based on a public call of the High Court Council.

Q026 (2019): Statistics on the day of 15 October 2019. The MoJ compiles statistics twice a year. October deadline is envisioned in order to have latest statistics for budgetary purpose planning. The data from December shouldn't be much different from the October statistics. The following compilation will be done at the end of March.

Q027 (2019): Statistics on the day of 15 October 2019. The MoJ compiles statistics twice a year. October deadline is envisioned in order to have latest statistics for budgetary purpose planning. The data from December shouldn't be much different from the October statistics. The following compilation will be done at the end of March.

Q028 (General Comment): The data represents the total number of deputy public prosecutors working in the position of public prosecutor.

Q028 (2021): In the Prosecutor's Office for War Crimes and Organized Crime, the function of the Deputy Prosecutor is performed by 18 persons, of which 8 are female and 10 are male.

Q028 (2020): Number of prosecutors at first instance level:

1. Basic public prosecutor's offices: total 476; males: 186; females: 290
2. Senior public prosecutor's offices: total 226; males 102; female's 124
3. Prosecution for organized crime: total 13; males 10; female's 3
4. Prosecution for war crimes: total 10; males 6; female's 4

Q028 (2019): 1. Number of deputy public prosecutors at first instance level consists of: 465 Basic PPO Deputies + 233 Higher PPO Deputies + (13 +10) Deputy PPOs of special jurisdiction.

2. Number of deputy prosecutors at second instance (court of appeal) level consists of: Appellate Deputy PP's 3. Number of deputy prosecutors at supreme court level: number of deputy Republic Public Prosecutors.

Discrepancy explanation: (State Prosecutorial Council): The reason why the number of deputy public prosecutors has increased significantly, compared to 2016, is that the State Prosecutors Council has in the last two years made decisions on increasing the number of first and second instance deputy pp's and based on those decisions, announced calls for the election of deputy public prosecutors. This is part of the capacity building program, having in mind the workload of the ppo's and the fact that not all offices which are envisaged in the systematization are filled.

Q028-1 (2021): There are special jurisdictions of the Prosecutor's Office for War Crimes and the Prosecutor's Office for Organized Crime, in which one person performs the function of a prosecutor.

Q029 (2019): Prosecutorial assistants, employed for an indefinite period. Prosecutorial assistants have similar duties to public prosecutors. A prosecutorial assistant assists the public prosecutor and deputy public prosecutor, drafts acts, takes on record complaints, submissions, and statements of citizens, and, autonomously or under supervision, performs tasks provided by the law or other regulations.

Q033 (2021): The number of male and female lawyers are not available this year because The Bar Association of Serbia did not provide them.

Q033 (2019): The total number of lawyers in the Republic of Serbia on 31 December 2019 pursuant to Registry of Lawyers of the Bar Association of Serbia (Serbian lawyers are members of their local/regional bar and the national bar association).

Q034 (2021): Members of the Bar Association of Serbia and bar association - members of the Bar Association of Serbia can be only attorneys-at-law.

Q034 (2020): Members of the Bar Association of Serbia and bar association - members of the Bar Association of Serbia can be only attorneys-at-law.

Kosovo*

Q014 (2021): This is data for 2020, as the responsible Agency for Statistics in Kosovo will not generate this data for the previous year (2021 in our case) until the middle of this year.

Q014 (2020): The average gross annual salary is for 2019. The data for 2020 with regard to salaries will not be published until late May. Also, please be noted that recently have been raised some concerns with regard to the methodology used for generating average gross salary by Kosovo Agency for Statistics. Therefore, if the methodology changes, we will have different numbers from what we have reported. However, we will keep referring to the data from Agency, as the official source for data and statistics in Kosovo.

Q014 (2019): The average gross annual salary is for 2018. The data for 2019 with regard to salaries will not be published until late May.

Q015 (2022): -KJC: The Appellate judge which is the level between the First instance court and the Supreme court has the salary of 2,389 EUR.

-KPC: The salary for “public prosecutors at the beginning of his/her career” is the salary of prosecutors who work in the general department of the basic prosecution offices. Salary for “public prosecutor of the supreme court or the highest appellate instance” is the salary of prosecutors in the office of the Chief State Prosecutor.

Q015 (2021): The salary for “public prosecutors at the beginning of his/her career” is the salary of prosecutors who work in the general department of the basic prosecution offices.

Salary for “public prosecutor of the supreme court or the highest appellate instance” is the salary of prosecutors in the office of the Chief State Prosecutor.

Q015 (2020): There are some minor differences with the data from the previous year, mainly because the Law on Kosovo Judicial Council and the Law on Court have started to implement, and they have leveled salaries between all departments of the same instance(horizontal). There has been no decrease in the salaries of the Judges of Supreme Court. However, our colleagues from the Kosovo Judicial Council, when reported last year, they provided us with the highest salary in Supreme Court, and not the average. We figured it out this year, during our internal meetings, and changed it.

Q015 (2019): In the section “Public prosecutor at the beginning of his/her career” we have provided the annual salary of prosecutors in the General department of Basic Prosecution offices, where prosecutors start their work during their initial mandate.

In the section “Public prosecutor of the Supreme Court or the Highest Appellate Instance” we have provided the annual salary of the prosecutors who work in the Office of the Chief State Prosecutor.

Q016 (2021): Prosecutors in Special Prosecution of the Republic of Kosovo receive additions to their salaries due to the level of risk that they face having in mind the competencies that SPRK has. These additions to the salary are received based on a decision by the Government which is taken annually.

Q016 (2020): There is no other financial or any other benefits for judges or prosecutors.

Q016 (2019): There is no other financial or any other benefits for judges or prosecutors.

Q019 (2022): The number of judges increased due to recruitment procedures and also promotions.

The number of judges also includes the Commercial Court, which was established in 2022.

Q019 (2020): The discrepancy concerning the number of Judges in all instances is because of retirement and/or promotion. The recruiting process of new judges is finalized and in early January the list of the new judges have been decreed by the president.

Q019 (2019): The number of judges have been increased compared to the previous year: 18 new judges of the first instance have been recruited. There was a mistake on the previous data. I corrected. With regard to judges, as for now, we only have professional judges in our system.

Q026 (2021): Elaborated in the comment sections of the table above.

Q028 (2022): In the table above the number of prosecutors is 161. This number does not include prosecutors who during 2022 have not handled cases as a result of their functions in the prosecutorial system. Prosecutors who are not included in this number are: Chairman of the Council, Acting Chief State Prosecutor, Deputy Chairman of the Council, Chairman of the Commission for Normative Affairs, Chairman of the Commission for Evaluation of Performance of Prosecutors, Chairman of Committee for Budget, Finance and Personnel, the Chief Prosecutor of the Appellate Prosecution, the Chief Prosecutor of the Special Prosecution, the Chief Prosecutors of the 7 Basic Prosecution Offices, 2 heads of Departments in BPO Prishtina, 2 prosecutors are in maternity leave and 1 prosecutor was studying outside of the country.

The total number of prosecutors in the prosecutorial system, including these positions on December 31, 2022 was 181.

Q028 (2021): In the table, the number of prosecutors is 165. This number does not include prosecutors who during 2021 have not handled cases as a result of their functions in the prosecutorial system. Prosecutors who are not included in this number are: Chairman of the Council, Chief State Prosecutor, Deputy Chairman of the Council, Chairman of the Commission for Normative Affairs, Chairman of the Commission for Prosecution Administration, Chairman of the Commission for Evaluation of Performance of Prosecutors, Chairman of Committee for Budget, Finance and Personnel, the Chief Prosecutor of the Appellate Prosecution, the Chief Prosecutor of the Special Prosecution, the Chief Prosecutors of the 7 Basic Prosecution Offices and 2 heads of Departments in BPO Prishtina.

The total number of prosecutors in the prosecutorial system, including these positions on December 31, 2021 was 182.

Whilst, the discrepancies marked are because of the promotion

Q028 (2020): 028.2 The discrepancy is because of the promotion

Q028 (2019): This number does not include prosecutors who for the moment do not deal with cases due to their functions in the prosecutorial system. As such, the prosecutors who are not included in this number are: Chairman of Kosovo Prosecutorial Council, Chief State Prosecutor, deputy Chairman of Kosovo Prosecutorial Council, Chairman of Committee for Normative Acts, Chairman of Committee for the Administration of Prosecution Offices, Chairman of Committee for the Evaluation of Performance of Prosecutors, chief prosecutor of Appellate Prosecution Office, chief prosecutors of basic prosecution offices in Peja, Prizren, Mitrovica, Gjiilan, Ferizaj and Gjakova and acting chiefs of SPRK and basic prosecution office in Prishtina. In addition, 1 prosecutor is currently enrolled in a master's program in the USA through a scholarship provided by the US embassy in Prishtina.

The total number of prosecutors, including these positions, is 197.

Q032 (2022): In this category we have included Director of Secretariat of KPC, Director of PPRU, Heads of departments, divisions, offices, administrators of prosecution offices, professional associates, legal officers and all other professional and administrative positions within the prosecutorial system.

Albania

(2022): (<https://www.instat.gov.al/media/11344/statistikat-e-pagave-t4-2022.pdf>), the average gross monthly salary for a salaried employee, in the end of 2022 was 66,014 ALL and the average gross annual salary was 792,168 ALL or 6,888 EUR (exchange rate 1 euro = 115 ALL).

Average monthly gross salary for a salaried employee, during in the end of 2022, is 66,014 ALL, increasing by 10.8%, compared to the data of previous years.

(2019): Data are available only for the third trimester of 2019. However, variances between trimesters are less than 5% (for the third trimester increase of the average salaries as compared with the second trimester was 3.7%; whereas the increase of the average salaries for the second trimester as compared with the first trimester was 4.5%). The average gross monthly salary was 51.870 ALL or 424.8 Euros.

Also, please be noted that recently have been raised some concerns with regard to the methodology used for generating average gross salary by Kosovo Agency for Statistics. Therefore, if the methodology changes, we will have different numbers from what we have reported. However, we will keep referring to the data from Agency, as the official source for data and statistics in Kosovo.

Albania

(2022): The difference in amount from one year to another comes for two reasons:

the values are set in the Euro currency, which brings changes in the amount from year to year depending on the exchange rate at the time of reporting, since judges' salaries are calculated in Lek.

the maximum salary that is reported is the salary that is actually given to the judge who is paid more in the system and not the potential salary that the salary can go higher. This means that the maximum salary given, because it also includes the element of seniority at work, which of course changes every year.

(2020): The gross salary for the Appellate prosecutors is ALL 269268 and the net one is ALL 202687. While the salary in euro consists of the gross one of € 2025 and the net one of € 1524.

On the first January of 2019 the new salary scheme for judges and prosecutors entered into force. The new salary scheme, part of the justice reform law nearly doubled the salaries of judges and prosecutors, especially at first instance level.

A magistrate's salary is determined by the magistrate's affiliation to a salary group and the salary scale.

2. A magistrate's salary is categorised into salary groups (G), based on the following indicators:

a) Magistrates assuming their functions in first instance courts of general and administrative jurisdiction or prosecution offices attached to first instance courts (G1):

b) Magistrates assuming their functions in appeal courts of general and administrative jurisdiction, prosecution offices attached to courts of appeal, magistrates assuming their function at the Anti-corruption and Organised Crime Specialised Court of first instance (G2);

c) Magistrates assuming their functions at the High Court and General Prosecution Office, as well as magistrates assuming their functions at the Anti-Corruption and Organized Crime Court of Appeal and at the Special Prosecution Office (G3).

3. The seniority bonus in exercising the function shall be calculated at the extent of 2% of the reference basic salary for each year of service in the function, but not more than 25 years of service.

4. In the case of High Court judges, appointed from among jurists who do not come from a judicial career, for the purpose of determining the seniority of service in exercising the function, the seniority bonus is calculated as equivalent to that of 15 years' of judicial career.

5. The monthly gross salary of a magistrate consists of the following elements:

a) The basic reference salary for judicial and prosecutorial functions, which is equivalent to the 'function-related salary' of civil servants of first category, the third scale in the position of Director of the General Directorate at Prime Minister's Office or any other equivalent position, as set out by the Council of Ministers decision. The reference of the monthly basic salary for judicial and prosecutorial positions to the "function-related salary" according to the above provisions, does not aim at defining the relative value of judicial and prosecutorial positions as against the civil service positions or to enable its classification into the

ii) G2: 98 %

(General Comment): First of all, the work experience affects the amount of net and gross salaries. The following assumptions were used for the above stated calculations of the salaries of judicial office holders (i. e. judges and prosecutors): three-year working experience of judge/prosecutor at the beginning of his/her career; twenty-year working experience of a judge/prosecutor of the supreme court or the highest appellate instance. There are somewhat different general regimes for the salary contributions in different jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, these regimes apply to the salaries of the judicial office holders as well. Having in mind the aforementioned factors, the above stated calculations of the salaries are made as the weighted average salary based on the number of judges/prosecutors. The method used to calculate net and gross salaries for judges/prosecutors is based on the basic salary amount as prescribed by law together with allowances added to the net salary subject to years of employment, and other contributions for the calculation of gross salaries. Deviations occur due to the application of different legal regulations on entity level, i.e. specifically with reference to judicial office positions in one of the jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e. the Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina), where there are far more judges than prosecutors, which directly impacts the calculation of overall indicators.

(2021): Regarding the average salary in the previous year in the Supreme State Prosecutor's Office, prosecutors had more years of service compared to prosecutors this year (who had a smaller number of years of service), so the average salary was higher for that reason. The number of years of service affects the salary of a judge. As the judges of the Supreme Court who retired in 2021 had the highest number of years of work experience, their retirement had the effect of reducing the average salary of judges, because judges with fewer years of service remained in the Supreme Court.

Also, in 2022 there were additional financial benefits for judges, 15-30%.

(2021): There are discrepancies from the last report because the lowest value of the salary for 2021 for the first instance professional judge at the beginning of his/her career is for the judge that has less professional experience than the judge before.

(2020): The annual salaries of judges are lower in 2020 in comparison to 2019, because in 2019 a higher amount of allowances has been paid on judges for the previous years. That type of allowances has not been paid in 2020.

Salaries of judges and public prosecutors are regulated in the Law on salaries for judges and the Law on salaries for public prosecutors.

For judges, instead of giving only the basic salary, the actual salary received by judge in the first instance basic court (calculating that the judge has 5 years' experience) is given and in the Supreme Court of Cassation - calculating the average 25 year's work experience as well as increase of the basic salary by 30%, based on a decision of the High Judicial Council, pursuant to Article 42 of the Law on Judges.
2. The average salary for a basic public prosecutor is given. The average salary for the deputy State Prosecutors are given, who also receive an increase of the basic salary of 30%.

(2020): There are some minor differences with the data from the previous year, mainly because the Law on Kosovo Judicial Council and the Law on Court have started to implement, and they have leveled salaries between all departments of the same instance(horizontal). There has been no decrease in the salaries of the Judges of Supreme Court. However, our colleagues from the Kosovo Judicial Council, when reported last year, they provided us with the highest salary in Supreme Court, and not the average. We figured it out this year, during our internal meetings, and changed it.

In the section "Public prosecutor of the Supreme Court or the Highest Appellate Instance" we have provided the annual salary of the prosecutors who work in the Office of the Chief State Prosecutor.

Question 018

Albania

(2022): Based on Article 16, paragraph 1, of law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", stipulates "The magistrates, who during the previous calendar year, had an exceptionally high ethical and professional evaluation, shall each year benefit a reward equal to a basic reference salary". In paragraph 2 it is determined that: "The Councils shall adopt more detailed rules on the remuneration according to paragraph 1 of this article by:

a) restricting the entitlement to a maximum to 5 % of magistrates annually, being evaluated during the previous calendar year. b) setting out the criteria and procedure on the selection of the magistrates benefiting this entitlement."

This provision is still valid. However, since the Council (HJC in this case) has yet to adopt rules on this matter, in practice this benefit has never been allocated.

(2020): The magistrates, who during the previous calendar year, had an exceptionally high ethical and professional evaluation, shall each year benefit a reward equal to a basic reference salary. The Councils can adopt more detailed rules on the remuneration by: a) Restricting the entitlement to 5 % of magistrates annually, being evaluated during the previous calendar year;

b) Setting out the criteria and procedure on the selection of the magistrates benefiting this entitlement. Part of the ethical and professional evaluation are also the organisational skills, as provided in article 74 of the law on status of judges and prosecutors. By the criterion of organisational skills the magistrates' ability to handle the workload and to handle judicial or investigatory procedures and skills to administer the judicial files are evaluated by avoiding that circumstances which do not depend on the magistrate and have negative effect on the results of the evaluation. The skills to handle the workload are measured based on the indicators to meet legal deadlines, to meet the minimum time standards, the average time spent on each case, the clearance rate of judicial cases and the average time to make a final judicial decision or a final prosecutorial decision in a case.

In the case of a judge, the skill of a judge to handle judicial procedures is measured by the indicators of the average number of hearings per case, conducting the necessary procedural actions for the organization of the judicial process, avoidance of unproductive court hearings, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

In case of a prosecutor, the skill of a prosecutor to handle efficiently investigation procedures and other procedures of the prosecutorial system is measured by the indicators of conducting necessary investigative and procedural actions within the set time frame, collection of necessary evidence, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

5. The skill to administer the judicial or prosecutorial files is measured by the indicators of the order, completeness and accuracy of documentation of the file.

Question 019

(2022): During the year 2022 there were appointed new judges to the supreme court

(2020): Please note that the High Court should have 19 judges. At the start of the vetting process, there were 17 judges in the High Court. However, in the end of the vetting process for the High Court only 2 judges remained at the High Court. The rest of them either resigned or were dismissed by the vetting process. Currently the High court has 4 judges (one of them is currently acting as a member of the High Judicial Council, therefore his mandate as a High Court Judge has been suspended).

(2019): The numbers provided above count the judges in the payroll list: 294 (141 m+153 f) judges effectively working on 31 December, 32 judges (24m + 8f) suspended from the IQC (due to the vetting process) and 3 judges (3m) on the process of appeal. Please note that the High Court should have 19 judges. At the start of the vetting process, there were 17 judges in the High Court. However, in the end of the vetting process for the High Court only 1 judge remained at the High Court. The rest of them either resigned or were dismissed by the vetting process.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

There are 3 courts of general jurisdiction in Bosnia and Herzegovina that are included in the Supreme Court category.

Firstly, at entity level, there are the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court and the Republika Srpska Supreme Court.

Both courts are competent to decide within the respective entity on legal remedies concerning decisions of the immediately lower courts.

Secondly, there is the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina at the State level. Its competencies are regulated by the Law on the Court of

Bosnia and Herzegovina and are related to criminal, administrative and appellate jurisdiction. However, the Court of Bosnia and

Herzegovina has no jurisdiction over the decisions adopted by the entity – level Supreme Courts. Within its criminal jurisdiction, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina tries cases pertaining to the specific category of crimes laid down by the laws of Bosnia and

Herzegovina, which include war crimes, organized crime, economic crime and corruption cases. The administrative jurisdiction means that the Court of Bosnia and

Herzegovina adjudicates cases pertaining to the decisions issued by the State institutions and other organizations in charge of public functions, such as property

disputes related to the performance of public functions between the State and the entities, breaches of the election law, etc. Its Appellate Division only decides appeals against the decisions of the Court's first instance divisions. Accordingly, there are three Prosecutor's Offices representing criminal cases before the courts

that are included in the Supreme Court category: the Prosecutor's Office before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina; the Prosecutor's Office before the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court; the Prosecutor's Office before the Republika Srpska Supreme Court.

(2020): The numbers provided do not include information on the number of court presidents and reserve judges (Q20). The court presidents were excluded from the statistics provided for the Western Balkans indicators and questionnaire in order to ensure consistency with the statistics provided for the Q46 in the Questionnaire dashboard of Evaluation of the judicial systems (2018 - 2020). 76 court presidents were appointed on 31st December 2020.

Montenegro

(2022): some of the judges were retired and in the meantime new judges elected

(2021): During 2021, the Judicial Council noted the termination of the judicial function for 54 judges. Out of that, 19 judges were in the position related to the second instance before the termination of their judicial function, while 12 judges performed the function of a judge of the Supreme Court of Montenegro. For this reason, there was a difference compared to last year's report. In particular, a number of judges have exercised their right to a pension. The procedure for selecting new judges takes some time. At the beginning of 2022, a number of new judges were elected (eg 11 new judges of the Supreme Court of Montenegro)

(2020): Even though the percentage discrepancy in the reported values seems drastic, those values may be misleading. The number of total judges has not changed drastically. Last year:

Males:- 5

Females- 14

This year: total - 18

males - 3

North Macedonia

(General Comment): The number of the judges is decreasing, due to the retirements and long process of trainings in Academy. From 2013 the only selections process to become a judge or as a public prosecutor is through the training (24 months) in the Academy for judges and prosecutors. So, the process of selection and appointment of qualified judges and prosecutors is around 3 years. Also, in the Strategy for reform of judicial sector 2017-2022 with Action plan, one of the strategic guidelines was 2.4.3. "Harmonization of the number of judges in the Republic of North Macedonia with the European average per capita" and the strategic measure is Optimization of the number of judges of cases in the courts according to European standards through the natural drain of the judges with retirement. The success indicator for this goal is reduced number of judges by 5%.

(General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints reserve judges, following the request of the court president, for period of up to two years to assist courts in reducing case backlog. It is an established practice that the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council grants the court president's request to appoint reserve judges for multiple two-year judgeships if the backlog continues to be a significant problem for the court. The Council can occasionally appoint reserve judges to replace professional judges who are absent for the prolonged period of time. The reserve judges perform their duties on a full-time basis; an equal legal framework applies to professional and reserve judges (i.e. appointment procedure, salary, Code of ethics, performance targets, training etc.).

The Council decided in 2022 that the number of reserve judges in the courts will gradually decrease. They will cease to perform this function no later than the end of 2026. Courts in which reserve judges work may request that the Council increase the number of regular judges if necessary due to the large number of pending cases. Question 022

(General Comment): Lay judges are citizens who hear and decide criminal cases together with professional judges. Lay judges are appointed by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and they play a role in the Bosnia and Herzegovina judicial system, due to application of previously valid criminal procedural laws that required their participation.

The procedural laws have been changed in a way that participation of lay judges is not required any longer, but due to a backlog of cases, their participation is still needed. Concretely, courts adjudicate the criminal law cases by panels that include lay judges if the proceedings were instituted before the currently valid Criminal Procedure Codes came into force.

North Macedonia

(General Comment): Law on courts regulates the status, election, dismissal, and rights for lay judges. Lay judges participate in the trial when it is determined by the procedural laws (Law on Criminal Procedure, Law on Litigation Procedure etc.). Article 42 (Law on courts) regulates that every adult citizen of the Republic of North Macedonia who has completed at least secondary education, who is fluent in Macedonian language, has a reputation for exercising this function and is not older than 60 years, may be elected as a Lay judge. Lay judges shall be elected and dismissed by the Judicial Council of the Republic of North Macedonia under the conditions and in the procedure set by the law. A juvenile trial lay judge is elected from persons with experience in upbringing and education of young people. Discrimination on grounds of gender, race, color of the skin, national and social background, political and religious belief, material and social position shall be prohibited in election of judges and lay judges.

Equitable representation of the citizens from all communities shall be ensured when electing judges and lay judges without disturbing the criteria prescribed by law. A person who is related in vertical or horizontal line up to third degree or is a spouse of a judge or lay judge cannot be elected judge or lay judge in the same court. A person who is related in vertical or horizontal line up to third degree or is a spouse of a member of the Judicial Council cannot be elected judge or lay judge.

The Judicial Council is responsible for determination of the optimal number of judges and lay judges in the courts of the Republic of North Macedonia.

Upon completion of the election, the Lay judges shall mandatorily attend specialized training, organized by the Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors, after which the Academy shall issue a certificate for completed training to them.

The content, duration and the delivery of the training shall be defined by specialized programme for training of lay judges by the Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors.

Lay judge are elected for a period of four years and may be re-elected. The lay judges shall give the solemn oath in front of the president of the court where they are elected.

According to article 66 (Law on courts) "A lay judge cannot be held liable for a stated opinion and manner of deciding during the adoption".

A procedure for damage compensation or another procedure cannot be conducted against a judge or a lay judge by a party that is not satisfied with the decision of the judge. According to the article 64(Law on courts), the lay judges shall be entitled to compensation for carrying out the activities of a lay judge and the Minister of Justice adopts detailed regulations on the compensations of the lay judges of a court decisions.

The office of a lay judge shall terminate upon:

- 1) personal request;
- 2) permanent loss of the ability to fulfill the duty of a lay judge;

- 3) conviction of a crime to an imprisonment sentence of at least six months;
- 4) unduly or negligent fulfillment of the duty of a lay judge, and
- 5) turning 60 years old.

The procedure for termination of the office of a lay judge shall be conducted by the Judicial Council of the Republic of Macedonia on proposal of the president of the court.

The decisions of the lay judges are binding.

(General Comment): There are 3 courts of general jurisdiction in Bosnia and Herzegovina that are included in the Supreme Court category. Firstly, at entity level, there are the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court and the Republika Srpska Supreme Court. Both courts are competent to decide within the respective entity on legal remedies concerning decisions of the immediately lower courts. Secondly, there is the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina at the State level. Its competencies are regulated by the Law on the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina and are related to criminal, administrative and appellate jurisdiction. However, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina has no jurisdiction over the decisions adopted by the entity – level Supreme Courts. Within its criminal jurisdiction, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina tries cases pertaining to the specific category of crimes laid down by the laws of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which include war crimes, organized crime, economic crime and corruption cases. The administrative jurisdiction means that the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina adjudicates cases pertaining to the decisions issued by the State institutions and other organizations in charge of public functions, such as property disputes related to the performance of public functions between the State and the entities, breaches of the election law, etc. Its Appellate Division only decides appeals against the decisions of the Court's first instance divisions. Accordingly, there are three Prosecutor's Offices representing criminal cases before the courts that are included in the Supreme Court category: the Prosecutor's Office before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina; the Prosecutor's Office before the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court; the Prosecutor's Office before the Republika Srpska Supreme Court. The High and Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints judicial associates in municipal courts (i.e. first instance courts) in one part of the country, the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, for an undetermined period. A judicial associate may proceed and decide non-contentious matters, enforcement matters, including payment orders, and small claims cases in accordance with the law and as assigned by the court president. Appeals against their decisions are decided by the second instance courts. As for the requirements in terms of qualifications set by the legislation, judicial associates must possess a law degree and have to pass the bar examination. (2019): 1. Number of deputy public prosecutors at first instance level consists of: 465 Basic PPO Deputies + 233 Higher PPO Deputies + (13 +10) Deputy PPOs of special jurisdiction.

2. Number of deputy prosecutors at second instance (court of appeal) level consists of: Appellate Deputy PP's 3. Number of deputy prosecutors at supreme court level: number of deputy Republic Public Prosecutors.

Discrepancy explanation: (State Prosecutorial Council): The reason why the number of deputy public prosecutors has increased significantly, compared to 2016, is that the State Prosecutors Council has in the last two years made decisions on increasing the number of first and second instance deputy pp's and based on those decisions, announced calls for the election of deputy public prosecutors. This is part of the capacity building program, having in mind the workload of the ppo's and the fact that not all offices which are envisaged in the systematization are filled.

The Case Management System (CMS) Index is an index ranging from 0 to 12 points. It is calculated based on five questions on the features and deployment rate of the CMS of the courts of the respective beneficiary. The methodology for calculation provides one index point for each of the five questions for each case matter. The points regarding the four questions on the features of the CMS (status of cases online; centralised or interoperable database; early warning signals; status of integration with a statistical tool) are summarized while the deployment rate is multiplied as a weight. In this way, if the system is not fully deployed, the value is decreased even if all features are included. This methodology provides an adequate evaluation.

	Case Management system deployment rate	Status of the case online	Centralised or interoperable database	Early warning signals	Tools of producing courts activity statistics	Total (12 max)

North Macedonia: Because of the 2021 Census, the number of inhabitants changed dramatically between 2020 and 2021. For this reason, all the variations of values standardised by the number of inhabitants are mainly due to the variation in the population.

North Macedonia: Because of the 2021 Census, the number of inhabitants changed dramatically between 2020 and 2021. For this reason, all the variations of values standardised by the number of inhabitants are mainly due to the variation in the population.

The Case Management System (CMS) Index is an index ranging from 0 to 12 points. It is calculated based on five questions on the features and deployment rate of the CMS of the courts of the respective beneficiary. The methodology for calculation provides one index point for each of the five questions for each case matter. The points regarding the four questions on the features of the CMS (status of cases online; centralised or interoperable database; early warning signals; status of integration with a statistical tool) are summarized while the deployment rate is multiplied as a weight. In this way, if the system is not fully deployed, the value is decreased even if all features are included. This methodology provides an adequate evaluation.

Q038 (2022): Other Criminal cases: a) criminal administrative cases (exe: probation requests, security measures etc) b) cases related to anti-mafia law.

The number of resolved cases during 2022 is believed to have been caused by the decrease of the number of judges in the second instance due to different factors such as resignations, vetting process, promotions. In addition, the inequal distribution of cases between courts is another factor contributing to the problem.

Q038 (2021): Criminal requirements of the preliminary investigation phase; Criminal cases of the preliminary hearing; Criminal requirements of the execution phase; Security measures; parole; Extradition

Q038 (2020): Variations from the previous cycle remain unexplained

Q039 (2022): The decrease in the number of resolved cases during 2022 is believed to have been caused by the decrease of the number of judges in the second instance due to different factors such as resignations, vetting process, promotions. In addition, the inequal distribution of cases between courts is another factor contributing to the problem.

As regards administrative cases, during 2022 the Administrative Appeal Court has functioned with 43% of judges.

Q040 (2022): Other Criminal cases: a) criminal administrative cases (exe: probation requests, security measures etc) b) cases related to anti-mafia law.

Long disposition time is due to the lack of judges and uneven distribution of workload.

Q040 (2020): A decrease in the number of resolved criminal cases (-45%) remains unexplained Q041 (2022): In the present condition of the CMS system, we cannot calculate the exact average length of proceedings. We use the disposition time as a proxy.

Q042 (General Comment): Yes, there are quality standards determined for the judicial system at national level approved by the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, (Article 71) who are related to the assessment process of the prosecutors. The assessment is conducted according to the criteria of: a) professional skills; b) organizational skills; c) ethics and commitment to professional values and personal skills and; c) professional commitment of the prosecutor.

Concerning the professional skills of the prosecutor, the assessment includes the legal knowledge and legal reasoning to conduct the investigation logically, gathering the evidence required by law, interpret the law and analyse jurisprudence, make investigative decisions and actions, clarity and the understanding of prosecution acts, the consistent and well-organized structure of prosecution acts, the ability to question and the quality of the analysis, and the logical reasoning of the prosecutor, etc.

HJC is the body responsible for determining the quality standards of the judiciary, including efficiency and quality. HJC is working on producing the sub-legal acts concerning standards, in cooperation with external partners. Furthermore, each Council publishes Standards of Ethics and Rules of Conduct. Hence, standards generally speaking standards are divided into performance related standards (quality and quantity of performance of magistrates) and behavioral related standards (ethics).

Q042 (2019): Yes, there are quality standards determined for the judicial system at national level approved by the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, who are related to the assessment process of the prosecutors. Hence, standards generally speaking standards are divided into performance related standards (quality and quantity of performance of magistrates) and behavioral related standards (ethics).

Q043 (General Comment): On the performance related standards, implementation is assessed individually for each magistrate during its professional and ethical evaluation. This process includes a self evaluation by the magistrate, the chair and then the relevant Council. Additionally, for behavior related standards each Council appoints a magistrate as Ethics Advisor under the provisions of the Law “On the Governance Institutions of the Justice System”.

This process includes a self evaluation by the magistrate, the chair and then the relevant Council. Additionally, for behavior related standards each Council appoints a magistrate as Ethics Advisor under the provisions of the Law “On the Governance Institutions of the Justice System”

Q058 (General Comment): High Judicial Council monitors the above-mentioned indicators, every six months, based on detailed reports of the courts. An annual report is produced each year.

High Inspector of Justice is the responsible body, which inspects citizens complains, for : procrastination of the process by the judges, unethical acts by judges..etj. Based on point 4 of article 194 of law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended, the Office of the High Inspector of Justice, conducts institutional and thematic inspections on every aspect of the work of courts, judicial administration, prosecutor's offices and administration of prosecution, based on the motivated written request of the High Judicial Council, the High Prosecution Council, the Minister of Justice, the General Prosecutor and the annual inspection plan.

Q058 (2022): We can deduct the number of appeals and appeal ratio by the data that we gather but it is not an indicator directly reported by courts. Furthermore, it is not analyzed as part of a court functional indicator, it is used during the personal assessment of a judge. Regarding the "satisfaction of users", an online survey is being piloted in the First instance court of Tirana.

Q058 (2020): Based on this provision and based on the annual plan of Inspections, the High Inspector of Justice has approved the following decisions:

- Decision no. 1 dated 11.02.2020, "On conducting the thematic inspection of courts and prosecutor's offices near them on the treatment of requests subject to" Conditional Release ";
- Decision no. 1/1 dated 20.02.2020 “On the addition of the thematic inspection object determined by decision no. 1 dated 11.02.2020 of the High Inspector of Justice”.

Q059 (General Comment): Regarding the High Prosecutorial Council, some of the performance and quality indicators are taken in consideration where they are related to the exercising of the legal competencies performed from the High Prosecutorial Council in the framework of the assessment of performance of the prosecutor.

High Inspector of Justice is the responsible body, which inspects citizens complains, for: procrastination of the process by the persecutors, unethical acts by prosecutors..etj. Q048 (2021): The court performance is assessed as part of the annual report but because there is no officially approved indicators yet, the court performance can not be evaluated.

Q049 (2022): The HJC has in place 2 different statistical reports: a yearly report based on CEPEJ methodology as well as a quarterly report. Both are analyzed by the statistic sector of the HJC. The decisions regarding human resources distribution, judges' appointments and transfers are based on these data.

Q053 (General Comment): Referring to article 19/1, of the Law no. 97/2016 "On the functioning and organising the prosecution in the Republic of Albania", as amended, the General Prosecutor publishes the annual report on the workload of the prosecutor's offices as well as recommendations for improving and increasing the effectiveness of their activity.

Q053 (2019): According to the Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors", as amended, the assessment process of the prosecutors is periodic. The prosecutor is evaluated once every three years during the first fifteen years of professional experience and once every five years, after the first 15 years of professional experience. The head of the Prosecution office is evaluated at least once during his term of office. Whereas, the prosecutor acting as a member of the High Prosecutorial Council are assessed in accordance with the detailed rules adopted by the Council.

Q067 (2019): Courts are required to submit periodic reports to HJC on workload of judges, backlog of cases, ethics, audio recording, etc

Q069 (General Comment): As provided in article 148/b of the Constitution, the General Prosecutor reports to the Assembly on the status of criminality. In line with article 104 of law 97/2016 "On the organisation and functioning of the Prosecution Office in the Republic of Albania", the report is submitted at least once per year, and includes any data and explanation on the number, type, territorial extent, intensity and forms of criminality. Additionally, by decision no. 134/2018 of the Assembly, the report should also include information on the internal organisation of the institution, including the structure and its organisational chart; information on income and expenses, legal bases, enforcement of international obligations etc. Additionally, any prosecution office, based on article 50 of the law 97/2016, prepares within February of each year, its yearly report on the performance of each prosecution office and submits it to the General Prosecutor. The Report is published in the internet page of the General Prosecution Office.

Q069 (2021): According to Article 50, of the Law "On the organization and functioning of the prosecution in the Republic of Albania", the head of the prosecution offices of first and second instance of general jurisdiction prepare an annual report within the month of February of each year, on the progress of work in the relevant prosecution during the previous year and report to the General Prosecutor. Pursuant to Article 148/b of the Constitution of the republic of Albania, the General Prosecutor reports to the Assembly for the state of criminality. In line with Article 104 of Law 97/2016 "On the Organizing and Functioning of the Prosecution Office", reporting must be carried out at least once a year and it contains data and explanations on the number, types, territorial extension, intensity and forms of crime. The decision no.134/2018 of the Assembly of the Republic of Albania, in addition to above, provides that the annual report must contain data regarding even to the institution inner organizing, including the structure and the organigram; data on income and expenses, legal references, implementing the international obligations. Furthermore, in accordance with the Law nr. 97/2016, each prosecution office has the obligation to prepare an annual report on the prosecution activity, including the above mentioned activities. These reports are presented to the General Prosecutor Office

Q075 (2020): Each judge is assessed by the High Judicial Council as part of its period professional and ethical evaluation. Assessment is done based on the yearly statistical data that are collected from each court, based on predetermined criteria. Standard forms for this exercise (collection of data) have been recently approved by the Council

Q075 (2019): Each judge is assessed by the High Judicial Council as part of its period professional and ethical evaluation

Q075-1 (2021): It is part of ethical and professional evaluation of judges. As such it influences the final score and therefore the career of the judge

Q075-1 (2020): Other: It is part of the professional and ethical evaluation of judges. As such, it influences the final score, therefore the career of the judge.

Q076 (General Comment): All magistrates, including the chairpersons of courts and prosecution offices are subjects to an ethical and professional performance evaluation. The evaluation is performed according to the following criteria:

a) Judicial or prosecutorial professional capacity;

b) Organizational skills;

c) Ethics and commitment to judicial and prosecutorial professional values;

ç) Personal qualities and professional commitment. The evaluation of magistrates is based on the following sources:

a) Personal file of the magistrate;

b) Statistical data, according to the provisions contained in Article 90 of this Law;

c) Files selected by lot for evaluation in accordance with Article 91 of this Law, including the audio or video recording of the hearing with regard to judicial files, which shall always guarantee a full representation of all the types of tried and investigated cases;

ç) Self-evaluation of the magistrate and the judicial decisions or prosecutorial acts drafted by the prosecutor and selected by him/her. In any case the number of the decisions/acts prepared and selected by the prosecutor should not exceed two per year;

d) The opinion of the chairperson;

dh) Data regarding the verification of complaints filed against the magistrate during the evaluation period;

e) Written information transmitted from the School of Magistrate or other institutions which certify the attendance and involvement of the magistrate in training activities;

ë) Final decisions for disciplinary measures against the magistrate delivered within the evaluation period, independent from whether the disciplinary measure is already expunged or not;

f) Reports requested from High Inspectorate for the Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interest or other auditing or controlling institutions;

g) Objections of the magistrate or any minutes or documentation of hearings during the evaluation process;

gj) Any other information that shows the professional development of the magistrate

In the first 15 years of professional experience, including the professional experience as assistant magistrate or seconded magistrate, each magistrate is evaluated once every three years. After the first 15 years of professional experience as magistrate, each magistrate is evaluated once every five years. Initially, the magistrate conducts a self evaluation of the ethical and professional based on the standard form issued by the Council, through which the magistrate:

a) Evaluates the activity against the evaluation criteria;

b) Provides an analysis of the statistical data referring the magistrate's activities;

- c) Describes the steps taken for meeting the objectives set out in the previous evaluation;
- ç) Describes the extent to which these objectives have been met providing the respective explanation;
- d) Defines the objectives for his/her professional development in the upcoming evaluation period;
- dh) Describes the needs for training and the circumstances which constitute a hindrance for the professional improvement and proposes concrete solutions for the upcoming evaluation period. Next, the chairperson of the court or prosecution office, where the magistrate under evaluation exercises the activity, provides an opinion on the activity of the magistrate, in accordance with the standards established by the Council. At the end, the evaluation is done by the Council.

Q082-0 (2022): The HJC has approved a strategic 2 year plan, including the IT strategy. The strategic plan can be accessed only in albanian: https://klgj.al/wp-content/uploads/2022/05/Plani-Strategjik-Final_2022-2024.pdf

Q082 (2022): Regarding the option "centralized or interoperable database" the answer changed from "yes" to "no", because during 2022, due to cyber-attacks in Albania, some institutions such as the Civil Status Office and the National Business Center have disconnected interoperability with the case management system.

The status of integration with statistical tool changed from "integrated" to "not connected" because HJC has approved new statistical formats which have not yet been integrated with the case management system. These integrations are expected to end with the finalization of the new judicial map.

Q082-1 (2022): THE ARKIT system has been used since 2002, and the ICMIS system has been used since 2007.

Q082-2 (2022): Preliminary steps (Governance structure setup, Preliminary decisions, Decision on migration of data from existing systems, etc);

Phase 1 (case handling, statistics, decisions);

Phase 2 (e-filing etc. for criminal cases);

Phase 3 (e-filing etc. for civil and admin. cases);

Legislation;

System support, operation and maintenance;

Taking into account that a newly developed judicial case management system should nowadays necessarily include a full digitisation of all procedures, and considering the inherent complexity of such endeavor, a 5-year timeline for the completion of the whole project is proposed.

Q082-2 (2020): The current CMS presents a number of shortfalls and the latest study conducted by HJC concludes on the necessity to develop a new system. Because of the substantive financial efforts it requires, in 2020 HJC commissioned a total of 84 upgrades to the system which functionalities have improved since, but still a new system is envisaged. Its development depends primarily on the securing of financial support.

Q084 (2020): Please note that data are anonymized only for first and second instance courts. The High court still publishes its decisions without anonymizing the data

Q085 (2020): The website is www.gjykata.gov.al; however decisions of the High Court are published in the website of the High Court www.gjykataelarte.gov.al. Furthermore, Tirana District Court and Tirana Appeals Court also have their dedicated websites where data are anonymised. This happens because there are currently two systems in use in Albania; ICMIS, which is used by the majority of the Courts and ARKIT which is used only in Tirana District Court and Former Serious Crimes Court.

Q035 (General Comment): The second instance courts of general jurisdiction have subject matter over the first instance administrative law cases. Therefore, the statistics incorporated in the table for Q 35 include data on the caseload of second instance courts regarding the first instance administrative law cases.

Q035 (2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance civil and commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance civil and commercial litigious cases rose by 13% compared to 2020. Still, that number was smaller than the number of new first instance civil and commercial litigious cases received in 2019 and 2018. This trend continued in 2022., except that one of the biggest first-instance courts received a large number of relatively simple litigious small claims cases, which resulted in an increase in the total number of cases received compared to 2021. This was a one-time increase in the influx of cases, related specifically to this court's territorial jurisdiction, leading to the increase in the number of pending cases even though most of the courts surpassed the 100% clearance rate in the reference year. The number of pending cases that are more than two years old has decreased significantly, due to this report covering 2020, in which courts received a smaller number of cases because of the Covid-19 restrictions. Finally, it is important to note that the majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases older than two years are litigious small claims cases related to the unpaid utility bills.

The decreased number of incoming non-litigious cases was filed in the courts in 2022 in comparison to 2021. The majority of general civil non-litigious cases are enforcement proceedings that the state-owned utility companies initiate to recover unpaid bills for utility services. (e.g. heating, water, electricity, garbage collection, television subscription etc.).

As in the previous years, several courts in their annual reports indicated that they did not have sufficient capacity to handle the workload that increased in the reference year within the project aiming to achieve harmonization between land register and cadastre data. Non-judge court staff deal with a substantial part of the caseload in terms of registry cases and land registry matters. In addition, majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases and general non-litigious cases older than 2 years were cases related to the unpaid utility bills, i.e. the non-litigious enforcement cases. This backlog of old cases is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

It is important to note an additional information on the inconsistency for general non-litigious pending cases between an end to 2021 and the beginning of 2022. Namely, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina instructed one of the courts to correct technical mistakes made in the case management system about the registration of non-litigious enforcement cases the public companies had initiated with the courts previously for unpaid utility bills. The court increased the number of pending cases by implementing the instructions of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The overwhelming majority of the administrative law cases are concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Several courts saw an increase in the influx of administrative cases during 2022, resulting in a surge in the number of pending cases at the end of the year; in addition, the number of pending administrative cases in some of the largest courts has escalated as some of the judges specialized in administrative cases were absent due to sick leave or they were retired during the year.

Q035 (2021): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance civil and commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance civil and commercial litigious cases rose by 13% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of new first instance civil and commercial litigious cases received in 2019 and 2018. Most of the courts surpassed the 100% clearance rate in the reference year. This led to the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2021, continuing the trends from the previous years. The number of pending cases older than 2 years grew slightly, mostly because of the Covid-19 restrictions imposed in the first half of the reference year. Finally, it is important to note that the majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases older than 2 years are litigious small claims cases related to the unpaid utility bills.

The increased number of incoming non-litigious cases was filed in the courts in 2021 in comparison to 2020. The majority of general civil non-litigious cases are enforcement proceedings that the state-owned utility companies initiate to recover unpaid bills for utility services. (e.g. heating, water, electricity, garbage collection, television subscription etc.).

As in 2020, several courts in their annual reports indicated that they did not have sufficient capacity to handle the workload that increased in the reference year within the project aiming to achieve harmonization between land register and cadastre data. Non-judge court staff deal with a substantial part of the caseload in terms of registry cases and land registry matters. In addition, majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases and general non-litigious cases older than 2 years were cases related to the unpaid utility bills, i.e. the non-litigious enforcement cases. This backlog of old cases is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

It is important to note an additional information on the inconsistency for general non-litigious pending cases between an end to 2020 and the beginning of 2021. Namely, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina instructed several courts to correct technical mistakes made in the case management system about the registration of non-litigious enforcement cases the public companies had initiated with the courts previously for unpaid utility bills. The courts increased the number of pending cases by implementing the instructions of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The overwhelming majority of the administrative law cases are concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The courts reduced significantly the number of administrative law cases in the reference year. However, the number of pending administrative law cases older than 2 years increased in 2021. Primarily, it is a consequence of the fact that one of the courts could not achieve the 100% clearance rate in the reference year, because it received a disproportionate number of the new administrative law cases in 2021.

Q035 (2020): In 2020, Covid- 19 restrictions affected particularly the functioning of courts dealing with first instance cases, namely the numbers of incoming and resolved cases were reduced for all case types within the category of “other than criminal” first instance cases. However, the courts generally managed to achieve the clearance rate over 100% for the following case types within the first instance cases: commercial and civil litigious cases, general non-litigious cases, non-litigious business registry cases, and other registry cases. Nevertheless, the total number of pending “other than criminal” first instance cases increased due mostly because of the courts did not achieve the 100% clearance rate for the non-litigious land registry cases. Several courts in their annual reports indicated that they did not have sufficient capacity to handle the workload that increased in 2020 within the project aiming to achieve harmonization between land register and cadastre data. Non-judge court staff deal with a substantial part of the caseload in terms of registry cases and land registry matters. Majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases and general non-litigious cases older than 2 years were cases related to the unpaid utility bills divided into two groups: the litigious small claims cases and the non-litigious enforcement cases. This backlog of old cases is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Bulk of the pending administrative law cases older than 2 years are concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. An additional information on the inconsistency for general non-litigious pending cases between end of 2019 and beginning 2020: The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina instructed three courts to correct technical mistakes made in the case management system about the registration of non-litigious enforcement cases the public broadcasting companies had initiated with the courts previously for unpaid television subscription; by implementing the instructions the courts increased the number of pending cases.

Q035 (2019): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of civil and commercial litigious cases over recent years, including 2019; also, the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019 can be explained by the fact that the courts have achieved or surpassed the 100% clearance rate for commercial and civil litigious cases throughout the same period. The decrease of incoming non-litigious cases (i.e. non-litigious enforcement cases for unpaid utility bills, registry cases, land registry cases) was registered in 2019 as opposed to the increase in 2017 and 2018; in such conditions the several biggest courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina reduced the backlog. The above-mentioned reduction in the number of new cases is not caused by the legislative amendments. A substantial part of the registry and land registry matters is dealt with by non-judge staff in the court registries.

When it comes to the statistics on pending civil and commercial litigious and administrative cases older than 2 years, it is important to note the following circumstances: Most of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases, i.e. cases older than 2 years from the date the case came to the first instance court, are litigious small claims cases related to the unpaid utility bills. This backlog of old cases is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Most of the administrative law cases, i.e. cases older than 2 years from the date the case came to the first instance court, are concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years was reduced in 2019 compared to 2018 due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with pending cases chronologically within the courts’ backlog reduction plans.

Q038 (General Comment): Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the conversion of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc.), statistics on court cases related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal and misdemeanour proceedings; statistics on court cases related to the various auxiliary matters decided in relation to the misdemeanour proceedings.

Severe offences: a criminal offense is an unlawful act which violates or jeopardizes the protected values and which is, because of the danger it represents, defined by law as a criminal offense and for which a punishment is prescribed. Criminal sanctions are: prison punishments, suspended sentence, security measures and educational measures. Examples of serious offenses are: criminal acts against state, homicide, organized crime, criminal acts against official duty (i.e. corruption cases), theft and other crimes against property, rape and other crimes against sexual integrity, traffic accidents where a person suffered grievous bodily injury or a significant damage and other crimes against public transportation etc.

Minor offence cases: minor offences are violations of public order or of regulations on economic and financial operations defined as such by laws or other regulations, whose characteristics are described and for which sanctions are prescribed. The following sanctions may be imposed upon a person found responsible for commission of a minor offence: fine; suspended sentence; reprimand; and protective measures. The following measures may be imposed as a consequence of being found responsible for commission of a minor offence: confiscation of gains; obligation to compensate damages; penalty points; and deprivation of liberty to compel payment of a fine. Examples of minor offences: traffic offences, violations of public order, begging etc.

Q038 (2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal law cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases rose by 8% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases registered in 2019 and 2018. Statistics on first-instance criminal cases in 2022 indicate that the situation in the courts is, basically, consistent with the parameters from 2021.

Unlike previous years, the number of incoming cases decreased in 2022. Consequently, the number of pending cases in the first instance decreased at the end of 2022. The reduction in the influx of cases was recorded, predominantly, in the largest courts. This is not a consequence of legislative changes. It remains to be seen whether such indicators will continue to be achieved in the coming period.

Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanour proceedings and for the enforcement of pronounced penalties.

Q038 (2021): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal law cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases rose by 8% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases registered in 2019 and 2018.

In addition, as in 2019 and 2020, the number of incoming first instance misdemeanour cases continued a clear upward trend in the reference year. Predominantly, increase of the new cases remains to be the result of a more consistent approach of the law enforcement institutions concerning traffic offences and some offences against public order. In addition, the number of resolved first instance cases in 2021 was bigger in comparison to 2020, which was marked by the Covid-19 measures restricting the work in prosecutors' offices and courts. However, the courts failed to reach the 100% clearance rate in the reference year. Consequently, the number of pending misdemeanour cases continued to grow in 2021 as in the previous years. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanour proceedings and for the enforcement of pronounced penalties.

Q038 (2020): Specific comments for 2020:

There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal cases over recent years, that trend improved in 2020 due to the decrease of activity of public prosecutors and judges in the context of measures implemented against the epidemic of Covid-19. However, in contrast to 2019, the number of resolved first instance criminal cases plunged in 2020, due to Covid-19 measures restricting the work in prosecutors' offices and courts. Therefore, the number of pending severe criminal cases was bigger at the end of the reporting year. As in 2019, the number of incoming first instance misdemeanour cases continued to raise in 2020. Predominantly, increase of the new cases remains to be the result of a more consistent approach of the law enforcement institutions concerning traffic offences and some offences against public order. The number of resolved first instance cases in 2020 was lesser compared to 2019 because of Covid-19 measures restricting the work in courts. Consequently, the number of pending misdemeanour cases continued to grow in 2020 as in the previous year. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). Also, the historical statistics since 2014 show the decrease of the severe criminal cases. Due to the increase of the incoming misdemeanor and other cases in 2019 the courts did not achieve 100% clearance rate causing the increase of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019. The increase of the incoming cases was mostly the result of a more strict approach of the law enforcement institutions with regards to the punishing traffic offences. Also, it is important to note that although the increase of pending misdemeanor cases between 2018 and 2019 is high in relative terms, it is not as significant in absolute numbers.

Q039 (2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions; therefore, the number of appeals initiating the second instance court cases in 2020 was much lower, compared to the previous years. In 2021, however, the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases was increased by 9% compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is by far smaller than the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases registered in 2019 and 2018. This trend continued in 2022. However, one of the second-instance courts received a large number of simple cases, which were resolved during the same year, which resulted in an increase in the total number of cases received compared to 2021. This was a one-time increase in the influx of cases, related specifically to this court's territorial jurisdiction. Furthermore, the courts with the biggest caseload in the country have managed to surpass the 100% clearance rate for many consecutive years, including the reference year; consequently, the number of pending second instance civil commercial litigious cases was lesser at the end of 2022. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. When it comes to administrative court cases, the number of pending cases has been further reduced in 2022, confirming indicators from 2021.

Q039 (2021): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions; therefore, the number of appeals initiating the second instance court cases in 2020 was much lower, compared to the previous years. In 2021, however, the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases was increased by 9% compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is by far smaller than the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases registered in 2019 and 2018. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. The courts registered the decreased numbers of incoming and resolved administrative cases in 2021 in contrast to the previous year. The workload shrank predominantly in one of the courts in the reference year; which received almost no complaints against the decisions of the election commission unlike in 2020.

In general, the courts maintained the trend from 2020 and previous years to make a significant reduction of the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

Q039 (2020): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. The courts registered the increased numbers of incoming and resolved administrative cases in 2020 in contrast to the previous year; the workload increased particularly in one of the courts, which had to decide urgently on the huge number of the complaints against the election commission's decisions in relation to the 2020 local elections. The courts maintained the trend from 2019 to make a significant reduction of the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

Q039 (2019): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of civil commercial litigious cases over recent years, including 2019; also, the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019 can be explained by the fact that the courts have achieved or surpassed the 100% clearance rate for commercial and civil litigious cases throughout the same period. The decrease of administrative cases was registered in 2019 as in the previous year; in such conditions the backlog of cases was reduced in 2019. The above-mentioned reduction in the number of new cases is not caused by the legislative amendments. When it comes to the statistics on pending civil and commercial litigious and administrative cases older than 2 years, it is important to note the following circumstances: The courts reduced significantly the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years in 2019 compared to 2018 due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

Q040 (General Comment): Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the conversion of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc.), statistics on court cases related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal and misdemeanour proceedings; statistics on court cases related to the various auxiliary matters decided in relation to the misdemeanour proceedings.

Severe offences: a criminal offense is an unlawful act which violates or jeopardizes the protected values and which is, because of the danger it represents, defined by law as a criminal offense and for which a punishment is prescribed. Criminal sanctions are: prison punishments, suspended sentence, security measures and educational measures.

Examples of serious offenses are: criminal acts against state, homicide, organized crime, criminal acts against official duty (i.e. corruption cases), theft and other crimes against property, rape and other crimes against sexual integrity, traffic accidents where a person suffered grievous bodily injury or a significant damage and other crimes against public transportation etc.

Minor offence cases: minor offences are violations of public order or of regulations on economic and financial operations defined as such by laws or other regulations, whose characteristics are described and for which sanctions are prescribed. The following sanctions may be imposed upon a person found responsible for commission of a minor offence: fine; suspended sentence; reprimand; and protective measures. The following measures may be imposed as a consequence of being found responsible for commission of a minor offence: confiscation of gains; obligation to compensate damages; penalty points; and deprivation of liberty to compel payment of a fine. Examples of minor offences are: traffic offences, violations of public order, begging etc.

Q040 (2022): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. The second instance courts have first instance jurisdiction for criminal offences for which more than 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed, they also have second instance jurisdiction to decide on appeals against the decisions brought by the first instance courts for criminal offences for which up to 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed. The statistics of second instance courts on criminal law cases (Q 40, i.e. incoming, resolved, pending, pending older than two years) include both first and second instance cases within the jurisdiction of the second instance courts. These statistics do not include data on severe criminal cases managed by the three courts that are included in the category of supreme courts; their caseload in terms of criminal law consists of the first (i.e. one of the courts in this category has both first and second instance criminal jurisdiction), second and third instance severe criminal cases. There has been a significant decrease of the first instance severe criminal cases over recent years to the second instance courts of the aforementioned category. The trend advanced in 2020 due to the decrease of activity of public prosecutors and judges in the context of measures implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus. In addition, in 2020 the number of incoming second instance criminal cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019 and 2018. The number of the first instance severe criminal cases remained stable in 2021 and 2022.

Q040 (2021): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. The second instance courts have first instance jurisdiction for criminal offences for which more than 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed, they also have second instance jurisdiction to decide on appeals against the decisions brought by the first instance courts for criminal offences for which up to 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019 and 2018. The number of the first instance severe criminal cases remained stable in 2021.

As for the number of incoming severe criminal law cases at second instance courts, it was increased in 2021 compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is smaller significantly than the number of incoming severe instance criminal law cases registered at second instance courts in 2019 and 2018.

The second instance courts deal only with the appeal cases within their jurisdiction for misdemeanour cases. Even though the number of pending cases dropped slightly in 2021, the decrease is not as significant in absolute numbers.

When it comes to the statistics on pending severe criminal cases and other cases older than 2 years, the number of those cases increased slightly in 2021 mostly due to the measures which continued to be implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus in the reference year (e.g. number of persons in the court rooms was restricted). However, certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). Furthermore, many of the pending cases that are classified as other cases older than 2 years will become severe criminal cases once the procedural obstacles in those cases are removed for the commencement of the trial.

As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019. Although the second instance courts resolved smaller number of severe criminal cases in 2020 compared to the previous year, they were able to exceed the 100% clearance rate during the reporting year. Accordingly, the number of pending first and second instance severe criminal cases declined significantly in the reporting period.

The second instance courts deal only with the appeal cases within their jurisdiction for misdemeanour cases. Even though the number of pending cases continued to rise considerably in relative terms in 2020, the increase is not as significant in absolute numbers.

Note regarding 2019 data: During the analysis of data for 2020, a technical error was discovered in the Business Intelligence System. In 2019, the error caused that certain number of incoming and pending criminal cases could not be identified as severe criminal cases; instead, the Business Intelligence System included incorrectly those cases in the other cases category. The correct data for 2019 have been prepared in order to replace the previously included data for that year.

Q040 (2019): Second instance courts have dual subject matter in criminal matters. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable).

Q041 (General Comment): Description of calculation method: The average length of court procedure is calculated as the average of time needed to resolve a case for cases resolved during the reporting year. The average length of court procedure for resolving the case is calculated separately for different phases of the court procedure - from the day of initiating the phase of the court procedure to its completion. The data are retrieved from the case management system.

Average total length of the total procedure:

The average length of the total procedure is calculated as the average of time needed to resolve a case for all cases resolved in the different phases of court procedure during the year. (e. g. The first instance employment dismissal case is resolved in 100 days from its lodging with the first instance court, second instance employment dismissal case is resolved in 120 days from its lodging with the second instance court, and third instance employment dismissal case was resolved in 120 days. The average length of the total procedure employment dismissal cases is calculated as follows: $100+120+120/3=113,3$ days.)

Q041 (2022): Generally, the relevant indicators regarding civil and commercial litigious cases for the reference year are consistent with the statistical information for such cases in 2021. It is important to note that the backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several first instance courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The average duration of second-instance litigation and economic resolved cases decreased significantly due to the increase in the number of resolved cases in the largest courts of second instance in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

As in previous years, as far as other types of court cases are concerned under the Question 41 (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence), it is important to put these differences into the following context. Primarily, the variations are registered within a relatively small number of cases, so the variations could be influenced significantly by the length of proceedings and other circumstances of individual cases (e.g. robberies and intentional homicides) or the registered variations are high percentage-wise but they are not significant in absolute terms (e.g. litigious divorce cases, employment dismissal cases, insolvency cases). When it comes to the Bribery cases and Trading in influence cases, it is important to note that the prosecutors' offices and the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina process very often the corruption cases as the cases of the Abuse of Office (i.e. An official or responsible person who, by taking advantage of his office or official authority and by exceeding the limits of his official authority or by failing to perform his official duty, acquires a benefit to himself or to another person or causes damage to another person or seriously violates the rights of another, shall be punished by imprisonment). The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

Finally, it appears that the increase in the length of proceedings in the first instance court cases resolved in 2021 originated from the smaller number of disposed cases in 2020, following the Covid-19 restrictions regarding the functioning of the courts.

Q041 (2020): Civil and commercial litigious cases:

Overall, in relation to the civil and commercial litigious cases, the relevant trends and indicators for 2020 are corresponding to the results the courts achieved in 2019.

When it comes to statistics on civil and commercial litigious pending cases older than 3 years, it is important to note that the majority of those cases are litigious small claims cases, pending before the first instance courts, related to the unpaid utility bills. This backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Other cases (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence):

There is no particular explanation of the variations for other cases between 2019 and 2020. It is important to put these differences into the following contexts; the variations are registered within a relatively small number of cases, so the variations could be influenced significantly by the facts and circumstances of individual cases (e.g. robberies and intentional homicides) or the registered variations are high percentage-wise but they are not significant in absolute terms (e.g. litigious divorce cases, employment dismissal cases, insolvency cases). Furthermore, in 2020, Covid- 19 restrictions regarding the functioning of the courts affected differently their work on individual cases and case types. When it comes to the Bribery cases and Trading in influence cases, it is important to note that the prosecutors' offices and the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina process very often the corruption cases as the cases of the Abuse of Office (i.e. An official or responsible person who, by taking advantage of his office or official authority and by exceeding the limits of his official authority or by failing to perform his official duty, acquires a benefit to himself or to another person or causes damage to another person or seriously violates the rights of another, shall be punished by imprisonment). The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

Q041 (2019): Civil and commercial litigious cases:

The average length in 2nd instance resolved civil and commercial litigious cases increased in 2019, compared to 2018, because the second instance courts resolved significant number of old cases, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans. Also, the number of resolved old civil and commercial cases increased in some of the biggest second instance courts through temporary assignment of judges from other second instance courts with a smaller caseload. The average length in 3rd instance resolved civil and commercial cases was reduced in 2019, compared to 2018, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

Q042 (General Comment): In December 2020, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the criteria for the performance evaluation of judges, prosecutors, court presidents, and chief prosecutors. According to the criteria, the court presidents evaluate yearly judges in line with the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of decisions issued by a judge is evaluated based on the following parameters: a) the percentage of reversed decisions compared to the total number of decisions upheld, modified and reversed by a higher instance court; b) the percentage of reversed and modified decisions compared to the total number of cases in which a final decision was rendered to which a legal remedy may be filed with the higher instance court.

According to the criteria, the chief prosecutors evaluate yearly prosecutors in line with the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual backlog reduction plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of a prosecutor's indictments is assessed on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of enforceable judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of enforceable decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period.

The heads of higher courts and prosecutors' offices evaluate yearly lower instance court presidents and chief prosecutors based on the statistical data and the indicators related to the management of the work of the court and the prosecutor's office.

Furthermore, there is a normative framework that consists of the various law provisions, regulations, and guidelines. The framework outlines systematic processes in the entire judicial system of Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as in the prosecutors' offices and courts, which have a purpose to help the judicial institutions achieve the best possible results in terms of production and quality. The processes include meetings of departments (uniform application of the law, analysis of relevant case law, caseload, length of proceedings, backlog reduction plan etc.), quota system, adoption of yearly work plan, reporting on the yearly work plan implementation, preparation of yearly training programme by the judicial training institutions etc.

Q042 (2019): The new criteria for the evaluation of the performance of all judges and prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina, which were adopted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in 2018, have introduced respective quality standards for reasoning of court and prosecutorial decisions and quality in conducting judicial procedures. The quality of decisions and conduct of court procedures is assessed by the court president. Different information sources will be used when evaluating the quality of court decisions and procedures, including the opinion of the court department head based on their ongoing monitoring of the performance of the judge and the opinion of the department of the immediately higher instance court. The quality of the prosecutor's decisions and conduct of procedures is assessed by the chief prosecutor. Information sources for the quality of the prosecutor's decisions and conduct of proceedings are the review of randomly selected cases and the additional sources of information such as the opinion of the department head based on their ongoing monitoring of the performance of the prosecutor and the opinion of the immediately higher instance prosecutor's office.

Q043 (General Comment): Court presidents and chief prosecutors have a responsibility to evaluate the performance of the judicial office holders. They also oversee the implementation of the normative framework outlining the systematic processes in the courts and the prosecutors' offices. Heads of departments support the chief prosecutors and the court presidents in overseeing the processes designed to improve continually the quality and efficiency of the prosecutors' offices and courts.

Q080 (General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the criteria for the performance evaluation of judges in December 2020.

The assessment of the statistical quality of the prosecutor's decisions is established on the basis of the quality of the indictments and the quality of the decisions not to investigate and orders to terminate an investigation.

The quality of a prosecutor's indictments is evaluated on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of final judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of final court decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period. The quality of a prosecutor's orders not to investigate and orders to terminate an investigation is evaluated on the basis of the total number of such orders issued during the period covered by the evaluation and the total number of decisions rendered by a chief prosecutor, during that time, approving complaints lodged against those orders.

Q082-2 (2022): The new version of the Case Management System (version 3.0) will be tested in several courts and prosecutors' offices during 2023. It is based on new WEB technologies. The full-scale implementation of the new version of the Case Management System will take place in 2024.

Q082-2 (2020): DCMS, CMS Module that will be used in the Office of the Disciplinary Counsel at HJPC Bosnia and Herzegovina, will be implemented during 2021.

Q085 (2021): Central database of court decisions is developed and maintained by HJPC's Judicial Documentation and Training Department – former Judicial Documentation Centre. In 2021, the HJPC decided to open this database for public free of charge and without registration. The Council of Ministers of BiH made decision to abolish the annual fee of 50 EUR, so the database is made available to the public free of charge as of 5 March 2021. The HJPC BiH has also issued a new anonymization instruction in order to make database more user friendly. According to this instruction, more information in court decisions are available, i.e. data on all state officials mentioned in the decisions, data on public enterprises and institutions, name and surname of the convicted persons in high- profile cases (war crime cases, organised crime and corruption cases, terrorism cases etc). This is an advancement comparing to the former rule where all data were anonymized (total anonymization). In this way, the HJPC has made an effort to make balance between public and private interest. Also, according to the new instruction, all final decisions in this type of cases are published through the central database, which is new practice compared to previous rule, according to which only decisions selected and provided by the courts of highest instance were published (Appellate Court of Brcko District, Court of BiH – Appellate Division, Supreme Court of BiH Federation and Supreme Court of Republika Srpska).

Also, in 2021, the HJPC secured funding for development of case-law database of the aforementioned courts of highest instance (e-Sentence), through which not only legal positions taken by these courts will be made available, but also the related court decisions, anonymised as well. This database will enable judges to get acquainted with the relevant legal positions and compare those with their cases when rendering new decisions. E-Sentence database was launched in November 2021, and will be publically available as of 1 February 2022, also free of charge. With all this, the HJPC is making an effort to ensure greater transparency and facilitate access to court decisions, as well as to enable judges and prosecutors in BiH to be more consistent in their decision-making and thus ensure a more harmonised case law.

Q085 (2020): Central database of court decisions is available at the web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd. It contains decisions selected by highest courts of Bosnia and Herzegovina in all three areas (civil, criminal and administrative). Database is searchable by case number, date of the decision, court that issued the decision, legal field, legal term, legal category, but also through free text search. Selected decisions are aligned with lower court decisions brought in the same case, anonymized and available for the members of the judiciary - judges, prosecutors and all judicial staff free of charge. Other users must pay annual fee to access the database - i. e. 50 Euro). In September 2020 HJPC adopted a decision making the database free of charge for all users; the above mentioned decision is pending confirmation by the Council of Ministers of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Some decisions in database are aligned with decisions of the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The alignment of decision in database with ECHR case law is not in place, but detailed reports on ECHR case law are available through the aforementioned web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd and this aspect of the database is subject of constant improvement through IPA 2017 (information from European highest courts and ECtHR Network). Through the same project, HJPC initiated development of the database with court stances in cooperation with highest courts (E-sentence). This database will enable highest courts to record their case law in line with pre-defined descriptors (legal terms). Besides, this database should enable identification of diverse case law between highest court, and move forward the process of harmonisation of the case law at the state level (Case law harmonisation panels). Note for Data anonymised: there was a technical mistake in the previous reporting cycle, in order to correct this the reply "No" should be changed to "Yes" for 2019.

Q085 (2019): Court decisions database is available online through the HJPC Judicial Documentation Centre's web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd. It contains court decisions selected by highest courts in all three areas (civil, criminal and administrative) and is searchable by different parameters: case number, court that issued the decision, legal field, legal term, applied institute, but also through free text search. At the moment, the selected decisions are: aligned with lower court decisions brought in the same case, anonymized and available on-line (for the members of the judiciary - judges, prosecutors and all judicial staff free of charge, and the rest of the public must pay annual fee to access the database - i. e. 50 Euro). Some decisions from database are also aligned with decisions of the Constitutional Court of BiH. The alignment of this database with ECHR case law is not in place. Various detailed reports on ECHR case law is available through JDC web site , and is subject of improvement through IPA 2017 (information from European highest courts with ECtHR Network).

Q035 (2022): comments as in sections.

The significant increase of administrative cases is predominantly generated due to the high number of initiated cases before the Administrative Court against the decisions of the public authorities. This is also related to the application of the Law on Free Access to Information and there have been high number of requests towards the authorities (institutions) for free access to information which ended by decisions against which the complaints are not allowed or there have been requests which remained unanswered, the institution did not decide on request or complaint in the administrative procedure. According to the Law on Administrative dispute, such or similar situations provide legal basis that administrative dispute may be initiated, which means a law suit to the Administrative court may be filed. In practice, many law suits were initiated by different subjects such as civil society organizations dealing with promotion of the right to free access to information, citizens or legal persons.

Q035 (2021): Compared to last year, the number of cases received is higher, and the number of resolved cases is lower. (Secretariat of the JC)

A large number of cases have not been resolved because there was a delay in the work of the courts at a certain period of the year due to the "lawyers strike", as well as due to the a certain number of judges to retirement. As in the previous period, the work of the Montenegrin judiciary was limited during the reporting year due to the pandemic caused by Covid 19, but also due to a months-long strike of lawyers. In particular, the courts had a lot of delays due to the decision of the Bar Association to suspend the provision of legal aid, which delayed a large number of scheduled hearings. In the reporting year, the termination of judicial office for 54 judges was stated, as follows: -25 on personal request, -1 due to the death of a judge, -6 due to the acquisition of conditions for old-age pension, and -22 by force of the Constitution.

Q038 (2022): Higher inflow (number of received cases by misdemeanour courts due to the fact in practice that the subject with jurisdiction of issuing misdemeanour orders (fines) were using the legal possibility to initiate misdemeanour proceedings before the courts instead. That led to higher inflow of cases which reflected to the number of unresolved cases. This was mainly the issue related to the slowdown of public procurance system (major cyber attacks etc.) in the refence year and a lack of relevant forms for issuing misdemeanour orders (fines).

Q038 (2020): 1. Severe criminal cases":

Basic and High courts

- Criminal cases (K)

Q041 (2021): The duration of proceedings related to Intentional homicide cases has been increased due to resolved 2018 cases.

The number of appeals filed in Litigious divorce cases Robbery cases has also decreased, and the number of appeals related to Employment dismissal cases has increased.

Q041 (2020): Clarification of discrepancies:

Employment dismissal cases in column % of decisions subject to appeal

In reference year there was a lower number of cases that went on appeal; Robbery cases in column % of decisions subject to appeal In the reference year, more cases went on appeal

In the column % of cases pending for more than 3 years for all instances in the row concerning Civil and commercial litigious cases, in the last reporting period the relationship with Unresolved cases was used, and this year realistic data concerning the relationship between Unresolved cases over 3 years of age were set in relation.

There are some variations between data of length of proceedings in 2019 and in 2020 which have not been explained (notably decrease of length of proceedings for litigious divorce cases and employment dismissal cases in first instance ; increase of length of proceedings for insolvency cases in first instance ; increase of length of proceedings in first instance and decrease in second instance for civil and commercial cases).

Q041 (2019): Note regarding the category "Litigious divorce case", criteria "% of cases pending for more than 3 years for all instances": precise percentage is 0,1% but it has been rounded to 0%.

Where necessary the data has been rounded (no decimals).

Q042 (General Comment): Rules for the evaluation of judges and presidents of courts, article 11 "A judge who had 30% or more of revoked decisions in relation to the total number of cases in which it was decided in the same period - unsatisfactory; A judge who had less than 30% of revoked decisions in relation to the total number of cases in which it was decided in the same period - satisfactory. When calculating the percentage of revoked decisions, the case in which the decision was partially revoked counts as one half (0.5% of a case). If only a decision on costs was revoked, such case shall not be included in the revoked decisions."

Q052 (General Comment): Average measure of prosecutor activity (As prescribed by the Rules for the evaluation of state prosecutors and heads of state prosecutor's offices):

Article 7 The Prosecutorial Council determines the average measures of the quantity of work in a certain type of case for the following categories: - for basic state prosecutor's offices up to 5 state prosecutors, - for basic state prosecutor's offices from 5 to 10 state prosecutors, - for basic state prosecutor's offices over ten state prosecutors, - for higher state prosecutor's offices. The average measure of the quantity of work is determined at the level of one category of state prosecutor's offices by adding and dividing the number of completed cases by types Kt, Ktm, KT I, Ktr with the number of state prosecutors who performed prosecutorial function in all state cases. prosecutors' offices of one category of state prosecutor's offices in the last three years. (eg ODT Kolašin, Cetinje, Plav, Rožaje, Ulcinj are in the neighboring category of state prosecutor's offices up to 5 state prosecutors, in the last three years a total of 20 state prosecutors worked, and completed a total of 400 Kt cases, 20 Ktm, 20 Kt I and 200 Ktr, the average scale for KT is $400/20 = 20$, for Ktm $20/20 = 1$, for Kt I $20/20 = 1$, for Ktr $200/20 = 10$) A case is considered completed if it resulted with a decision on rejection of a criminal report, a case in which a reconnaissance or investigation was conducted after which it was submitted to the competent prosecutor's office, suspension of investigation, confirmed indictment or indictment filed, decision on sentencing plea agreement, rejected criminal charges in case of postponement of criminal prosecution, as well as Ktr case that has been archived. The number of cases is determined by the number of persons. The Prosecutorial Council also determines the average measure of the quantity of work in a certain type of case for the Special State Prosecutor's Office by adding and dividing the number of completed cases by types of Kt-s, Ktm-s, KT I-s, Ktr-s and the number of special prosecutors in that period. performed the prosecutorial function in the above types of cases in the last three years. Article 8 The quantity of work is assessed on the basis of the report on the work of the state prosecutor and the average measures of the quantity of work in a certain type of case. According to this sub-criterion, the state prosecutor is assessed: - if he has completed up to 20% below the average criteria satisfies; - if he has completed over 20% of the subjects below the average criteria, he does not satisfy. If the state prosecutor worked in different types of cases, the quantity of work is assessed for all types of cases as indicators for assessing the quantity of work, and if the state prosecutor had fewer cases in the work of a certain type than the average measure for that type of case, then satisfies the grade if he has completed 80% of the total number of cases in the work of that type of subject, and if it is less than 80%, he does not satisfy the grade according to that indicator. If the state prosecutor did not have a certain type of case in his work, he will not be evaluated in that type of case. Article 9 The quality of work is assessed on the basis of confirmed indictments, convictions and appeals. A state prosecutor who has 80% or more confirmed indictments in relation to the total number of indictments in which a decision was made in the same period satisfies, and a state prosecutor who has less than 20% confirmed indictments in relation to the total number of indictments does not satisfy.

The state prosecutor who has 70% or more convictions in relation to the total number of convictions passed in the same period satisfies, and the state prosecutor who had less than 30% of convictions in relation to the total number of convictions in the same period, does not satisfy. The state prosecutor who has 30% or more of accepted appeals in relation to the total number of appeals filed against acquittals and convictions which were revoked on those appeals of the state prosecutor in the same period satisfies, and the state prosecutor who has less than 30% of accepted appeals in relation to the total number of appeals against acquittals and convictions that were revoked on those appeals of the state prosecutor in the same period is not satisfactory.

Judicial Council remark: This plan's main activity is building the new information system called - ISP (abbreviation for information system of Judiciary - in Montenegrin, "Informacioni Sistem Pravosuđa"). Due to the delays and problems with the company selected on the tender to build the system, we have decided to cancel the contract with them and search for other options. We were forced on this because they failed to deliver parts of the system and documentation on time, even after many prolongations and compromises from our side.

Q082-0 (2021): We are in the middle of realisation/programming phase for the new information system called - ISP (abbreviation for information system of Judiciary - in Montenegrin Informacioni Sistem Pravošua). After it is over we are going to testing phase, piloting phase and GO-live phase. We have plan to finish all activities on the project until the end of 2023 (migration of data and training of users are last phases that would go in parallel). We have some delays on the project, due to problems we have with the company we got on the tender, because they fail to deliver parts of the system and documentation on time.

North Macedonia

Q035 (2022): Category 1. In 2022 there were still Covid-19 effects on the proceedings before the courts. In the second part of the year, at 1-st of July 2022 started high number of retirements of the judges (see also new general comment to Q 104). Judicial Council on 1 July 2022 adopted a Conclusion for termination of the judicial office of 42 judges due to new condition for age retirement, the age of 64 years as a new compulsory age for retirement in North Macedonia, according to the new amendments in article 104 of the Labor Relation law. Category 2.2.3. Other Registry cases are cases for registration of political parties.

Q035 (2021): 2.2.3. Other registry cases are cases for registration of political parties.

3. Probably, the number of the resolved administrative cases is decreasing in 2021 due to the implementation of the new Law on Administrative Disputes (implementation started at 25.05.2020). Articles 37 and 39 from the new Law provide compulsory public hearings for most of the administrative cases and before this, the court didn't have any obligation for hearings. Consequently, new circumstances explained above led to the increase of the pending cases and disposition time. Also, in 2021 two judges were retired.

Q035 (2020): In "2.2.3. Other registry cases" there are included cases for registrations of political parties.

Q035 (2019): In "2.2.3. Other registry cases" there are included cases for registrations of political parties.

Q038 (2022): Category 2. Please, see also the comment for Q 35. High number of judge retirements in 2022 caused by new compulsory age of retirement probably is the reason for higher number of unsolved cases. Also, in 2023 we are expecting more retirements of judges due to this reason.

Q038 (2021): In 2020 when the President of the Republic of North Macedonia had adopted a decision for the existence of State of Emergency because of COVID 19 pandemic, the Government of North Macedonia adopted a decree-law that allowed the deadlines for cases before the courts to be stopped. Actually, all the deadlines were stopped for 3 months in 2020 and that is the reason why there is a larger number of increased cases before the courts in 2021.

Q038 (2020): In the numbers on this question are not included cases connected with enforcement of criminal (and misdemeanor) cases.

Q038 (2019): In the numbers on this question are not included cases connected with enforcement of criminal (and misdemeanor) cases.

Q039 (2022): Category 1 - In 2022 there was no reason for larger number of income cases as it was in 2021 (see explanation in previous cycle).

Q039 (2021): In 2020 when the President of the Republic of North Macedonia had adopted a decision for the existence of State of Emergency because of COVID 19 pandemic, the Government of North Macedonia adopted a decree-law that allowed the deadlines for cases before the courts to be stopped. Actually, all the deadlines were stopped for 3 months in 2020 and that is the reason why there is a larger number of increased cases before the courts in 2021.

Q040 (2022): Category 1. In 2022, we still had some negative effects from Covid -19 virus on the proceedings before courts.

Q040 (2021): In 2020 when the President of the Republic of North Macedonia had adopted a decision for the existence of State of Emergency because of COVID 19 pandemic, the Government of North Macedonia adopted a decree-law that allowed the deadlines for cases before the courts to be stopped. Actually, all the deadlines were stopped for 3 months in 2020 and that is the reason why there is a larger number of increased cases before the courts in 2021.

Q041 (2022): It must be emphasized that the data are collected manually from the ICT system in all courts within North Macedonia. After that, the data are calculated manually in the courts and in the Ministry of justice (Excel calculation). Some of data are only from one court (for example: 130 days at first instance - trading in influence cases). 2/27 from courts didn't answer correctly to the tables, so 2 courts are excluded from calculations. According to this, the collection of data for these questions is without guarantees for total accuracy.

Q041 (2021): There are some variations in the average length of cases in 1st instance (in days) which cannot be explained due to this data being collected manually with all courts within North Macedonia.

Q041 (2020): There was not trading in influence cases in 2020 in the Macedonian courts.

There are some variations in the average length of cases in 1st instance (in days) which cannot be explained due to this data being collected manually with all courts within North Macedonia.

Q041 (2019): There are some variations in the average length of cases in 1st instance (in days) which cannot be explained due to this data being collected manually with all courts within North Macedonia.

Q042 (General Comment): The quality standards are part of the Law on the Judicial Council, the Law on Courts and the new by-law - Methodology for evaluation of the judgment's work on the basis of compliance of qualitative criteria for judicial work (adopted by the Judicial Council at the end of 2020). Supreme Court annually reviews reports of all courts regarding their work including qualitative criteria. Also, the Matrix of monitoring indicators for the justice sector performance provides quality indicators. Supreme Court annually reviews reports of all courts regarding their work including qualitative criteria. Judicial Council defines qualitative and quantitative criteria for work of the courts. Qualitative criteria regarding the judicial work Article 80 (Law on Judicial Council) - The qualitative criteria for assessing the work of the judge are: - the quality of running the court procedure in which it is assessed: the ability to argumentation, readiness to conduct the hearing, compilation of minutes and hearing of parties, readiness to make procedural decisions, as well as the ability to resolve conflicts. - quality of prompt handling of court cases in relation to: respecting the legal deadlines for undertaking procedural actions in the procedure, respecting the legal deadlines for adopting, publishing and drafting the decisions, the duration of the court procedure; and - quality of the judge's work in the part of the number of reversed decisions due to a serious violation of the procedure in relation to the total number of resolved cases.

Q042 (2021): The quality standards are part of the Law on the Judicial Council, the Law on Courts and the new by-law - Methodology for evaluation of the judgment's work on the basis of compliance of qualitative criteria for judicial work (adopted by the Judicial Council at the end of 2020). Supreme Court annually reviews reports of all courts regarding their work including qualitative criteria. Also, the Matrix of monitoring indicators for the justice sector performance provides quality indicators.

Q042 (2019): Supreme Court annually reviews reports of all courts regarding their work including qualitative criteria. Court Council defines qualitative and quantitative criteria for work of the courts.

Within the project "Development of monitoring indicators for the justice sector performance" supported by the British Embassy in Skopje, the Center for Legal Research and Analysis published the Matrix of monitoring indicators for the justice sector performance . This Matrix beside others contains indicators for quality of justice.

Q043 (2021): The Judicial council has a role according to the laws and new adopted bylaws that allow easier implementation of these standards.

The Rule-book for determining the fulfillment of the qualitative criteria for evaluation of judges prepared in accordance with Article 81 of the Law on Judicial Court was adopted on 21.12.2020 by the Judicial Council of North Macedonia. On 20.05.2021 the Supreme Court of North Macedonia at the general session of judges adopted a positive opinion regarding the proposed Methodology with indicators of the complexity of cases prepared in accordance with Article 85 paragraph 1 of the Law on the Judicial Council.

Additionally, with project "Supporting the Judicial Council in establishing Quality System for Evaluation of Judges", financially supported by the Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, implemented by "The Center for Legal Research and Analysis(CLRA)" and Judicial Council were developed forms for determining the fulfillment of the qualitative criteria for the work of judges and guidelines for calculating the coefficients of complexity of court cases that are intended to support the Judicial Council in the proper implementation of bylaws.

- The new Law on the prosecution offices and amendments of the Law on the Public Prosecution Council from 2020 as well as new by-laws adopted in 2021 by the Public prosecutor of the Republic of North Macedonia and Public Prosecution Council allow better implementation of the standards.

Q043 (2019): Within the Judicial Council, there is staff responsible for defining qualitative and quantitative criteria, as well as following their implementation.

Q058 (General Comment): The Law on Management of Court Cases, foresees use of automated computer system to manage court cases; respect for legal deadlines for procedural action, as well as for the adoption, producing and publishing the court decisions; it foresees establishing of Taskforce to manage the case flow through the court, which proposes measures to prevent and reduce the backlog of cases, regulates the modalities of publication of court decisions on the web-site of the court. President of the Court establishes the Task Force on managing the case-flow, chaired by the court administrator or an individual appointed by the president of the court, in courts where there is no court administrator. Q052 (2019): Please note that these type of indicators for the public prosecution office are already developed from the beginning of 2020. The first national report for evaluation of the performance of the public prosecution offices was published in February 2020 in the framework of the project financed by the British embassy. However, to reflect the situation for the reference year 2019 the answer should be "No".

Q057 (2019): Despite of the absence of the performance evaluation system based primarily on the defined indicators for the public prosecution services in 2019 (see the answer to the Q052), the performance of the public prosecution services was nevertheless evaluated on a regular basis.

Q060 (General Comment): Judicial Council on regular bases monitor backlog of cases.

Q060 (2019): Judicial Council on regular bases monitor backlog of cases.

Q061 (General Comment): According to the Law on courts and Court Rules of procedure the court president monitors the waiting time through the deadlines prescribed in the procedural laws (Law on civil procedure, Law on criminal procedure and Law on administrative procedure). For example in Law on civil procedure are prescribed deadlines for the labour disputes. Here is also the basic principle of a trial within a reasonable time. About the Public Prosecutor's, please see article 28 from the Law on Public Prosecutor's office: "Article 28 (1) The supervision of the lawful and timely execution of the public prosecutorial function of the lower public prosecutor's offices shall be performed by the higher public prosecutor's office. (2) The supervision of the lawful and timely execution of the public prosecutorial function of the Basic Public Prosecutor's Office for Prosecution of Organized Crime and Corruption shall be performed by the Public Prosecutor's Office of the Republic of North Macedonia. (3) The supervision of the administrative work of the public prosecutor's office shall be performed by the Chief Public Prosecutor of the Republic of North Macedonia. (4) The manner of supervision shall be determined by the rulebooks adopted by the Council of Public Prosecutors of the Republic of North Macedonia. (5) The regulations on the internal operation of the public prosecutor's offices shall be adopted by the Chief Public Prosecutor of the Republic of North Macedonia.

Q061 (2019): Court president is obliged to monitor waiting time during court procedures.

Q074 (General Comment): The quantitative criteria for the performance of the judge are: - the scope of his work, which is valued by the number and type of resolved cases in relation to the orientation number of cases to be solved by the judge monthly obtained from the Automatic Judicial and Information System for Case Management. - the quantity of the judge's work in the section of altered decisions made in relation to the total number of resolved decisions. If the number of resolved cases by certain types of cases in relation to the envision orientation number is 100%, it is considered that the judge has met the quantitative criteria and is valued at 40 points. The higher or lower number of resolved cases in relation to the envision orientation number of cases is evaluated in such a way that for each 1% more or less started, the number of points referred to in paragraph 3 of this Article increases or decreases by 0.5 points, but the total number of points cannot be more than 60 points, nor less than 20 points. The quantity of work of the judge in the part of the reversed and altered decisions is assessed through an insight into the automated computerized court management system by taking into consideration only the number of decisions against which legal remedies are allowed and they are altered due to misapplication of substantive law. The work of the judge according to the number of altered decisions made in relation to the total number of resolved cases in the period in which he or she is evaluated shall be scored according to the following table: Percentage of altered decisions in relation to the total number of resolved cases: Up to 5% - 20 points, from 5% to 10% - 15 points, from 10% to 15% - 10 points, from 15% to 20% - 7 points, from 20% to 30% - 4 points, more than 30% - 0 points.

Q082-0 (2022): The strategy for ICT in the judiciary was adopted in 2019 for the time period of 2019-2024.

Digitization, digital transformation and the increasing development of information technology inevitably led to it being integrated in all the pores of the justice system, and especially in the last 2 years, through digital transformation in all courts and public prosecutor's offices by developing new web pages for the courts, with hardware and software for audio recording, system for audio visual recording, electronic issuance of documents, creation of web services, software development and case management, as well as platforms for two-way communication between the courts and the parties and access to the electronic file of the case.

Given that the strategy has a time period until 2024, it is still being implemented, and this year, the Council for ICT in the Judiciary will start a procedure for adopting a new strategy for the next 5 years, as well as new revised operational plan.

At this moment there is no new strategy and no new operational plan.

Q082 (2021): The CMS has an integrated data generator that provides data on received, resolved or unresolved cases brought to courts, but does not provide detailed data on whether they are criminal, civil cases or others. This data is calculated manually.

Q082-2 (2022): During 2023, according to the operational plan for digitization in the judiciary, a complete change of the CMS system is planned with the introduction of a new modern and integrated system of management and movement of cases, which will be compatible with the new software, and new applications will be created at the same time namely, an application for issuing certificates from criminal records, for issuing certificates from misdemeanor records, creation of the E-delivery platform, which will establish full two-way communication between the courts and all parties, i.e. state authorities and institutions, development of the platform for a mobile application, which will enable unhindered access of the parties to the electronic file of the case, as well as the creation of web services with 12 state organs and institutions.

According to the operational plan and the provided budget funds, the Court Budget Council has created a plan and program with dynamics and necessary financial resources for the digitization of the courts in 2023, namely:

1. Upgrade and installation of the Femida True Records system for audio recording in civil courts and audio-video recording in criminal courts.

- upgrade means the installation of Femida True Records or SRS Femida software, based on an existing Femida license installed on a computer in the courts (through previous purchases), regardless of whether it is currently in operation or not;

- a new license implies the installation of Femida True Records or SRS Femida software on an additional number of computers, which are not included in the number of existing licenses in the courts.

2. Procurement and replacement of hardware equipment for the courts – 410 computers.

3. Current maintenance of the hardware and software for the operation of the ACMISS system and the equipment for issuing certificates from criminal records.

4. Upgrade and ongoing maintenance of centralized hardware and system software for centralized backup/restore of the court database.

5. Restoration of Kaspersky Anti-virus and Trend Micro inter Scan messaging for personal computer protection in the court system and Gateway virus protection in the Supreme Court of RNM.

6. Ongoing maintenance of software for recording events by collating logs from ICT devices located in the Supreme Court of the RNM.

Creation of a mobile application for access to the electronic file of the case - a service for reviewing the files in the case by the parties in the procedure. Service for a complete review of a court case by the parties in the case (prosecutors, lawyers and all involved parties, natural and legal persons). Web Portal and mobile application through which each of the parties after prior authentication (service for identification of persons at the MIOA state level) can view all data and acts in the case that are available to the parties. DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE SERVICE AND BASIC FEATURES

Possibility for reviewing of all data and documents from the court case for the participants in the case from the court web portal and mobile application.

Availability of the service:

- Computer, laptop - view via browser
- Mobile devices (phone) – separate mobile application.

The service will provide the following subject data:

1. General data on the subject

- Received on date
- Filed on date
- Type of submission
- Submission tag
- Date of offense (for criminal cases only)
- Place of crime (for criminal cases only)

Q082-2 (2020): The process on upgrading of the existing system or introducing on a new case management system in the judiciary is on the beginning. First step will be preparation on assessment on the functionality of the existing system, after what it will be decided about upgrade of the existing system or introducing on a completely new CMS.

Q083 (General Comment): The CMS has an integrated data generator that provides data on received, resolved or unresolved cases brought to courts, but does not provide detailed data on whether they are criminal, civil cases or others. This data is calculated manually.

Serbia

Q035 (General Comment): Administrative cases are all cases before the Administrative Court (“U”-administrative disputes; “Ur” - various administrative cases; “Ui” - execution of Administrative Court judgement; “Uo”- postponement of enforcement before lodging a lawsuit; “Uv” - objection to the decision of a single judge; “Up” - repetition of administrative-judicial procedure; “Uvp I”, “Uvp II” – request for extraordinary review of court decision) “Uip” - judicial protection in the election procedure for members of national councils of national minorities; “Už” – appeals, “U-uz” - whistleblowers (new, in comparison to the 2016-2018 cycle).

Q035 (2022): 1.The lower number of incoming cases in 2022 is primarily explained by the decrease inflows in civil and commercial cases in basic and commercial courts. During 2019, 2020 and 2021 there was a large number of specific type of cases related to the costs of bank loans. After supplementing the legal position of the Supreme Court of Cassation from September 16, 2021, number of these cases gradually decreases. However, due to the mentioned repetitive cases (litigation for reimbursement of costs bank loans), courts were unable to handle such a large influx from the previous year (regardless of the fact that the inflow in 2022 was lower), so the number of pending cases also increased.

2.1.The Supreme Court of Cassation paid special attention to the problem of pending backlog enforcement cases, since in the previous period they affected the efficiency of the courts. Exceptional results were achieved through the cooperation of the Supreme Court of Cassation, the High Court Council and the Ministry of Justice, with the additional help of the IPA 2012 Projects “Improving Judicial Efficiency in the Republic of Serbia”, “EU for Serbia – Support to the Supreme Court of Cassation” and “EU for Serbia – Support to the High Court Council”, in the period from 2016 to the end of 2022 in the reduction of pending backlog court cases, and especially pending backlog IV cases in basic courts.

2.3. In this group of cases, the number of cases related to the trial in within a reasonable time (the number of complaints filed under the Law on the Protection of Rights to trial within a reasonable time) was decreased. .

3. Administrative cases: There is no special explanation, the Administrative Court has more incoming cases and the same number of resolved cases as in previous few years.

Q035 (2021): Please note that all provided data do not cover Serbian Autonomy province of Kosovo and Metohija. All answers are from the reports of the competent institutions. This is a result of the reduction in the number of backlog enforcement cases before the courts, bearing in mind the legislative changes and the transfer of these cases to the jurisdiction of public enforcement agents. It can also be linked to measures implemented on the basis of the Unified Backlog Reduction Programme. More detailed explanation is available further in relation to enforcement cases.

Yes, there is a general trend of increasing the inflow of civil cases. During 2020, a slightly smaller number of these cases were received due to circumstances caused by the corona virus. The trend of increasing the inflow of the number of civil cases was influenced inter alia by repetitive cases in certain areas. For example, during 2021, the basic courts received 187,491 cases related to contracting costs of bank loans.

With regard to this question we submit the excerpt from the Annual Report on the Work of Courts for 2021

A large number of cases pending before courts in the Republic of Serbia, a large number of pending backlog cases, and in particular pending backlog enforcement cases - required systematic, comprehensive and long-term measures at the national level to increase efficiency, reduce amount of pending old cases and cut the length of court proceedings.

In order to reduce the huge number of pending enforcement cases, particularly pending backlog enforcement cases, which have burdened the judicial system for a longer period, the Republic of Serbia adopted the Law on Enforcement and Security (hereinafter: LoES), in 2015 (published in Official Gazette of RS", No. 106/2015).

Some provisions of the LoES contained systemic measures that led to a shift in jurisdiction and to its partial transfer to the enforcement agents.

In the period of 2016 to 2019, the Supreme Court of Cassation, aiming to expedite implementation of the Law on Enforcement and Security, adopted several key strategic documents:

1. Amended Unified Backlog Reduction Program 2016-2020, which in its special part provided measures for resolving backlog enforcement cases;
2. Special Backlog Enforcement Reduction Program;

The Supreme Court of Cassation, jointly with the High Judicial Council and the Ministry of Justice, adopted the Guidelines for the Implementation of the Law on Enforcement and Security.

Amendments to the Law on Enforcement and Security ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 54/2019), which came into force 1st of January 2020, have drawn the lines between competencies of courts and enforcement agents in the enforcement and security proceedings, as well as boundaries between the courts themselves, disabling overlap or conduct of double enforcement proceedings. In enforcement cases involving shift in jurisdiction, amendments to the law provided in details duties of the creditors, enforcement agents, the courts, as well as the presidents of courts. The lack of exercising jurisdiction by the enforcement agents has been provided with sanctions, as well as with appropriate measures being prescribed for particular types of enforcement cases.

Following the adoption of the Amendments to the LoES, the Supreme Court of Cassation, jointly with the High Judicial Council and the Ministry of Justice, adopted new strategic document - Guidelines for the Implementation of Amendments to the Law on Enforcement and Security.

In 2021, 255,792 new enforcement cases were received, 514,833 were resolved and 66,610 cases remained unresolved.

2018.	38,643	37,760	63,964	712,439
2019.	12,440	96,233	75,702	32,971

Regarding the question at issue, it is correct that the number of incoming cases is higher in comparison to 2020. One reason for that could be found in decrease on number of cases because of circumstances caused by virus corona. On the other hand it should be born in mind that the courts kept their jurisdiction regarding certain categories of enforcement cases.

Competence for enforcement is regulated by Article 4 of the Law on Enforcement and Security.

The court is exclusively competent for the enforcement of acts that can be undertaken only by the enforcement debtor or through inaction (Articles 363, 364 and 366), return of the employee to work and enforcement of final decisions related to family relations, except for subsistence costs as provided by law.

Also, the court is exclusively competent for enforcement even when it is prescribed by a special law.

Public enforcement agents are exclusively competent for the execution of other enforcement documents, decisions on execution on the basis of an authentic document, decisions on the adoption of proposals for counter-enforcement and decisions on the execution of decisions on imposed court penalties.

Public enforcement agents are exclusively competent for the enforcement of decisions which are prescribed by law to be enforced ex officio. The provisions of the law governing the collection of court fees shall accordingly apply to the enforcement procedure.

Q035 (2020): The category “non-litigious cases” includes enforcement cases. Since 2016 legislative and other measures have been taken in order to decrease the number of backlog enforcement cases (which is recognized as a systemic problem). In 2020 the number of backlog enforcement cases has been decreased significantly and it is reflected in total number of “non-litigious cases.” In accordance with the Law on Enforcement and Security all enforcement cases based on an authentic document (lv) cases should be transferred to public enforcement officers. In 2020 about 240.000 such cases were resolved by the conclusion of the court to transfer the case to public enforcement officer.

As regards “civil and commercial litigious cases”, the number of pending cases at the end of the period increased by 46%. There has been general trend of increase of incoming civil litigious cases for last five years. Due to special circumstances and need to take safety measures because of Covid 19, in 2020 courts worked with reduced capacities, while there was increase of number of incoming cases. The decrease in the number of resolved cases refers primarily to basic and higher courts. As regards “non – litigious cases”, in particular “general civil and commercial non-litigious cases”, from 2019 to 2020 the number of incoming cases decreased significantly (-38%), while the number of resolved cases remained almost the same. As a consequence, the number of pending cases at the end of the year decreased as well (-45%). This is also in relation to enforcement cases based on an authentic document (lv) cases. Public enforcement officers deal with new such cases, so the number of incoming cases decreased. On the other hand, there is still lot of these cases before courts (backlog cases), and the courts still have to resolve these cases (in majority cases by the conclusion of the court to transfer the case to public enforcement officer), and that is the explanation why the number of resolved cases remained the same and why the number of incoming cases significantly decreased.

From 2019 to 2020 the number of “administrative law incoming cases” increased by 47%, and the number of cases older than 2 years increased by 63%. In Serbia there is one Administrative Court (with seat in Belgrade, and three departments in Kragujevac, Novi Sad and Niš). It has broad competences and for several years number of incoming cases has been continuously increasing. In certain type of cases the Administrative Court has to decide urgently, like in electoral cases. Also, the work of this court was influenced by the circumstances caused by the virus and the fact that during 2020 parliamentary and local elections were held in Serbia and there were many electoral disputes which needed to be decided in short deadlines.

As regards “other cases”, from 2019 to 2020, there was a decrease in the number of incoming (-39%), resolved (- 39%), and pending cases (-46%). These cases relate to different kinds of citizens’ requests for verification of signatures, or requests for different certificates and probably circumstances caused by Covid, contributed to decrease of such requests of citizens.

Q035 (2019): The answer to question 35. 1. includes litigious cases in higher courts (P, P1, P2, P3, P4, P-uz and R), basic courts (P, P1, P2, P1-uz, Prr and Prr1), commercial courts (P, P2). For commercial courts, bankruptcy cases (St) as well as reorganization in bankruptcy cases (Reo) which were previous to 2016-2018 cycle displayed in 2.3. are included in 2.1, since a judge decides in these cases. Newly added cases in this row, from 2016-2018 cycle are those pursuant to the Law on Protection of Whistle-blowers (applicable from 04.06.2015) and litigious proceedings pursuant to lawsuits for compensation of pecuniary and non-pecuniary damage due to infringement of the right to trial within a reasonable time from higher courts (P-uz, Ppr-uz, Prr1), basic courts (P1-uz, Prr, Prr1) and misdemeanour courts (Pr-uz).

A major change in the number of other non-litigious cases and, consequently, the total number of cases, is a result of the implementation of the Law on Enforcement and Security from 1 July 2016 and the systemic measures defined in the special program for reduction of enforcement case backlog. Serbia has enabled a comprehensive disposition of enforcement case backlog. The Supreme Court of Cassation, the Ministry of Justice and the High Court Council have jointly drafted and adopted the Instructions for the implementation of the Law on Enforcement and Security.

Q038 (General Comment): The omission was made in 2019 when the number finalized cases before Misdemeanor Courts were not recorded in the proper manner. Therefore, "The total number of criminal cases" presents a sum of all criminal cases (in the first instance) before basic and higher courts (38.1) as well as misdemeanour cases and commercial offenses in the first instance- from the jurisdiction of commercial courts as penal offenses (38.2). The category under 38.1 includes all criminal cases because the Criminal Code of the Republic of Serbia does not make the distinction between crimes – i.e. "severe/minor offences" (their qualifications may also be changed until enacting of the decision and determining the sentence).

3. Other criminal cases: Incoming and outgoing cases of international legal cooperation, letters rogatory in criminal matters; Educational (supervision) orders; educational measures and security measures (educational orders and execution of educational orders and security measures); Execution of imprisonment in the Department for Organized Crime and the Department for War Crimes; Records on juvenile perpetrators of criminal offenses who were sentenced to an educational measure, educational order, security measure, accommodation in a correctional facility, imprisonment (criminal records for juveniles are kept by the court); Requests for amnesty (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department); Register of decisions of pre-trial judges regarding the proposals of the prosecutor's office for ordering detention or other measures (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, cyber crime, anti-corruption department); Register of pre-trial judges for various actions during the prosecutorial investigation (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, high-tech crime, anti-corruption department); Requests for recognition of a foreign court decision, requests for extradition (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department); Requests for parole (Regular Criminal Department, Organized Crime Department, War Crimes Department, Juvenile Department, Anti-Corruption Department); Domestic letters rogatory in criminal cases; Requests for temporary confiscation of property (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, anti-corruption department); Requests for permanent confiscation of property (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department); Certificates - whether or not a natural or legal person is being prosecuted; Proposals of the prosecution and decisions of the pre-trial judge in relation to special measures for producing evidence; Register in which the proposals of the competent prosecutor's office for the extension of the emergency measure prescribed by the Law on Prevention of Domestic Violence are introduced; cases for which legal assistance is sought from another misdemeanour court are cases in which misdemeanour proceedings are conducted against juveniles; Execution according to the decisions of the misdemeanour court, according to the decisions of the administrative bodies, and the execution of the misdemeanour order.

Q038 (2022): All answers were provided by the competent institution (Supreme Court of Cassation)

Q038 (2021): The transition to a new case management system is the cause of uneven numbers. We will provide a more detailed explanation as soon as possible.

"Higher courts:

- International letters rogatory - incoming and outgoing in criminal matters, international letters rogatory in criminal matters for the provision of general types of international legal assistance
- Educational (supervision) orders, educational measures and security measures (educational orders and execution of educational orders and security measures)
- Execution of imprisonment in the Department for Organized Crime and the Department for War Crimes (Decisions of the President of the Court instructing, extending or revoking serving a prison sentence in the Special Department of the Pozarevac Penitentiary)
- Register of Criminal Extrajudicial Chambers (deciding on appeals in the first instance against pre-trial judge's decisions, confirmation of indictments, deciding on motions of parties and acting judges, decisions on appeals against prosecution decisions on costs, and other in the regular criminal department, Department for organized crime, the Department for War Crimes, the Department for Juveniles, the Department for the Suppression of Corruption)
- Records on juvenile perpetrators of criminal offenses who were sentenced to an educational measure, educational order, security measure, accommodation in a correctional facility, imprisonment (criminal records for juveniles are kept by the court)
- Requests for amnesty (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department)
- Register of decisions of pre-trial judges regarding the proposals of the prosecutor's office for ordering detention or other measures (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, cyber crime, anti-corruption department) -Register of pre-trial judges for various actions during the prosecutorial investigation (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, high-tech crime, anti-corruption department)
- The register regarding criminal cases, but not to specific court cases, forwarded to the competent court or prosecutor's office, or answers, for instance to the Ministry of Interior if they need some data from criminal registers regarding persons against whom proceedings were or are being conducted, etc. (regular criminal department, Department for Organized Crime, Department for War Crimes and Department for Juveniles, Department for Suppression of Corruption)
- Requests for recognition of a foreign court decision, requests for extradition (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department)

- Requests for parole (Regular Criminal Department, Organized Crime Department, War Crimes Department, Juvenile Department, Anti-Corruption Department)
 - Register of the judge for execution of criminal sanctions: complaint, appeal, request for judicial protection, report of the judge for execution of criminal sanctions, notification, request, etc. submitted by convict, detainee, institute for execution of criminal sanctions, attorney and others.
 - Requests for temporary confiscation of property (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, anti-corruption department)
 - Requests for permanent confiscation of property (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department)
 - Incoming international letters rogatory in criminal matters (through the competent authorities or directly, in the regular criminal department, the Department for Organized Crime, the Department for War Crimes, the Department for the Suppression of Corruption)
 - Domestic letters rogatory in criminal cases
 - Register of the Witness Assistance and Support Service: the requests of the judge with the list of witnesses etc. (Regular Criminal Department, Organized Crime Department, War Crimes Department)
 - External international letters rogatory in criminal cases sent directly to the competent court or other authority of a foreign state
 - Register in which the agreements concluded between the competent prosecutor's office and the accused are entered
 - Certificates - whether or not a natural or legal person is being prosecuted
 - Proposals of the prosecution and decisions of the pre-trial judge in relation to special measures for producing evidence
- Basic courts:
- Outgoing and incoming international letters rogatory, execution of criminal sentences
 - Register of Criminal Extrajudicial Chambers, register of pre-trial judges for various actions during the investigation, different cases during investigation, requests for permanent or temporary confiscation of property, requests for parole, Register of the Witness Assistance and Support Service, register in which the agreements concluded between the competent prosecutor's office and the accused namely the convicted person, Certificates - whether or not a natural or legal person is being prosecuted, decisions of the pre-trial judge in relation presence of the accused in order to provide due course of the criminal proceedings, register of the pre-trial judge on duty - Register in which the proposals of the competent prosecutor's office for the extension of the emergency measure prescribed by the Law on Prevention of Domestic Violence are introduced (Article 19 of the said Law)
- Misdemeanor courts:
- Cases for which legal assistance is sought from another misdemeanour court are cases in which misdemeanour proceedings are conducted against juveniles.
 - Execution according to the decisions of the misdemeanour court, according to the decisions of the administrative bodies, and the execution of the misdemeanour order.

Q038 (2019): The field 38.1 encompasses registries of high courts: (K, KIM, KM, K1, KI, Ki-Po1, Ki-Po2, KiPo3, K-Po1, K-Po2, Kpo3,Kpo4, SPK, SPK Po1, SPK Po2), Basic courts: (K, K1, Ki, Spk). The category under 38.1 includes all criminal cases because the Criminal Code of the Republic of Serbia does not make the distinction between crimes – i.e. “severe/minor offences” (their qualifications may also be changed until enacting of the decision and determining the sentence). Therefore, all first instance criminal cases of basic and higher courts are included (in higher courts - organized crime, war crimes, and high-tech crimes, according to urgency, etc.); investigations and investigative actions before basic and higher courts; preparatory proceedings and proceedings against minors; confession of criminal offenses and criminal cases without a main hearing.

Field 38. 2 encompasses the following cases: Commercial courts: Pk, Pki, Pkr, Misdemeanor courts: PR, PRM. In Commercial Courts, these cases relate to initiation of proceedings due to commercial offenses against natural and legal persons; preliminary procedure for commercial offenses; cases before misdemeanor courts: misdemeanors and misdemeanors perpetrated by minors.

Field 38. 3 encompasses the following cases: Enforcement and complaints as regards enforcement decisions misdemeanor cases; cases related to criminal and misdemeanor proceedings, handled by judges in courts but related to "cases as such" - ex. conditional release, pardons, cases of extradition of defendants and transfer of convicted persons, agreement on the testimony of a defendant and convicted person, legal aid cases between domestic courts in criminal matters, for assistance and support to victims and witnesses, enforcement of criminal sanctions up to one year, enforcement of criminal sanctions, enforcement of alternative sanctions, outgoing and incoming letters rogatory in the criminal matter.

The increase of the number of cases is primarily a result of the new category "other cases", which was previously (until 2018-2020 CEPEJ Cycle) mentioned only in the comments section. Additionally, new cases have been introduced in this cycle: K-Po4 I SPKPo 4, I SP k Po 3.

Q039 (General Comment): Courts deciding in the second instance (on appeal) in the "non-criminal" cases, as courts of general jurisdiction are: higher: upon the decisions in civil disputes and the judgment in small claims and the non-contentious proceedings, and appellate courts: upon the decisions of higher courts and judgements of the basic courts in civil disputes unless deciding on appeals is not under the competence of higher court.

The court of special jurisdiction, which decides in the second instance (on appeal) in the "non-criminal" cases is the Commercial Appellate Court (appeals on decisions of commercial courts and other bodies). Excluded from the total number of cases in response to this question are cases on appeals in cases of commercial offences. No. 3 - There is no second instance in administrative disputes.

The answer to question 1. includes cases before Appellate Courts in which decisions are made on appeals against decisions of first instance courts in civil disputes, in particular in labor, family, media, and copyright disputes, in connection with whistleblowing;

Before higher courts: litigious proceedings involving appeals (small appellation);

Before the Commercial Court of Appeal: second instance commercial proceedings involving appeals, conflict and delegation of jurisdiction between commercial courts;

Concerning the category "other", cases in the proceedings for protection of right to a trial within a reasonable time have been transferred to 2.3.

Q039 (2022): 1. The lower number of incoming cases in second instance in 2022 is primarily explained by the decrease of incoming civil and commercial cases in basic and commercial courts. During 2019, 2020 and 2021 there was a large number of specific type of cases related to the costs of bank loans. After supplementing the legal position of the Supreme Court of Cassation from September 16, 2021, number of these cases gradually decreases. However, due to the mentioned repetitive cases (litigation for reimbursement of costs bank loans), second instance courts were unable to handle such a large influx from the previous year (regardless of the fact that the inflow in 2022 was lower), so the number cases increased.

Q039 (2021): Please note that all provided data do not cover Serbian Autonomy province of Kosovo and Metohija. The discrepancy from the previous year in the number on pending "civil and commercial litigious cases" older than two years is a result of the burden higher courts (acting as second instance courts), and in particular the Higher court in Belgrade. With regard to this question for more insight please see the analysis provided within the Annual Report on Work of Courts for 2021:

* Figures for basic courts include Registers I, Iv while commercial courts include all enforcements

The number of pending cases – except enforcement – increased when compared to 2017, as a result of the increased number of cases received in the last five years (more than two and half million cases above the expected inflow) that the judicial system couldn't absorb completely. Since there was no timely systemic reaction to the enormously increased number of incoming cases, while at the same time, the number of court staff decreased and new employment was banned, or was limited, courts did not manage to stop the trend of increase of the number of pending cases, since 2018 (1.024.521). In 2019, the number of pending cases slightly increased, however, in 2020 there was a significant increase of pending cases in trial matters due to extraordinary circumstances and implementation of measures for protection of population from the pandemic, which is why the courts in the Republic worked with significantly reduced capacities.

The trend of increasing the number of pending cases continued in 2021, caused by the additional burden on the court system with so far the largest inflow of cases, which was mostly reflected in the number of pending cases in basic and misdemeanour courts.

The ratio of incoming, disposed and pending cases at the end of 2021 comparing to the previous reporting periods, shows a decreased number of pending cases (1,498,237) and increase of the number of disposed cases (2,415,672) resulting from the increased engagement of judges and judicial staff, although in circumstances of the enormous increase of inflow (2,402,486).

The ratio of incoming, disposed and pending cases in the period from 2017 to 2021 shows a continuously decreasing number of pending cases, a slight decrease in the number of disposed cases in 2020, and a sharp increase in 2021, by 401,843 more cases than in the previous year, as well as a variation in the number of incoming cases, with the largest escalation recorded in 2021, by 534,575 more cases compared to the previous year.

The increase in the number of incoming and disposed cases indicates excessive workload of judges and court staff, despite the systematic measures taken to reduce the number of backlog cases in courts.

Q039 (2020): The discrepancy from the previous year in the number on pending "civil and commercial litigious cases" older than two years is a result of the burden higher courts (acting as second instance courts), and in particular the Higher court in Belgrade.

Q039 (2019): Other cases include objections to provisional measures cases related to the media. Regarding discrepancies, repetitive cases in the appeal procedure continued to burden the appellate courts both in 2018 as well as in 2019, but the general appellate courts managed to clear these cases in 2018 and decrease the number of pending cases transferred to 2019, as well as to continue with this trend in 2019. Therefore, even though the number of incoming civil (and commercial) litigious cases increased in 2019, the number of resolved cases increased even more drastically (from 130 412 to 148 012 cases) and a particular improvement (decrease) is especially evident in the number of pending cases older than 2 years (a decrease from 3 374 to 1 389 cases). With regard to "non-litigious cases", and more particularly "other non-litigious cases", it should be pointed out that amendments to the Law on the Court Organization and the new Law on Protection of the Right to a Trial within a Reasonable Time have shifted responsibility for protection of this right from the Constitutional Court to the courts of general and special jurisdiction. This has led to the filing of a large number of motions to that effect with all Serbian courts, including objections requesting acceleration of proceedings and claims for compensation for both tangible and intangible damage. The upward trend in new cases, first seen in 2015, continued into 2016, with a total of 35.815 such cases heard by all Serbian courts. Concerning the category "other", cases in the proceedings for protection of right to a trial within a reasonable time have been transferred to 2.3

Q040 (2022): All answers were provided by the competent authority

Q040 (2021): Please note that all provided data do not cover Serbian Autonomy province of Kosovo and Metohija. Register of appeal cases with regard to confiscation of property (including cases of organized crime), cases regarding requests for release on parole, different criminal cases regarding minors, cases regarding extradition and transfer of convicted persons in ordinary criminal cases, (also in cases of organized crime and war crimes), extension of detention in cases of cyber crime, different decision of the extrajudicial chamber, cases regarding transfer of cases to other courts.

Q040 (2019): The answer to field 1 includes the following categories: Before courts of appeal: criminal proceedings involving appeals on first instance and second instance verdicts and decisions (separated registers in second instance by special departments); criminal proceedings against minors involving appeals; Before higher courts: criminal proceedings involving appeals (small appeal).

2 includes the following categories: for the Commercial Court of Appeal (Pkž), and the Misdemeanor Court of Appeal (PRŽ, PRŽM, PRŽI, PRŽU). These are the second instance proceedings before the Commercial and the Misdemeanor Court of Appeal regarding cases of commercial and misdemeanor courts as defined in question 94.2.

Column "Pending cases older than 2 years from the date the case came to the second instance court" is marked as NA since the requested data is not in gathered (Criminal Procedure Code methodology differs).

In relation to the previous reporting period, the following changes have been made: Field 1 also shows new categories of cases in courts of appeal (ex. KŽ2-Po3-Spk).

Q94.2: in 2014, 9,879 additional cases were handled by the Misdemeanor Appellate Court in addition to ordinary work, due to transfer of jurisdiction on appeals to decisions of administrative bodies, from 1 March 2014. By 2016, these cases have been absorbed and handled by the system, but a backlog remains. Besides, unlike the previous cycle, "other cases" which relate to criminal (94.1)/misdemeanour (94.2) cases and which are not "cases per se" even if a judge is intervening, have not been taken into account (5 pending cases, 1,371 incoming cases, 1,366 resolved, 10 pending at the end of the year (ex. related to decisions on detaining accused, competence issues, etc.)).

40.1 Severe criminal cases: 1) appellate court cases (Kž, Kž1, Kžm1, Kž1 Po1 Kž1 Po2, Kž1 Po3, Kž1 VP, Kž2, Kž2 Po1, Kž2 Po2, Kž2 Po3, Kž2 Vp, Kžm2, Kž3, Kž3 Po2, Kžm, Kž3 Po1, Kž1-Spk, Kž2-Spk, Kž1-Po1-Spk, Kž2-Po1-Spk, Kž2-Po3-Spk) 2) higher court cases (Kž, Kž1, Kž2)

40.2 Misdemeanour and / or minor criminal cases: 1) Commercial appellate court (Pkž), 2) Misdemeanour Appellate court (_PRŽ, PRŽM, PRŽI, PRŽU)

40.3 Other cases – 1) appellate court cases (Krm, Kr, Kr Po1, Kr Po2, Kr Po3, Kr Vp, Kž-uo, Kž-Poi, Kžm-r, Kž-r, Kž-Kre, Kžr-As, Kžmr-As, Kž-Toi, Kž-Po2-uo, Kž1-r-Po1, Kž-Po1-Poi, Kž-Po1-Toi, Kž-Po1-uo, Kž-Po2-Kre, Kž-Po1-Kre, Kž-r-Po3, Kžm-Uo) 2) higher court cases (Kv SIK, Npž); 2) Misdemeanour Appellate court (PSD)

In relation to the 2016-2018 reporting period, the following changes have been made: "Other cases" shows the appeals of the higher and appellate courts against the "other criminal cases" enumerated in Q 38, as well as the complaints about the extension of the domestic violence measure.

Q041 (General Comment): In order to calculate the average length of the court proceedings in days for the first and second instance, for insolvency, the following formula was used: pending / resolved * 365

Q041 (2020): It is not possible to provide automatically this information. The AVP application enables certain information but in order to provide this information the courts need to make multiple individual inquiries in order to get the requested data – such is the case with the Litigious divorce case. It is even more difficult to gather information for Employment dismissal cases – all employment cases are registered within the same register so it would be very difficult for courts to extract the requested type of cases- dismissal cases.

Therefore the information requested in this table in most cases is not available.

These data are not automatically available. They refer to registers given within the question 35 (Civil (and commercial) litigious cases. Not all of these cases can be submitted to the third instance (extraordinary legal remedies) . The length of the proceedings is calculated for each instance according to CEPEJ Disposition Time formula and not an average length.

Q042 (General Comment): Although quality standards for the judiciary as such do not yet exist, the Rulebook on criteria, indicators and procedure for evaluating the work of judges and presidents of courts ("Official Gazette of RS", Nos. 81/2014, 142/2014, 41/2015, 7/2016) of the HJC provides for the evaluating the work of judges for the purpose of improving the efficiency of the judicial system, to preserve and improve the expertise, qualifications and responsibilities of judicial office holders, to encourage them to achieve the best results of their work, and to increase public confidence in the work of judges and courts.

The Rulebook stipulates that the evaluation of the work of judges and presidents of courts is expressed by a mark. The work of full-time judges and court presidents is regularly evaluated once every three years, and for judges who are first time elected evaluation is done once a year. Exceptionally, based on the decision of the HJC, the work of judges and presidents of courts may be extraordinary evaluated.

The criteria for evaluating judges' performance are quality and quantity. The quality of work shows the ability and knowledge of the judge in the application of substantive and procedural law, while the quantity of work shows the efficiency in solving cases.

The benchmarks for evaluating the quality of work of judges are the percentage of decisions revoked and the time necessary to bring decisions. Quality evaluation is done by establishing for each benchmark an individual grade, and on the basis of established individual grades, the evaluation of the quality of work of judges is determined. Individual marks for the quality of work benchmarks are: "extremely successful", "successful" and "not satisfactory".

The criterion for evaluating the quantity of judges' work is a monthly standard, and for judges who do not have a sufficient number of cases in the work, the number of cases solved from the total number of cases in the work.

The benchmark of the judges' work is evaluated by the individual grade "extremely successful", "successful" and "not satisfactory". The judgments related to the evaluation of the judge's work are "extremely successful in performing the judicial function", "successfully performing the judicial function" and "not satisfactory".

Q058 (General Comment): The number of appeals as such is not monitored. However, it is monitored how many cases were decided by higher instance and how it was decided (whether the judgment had been dismissed or amended, or case remitted to lower court). This indicates the quality of judicial decisions of lower courts.

The monitoring mechanism is set by the annual report of Supreme Court and the mechanism has not been changed in previous few years. One of the activities that are being monitored is the length of procedure. The annual report for 2022 can be found at following link, in Serbian: <https://www.vk.sud.rs/sr-lat/godi%25A1nji-izve%25A1taj-o-radu-sudova>

Q061-1 (General Comment): Under the Law on Civil Procedure, the party (including its lawyer) is in obligation, no later than the preliminary hearing or at the first hearing for the main hearing, if the preliminary hearing is not mandatory, to present all facts required for explanation of its proposals, to propose evidence that confirm the presented facts, to give statement about the allegations and offered evidences of the opposing party, as well as to propose the time-frame for conducting of the proceeding. The court decides, at the hearing, on the time frame, especially on the number of hearings, time of hearings, schedule for taking of evidence at the hearings and taking of other procedural actions, court time frames, and total time of the main hearing.

At the initial, preparatory hearing, pursuant to the Criminal Procedure Code. The preparatory hearing, scheduled after the indictment is confirmed by the court, could be considered as a form of dialogue between the public prosecution service, court and other participants of the criminal proceedings. At the preparatory hearing the parties state their positions in relation to the subject-matter of the charges, explain the evidence which will be examined at the trial and propose new evidence. Also, the factual and legal questions which will be the subject-matter of discussion at the trial are determined, a decision is rendered on a plea agreement, on detention and on discontinuing criminal proceedings, as well as on other questions the court finds of relevance for holding a trial.

However, it is important to notice that the together with the prosecutor, defendant, defense counsel, the aggrieved party, legal representative of the prosecutor and aggrieved party, and if needed an interpreter, will be summoned to the preparatory hearing.

Q074 (General Comment): Performance of judges with a standing tenure of office and court presidents` shall regularly be conducted once every three years, and in judges elected for the first time- once a year. Exceptionally, based on the Decision of the High Judicial Council performance of judges and court presidents may be evaluated extraordinarily. Criteria for evaluation of judges` performance are quality and quantity. Standards for evaluating quality of judges` performance shall be the percentage of repealed decisions and time for drafting decisions. Quality evaluation is performed by determining individual grade for each standard, and based on determined individual grades, final evaluation grade of judges` performance quality is determined. Individual grades for quality standards are as follows: “outstandingly successful”, “successful” and “unsatisfactory”. Standard for quantity evaluation of judges` performance is monthly caseload quota, and for judges not having sufficient number of pending cases, standard for quantity evaluation shall be the total number of closed cases against the total number of pending cases. Evaluation of judges` quantity performance shall be conducted by evaluating the judges` quantity standard by an individual performance grade, i.e. “outstandingly successful”, “successful” and “unsatisfactory”.

Q074 (2019): Performance of judges with a standing tenure of office and court presidents' shall regularly be conducted once every three years, and in judges elected for the first time- once a year. Exceptionally, based on the Decision of the High Judicial Council performance of judges and court presidents may be evaluated extraordinarily (Rulebook on the criteria, standards, procedure and bodies for evaluation of performance of judges and court presidents "Official Gazette of RS", No. 81/2014, 142/2014, 41/2015, 7/2016). Criteria for evaluation of judges' performance are quality and quantity. Standards for evaluating quality of judges' performance shall be the percentage of repealed decisions and time for drafting decisions. Quality evaluation is performed by determining individual grade for each standard, and based on determined individual grades, final evaluation grade of judges' performance quality is determined. Individual grades for quality standards are as follows: "outstandingly successful", "successful" and "unsatisfactory". Standard for quantity evaluation of judges' performance is monthly caseload quota, and for judges not having sufficient number of pending cases, standard for quantity evaluation shall be the total number of closed cases against the total number of pending cases. Evaluation of judges' quantity performance shall be conducted by evaluating the judges' quantity standard by an individual performance grade, i.e. "outstandingly successful", "successful" and "unsatisfactory". Articles 17-26 of the Rules provide more detailed ruled on how quantity (efficiency) of judicial performance is evaluated. This is done based on the number of cases disposed by a judge over a period one month against the number of cases they should dispose- monthly caseload quota. The monthly caseload quota pertain to the cases adjudicated on merits, whereas three cases disposed of in some other manner shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on the merits. Derogating from paragraph 2 of this Article, in higher and appellate courts five closed cases in Kž and Kž2 subject matter shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on merits. In appellate court, five closed cases in Kžm2 subject matter shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on the merits. Three pending cases protecting the right to a trial within a reasonable time period decided on based on the objection to accelerate the procedure and appeals, shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on merits. Two cases closed by entering into mediation agreement shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on merits. If a judge is unable to achieve the monthly caseload quota due to insufficient number of pending cases, the Commission shall take into account the total number of closed cases against the total number of pending cases. If a judge has handled cases of different types, the quantity of his performance shall be established by adding together percentages for each case type and by comparing it against the monthly caseload quota for that matter, provided that Commissions shall assess all the types of disposed cases specified by the Rules of Court Procedure and the law, but not mentioned herein.

Q075 (General Comment): Rulebook on the criteria, standards, procedure and bodies for evaluation of performance of judges and court presidents provides for the Commission for evaluation of judges and court presidents' performance which has three members appointed by the High Judicial Council from the ranks of Council members- judges. The Commission shall pass a decision on initiating procedure for judges and court presidents' performance evaluation, which for each court sets forth the date when the Commission is to launch the evaluation procedure and the date of the evaluation procedure end, seat of the court where evaluation is being conducted, and appoints the Commission secretary. The Commission shall coordinate the work of commissions, discuss disputable issues in relation to the evaluation procedure of judges and court presidents' performance, issue guidelines to commissions implementing the evaluation procedure and make proposals for improvement of the evaluation procedure and commissions' operation. Q079 (General Comment): Quantitative performance targets are prescribed by the Rulebook on criteria and standards for evaluating the work of public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors.

Q079-1 (General Comment): Rulebook on criteria and standards for evaluating the work of public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors - FULFILLMENT OF THE CRITERIA Article 15.

The individual grade is determined based on the average of the results from the four-month work reports made during the work evaluation period.

The four-month work report expresses the ratio of the number of assigned cases and the number of processed cases, which were dispatched no later than the 15th day after the end of the reporting period.

The results of the four-month reports are entered in the evaluation sheet.

An individual rating of "extremely successful" is determined for the deputy public prosecutor, who handled more than 80% of assigned cases during the evaluation period.

An individual grade of "successful" is determined for the deputy public prosecutor, who during the evaluation period handled 60% to 80% of assigned cases.

An individual rating of "not satisfactory" is determined for the deputy public prosecutor, who during the evaluation period processed less than 60% of assigned cases.

Rulebook on disciplinary procedure and disciplinary responsibility of public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors, Article 8: The Public Prosecutor (deputy pp) commits a disciplinary offense if:

- does not prepare public prosecutor's decisions and does not invest regular and extraordinary legal means within the prescribed period;
- frequently misses or is late for scheduled hearings, hearings and other procedural actions in the cases assigned to him;
- fails to request an exemption in cases where there are legal reasons for it;
- refuses to perform tasks and tasks entrusted to him;
- does not carry out the written instructions of the superior public prosecutor;
- clearly violates the obligations of proper treatment towards judges in the proceedings, parties, their legal representatives, witnesses, staff or colleagues;
- engages in inappropriate relations with the parties or their legal representatives in the proceedings he leads;
- provides incomplete or incorrect information relevant to the work of the State Council of Prosecutors in the procedure of selection and dismissal of public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors, determination of disciplinary responsibility and other issues within its jurisdiction;
- violates the principle of impartiality and endangers citizens' trust in the public prosecutor's office;

- performs activities that are determined by law as incompatible with the public prosecutor's function, such as functions in bodies that make regulations and executive authorities, public services and bodies of provincial autonomy and local self-government units, membership in political parties, engaging in public or private paid work, providing legal services or providing legal advice for a fee, as well as other functions, jobs or private interests that are contrary to the dignity and independence of the public prosecutor's office or damage its reputation;
- accepts gifts contrary to the regulations governing conflicts of interest;
- does not respect the working hours prescribed by law or determined by the competent public prosecutor;
- if it significantly violates the provisions of the Code of Ethics;
- does not attend mandatory training programs without justification.

Q080 (General Comment): Quantitative and qualitative performance targets are prescribed by the Rulebook on criteria and standards for evaluating the work of public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors.

AUTHORITY AUTHORIZED FOR VALUATION

Article 4.

The evaluation of the public prosecutor's work is carried out by the directly higher public prosecutor, with the opinion of the collegium of the immediately senior public prosecutor's office obtained.

The evaluation of the work of the deputy public prosecutor is carried out by the public prosecutor, with the opinion of the collegium of the public prosecution in which the deputy public prosecutor performs the public prosecutor's function.

Article 5.

The criteria for evaluating the work of the deputy public prosecutor are:

1. promptness in handling,
2. expertise and success in work,
3. professional commitment and cooperation.

The criteria for evaluating the work of the public prosecutor are:

1. general ability to manage the public prosecutor's office,
2. supervisory ability,
3. overall results of the work of the public prosecutor's office which he manages.

The criteria for evaluating the criteria are provided for in this regulation.

Article 6

The evaluation of the work of the holders of the public prosecutor's office is expressed by a grade.

Evaluation of work is carried out in such a way that for each criterion provided for in the Rulebook, an individual assessment is determined, on the basis of which the assessment of evaluation of work is made.

Marks

Article 7

The individual grades for the criteria for evaluating the work of public prosecutors are:

1. "extremely successful",
2. "successful",
3. "does not satisfy".

The evaluation grades for the work of the holders of the public prosecutor's office are:

1. "Extremely successfully performs the function of public prosecutor",
2. "Successfully performs the function of public prosecutor",
3. "Not satisfactory".

Q080 (2020): Please note that less frequent evaluation can only be applied for public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors elected permanently, taking into account that described stands for regular evaluation of the work in the intervals of 3 years. For example, frequency of regular work evaluation component of promptness in proceedings is based on reports filed every four months within the period of three years.

One-year evaluation exists for deputy public prosecutors elected first time for the period of three years.

More frequent evaluation can be applied in the case of non-regular work evaluation, which is performed on the basis of the SPC decision

Q080-1 (General Comment): Article 4.

The evaluation of the public prosecutor's work is carried out by the directly higher public prosecutor, with the opinion of the collegium of the immediately senior public prosecutor's office obtained.

The evaluation of the work of the deputy public prosecutor is carried out by the public prosecutor, with the opinion of the collegium of the public prosecution in which the deputy public prosecutor performs the public prosecutor's function.

EXTRAORDINARY WORK EVALUATION

Article 10.

The work of public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors can be evaluated on an extraordinary basis based on the decision of the State Council of Prosecutors.

The State Council of Prosecutors can also make a decision on extraordinary performance evaluation based on the reasoned proposal of the public prosecutor of the public prosecution office, in which the deputy public prosecutor performs the public prosecutor's function or the deputy public prosecutor, whose work is extraordinarily evaluated.

The State Council of Prosecutors can make a decision on extraordinary work evaluation:

1. when determining the list of candidates for the election of public prosecutors,
2. during the election of public prosecutors who hold a permanent position in the second or higher public prosecutor's office,
3. during the election of deputy public prosecutors for permanent performance of the function of deputy public prosecutor;
4. when determining the reason for the dismissal of the public prosecutor or deputy public prosecutor;
5. when the public prosecutor or deputy public prosecutor is assessed as "unsatisfactory",
6. in other cases when the State Council of Prosecutors deems it expedient.

The decision from paragraph 1 of this article refers to the period for which extraordinary evaluation is carried out and the criteria for evaluation of work.

The provisions of this rulebook for regular work evaluation shall be applied accordingly to the extraordinary work evaluation procedure.

Q081 (General Comment): Please note that less frequent evaluation can only be applied for public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors elected permanently, taking into account that described stands for regular evaluation of the work in the intervals of 3 years. For example, frequency of regular work evaluation component of promptness in proceedings is based on reports filed every four months within the period of three years.

One-year evaluation exists for deputy public prosecutors elected first time for the period of three years.

More frequent evaluation can be applied in the case of non-regular work evaluation, which is performed on the basis of the SPC decision.

Q081 (2022): The work of the deputy public prosecutor who was elected for the first time is evaluated once a year counting from the date of entry into the position of public prosecutor.

The work of the public prosecutor and the deputy public prosecutor on a permanent basis is regularly evaluated once in three years.

The work of public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors can be based on the decision of the State Prosecutorial Council assess the prosecutors in an extraordinary manner.

Q081 (2019): Please note that less frequent evaluation can only be applied for public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors elected permanently, taking into account that described stands for regular evaluation of the work in the intervals of 3 years. Q082 (2022): In civil and commercial cases, parties can see the status of case online.

CMS is fully integrated in sense that it uses data from cases from court DMS via web services to generate predefined and ad hoc reports.

Q082 (2020): (Software used for registering judicial proceedings and their management)

Q082 (2019): Early warnings for cases at risk of falling under Statute of limitations. In the case of Serbia, the answer for civil and commercial is different because systems of courts of general jurisdiction are in 2019 integrated with the statistical tool and systems of commercial courts are not.

Q082-1 (2021): Firstly, AVP System was implemented in commercial courts in 2010.

Q082-2 (2022): The implementation of the new centralized CMS is underway, it is planned to be completed by the end of 2024. Funds for the project were provided from IPA 2017 and the tender was conducted by the Delegation of the European Union in Serbia.

Q082-2 (2021): Project of implementation of new modern centralized case management system started in September 2021, currently (March 2022) it is in inception phase.

Q082-2 (2020): Tender for contract for implementation of a Centralized Case Management System (CCMS) for the Serbian courts of general jurisdiction, Administrative court/s and commercial courts is available at <https://etendering.ted.europa.eu/cft/cft-display.html?cftId=7703> .

The scope of the contract covers the necessary hardware and software infrastructure, software solution, training, maintenance and support to migrate from and replace two software systems currently in use in the Judiciary.

Planned contract length is 36 months but more detailed timeline will be part of the offer.

After contract award timeline will be part of project implementation plan.

Q085 (2022): Since 2021 there was a migration of data (decisions) from Administrative Court portal to centralized data base. Therefore centralized national database of court decisions does not include all judgements

Q085 (2020): We don't have 3rd instance for administrative courts so the answer is no and it should be NAP.

Q085 (2019): Court for administrative disputes is Administrative court, which is the only instance for the Republic of Serbia. For judgements in administrative disputes there is no 3rd level instance of decisions, only 2nd level instance which is the Supreme Court of Cassation.

Q035 (2021): Regarding the discrepancies, it is worth explaining that in 2021 in courts proceeded the switching from manual to CMIS. The increase in civil cases was due to a large number of new cases that resulted from the jubilee wages and meals from collective agreements signed by the government with unions. The number of administrative cases increased due to the resuming of the work after Covid so more contests emerged and so the number of incoming cases increased, consequently the resolved cases too.

Q035 (2020): Regarding the discrepancy between civil solved cases and the number of incoming cases, is mainly due to the pandemic situation. For around three months (March to June), Courts have been dealing only with very emergency cases. After June, Courts have continued to work with limited capacities, for the rest of the year. Concerning administrative cases, the increase of pending cases is attributed to their nature of "non-emergent" cases. Since courts have been dealing only with emergent cases and have worked with minimal capacities, most of the administrative cases have remained unsolved.

Q038 (2021): The discrepancy in misdemeanour cases is mostly because in the data of 2020, the numbers were not fully reflecting the reality and the numbers of pending cases in the previous year and the number of resolved cases weren't included. Therefore, this year we have been able to provide the full data for those categories and it indicated the discrepancies from the last year.

Q038 (2020): The discrepancy in misdemeanor cases is because of the switch to Case management system(CMIS). The pending cases at the end of 2019 have not been included in the CMIS. After the communication with Judicial Council, we have been informed that all the pending cases from 2019 have been solved, but are not included in the CMIS. To be more specific, from 26070 pending cases (31st Dec 2019) 22729 have been not included in the CMIS. This is why the number of resolved cases is significantly lower than the number of incoming cases. As for the decrease in the number of incoming cases, it is mainly a result of the full lockdown which was imposed from mid- March to June. Restrictive measures, including restriction in the free movement have remained in place during all the year.

Q039 (2021): There is a lack of data for several categories because the Judicial Council has not been able to register all the data in the CMIS for the second instance. As for the discrepancies between pending cases, incoming and resolved cases, stands the same explanation as for the Q35 regarding the first instance. To be specific, the administrative cases increased in the first instance and they proceeded to the second instance via appeals.

Q039 (2020): We do not have the data on pending cases for the second instance this year, because the Judicial Council has not been able to register all the data in the CMIS for the second instances. We might have the data during the coming months, but we do not have a definite answer when these data will be available. As for the discrepancies between pending cases, incoming and resolved cases, stands the same explanation as for the Q35.

Q040 (2021): The discrepancy in misdemeanour cases is mostly because in the data of 2020, the numbers were not fully reflecting the reality and the numbers of pending cases in the previous year and the number of resolved cases weren't included. Therefore, this year we have been able to provide the full data for those categories and it indicated the discrepancies from the last year. Same comments as for the first instance.

Q040 (2020): The decrease in numbers, as explained in Q35, is because of the national lockdown and other restrictive measures applied throughout the 2020.

Q041 (2020): These data (only this year) are not available at this moment; until the Case Management System becomes fully functional.

Q042 (2019): With regard to this and the following question, I changed the answer to NO, since, non of the judicial institutions were able to provide specific policies or documents which specifically address quality standards.

Q058 (2022): With the usage of the electronic system CMIS, it became also possible to generate and regularly monitor court activities based on the marked indicators.

Q058 (2021): The Judicial Performance Commission has competencies based on the following criteria: Personal integrity and general professional skills; Legal and technical skills; Professional engagement; Rate of realization of the norm; etc.

Q059 (General Comment): The difference between the monitoring of the judicial and procedural performance is mainly due to the differences in functioning of these two institutions. For instance, length of proceedings is a performance indicator for judge but not for a prosecutor since the length of proceedings is out of the prosecutors' impact. To keep it short, the performance evaluation criteria are set out by two respective regulations: the regulation on the evaluation of performance of the judges and the regulation for the evaluation of performance of prosecutors.

Q048 (2022): There is a Statistical and Analysis unit inside the KJC who drafts yearly reports on the performance of the Courts based on the defined indicators. These reports are published online in the web page of the KJC.

Q048 (2020): Until this year, the evaluation of court performance has been done by using the performance of Judges as a reference. So, the performance of a court has been mainly attributed to the performance of the Judges in that particular court. Starting from this year, Kosovo Judicial Council has developed a dashboard in the Case Management Information System (CMIS), with specific indicators, in order to measure court performance. Unfortunately, we still do not have any data regarding the performance or the indicators used, since the CMIS is still not fully functional. However, after the discussion with KJC and CoE project in Kosovo which is supporting this activity, this CMIS feature concerning court performance will soon be tested, and from the next year, it will be used to generate dashboards and reports on court performance.

Q049 (General Comment): The Commission for the Evaluation of Judges' Performance has the competence to evaluate the performance of judges with permanent mandate according to the "Random" method, judges with initial mandate and those who are candidates for promotion. The Commission for the Evaluation of Judges' Performance performs its tasks and activities based on the Law on the Judicial Council and the Regulation on the Evaluation of the Performance of Judges, approved by the Kosovo Judicial Council. The Judicial Performance Evaluation Committee assesses the basis for the promotion or demotion of judges, including the initiation of dismissal proceedings and the evaluation for the purpose of reappointment.

Judges with initial mandates are evaluated two (2) times during this mandate and once after the initial training and once before the expiration of the initial mandate for the purpose of reappointment. Permanent judges are evaluated every 3 years

Q049 (2019): There is a Statistical and Analysis unit inside the KJC who drafts yearly reports on the performance of the Courts based on the defined indicators. These reports are published online in the web page of the KJC.

Q050 (General Comment): Pursuant to Article 14 of the Regulation on the evaluation of the performance of judges, Judges are evaluated according to the following scales, from 0 to 89 points: 1.1. From 0 to 35 points is evaluated "debit", 1.2. From 36 to 51 points is considered "sufficient", 1.3. From 52 to 67 points is rated "good", 1A. From 68 to 82 points is evaluated "very good", 1.5. From 83 to 89 points is rated "excellent". 2. Only judges who are evaluated with "excellent" evaluation will be considered for promotion, in case of vacancies in the Court of Appeals and / or the Supreme Court. In case the evaluation results that there are not enough judges ranked according to the points with "excellent" evaluation, the Council takes into account the judges ranked according to the points with the evaluation "very good". The evaluation commission will compile a Guide for the evaluation of judges for each indicator which will be made public to judges before the evaluation process begins.

Q051 (General Comment): Pursuant to Article 3.19 of the Regulation on the Evaluation of Judges' Performance, the evaluation of judges is done in accordance with the principle of legality, objectivity, transparency and equality, in order to guarantee equal opportunities and rights for the development of the judge's career. . 2. The evaluation is not intended to interfere with the independence and impartiality of the judge. 3. Unless otherwise provided by law or regulation, all data and information collected during the performance appraisal process are confidential and are not disclosed during the first phase of the appraisal. Disclosure of any information that violates the confidentiality of the evaluation process constitutes a disciplinary violation and will be treated according to applicable law.

Q052 (2021): Using the indicators ticked above, Kosovo Prosecutorial Council does the evaluation of prosecution services performance annually. The evaluation of performance is performed by the Unit for performance evaluation, in the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council.

Q052 (2020): Using the indicators ticked above, Kosovo Prosecutorial Council does the evaluation of prosecution services performance annually. The evaluation of performance is performed by the Unit for performance evaluation, in the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council.

Q053 (2019): In the KPC also, there is a specific unit who drafts detailed reports on the performance of the prosecution annually.

Q054 (2019): As I explained in the other section, Kosovo Judicial Council and Kosovo Prosecutorial Council are two separate and independent institutions. Thus, they independently decide on performance indicators, policies, and internal regulations. For this reasons, they may have different performance indicators or criteria, let say, for recruitment procedures. As you may know, Kosovo is still working on enhancing and advancing its legislation in the Rule of Law Sector, so both KPC and KJC are working on advancing and aligning their legislation with the EU best practices. Moreover, a Functional Review process for the Rule of Law Sector is undergoing, meaning that there will be other changes in the structure, functioning and legislation, where needed.

Q056 (2022): Based on Article 1 and 2 of Regulation 11/2016 on the evaluation of Judges' Performance. This regulation applies to all judges of the courts of Kosovo, except for jury judges and presidents of courts whose assessment will be regulated by a separate regulation. Evaluation Committee means the Committee responsible for evaluating the performance of judges, consisting of 13 members selected by the members of the KJC.

Q061 (2022): Based on Article 2 of Regulation No. 04/2020, On the Authority, Organization and Functioning of the Judicial Inspection Unit, conduct studies to assess the efficiency of judicial procedures, assess the internal functioning of individual courts in a regular manner to identify weaknesses in the work of the courts.

Criminal procedure Code foresees all time frames within which prosecutors shall complete respective actions regarding a case. Prosecutors who fail to respect those deadlines are sanctioned through work assessment, performance evaluation and disciplinary measures.

Q063 (2022): Internally on an intranet website also available.

Q064 (2022): Office of Statistics with the Prosecutions Performance review unit in Kosovo Prosecutorial Council is responsible for collecting and analysing the statistics regarding the work of all prosecution offices of Kosovo

Q065 (2022): The report for 2022 is not yet finalised

Q067 (2022): The Secretariat of the KJC, on a regular basis, prepares reports for the KJC, in which statistical data are presented on court cases that are received by the SMIL Case Management System. Data on the number of judges and engaged administrative staff are also prepared.

These reports are published on the KJC website and are public.

Q067 (2021): In the Department of Statistics at the Kosovo Judicial Council

Q068 (2022): More frequent reports are also available.

Q068 (2021): An annual report is published each year but also other reports on a more frequent basis.

Q069 (2022): The KPC work report is published annually and the State prosecutor work report is published every 6 month and annually.

Q069 (2021): Every prosecution office reports quarterly in KPC regarding the number of cases received, number of case solved, manner of solving the cases and other relevant information regarding the functioning of the prosecution offices. Also, after the end of each year, 2 separate work reports are drafted and published in the web portal of the prosecutorial system, the report for the work of KPC and the report for the work of State Prosecutor.

Q070 (2022): Every prosecution office reports quarterly in KPC regarding the number of cases received, number of case solved, manner of solving the cases and other relevant information regarding the functioning of the prosecution offices. Q070 (2019): Each prosecution office reports quarterly in the meetings of the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council regarding number of cases received, number of cases solved, manner of solving cases and other topics regarding the functioning of the prosecution offices. In addition, at the end of each year, a report is drafted regarding the work of all prosecution offices for that year and a separate report regarding the work of Kosovo Prosecutorial Council.

These reports are published in the websites of KPC and State Prosecutor.

Q071 (2022): The KPC work report is published annually and the State prosecutor work report is published every 6 month and annually.

Q071 (2021): The KPC work report is published annually and the State prosecutor work report is published every 6 month and annually.

Q074 (2019): Actually, there is no regulation or internal act that regulates performance targets for judges. There is a so-called "oriented norm" which is not officially approved, based on which judges work. This norm/target is 330 cases a year for a first instance judge and 360 cases for a second instance judge. The KJC is actually undergoing some analysis with regard to performance targets in order to draft a specific regulations on performance targets for judges.

Q075 (General Comment): Actually, there is no regulation or internal act that regulates performance targets for judges. The KJC is actually undergoing some analysis with regard to performance targets in order to draft a specific regulations on performance targets for judges.

Q076 (General Comment): The chapter 4 of the regulation no. 11/2016 of the Kosovo Judicial Council, specifies the procedure of evaluation of judges' efficacy. The efficacy of the judges' work is evaluated based on a set of criteria: 1. meeting or exceeding their working norm
2. comparing the number of resolved cases by the judge to the average of resolved cases in that court, in the same category of cases;
3. Comparing the number of pending cases of the judge to the average of pending cases in that court(where judge works)
4. Case complexity. These are the main criteria. However, there are also other factors taken into the consideration, such as the absence of the judges because of the training or holidays, annual leave, medical leave, and other engagements in working groups from the Kosovo Judicial Council or other institutions as foreseen by the existing laws.

Q076 (2022): Based on Article 6 of Regulation 11/2016 on the Evaluation of Judicial Performance, of the KJC.

- The assessment can also be more frequent.

The Commission for the Evaluation of Judges' Performance has the competence to evaluate the performance of judges with permanent mandate according to the "Random" method, judges with initial mandate and those who are candidates for promotion. The Commission for the Evaluation of Judges' Performance performs its tasks and activities based on the Law on the Judicial Council and the Regulation on the Evaluation of the Performance of Judges, approved by the Kosovo Judicial Council. The Judicial Performance Evaluation Committee assesses the basis for the promotion or demotion of judges, including the initiation of dismissal proceedings and the evaluation for the purpose of reappointment. Judges with initial mandates are evaluated two (2) times during this mandate and once after the initial training and once before the expiration of the initial mandate for the purpose of reappointment. Permanent judges are evaluated every 3 years.

Pursuant to Article 14 of the Regulation on the evaluation of the performance of judges, Judges are evaluated according to the following scales, from 0 to 89 points: 1.1. From 0 to 35 points is evaluated "debit", 1.2. From 36 to 51 points is considered "sufficient", 1.3. From 52 to 67 points is rated "good", 1A. From 68 to 82 points is evaluated "very good", 1.5. From 83 to 89 points is rated "excellent". 2. Only judges who are evaluated with "excellent" evaluation will be considered for promotion, in case of vacancies in the Court of Appeals and / or the Supreme Court. In case the evaluation results that there are not enough judges ranked according to the points with "excellent" evaluation, the Council takes into account the judges ranked according to the points with the evaluation "very good". The evaluation commission will compile a Guide for the evaluation of judges for each indicator which will be made public to judges before the evaluation process begins.

Pursuant to Article 3.19 of the Regulation on the Evaluation of Judges' Performance, the evaluation of judges is done in accordance with the principle of legality, objectivity, transparency and equality, in order to guarantee equal opportunities and rights for the development of the judge's career. . 2. The evaluation is not intended to interfere with the independence and impartiality of the judge. 3. Unless otherwise provided by law or regulation, all data and information collected during the performance appraisal process are confidential and are not disclosed during the first phase of the appraisal. Disclosure of any information that violates the confidentiality of the evaluation process constitutes a disciplinary violation and will be treated according to applicable law.

Q077 (General Comment): Every three years .

Q078 (2022): KPC has approved the administrative instruction which specifies the orientation norm for State Prosecutors regarding the number of cases that they are obliged to finish in all prosecution offices and all levels.

Q079 (2021): KPC in 2018 has approved the administrative instruction which specifies the orientation norm for State Prosecutors regarding the number of cases that they are obliged to finish in all prosecution offices and all levels.

Q079 (2019): Kosovo Prosecutorial Council has adopted the administrative instruction which determines the orientation norm for state prosecutors which sets the annual guidelines for the execution of cases for Prosecutors of the General Department, the Department of Juveniles and the Serious Crimes Department of all Basic Prosecutions, the General Department and the Serious Crimes Department of the Appellate Prosecutor's Office and Special Prosecution Office of the Republic of Kosovo.

Q079-1 (General Comment): If targets are not met, a negative evaluation will follow by the Commission on performance evaluation, which serves as the basis for promotion, demotion, and can even lead to a permanent dismissal of a prosecutor.

Q079-1 (2022): If prosecutors do not fulfill their orientation norm this is reflected in the annual work assessment by their respective chief prosecutor and in their regular performance evaluation by the prosecutors performance evaluation committee

Q079-1 (2021): Other: if prosecutors do not fulfil their orientation norm this is reflected in the annual work assessment by their respective chief prosecutor and in their regular performance evaluation by the prosecutors performance evaluation committee

Q081 (General Comment): Performance evaluation is done for the prosecutors with initial term and for the permanently appointed prosecutors. Evaluation of the prosecutors with initial term is conducted after the initial training and again at the end of the initial term. The first evaluation of the performance of the prosecutors after the initial training covers the period from the thirteen (13) until the twenty-second (22) month of his/her work as a prosecutor, while the second assessment of the performance of the prosecutor with an initial term includes the period from the twenty- three (23) until thirty-second (32) month. Regular evaluation of all prosecutors permanently appointed is done every three (3) years. KPC appoints by draw one-third (1/3) of prosecutors within each prosecution office, as the first group who will be subject to performance evaluation within three (3) months. The same draw is held after one (1) year with the aim to appoint prosecutors who will take part in the second group and the third group after two (2) years, respectively.

Q081 (2022): The evaluation of performance and work of prosecutors is regulated by law and regulations. Prosecutors undergo 2 types of evaluations. Every year their work is evaluated by their respective chief prosecutor and their performance is evaluated by the committee as well.

Prosecutors in their initial mandate are evaluated twice by the committee and prosecutors with permanent mandate are evaluated by the committee every 3 years.

Albania

(2020): Variations from the previous cycle remain unexplained

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The second instance courts of general jurisdiction have subject matter over the first instance administrative law cases. Therefore, the statistics incorporated in the table for Q 35 include data on the caseload of second instance courts regarding the first instance administrative law cases.

(2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance civil and commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance civil and commercial litigious cases rose by 13% compared to 2020. Still, that number was smaller than the number of new first instance civil and commercial litigious cases received in 2019 and 2018. This trend continued in 2022., except that one of the biggest first-instance courts received a large number of relatively simple litigious small claims cases, which resulted in an increase in the total number of cases received compared to 2021. This was a one-time increase in the influx of cases, related specifically to this court's territorial jurisdiction, leading to the increase in the number of pending cases even though most of the courts surpassed the 100% clearance rate in the reference year. The number of pending cases that are more than two years old has decreased significantly, due to this report covering 2020, in which courts received a smaller number of cases because of the Covid-19 restrictions. Finally, it is important to note that the majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases older than two years are litigious small claims cases related to the unpaid utility bills.

The decreased number of incoming non-litigious cases was filed in the courts in 2022 in comparison to 2021. The majority of general civil non-litigious cases are enforcement proceedings that the state-owned utility companies initiate to recover unpaid bills for utility services. (e.g. heating, water, electricity, garbage collection, television subscription etc.).

As in the previous years, several courts in their annual reports indicated that they did not have sufficient capacity to handle the workload that increased in the reference year within the project aiming to achieve harmonization between land register and cadastre data. Non-judge court staff deal with a substantial part of the caseload in terms of registry cases and land registry matters. In addition, majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases and general non-litigious cases older than 2 years were cases related to the unpaid utility bills, i.e. the non-litigious enforcement cases. This backlog of old cases is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

It is important to note an additional information on the inconsistency for general non-litigious pending cases between an end to 2021 and the beginning of 2022. Namely, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina instructed one of the courts to correct technical mistakes made in the case management system about the registration of non-litigious enforcement cases the public companies had initiated with the courts previously for unpaid utility bills. The court increased the number of pending cases by implementing the instructions of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The overwhelming majority of the administrative law cases are concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Several courts saw an increase in the influx of administrative cases during 2022, resulting in a surge in the number of pending cases at the end of the year; in addition, the number of pending administrative cases in some of the largest courts has escalated as some of the judges specialized in administrative cases were absent due to sick leave or they were retired during the year.

(2021): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance civil and commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance civil and commercial litigious cases rose by 13% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of new first instance civil and commercial litigious cases received in 2019 and 2018. Most of the courts surpassed the 100% clearance rate in the reference year. This led to the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2021, continuing the trends from the previous years. The number of pending cases older than 2 years grew slightly, mostly because of the Covid-19 restrictions imposed in the first half of the reference year. Finally, it is important to note that the majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases older than 2 years are litigious small claims cases related to the unpaid utility bills.

The increased number of incoming non-litigious cases was filed in the courts in 2021 in comparison to 2020. The majority of general civil non-litigious cases are enforcement proceedings that the state-owned utility companies initiate to recover unpaid bills for utility services. (e.g. heating, water, electricity, garbage collection, television subscription etc.).

As in 2020, several courts in their annual reports indicated that they did not have sufficient capacity to handle the workload that increased in the reference year within the project aiming to achieve harmonization between land register and cadastre data. Non-judge court staff deal with a substantial part of the caseload in terms of registry cases and land registry matters. In addition, majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases and general non-litigious cases older than 2 years were cases related to the unpaid utility bills, i.e. the non-litigious enforcement cases. This backlog of old cases is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

It is important to note an additional information on the inconsistency for general non-litigious pending cases between an end to 2020 and the beginning of 2021. Namely, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina instructed several courts to correct technical mistakes made in the case management system about the registration of non-litigious enforcement cases the public companies had initiated with the courts previously for unpaid utility bills. The courts increased the number of pending cases by implementing the instructions of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The overwhelming majority of the administrative law cases are concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The courts reduced significantly the number of administrative law cases in the reference year. However, the number of pending administrative law cases older than 2 years increased in 2021. Primarily, it is a consequence of the fact that one of the courts could not achieve the 100% clearance rate in the reference year, because it received a disproportionate number of the new administrative law cases in 2021.

(2020): In 2020, Covid- 19 restrictions affected particularly the functioning of courts dealing with first instance cases, namely the numbers of incoming and resolved cases were reduced for all case types within the category of “other than criminal” first instance cases. However, the courts generally managed to achieve the clearance rate over 100% for the following case types within the first instance cases: commercial and civil litigious cases, general non-litigious cases, non-litigious business registry cases, and other registry cases. Nevertheless, the total number of pending “other than criminal” first instance cases increased due mostly because of the courts did not achieve the 100% clearance rate for the non-litigious land registry cases. Several courts in their annual reports indicated that they did not have sufficient capacity to handle the workload that increased in 2020 within the project aiming to achieve harmonization between land register and cadastre data. Non-judge court staff deal with a substantial part of the caseload in terms of registry cases and land registry matters. Majority of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases and general non-litigious cases older than 2 years were cases related to the unpaid utility bills divided into two groups: the litigious small claims cases and the non-litigious enforcement cases. This backlog of old cases is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Bulk of the pending administrative law cases older than 2 years are concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. An additional information on the inconsistency for general non-litigious pending cases between end of 2019 and beginning 2020: The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina instructed three courts to correct technical mistakes made in the case management system about the registration of non-litigious enforcement cases the public broadcasting companies had initiated with the courts previously for unpaid television subscription; by implementing the instructions the courts increased the number of pending cases.

(2019): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of civil and commercial litigious cases over recent years, including 2019; also, the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019 can be explained by the fact that the courts have achieved or surpassed the 100% clearance rate for commercial and civil litigious cases throughout the same period. The decrease of incoming non-litigious cases (i.e. non-litigious enforcement cases for unpaid utility bills, registry cases, land registry cases) was registered in 2019 as opposed to the increase in 2017 and 2018; in such conditions the several biggest courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina reduced the backlog. The above-mentioned reduction in the number of new cases is not caused by the legislative amendments. A substantial part of the registry and land registry matters is dealt with by non-judge staff in the court registries. When it comes to the statistics on pending civil and commercial litigious and administrative cases older than 2 years, it is important to note the following circumstances: Most of the pending civil and commercial litigious cases, i.e. cases older than 2 years from the date the case came to the first instance court, are litigious small claims cases related to the unpaid utility bills. This backlog of old cases is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Most of the administrative law cases, i.e. cases older than 2 years from the date the case came to the first instance court, are concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years was reduced in 2019 compared to 2018 due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with pending cases chronologically within the courts’ backlog reduction plans.

The significant increase of administrative cases is predominantly generated due to the high number of initiated cases before the Administrative Court against the decisions of the public authorities. This is also related to the application of the Law on Free Access to Information and there have been high number of requests towards the authorities (institutions) for free access to information which ended by decisions against which the complaints are not allowed or there have been requests which remained unanswered, the institution did not decide on request or complaint in the administrative procedure. According to the Law on Administrative dispute, such or similar situations provide legal basis that administrative dispute may be initiated, which means a law suit to the Administrative court may be filed. In practice, many law suits were initiated by different subjects such as civil society organizations dealing with promotion of the right to free access to information, citizens or legal persons.

(2021): Compared to last year, the number of cases received is higher, and the number of resolved cases is lower. (Secretariat of the JC)

A large number of cases have not been resolved because there was a delay in the work of the courts at a certain period of the year due to the "lawyers strike", as well as due to the a certain number of judges to retirement. As in the previous period, the work of the Montenegrin judiciary was limited during the reporting year due to the pandemic caused by Covid 19, but also due to a months-long strike of lawyers. In particular, the courts had a lot of delays due to the decision of the Bar Association to suspend the provision of legal aid, which delayed a large number of scheduled hearings. In the reporting year, the termination of judicial office for 54 judges was stated, as follows: -25 on personal request, -1 due to the death of a judge, -6 due to the acquisition of conditions for old-age pension, and -22 by force of the Constitution.

Clarification on discrepancies: Total of other than criminal law cases (1+2+3+4) for incoming cases - Lower inflow of cases in courts

Civil (and commercial) litigious cases (including litigious enforcement cases and if possible without administrative law cases, see category 3) - Lower inflow of cases in courts

Non litigious cases (2.1+2.2+2.3) for resolved cases - there was a lower inflow of cases, therefore, there was a lower number of resolved cases

Other non-litigious cases for incoming and resolved cases - there was a lower inflow of cases, therefore, there was a lower number of resolved cases

Other cases – for pending cases on jan. 1 RY and resolved cases - In 2020, there was a lower number of unresolved cases at the beginning of the year, compared to the previous one. As for resolved cases, there was a lower inflow of cases, and therefore a lower number of resolved cases.

North Macedonia

(2022): Category 1. In 2022 there were still Covid-19 effects on the proceedings before the courts. In the second part of the year, at 1-st of July 2022 started high number of retirements of the judges (see also new general comment to Q 104). Judicial Council on 1 July 2022 adopted a Conclusion for termination of the judicial office of 42 judges due to new condition for age retirement, the age of 64 years as a new compulsory age for retirement in North Macedonia, according to the new amendments in article 104 of the Labor Relation law. Category 2.2.3. Other Registry cases are cases for registration of political parties.

3. Probably, the number of the resolved administrative cases is decreasing in 2021 due to the implementation of the new Law on Administrative Disputes (implementation started at 25.05.2020). Articles 37 and 39 from the new Law provide compulsory public hearings for most of the administrative cases and before this, the court didn't have any obligation for hearings. Consequently, new circumstances explained above led to the increase of the pending cases and disposition time. Also, in 2021 two judges were retired.

(2020): In "2.2.3. Other registry cases" there are included cases for registrations of political parties.

(2019): In "2.2.3. Other registry cases" there are included cases for registrations of political parties.

Serbia

(General Comment): Administrative cases are all cases before the Administrative Court (“U”-administrative disputes; “Ur” - various administrative cases; “Ui” - execution of Administrative Court judgement; “Uo”- postponement of enforcement before lodging a lawsuit; “Uv” - objection to the decision of a single judge; “Up” - repetition of administrative-judicial procedure; “Uvp I”, “Uvp II” – request for extraordinary review of court decision) “Uip” - judicial protection in the election procedure for members of national councils of national minorities; “Už” – appeals, “U-uz” - whistleblowers (new, in comparison to the 2016-2018 cycle).

(2022): 1. The lower number of incoming cases in 2022 is primarily explained by the decrease inflows in civil and commercial cases in basic and commercial courts. During 2019, 2020 and 2021 there was a large number of specific type of cases related to the costs of bank loans. After supplementing the legal position of the Supreme Court of Cassation from September 16, 2021, number of these cases gradually decreases. However, due to the mentioned repetitive cases (litigation for reimbursement of costs bank loans), courts were unable to handle such a large influx from the previous year (regardless of the fact that the inflow in 2022 was lower), so the number of pending cases also increased.

2.1. The Supreme Court of Cassation paid special attention to the problem of pending backlog enforcement cases, since in the previous period they affected the efficiency of the courts. Exceptional results were achieved through the cooperation of the Supreme Court of Cassation, the High Court Council and the Ministry of Justice, with the additional help of the IPA 2012 Projects “Improving Judicial Efficiency in the Republic of Serbia”, “EU for Serbia – Support to the Supreme Court of Cassation” and “EU for Serbia – Support to the High Court Council”, in the period from 2016 to the end of 2022 in the reduction of pending backlog court cases, and especially pending backlog IV cases in basic courts.

2.3. In this group of cases, the number of cases related to the trial in within a reasonable time (the number of complaints filed under the Law on the Protection of Rights to trial within a reasonable time) was decreased. .

3. Administrative cases: There is no special explanation, the Administrative Court has more incoming cases and the same number of resolved cases as in previous few years.

(2021): Please note that all provided data do not cover Serbian Autonomy province of Kosovo and Metohija. All answers are from the reports of the competent institutions. This is a result of the reduction in the number of backlog enforcement cases before the courts, bearing in mind the legislative changes and the transfer of these cases to the jurisdiction of public enforcement agents. It can also be linked to measures implemented on the basis of the Unified Backlog Reduction Programme. More detailed explanation is available further in relation to enforcement cases.

Yes, there is a general trend of increasing the inflow of civil cases. During 2020, a slightly smaller number of these cases were received due to circumstances caused by the corona virus. The trend of increasing the inflow of the number of civil cases was influenced inter alia by repetitive cases in certain areas. For example, during 2021, the basic courts received 187,491 cases related to contracting costs of bank loans.

With regard to this question we submit the excerpt from the Annual Report on the Work of Courts for 2021

A large number of cases pending before courts in the Republic of Serbia, a large number of pending backlog cases, and in particular pending backlog enforcement cases - required systematic, comprehensive and long-term measures at the national level to increase efficiency, reduce amount of pending old cases and cut the length of court proceedings.

In order to reduce the huge number of pending enforcement cases, particularly pending backlog enforcement cases, which have burdened the judicial system for a longer period, the Republic of Serbia adopted the Law on Enforcement and Security (hereinafter: LoES), in 2015 (published in Official Gazette of RS", No. 106/2015).

Some provisions of the LoES contained systemic measures that led to a shift in jurisdiction and to its partial transfer to the enforcement agents.

In the period of 2016 to 2019, the Supreme Court of Cassation, aiming to expedite implementation of the Law on Enforcement and Security, adopted several key strategic documents:

1. Amended Unified Backlog Reduction Program 2016-2020, which in its special part provided measures for resolving backlog enforcement cases;
2. Special Backlog Enforcement Reduction Program;

The Supreme Court of Cassation, jointly with the High Judicial Council and the Ministry of Justice, adopted the Guidelines for the Implementation of the Law on Enforcement and Security.

Amendments to the Law on Enforcement and Security ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 54/2019), which came into force 1st of January 2020, have drawn the lines between competencies of courts and enforcement agents in the enforcement and security proceedings, as well as boundaries between the courts themselves, disabling overlap or conduct of double enforcement proceedings. In enforcement cases involving shift in jurisdiction, amendments to the law provided in details duties of the creditors, enforcement agents, the courts, as well as the presidents of courts. The lack of exercising jurisdiction by the enforcement agents has been provided with sanctions, as well as with appropriate measures being prescribed for particular types of enforcement cases.

Following the adoption of the Amendments to the LoES, the Supreme Court of Cassation, jointly with the High Judicial Council and the Ministry of Justice, adopted new strategic document - Guidelines for the Implementation of Amendments to the Law on Enforcement and Security.

In 2021, 255,792 new enforcement cases were received, 514,833 were resolved and 66,610 cases remained unresolved.

Regarding the question at issue, it is correct that the number of incoming cases is higher in comparison to 2020. One reason for that could be found in decrease on number of cases because of circumstances caused by virus corona. On the other hand it should be born in mind that the courts kept their jurisdiction regarding certain categories of enforcement cases.

Competence for enforcement is regulated by Article 4 of the Law on Enforcement and Security.

The court is exclusively competent for the enforcement of acts that can be undertaken only by the enforcement debtor or through inaction (Articles 363, 364 and 366), return of the employee to work and enforcement of final decisions related to family relations, except for subsistence costs as provided by law.

Also, the court is exclusively competent for enforcement even when it is prescribed by a special law.

Public enforcement agents are exclusively competent for the execution of other enforcement documents, decisions on execution on the basis of an authentic document, decisions on the adoption of proposals for counter-enforcement and decisions on the execution of decisions on imposed court penalties.

Public enforcement agents are exclusively competent for the enforcement of decisions which are prescribed by law to be enforced ex officio. The provisions of the law governing the collection of court fees shall accordingly apply to the enforcement procedure.

Public enforcement agents are exclusively competent to carry out enforcement when it is prescribed by a special law.

It could be concluded that while the public enforcement agents will deal exclusively in enforcement cases based on an authentic document (iv) and in certain other cases prescribed by the law, it remains to court to decide in cases wherein there is the exclusive jurisdiction of courts prescribed by the law (see above Art. 4), as well as in cases relating to legal remedies and in other cases prescribed by the law.

(2020): The category “non-litigious cases” includes enforcement cases. Since 2016 legislative and other measures have been taken in order to decrease the number of backlog enforcement cases (which is recognized as a systemic problem). In 2020 the number of backlog enforcement cases has been decreased significantly and it is reflected in total number of “non-litigious cases.” In accordance with the Law on Enforcement and Security all enforcement cases based on an authentic document (Iv) cases should be transferred to public enforcement officers. In 2020 about 240.000 such cases were resolved by the conclusion of the court to transfer the case to public enforcement officer.

As regards “civil and commercial litigious cases”, the number of pending cases at the end of the period increased by 46%. There has been general trend of increase of incoming civil litigious cases for last five years. Due to special circumstances and need to take safety measures because of Covid 19, in 2020 courts worked with reduced capacities, while there was increase of number of incoming cases. The decrease in the number of resolved cases refers primarily to basic and higher courts. As regards “non – litigious cases”, in particular “general civil and commercial non-litigious cases”, from 2019 to 2020 the number of incoming cases decreased significantly (-38%), while the number of resolved cases remained almost the same. As a consequence, the number of pending cases at the end of the year decreased as well (-45%). This is also in relation to enforcement cases based on an authentic document (Iv) cases. Public enforcement officers deal with new such cases, so the number of incoming cases decreased. On the other hand, there is still lot of these cases before courts (backlog cases), and the courts still have to resolve these cases (in majority cases by the conclusion of the court to transfer the case to public enforcement officer), and that is the explanation why the number of resolved cases remained the same and why the number of incoming cases significantly decreased.

From 2019 to 2020 the number of “administrative law incoming cases” increased by 47%, and the number of cases older than 2 years increased by 63%. In Serbia there is one Administrative Court (with seat in Belgrade, and three departments in Kragujevac, Novi Sad and Niš). It has broad competences and for several years number of incoming cases has been continuously increasing. In certain type of cases the Administrative Court has to decide urgently, like in electoral cases. Also, the work of this court was influenced by the circumstances caused by the virus and the fact that during 2020 parliamentary and local elections were held in Serbia and there were many electoral disputes which needed to be decided in short deadlines.

As regards “other cases”, from 2019 to 2020, there was a decrease in the number of incoming (-39%), resolved (- 39%), and pending cases (-46%). These cases relate to different kinds of citizens’ requests for verification of signatures, or requests for different certificates and probably circumstances caused by Covid, contributed to decrease of such requests of citizens.

(2019): The answer to question 35. 1. includes litigious cases in higher courts (P, P1, P2, P3, P4, P-uz and R), basic courts (P, P1, P2, P1-uz, Prr and Prr1), commercial courts (P, P2). For commercial courts, bankruptcy cases (St) as well as reorganization in bankruptcy cases (Reo) which were previous to 2016-2018 cycle displayed in 2.3. are included in 2.1, since a judge decides in these cases. Newly added cases in this row, from 2016-2018 cycle are those pursuant to the Law on Protection of Whistle-blowers (applicable from 04.06.2015) and litigious proceedings pursuant to lawsuits for compensation of pecuniary and non-pecuniary damage due to infringement of the right to trial within a reasonable time from higher courts (P-uz, Ppr-uz, Prr1), basic courts (P1-uz, Prr, Prr1) and misdemeanour courts (Pr-uz).

A major change in the number of other non-litigious cases and, consequently, the total number of cases, is a result of the implementation of the Law on Enforcement and Security from 1 July 2016 and the systemic measures defined in the special program for reduction of enforcement case backlog. Serbia has enabled a comprehensive disposition of enforcement case backlog. The Supreme Court of Cassation, the Ministry of Justice and the High Court Council have jointly drafted and adopted the Instructions for the implementation of the Law on Enforcement and Security.

Kosovo*

(2021): Regarding the discrepancies, it is worth explaining that in 2021 in courts proceeded the switching from manual to CMIS. The increase in civil cases was due to a large number of new cases that resulted from the jubilee wages and meals from collective agreements signed by the government with unions. The number of administrative cases increased due to the resuming of the work after Covid so more contests emerged and so the number of incoming cases increased, consequently the resolved cases too.

(2020): Regarding the discrepancy between civil solved cases and the number of incoming cases, is mainly due to the pandemic situation. For around three months (March to June), Courts have been dealing only with very emergency cases. After June, Courts have continued to work with limited capacities, for the rest of the year. Concerning administrative cases, the increase of pending cases is attributed to their nature of "non-emergent" cases. Since courts have been dealing only with emergent cases and have worked with minimal capacities, most of the administrative cases have remained unsolved.

Albania

(2022): Other Criminal cases: a) criminal administrative cases (exe: probation requests, security measures etc) b) cases related to anti-mafia law.

The number of resolved cases during 2022 is believed to have been caused by the decrease of the number of judges in the second instance due to different factors such as resignations, vetting process, promotions. In addition, the unequal distribution of cases between courts is another factor contributing to the problem.

(2021): Criminal requirements of the preliminary investigation phase; Criminal cases of the preliminary hearing; Criminal requirements of the execution phase; Security measures; parole; Extradition

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the conversion of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc.), statistics on court cases related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal and misdemeanour proceedings; statistics on court cases related to the various auxiliary matters decided in relation to the misdemeanour proceedings.

Severe offences: a criminal offense is an unlawful act which violates or jeopardizes the protected values and which is, because of the danger it represents, defined by law as a criminal offense and for which a punishment is prescribed. Criminal sanctions are: prison punishments, suspended sentence, security measures and educational measures. Examples of serious offenses are: criminal acts against state, homicide, organized crime, criminal acts against official duty (i.e. corruption cases), theft and other crimes against property, rape and other crimes against sexual integrity, traffic accidents where a person suffered grievous bodily injury or a significant damage and other crimes against public transportation etc.

Minor offence cases: minor offences are violations of public order or of regulations on economic and financial operations defined as such by laws or other regulations, whose characteristics are described and for which sanctions are prescribed. The following sanctions may be imposed upon a person found responsible for commission of a minor offence: fine; suspended sentence; reprimand; and protective measures. The following measures may be imposed as a consequence of being found responsible for commission of a minor offence: confiscation of gains; obligation to compensate damages; penalty points; and deprivation of liberty to compel payment of a fine. Examples of minor offences: traffic offences, violations of public order, begging etc.

(2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal law cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases rose by 8% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases registered in 2019 and 2018. Statistics on first-instance criminal cases in 2022 indicate that the situation in the courts is, basically, consistent with the parameters from 2021.

Unlike previous years, the number of incoming cases decreased in 2022. Consequently, the number of pending cases in the first instance decreased at the end of 2022. The reduction in the influx of cases was recorded, predominantly, in the largest courts. This is not a consequence of legislative changes. It remains to be seen whether such indicators will continue to be achieved in the coming period.

Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanour proceedings and for the enforcement of pronounced penalties.

(2021): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal law cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases rose by 8% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases registered in 2019 and 2018.

In addition, as in 2019 and 2020, the number of incoming first instance misdemeanour cases continued a clear upward trend in the reference year. Predominantly, increase of the new cases remains to be the result of a more consistent approach of the law enforcement institutions concerning traffic offences and some offences against public order. In addition, the number of resolved first instance cases in 2021 was bigger in comparison to 2020, which was marked by the Covid-19 measures restricting the work in prosecutors' offices and courts. However, the courts failed to reach the 100% clearance rate in the reference year. Consequently, the number of pending misdemeanour cases continued to grow in 2021 as in the previous years. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal cases over recent years, that trend improved in 2020 due to the decrease of activity of public prosecutors and judges in the context of measures implemented against the epidemic of Covid-19. However, in contrast to 2019, the number of resolved first instance criminal cases plunged in 2020, due to Covid-19 measures restricting the work in prosecutors' offices and courts. Therefore, the number of pending severe criminal cases was bigger at the end of the reporting year. As in 2019, the number of incoming first instance misdemeanour cases continued to raise in 2020. Predominantly, increase of the new cases remains to be the result of a more consistent approach of the law enforcement institutions concerning traffic offences and some offences against public order. The number of resolved first instance cases in 2020 was lesser compared to 2019 because of Covid-19 measures restricting the work in courts. Consequently, the number of pending misdemeanour cases continued to grow in 2020 as in the previous year. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

(2019): Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanor proceedings and for the enforcement of pronounced penalties.

Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). Also, the historical statistics since 2014 show the decrease of the severe criminal cases. Due to the increase of the incoming misdemeanor and other cases in 2019 the courts did not achieve 100% clearance rate causing the increase of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019. The increase of the incoming cases was mostly the result of a more strict approach of the law enforcement institutions with regards to the punishing traffic offences. Also, it is important to note that although the increase of pending misdemeanor cases between 2018 and 2019 is high in relative terms, it is not as significant in absolute numbers.

Montenegro

(2022): Higher inflow (number of received cases by misdemeanour courts due to the fact in practice that the subject with jurisdiction of issuing misdemeanour orders (fines) were using the legal possibility to initiate misdemeanour proceedings before the courts instead. That led to higher inflow of cases which reflected to the number of unresolved cases. This was mainly the issue related to the slowdown of public procurance system (major cyber attacks etc.) in the refence year and a lack of relevant forms for issuing misdemeanour orders (fines).

North Macedonia

(2022): Category 2. Please, see also the comment for Q 35. High number of judge retirements in 2022 caused by new compulsory age of retirement probably is the reason for higher number of unsolved cases. Also, in 2023 we are expecting more retirements of judges due to this reason.

(2021): In 2020 when the President of the Republic of North Macedonia had adopted a decision for the existence of State of Emergency because of COVID 19 pandemic, the Government of North Macedonia adopted a decree-law that allowed the deadlines for cases before the courts to be stopped. Actually, all the deadlines were stopped for 3 months in 2020 and that is the reason why there is a larger number of increased cases before the courts in 2021.

Serbia

(General Comment): The omission was made in 2019 when the number finalized cases before Misdemeanor Courts were not recorded in the proper manner. Therefore, "The total number of criminal cases" presents a sum of all criminal cases (in the first instance) before basic and higher courts (38.1) as well as misdemeanour cases and commercial offenses in the first instance- from the jurisdiction of commercial courts as penal offenses (38.2). The category under 38.1 includes all criminal cases because the Criminal Code of the Republic of Serbia does not make the distinction between crimes – i.e. “severe/minor offences” (their qualifications may also be changed until enacting of the decision and determining the sentence).

3. Other criminal cases: Incoming and outgoing cases of international legal cooperation, letters rogatory in criminal matters; Educational (supervision) orders; educational measures and security measures (educational orders and execution of educational orders and security measures); Execution of imprisonment in the Department for Organized Crime and the Department for War Crimes; Records on juvenile perpetrators of criminal offenses who were sentenced to an educational measure, educational order, security measure, accommodation in a correctional facility, imprisonment (criminal records for juveniles are kept by the court); Requests for amnesty (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department); Register of decisions of pre-trial judges regarding the proposals of the prosecutor's office for ordering detention or other measures (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, cyber crime, anti-corruption department); Register of pre-trial judges for various actions during the prosecutorial investigation (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, high-tech crime, anti-corruption department); Requests for recognition of a foreign court decision, requests for extradition (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department); Requests for parole (Regular Criminal Department, Organized Crime Department, War Crimes Department, Juvenile Department, Anti-Corruption Department); Domestic letters rogatory in criminal cases; Requests for temporary confiscation of property (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, anti-corruption department); Requests for permanent confiscation of property (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department); Certificates - whether or not a natural or legal person is being prosecuted; Proposals of the prosecution and decisions of the pre-trial judge in relation to special measures for producing evidence; Register in which the proposals of the competent prosecutor's office for the extension of the emergency measure prescribed by the Law on Prevention of Domestic Violence are introduced; cases for which legal assistance is sought from another misdemeanour court are cases in which misdemeanour proceedings are conducted against juveniles; Execution according to the decisions of the misdemeanour court, according to the decisions of the administrative bodies, and the execution of the misdemeanour order.

(2022): All answers were provided by the competent institution (Supreme Court of Cassation)

(2021): The transition to a new case management system is the cause of uneven numbers. We will provide a more detailed explanation as soon as possible.

"Higher courts:

- International letters rogatory - incoming and outgoing in criminal matters, international letters rogatory in criminal matters for the provision of general types of international legal assistance
- Educational (supervision) orders, educational measures and security measures (educational orders and execution of educational orders and security measures)

- Register of Criminal Extrajudicial Chambers (deciding on appeals in the first instance against pre-trial judge's decisions, confirmation of indictments, deciding on motions of parties and acting judges, decisions on appeals against prosecution decisions on costs, and other in the regular criminal department, Department for organized crime, the Department for War Crimes, the Department for Juveniles, the Department for the Suppression of Corruption)
- Records on juvenile perpetrators of criminal offenses who were sentenced to an educational measure, educational order, security measure, accommodation in a correctional facility, imprisonment (criminal records for juveniles are kept by the court)
- Requests for amnesty (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department)
- Register of decisions of pre-trial judges regarding the proposals of the prosecutor's office for ordering detention or other measures (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, cyber crime, anti-corruption department) -Register of pre-trial judges for various actions during the prosecutorial investigation (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, high-tech crime, anti-corruption department)
- The register regarding criminal cases, but not to specific court cases, forwarded to the competent court or prosecutor's office, or answers, for instance to the Ministry of Interior if they need some data from criminal registers regarding persons against whom proceedings were or are being conducted, etc. (regular criminal department, Department for Organized Crime, Department for War Crimes and Department for Juveniles, Department for Suppression of Corruption)
- Requests for recognition of a foreign court decision, requests for extradition (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department)
- Requests for parole (Regular Criminal Department, Organized Crime Department, War Crimes Department, Juvenile Department, Anti-Corruption Department)
- Register of the judge for execution of criminal sanctions: complaint, appeal, request for judicial protection, report of the judge for execution of criminal sanctions, notification, request, etc. submitted by convict, detainee, institute for execution of criminal sanctions, attorney and others.
- Requests for temporary confiscation of property (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department, anti-corruption department)
- Requests for permanent confiscation of property (regular criminal department, organized crime department, war crimes department)
- Incoming international letters rogatory in criminal matters (through the competent authorities or directly, in the regular criminal department, the Department for Organized Crime, the Department for War Crimes, the Department for the Suppression of Corruption)

- Domestic letters rogatory in criminal cases
- Register of the Witness Assistance and Support Service: the requests of the judge with the list of witnesses etc. (Regular Criminal Department, Organized Crime Department, War Crimes Department)
- External international letters rogatory in criminal cases sent directly to the competent court or other authority of a foreign state
- Register in which the agreements concluded between the competent prosecutor's office and the accused are entered
- Certificates - whether or not a natural or legal person is being prosecuted
- Proposals of the prosecution and decisions of the pre-trial judge in relation to special measures for producing evidence

Basic courts:

- Outgoing and incoming international letters rogatory, execution of criminal sentences
- Register of Criminal Extrajudicial Chambers, register of pre-trial judges for various actions during the investigation, different cases during investigation, requests for permanent or temporary confiscation of property, requests for parole, Register of the Witness Assistance and Support Service, register in which the agreements concluded between the competent prosecutor's office and the accused namely the convicted person, Certificates - whether or not a natural or legal person is being prosecuted, decisions of the pre-trial judge in relation presence of the accused in order to provide due course of the criminal proceedings, register of the pre-trial judge on duty - Register in which the proposals of the competent prosecutor's office for the extension of the emergency measure prescribed by the Law on Prevention of Domestic Violence are introduced (Article 19 of the said Law)

Misdemeanor courts:

- Cases for which legal assistance is sought from another misdemeanour court are cases in which misdemeanour proceedings are conducted against juveniles.
- Execution according to the decisions of the misdemeanour court, according to the decisions of the administrative bodies, and the execution of the misdemeanour order.

(2019): The field 38.1 encompasses registries of high courts: (K, KIM, KM, K1, KI, Ki-Po1, Ki-Po2, KiPo3, K-Po1, K-Po2, Kpo3,Kpo4, SPK, SPK Po1, SPK Po2), Basic courts: (K, K1, Ki, Spk). The category under 38.1 includes all criminal cases because the Criminal Code of the Republic of Serbia does not make the distinction between crimes – i.e. “severe/minor offences” (their qualifications may also be changed until enacting of the decision and determining the sentence). Therefore, all first instance criminal cases of basic and higher courts are included (in higher courts - organized crime, war crimes, and high-tech crimes, according to urgency, etc.); investigations and investigative actions before basic and higher courts; preparatory proceedings and proceedings against minors; confession of criminal offenses and criminal cases without a main hearing.

Field 38. 2 encompasses the following cases: Commercial courts: Pk, Pki, Pkr, Misdemeanor courts: PR, PRM. In Commercial Courts, these cases relate to initiation of proceedings due to commercial offenses against natural and legal persons; preliminary procedure for commercial offenses; cases before misdemeanor courts: misdemeanors and misdemeanors perpetrated by minors.

Field 38. 3 encompasses the following cases: Enforcement and complaints as regards enforcement decisions misdemeanor cases; cases related to criminal and misdemeanor proceedings, handled by judges in courts but related to "cases as such" - ex. conditional release, pardons, cases of extradition of defendants and transfer of convicted persons, agreement on the testimony of a defendant and convicted person, legal aid cases between domestic courts in criminal matters, for assistance and support to victims and witnesses, enforcement of criminal sanctions up to one year, enforcement of criminal sanctions, enforcement of alternative sanctions, outgoing and incoming letters rogatory in the criminal matter.

The increase of the number of cases is primarily a result of the new category "other cases", which was previously (until 2018-2020 CEPEJ Cycle) mentioned only in the comments section. Additionally, new cases have been introduced in this cycle: K-Po4 I SPKPo 4, I SP k Po 3.

(2021): The discrepancy in misdemeanour cases is mostly because in the data of 2020, the numbers were not fully reflecting the reality and the numbers of pending cases in the previous year and the number of resolved cases weren't included. Therefore, this year we have been able to provide the full data for those categories and it indicated the discrepancies from the last year.

(2020): The discrepancy in misdemeanor cases is because of the switch to Case management system(CMIS). The pending cases at the end of 2019 have not been included in the CMIS. After the communication with Judicial Council, we have been informed that all the pending cases from 2019 have been solved, but are not included in the CMIS. To be more specific, from 26070 pending cases (31st Dec 2019) 22729 have been not included in the CMIS. This is why the number of resolved cases is significantly lower than the number of incoming cases. As for the decrease in the number of incoming cases, it is mainly a result of the full lockdown which was imposed from mid- March to June. Restrictive measures, including restriction in the free movement have remained in place during all the year.

Albania

(2022): The decrease in the number of resolved cases during 2022 is believed to have been caused by the decrease of the number of judges in the second instance due to different factors such as resignations, vetting process, promotions. In addition, the unequal distribution of cases between courts is another factor contributing to the problem.

As regards administrative cases, during 2022 the Administrative Appeal Court has functioned with 43% of judges.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions; therefore, the number of appeals initiating the second instance court cases in 2020 was much lower, compared to the previous years. In 2021, however, the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases was increased by 9% compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is by far smaller than the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases registered in 2019 and 2018. This trend continued in 2022. However, one of the second-instance courts received a large number of simple cases, which were resolved during the same year, which resulted in an increase in the total number of cases received compared to 2021. This was a one-time increase in the influx of cases, related specifically to this court's territorial jurisdiction. Furthermore, the courts with the biggest caseload in the country have managed to surpass the 100% clearance rate for many consecutive years, including the reference year; consequently, the number of pending second instance civil commercial litigious cases was lesser at the end of 2022. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. When it comes to administrative court cases, the number of pending cases has been further reduced in 2022, confirming indicators from 2021.

No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. The courts registered the decreased numbers of incoming and resolved administrative cases in 2021 in contrast to the previous year. The workload shrank predominantly in one of the courts in the reference year; which received almost no complaints against the decisions of the election commission unlike in 2020.

In general, the courts maintained the trend from 2020 and previous years to make a significant reduction of the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

(2020): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. The courts registered the increased numbers of incoming and resolved administrative cases in 2020 in contrast to the previous year; the workload increased particularly in one of the courts, which had to decide urgently on the huge number of the complaints against the election commission's decisions in relation to the 2020 local elections. The courts maintained the trend from 2019 to make a significant reduction of the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

(2019): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of civil commercial litigious cases over recent years, including 2019; also, the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019 can be explained by the fact that the courts have achieved or surpassed the 100% clearance rate for commercial and civil litigious cases throughout the same period. The decrease of administrative cases was registered in 2019 as in the previous year; in such conditions the backlog of cases was reduced in 2019. The above-mentioned reduction in the number of new cases is not caused by the legislative amendments. When it comes to the statistics on pending civil and commercial litigious and administrative cases older than 2 years, it is important to note the following circumstances: The courts reduced significantly the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years in 2019 compared to 2018 due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

(2022): Category 1 - In 2022 there was no reason for larger number of income cases as it was in 2021 (see explanation in previous cycle).

(2021): In 2020 when the President of the Republic of North Macedonia had adopted a decision for the existence of State of Emergency because of COVID 19 pandemic, the Government of North Macedonia adopted a decree-law that allowed the deadlines for cases before the courts to be stopped. Actually, all the deadlines were stopped for 3 months in 2020 and that is the reason why there is a larger number of increased cases before the courts in 2021.

Serbia

(General Comment): Courts deciding in the second instance (on appeal) in the "non-criminal" cases, as courts of general jurisdiction are: higher: upon the decisions in civil disputes and the judgment in small claims and the non-contentious proceedings, and appellate courts: upon the decisions of higher courts and judgements of the basic courts in civil disputes unless deciding on appeals is not under the competence of higher court.

The court of special jurisdiction, which decides in the second instance (on appeal) in the "non-criminal" cases is the Commercial Appellate Court (appeals on decisions of commercial courts and other bodies). Excluded from the total number of cases in response to this question are cases on appeals in cases of commercial offences. No. 3 - There is no second instance in administrative disputes.

The answer to question 1. includes cases before Appellate Courts in which decisions are made on appeals against decisions of first instance courts in civil disputes, in particular in labor, family, media, and copyright disputes, in connection with whistleblowing;

Before higher courts: litigious proceedings involving appeals (small appellations);

Before the Commercial Court of Appeal: second instance commercial proceedings involving appeals, conflict and delegation of jurisdiction between commercial courts;

Concerning the category "other", cases in the proceedings for protection of right to a trial within a reasonable time have been transferred to 2.3.

(2022): 1. The lower number of incoming cases in second instance in 2022 is primarily explained by decrease of incoming civil and commercial cases in basic and commercial courts. During 2019, 2020 and 2021 there was a large number of specific type of cases related to the costs of bank loans. After supplementing the legal position of the Supreme Court of Cassation from September 16, 2021, number of these cases gradually decreases. However, due to the mentioned repetitive cases (litigation for reimbursement of costs bank loans), second instance courts were unable to handle such a large influx from the previous year (regardless of the fact that the inflow in 2022 was lower), so the number cases increased.

(2021): Please note that all provided data do not cover Serbian Autonomy province of Kosovo and Metohija. The discrepancy from the previous year in the number on pending "civil and commercial litigious cases" older than two years is a result of the burden higher courts (acting as second instance courts), and in particular the Higher court in Belgrade.

With regard to this question for more insight please see the analysis provided within the Annual Report on Work of Courts for 2021:

2017. 2018. 2019. 2020. 2021.

* Figures for basic courts include Registers I, Iv while commercial courts include all enforcements

The number of pending cases – except enforcement – increased when compared to 2017, as a result of the increased number of cases received in the last five years (more than two and half million cases above the expected inflow) that the judicial system couldn't absorb completely. Since there was no timely systemic reaction to the enormously increased number of incoming cases, while at the same time, the number of court staff decreased and new employment was banned, or was limited, courts did not manage to stop the trend of increase of the number of pending cases, since 2018 (1.024.521). In 2019, the number of pending cases slightly increased, however, in 2020 there was a significant increase of pending cases in trial matters due to extraordinary circumstances and implementation of measures for protection of population from the pandemic, which is why the courts in the Republic worked with significantly reduced capacities.

The trend of increasing the number of pending cases continued in 2021, caused by the additional burden on the court system with so far the largest inflow of cases, which was mostly reflected in the number of pending cases in basic and misdemeanour courts.

The ratio of incoming, disposed and pending cases at the end of 2021 comparing to the previous reporting periods, shows a decreased number of pending cases (1,498,237) and increase of the number of disposed cases (2,415,672) resulting from the increased engagement of judges and judicial staff, although in circumstances of the enormous increase of inflow (2,402,486).

The ratio of incoming, disposed and pending cases in the period from 2017 to 2021 shows a continuously decreasing number of pending cases, a slight decrease in the number of disposed cases in 2020, and a sharp increase in 2021, by 401,843 more cases than in the previous year, as well as a variation in the number of incoming cases, with the largest escalation recorded in 2021, by 534,575 more cases compared to the previous year.

The increase in the number of incoming and disposed cases indicates excessive workload of judges and court staff, despite the systematic measures taken to reduce the number of backlog cases in courts.

(2020): The discrepancy from the previous year in the number on pending "civil and commercial litigious cases" older than two years is a result of the burden higher courts (acting as second instance courts), and in particular the Higher court in Belgrade.

(2019): Other cases include objections to provisional measures cases related to the media. Regarding discrepancies, repetitive cases in the appeal procedure continued to burden the appellate courts both in 2018 as well as in 2019, but the general appellate courts managed to clear these cases in 2018 and decrease the number of pending cases transferred to 2019, as well as to continue with this trend in 2019. Therefore, even though the number of incoming civil (and commercial) litigious cases increased in 2019, the number of resolved cases increased even more drastically (from 130 412 to 148 012 cases) and a particular improvement (decrease) is especially evident in the number of pending cases older than 2 years (a decrease from 3 374 to 1 389 cases). With regard to "non-litigious cases", and more particularly "other non-litigious cases", it should be pointed out that amendments to the Law on the Court Organization and the new Law on Protection of the Right to a Trial within a Reasonable Time have shifted responsibility for protection of this right from the Constitutional Court to the courts of general and special jurisdiction. This has led to the filing of a large number of motions to that effect with all Serbian courts, including objections requesting acceleration of proceedings and claims for compensation for both tangible and intangible damage. The upward trend in new cases, first seen in 2015, continued into 2016, with a total of 35.815 such cases heard by all Serbian courts. Concerning the category "other", cases in the proceedings for protection of right to a trial within a reasonable time have been transferred to 2.3

(2021): There is a lack of data for several categories because the Judicial Council has not been able to register all the data in the CMIS for the second instance. As for the discrepancies between pending cases, incoming and resolved cases, stands the same explanation as for the Q35 regarding the first instance. To be specific, the administrative cases increased in the first instance and they proceeded to the second instance via appeals.

(2020): We do not have the data on pending cases for the second instance this year, because the Judicial Council has not been able to register all the data in the CMIS for the second instances. We might have the data during the coming months, but we do not have a definite answer when these data will be available. As for the discrepancies between pending cases, incoming and resolved cases, stands the same explanation as for the Q35.

(General Comment): Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the conversion of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc.), statistics on court cases related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal and misdemeanour proceedings; statistics on court cases related to the various auxiliary matters decided in relation to the misdemeanour proceedings.

Severe offences: a criminal offense is an unlawful act which violates or jeopardizes the protected values and which is, because of the danger it represents, defined by law as a criminal offense and for which a punishment is prescribed. Criminal sanctions are: prison punishments, suspended sentence, security measures and educational measures.

Examples of serious offenses are: criminal acts against state, homicide, organized crime, criminal acts against official duty (i.e. corruption cases), theft and other crimes against property, rape and other crimes against sexual integrity, traffic accidents where a person suffered grievous bodily injury or a significant damage and other crimes against public transportation etc.

Minor offence cases: minor offences are violations of public order or of regulations on economic and financial operations defined as such by laws or other regulations, whose characteristics are described and for which sanctions are prescribed. The following sanctions may be imposed upon a person found responsible for commission of a minor offence: fine; suspended sentence; reprimand; and protective measures. The following measures may be imposed as a consequence of being found responsible for commission of a minor offence: confiscation of gains; obligation to compensate damages; penalty points; and deprivation of liberty to compel payment of a fine. Examples of minor offences are: traffic offences, violations of public order, begging etc.

(2022): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. The second instance courts have first instance jurisdiction for criminal offences for which more than 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed, they also have second instance jurisdiction to decide on appeals against the decisions brought by the first instance courts for criminal offences for which up to 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed. The statistics of second instance courts on criminal law cases (Q 40, i.e. incoming, resolved, pending, pending older than two years) include both first and second instance cases within the jurisdiction of the second instance courts. These statistics do not include data on severe criminal cases managed by the three courts that are included in the category of supreme courts; their caseload in terms of criminal law consists of the first (i.e. one of the courts in this category has both first and second instance criminal jurisdiction), second and third instance severe criminal cases. There has been a significant decrease of the first instance severe criminal cases over recent years to the second instance courts of the aforementioned category. The trend advanced in 2020 due to the decrease of activity of public prosecutors and judges in the context of measures implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus. In addition, in 2020 the number of incoming second instance criminal cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019 and 2018. The number of the first instance severe criminal cases remained stable in 2021 and 2022.

(2021): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019 and 2018. The number of the first instance severe criminal cases remained stable in 2021.

As for the number of incoming severe criminal law cases at second instance courts, it was increased in 2021 compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is smaller significantly than the number of incoming severe instance criminal law cases registered at second instance courts in 2019 and 2018.

The second instance courts deal only with the appeal cases within their jurisdiction for misdemeanour cases. Even though the number of pending cases dropped slightly in 2021, the decrease is not as significant in absolute numbers.

When it comes to the statistics on pending severe criminal cases and other cases older than 2 years, the number of those cases increased slightly in 2021 mostly due to the measures which continued to be implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus in the reference year (e.g. number of persons in the court rooms was restricted). However, certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). Furthermore, many of the pending cases that are classified as other cases older than 2 years will become severe criminal cases once the procedural obstacles in those cases are removed for the commencement of the trial.

(2020): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019. Although the second instance courts resolved smaller number of severe criminal cases in 2020 compared to the previous year, they were able to exceed the 100% clearance rate during the reporting year. Accordingly, the number of pending first and second instance severe criminal cases declined significantly in the reporting period.

The second instance courts deal only with the appeal cases within their jurisdiction for misdemeanour cases. Even though the number of pending cases continued to rise considerably in relative terms in 2020, the increase is not as significant in absolute numbers.

When it comes to the statistics on pending severe criminal cases and other cases older than 2 years, the number of those cases increased slightly in 2020 mostly due to the measures implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus. Note regarding 2019 data: During the analysis of data for 2020, a technical error was discovered in the Business Intelligence System. In 2019, the error caused that certain number of incoming and pending criminal cases could not be identified as severe criminal cases; instead, the Business Intelligence System included incorrectly those cases in the other cases category. The correct data for 2019 have been prepared in order to replace the previously included data for that year.

(2019): Second instance courts have dual subject matter in criminal matters. Second instance courts have first instance jurisdiction for criminal offences for which more than 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed, they also have second instance jurisdiction to decide on appeals against the decisions brought by the first instance courts for criminal offences for which up to 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed. There has been a significant decrease in the influx of severe criminal cases over recent years, including 2019; also, the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019 can be explained by the fact that the courts have achieved or surpassed the 100% clearance rate for severe criminal cases in the same period. The number of misdemeanor cases and other cases rose considerably in relative terms between 2018 and 2019, the increase is not as significant in absolute numbers.

When it comes to the statistics on pending severe criminal cases and other cases older than 2 years, it is important to note the following circumstances: The courts reduced significantly the number of pending cases older than 2 years in 2019 compared to 2018 due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable).

Actually, all the deadlines were stopped for 3 months in 2020 and that is the reason why there is a larger number of increased cases before the courts in 2021.

(2022): All answers were provided by the competent authority

(2021): Please note that all provided data do not cover Serbian Autonomy province of Kosovo and Metohija. Register of appeal cases with regard to confiscation of property (including cases of organized crime), cases regarding requests for release on parole, different criminal cases regarding minors, cases regarding extradition and transfer of convicted persons in ordinary criminal cases, (also in cases of organized crime and war crimes), extension of detention in cases of cyber crime, different decision of the extrajudicial chamber, cases regarding transfer of cases to other courts.

(2019): The answer to field 1 includes the following categories: Before courts of appeal: criminal proceedings involving appeals on first instance and second instance verdicts and decisions (separated registers in second instance by special departments); criminal proceedings against minors involving appeals; Before higher courts: criminal proceedings involving appeals (small appeal).

2 includes the following categories: for the Commercial Court of Appeal (Pkž), and the Misdemeanor Court of Appeal (PRŽ, PRŽM, PRŽI, PRŽU). These are the second instance proceedings before the Commercial and the Misdemeanor Court of Appeal regarding cases of commercial and misdemeanor courts as defined in question 94.2.

Column "Pending cases older than 2 years from the date the case came to the second instance court" is marked as NA since the requested data is not in gathered (Criminal Procedure Code methodology differs).

In relation to the previous reporting period, the following changes have been made: Field 1 also shows new categories of cases in courts of appeal (ex. KŽ2-Po3-Spk).

Q94.2: in 2014, 9,879 additional cases were handled by the Misdemeanor Appellate Court in addition to ordinary work, due to transfer of jurisdiction on appeals to decisions of administrative bodies, from 1 March 2014. By 2016, these cases have been absorbed and handled by the system, but a backlog remains. Besides, unlike the previous cycle, "other cases" which relate to criminal (94.1)/misdemeanour (94.2) cases and which are not "cases per se" even if a judge is intervening, have not been taken into account (5 pending cases, 1,371 incoming cases, 1,366 resolved, 10 pending at the end of the year (ex. related to decisions on detaining accused, competence issues, etc.)).

40.1 Severe criminal cases: 1) appellate court cases (Kž, Kž1, Kžm1, Kž1 Po1 Kž1 Po2, Kž1 Po3, Kž1 VP, Kž2, Kž2 Po1, Kž2 Po2, Kž2 Po3, Kž2 Vp, Kžm2, Kž3, Kž3 Po2, Kžm, Kž3 Po1, Kž1-Spk, Kž2-Spk, Kž1-Po1-Spk, Kž2-Po1-Spk, Kž2-Po3-Spk) 2) higher court cases (Kž, Kž1, Kž2)

40.2 Misdemeanour and / or minor criminal cases: 1) Commercial appellate court (Pkž), 2) Misdemeanour Appellate court (_PRŽ, PRŽM, PRŽI, PRŽU)

40.3 Other cases – 1) appellate court cases (Krm, Kr, Kr Po1, Kr Po2, Kr Po3, Kr Vp, Kž-uo, Kž-Poi, Kžm-r, Kž-r, Kž-Kre, Kžr-As, Kžmr-As, Kž-Toi, Kž-Po2-uo, Kž1-r-Po1, Kž-Po1-Poi, Kž-Po1-Toi, Kž-Po1-uo, Kž-Po2-Kre, Kž-Po1-Kre, Kž-r-Po3, Kžm-Uo) 2) higher court cases (Kv SIK, Npž); 2) Misdemeanour Appellate court (PSD)

In relation to the 2016-2018 reporting period, the following changes have been made: "Other cases" shows the appeals of the higher and appellate courts against the "other criminal cases" enumerated in Q 38, as well as the complaints about the extension of the domestic violence measure.

Kosovo*

(2021): The discrepancy in misdemeanour cases is mostly because in the data of 2020, the numbers were not fully reflecting the reality and the numbers of pending cases in the previous year and the number of resolved cases weren't included. Therefore, this year we have been able to provide the full data for those categories and it indicated the discrepancies from the last year. Same comments as for the first instance.

(2020): The decrease in numbers, as explained in Q35, is because of the national lockdown and other restrictive measures applied throughout the 2020.

Question 041

Albania

(2022): In the present condition of the CMS system, we cannot calculate the exact average length of proceedings. We use the disposition time as a proxy.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Description of calculation method: The average length of court procedure is calculated as the average of time needed to resolve a case for cases resolved during the reporting year. The average length of court procedure for resolving the case is calculated separately for different phases of the court procedure - from the day of initiating the phase of the court procedure to its completion. The data are retrieved from the case management system.

Average total length of the total procedure:

The average length of the total procedure is calculated as the average of time needed to resolve a case for all cases resolved in the different phases of court procedure during the year. (e. g. The first instance employment dismissal case is resolved in 100 days from its lodging with the first instance court, second instance employment dismissal case is resolved in 120 days from its lodging with the second instance court, and third instance employment dismissal case was resolved in 120 days. The average length of the total procedure employment dismissal cases is calculated as follows: $100+120+120/3=113,3$ days.)

(2022): Generally, the relevant indicators regarding civil and commercial litigious cases for the reference year are consistent with the statistical information for such cases in 2021. It is important to note that the backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several first instance courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The average duration of second-instance litigation and economic resolved cases decreased significantly due to the increase in the number of resolved cases in the largest courts of second instance in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

As in previous years, as far as other types of court cases are concerned under the Question 41 (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence), it is important to put these differences into the following context. Primarily, the variations are registered within a relatively small number of cases, so the variations could be influenced significantly by the length of proceedings and other circumstances of individual cases (e.g. robberies and intentional homicides) or the registered variations are high percentage-wise but they are not significant in absolute terms (e.g. litigious divorce cases, employment dismissal cases, insolvency cases). When it comes to the Bribery cases and Trading in influence cases, it is important to note that the prosecutors' offices and the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina process very often the corruption cases as the cases of the Abuse of Office (i.e. An official or responsible person who, by taking advantage of his office or official authority and by exceeding the limits of his official authority or by failing to perform his official duty, acquires a benefit to himself or to another person or causes damage to another person or seriously violates the rights of another, shall be punished by imprisonment). The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

Finally, it appears that the increase in the length of proceedings in the first instance court cases resolved in 2021 originated from the smaller number of disposed cases in 2020, following the Covid- 19 restrictions regarding the functioning of the courts.

(2020): Civil and commercial litigious cases:

Overall, in relation to the civil and commercial litigious cases, the relevant trends and indicators for 2020 are corresponding to the results the courts achieved in 2019.

When it comes to statistics on civil and commercial litigious pending cases older than 3 years, it is important to note that the majority of those cases are litigious small claims cases, pending before the first instance courts, related to the unpaid utility bills. This backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Other cases (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence):

There is no particular explanation of the variations for other cases between 2019 and 2020. It is important to put these differences into the following contexts; the variations are registered within a relatively small number of cases, so the variations could be influenced significantly by the facts and circumstances of individual cases (e.g. robberies and intentional homicides) or the registered variations are high percentage-wise but they are not significant in absolute terms (e.g. litigious divorce cases, employment dismissal cases, insolvency cases). Furthermore, in 2020, Covid- 19 restrictions regarding the functioning of the courts affected differently their work on individual cases and case types. When it comes to the Bribery cases and Trading in influence cases, it is important to note that the prosecutors' offices and the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina process very often the corruption cases as the cases of the Abuse of Office (i.e. An official or responsible person who, by taking advantage of his office or official authority and by exceeding the limits of his official authority or by failing to perform his official duty, acquires a benefit to himself or to another person or causes damage to another person or seriously violates the rights of another, shall be punished by imprisonment). The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

(2019): Civil and commercial litigious cases:

The average length in 2nd instance resolved civil and commercial litigious cases increased in 2019, compared to 2018, because the second instance courts resolved significant number of old cases, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans. Also, the number of resolved old civil and commercial cases increased in some of the biggest second instance courts through temporary assignment of judges from other second instance courts with a smaller caseload. The average length in 3rd instance resolved civil and commercial cases was reduced in 2019, compared to 2018, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

When it comes to statistics on civil and commercial litigious pending cases older than 3 years, it is important to note that the majority of those cases are litigious small claims cases, pending before 1st instance courts, related to the unpaid utility bills. This backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Montenegro (2021): The duration of proceedings related to Intentional homicide cases has been increased due to resolved 2018 cases.

The number of appeals filed in Litigious divorce cases Robbery cases has also decreased, and the number of appeals related to Employment dismissal cases has increased.

(2020): Clarification of discrepancies:

Employment dismissal cases in column % of decisions subject to appeal

In reference year there was a lower number of cases that went on appeal; Robbery cases in column % of decisions subject to appeal In the reference year, more cases went on appeal

In the column % of cases pending for more than 3 years for all instances in the row concerning Civil and commercial litigious cases, in the last reporting period the relationship with Unresolved cases was used, and this year realistic data concerning the relationship between Unresolved cases over 3 years of age were set in relation.

There are some variations between data of length of proceedings in 2019 and in 2020 which have not been explained (notably decrease of length of proceedings for litigious divorce cases and employment dismissal cases in first instance ; increase of length of proceedings for insolvency cases in first instance ; increase of length of proceedings in first instance and decrease in second instance for civil and commercial cases).

(2019): Note regarding the category "Litigious divorce case", criteria "% of cases pending for more than 3 years for all instances": precise percentage is 0,1% but it has been rounded to 0%.

Where necessary the data has been rounded (no decimals).

North Macedonia

(2022): It must be emphasized that the data are collected manually from the ICT system in all courts within North Macedonia. After that, the data are calculated manually in the courts and in the Ministry of justice (Excel calculation). Some of data are only from one court (for example: 130 days at first instance - trading in influence cases). 2/27 from courts didn't answer correctly to the tables, so 2 courts are excluded from calculations. According to this, the collection of data for these questions is without guarantees for total accuracy.

(2021): There are some variations in the average length of cases in 1st instance (in days) which cannot be explained due to this data being collected manually with all courts within North Macedonia.

There are some variations in the average length of cases in 1st instance (in days) which cannot be explained due to this data being collected manually with all courts within North Macedonia.

(2019): There are some variations in the average length of cases in 1st instance (in days) which cannot be explained due to this data being collected manually with all courts within North Macedonia.

Serbia

(General Comment): In order to calculate the average length of the court proceedings in days for the first and second instance, for insolvency, the following formula was used:
$$\text{pending} / \text{resolved} * 365$$

(2020): It is not possible to provide automatically this information. The AVP application enables certain information but in order to provide this information the courts need to make multiple individual inquiries in order to get the requested data – such is the case with the Litigious divorce case. It is even more difficult to gather information for Employment dismissal cases – all employment cases are registered within the same register so it would be very difficult for courts to extract the requested type of cases- dismissal cases. Therefore the information requested in this table in most cases is not available.

These data are not automatically available. They refer to registers given within the question 35 (Civil (and commercial) litigious cases. Not all of these cases can be submitted to the third instance (extraordinary legal remedies) . The length of the proceedings is calculated for each instance according to CEPEJ Disposition Time formula and not an average length.

Albania

(General Comment): Yes, there are quality standards determined for the judicial system at national level approved by the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, (Article 71) who are related to the assessment process of the prosecutors. The assessment is conducted according to the criteria of: a) professional skills; b) organizational skills; c) ethics and commitment to professional values and personal skills and; c) professional commitment of the prosecutor.

Concerning the professional skills of the prosecutor, the assessment includes the legal knowledge and legal reasoning to conduct the investigation logically, gathering the evidence required by law, interpret the law and analyse jurisprudence, make investigative decisions and actions, clarity and the understanding of prosecution acts, the consistent and well-organized structure of prosecution acts, the ability to question and the quality of the analysis, and the logical reasoning of the prosecutor, etc.

HJC is the body responsible for determining the quality standards of the judiciary, including efficiency and quality. HJC is working on producing the sub-legal acts concerning standards, in cooperation with external partners. Furthermore, each Council publishes Standards of Ethics and Rules of Conduct. Hence, standards generally speaking standards are divided into performance related standards (quality and quantity of performance of magistrates) and behavioral related standards (ethics).

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): In December 2020, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the criteria for the performance evaluation of judges, prosecutors, court presidents, and chief prosecutors. According to the criteria, the court presidents evaluate yearly judges in line with the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of decisions issued by a judge is evaluated based on the following parameters: a) the percentage of reversed decisions compared to the total number of decisions upheld, modified and reversed by a higher instance court; b) the percentage of reversed and modified decisions compared to the total number of cases in which a final decision was rendered to which a legal remedy may be filed with the higher instance court.

According to the criteria, the chief prosecutors evaluate yearly prosecutors in line with the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual backlog reduction plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of a prosecutor's indictments is assessed on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of enforceable judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of enforceable decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period.

The heads of higher courts and prosecutors' offices evaluate yearly lower instance court presidents and chief prosecutors based on the statistical data and the indicators related to the management of the work of the court and the prosecutor's office.

Furthermore, there is a normative framework that consists of the various law provisions, regulations, and guidelines. The framework outlines systematic processes in the entire judicial system of Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as in the prosecutors' offices and courts, which have a purpose to help the judicial institutions achieve the best possible results in terms of production and quality. The processes include meetings of departments (uniform application of the law, analysis of relevant case law, caseload, length of proceedings, backlog reduction plan etc.), quota system, adoption of yearly work plan, reporting on the yearly work plan implementation, preparation of yearly training programme by the judicial training institutions etc.

The quality of decisions and conduct of court procedures is assessed by the court president. Different information sources will be used when evaluating the quality of court decisions and procedures, including the opinion of the court department head based on their ongoing monitoring of the performance of the judge and the opinion of the department of the immediately higher instance court. Serbia

(General Comment): Although quality standards for the judiciary as such do not yet exist, the Rulebook on criteria, indicators and procedure for evaluating the work of judges and presidents of courts ("Official Gazette of RS", Nos. 81/2014, 142/2014, 41/2015, 7/2016) of the HJC provides for the evaluating the work of judges for the purpose of improving the efficiency of the judicial system, to preserve and improve the expertise, qualifications and responsibilities of judicial office holders, to encourage them to achieve the best results of their work, and to increase public confidence in the work of judges and courts.

The Rulebook stipulates that the evaluation of the work of judges and presidents of courts is expressed by a mark. The work of full-time judges and court presidents is regularly evaluated once every three years, and for judges who are first time elected evaluation is done once a year. Exceptionally, based on the decision of the HJC, the work of judges and presidents of courts may be extraordinary evaluated.

The criteria for evaluating judges' performance are quality and quantity. The quality of work shows the ability and knowledge of the judge in the application of substantive and procedural law, while the quantity of work shows the efficiency in solving cases.

The benchmarks for evaluating the quality of work of judges are the percentage of decisions revoked and the time necessary to bring decisions. Quality evaluation is done by establishing for each benchmark an individual grade, and on the basis of established individual grades, the evaluation of the quality of work of judges is determined. Individual marks for the quality of work benchmarks are: "extremely successful", "successful" and "not satisfactory".

The criterion for evaluating the quantity of judges' work is a monthly standard, and for judges who do not have a sufficient number of cases in the work, the number of cases solved from the total number of cases in the work.

The benchmark of the judges' work is evaluated by the individual grade "extremely successful", "successful" and "not satisfactory". The judgments related to the evaluation of the judge's work are "extremely successful in performing the judicial function", "successfully performing the judicial function" and "not satisfactory".

(2021): The Judicial council has a role according to the laws and new adopted bylaws that allow easier implementation of these standards.

The Rule-book for determining the fulfillment of the qualitative criteria for evaluation of judges prepared in accordance with Article 81 of the Law on Judicial Court was adopted on 21.12.2020 by the Judicial Council of North Macedonia. On 20.05.2021 the Supreme Court of North Macedonia at the general session of judges adopted a positive opinion regarding the proposed Methodology with indicators of the complexity of cases prepared in accordance with Article 85 paragraph 1 of the Law on the Judicial Council.

Additionally, with project "Supporting the Judicial Council in establishing Quality System for Evaluation of Judges", financially supported by the Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, implemented by "The Center for Legal Research and Analysis(CLRA)" and Judicial Council were developed forms for determining the fulfillment of the qualitative criteria for the work of judges and guidelines for calculating the coefficients of complexity of court cases that are intended to support the Judicial Council in the proper implementation of bylaws.

- The new Law on the prosecution offices and amendments of the Law on the Public Prosecution Council from 2020 as well as new by-laws adopted in 2021 by the Public prosecutor of the Republic of North Macedonia and Public Prosecution Council allow better implementation of the standards.

(2019): Within the Judicial Council, there is staff responsible for defining qualitative and quantitative criteria, as well as following their implementation.

(General Comment): The difference between the monitoring of the judicial and procedural performance is mainly due to the differences in functioning of these two institutions. For instance, length of proceedings is a performance indicator for judge but not for a prosecutor since the length of proceedings is out of the prosecutors' impact. To keep it short, the performance evaluation criteria are set out by two respective regulations: the regulation on the evaluation of performance of the judges and the regulation for the evaluation of performance of prosecutors.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the criteria for the performance evaluation of judges in December 2020. A judge Bosnia and Herzegovina is evaluated by the court president yearly according to the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of decisions issued by a judge is evaluated based on the following sub-criteria:

- a) the percentage of reversed decisions compared to the total number of decisions upheld, modified and reversed by a higher instance court;
- b) the percentage of reversed and modified decisions compared to the total number of cases in which a final decision was rendered to which a legal remedy may be filed with the higher instance court.

In addition, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is responsible to provide instructions to the courts in relation to management issues and to determine criteria for the work of courts and court presidents. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the superior hierarchical court president monitor regularly the implementation of those instructions and criteria. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints the court presidents for a period of time specified by the law. The superior court president appraise annually the work of the lower instance court presidents. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the new criteria for the performance evaluation of court presidents in December 2020. The new criteria include the performance criteria in relation to management issues: the achieved collective target quota of the court, and the organization and management of the work of the court (e.g. realization of the annual work plan, realization of the backlog reduction plan).

(2020): Until this year, the evaluation of court performance has been done by using the performance of Judges as a reference. So, the performance of a court has been mainly attributed to the performance of the Judges in that particular court. Starting from this year, Kosovo Judicial Council has developed a dashboard in the Case Management Information System(CMIS), with specific indicators, in order to measure court performance. Unfortunately, we still do not have any data regarding the performance or the indicators used, since the CMIS is still not fully functional. However, after the discussion with KJC and CoE project in Kosovo which is supporting this activity, this CMIS feature concerning court performance will soon be tested, and from the next year, it will be used to generate dashboards and reports on court performance.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the criteria for the performance evaluation of prosecutors in December 2020. A prosecutor in Bosnia and Herzegovina is evaluated by the chief prosecutor according to the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual backlog reduction plan and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of a prosecutor's indictments is assessed on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of enforceable judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of enforceable decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period.

In addition, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is responsible to provide instructions to the prosecutors' offices in relation to management issues and to determine criteria for the work of the prosecutors' offices and chief prosecutors. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the superior hierarchical chief prosecutor monitor regularly the implementation of those instructions and criteria. The average measure of the quantity of work is determined at the level of one category of state prosecutor's offices by adding and dividing the number of completed cases by types Kt, Ktm, KT I, Ktr with the number of state prosecutors who performed prosecutorial function in all state cases. prosecutors' offices of one category of state prosecutor's offices in the last three years. (eg ODT Kolašin, Cetinje, Plav, Rožaje, Ulcinj are in the neighboring category of state prosecutor's offices up to 5 state prosecutors, in the last three years a total of 20 state prosecutors worked, and completed a total of 400 Kt cases, 20 Ktm, 20 Kt I and 200 Ktr, the average scale for KT is $400/20 = 20$, for Ktm $20/20 = 1$, for Kt I $20/20 = 1$, for Ktr $200/20 = 10$) A case is considered completed if it resulted with a decision on rejection of a criminal report, a case in which a reconnaissance or investigation was conducted after which it was submitted to the competent prosecutor's office, suspension of investigation, confirmed indictment or indictment filed, decision on sentencing plea agreement, rejected criminal charges in case of postponement of criminal prosecution, as well as Ktr case that has been archived. The number of cases is determined by the number of persons. The Prosecutorial Council also determines the average measure of the quantity of work in a certain type of case for the Special State Prosecutor's Office by adding and dividing the number of completed cases by types of Kt-s, Ktm-s, KT I-s, Ktr-s and the number of special prosecutors in that period. performed the prosecutorial function in the above types of cases in the last three years. Article 8 The quantity of work is assessed on the basis of the report on the work of the state prosecutor and the average measures of the quantity of work in a certain type of case. According to this sub-criterion, the state prosecutor is assessed: - if he has completed up to 20% below the average criteria satisfies; - if he has completed over 20% of the subjects below the average criteria, he does not satisfy. If the state prosecutor worked in different types of cases, the quantity of work is assessed for all types of cases as indicators for assessing the quantity of work, and if the state prosecutor had fewer cases in the work of a certain type than the average measure for that type of case, then satisfies the grade if he has completed 80% of the total number of cases in the work of that type of subject, and if it is less than 80%, he does not satisfy the grade according to that indicator. If the state prosecutor did not have a certain type of case in his work, he will not be evaluated in that type of case. Article 9 The quality of work is assessed on the basis of confirmed indictments, convictions and appeals. A state prosecutor who has 80% or more confirmed indictments in relation to the total number of indictments in which a decision was made in the same period satisfies, and a state prosecutor who has less than 20% confirmed indictments in relation to the total number of indictments does not satisfy. The state prosecutor who has 70% or more convictions in relation to the total number of convictions passed in the same period satisfies, and the state prosecutor who had less than 30% of convictions in relation to the total number of convictions in the same period, does not satisfy. The state prosecutor who has 30% or more of accepted appeals in relation to the total number of appeals filed against acquittals and convictions which were revoked on those appeals of the state prosecutor in the same period satisfies, and the state prosecutor who has less than 30% of accepted appeals in relation to the total number of appeals against acquittals and convictions that were revoked on those appeals of the state prosecutor in the same period is not satisfactory.

Kosovo*

(2019): As I explained in the other section, Kosovo Judicial Council and Kosovo Prosecutorial Council are two separate and independent institutions. Thus, they independently decide on performance indicators, policies, and internal regulations. For this reasons, they may have different performance indicators or criteria, let say, for recruitment procedures. As you may know, Kosovo is still working on enhancing and advancing its legislation in the Rule of Law Sector, so both KPC and KJC are working on advancing and aligning their legislation with the EU best practices. Moreover, a Functional Review process for the Rule of Law Sector is undergoing, meaning that there will be other changes in the structure, functioning and legislation, where needed.

Question 055

Question 061-1

Albania

(2022): the answer is N/A

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The court will, as a rule, determine the date of the preparatory hearing in the litigation procedure with prior consultation with the parties.

When deferring or postponing the main hearing in civil proceedings, the court will determine the date of the new hearing, as a rule, with prior consultations with the parties.

During the preparation for the main trial in criminal proceedings, the judge or presiding judge may hold a hearing with the parties to the proceedings and the defence attorney to consider issues relevant to the main trial.

Serbia

(General Comment): Under the Law on Civil Procedure, the party (including its lawyer) is in obligation, no later than the preliminary hearing or at the first hearing for the main hearing, if the preliminary hearing is not mandatory, to present all facts required for explanation of its proposals, to propose evidence that confirm the presented facts, to give statement about the allegations and offered evidences of the opposing party, as well as to propose the time-frame for conducting of the proceeding. The court decides, at the hearing, on the time frame, especially on the number of hearings, time of hearings, schedule for taking of evidence at the hearings and taking of other procedural actions, court time frames, and total time of the main hearing.

At the initial, preparatory hearing, pursuant to the Criminal Procedure Code. The preparatory hearing, scheduled after the indictment is confirmed by the court, could be considered as a form of dialogue between the public prosecution service, court and other participants of the criminal proceedings. At the preparatory hearing the parties state their positions in relation to the subject-matter of the charges, explain the evidence which will be examined at the trial and propose new evidence. Also, the factual and legal questions which will be the subject-matter of discussion at the trial are determined, a decision is rendered on a plea agreement, on detention and on discontinuing criminal proceedings, as well as on other questions the court finds of relevance for holding a trial.

However, it is important to notice that the together with the prosecutor, defendant, defense counsel, the aggrieved party, legal representative of the prosecutor and aggrieved party, and if needed an interpreter, will be summoned to the preparatory hearing.

(General Comment): The quantitative criteria for the performance of the judge are: - the scope of his work, which is valued by the number and type of resolved cases in relation to the orientation number of cases to be solved by the judge monthly obtained from the Automatic Judicial and Information System for Case Management. - the quantity of the judge's work in the section of altered decisions made in relation to the total number of resolved decisions. If the number of resolved cases by certain types of cases in relation to the envision orientation number is 100%, it is considered that the judge has met the quantitative criteria and is valued at 40 points. The higher or lower number of resolved cases in relation to the envision orientation number of cases is evaluated in such a way that for each 1% more or less started, the number of points referred to in paragraph 3 of this Article increases or decreases by 0.5 points ,but the total number of points cannot be more than 60 points, nor less than 20 points. The quantity of work of the judge in the part of the reversed and altered decisions is assessed through an insight into the automated computerized court management system by taking into consideration only the number of decisions against which legal remedies are allowed and they are altered due to misapplication of substantive law. The work of the judge according to the number of altered decisions made in relation to the total number of resolved cases in the period in which he or she is evaluated shall be scored according to the following table: Percentage of altered decisions in relation to the total number of resolved cases: Up to 5% - 20 points, from 5% to 10% - 15 points, from 10% to 15% - 10 points, from 15% to 20% - 7 points, from 20%to 30% - 4 points, more than 30% - 0 points.

(General Comment): Performance of judges with a standing tenure of office and court presidents' shall regularly be conducted once every three years, and in judges elected for the first time- once a year. Exceptionally, based on the Decision of the High Judicial Council performance of judges and court presidents may be evaluated extraordinarily. Criteria for evaluation of judges' performance are quality and quantity. Standards for evaluating quality of judges' performance shall be the percentage of repealed decisions and time for drafting decisions. Quality evaluation is performed by determining individual grade for each standard, and based on determined individual grades, final evaluation grade of judges' performance quality is determined. Individual grades for quality standards are as follows: "outstandingly successful", "successful" and "unsatisfactory". Standard for quantity evaluation of judges' performance is monthly caseload quota, and for judges not having sufficient number of pending cases, standard for quantity evaluation shall be the total number of closed cases against the total number of pending cases. Evaluation of judges' quantity performance shall be conducted by evaluating the judges' quantity standard by an individual performance grade, i.e. "outstandingly successful", "successful" and "unsatisfactory".

(2019): Performance of judges with a standing tenure of office and court presidents' shall regularly be conducted once every three years, and in judges elected for the first time- once a year. Exceptionally, based on the Decision of the High Judicial Council performance of judges and court presidents may be evaluated extraordinarily (Rulebook on the criteria, standards, procedure and bodies for evaluation of performance of judges and court presidents "Official Gazette of RS", No. 81/2014, 142/2014, 41/2015, 7/2016). Criteria for evaluation of judges' performance are quality and quantity. Standards for evaluating quality of judges' performance shall be the percentage of repealed decisions and time for drafting decisions. Quality evaluation is performed by determining individual grade for each standard, and based on determined individual grades, final evaluation grade of judges' performance quality is determined. Evaluation of judges' quantity performance shall be conducted by evaluating the judges' quantity standard by an individual performance grade, i.e. "outstandingly successful", "successful" and "unsatisfactory". Articles 17-26 of the Rules provide more detailed ruled on how quantity (efficiency) of judicial performance is evaluated. This is done based on the number of cases disposed by a judge over a period one month against the number of cases they should dispose- monthly caseload quota. The monthly caseload quota pertain to the cases adjudicated on merits, whereas three cases disposed of in some other manner shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on the merits. Derogating from paragraph 2 of this Article, in higher and appellate courts five closed cases in Kž and Kž2 subject matter shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on merits. In appellate court, five closed cases in Kžm2 subject matter shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on the merits. Three pending cases protecting the right to a trial within a reasonable time period decided on based on the objection to accelerate the procedure and appeals, shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on merits. Two cases closed by entering into mediation agreement shall be regarded as one case adjudicated on merits. If a judge is unable to achieve the monthly caseload quota due to insufficient number of pending cases, the Commission shall take into account the total number of closed cases against the total number of pending cases. If a judge has handled cases of different types, the quantity of his performance shall be established by adding together percentages for each case type and by comparing it against the monthly caseload quota for that matter, provided that Commissions shall assess all the types of disposed cases specified by the Rules of Court Procedure and the law, but not mentioned herein.

Initially, the magistrate conducts a self evaluation of the ethical and professional based on the standard form issued by the Council, through which the magistrate:

- a) Evaluates the activity against the evaluation criteria;

- b) Provides an analysis of the statistical data referring the magistrate's activities;
- c) Describes the steps taken for meeting the objectives set out in the previous evaluation;
- ç) Describes the extent to which these objectives have been met providing the respective explanation;
- d) Defines the objectives for his/her professional development in the upcoming evaluation period;
- dh) Describes the needs for training and the circumstances which constitute a hindrance for the professional improvement and proposes concrete solutions for the upcoming evaluation period. Next, the chairperson of the court or prosecution office, where the magistrate under evaluation exercises the activity, provides an opinion on the activity of the magistrate, in accordance with the standards established by the Council. At the end, the evaluation is done by the Council.

(2019): All magistrates, including the chairpersons of courts and prosecution offices are subjects to an ethical and professional performance evaluation. The evaluation is performed according to the following criteria:

- a) Judicial or prosecutorial professional capacity;
- b) Organizational skills;
- c) Ethics and commitment to judicial and prosecutorial professional values;
- ç) Personal qualities and professional commitment.

The evaluation of magistrates is based on the following sources:

- a) Personal file of the magistrate;
- b) Statistical data, according to the provisions contained in Article 90 of this Law;
- c) Files selected by lot for evaluation in accordance with Article 91 of this Law, including the audio or video recording of the hearing with regard to judicial files, which shall always guarantee a full representation of all the types of tried and investigated cases;
- ç) Self-evaluation of the magistrate and the judicial decisions or prosecutorial acts drafted by the prosecutor and selected by him/her. In any case the number of the decisions/acts prepared and selected by the prosecutor should not exceed two per year;
- d) The opinion of the chairperson;
- dh) Data regarding the verification of complaints filed against the magistrate during the evaluation period;
- e) Written information transmitted from the School of Magistrate or other institutions which certify the attendance and involvement of the magistrate in training activities;
- ë) Final decisions for disciplinary measures against the magistrate delivered within the evaluation period, independent from whether the disciplinary measure is already expunged or not;
- f) Reports requested from High Inspectorate for the Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interest or other auditing or controlling institutions;
- g) Objections of the magistrate or any minutes or documentation of hearings during the evaluation process;
- gj) Any other information that shows the professional development of the magistrate

In the first 15 years of professional experience, including the professional experience as assistant magistrate or seconded magistrate, each magistrate is evaluated once every three years.

After the first 15 years of professional experience as magistrate, each magistrate is evaluated once every five years.

Initially, the magistrate conducts a self evaluation of the ethical and professional based on the standard form issued by the Council, through which the magistrate:

- a) Evaluates the activity against the evaluation criteria;

- b) Provides an analysis of the statistical data referring the magistrate's activities;
- c) Describes the steps taken for meeting the objectives set out in the previous evaluation;

(General Comment): The chapter 4 of the regulation no. 11/2016 of the Kosovo Judicial Council, specifies the procedure of evaluation of judges' efficacy. The efficacy of the judges' work is evaluated based on a set of criteria: 1. meeting or exceeding their working norm

2. comparing the number of resolved cases by the judge to the average of resolved cases in that court, in the same category of cases;

3. Comparing the number of pending cases of the judge to the average of pending cases in that court(where judge works)

4. Case complexity. These are the main criteria. However, there are also other factors taken into the consideration, such as the absence of the judges because of the training or holidays, annual leave, medical leave, and other engagements in working groups from the Kosovo Judicial Council or other institutions as foreseen by the existing laws.

(2022): Based on Article 6 of Regulation 11/2016 on the Evaluation of Judicial Performance, of the KJC.

- The assessment can also be more frequent.

The Commission for the Evaluation of Judges' Performance has the competence to evaluate the performance of judges with permanent mandate according to the "Random" method, judges with initial mandate and those who are candidates for promotion. The Commission for the Evaluation of Judges' Performance performs its tasks and activities based on the Law on the Judicial Council and the Regulation on the Evaluation of the Performance of Judges, approved by the Kosovo Judicial Council. The Judicial Performance Evaluation Committee assesses the basis for the promotion or demotion of judges, including the initiation of dismissal proceedings and the evaluation for the purpose of reappointment. Judges with initial mandates are evaluated two (2) times during this mandate and once after the initial training and once before the expiration of the initial mandate for the purpose of reappointment. Permanent judges are evaluated every 3 years.

Pursuant to Article 14 of the Regulation on the evaluation of the performance of judges, Judges are evaluated according to the following scales, from 0 to 89 points: 1.1. From 0 to 35 points is evaluated "debit", 1.2. From 36 to 51 points is considered "sufficient", 1.3. From 52 to 67 points is rated "good", 1A. From 68 to 82 points is evaluated "very good", 1.5. From 83 to 89 points is rated "excellent". 2. Only judges who are evaluated with "excellent" evaluation will be considered for promotion, in case of vacancies in the Court of Appeals and / or the Supreme Court. In case the evaluation results that there are not enough judges ranked according to the points with "excellent" evaluation, the Council takes into account the judges ranked according to the points with the evaluation "very good". The evaluation commission will compile a Guide for the evaluation of judges for each indicator which will be made public to judges before the evaluation process begins.

Pursuant to Article 3.19 of the Regulation on the Evaluation of Judges' Performance, the evaluation of judges is done in accordance with the principle of legality, objectivity, transparency and equality, in order to guarantee equal opportunities and rights for the development of the judge's career. . 2. The evaluation is not intended to interfere with the independence and impartiality of the judge. 3. Unless otherwise provided by law or regulation, all data and information collected during the performance appraisal process are confidential and are not disclosed during the first phase of the appraisal. Disclosure of any information that violates the confidentiality of the evaluation process constitutes a disciplinary violation and will be treated according to applicable law.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the criteria for the performance evaluation of judges in December 2020.

The assessment of the statistical quality of the prosecutor's decisions is established on the basis of the quality of the indictments and the quality of the decisions not to investigate and orders to terminate an investigation.

The quality of a prosecutor's indictments is evaluated on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of final judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of final court decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period. The quality of a prosecutor's orders not to investigate and orders to terminate an investigation is evaluated on the basis of the total number of such orders issued during the period covered by the evaluation and the total number of decisions rendered by a chief prosecutor, during that time, approving complaints lodged against those orders.

(2020): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the new criteria for the performance evaluation of prosecutors in December 2020.

A prosecutor in Bosnia and Herzegovina is evaluated by the chief prosecutor according to the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual backlog reduction plan and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of a prosecutor's indictments is assessed on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of enforceable judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of enforceable decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period.

The evaluation of the public prosecutor's work is carried out by the directly higher public prosecutor, with the opinion of the collegium of the immediately senior public prosecutor's office obtained.

The evaluation of the work of the deputy public prosecutor is carried out by the public prosecutor, with the opinion of the collegium of the public prosecution in which the deputy public prosecutor performs the public prosecutor's function.

EXTRAORDINARY WORK EVALUATION

Article 10.

The work of public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutors can be evaluated on an extraordinary basis based on the decision of the State Council of Prosecutors.

The State Council of Prosecutors can also make a decision on extraordinary performance evaluation based on the reasoned proposal of the public prosecutor of the public prosecution office, in which the deputy public prosecutor performs the public prosecutor's function or the deputy public prosecutor, whose work is extraordinarily evaluated.

The State Council of Prosecutors can make a decision on extraordinary work evaluation:

1. when determining the list of candidates for the election of public prosecutors,
2. during the election of public prosecutors who hold a permanent position in the second or higher public prosecutor's office,
3. during the election of deputy public prosecutors for permanent performance of the function of deputy public prosecutor;
4. when determining the reason for the dismissal of the public prosecutor or deputy public prosecutor;
5. when the public prosecutor or deputy public prosecutor is assessed as "unsatisfactory",
6. in other cases when the State Council of Prosecutors deems it expedient.

The decision from paragraph 1 of this article refers to the period for which extraordinary evaluation is carried out and the criteria for evaluation of work.

The provisions of this rulebook for regular work evaluation shall be applied accordingly to the extraordinary work evaluation procedure.

Question 081

Albania

(2019): All magistrates, including the chairpersons of courts and prosecution offices are subjects to an ethical and professional performance evaluation. The evaluation is performed according to the following criteria:

- a) Judicial or prosecutorial professional capacity;
- b) Organizational skills;
- c) Ethics and commitment to judicial and prosecutorial professional values;
- ç) Personal qualities and professional commitment.

The evaluation of magistrates is based on the following sources:

- a) Personal file of the magistrate;
- b) Statistical data, according to the provisions contained in Article 90 of this Law;
- c) Files selected by lot for evaluation in accordance with Article 91 of this Law, including the audio or video recording of the hearing with regard to judicial files, which shall always guarantee a full representation of all the types of tried and investigated cases;
- ç) Self-evaluation of the magistrate and the judicial decisions or prosecutorial acts drafted by the prosecutor and selected by him/her. In any case the number of the decisions/acts prepared and selected by the prosecutor should not exceed two per year;
- d) The opinion of the chairperson;
- dh) Data regarding the verification of complaints filed against the magistrate during the evaluation period;
- e) Written information transmitted from the School of Magistrate or other institutions which certify the attendance and involvement of the magistrate in training activities;
- ë) Final decisions for disciplinary measures against the magistrate delivered within the evaluation period, independent from whether the disciplinary measure is already expunged or not;
- f) Reports requested from High Inspectorate for the Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interest or other auditing or controlling institutions;

g) Objections of the magistrate or any minutes or documentation of hearings during the evaluation process;

gj) Any other information that shows the professional development of the magistrate

In the first 15 years of professional experience, including the professional experience as assistant magistrate or seconded magistrate, each magistrate is evaluated once every three years.

After the first 15 years of professional experience as magistrate, each magistrate is evaluated once every five years.

Initially, the magistrate conducts a self evaluation of the ethical and professional based on the standard form issued by the Council, through which the magistrate:

a) Evaluates the activity against the evaluation criteria;

b) Provides an analysis of the statistical data referring the magistrate's activities;

c) Describes the steps taken for meeting the objectives set out in the previous evaluation;

ç) Describes the extent to which these objectives have been met providing the respective explanation;

d) Defines the objectives for his/her professional development in the upcoming evaluation period;

dh) Describes the needs for training and the circumstances which constitute a hindrance for the professional improvement and proposes concrete solutions for the upcoming evaluation period.

Next, the chairperson of the court or prosecution office, where the magistrate under evaluation exercises the activity, provides an opinion on the activity of the magistrate, in accordance with the standards established by the Council. At the end, the evaluation is done by the Council.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2019): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has adopted the criteria for the performance evaluation of prosecutors.

Prosecutors are evaluated according to the following performance criteria: quantity of work, statistical quality of decisions, and analytical quality. The statistical quality of a prosecutor's indictments assessed on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of enforceable judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of enforceable decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period.

The analytical evaluation is evaluated based on the following elements:

a)Fulfilment of statutory requirements in prosecutorial decisions; b)Ability to establish decisive facts for making prosecutorial decisions;

c)Ability to handle complex cases;

d)Expedience in rendering decisions and compliance with statutory deadlines;

e)Ability to organize and efficiently conduct investigations in a proactive manner;

f)Professional quality of decision, demonstrated legal knowledge and use of legal remedies

(General Comment): Performance evaluation is done for the prosecutors with initial term and for the permanently appointed prosecutors. Evaluation of the prosecutors with initial term is conducted after the initial training and again at the end of the initial term. The first evaluation of the performance of the prosecutors after the initial training covers the period from the thirteen (13) until the twenty-second (22) month of his/her work as a prosecutor, while the second assessment of the performance of the prosecutor with an initial term includes the period from the twenty- three (23) until thirty-second (32) month. Regular evaluation of all prosecutors permanently appointed is done every three (3) years. KPC appoints by draw one-third (1/3) of prosecutors within each prosecution office, as the first group who will be subject to performance evaluation within three (3) months. The same draw is held after one (1) year with the aim to appoint prosecutors who will take part in the second group and the third group after two (2) years, respectively.

(2022): The evaluation of performance and work of prosecutors is regulated by law and regulations. Prosecutors undergo 2 types of evaluations. Every year their work is evaluated by their respective chief prosecutor and their performance is evaluated by the committee as well.

Prosecutors in their initial mandate are evaluated twice by the committee and prosecutors with permanent mandate are evaluated by the committee every 3 years.

Judicial Council remark: This plan's main activity is building the new information system called - ISP (abbreviation for information system of Judiciary - in Montenegrin, "Informacioni Sistem Pravosuđa"). Due to the delays and problems with the company selected on the tender to build the system, we have decided to cancel the contract with them and search for other options. We were forced on this because they failed to deliver parts of the system and documentation on time, even after many prolongations and compromises from our side.

(2021): We are in the middle of realisation/programming phase for the new information system called - ISP (abbreviation for information system of Judiciary - in Montenegrin Informacioni Sistem Pravosua). After it is over we are going to testing phase, piloting phase and GO-live phase. We have plan to finish all activities on the project until the end of 2023 (migration of data and training of users are last phases that would go in parallel). We have some delays on the project, due to problems we have with the company we got on the tender, because they fail to deliver parts of the system and documentation on time.

North Macedonia

Digitization, digital transformation and the increasing development of information technology inevitably led to it being integrated in all the pores of the justice system, and especially in the last 2 years, through digital transformation in all courts and public prosecutor's offices by developing new web pages for the courts, with hardware and software for audio recording, system for audio visual recording, electronic issuance of documents, creation of web services, software development and case management, as well as platforms for two-way communication between the courts and the parties and access to the electronic file of the case.

Given that the strategy has a time period until 2024, it is still being implemented, and this year, the Council for ICT in the Judiciary will start a procedure for adopting a new strategy for the next 5 years, as well as new revised operational plan.

At this moment there is no new strategy and no new operational plan.

Albania

(2022): Regarding the option "centralized or interoperable database" the answer changed from "yes" to "no", because during 2022, due to cyber-attacks in Albania, some institutions such as the Civil Status Office and the National Business Center have disconnected interoperability with the case management system. The status of integration with statistical tool changed from "integrated" to "not connected" because HJC has approved new statistical formats which have not yet been integrated with the case management system. These integrations are expected to end with the finalization of the new judicial map.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2022): Correction of technical mistake: The reply from the previous reporting cycles regarding the status of criminal case online should be changed from "Accessible to parties" to "Not accessible at all".

North Macedonia

(2021): The CMS has an integrated data generator that provides data on received, resolved or unresolved cases brought to courts, but does not provide detailed data on whether they are criminal, civil cases or others. This data is calculated manually.

Serbia

CMS is fully integrated in sense that it uses data from cases from court DMS via web services to generate predefined and ad hoc reports.

(2020): (Software used for registering judicial proceedings and their management)

(2019): Early warnings for cases at risk of falling under Statute of limitations. In the case of Serbia, the answer for civil and commercial is different because systems of courts of general jurisdiction are in 2019 integrated with the statistical tool and systems of commercial courts are not.

Kosovo*

(2022): In the KJC web portal, on September 2022 are deployed two web applications; the Case Tracking Mechanism (CTM) and Open Data Platform, (ODP). In the CTM, parties can follow their case status data, while in the OPD are available all statistical reports of the CMIS.

Question 082-2

Albania

(2022): Preliminary steps (Governance structure setup, Preliminary decisions, Decision on migration of data from existing systems, etc);

Phase 1 (case handling, statistics, decisions);

Phase 2 (e-filing etc. for criminal cases);

Phase 3 (e-filing etc. for civil and admin. cases);

Legislation;

System support, operation and maintenance;

Taking into account that a newly developed judicial case management system should nowadays necessarily include a full digitisation of all procedures, and considering the inherent complexity of such endeavor, a 5-year timeline for the completion of the whole project is proposed.

(2020): The current CMS presents a number of shortfalls and the latest study conducted by HJC concludes on the necessity to develop e new system. Because of the substantive financial efforts it requires, in 2020 HJC commissioned a total of 84 upgrades to the system which functionalities have improved since, but still a new system is envisaged. Its development depends primarily on the securing of financial support.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2022): The new version of the Case Management System (version 3.0) will be tested in several courts and prosecutors' offices during 2023. It is based on new WEB technologies. The full-scale implementation of the new version of the Case Management System will take place in 2024.

(2020): DCMS, CMS Module that will be used in the Office of the Disciplinary Counsel at HJPC Bosnia and Herzegovina, will be implemented during 2021.

Montenegro

(2021): The development of the system is in progress, the adoption of the software development phase is expected by the end of the first quarter. Full implementation of the judicial IT system is planned in the new ICT Justice Development Program 2021-2023. for the fourth quarter of 2022. However, it is quite realistic that the full implementation of the CMS system with user training will be completed by the end of 2023.

(2020): The development of the system is in progress, the adoption of the phase of realization of the development of the system is expected in the next month. The full implementation of the judicial IT System is planned in the new ICT Judiciary Development Program 2021-2023 for the fourth quarter of 2022.

North Macedonia

(2022): During 2023, according to the operational plan for digitization in the judiciary, a complete change of the CMS system is planned with the introduction of a new modern and integrated system of management and movement of cases, which will be compatible with the new software, and new applications will be created at the same time namely, an application for issuing certificates from criminal records, for issuing certificates from misdemeanor records, creation of the E-delivery platform, which will establish full two-way communication between the courts and all parties, i.e. state authorities and institutions, development of the platform for a mobile application, which will enable unhindered access of the parties to the electronic file of the case, as well as the creation of web services with 12 state organs and institutions.

According to the operational plan and the provided budget funds, the Court Budget Council has created a plan and program with dynamics and necessary financial resources for the digitization of the courts in 2023, namely:

1. Upgrade and installation of the Femida True Records system for audio recording in civil courts and audio-video recording in criminal courts.
 - upgrade means the installation of Femida True Records or SRS Femida software, based on an existing Femida license installed on a computer in the courts (through previous purchases), regardless of whether it is currently in operation or not;
 - a new license implies the installation of Femida True Records or SRS Femida software on an additional number of computers, which are not included in the number of existing licenses in the courts.
2. Procurement and replacement of hardware equipment for the courts – 410 computers.
3. Current maintenance of the hardware and software for the operation of the ACMISS system and the equipment for issuing certificates from criminal records.
4. Upgrade and ongoing maintenance of centralized hardware and system software for centralized backup/restore of the court database.
5. Restoration of Kaspersky Anti-virus and Trend Micro inter Scan messaging for personal computer protection in the court system and Gateway virus protection in the Supreme Court of RNM.
6. Ongoing maintenance of software for recording events by collating logs from ICT devices located in the Supreme Court of the RNM.

Creation of a mobile application for access to the electronic file of the case - a service for reviewing the files in the case by the parties in the procedure. Service for a complete review of a court case by the parties in the case (prosecutors, lawyers and all involved parties, natural and legal persons). Web Portal and mobile application through which each of the parties after prior authentication (service for identification of persons at the MIOA state level) can view all data and acts in the case that are available to the parties. DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE SERVICE AND BASIC FEATURES

Possibility for reviewing of all data and documents from the court case for the participants in the case from the court web portal and mobile application.

Availability of the service:

- Computer, laptop - view via browser
- Mobile devices (phone) – separate mobile application.

The service will provide the following subject data:

First step will be preparation on assessment on the functionality of the existing system, after what it will be decided about upgrade of the existing system or introducing on a completely new CMS.

Serbia

(2022): The implementation of the new centralized CMS is underway, it is planned to be completed by the end of 2024. Funds for the project were provided from IPA 2017 and the tender was conducted by the Delegation of the European Union in Serbia.

(2021): Project of implementation of new modern centralized case management system started in September 2021, currently (March 2022) it is in inception phase.

(2020): Tender for contract for implementation of a Centralized Case Management System (CCMS) for the Serbian courts of general jurisdiction, Administrative court/s and commercial courts is available at <https://etendering.ted.europa.eu/cft/cft-display.html?cftId=7703> . The scope of the contract covers the necessary hardware and software infrastructure, software solution, training, maintenance and support to migrate from and replace two software systems currently in use in the Judiciary. Planned contract length is 36 months but more detailed timeline will be part of the offer. After contract award timeline will be part of project implementation plan.

Question 083

North Macedonia

(General Comment): The CMS has an integrated data generator that provides data on received, resolved or unresolved cases brought to courts, but does not provide detailed data on whether they are criminal, civil cases or others. This data is calculated manually.

Question 084

Albania

(2020): Please note that data are anonymized only for first and second instance courts. The High court still publishes its decisions without anonymizing the data

Kosovo*

(2022): All data and judgments have been entered into the system in the Criminal Evidence Database where they are within the SKJK

Question 085

Albania

(2020): The website is www.gjykata.gov.al; however decisions of the High Court are published in the website of the High Court www.gjykataelarte.gov.al. Furthermore, Tirana District Court and Tirana Appeals Court also have their dedicated websites where data are anonymised. This happens because there are currently two systems in use in Albania; ICMIS, which is used by the majority of the Courts and ARKIT which is used only in Tirana District Court and Former Serious Crimes Court.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2021): Central database of court decisions is developed and maintained by HJPC's Judicial Documentation and Training Department – former Judicial Documentation Centre. In 2021, the HJPC decided to open this database for public free of charge and without registration. The Council of Ministers of BiH made decision to abolish the annual fee of 50 EUR, so the database is made available to the public free of charge as of 5 March 2021. The HJPC BiH has also issued a new anonymization instruction in order to make database more user friendly. According to this instruction, more information in court decisions are available, i.e. data on all state officials mentioned in the decisions, data on public enterprises and institutions, name and surname of the convicted persons in high-profile cases (war crime cases, organised crime and corruption cases, terrorism cases etc). This is an advancement comparing to the former rule where all data were anonymized (total anonymization). In this way, the HJPC has made an effort to make balance between public and private interest. Also, according to the new instruction, all final decisions in this type of cases are published through the central database, which is new practice compared to previous rule, according to which only decisions selected and provided by the courts of highest instance were published (Appellate Court of Brcko District, Court of BiH – Appellate Division, Supreme Court of BiH Federation and Supreme Court of Republika Srpska).

Also, in 2021, the HJPC secured funding for development of case-law database of the aforementioned courts of highest instance (e-Sentence), through which not only legal positions taken by these courts will be made available, but also the related court decisions, anonymised as well. This database will enable judges to get acquainted with the relevant legal positions and compare those with their cases when rendering new decisions. E-Sentence database was launched in November 2021, and will be publically available as of 1 February 2022, also free of charge. With all this, the HJPC is making an effort to ensure greater transparency and facilitate access to court decisions, as well as to enable judges and prosecutors in BiH to be more consistent in their decision-making and thus ensure a more harmonised case law.

(2020): Central database of court decisions is available at the web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd. It contains decisions selected by highest courts of Bosnia and Herzegovina in all three areas (civil, criminal and administrative). Database is searchable by case number, date of the decision, court that issued the decision, legal field, legal term, legal category, but also through free text search. Selected decisions are aligned with lower court decisions brought in the same case, anonymized and available for the members of the judiciary - judges, prosecutors and all judicial staff free of charge. Other users must pay annual fee to access the database - i. e. 50 Euro). In September 2020 HJPC adopted a decision making the database free of charge for all users; the above mentioned decision is pending confirmation by the Council of Ministers of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Some decisions in database are aligned with decisions of the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The alignment of decision in database with ECHR case law is not in place, but detailed reports on ECHR case law are available through the aforementioned web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd and this aspect of the database is subject of constant improvement through IPA 2017 (information from European highest courts and ECtHR Network). Through the same project, HJPC initiated development of the database with court stances in cooperation with highest courts (E-sentence). This database will enable highest courts to record their case law in line with pre-defined descriptors (legal terms). Besides, this database should enable identification of diverse case law between highest court, and move forward the process of harmonisation of the case law at the state level (Case law harmonisation panels). Note for Data anonymised: there was a technical mistake in the previous reporting cycle, in order to correct this the reply "No" should be changed to "Yes" for 2019.

(2019): Court decisions database is available online through the HJPC Judicial Documentation Centre's web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd. It contains court decisions selected by highest courts in all three areas (civil, criminal and administrative) and is searchable by different parameters: case number, court that issued the decision, legal field, legal term, applied institute, but also through free text search. At the moment, the selected decisions are: aligned with lower court decisions brought in the same case, anonymized and available on-line (for the members of the judiciary - judges, prosecutors and all judicial staff free of charge, and the rest of the public must pay annual fee to access the database - i. e. 50 Euro). Some decisions from database are also aligned with decisions of the Constitutional Court of BiH. The alignment of this database with ECHR case law is not in place. Various detailed reports on ECHR case law is available through JDC web site , and is subject of improvement through IPA 2017 (information from European highest courts with ECtHR Network).

Serbia

(2022): Since 2021 there was a migration of data (decisions) from Administrative Court portal to centralized data base. Therefore centralized national database of court decisions does not include all judgements

(2020): We don't have 3rd instance for administrative courts so the answer is no and it should be NAP.

(2019): Court for administrative disputes is Administrative court, which is the only instance for the Republic of Serbia. For judgements in administrative disputes there is no 3rd level instance of decisions, only 2nd level instance which is the Supreme Court of Cassation.

Kosovo*

(General Comment): Data are available and anyone can access and filter the judgements by different criteria. Each judgement can then be downloaded. Furthermore, a new stream is being created in the database which will provide Kosovo citizens with the opportunity to follow a case from the beginning of the procedure. The link of the database: <https://www.gjyqesori-rks.org/aktgjkimet/?lang=en>

For reference only: the 2020 EU median for the number of cases for which legal aid has been granted is 0,84 per 100 inhabitants.

North Macedonia: Because of the 2021 Census, the number of inhabitants changed dramatically between 2020 and 2021. For this reason, all the variations of values standardised by the number of inhabitants are mainly due to the variation in the population.

Serbia: Total data only refers to cases where legal aid was granted according to Law on Free Legal Aid (whereas cases in which legal aid was granted according to Criminal Procedure Code are not available).

Table 4.2.2 organisation of the legal aid system in your country both before going to court and during court proceedings in 2022 (Q86-0)

Beneficiaries	Organisation of the legal aid system in your country both before going to court and during court proceedings
Albania	Good administration of justice starts first with the guarantee that every individual must have for the realization and protection of his legal and constitutional rights. The protection of these law institutions is one of the basic principles, the fulfillment of which is one of the priorities of the Albanian Government, in the framework of the implementation of justice reform. Law no. 111/2017 "On Legal Aid guaranteed by the state", was one of the laws adopted in the framework of the reform, the entry into force of which brought a profound reform of the legal aid system in a new spirit in terms of organization, operation and provision of state-guaranteed legal aid. The adoption of this law led to the drafting of a package of bylaws which aim to regulate in detail the organization and operation of state-guaranteed legal aid. The main purpose of this law is to provide free legal aid to all categories, which due to the conditions in which they are, find it impossible to provide this service. Special attention has been paid to the most vulnerable categories of beneficiaries, focusing on the expansion of the circle of subjects as well as the sanctioning of vulnerable groups as direct beneficiaries of the free legal aid system <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Directorate of Free Legal Aid is established as a subordinate institution of the Minister of Justice, responsible for the administration and functioning of the free legal aid system in Albania. The law entered into force in June 2018, the internal organization of the Directorate of Free Legal Aid was approved in 2019, by the Prime Minister, by Order No. 59, date 25.03.2019, "on the structure and staff of Free Legal Aid Directorate" (on the proposal of the Minister of Justice); • With the entry into force of the new law, the responsibility of a number of institutions is already increasing which will be engaged in guaranteeing equal access to justice through free legal aid (Ministry of Justice; Directorate of Free Legal Aid; Courts; Prosecution Offices; Albanian Bar Association); • It is created for the first time, a network of responsible institutions engaged in providing and guaranteeing legal services (primary and secondary), with professionalism and efficiency; • The transfer of competence to decide on requests for secondary legal aid from the State Commission for Legal Aid to the Courts is another innovation brought by this law; Primary legal aid is one of the forms of free legal aid through which every citizen is offered legal advice and guidance, assistance in solving their problems, drafting the necessary acts and representation before public administration bodies. This type of service is provided by Nonprofit Organization, Law Clinics at Higher Education Institutions, and Primary Legal Aid Service Centers. "Secondary legal aid" is the legal service provided for the drafting of acts necessary to set the Court in motion; providing advice, representation and protection before the court in administrative and civil cases, for which compulsory protection does not apply, according to the provisions of criminal procedural legislation. Referring to the provisions of law no. 111/2017 "On legal aid guaranteed by the state", secondary legal aid is one of the main forms of legal aid services guaranteed by the state and is provided in cooperation with several institutions. For 2022, the list of lawyers includes 157 lawyers who provide legal aid. Referring to Article 9 point "d" of Law no. 111/2017 "On legal aid guaranteed by the state" provides that: The National Chamber of Advocacy prepares and organizes continuous training for lawyers included in the list of lawyers who offer secondary legal aid services, in cooperation with the Assistance of FLAD. Secondary legal aid is provided by lawyers included in the list approved by the Chamber National Bar, based on the request of the person who enjoys the right to benefit from assistance according to articles 11 or 12, of Free Legal Aid. The request is drawn up according to the request form, approved by the Minister of Justice. The request for the provision of secondary legal aid is submitted by the interested person personally or by means of the postal service to the court or the proceeding body that initiates the beginning of one litigation, at the beginning of a litigation and/or at any stage of the litigation, until no the judicial investigation has been declared closed, according to the rules provided in the legislation. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 2. The person who has the right to secondary legal assistance can submit the provided request in point 1, of this article, through a legal representative or equipped with a power of attorney, spouse, cohabitant or a first-degree relative. 3. The request for secondary legal aid is exempt from court fees and expenses. 4. The person, who seeks to benefit from secondary legal assistance, signs a self-declaration that fulfills the benefit criteria, defined in this law, according to the approved self-declaration form.

Bosnia and Herzegovina	The courts and the specialized government institutions provide free legal aid to citizens in relation to court proceedings. Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law (e.g. obligation to appear in court). In addition, free legal aid centers have been established at all levels of government as a part of the respective public administration system. Employees of free legal aid institutions represent the citizens in various types of court and administrative proceedings.
Montenegro	Free legal aid implies providing the necessary funds to fully or partially cover the costs of legal advice, drafting letters, representation in court, the State Prosecutor's Office and the Constitutional Court of Montenegro and in out-of-court dispute resolution and enforcement proceedings as well as exemption from payment of court costs. The financial situation of the applicant for free legal aid shall be determined on the basis of his/her income and property and the income and property of his family members, unless otherwise prescribed by this Law. The body responsible for granting free legal aid is the president of the basic court, or the judge authorized by the president, in which territory the applicant has a domicile or residence. Professional and administrative tasks in the process of approving free legal aid, are organized within the Service or Office for free legal aid. The Service provides information and advice to the interested parties on the possibilities and conditions for exercising the right to free legal aid assistance and other issues related to the granting of free legal aid.
North Macedonia	LAW ON FREE LEGAL AID Article 4 Providers of free legal aid (1) Free legal aid shall be provided under the conditions and in the procedure stipulated in this law. (2) Free legal aid may be provided as preliminary legal aid and secondary legal aid. (3) Preliminary legal aid shall be provided by authorized Ministry staff, an authorized association or a legal clinic (hereinafter: providers). (4) Secondary legal aid shall be provided by lawyers in proceedings before a court, a state authority, the Pension and Disability Insurance Fund of North Macedonia, the Health Insurance Fund of North Macedonia, and persons with public authorizations in accordance with the provisions of this law. (5) The funds for approving free legal aid and the costs of the provided legal aid in the proceedings stipulated in this law shall be provided from the Ministry budget, as well as from donations in accordance with the laws. (6) Approved secondary legal aid may be revoked in accordance with the provisions of this law. (7) In cases stipulated herein, the beneficiary shall reimburse the costs of the secondary legal aid, in full or partially. (8) The minister of justice shall prescribe the procedure for providing free legal aid. PRELIMINARY LEGAL AID CHAPTER I GENERAL PROVISIONS Article 5 Right to preliminary legal aid Any natural person with domicile or residence on the territory of the Republic of North Macedonia shall be entitled to preliminary legal aid. Article 6 Scope of preliminary legal aid The scope of preliminary legal aid is the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> -initial legal advice on the right to use free legal aid; -general legal information; -general legal advice; -assistance in completing the secondary legal aid application; -assistance in filling out forms issued by administrative authorities in an administrative procedure for social welfare and protection of children's rights; pension, disability and healthcare for victims of gender based violence and domestic violence; procedure for entry into the birth Register; obtaining personal identification and citizenship documents; -writing complaints to the Anti-Discrimination Commission and to the Ombudsman, as well as petitions to the Constitutional Court of the Republic of North Macedonia for the protection of rights. Article 7 Providing preliminary legal aid

Serbia The Law on Free Legal Aid ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 87 of November 13, 2018, in force from October 1st 2019): The purpose of this law is to provide every person with effective and free legal aid. Free legal aid consists of providing legal advice, drafting submissions, representation and defending in courts. When person applies for free legal aid, he/she must address to local self-government unit which is entitled to approve/reject the request for granting free legal aid. If the request is granted, the person will be provided free legal aid by the benefactor who must be registered on a list of benefactors of the Minister of Justice. Benefactors are lawyers, mediators, notaries, employees of the self-government unit, Faculties of Law and association which are registered to provide legal aid in manner without discrimination. The request for granting free legal aid can be submitted personally or legal representative or attorney, can submit it on their behalf. The Criminal Procedure Code, Article 77: When criminal proceedings are conducted for a criminal offense for which a sentence of imprisonment of more than five years may be imposed by law, court may, at the request of injured party (from the list of lawyers submitted to the court by the competent bar association) if it is in the interest of the proceedings and if the injured party financial situation, cannot bear the costs of proceedings, assign a lawyer to defend the defendant. Article 77: Defendant who, due to his financial situation, cannot pay the defense attorney's fee and expenses, will be assigned attorney at his request, if criminal proceedings are conducted for a criminal offense for which a sentence of imprisonment of more than five years may be imposed by law.

Q086 (2022): As for the year 2022, 7616 citizens have been treated with primary legal aid and 1030 court decisions have been administered with the object of secondary legal aid.

During 2022 according to the scope of court cases that citizens have requested secondary legal assistance, it is evident that they are mainly civil cases. Out of the total number of requests for legal aid of 1030, 691 of them are civil, where the main ones are marriage settlement, pension benefits and property conflicts. While the other two categories, where 70 are criminal and 269 are administrative cases.

Q086 (2021): We highlight that Instruction No. 1, dated 08/03/2019 of the Minister of Justice on “The approval of rules and procedures for the collection, completion, and administration of registers’ data” determines that: Each state-guaranteed legal aid service provider shall periodically send to the Directorate every month, the data of requests and self-declarations of the requesting entities submitted to receive state-guaranteed legal aid. The data is sent within the first 5 (five) days of the month following the reference month. More detailed data can be found at the link: <https://ndihmajuridike.gov.al/publikime>

Q086 (2020): The Law no. 111/2017 on State Guaranteed Legal Aid (Law on Legal Aid) entered into force on 1 June 2018. It foresees a comprehensive system of •Primary Legal Aid (“out of court support”)

•Secondary Legal Aid (representation by an advocate in a court procedure) and the

Primary legal aid is defined in Article 3 (b) of law no. 111/2017. It comprises -providing of information regarding the legal system and legal acts, -the delivery of counselling, -the delivery of advice on the procedures of mediation and the alternative means of dispute resolutions,

-the delivery of assistance in drafting and establishing of documentation to -representation before administration bodies, -the delivery of all other forms of necessary legal support not constituting secondary legal aid.

The possible providers of primary legal aid are

•Specially trained officers in primary legal aid service centers (or other premises) (Article 14)

•NPOs providing primary legal aid (Article 15)

•Legal clinics (Article 3 (ë)) providing legal aid (Article 16).

Secondary legal aid is (Article 18)

•provided by advocates included in the list approved by the National Chamber of Advocates, •upon the request (according to the form) of •the person entitled to receive secondary legal aid under articles 11 or 12 of this law.

Secondary legal aid is first approved by decision of the court or proceeding body. The individual lawyer is then in principle appointed and also replaced by the local chamber of advocates

Referring to the terminology used in this report, the section "Cases brought to court" is filled with the data collected by "Secondary legal aid and exemption from court fees and fees cases" while the section "Cases not referred to court" is completed with "primary legal aid" data.

Also, we highlight that the Instruction No. 1, dated 08/03/2019 of the Minister of Justice on “The approval of rules and procedures for the collection, completion and administration of registers’ data” determines that: Each state guaranteed legal aid service provider shall periodically send to the Directorate every month, the data of requests and self-declarations of the requesting entities submitted in order to receive state guaranteed legal aid. The data is sent within the first 5 (five) days of the month following the reference month. Consequently, in the conditions when the data on the cases handled during February are reported within 5 March 2021, the cases handled by primary and secondary legal aid providers for February 2021, are not included in this report.

Q086 (2019): Notes:

Law no. 111/2017, "On State-Guaranteed Legal Aid", entered into force on June 1-st 2018. This law, part of the legal package of the judicial reform in Albania, provided the termination of the existence of the State Commission of Legal Aid (existing institution of the time) and the establishment of the Free Legal Aid Directorate, as the responsible institution for administering free legal aid system.

The establishment of the Free Legal Aid Directorate was accomplished by the Prime Minister order no. 59, date 25.03.2019, about 1 year after the entry into force of the law.

Consequently, during this transitional period until the establishment of the Free Legal Aid Directorate we have no treatment of free legal aid cases.

Consequently, the data represented in the table regards the period of May 2019 to December 2019

-Cases brought to court,

Law 111/2017, unlike the repealed law, provides as a form of legal aid even the:

a) exemption from the payment of general and special fees (as provided by the law on court fees of the Republic of Albania); b) payment of court expenses (costs for witnesses, experts, translators, examinations of places and items etc)

The decision to provide the aforementioned services, together with the request to provide counseling and representation before the court, is given by a decision of the competent court under the procedural law. Every court decision is communicated to the Free Legal Aid Directorate together with the respective fee which is held in the account of the Directorate's budget.

-Cases not brought to court.

For the cases not brought to court that the law classifies as "primary legal aid", should be stressed that the low level of these cases came as a result of the short period of functioning of the Free Legal Aid Directorate. The law provides that primary legal aid is accorded by: a) Primary legal aid service centers; b) Authorized non-profit organizations; c) Legal clinics at higher education institutions.

Currently, the Free Legal Aid Directorate administers only one Primary legal Aid service center in the city of Elbasan. We are in a situation where the procedure for authorizing non-profit organizations and legal clinics has not yet begun, so the above statistics for cases not brought to court are accorded only for the Primary legal Aid service center in Elbasan

It should also be stressed that the table does not include "mandatory protection cases" under provisions of criminal procedural legislation because this type of legal assistance does not fall into the scope of 111/2017, law

Q087 (General Comment): According to Article 5 of this law, legal aid is provided in the following forms: a) Primary legal aid; b) Secondary legal aid; c) exemption from payment of court fees and exemption from the obligation to pay the enforcement fee of the enforcement order. It is unclear whether all forms of legal aid can be considered as "full legal aid". In a given case, all three forms can be granted to an individual, as long as it fulfills the criteria.

There are two categories that benefit legal aid: (a) special categories of individual (b) legal aid in case of insufficient income and property.

(a) special categories of individuals

Legal aid shall be granted to the following persons, regardless of their income and their property:

a) victims of domestic violence;

b) sexually abused victims and human trafficking victims, at any stage of a criminal proceeding;

c) minor victims and minors in conflict with the law, at any stage of a criminal proceeding;

ç) children living in social care institutions;

d) children under guardianship who request to initiate a proceeding without the approval of their legal guardian or against their legal guardian;

dh) persons that benefit from the payment for disability in compliance with the provisions of the law on social aid and services, including also persons that benefit from the status of blindness;

e) persons undergoing involuntary treatment in mental health service institutions according to the provisions of the legislation in force on mental health;

ë) persons undergoing voluntary treatment in mental health service institutions for serious mental diseases;

f) persons against whom the removal or restriction of the capacity to act is requested, at any stage of this proceeding;

g) persons with removed or restricted capacity to act who request to initiate a proceeding against their legal guardian, for regaining the capacity to act without the approval of the legal guardian.

gj) persons who are beneficiaries of social protection programs.

h) persons to whom the right has been infringed through an action or inaction that constitutes discrimination on the basis of the decision of the competent organ, according to the legislation in force for protection from discrimination.

(b) legal aid in case of insufficient income and property

The right to benefit legal aid is possessed by everyone that proves that they have insufficient income and property to bear the costs for counselling, representation and/or defence in criminal cases, in administrative and in civil law cases.

The income of a person living in a household shall be considered insufficient, if the total income of all household members, divided by their number, is lower than 50 percent of the monthly minimum wage, as defined according to the legislation in force. (please note that currently minimum wage is 26.000 ALL - 210 eur)

The income of a person, not living in a household, shall be considered insufficient in the meaning of paragraph 1 of this article, if it is lower than the level of the monthly minimum wage, as defined according to the legislation in force.

4. If a person living in a household requests legal aid for a case against another member of the same household, paragraph 2 of this article shall not apply. The income of this person shall be considered insufficient in the meaning of paragraph 1 of this article if it is lower than the level of the minimum wage, as defined according to the legislation in force.

5. The property of a person shall be considered insufficient in the sense of paragraph 1 of this article, if its total value does not exceed the value of 36 monthly minimum wages, as defined according to the legislation in force. For more information you can access the law in English at: <https://euralius.eu/index.php/en/library/albanian-legislation/send/21-legal-aid/232-law-on-legal-aid-en>

Q087 (2019): The classification of full and partial legal aid is not a classification provided by 111/2017, law. According to Article 5 of this law, legal aid is provided in the following forms: a) Primary legal aid; b) Secondary legal aid; c) exemption from payment of court fees and exemption from the obligation to pay the enforcement fee of the enforcement order.

It is unclear whether all forms of legal aid can be considered as "full legal aid" or we will maintain the view that this system (full and partial legal aid) is not provided for by 111/2017 law, and fill the table with NAP.

It is also impossible to determine an exact amount of the annual income and assets spent on a free legal aid because these depends on the nature of the case, (number of experts, psychologists etc)

Q088 (2021): The classification of full and partial legal aid is not a classification provided by law no. 111/2017, law. According to article 5 of this law, legal aid is provided in the following forms: a) Primary legal aid; b) Secondary legal aid; c) exemption from payment of court fees and exemption from the obligation to pay the enforcement fee of the enforcement order. It is unclear whether all forms of legal aid can be considered as "full legal aid". Criteria for Legal Aid are stipulated in articles 11 and 12 of the law no. 111/2017

Special categories of beneficiaries of legal aid (article 11)

Article 11 mentions groups of persons who qualify for legal aid irrespective of their income and/or property. The groups covered by Article 11 can be divided into subgroups as follows: • Victims: o victims of domestic violence; o sexually abused victims and human trafficking victims, at any stage of a criminal proceeding o minor victims and minors in conflict with the law, at any stage of a criminal proceeding;

• Children: o children living in social care institutions; o children under guardianship who request to initiate a proceeding without the approval of their legal guardian or against their legal guardian

• Other vulnerable persons: o persons that benefit from the payment for disability in compliance with the provisions of the law on social aid and services, including also persons that benefit from the status of blindness; o persons undergoing involuntary treatment in mental health service institutions according to the provisions of the legislation in force on mental health; o persons undergoing voluntary treatment in mental health service institutions for serious mental diseases; o persons against whom the removal or restriction of the capacity to act is requested, at any stage of this proceeding o person with removed or restricted capacity to act who request to initiate a proceeding against their legal guardian, for regaining the capacity to act without the approval of the legal guardian • persons who are beneficiaries of social protection programs • persons to whom the right has been infringed through action or inaction that constitutes discrimination based on the decision of the competent organ, according to the legislation in force for protection from discrimination.

Article 12 (Insufficient Income and Property)

Article 12 defines under which circumstances persons with sufficient income/property

1. The right to benefit legal aid is possessed by everyone that proves that they have insufficient income and property to bear the costs for counseling, representation, and/or defense in criminal cases, administrative, and civil law cases. 2. The income of a person living in a household shall be considered insufficient in the meaning of paragraph 1 of this article, if the total income of all household members, divided by their number, is lower than 50 percent of the monthly minimum wage, as defined according to the legislation in force. 3. The income of a person, not living in a household, shall be considered insufficient if it is lower than the level of the monthly minimum wage, as defined according to the legislation in force.

4. If a person living in a household requests legal aid for a case against another member of the same household, paragraph 2 shall not apply. The income of this person shall be considered insufficient if it is lower than the level of the minimum wage, as defined according to the legislation in force.

5. The property of a person shall be considered if its total value does not exceed the value of 36 monthly minimum wages, as defined according to the legislation in force.

Referring to Article 9 point "d" of Law no. 111/2017 "On legal aid guaranteed by the state" provides that: The National Chamber of Advocacy prepares and organizes continuous training programs for lawyers included in the list of lawyers who offer secondary legal aid services, in cooperation with the Assistance Directorate Free Legal Q088-1 (2021): -Primary legal aid: If the conditions are met, primary legal aid is delivered immediately (if possible) or a date for the provision of primary legal aid is given to the party. No maximum time duration is prescribed in law/regulation. The actual average duration is 2 (two) days.

-Secondary legal aid: • The court has to decide within 5 days from the date of receipt of the request when the request has been submitted before initiation of the judicial proceeding (paragraph a); • during the preliminary actions or in the preparatory session before the scheduling of the judicial session/hearing, when the request for legal aid has been submitted • according to the provisions of the procedural legislation and the provisions of this law when the request has been filed during the judicial examination. The actual average duration is 1 month.

Q086-0-0 (General Comment): Legal aid is exercised in different types of court proceedings as a right to:

- a) general information on rights and obligations,
- b) legal advice and assistance in filling out forms,
- c) legal assistance in compiling all types of correspondence,
- d) representation in court,
- e) making an appeal and
- f) legal assistance in the procedures of peaceful settlement of the dispute (e.g. mediation).

Q086-0 (General Comment): The courts and the specialized government institutions provide free legal aid to citizens in relation to court proceedings.

Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law (e.g. obligatory defense etc.) Also, the courts may make a decision on exemption from the costs of proceedings for parties in different types of proceedings (e.g. criminal, civil). In addition, free legal aid centers have been established by the legislation adopted at all levels of government as a part of the respective public administration system. Employees of free legal aid institutions represent the citizens in various types of court and non-court proceedings or give legal advice to the citizens and compose legal documents for them. Citizens are entitled to free legal aid provided by the legal aid institutions if they fulfill financial and property criteria prescribed by the relevant legislation.

Q086 (General Comment): Criminal cases brought to court: cases (criminal/misdemeanor) in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and cases in which free legal aid was given for the costs of proceedings. Other cases brought to court: cases in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and the preparation of legal documents, cases in which free legal aid was given only through preparation of legal documents required within the court procedure, and cases in which free legal aid was given only for the costs of proceedings.

Cases not brought to court: cases (civil, enforcement, administrative, administrative-non judicial, criminal/misdemeanor, etc.) in which free legal aid was given through legal advice only by the government founded free legal aid institutions.

Free legal aid is provided in courts and by the specialized free legal aid institutions formed by the different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law. Also, the courts make a decision on exemption from the costs of proceedings for parties in different types of proceedings (e.g. criminal, civil). Employees of institutions providing free legal aid represent the party in various types of court proceedings, compose legal documents and give legal advice to a person who meets financial and property criteria. The data refer to the number of cases in which courts and institutions of free legal aid provided legal assistance in the described ways. It is important to that the number of persons who received free legal aid may be higher than the number of cases in which free legal aid was provided.

Q086 (2020): Legal aid institutions reported that their caseload was reduced in 2020 following the introduction of measures combating the spread of coronavirus.

Q086 (2019): Criminal cases brought to court: cases (criminal/misdemeanor) in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and cases in which free legal aid was given for the costs of proceedings.

Other cases brought to court: cases in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and the preparation of legal documents, cases in which free legal aid was given only through preparation of legal documents required within the court procedure, and cases in which free legal aid was given only for the costs of proceedings.

Cases not brought to court: cases (civil, enforcement, administrative, administrative-non judicial, criminal/misdemeanor, etc.) in which free legal aid was given through legal advice only by the government founded free legal aid institutions.

Q087 (General Comment): The amount provided above is an estimate made on the basis of varying financial criteria for granting free legal aid used by institutions of different levels of government for deciding on granting free legal aid to the persons of poor property status in Bosnia and Herzegovina; these criteria are linked to the amount of average salary which increased considerably in 2022. These institutions also use different criteria for owning property for granting or refusing free legal aid cumulatively with the income criterion, as well as other additional criteria (e.g. income of other family members); however, these property criteria are not intended to be expressed through monetary amounts. The examples of the assets criteria: beneficiaries of legal aid may not own or co-own a business; they also may not own two or more housing units (i.e. a house or a flat) and they may not own business premises. Partial legal aid does not exist in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Q088-1 (General Comment): Maximum duration prescribed in law for deciding on granting initial legal aid request is 15 days. This deadline applies to all types of cases. It is prescribed in the relevant legislation on the functioning of legal aid institutions. In addition, the criminal procedure codes oblige the court to urgently appoint an ex-officio attorney to the suspect/accused persons such as minors, detainees, a defendant in a criminal case in which one may be given long-term prison sentence etc.; also, pursuant to the criminal procedure codes the court will decide urgently if an attorney shall be assigned to the suspect or accused at his request if due to an adverse financial situation, he is not able to pay the expenses of the defense in the proceedings that are conducted for an offense for which a prison sentence of three or more years may be pronounced or when the interests of justice so require. Actual average duration is 8 days. This calculation is based on the actual duration of time passed between initial requests and final approvals for all procedures for granting legal aid completed in the reference year. The aforementioned calculation is based on the data gathered from the courts and legal aid institutions for 2022. The courts provided data on the timeframes with regards to deciding on requests for appointing ex-officio lawyers in criminal proceedings as well as data on granting requests for exemption from paying court taxes and other costs in the civil proceedings. The legal aid institutions provided statistics on the actual timeframes of the procedure for granting legal aid.

Q163 (General Comment): The Law on Criminal Procedure

Article 53

Victim's rights

(1) The victim of a crime shall have the following rights:

- 1) to participate in the criminal procedure as an injured party by joining the criminal prosecution or for the purpose of a legal property claim for damages;
- 2) to get special care and attention by the bodies and entities that participate in the criminal procedure; and
- 3) to get an effective psychological and other professional assistance and support by bodies, institutions and organizations that provide for help to crime victims.

(2) The police, the public prosecutor and the court shall act with special care towards the victims of criminal offenses, advising them of their rights as referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article and Articles 54 and 55 of this Law and they shall take care of their interests when making decisions for criminal prosecution of the accused, i.e. when undertaking actions during the criminal procedure when the victim has to be present in person, when they have to draft an official note or record.

(3) In accordance with the special regulations, any victim of a crime, which entails a prison sentence of at least four years, shall have the right to:

- 1) get a councilor paid by the state budget before giving a statement, i.e. declaration or filing the legal-property claim, if the victim has serious psycho-physical impairment or if there are serious consequences as a result of the crime; and
- 2) be compensated for material and non-material damages from a state fund, under conditions and in a manner as prescribed in a separate law, if the damage caused cannot be compensated from the convicted person.

Article 54

Special rights of victims of vulnerable categories of victims

(1) The victims shall have the right to special measures of process protection when giving statement or being interrogated during all stages of the procedure:

- 1) if, at the time when giving the statement, the victim is less than 18 years of age;
- 2) if giving a statement or an answer to a certain question would mean exposing themselves or another close person to a serious threat for their life, health or physical integrity (endangered victims);
- 3) if, because of their age, the nature and consequences of the crime, the physical or psychological disability or another significant health condition, the social or cultural history, family circumstances, religious beliefs and the ethnic affiliation of the victim, the behavior of the defendant, members of the defendant's family or friends towards the victim, there might be harmful consequences for their psychological or physical health or if it has a negative effect on the quality of the statement provided (especially vulnerable victims).

(2) The special measures of process protection shall be determined by the court, upon proposal from the public prosecutor or the victim, or upon its own initiative, when it is necessary to protect the endangered and especially vulnerable victims.

(3) When deciding on the determination of the special measures of process protection referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, the court shall have to take into account the victim's will.

(4) The court shall have to assign special measures of process protection in the cases as referred to in paragraph 1, item 1 of this Article:

- 1) when a child victim has a need for special care and protection; or
- 2) when the child is a human trafficking victim, victim of violence or sexual abuse.

(5) In cases as referred to in paragraph 4, individually or along with another special measure of protection, the court has to ask for a video and audio recording of the statement and interrogation of the child, so that it can be used as evidence in the procedure. In exceptional cases, because of newly established circumstances in the case, the court may order additional interview of the child victim, once more at the most, through the use of technical means of communication.

(6) The manner of implementation of the special measures of process protection of child victims is regulated with a separate law.

Article 55

- 3) if, because of their age, the nature and consequences of the crime, the physical or psychological disability or another significant health condition, the social or cultural history, family circumstances, religious beliefs and the ethnic affiliation of the victim, the behavior of the defendant, members of the defendant's family or friends towards the victim, there might be harmful consequences for their psychological or physical health or if it has a negative effect on the quality of the statement provided (especially vulnerable victims).

(2) The special measures of process protection shall be determined by the court, upon proposal from the public prosecutor or the victim, or upon its own initiative, when it is necessary to protect the endangered and especially vulnerable victims.

(3) When deciding on the determination of the special measures of process protection referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, the court shall have to take into account the victim's will.

(4) The court shall have to assign special measures of process protection in the cases as referred to in paragraph 1, item 1 of this Article:

- 1) when a child victim has a need for special care and protection; or
- 2) when the child is a human trafficking victim, victim of violence or sexual abuse.

(5) In cases as referred to in paragraph 4, individually or along with another special measure of protection, the court has to ask for a video and audio recording of the statement and interrogation of the child, so that it can be used as evidence in the procedure. In exceptional cases, because of newly established circumstances in the case, the court may order additional interview of the child victim, once more at the most, through the use of technical means of communication.

(6) The manner of implementation of the special measures of process protection of child victims is regulated with a separate law.

Article 55

Special rights of victims of crimes against gender freedom and gender morality, humanity and international law

(1) Apart from the rights established in Article 53, the victim of crimes against gender freedom and gender morality, humanity and international law, shall also have the following rights:

- 1) before the interrogation, to speak to a counselor or a proxy free of charge, if he or she participates in the procedure as an injured party;
- 2) to be interrogated by a person of the same gender in the police and the public prosecution office;
- 3) to refuse to answer questions that refer to the victim's personal life, if those are not related to the crime;
- 4) to ask for an examination with the use of visual and audio means in a manner established in this Law; and
- 5) to ask for an exclusion of the public at the main hearing.

(2) The court, the Public Prosecutions Office and the police shall be obliged to advise the victim of his or her rights referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article, prior to the very first examination at the latest and to prepare an official note or record accordingly.

Q086-0 (General Comment): The Law on Free Legal Aid ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 87 of November 13, 2018, in force from October 1st 2019): The purpose of this law is to provide every person with effective and equal access to justice. Free legal aid consists of providing legal advice, drafting submissions, representation and defending in courts. When person applies for free legal aid, he/she must address to local self-government unit, which is entitled to approve/reject the request for granting free legal aid. If the request is granted, the person will be provided free legal aid by the benefactor who must be registered on a list of benefactors kept by the Minister of Justice.

Benefactor are lawyers, mediators, notaries, employees of the self-government unit, Faculties of Law and association which are registered to provide legal aid in matters of asylum and discrimination. The request for granting free legal aid can be submitted personally or legal representative or attorney, can submit it on their behalf. The Criminal Procedure Code, Article 59:

When criminal proceedings are conducted for a criminal offense for which a sentence of imprisonment of more than five years may be imposed by law, court may, at the request of injured party, appoint a proxy (from the list of lawyers submitted to the court by the competent bar association) if it is in the interest of the proceedings and if the injured party financial situation, cannot bear the costs of representation.

Article 77: Defendant who, due to his financial situation, cannot pay the defense attorney's fee and expenses, will be assigned attorney at his request, if criminal proceedings are conducted for a criminal offense punishable by imprisonment for more than three years. In that case, the defense costs are borne by the court's budget.

Q086 (General Comment): The Law distinguishes free legal aid (legal advice, representation before court, defense, drafting of motions) and free legal support (general legal information, mediation, services of public notaries).

Legal advice and general legal information are available to everyone and are not subject to approval. The Law prescribes that citizens shall address local self-government units (hereinafter: LSG) to apply for free legal aid. Staff in LSG decide on the applications pursuant to Articles 4 and 7 of the Law (eligibility). Article 67 of the Constitution of RS provides that everyone shall be guaranteed the right to legal aid under conditions stipulated by the law. Legal aid is provided by lawyers, as an independent and autonomous service, and legal aid offices established in the units of local self-government in accordance with the law. The court shall exempt a party from the liability of paying the costs of the proceedings where that party's material situation does not allow him/her to bear such costs. Exemption from the payment of the costs of proceedings includes exemption from the payment of fees and the deposit for the costs of witnesses, expert witnesses, on-site inspections and court notices.

Q086 (2021): Please note that total data only refers to cases where legal aid is granted according to Law on Free Legal Aid, due statistic data for cases in which legal aid was granted according to Criminal Procedure Code, are not available.

This year, data from some Local Self-government units indicate that there were fewer requests than in previous ones reporting periods, which may be related to the changed functioning of the local governments due to the situation caused by COVID19. It is necessary for to enable citizens submitting requests for free legal aid even when entry to the premises of local self-government unit is not allowed for epidemiological reasons. Requests must be available to all citizens in a clearly defined and visible place.

At the same time, there are local self-government units that did not submit a report to the Ministry of Justice so it can be concluded that there were no requests in those LSU.

Q086 (2020): The Law on Free Legal Aid (2018) began to be applicable on October 1st 2019 which is why complete data were not available. Even when it is adequately gathered, as it applies to only the last quarter of the year, we do not believe it adequate to state the data from 2019 in the tables to be compared in the following cycles. The Ministry of Justice has launched the initial data collection in late January 2020 to determine data on the implementation of the Law on Free Legal Aid.

The Ministry of Justice has launched the initial data collection in late January 2020 to determine data on the implementation of the Law on Free Legal Aid. Most local governments have submitted these initial reports covering the period from October 1st 2019 to January 31st 2020, and the results are as follows:

Number of free legal aid applications submitted: 1287

Number of approved claims: 1096

Bearing in mind that this is incomplete report and that local governments are still submitting data, the regular report of the Ministry of Justice will be completed at a later date, in accordance with the Law on Free Legal Aid.

Of course, the system of legal aid existed even prior to the introduction of the modern law in 2018. However, it will be only with the full implementation of this law that complete gathering of statistics will be possible. The Law distinguishes free legal aid (legal advice, representation before court, defense, drafting of motions) and free legal support (general legal information, mediation, services of public notaries). However, information on the number of these exemptions nor their amount is currently not available.

Q087 (General Comment): The Law on Free Legal Aid ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 87/2018) was adopted in November 2018 and its implementation started in October 2019. Training of staff in all local self-government units was organized with the support of MDTF JSS, resulting in over 300 individuals authorized to decide on free legal aid applications. All implementing bylaws have been adopted. Registry of all free legal aid providers is available at the website of the Ministry of Justice, including lawyers, local self-government units CSOs, notaries and mediators. All the bylaws are also available at the website of the Ministry.

The Law on FLA regulates the provision of full legal aid. Partial legal aid is not prescribed by law. Full legal aid is available to 3 categories: A) a person who is eligible for social welfare payments under the law governing social welfare or for child allowance under the law governing financial support to families with children and members of that person's family or household, B) he is neither eligible for social welfare payments nor for child allowance but would become eligible for them if he had to pay for legal aid from his own resources, and C) vulnerable groups, regardless of financial status: (1) a child whose right, obligation or interest grounded in law is to be decided in the proceedings conducted before the court, a state authority or a public authority; 2) a person subjected to a security measure of compulsory psychiatric treatment and confinement in a medical institution or a protective measure of compulsory psychiatric treatment; 3) a person faced with the proceedings for partial/total deprivation or restoration of business capacity; 4) a person exercising the right to legal protection from domestic violence; 5) a person exercising the right to legal protection from torture, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, or human trafficking; 6) a person seeking asylum in the Republic of Serbia; 7) a refugee, a person enjoying subsidiary protection or an internally displaced person; 8) a disabled person; 9) a child protected by using accommodation services in the social welfare system; 10) a child or a young person no longer using accommodation services until the age of 26; 11) an adult or an elderly person placed in a social welfare institution against his will; 12) a person exercising the right to have his time and place of birth established under the law governing non-adversarial proceedings; 13) a person who has been affected by forceful displacement or relocation pursuant to the law governing residence.

For the category B, the income up to 34.870 rsd per month is prescribed in the relevant bylaw as the amount placing an individual in the eligible category for free legal aid (i.e. 3.546 EUR annually). The applicant's house or immovable property utilized for work or a vehicle utilized for work are excluded from calculation of one's financial status.

Q163 (General Comment): The authority conducting proceedings may ex officio, at the request of parties or the witness himself, designate as an especially vulnerable witness a witness who is especially vulnerable in view of his age, experience, lifestyle, gender, state of health, nature, the manner or the consequences of the criminal offence committed, or other circumstances (Art. 103 CPC).

An especially vulnerable witness may be examined only through the authority conducting the proceedings, which will treat the witness with particular care, endeavoring to avoid possible detrimental consequences of the criminal proceedings to the personality, physical and mental state of the witness. Examination may be conducted with the assistance of a psychologist, social worker or other professional, which will be decided by the authority conducting proceedings.

If the authority conducting proceedings decides to examine an especially vulnerable witness using technical devices for transmitting images and sound, the examination is conducted without the presence of the parties and other participants in the proceedings in the room where the witness is located.

An especially vulnerable witness may also be examined in his place of living or other premises or in an authorized institution professionally qualified for examining especially vulnerable persons. In such case the authority conducting proceedings may order application of these measures.

An especially vulnerable witness may not be confronted with the defendant, unless the defendant himself requests this and the authority conducting proceedings grants the request, taking into account the level of the witness's vulnerability and rights of defense (Art. 104 CPC).

If there exist circumstances which indicate that by giving testimony or answering certain questions a witness would expose himself or persons close to him to a danger to life, health, freedom or property of substantial size, the court may authorize one or more measures of special protection by issuing a ruling determining a status of protected witness.

The measures of special protection include questioning the protected witness under conditions and in a manner ensuring that his identity is not revealed to the general public, and exceptionally also to the defendant and his defense counsel, in accordance with this Code (Art. 105 CPC).

The measures of special protection ensuring that the identity of a protected witness is not revealed to the public are excluding the public from the trial and prohibition of publication of data about the identity of the witness.

The measure of special protection whereby data about the identity of a protected witness is withheld from the defendant and his defense counsel may be ordered by the court exceptionally if after taking statements from witnesses and the public prosecutor it determines that the life, health or freedom of the witness or a person close to him is threatened to such an extent that it justifies restricting the right to defence and that the witness is credible (Art. 106 CPC).

The provisions related to protected witness apply accordingly to the protection of an undercover investigator, expert witness, professional consultant and professional.

The Law on Program of Protection of Participants in Criminal Proceedings envisages that the protection program is implemented if participants in the criminal proceedings and close people are due to giving evidence or notifications important for proving in criminal proceedings exposed to danger to life, health, physical integrity, freedom or property, and without that testimony or notification proving would be significantly difficult or impossible in criminal proceedings for criminal offenses:

1) against constitutional order and security;

2) against humanity and other goods protected by international law;

3) organized crime.

Q163 (2020): The authority conducting proceedings may ex officio, at the request of parties or the witness himself, designate as an especially vulnerable witness a witness who is especially vulnerable in view of his age, experience, lifestyle, gender, state of health, nature, the manner or the consequences of the criminal offence committed, or other circumstances (Art. 103 CPC).

Q163 (2019): Courts are required to conduct criminal proceedings involving juveniles urgently, according to a lex specialis - the Law on Juvenile Crime Offenders and Criminal Protection of Juveniles. A juvenile shall have defense counsel during the first questioning and throughout the proceedings with the presence of psychologist. Bodies involved in juvenile proceedings and any other body or institution requested to supply information, reports or opinions shall do so without delay in order to conclude the proceeding speedily. Likewise, an attorney will be appointed, and publicity will be excluded.

Other categories enjoy special arrangements if they are given the status of "especially vulnerable witness". For example, victims of human trafficking are considered especially vulnerable witnesses. The Law on Civil Procedure provides that the court may exclude the public from the whole or part of the trial if it is required by reasons of national security, public security, moral, in the interest of public order, privacy of the parties involved or when instructed by law. The court may also exclude the public in case when measures for maintaining of order provided under this law would not secure undisturbed proceedings at the trial. Proceedings regarding family relations shall be urgent especially if they concern a child or parent exercising parental right, or domestic violence and the rights of the child. The court has to inform the minor about his/her rights, as well as to provide the presence of experts during the whole proceedings, i.e. psychologists, pedagogues, social workers, in order to protect the security and privacy of the minor. The public is excluded in this type of proceedings.

The authority conducting proceedings may ex officio, at the request of parties or the witness himself, designate as an especially vulnerable witness a witness who is especially vulnerable in view of his age, experience, lifestyle, gender, state of health, nature, the manner or the consequences of the criminal offence committed, or other circumstances (Art. 103 Criminal Procedure Code ("Official Gazette of the RS", No. 72/2011, 101/2011, 121/2012, 32/2013, 45/2013, 55/2014 and 35/2019)).

An especially vulnerable witness may be examined only through the authority conducting the proceedings, which will treat the witness with particular care, endeavoring to avoid possible detrimental consequences of the criminal proceedings to the personality, physical and mental state of the witness. Q086 (2021): From the cases handled by legal aid officers in 2021, initiated by the beneficiaries of free legal aid, through the Agency for Free Legal Aid, legal actions are addressed to the following institutions and state bodies:

- Courts - 2255 legal actions
- Municipalities and municipal bodies - 747 legal actions
- Ministries and ministerial bodies - 1214 legal actions
- Other public and private bodies - 323 legal actions

In the reporting period for 2021, 467 lawyers were engaged, of which 425 in the civil field, 22 in the administrative field and in the criminal field 20. Of these, 30 cases were successfully completed, 26 in the civil field, 4 in the administrative field and 5 cases have been terminated, while 432 cases are still pending.

Q086 (2020): This year we have been able to generate the complete data for this category. Considering that the budget for Legal Aid is divided between three institutions, data on number of cases is also divided. So, this year we were able to obtain data on the number of cases when Ex officio Lawyers were paid by Kosovo Judicial and Kosovo Prosecutorial Councils. We have used the data from KJC for the cases brought to court and the data from KPC for cases not brought to court.

Q086 (2019): In Kosovo, the budget for legal aid is divided between three institutions: Free legal aid agency (for civil cases), KJC and KPC (for criminal cases). However regarding the number of cases for which legal aid has been granted, only data for cases dealt by the Agency for free legal aid could be obtained

Q087 (General Comment): According to the article 8 of the law on Free Legal Aid, the legal aid is provided:

- 1.1. primary and
- 1.2. secondary.
2. The Primary legal aid shall be provided to all persons that acquire the right from social aid, or are in similar situation with persons acquiring the right from social aid.
3. The Secondary legal aid shall be provided to all persons who's gross family incomes are lower than the average family incomes. The amount of legal aid is specified by the free Legal Aid Agency. The fix tariffs are adopted by the Council of Free Legal Aid. The tariffs are divided in two main groups: up to 100 Euro and over 100 euro but the total amount for a case cannot exceed 500 euro. The tariffs are the same for both primary and secondary legal aid. The exact amount is defined based on the service offered (ex. Representation, Lawsuit, etc.).

Q087 (2020): We do not have official data regarding the average family incomes for 2020.

Q087 (2019): According to the article 8 of the law on Free Legal Aid, the legal aid is provided:

- 1.1. primary and
- 1.2. secondary.
2. The Primary legal aid shall be provided to all persons that acquire the right from social aid, or are in similar situation with persons acquiring the right from social aid.
3. The Secondary legal aid shall be provided to all persons who's gross family incomes are lower than the average family incomes. The amount of legal aid is specified by the free Legal Aid Agency. The fix tariffs are adopted by the Council of Free Legal Aid. The tariffs are divided in two main groups: up to 100 Euro and over 100 euro but the total amount for a case cannot exceed 500 euro. The tariffs are the same for both primary and secondary legal aid. The exact amount is defined based on the service offered (ex. Representation, Lawsuit, etc.).

Q088 (General Comment): Free legal aid is provided to all persons who fulfill the criteria as follow: 1.1. qualification criteria; 1.2. financial criteria; and 1.3. legal criteria. According to the financial criteria, the legal aid is provided: 1.1. primary and 1.2. secondary. 2. The Primary legal aid shall be provided to all persons that acquire the right from social aid, or are in similar situation with persons acquiring the right from social aid. 3. The Secondary legal aid shall be provided to all persons who's gross family incomes are lower than the average family incomes. Primary legal aid is provided to: - All persons who benefit from the right from social assistance or are in a situation similar to persons who benefit from the right from social assistance (victims of violence, marginalized groups, beneficiaries of all categories of social and pension schemes provided by the state and other schemes which are financed by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology of RK). - All persons who are in a similar situation to persons who benefit from the right to social assistance. All applicants for free legal aid who are not beneficiaries of social schemes but whose economic situation is similar to those who live on social aid are considered such. b. Secondary legal aid Secondary legal aid is offered to all persons whose total family income is less than the average family income. Regardless of the criteria required in Article 8 and 9 of the basic law, free legal aid is offered to special categories of beneficiaries of free legal aid such as: 1.1. sexually abused persons during the war in Kosovo in 1998-1999; 1.2. victims of domestic violence; 1.3. victims who witnessed violence, who are dependent on victims of domestic violence; 1.4. victims of gender-based violence; 1.5. victims of any type of sexual violence, including sexual harassment; 1.6. victims of human trafficking; 1.7. minor victims; 1.8. children living in social care institutions; 1.9. to children under guardianship seeking to initiate proceedings without the consent of their legal guardian or against their legal guardian; 1.10. persons whose rights have been violated through an action or inaction that constitutes discrimination, based on the decision of the competent body according to the law in force on protection against discrimination; 1.11. Journalists, independent journalists, photojournalists, cameramen and editors who work in/for media licensed by the Independent Media Commission (IMC) and/or member media in the Kosovo Written Media Council (KMSHK). The Agency for Free Legal Aid does not have a regulation that regulates this issue, but in order to facilitate internal procedures, a guide has been drawn up for processing cases for free legal aid and the calculation of expenses for persons who belong to the secondary category is as follows: Calculation of income and expenses: Average salary: 528 Monthly basket: One member €50 Utilities: One member €10 Rent: / Debts: / Minimum salary: €170 It is calculated as follows: Income (average salary) - monthly basket - debts/rent payments + (if he does not have the amount of a minimum wage for living, to be offered free legal aid)

Q088-1 (General Comment): With article 32 par. 4 of Law 04 / L-017 on Free Legal Aid stipulates that "The decision to allow or reject the request is taken within five (5) working days from the date of submission of complete documentation."

Q163 (General Comment): With regard to other special arrangements, they are as follows: the language assistance during a court proceeding for ethnic minorities or disabled persons and the physical protection during the time of the judicial proceeding. With regard to information mechanisms, for categories specified above, Courts send a mail to this categories in order to keep them informed regarding the procedure and for the next steps in the procedure. While, with special arrangements we meant the possibility for a minor to have his/her first declaration recorded so he/she does not have to repeat it; video conferencing of the hearing of a vulnerable person; excluding the public in case of a victim of sexual violence/rape.

Q163 (2019): With regard to other special arrangements, they are as follows: the language assistance during a court proceeding for ethnic minorities or disabled persons and the physical protection during the time of the judicial proceeding. With regard to information mechanisms, for categories specified above, Courts send a mail to this categories in order to keep them informed regarding the procedure and for the next steps in the procedure. (General Comment): The courts and the specialized government institutions provide free legal aid to citizens in relation to court proceedings.

Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law (e.g. obligatory defense etc.) Also, the courts may make a decision on exemption from the costs of proceedings for parties in different types of proceedings (e.g. criminal, civil). In addition, free legal aid centers have been established by the legislation adopted at all levels of government as a part of the respective public administration system. Employees of free legal aid institutions represent the citizens in various types of court and non-court proceedings or give legal advice to the citizens and compose legal documents for them. Citizens are entitled to free legal aid provided by the legal aid institutions if they fulfill financial and property criteria prescribed by the relevant legislation.

(General Comment): The Law on Free Legal Aid ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 87 of November 13, 2018, in force from October 1st 2019): The purpose of this law is to provide every person with effective and equal access to justice. Free legal aid consists of providing legal advice, drafting submissions, representation and defending in courts. When person applies for free legal aid, he/she must address to local self-government unit, which is entitled to approve/reject the request for granting free legal aid. If the request is granted, the person will be provided free legal aid by the benefactor who must be registered on a list of benefactors kept by the Minister of Justice. Benefactor are lawyers, mediators, notaries, employees of the self-government unit, Faculties of Law and association which are registered to provide legal aid in matters of asylum and discrimination. The request for granting free legal aid can be submitted personally or legal representative or attorney, can submit it on their behalf. The Criminal Procedure Code, Article 59:

When criminal proceedings are conducted for a criminal offense for which a sentence of imprisonment of more than five years may be imposed by law, court may, at the request of injured party, appoint a proxy (from the list of lawyers submitted to the court by the competent bar association) if it is in the interest of the proceedings and if the injured party financial situation, cannot bear the costs of representation.

Article 77: Defendant who, due to his financial situation, cannot pay the defense attorney's fee and expenses, will be assigned attorney at his request, if criminal proceedings are conducted for a criminal offense punishable by imprisonment for more than three years. In that case, the defense costs are borne by the court's budget.

Albania

(2022): As for the year 2022, 7616 citizens have been treated with primary legal aid and 1030 court decisions have been administered with the object of secondary legal aid.

During 2022 according to the scope of court cases that citizens have requested secondary legal assistance, it is evident that they are mainly civil cases. Out of the total number of requests for legal aid of 1030, 691 of them are civil, where the main ones are marriage settlement, pension benefits and property conflicts. While the other two categories, where 70 are criminal and 269 are administrative cases.

(2021): We highlight that Instruction No. 1, dated 08/03/2019 of the Minister of Justice on "The approval of rules and procedures for the collection, completion, and administration of registers"

(2020): The Law no. 111/2017 on State Guaranteed Legal Aid (Law on Legal Aid) entered into force on 1 June 2018. It foresees a comprehensive system of •Primary Legal Aid (“out of court support”)

•Secondary Legal Aid (representation by an advocate in a court procedure) and the

Primary legal aid is defined in Article 3 (b) of law no. 111/2017. It comprises -providing of information regarding the legal system and legal acts, -the delivery of counselling, -the delivery of advice on the procedures of mediation and the alternative means of dispute resolutions,

-the delivery of assistance in drafting and establishing of documentation to -representation before administration bodies, -the delivery of all other forms of necessary legal support not constituting secondary legal aid.

The possible providers of primary legal aid are

•Specially trained officers in primary legal aid service centers (or other premises) (Article 14)

•NPOs providing primary legal aid (Article 15)

Secondary legal aid is (Article 18)

•provided by advocates included in the list approved by the National Chamber of Advocates, •upon the request (according to the form) of •the person entitled to receive secondary legal aid under articles 11 or 12 of this law. Secondary legal aid is first approved by decision of the court or proceeding body. The individual lawyer is then in principle appointed and also replaced by the local chamber of advocates

Referring to the terminology used in this report, the section "Cases brought to court" is filled with the data collected by "Secondary legal aid and exemption from court fees and fees cases" while the section "Cases not referred to court" is completed with "primary legal aid" data.

Also, we highlight that the Instruction No. 1, dated 08/03/2019 of the Minister of Justice on “The approval of rules and procedures for the collection, completion and administration of registers’ data” determines that: Each state guaranteed legal aid service provider shall periodically send to the Directorate every month, the data of requests and self-declarations of the requesting entities submitted in order to receive state guaranteed legal aid. The data is sent within the first 5 (five) days of the month following the reference month. Consequently, in the conditions when the data on the cases handled during February are reported within 5 March 2021, the cases handled by primary and secondary legal aid providers for February 2021, are not included in this report.

(2019): Notes:

Law no. 111/2017, "On State-Guaranteed Legal Aid", entered into force on June 1-st 2018. This law, part of the legal package of the judicial reform in Albania, provided the termination of the existence of the State Commission of Legal Aid (existing institution of the time) and the establishment of the Free Legal Aid Directorate, as the responsible institution for administering free legal aid system.

The establishment of the Free Legal Aid Directorate was accomplished by the Prime Minister order no. 59, date 25.03.2019, about 1 year after the entry into force of the law.

Consequently, during this transitional period until the establishment of the Free Legal Aid Directorate we have no treatment of free legal aid cases.

Consequently, the data represented in the table regards the period of May 2019 to December 2019

-Cases brought to court,

Law 111/2017, unlike the repealed law, provides as a form of legal aid even the:

a) exemption from the payment of general and special fees (as provided by the law on court fees of the Republic of Albania); b) payment of court expenses (costs for witnesses, experts, translators, examinations of places and items etc)

The decision to provide the aforementioned services, together with the request to provide counseling and representation before the court, is given by a decision of the competent court under the procedural law. Every court decision is communicated to the Free Legal Aid Directorate together with the respective fee which is held in the account of the Directorate's budget.

-Cases not brought to court.

For the cases not brought to court that the law classifies as “primary legal aid”, should be stressed that the low level of these cases came as a result of the short period of functioning of the Free Legal Aid Directorate. The law provides that primary legal aid is accorded by: a) Primary legal aid service centers; b) Authorized non-profit organizations; c) Legal clinics at higher education institutions.

Currently, the Free Legal Aid Directorate administers only one Primary legal Aid service center in the city of Elbasan. We are in a situation where the procedure for authorizing non-profit organizations and legal clinics has not yet begun, so the above statistics for cases not brought to court are accorded only for the Primary legal Aid service center in Elbasan

It should also be stressed that the table does not include “mandatory protection cases” under provisions of criminal procedural legislation because this type of legal assistance does not fall into the scope of 111/2017, law

(General Comment): Criminal cases brought to court: cases (criminal/misdemeanor) in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and cases in which free legal aid was given for the costs of proceedings.

Other cases brought to court: cases in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and the preparation of legal documents, cases in which free legal aid was given only through preparation of legal documents required within the court procedure, and cases in which free legal aid was given only for the costs of proceedings.

Cases not brought to court: cases (civil, enforcement, administrative, administrative-non judicial, criminal/misdemeanor, etc.) in which free legal aid was given through legal advice only by the government founded free legal aid institutions.

Free legal aid is provided in courts and by the specialized free legal aid institutions formed by the different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law. Also, the courts make a decision on exemption from the costs of proceedings for parties in different types of proceedings (e.g. criminal, civil). Employees of institutions providing free legal aid represent the party in various types of court proceedings, compose legal documents and give legal advice to a person who meets financial and property criteria. The data refer to the number of cases in which courts and institutions of free legal aid provided legal assistance in the described ways. It is important to that the number of persons who received free legal aid may be higher than the number of cases in which free legal aid was provided.

(2020): Legal aid institutions reported that their caseload was reduced in 2020 following the introduction of measures combating the spread of coronavirus.

(2019): Criminal cases brought to court: cases (criminal/misdemeanor) in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and cases in which free legal aid was given for the costs of proceedings.

Other cases brought to court: cases in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and the preparation of legal documents, cases in which free legal aid was given only through preparation of legal documents required within the court procedure, and cases in which free legal aid was given only for the costs of proceedings.

Cases not brought to court: cases (civil, enforcement, administrative, administrative-non judicial, criminal/misdemeanor, etc.) in which free legal aid was given through legal advice only by the government founded free legal aid institutions.

(General Comment): The Law distinguishes free legal aid (legal advice, representation before court, defense, drafting of motions) and free legal support (general legal information, mediation, etc.).

(2021): Please note that total data only refers to cases where legal aid is granted according to Law on Free Legal Aid, due to statistic data for cases in which legal aid was granted according to Criminal Procedure Code, are not available.

This year, data from some Local Self-government units indicate that there were fewer requests than in previous ones reporting periods, which may be related to the changed functioning of the local governments due to the situation caused by COVID19. It is necessary for to enable citizens submitting requests for free legal aid even when entry to the premises of local self-government unit is not allowed for epidemiological reasons. Requests must be available to all citizens in a clearly defined and visible place.

At the same time, there are local self-government units that did not submit a report to the Ministry of Justice so it can be concluded that there were no requests in those LSU.

(2019): The Law on Free Legal Aid (2018) began to be applicable on October 1st 2019 which is why complete data is not available. Even when it is adequately gathered, as it applies to only the last quarter of the year, we do not believe it adequate to state the data from 2019 in the tables to be compared in the following cycles. The Ministry of Justice has launched the initial data collection in late January 2020 to determine data on the implementation of the Law on Free Legal Aid. Most local governments have submitted these initial reports covering the period from October 1st 2019 to January 31st 2020, and the results are as follows:

Number of free legal aid applications submitted: 1287

Number of approved claims: 1096

Bearing in mind that this is incomplete report and that local governments are still submitting data, the regular report of the Ministry of Justice will be completed at a later date, in accordance with the Law on Free Legal Aid.

Of course, the system of legal aid existed even prior to the introduction of the modern law in 2018. However, it will be only with the full implementation of this law that complete gathering of statistics will be possible. The Law distinguishes free legal aid (legal advice, representation before court, defense, drafting of motions) and free legal support (general legal information, mediation, services of public notaries). Legal advice and general legal information are available to everyone and are not subject to approval. The Law prescribes that citizens shall address local self-government units (hereinafter: LSG) to apply for free legal aid. Staff in LSG decide on the applications pursuant to Articles 4 and 7 of the Law (eligibility). Article 67 of the Constitution of RS provides that everyone shall be guaranteed the right to legal aid under conditions stipulated by the law. Legal aid is provided by lawyers, as an independent and autonomous service, and legal aid offices established in the units of local self-government in accordance with the law. The court shall exempt a party from the liability of paying the costs of the proceedings where that party's material situation does not allow him/her to bear such costs. Exemption from the payment of the costs of proceedings includes exemption from the payment of fees and the deposit for the costs of witnesses, expert witnesses, on-site inspections and court notices. However, information on the number of these exemptions nor their amount is currently not available.

(2021): From the cases handled by legal aid officers in 2021, initiated by the beneficiaries of free legal aid, through the Agency for Free Legal Aid, legal actions are addressed to the following institutions and state bodies:

- Courts - 2255 legal actions

- Municipalities and municipal bodies - 747 legal actions

- Ministries and ministerial bodies - 1214 legal actions

- Other public and private bodies - 323 legal actions

In the reporting period for 2021, 467 lawyers were engaged, of which 425 in the civil field, 22 in the administrative field and in the criminal field 20. Of these, 30 cases were successfully completed, 26 in the civil field, 4 in the administrative field and 5 cases have been terminated, while 432 cases are still pending.

Albania

(General Comment): According to Article 5 of this law, legal aid is provided in the following forms: a) Primary legal aid; b) Secondary legal aid; c) exemption from payment of court fees and exemption from the obligation to pay the enforcement fee of the enforcement order. It is unclear whether all forms of legal aid can be considered as "full legal aid". In a given case, all three forms can be granted to an individual, as long as it fulfills the criteria. There are two categories that benefit legal aid: (a) special categories of individual (b) legal aid in case of insufficient income and property.

(a) special categories of individuals

Legal aid shall be granted to the following persons, regardless of their income and their property:

a) victims of domestic violence;

b) sexually abused victims and human trafficking victims, at any stage of a criminal proceeding;

c) minor victims and minors in conflict with the law, at any stage of a criminal proceeding;

ç) children living in social care institutions;

d) children under guardianship who request to initiate a proceeding without the approval of their legal guardian or against their legal guardian;

dh) persons that benefit from the payment for disability in compliance with the provisions of the law on social aid and services, including also persons that benefit from the status of blindness;

e) persons undergoing involuntary treatment in mental health service institutions according to the provisions of the legislation in force on mental health;

ë) persons undergoing voluntary treatment in mental health service institutions for serious mental diseases;

f) persons against whom the removal or restriction of the capacity to act is requested, at any stage of this proceeding;

g) persons with removed or restricted capacity to act who request to initiate a proceeding against their legal guardian, for regaining the capacity to act without the approval of the legal guardian.

gj) persons who are beneficiaries of social protection programs.

h) persons to whom the right has been infringed through an action or inaction that constitutes discrimination on the basis of the decision of the competent organ, according to the legislation in force for protection from discrimination.

(b) legal aid in case of insufficient income and property

(2019): The classification of full and partial legal aid is not a classification provided by 111/2017, law. According to Article 5 of this law, legal aid is provided in the following forms: a) Primary legal aid; b) Secondary legal aid; c) exemption from payment of court fees and exemption from the obligation to pay the enforcement fee of the enforcement order.

It is unclear whether all forms of legal aid can be considered as "full legal aid" or we will maintain the view that this system (full and partial legal aid) is not provided for by 111/2017 law, and fill the table with NAP.

It is also impossible to determine an exact amount of the annual income and assets spent on a free legal aid because these depends on the nature of the case, (number of experts, psychologists etc)

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The amount provided above is an estimate made on the basis of varying financial criteria for granting free legal aid used by institutions of different levels of government for deciding on granting free legal aid to the persons of poor property status in Bosnia and Herzegovina; these criteria are linked to the amount of average salary which increased considerably in 2022. These institutions also use different criteria for owning property for granting or refusing free legal aid cumulatively with the income criterion, as well as other additional criteria (e.g. income of other family members); however, these property criteria are not intended to be expressed through monetary amounts. The examples of the assets criteria: beneficiaries of legal aid may not own or co-own a business; they also may not own two or more housing units (i.e. a house or a flat) and they may not own business premises. Partial legal aid does not exist in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

North Macedonia

(2019): North Macedonia has dual system of legal aid. First one through Ministry of Justice according to the Law on free legal aid, and second through courts according to the Law on Civil Procedure (legal aid for poor parties) and law on Criminal Procedure (obligatory defense).

The new Law on free legal aid was adopted.

According to the Article 15 of the new Law on free legal aid, the following persons are eligible to apply for secondary legal aid:

- a citizen of the Republic of North Macedonia with domicile in the Republic of North Macedonia;
- a foreign national with a permit for temporary or permanent stay in the Republic of North Macedonia, or a stateless person legally staying in the Republic of North Macedonia;
- a person entitled to legal aid provided by the Republic of North Macedonia pursuant to the international treaties ratified in accordance with the Constitution of the Republic of North Macedonia; and
- asylum seekers.

CHAPTER II. CRITERIA FOR APPROVING SECONDARY LEGAL AID

Article 17

General criteria for approving secondary legal aid

(1) The secondary legal aid applicant (hereinafter: the applicant) shall be entitled to secondary legal aid if their financial standing prevents them from exercising their constitutional and legal rights without jeopardising their livelihood and the livelihood of the family members in their household.

(2) The financial standing of the applicant and their family members shall be established on the grounds of a written statement on their financial standing (hereinafter: the statement) provided by the legal aid applicant as part of the secondary legal aid application.

(3) The applicant shall be approved secondary legal aid if:

- they meet the income and property criteria stipulated in Article 18 and Article 19 of this law; or
- they meet the criteria stipulated as an exception for approving legal aid under Article 20 of this law.

(4) The applicant shall be approved secondary legal aid if in addition to the criteria of paragraph (3) hereof, the secondary legal aid application is justified in accordance with Article 21 of this law.

(5) If the applicant provides inaccurate information regarding their financial standing or the financial standing of their family members in the written statement on their financial standing for the purpose of having secondary legal aid approved, the secondary legal aid application shall be declined and the application shall not be able to file a new secondary legal aid application prior to the expiry of 12 months from the delivery of the notification.

(6) In establishing the financial standing of the applicant and their family members, the income and property of the family members who appear as an opposing party in the procedure subject to the secondary legal aid application shall not be taken into account.

Serbia

(General Comment): The Law on Free Legal Aid ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 87/2018) was adopted in November 2018 and its implementation started in October 2019.

Training of staff in all local self-government units was organized with the support of MDTF JSS, resulting in over 300 individuals authorized to decide on free legal aid applications. All implementing bylaws have been adopted. Registry of all free legal aid providers is available at the website of the Ministry of Justice, including lawyers, local self-government units CSOs, notaries and mediators. All the bylaws are also available at the website of the Ministry.

The Law on FLA regulates the provision of full legal aid. Partial legal aid is not prescribed by law. Full legal aid is available to 3 categories: A) a person who is eligible for social welfare payments under the law governing social welfare or for child allowance under the law governing financial support to families with children and members of that person's family or household, B) he is neither eligible for social welfare payments nor for child allowance but would become eligible for them if he had to pay for legal aid from his own resources, and C) vulnerable groups, regardless of financial status: (1) a child whose right, obligation or interest grounded in law is to be decided in the proceedings conducted before the court, a state authority or a public authority; 2) a person subjected to a security measure of compulsory psychiatric treatment and confinement in a medical institution or a protective measure of compulsory psychiatric treatment; 3) a person faced with the proceedings for partial/total deprivation or restoration of business capacity; 4) a person exercising the right to legal protection from domestic violence; 5) a person exercising the right to legal protection from torture, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, or human trafficking; 6) a person seeking asylum in the Republic of Serbia; 7) a refugee, a person enjoying subsidiary protection or an internally displaced person; 8) a disabled person; 9) a child protected by using accommodation services in the social welfare system; 10) a child or a young person no longer using accommodation services until the age of 26; 11) an adult or an elderly person placed in a social welfare institution against his will; 12) a person exercising the right to have his time and place of birth established under the law governing non-adversarial proceedings; 13) a person who has been affected by forceful displacement or relocation pursuant to the law governing residence.

For the category B, the income up to 34.870 rsd per month is prescribed in the relevant bylaw as the amount placing an individual in the eligible category for free legal aid (i.e. 3.546 EUR annually). The applicant's house or immovable property utilized for work or a vehicle utilized for work are excluded from calculation of one's financial status.

(General Comment): According to the article 8 of the law on Free Legal Aid, the legal aid is provided:

1.1. primary and

1.2. secondary.

2. The Primary legal aid shall be provided to all persons that acquire the right from social aid, or are in similar situation with persons acquiring the right from social aid.

3. The Secondary legal aid shall be provided to all persons who's gross family incomes are lower than the average family incomes. The amount of legal aid is specified by the free Legal Aid Agency. The fix tariffs are adopted by the Council of Free Legal Aid. The tariffs are divided in two main groups: up to 100 Euro and over 100 euro but the total amount for a case cannot exceed 500 euro. The tariffs are the same for both primary and secondary legal aid. The exact amount is defined based on the service offered (ex. Representation, Lawsuit, etc.).

Albania

(2021): The classification of full and partial legal aid is not a classification provided by law no. 111/2017, law. According to article 5 of this law, legal aid is provided in the following forms: a) Primary legal aid; b) Secondary legal aid; c) exemption from payment of court fees and exemption from the obligation to pay the enforcement fee of the enforcement order. It is unclear whether all forms of legal aid can be considered as "full legal aid". Criteria for Legal Aid are stipulated in articles 11 and 12 of the law no. 111/2017

Special categories of beneficiaries of legal aid (article 11)

Article 11 mentions groups of persons who qualify for legal aid irrespective of their income and/or property. The groups covered by Article 11 can be divided into subgroups as follows: •

Victims: o victims of domestic violence; o sexually abused victims and human trafficking victims, at any stage of a criminal proceeding o minor victims and minors in conflict with the law, at any stage of a criminal proceeding;

• Children: o children living in social care institutions; o children under guardianship who request to initiate a proceeding without the approval of their legal guardian or against their legal guardian

• Other vulnerable persons: o persons that benefit from the payment for disability in compliance with the provisions of the law on social aid and services, including also persons that benefit from the status of blindness; o persons undergoing involuntary treatment in mental health service institutions according to the provisions of the legislation in force on mental health; o persons undergoing voluntary treatment in mental health service institutions for serious mental diseases; o persons against whom the removal or restriction of the capacity to act is requested, at any stage of this proceeding o person with removed or restricted capacity to act who request to initiate a proceeding against their legal guardian, for regaining the capacity to act without the approval of the legal guardian • persons who are beneficiaries of social protection programs • persons to whom the right has been infringed through action or inaction that constitutes discrimination based on the decision of the competent organ, according to the legislation in force for protection from discrimination.

Article 12 (Insufficient Income and Property)

Article 12 defines under which circumstances persons with sufficient income/property

1. The right to benefit legal aid is possessed by everyone that proves that they have insufficient income and property to bear the costs for counseling, representation, and/or defense in criminal cases, administrative, and civil law cases. 2. The income of a person living in a household shall be considered insufficient in the meaning of paragraph 1 of this article, if the total income of all household members, divided by their number, is lower than 50 percent of the monthly minimum wage, as defined according to the legislation in force. 3. The income of a person, not living in a household, shall be considered insufficient if it is lower than the level of the monthly minimum wage, as defined according to the legislation in force.

4. If a person living in a household requests legal aid for a case against another member of the same household, paragraph 2 shall not apply. The income of this person shall be considered insufficient if it is lower than the level of the minimum wage, as defined according to the legislation in force.

5. The property of a person shall be considered if its total value does not exceed the value of 36 monthly minimum wages, as defined according to the legislation in force.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2021): The amount provided above is an estimate made on the basis of varying financial criteria for granting free legal aid used by institutions of different levels of government for deciding on granting free legal aid to the persons of poor property status in Bosnia and Herzegovina; these criteria are linked to the amount of average salary which rose considerably in 2021. These institutions also use different criteria for owning property for granting or refusing free legal aid cumulatively with the income criterion, as well as other additional criteria (e.g. income of other family members); however, these property criteria are not intended to be expressed through monetary amounts. The examples of the assets criteria: beneficiaries of legal aid may not own or co-own a business; they also may not own two or more housing units (i.e. a house or a flat) and they may not own business premises. Partial legal aid does not exist in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

North Macedonia

(General Comment): North Macedonia has dual system of legal aid. First one through Ministry of Justice according to the Law on free legal aid, and second through courts according to the Law on Civil Procedure (legal aid for poor parties) and law on Criminal Procedure (obligatory defense).

According to the Article 15 of the new Law on free legal aid, which started with implementation in October 2019, the following persons are eligible to apply for secondary legal aid:

- ~~is~~ citizen of the Republic of North Macedonia with domicile in the Republic of North Macedonia;
- ~~is~~ foreign national with a permit for temporary or permanent stay in the Republic of North Macedonia, or a stateless person legally staying in the Republic of North Macedonia;
- ~~is~~ person entitled to legal aid provided by the Republic of North Macedonia pursuant to the international treaties ratified in accordance with the Constitution of the Republic of North Macedonia; and
- ~~is~~ asylum seekers.

If the defendant or witness is a person with impaired hearing, the questions shall be in writing, and if it is a person with impaired speech, shall be asked to answer in writing. If the hearing can not be conducted in this way, an interpreter shall be summoned to communicate with defendant or witness.

A person with special needs, a victim of a crime of family or domestic violence and of human trafficking is entitled to free legal aid which implies the provision of resources for full or partial coverage of the costs for legal counseling, preparation of pleadings, representation in proceedings before the court, the State Prosecution and the Constitutional Court of Montenegro and any procedure for out of court dispute settlement, as well as exemption from payment of the costs of court proceedings.

In Montenegro, there is a special law that applies to juvenile offenders. - The law on Treatment of Juveniles in Criminal Proceedings. This law regulates the treatment of a minor as an offender, child and juvenile as a participant in the proceedings, which is based on respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms taking into account the best interests of minors, their maturity, level of development, abilities and personal capacities, as well as the severity of the crime, with the aim of their rehabilitation and social reintegration.

Article 53

Victim's rights

(1) The victim of a crime shall have the following rights:

- 1) to participate in the criminal procedure as an injured party by joining the criminal prosecution or for the purpose of a legal property claim for damages;
- 2) to get special care and attention by the bodies and entities that participate in the criminal procedure; and
- 3) to get an effective psychological and other professional assistance and support by bodies, institutions and organizations that provide for help to crime victims.

(2) The police, the public prosecutor and the court shall act with special care towards the victims of criminal offenses, advising them of their rights as referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article and Articles 54 and 55 of this Law and they shall take care of their interests when making decisions for criminal prosecution of the accused, i.e. when undertaking actions during the criminal procedure when the victim has to be present in person, when they have to draft an official note or record.

(3) In accordance with the special regulations, any victim of a crime, which entails a prison sentence of at least four years, shall have the right to:

- 1) get a councilor paid by the state budget before giving a statement, i.e. declaration or filing the legal-property claim, if the victim has serious psycho-physical impairment or if there are serious consequences as a result of the crime; and
- 2) be compensated for material and non-material damages from a state fund, under conditions and in a manner as prescribed in a separate law, if the damage caused cannot be compensated from the convicted person.

Article 54

Special rights of victims of vulnerable categories of victims

(1) The victims shall have the right to special measures of process protection when giving statement or being interrogated during all stages of the procedure:

- 1) if, at the time when giving the statement, the victim is less than 18 years of age;
 - 2) if giving a statement or an answer to a certain question would mean exposing themselves or another close person to a serious threat for their life, health or physical integrity (endangered victims);
 - 3) if, because of their age, the nature and consequences of the crime, the physical or psychological disability or another significant health condition, the social or cultural history, family circumstances, religious beliefs and the ethnic affiliation of the victim, the behavior of the defendant, members of the defendant's family or friends towards the victim, there might be harmful consequences for their psychological or physical health or if it has a negative effect on the quality of the statement provided (especially vulnerable victims).

Serbia

(General Comment): The authority conducting proceedings may ex officio, at the request of parties or the witness himself, designate as an especially vulnerable witness a witness who is especially vulnerable in view of his age, experience, lifestyle, gender, state of health, nature, the manner or the consequences of the criminal offence committed, or other circumstances (Art. 103 CPC).

An especially vulnerable witness may be examined only through the authority conducting the proceedings, which will treat the witness with particular care, endeavoring to avoid possible detrimental consequences of the criminal proceedings to the personality, physical and mental state of the witness. Examination may be conducted with the assistance of a psychologist, social worker or other professional, which will be decided by the authority conducting proceedings.

If the authority conducting proceedings decides to examine an especially vulnerable witness using technical devices for transmitting images and sound, the examination is conducted without the presence of the parties and other participants in the proceedings in the room where the witness is located.

An especially vulnerable witness may also be examined in his place of living or other premises or in an authorized institution professionally qualified for examining especially vulnerable persons. In such case the authority conducting proceedings may order application of these measures.

An especially vulnerable witness may not be confronted with the defendant, unless the defendant himself requests this and the authority conducting proceedings grants the request, taking into account the level of the witness's vulnerability and rights of defense (Art. 104 CPC).

If there exist circumstances which indicate that by giving testimony or answering certain questions a witness would expose himself or persons close to him to a danger to life, health, freedom or property of substantial size, the court may authorize one or more measures of special protection by issuing a ruling determining a status of protected witness.

The measures of special protection include questioning the protected witness under conditions and in a manner ensuring that his identity is not revealed to the general public, and exceptionally also to the defendant and his defense counsel, in accordance with this Code (Art. 105 CPC).

The measures of special protection ensuring that the identity of a protected witness is not revealed to the public are excluding the public from the trial and prohibition of publication of data about the identity of the witness.

The measure of special protection whereby data about the identity of a protected witness is withheld from the defendant and his defense counsel may be ordered by the court exceptionally if after taking statements from witnesses and the public prosecutor it determines that the life, health or freedom of the witness or a person close to him is threatened to such an extent that it justifies restricting the right to defence and that the witness is credible (Art. 106 CPC).

The provisions related to protected witness apply accordingly to the protection of an undercover investigator, expert witness, professional consultant and professional.

The Law on Program of Protection of Participants in Criminal Proceedings envisages that the protection program is implemented if participants in the criminal proceedings and close people are due to giving evidence or notifications important for proving in criminal proceedings exposed to danger to life, health, physical integrity, freedom or property, and without that testimony or notification proving would be significantly difficult or impossible in criminal proceedings for criminal offenses:

- 1) against constitutional order and security;
- 2) against humanity and other goods protected by international law;

(2019): Courts are required to conduct criminal proceedings involving juveniles urgently, according to a lex specialis - the Law on Juvenile Crime Offenders and Criminal Protection of Juveniles. A juvenile shall have defense counsel during the first questioning and throughout the proceedings with the presence of psychologist. Bodies involved in juvenile proceedings and any other body or institution requested to supply information, reports or opinions shall do so without delay in order to conclude the proceeding speedily. Likewise, an attorney will be appointed, and publicity will be excluded.

Other categories enjoy special arrangements if they are given the status of “especially vulnerable witness”. For example, victims of human trafficking are considered especially vulnerable witnesses. The Law on Civil Procedure provides that the court may exclude the public from the whole or part of the trial if it is required by reasons of national security, public security, moral, in the interest of public order, privacy of the parties involved or when instructed by law. The court may also exclude the public in case when measures for maintaining of order provided under this law would not secure undisturbed proceedings at the trial. Proceedings regarding family relations shall be urgent especially if they concern a child or parent exercising parental right, or domestic violence and the rights of the child. The court has to inform the minor about his/her rights, as well as to provide the presence of experts during the whole proceedings, i.e. psychologists, pedagogues, social workers, in order to protect the security and privacy of the minor. The public is excluded in this type of proceedings.

The authority conducting proceedings may ex officio, at the request of parties or the witness himself, designate as an especially vulnerable witness a witness who is especially vulnerable in view of his age, experience, lifestyle, gender, state of health, nature, the manner or the consequences of the criminal offence committed, or other circumstances (Art. 103 Criminal Procedure Code ("Official Gazette of the RS", No. 72/2011, 101/2011, 121/2012, 32/2013, 45/2013, 55/2014 and 35/2019)).

An especially vulnerable witness may be examined only through the authority conducting the proceedings, which will treat the witness with particular care, endeavoring to avoid possible detrimental consequences of the criminal proceedings to the personality, physical and mental state of the witness. Examination may be conducted with the assistance of a psychologist, social worker or other professional, which will be decided by the authority conducting proceedings.

Q089 (General Comment): The School of Magistrates shall receive applications for admission to the initial training by end of February of each year. The applicants submit the necessary documents proving the fulfilment of the criteria determined to be appointed as a magistrate as provided in the status law. Where the submitted documentation does not fully prove the fulfilment of the criteria, or is not complete, accurate, or there are reasonable doubts regarding its authenticity, the School of Magistrates may request further information or documentation from state institutions or employers of an applicant. By 15 March each year, the School of Magistrates carries out a preliminary assessment as to whether the applicant satisfies the application criteria. The School submits to the Councils the report of preliminary assessment outcome, together with the files of the application documents for each applicant. The Councils may deliver comments or objections not later than by end of March each year. The School of Magistrates adopts the final assessment report by taking into account the comments and objections received and publishes the final assessment report on its official website, including the list of applicants who fulfil the criteria.

Any applicant, who is not included in the list of applicants meeting the criteria, has the right to appeal the decision.

The admission exam takes place by the end of April of each year and is opened to all applicants included in the list of qualified applicants.

The admission exam is divided into three parts: a general admission exam, a professional exam and a psychological evaluation exam. The general admission exam focuses on IQ tests and general knowledge test. The participants need to obtain at least 60% to be qualified for the next stage. The professional exam is a written exam with theoretical and case law questions. The third part of the exam is performed by a team of two medical psychiatrist, two psychologist and one of the professors of the school. The School of Magistrates establishes a ranking list of the applicants in accordance with the exam results and publishes the adopted list by the 15th of May each year, by indicating in the list also the maximum number of candidates admitted to the initial training, in accordance with the decision of the Councils.

Q102 (2022): Administrative Court of Appeal

Q103 (General Comment): Integrity is part of the selection process in three moments. The first control, made by the School of Magistrates, is if the candidate fulfil the criteria for admission to initial training, two of which consist in integrity: they must have never been criminally convicted by a final decision and they must have never been dismissed from office for disciplinary reasons and are not subject to a current disciplinary sanction.

The second control is made with the psychological and mental health assessment, which is part of the recruitment exam. This assessment is also focused in the approach of the candidates to corruption, ethics, etc. And the third control is made by the Councils, after the applicants have successfully passed the two phases and the psychological and mental health assessment. The Councils shall request for each applicant, information from competent institutions for the verification of assets and background check regarding any other disqualifying grounds from the High Inspectorate for the Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interest, prosecution office, financial, tax and customs authorities, National Bureau of Investigation, state intelligence institutions and any disciplinary authorities having supervised the discipline in the labour relations of the candidate.

Q104 (General Comment): The status of a magistrate shall end upon:

- a) His or her resignation;
- b) Establishment of circumstances of his/her inelectability and incompatibility in exercising the function;
- c) Reaching the retirement age 67 years old;
- ç) Dismissal as a result of a disciplinary liability, in accordance with this Law;
- d) Establishment of circumstances of inability to exercise the function.

2. Judges of the High Court shall retire at the age of 70. The mandate of a High Court judge shall end upon reaching the age of 70, regardless of the years of assuming the function in this position. The judges of the High Court are appointed for a 9 year term, without the right to re-appointment.

Q111 (General Comment): The School of Magistrates shall receive applications for admission to the initial training by end of February of each year. The applicants submit the necessary documents proving the fulfilment of the criteria determined to be appointed as a magistrate as provided in the status law. Where the submitted documentation does not fully prove the fulfilment of the criteria, or is not complete, accurate, or there are reasonable doubts regarding its authenticity, the School of Magistrates may request further information or documentation from state institutions or employers of an applicant. By 15 March each year, the School of Magistrates carries out a preliminary assessment as to whether the applicant satisfies the application criteria. The School submits to the Councils the report of preliminary assessment outcome, together with the files of the application documents for each applicant. The Councils may deliver comments or objections not later than by end of March each year. The School of Magistrates adopts the final assessment report by taking into account the comments and objections received and publishes the final assessment report on its official website, including the list of applicants who fulfil the criteria.

Any applicant, who is not included in the list of applicants meeting the criteria, has the right to appeal the decision. The admission exam takes place by the end of April of each year and is opened to all applicants included in the list of qualified applicants. The admission exam is divided into three parts: a general admission exam, a professional exam and a psychological evaluation exam. The general admission exam focuses on IQ tests and general knowledge test. The participants need to obtain at least 60% to be qualified for the next stage. The professional exam is a written exam with theoretical and case law questions. Q111 (2022): a combination of both (competitive exam and working experience)

Q112 (General Comment): In addition to the above criteria, in the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, it is stipulated that candidates must meet other criteria such as:

- the lack of disciplinary measures in force;
- should not be members of political parties in the at the time of candidacy;
- they must not be a member or associate of State Security prior to 1990 and;
- have not been an associate, informant, or intelligence agent.

Q112 (2022): Related to the “age” criteria to become a prosecutor, in the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended, there is no any criteria related to the age of the candidates to enter the exam and then, accepted in the Initial Forming program of the Judicial Academy. Each person, who fulfill the legal criteria, despite of his age, may enter the exam and be graduated in the Judicial Academy, to become a prosecutor.

The criteria related to “Clean criminal record” means that, candidates should have not been convicted by a final criminal decision for a criminal offense that, due to the nature of the offense committed, discredits the position and image of the judge or prosecutor or seriously damages the public's trust in the judicial system, regardless of whether he has been rehabilitated according to the provisions of the Criminal Code. Also “Other” legal criteria are: The candidate should have not been removed from office or his license, authorization or permission to practice a profession has not been revoked for disciplinary reasons, regardless of whether the disciplinary measure is considered extinguished, and there is no disciplinary measure in force; is not a member of political parties at the time of candidacy; was not a member, associate or beneficiary of State Security prior to 1990; and, was not a collaborator, informant, or secret service agent (Article 28, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended).

Q112 (2021): According to the Law no. 96/2016, “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, one of the admissibility criteria is the non-conviction of a candidate by a final criminal decision of committing a criminal offense which, due to the nature of the offense committed, discredits the position and image of the judge or prosecutor or severely damages the public trust in the judicial system, regardless of whether he/she has been rehabilitated.

Q112 (2019): In addition to the above criteria, in the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, it is stipulated that candidates must meet other criteria such as:

- the lack of disciplinary measures in force;
- should not be members of political parties in the at the time of candidacy;
- they must not be a member or associate of State Security prior to 1990 and;

Q118 (2020): Administrative Court of First Instance of Tirana

Q118 (2019): Administrative Court of First Instance of Tirana Judicial District

Q119 (General Comment): Article 28, of the Law on the status of judges and prosecutors provides for the following selection criteria applicable to both judges and prosecutors: All persons are entitled to apply to the School of Magistrates for admission to the initial training as a magistrate, as long as they fulfil simultaneously the following criteria:

- a) Have full capacity to act;
- b) Be an Albanian citizen;
- c) Have graduated with the minimum scoring as determined by the School of Magistrates the second cycle of university studies in law, with a diploma of “Master of Science” and have passed the state exam for jurists in Albania, or have graduated in law with the minimum points set out by the School of Magistrates in a European Union Member State and have been awarded an equivalent diploma, recognised under the rules for recognition of diplomas provided by law;
- ç) Have at least three years of full time active professional experience in the judiciary or the prosecution office, public administration, free legal professions or teaching in law faculties, or in any other equivalent position in the private sector or international organizations;
- d) Have never been criminally convicted by a final decision;
- dh) Have never been dismissed from office for disciplinary reasons and are not subject to a current disciplinary sanction;
- e) Not to be a member of political parties at the time of application;
- ë) Have not been a member, collaborator or favoured by the State Security before 1990;
- f) Have not been a collaborator, informant, or agent of any secret service.

Except the fulfilment of the legal criteria provided in Article 28, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam of the School of Magistrates, should pass positively the process of verifying the integrity and assets before they are accepted in the initial forming programme of the School of Magistrates (Article 32, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended).

Lastly, as provided in article 32 of the status law, a student at the School of Magistrates can be appointed as a judge or a prosecutor if it fulfills the following criteria:

- a) Having graduated from the School of Magistrates in the initial training with a score of at least 70% of the maximum reachable scores;
- b) Having achieved evaluation scores of at least “good” in each of the assignments during the professional internship in the third year of the initial training;
- c) Having passed the asset declaration and background check, carried out by the Councils in accordance with the provisions in paragraphs 2 to 6 of Article 32 of this Law.

Q119 (2022): The focus of the question, regarding the selection criteria of judges/prosecutors, is after the entry exam. After the entry exam, the selection is made only on the basis of the results/score they received in the exam. The criteria of work performance and experience are applied in the pre-selection phase of the candidates who apply to be registered to take the entry exam. Except the fulfilment of the legal criteria provided in Article 28, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended, the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam of the School of Magistrates, should pass positively the process of verifying the integrity and assets before they are accepted in the initial forming programme of the School of Magistrates. The verification process is carried out from High Judicial /Prosecutorial Council (Article 32, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended).

Q119 (2021): Except the fulfilment of the legal criteria provided in Article 28, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam of the School of Magistrates, should pass positively the process of verifying the integrity and assets before they are accepted in the initial forming programme of the School of Magistrates (Article 32, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”)

Q120 (General Comment): According to Article 32/2, of the “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, the process of verifying the integrity and assets of the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam, is realised from the High Prosecutorial Council who requests reporting from the competent institutions for the verification of integrity and assets and any other exceptional cause, from the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Control of Assets and Conflict of Interest, the prosecution offices, tax and customs administration bodies, the National Bureau of Investigation, state intelligence services, as well as any disciplinary body that has supervised the discipline in the previous employment relations of the candidates.

Q120 (2019): During January of each calendar year, both Councils, following a needs analysis, determine and publish the maximum number of candidate magistrates for admission to the initial training for the next academic year. The School of Magistrates receives applications for admission to the initial training by end of February of each year. By 15 March each year, the School of Magistrates shall carry out a preliminary assessment as to whether the applicant satisfies the application criteria. The School of Magistrates submits to the Councils (Judicial and Prosecutorial council depending on the preference of the applicant) the report of preliminary assessment outcome, together with the files of the application documents for each applicant. The Councils may deliver comments or objections not later than by end of March each year. The School of Magistrates adopts the final assessment report by taking into account the comments and objections received by each council and shall publish the final assessment report on its official website, including the list of applicants

Q121 (2019): Article 35 of the status law provides that the graduate shall be appointed magistrate, if she/he meets concurrently the following criteria:

Bosnia and Herzegovina

Q089 (General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of judges is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any court (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of judges, including court presidents. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new judges from the promotion or transfer of judges to a different position in judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of judges on any level. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already judges or prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation. All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints judges from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of relevant nomination subcouncil (internal body within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Q090 (General Comment): Clean criminal record:

During the appointment procedure consideration shall also be given to circumstances relevant for the evaluation of candidate suitability, such as information concerning any previous disciplinary offences, previous criminal convictions and other circumstances that may deem a candidate unsuitable to hold judicial office.

The candidate in the application form must reply to the following question: Have you been convicted of a felony or been found responsible for a misdemeanor offense or been found responsible for disciplinary offense?

Also, the candidate is required to submit as an attachment to the application form an official court document confirming that there is no pending criminal proceedings against him or her.

Candidate's criminal record does not constitute an eliminatory criterion in the process of appointment of candidates. But in this regard, the Interview panel and the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, through the appointment procedure determine the ability of the candidate with criminal record to perform the judicial function.

Q100 (General Comment): The relevant provisions of the Book of Rules, adopted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, read as follows:
Article 61 (Decision on the Appointment of Judges and Prosecutors) (1) The Council shall decide on each appointment separately on the basis on the proposal from the relevant sub-council. (2) In the event that the Council does not adopt the proposal of a sub-council and the sub-council does not propose another candidate, the Council may, based on an elaborated proposal by any member of the Council, appoint one of the candidates who achieved the appropriate results required for appointment. (3) When proposing a candidate pursuant to paragraph (2) of the Article, consideration shall be given to circumstances from Article 59b, paragraph (2) of the Rules of Procedure. (4) During an appointment the Council shall also decide on the date of taking up office of an appointee. Article 59b

(Activities of the Sub-Council) (1) The relevant sub-council shall carry out the final candidate ranking and submit a proposal to the Council for action. (2) When nominating a candidate for appointment, apart from points scored and the ranking of the candidates who have achieved the required results, the relevant sub-council shall also cumulatively take into account the following: -circumstances that are relevant to the assessment of candidate suitability; -the need to ensure the appropriate ethnic and gender representation in the court or prosecutors office in accordance with Article 43, paragraph (2) of the Law; -the work-related experience of a candidate for a certain field of law, if the court for which appointment is being carried out, apart from municipal and basic court levels, has a need for a judge of a certain specialisation. (3) If the list of candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment has no candidates of the appropriate ethnicity or with the specific work-related experience, the competition shall be repeated only once. (4) Apart from reasons pursuant to paragraph (3) of the Article, a competition may be repeated also in the event that none of the proposed candidates i.e. candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment, receive a majority vote as required for appointment or in the event that none of the candidates achieved the required results within the competition procedure. Article 61b (Nomination and Appointment to Managerial Positions) (11) If, after the presentation of the work programs, no candidate has received a majority vote required to render a decision on appointment, any member of the Council may propose any candidate who has the achieved the appropriate result required for appointment to present their work program at the subsequent session

Q104 (General Comment): According to the Law on High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina the mandatory retirement age for judges is age seventy (70). A judge can be removed from office as a disciplinary sanction. The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office. A judge can resign from office. A judge can be removed from the office because it has been proven by the medical documentation that she or he has permanently lost the working capacity to perform his/her judicial function.

Reserve judges may be appointed on a temporary basis (up to 2 years).

Their role is to assist courts in reducing case backlogs, or to replace temporarily judges who are absent for a prolonged period of time. They are appointed in the publicly announced procedure by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina upon application by the president of a court; the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina may renew the mandate of reserve judges following the request of the president of a court.

Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors' offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation.

All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints prosecutors from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of the relevant nomination sub-council (an internal committee within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Q121 (General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has a right to appoint some and reject some among the selected candidates. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina also has a right to appoint candidates that were not selected (proposed) by its competent sub-council . The procedure of recruitment and selection of prosecutors is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any prosecutor's office (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of prosecutors, including chief prosecutors. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new prosecutors from the promotion or transfer of prosecutors to different positions within the judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of prosecutors on any level. Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors' offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation.

The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina also has a right to appoint candidates that were not selected (proposed) by the competent its sub-council .

Q121-1 (General Comment): The relevant provisions of the Book of Rules, adopted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, read as follows: Article 61 (Decision on the Appointment of Judges and Prosecutors) (1) The Council shall decide on each appointment separately on the basis on the proposal from the relevant sub-council. (2) In the event that the Council does not adopt the proposal of a sub-council and the sub-council does not propose another candidate, the Council may, based on an elaborated proposal by any member of the Council, appoint one of the candidates who achieved the appropriate results required for appointment. (3) When proposing a candidate pursuant to paragraph (2) of the Article, consideration shall be given to circumstances from Article 59b, paragraph (2) of the Rules of Procedure. (4) During an appointment the Council shall also decide on the date of taking up office of an appointee. Article 59b

(Activities of the Sub-Council) (1) The relevant sub-council shall carry out the final candidate ranking and submit a proposal to the Council for action. (2) When nominating a candidate for appointment, apart from points scored and the ranking of the candidates who have achieved the required results, the relevant sub-council shall also cumulatively take into account the following: -circumstances that are relevant to the assessment of candidate suitability; -the need to ensure the appropriate ethnic and gender representation in the court or prosecutors office in accordance with Article 43, paragraph (2) of the Law; -the work-related experience of a candidate for a certain field of law, if the court for which appointment is being carried out, apart from municipal and basic court levels, has a need for a judge of a certain specialisation. (3) If the list of candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment has no candidates of the appropriate ethnicity or with the specific work-related experience, the competition shall be repeated only once. (4) Apart from reasons pursuant to paragraph (3) of the Article, a competition may be repeated also in the event that none of the proposed candidates i.e. candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment, receive a majority vote as required for appointment or in the event that none of the candidates achieved the required results within the competition procedure. Article 61b (Nomination and Appointment to Managerial Positions) (11) If, after the presentation of the work programs, no candidate has received a majority vote required to render a decision on appointment, any member of the Council may propose any candidate who has the achieved the appropriate result required for appointment to present their work program at the subsequent session

Q124 (2021): The integrity of candidate prosecutors is checked at the interview conducted with candidates and through the information which candidates submit in the application form.

Q125 (General Comment): Pursuant to the Law on High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the mandatory retirement age for prosecutors is age seventy (70). According to the Law, the disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office. A prosecutor is entitled to resign from office. He/she can be removed from office if it has been proven by the medical documentation that he/she has permanently lost the working capacity to perform his/her judicial or prosecutorial function.

Criteria for Appointment of Judges Appointed for the First Time

Article 47 -The criteria for appointment of judges appointed for the first time shall be: 1) Grade on the written test referred to in Article 48 of the present Law, or the grade on the bar exam, in accordance with the law governing the bar exam; 2) Evaluation of the interview with the candidate.

Written Testing Article 48- The Judicial Council shall conduct written testing of persons appointed as judges of Basic Court for the first time, who meet the statutory requirements and whose applications are timely and complete, through a commission consisting of three members of the Judicial Council, of which two from among the judges and one from among eminent lawyers. Written testing shall not be conducted for the persons referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article who received grades at the bar examination. The written test shall be prepared by the commission referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article, and shall include drafting of decisions in criminal and civil matters. The written test shall be answered under a code. Assessment of the written test shall be performed by a certain number of points awarded for the decision form, the application of law and the rationale of the decision, in such a manner that the maximum of 80 points may be achieved, of which up to 40 for drafting a decision in the criminal field and up to 40 for drafting a decision in the civil field. The written test shall be examined by the commission referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article, which shall submit it, along with proposed grade, to all members of the Judicial Council. The Judicial Council shall determine the grade at the written test. Implementation of the written testing shall be governed by the Rules of Procedure of the Judicial Council.

Interview Article 49 -The Judicial Council shall conduct an interview with persons who have achieved a score of more than 60 points in the written test or the bar exam. At an interview, the following shall be evaluated: - Motivation for work in court; - Communication skills; - Ability to make decisions and resolve conflicts; - Comprehension of the role of a judge in society. Evaluation based on criteria referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article shall be exercised in such a manner that each member of the Judicial Council shall determine the number of points awarded to each person, where a person may achieve a maximum of 20 points at an interview. The final grade at an interview shall be the average number of points, which is determined based on the number of points awarded by each member of the Judicial Council. A person who, based on the interview evaluation, scores less than 15 points at an interview may not be on the ranking list of candidates for judges. While conducting an interview, the Judicial Council may use the expert assistance of psychologists.

Ranking List of Candidates for Judges- Article 50 On the basis of grades in the written test or the bar exam and interview evaluation, the ranking list of candidates for judges shall be made (hereinafter: the ranking list), according to the number of points achieved. If two candidates in the ranking list have the same number of points, the preference shall be given to a candidate who has scored more points on a written test or the bar exam, and if candidates have scored the same number of points on the written test or the bar exam, the preference shall be given to the candidate who is a member of a minority or other minority ethnic community. If preference among candidates may not be determined in the manner referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, the Judicial Council shall select a candidate through vote by secret ballot.

Serbia

Q089 (General Comment): According to the Law on Judges, a citizen of the Republic of Serbia who meets the requirements for employment in State bodies, who is a law school graduate, who has passed the State judicial exam may be elected a judge. Other requirements for the election of a judge are qualification, competence and worthiness, as well as duration of work experience in the legal profession upon passing of the State judicial exam. Recruitment and promotion reform remains one of the main reform areas within the Action Plan for Chapter 23: judicial independence.

Judges in Serbia are elected for the first time for a three-year term of office by the National Assembly among one or more candidates nominated respectively by the High Judicial Council. After three years of service and upon high evaluation the judges are appointed to a permanent office respectively by the HJC.

Currently there exist two parallel ways of access to the career of a judge: -As a judicial assistant - As a graduate of the Judicial Academy. Most of the candidates for appointment to the office of a judge are judicial assistants, which is the traditional (and still the principal in term of number of appointments) way of access to the judicial career.

The legal status and the functions of judicial assistants are regulated by the Law on Organisation of Courts (Articles 57- 64). Their number is determined by each court president for his/her court. Selection and appointment is made by the court president, usually among the judicial interns. The law gives the latter the privilege of being permanently employed as judicial assistants in case they pass the bar exam “with distinction”. On the other hand, the HJC approve the number of “beneficiaries of initial training” to be admitted every year for initial training at the Academy (Article 26 on Law on Judicial Academy). The entrance exams and the graduation criteria are vaguely regulated by the Law. The candidates who completed initial training with the Judicial Academy are exempted from the obligatory exam and the criteria for competence and qualification evaluation for judicial position is the final exam grade achieved in the basic training at the Academy.

Q091 (General Comment): Law on High Judicial Council, Article 13 (Jurisdiction of the HJC), Paragraph 1, Point 3: HJC proposes to the National Assembly candidates for the first election to the position of judge;

Law on Judges, Article 45a (Determining the competence and competence of the candidate for the judge who is elected for the first time) :

The expertise and competence of a candidate for a judge who is elected for the first time to the position of judge is checked in an exam organized by the High Judicial Council. Success in the exam is expressed in grades from 1 to 5.

A candidate for a judge who is elected to the position of judge in a basic or misdemeanor court for the first time and who has completed initial training at the Judicial Academy is not required to take the exam organized by the High Council of the Judiciary, but the final grade at the initial training is taken as a measure of expertise and competence. at the Judicial Academy.

The HJC prescribes the program and method of taking the exam, which evaluates the expertise and competence of candidates for the position of judge.

Article 50 (Nomination of judges who are elected for the first time)

When nominating candidates for judges who are elected for the first time, in addition to expertise, competence and worthiness, the HJC will especially value the type of work that the candidate performed after passing the bar exam.

For candidates coming from the ranks of judicial assistants, a performance evaluation must be obtained.

Before nominating, the HJC will conduct an interview with the registered candidates.

The HJC proposes to the National Assembly one candidate for election to one judicial position.

The decision on the proposal of the HJC must be explained and published on the website of the HJC.

Q096 (General Comment): The candidate who has not been pre-selected can file Constitutional Appeal (it differs from the Appeal to the Constitutional Court explained in Article 57) Constitution of the Republic of Serbia - Constitutional appeal

A constitutional complaint can be filed against individual acts or actions of state bodies or organizations entrusted with public powers, which violate or deny human or minority rights and freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution, if other legal means for their protection have been exhausted or are not provided for.

Q096 (2022): Constitutional Court

Q096 (2021): According to Art 57 of Law on judges a judge's office ends at the request of the judge, with retirement age, due to a permanent loss of working ability, if not elected to permanent office, or in case of dismissal. The High Judicial Council issues a decision on the termination of office, against which the judge may file an objection before the High Judicial Council within 15 days from date of the delivery of the decision.

High Judicial Council can dismiss the objection if it was not submitted in due time, sustain the objection and amend the decision on the termination of office or reject the objection and confirm the decision on the termination of office.

The decision on the termination of office shall become final and binding upon its confirmation in the proceedings on the raised objection or, if no objection was submitted, upon the expiry of the time limit for submitting the objection.

In Art 67 of Law on judges is prescribed that the judge is entitled to file an appeal against the final and binding decision of the High Judicial Council on the termination of office to the Constitutional Court, within 30 days of the delivery of the decision.

The Constitutional Court may reject the appeal, or uphold the appeal and set aside the decision on dismissal. The decision of the Constitutional Court is final.

Q096 (2019): According to Article 57 of the Law on Judges the High Judicial Council issues a decision on the termination of office, against which the judge may file an objection/complaint before the High Judicial Council within 15 days from date of the delivery of the decision (the composition of members of the HJC at the two different sessions is not necessarily - and rarely - the same; it is only important that there is a quorum for decision making).

The decision of the High Judicial Council on the termination of office shall become final and binding upon its confirmation in the proceedings on the raised objection or, if no objection was submitted, upon the expiry of the time limit for submitting the objection.

The Article 67 prescribes that the judge is entitled to file an appeal to the Constitutional Court against the final and binding decision of the High Judicial Council.

Therefore, the institution competent to decide on the complaint (pre-appeal procedure) is the HJC but the body competent to decide on appeal is the Constitutional Court. Please see the relevant provisions: The Law on Judges (Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia No. 116/08, 58/09-decision of Constitutional Court, 104/09, 101/10, 8/12- decision of Constitutional Court, 121/12, 124/12-decision of Constitutional Court, 101/13, 111/14-decision of Constitutional Court, 117/14, 40/15, 63/15-decision of Constitutional Court, 106/15, 63/16-decision of Constitutional Court and 47/17) contains the following provisions:

Article 57

Q111 (General Comment): In accordance with the Law on Public Prosecution, a citizen of the Republic of Serbia may be elected by the Parliament public prosecutor and deputy public prosecutor if he/she fulfils the general requirements for employment in government authorities, is a law school graduate with a passed Juridical Examination, and is worthy of the office of a public prosecutor. In addition to the general requirements, the person must have experience in the legal profession after passing the Juridical Examination, as follows: - four years for a basic public prosecutor, and three years for a deputy basic public prosecutor; - seven years for a higher public prosecutor, and six years for a deputy higher public prosecutor; - ten years for an appellate public prosecutor and a public prosecutor with special jurisdiction, and eight years for a deputy appellate public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutor with special jurisdiction; - twelve years for the Public Prosecutor and eleven years for the Deputy Public Prosecutor. Evaluation of the previous work is performed, and programs aimed at improving the work of public prosecutors' offices are presented. For candidates who are not from the public prosecutor services or the court services, a written exam must be passed.

Q111 (2019): In accordance with the Law on Public Prosecution, a citizen of the Republic of Serbia may be elected as a public prosecutor and deputy public prosecutor if he/she fulfils the general requirements for employment in government authorities, is a law school graduate with a passed Bar Exam, and is worthy of the office of a public prosecutor. In addition to general requirements, the person must have experience in the legal profession after passing the Bar Exam, as follows: - four years for a basic public prosecutor, and three years for a deputy basic public prosecutor; - seven years for a higher public prosecutor, and six years for a deputy higher public prosecutor; - ten years for an appellate public prosecutor and a public prosecutor with special jurisdiction, and eight years for a deputy appellate public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutor with special jurisdiction; - twelve years for the Republic Prosecutor and eleven years for Deputy of Republic Prosecutor. In the process of proposing candidates for the election of deputy public prosecutors for the first time, the SPC applied the Rulebook on criteria and standards for evaluation of qualification, competence and worthiness of candidates when proposing deputy public prosecutors elected for the first time ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 80/16. Furthermore, at the session of the State Prosecutorial Council held on 7th of September 2017 the new Rulebook on the program and rules for taking the exam for the assessment of qualifications and competencies of candidates for the first election to the position of a deputy public prosecutor was adopted ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 82/2017, from 8th of September 2017). Provisions of the new Rulebook define program and rules for taking the anonymous exam, as well as criteria for assessment of qualification and competencies of a candidate. The Rulebook is in line with Article 77a of the Law on Public Prosecution Office, and it stipulates that candidates who passed initial education at the Judicial Academy do not need to take the exam, conducted by the examination commission of the State Prosecutorial Council. The Rulebook foresees transparency of the election procedure also by setting the obligation to post the exam results at the Council web page. According to Law on Public Prosecution Office, SPC has a competence to elect first-time deputy prosecutors to a permanent function, after a three-years period.

Regarding election of deputy public prosecutors to a higher position (promotion) and election of public prosecutors/heads of public prosecutor's offices, according to the Law on Public Prosecution Office, SPC is obliged to conduct election process in accordance with the Rulebook on criteria and measures for evaluation of professionalism, competence and worthiness of the candidates in proceedings of proposing and election of holders of public prosecutorial function (adopted on 14th May 2015.)

Q112 (General Comment): In the Republic of Serbia, a public prosecutor is a holder of a prosecutorial function who is head of a public prosecutorial office. All other holders of prosecutorial function are his deputies, so called 'deputy prosecutors'. However, for the purpose of filling the questionnaire, we will refer all prosecutorial function holders, as prosecutors. Hence, responses regarding entry criteria to become a prosecutor, authority which is competent during the entry selection procedure and final appointment refer only to candidates who are yet to become public prosecutors (deputies) and not to public prosecutors who are being appointed as a chief of public prosecutorial offices.

According to Art 45 of Law on civil servants a person who is legally an adult, has the nationality of the Republic of Serbia, has prescribed professional qualifications and fulfils other requirements prescribed by law, other legislation or Regulation on internal organisation and systematisation of job positions may be employed as a civil servant, if his or her employment relationship was not earlier terminated due to grave breach of obligation from the employment relationship and if he or she was not convicted by prison sentence of at least six months.

Article 76 of Law on Public Prosecutor's Office

A citizen of the Republic of Serbia who meets the general requirements for working in state bodies, who has graduated from law school, passed the bar exam and is worthy of the office of public prosecutor can be elected as public prosecutor and deputy public prosecutor.

Q112 (2021): According to Art 45 of Law on civil servants a person who is legally an adult, has the nationality of the Republic of Serbia, has prescribed professional qualifications and fulfils other requirements prescribed by law, other legislation or Regulation on internal organisation and systematisation of job positions may be employed as a civil servant, if his or her employment relationship was not earlier terminated due to grave breach of obligation from the employment relationship and if he or she was not convicted by prison sentence of at least six months.

Q113 (General Comment): State Prosecutorial Council is competent institution for advertising competition for selection, interview procedure, deciding and publishing the decision (on official website) with the list of suggested candidates. The suggestion then goes to the National Assembly and only if it passes, the candidates are officially appointed to be deputy public prosecutors.

For a deputy public prosecutor elected for the first time may be elected someone, who, in addition to general conditions, has legal profession work experience of at least three years after passing of the Bar exam, after that period that person may be elected for a deputy public prosecutor to a three-year term, and is being elected by the National Assembly, based on proposal of the State Prosecutorial Council.

2. After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is being elected by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the first case.

3. When it comes to public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices), they are being elected by the National Assembly, based on the Government proposal, for the period of six years and he/she may be reelected. For the proposed candidates for the Republic Public Prosecutor, opinion of the competent National Assembly Board is being obtained. The Government is proposing to the National Assembly one or more candidates for election of a public prosecutor. The Law on Public Prosecutor's Office: The National Assembly, on the proposal of the State Council of Prosecutors, elects as deputy public prosecutor a person who is elected to this position for the first time for a period of three years.

The State Council of Prosecutors proposes to the National Assembly one candidate for the position of Deputy Public Prosecutor.

The State Council of Prosecutors elects deputy public prosecutors for permanent performance in the same or another public prosecutor's office.

The State Council of Prosecutors also decides on the election of deputy public prosecutors who are on a permanent position in another or more public prosecutor's offices.

The number of deputy public prosecutors for each public prosecution is determined by the State Council of Prosecutors, with the prior consent of the minister responsible for justice.

Q113 (2020): 1. For a deputy public prosecutor elected for the first time may be elected someone, who, in addition to general conditions, has legal profession work experience of at least three years after passing of the Bar exam, after that period that person may be elected for a deputy public prosecutor to a three-year term, and is being elected by the National Assembly, based on proposal of the State Prosecutorial Council.

Q118 (2020): Forbidden or untimely objection to the rank list is being dismissed by the Council conclusion. The Council adopts the objection to the rank list if it is founded and it changes the rank list in line with the adopted objection. The Council rejects the objection to the rank list if it is unfounded. The decision on the objection to the rank list must be elaborated. After deciding upon the objection, the Council is determining the final rank list of candidates. When the State Prosecutorial Council makes a decision on the election, then the candidate can file a lawsuit with the Administrative Court against the decision of the Council.

Q118 (2019): Forbidden or untimely objection to the rank list is dismissed by State Prosecutorial Council conclusion. The Council adopts the objection to the rank list if it is founded and it changes the rank list in line with the adopted objection. The Council rejects the objection to the rank list if it is unfounded. The decision on the objection to the rank list must be elaborated. After deciding upon the objection, the Council determines the final rank list of candidates. The State Prosecutorial Council decides on the complaint related to the rank list but the composition of members of the SPC at the two different sessions is not necessarily the same; it is only important that there is a quorum for decision making. The decision of the SPC shall become final and binding upon its confirmation in the proceedings on the raised objection or, if no objection was submitted, upon the expiry of the time limit for submitting the objection.

A candidate is entitled to file an administrative lawsuit (not bene: not an appeal) to the Administrative Court against the final decision of the SPC. Therefore, the institution competent to decide on the complaint (pre-lawsuit procedure) is the SPC but the body competent to decide on the administrative lawsuit is the Administrative Court.

Q119 (General Comment): Criteria for election of public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices) and deputy public prosecutors are stipulated by the Law on Public Prosecution Office, the Rulebook on criteria and standards for evaluation of qualification, competence and worthiness of candidates during the procedure of proposing and electing prosecutorial position holders, as well as by the Rulebook on program and method of taking the exam for evaluation of qualification and competence of candidates elected for the first time for a deputy public prosecutor.

1. According to the Law on Public Prosecution Office for a public prosecutor and a deputy public prosecutor may be elected a citizen of the Republic of Serbia who fulfills the general requirements for employment in government authorities, who is a law school graduate with a passed Bar Exam, and who is worthy of the office of a public prosecutor.

A person may be elected public prosecutor and deputy public prosecutor if he/she, in addition to general requirements, has experience in the legal profession after passing the Bar Exam, as follows:

- four years for a basic public prosecutor, and three years for a deputy basic public prosecutor;
- seven years for a high public prosecutor, and six years for a deputy high public prosecutor;
- ten years for an appellate public prosecutor and a public prosecutor with special jurisdiction, and eight years for a deputy appellate public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutor with special jurisdiction;
- twelve years for the Republic Public Prosecutor and eleven years for Deputy Republic Public Prosecutor.

When electing deputy public prosecutors a differentiation should be made between election of deputy public prosecutors, elected for the first time for the period of three years, and election of deputy public prosecutors after the three-year term, for permanent position.

Qualification and competence of candidates are being evaluated when electing deputy public prosecutors for the first time to the position in a public prosecution office. Qualification and competence of candidates are being evaluated at the exam organized by the State

Q119 (2019): Criteria for election of public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices) and deputy public prosecutors are stipulated by the Law on Public Prosecution Office ("Official Gazette of the RS", No. 116/2008, 104/2009, 101/2010, 78/2011 - other Law, 101/2011, 38/2012 - decision of Constitutional Court, 121/2012, 101/2013, 111/2014 - decision of Constitutional Court, 117/2014, 106/2015 and 63/2016 - decision of Constitutional Court), the Rulebook on criteria and standards for evaluation of qualification, competence and worthiness of candidates during the procedure of proposing and electing prosecutorial position holders ("Official Gazette of the RS", No 43/2015 and 80/2016 - other Rulebook), as well as by the Rulebook on program and method of taking the exam for evaluation of qualification and competence of candidates elected for the first time for a deputy public prosecutor (Official Gazette of the RS, No. 82/2017 and 91/2018). 1. According to the Law on Public Prosecution Office for a public prosecutor and a deputy public prosecutor may be elected a citizen of the Republic of Serbia who fulfills the general requirements for employment in government authorities, who is a law school graduate with a passed Bar Exam, and who is worthy of the office of a public prosecutor.

A person may be elected public prosecutor and deputy public prosecutor if he/she, in addition to general requirements, has experience in the legal profession after passing the Bar Exam, as follows:

- twelve years for the Republic Public Prosecutor and eleven years for Deputy Republic Public Prosecutor.

When electing deputy public prosecutors a differentiation should be made between election of deputy public prosecutors, elected for the first time for the period of three years, and election of deputy public prosecutors after the three-year term, for permanent position. Qualification and competence of candidates are being evaluated when electing deputy public prosecutors for the first time to the position in a public prosecution office. Qualification and competence of candidates are being evaluated at the exam organized by the State Prosecutorial Council. Success at the exam is being expressed by marks from 1 to 5. The candidate for a deputy public prosecutor elected for the first time for the position in a basic public prosecution office, who completed initial education at the Judicial Academy, does not have to take the exam organized by the State Prosecutorial Council, but as his/her standard for qualification and competence shall be taken final mark at the initial education at the Judicial Academy. The State Prosecutorial Council regulates program and method of taking of the exam for evaluation of qualification and competence of candidates. Therefore, for the deputy elected for the first time may be elected someone, who, in addition to general conditions, has legal profession work experience of at least three years after passing of the Bar exam, after that period that person may be elected for a deputy public prosecutor to a three-year term, and is being elected by the National Assembly, based on proposal of the State Prosecutorial Council. After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is being elected by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the first case. Qualification and competence are being evaluated in the first case, as stated above, while in the second case, when election to the permanent position, as well as when electing public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices), worthiness is being evaluated as well. When proposing and electing candidates for the prosecutorial position, the State

Q120 (General Comment): As stated at the question 119:

1. For a deputy public prosecutor elected for the first time may be elected someone, who, in addition to general conditions, has legal profession work experience of at least three years after passing of the Bar exam, after that period that person may be elected for a deputy public prosecutor to a three-year term, and is being elected by the National Assembly, based on proposal of the State Prosecutorial Council.

When it comes to public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices), they are being elected by the National Assembly, based on the Government proposal, for the period of six years and he/she may be reelected. For the proposed candidates for the Republic Public Prosecutor, opinion of the competent National Assembly Board is being obtained. The Government is proposing to the National Assembly one or more candidates for election of a public prosecutor. With reference to the election procedure itself, it is being conducted by the State Prosecutorial Council: The election procedure encompasses: - procedure of proposing candidates for the first election of deputy public prosecutors, - election procedure of deputy public prosecutors, procedure of proposing candidates for the election of the Republic Public Prosecutor and public prosecutors, - election procedure for the permanent position of deputy public prosecutors elected for the first time.

The election procedure is composed of:

- announcing the election,
- form and content of the announcement,
- content of the application to the announcement,
- inspection of the completeness of the application,
- determination of qualification, competence and worthiness,
- interviewing the candidates,
- drafting the rank list,
- objection to the rank list,
- the Council deciding upon the objection to the rank list,
- form and content of the decision on proposal of the candidates for deputy public prosecutors elected for the first time,
- form and content of the decision on election of deputy public prosecutors,
- form and content of the decision on proposal of the candidates for election of the Republic Public Prosecutor and public prosecutors,
- special rules on election to the permanent position of deputy public prosecutors elected for the first time,
- form and content of the decision on election to the permanent position of deputy public prosecutors elected for the first time, - submitting the decision on the election.

Q121 (General Comment): For a deputy public prosecutor elected for the first time may be elected someone, who, in addition to general conditions, has legal profession work experience of at least three years after passing of the Bar exam, after that period that person may be elected for a deputy public prosecutor to a three-year term, and is being elected by the National Assembly, based on proposal of the State Prosecutorial Council.

2. After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is being elected by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the first case.

Q121 (2021): 1. For a deputy public prosecutor elected for the first time may be elected someone, who, in addition to general conditions, has legal profession work experience of at least three years after passing of the Bar exam, after that period that person may be elected for a deputy public prosecutor to a three-year term, and is being elected by the National Assembly, based on proposal of the State Prosecutorial Council.

2. After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is being elected by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the first case.

Q121 (2019): There is a difference in procedure for final appointment of a "first time" deputy prosecutor for a 3 year period and for a public prosecutor.

1. For a deputy public prosecutor elected for the first time to a three-year term – finally appointed by the National Assembly, based on proposal of the State Prosecutorial Council.

2. After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is being appointed (elected) by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the first case.

3. When it comes to public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices), they are being elected by the National Assembly, based on the Government proposal, for the period of six years and he/she may be reelected.

The Parliament elects pp's and, in rare situations, can return the proposed list or a part of it to the SPC. The Parliament in this case does not provide only a formal confirmation of the candidates proposed by the authority which makes selection but has rather the second option ("Has a right to appoint some and reject some among the selected (proposed) candidates"). It is rare that there are two proposed candidates for one post. More often is the situation that the proposal is simply returned.

Q121-1 (General Comment): The Parliament can (it happens rarely) return the proposed list or a part of it to the SPC.

Q123 (2022): Non-selected candidates may file Constitutional Appeal to the Constitutional Court.

The decision of the Constitutional Court is final.

Q123 (2019): Lawsuit before the Administrative Court.

Q125 (General Comment): The tenure of public prosecutors (heads of offices) is limited to 6 years and is re-electable. The tenure of deputy public prosecutors (who are also holders of public prosecutorial function) is permanent, until meeting conditions for retirement at the age of 65 (or on completing 40 years of pensionable years of service), but the tenure could expire earlier by dismissal, upon personal request, when labour capability is permanently lost or, on the contrary, it can be extended for two another years, i.e. until 67 years, only with the consent of the deputy and with regard to cases already initiated.

Q125 (2020): Public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices) elected for a defined tenure.

If yes, are there exceptions.

Q125 (2019): Public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices) elected for a defined tenure.

Q126 (General Comment): The trial period is related only to deputy public prosecutors.

Q126 (2020): After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is elected by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the case of first election.

Q126 (2019): Tenure of office of a Deputy Public Prosecutor elected to that function for the first time shall last three years, but there is no a probation period for Public Prosecutors. The trial period is related only to deputy public prosecutors.

Q127 (2020): After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is elected by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the case of first election.

Q127 (2019): After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is elected by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the case of first election.

Q128 (2022): The Appeal to the Constitutional Court may be filed.

Q129 (2020): Public prosecutors have a mandate of 6 years, renewable. Deputy public prosecutors are elected for an unlimited period of time, after the probationary period.

Q129 (2019): Public prosecutors have a mandate of 6 years, renewable. Deputy public prosecutors are elected for an unlimited period of time, after the probationary period.

Q089 (General Comment): Firstly, the recruitment commission reviews all application. All applicants who meet the general criteria defined by legislation, are invited to written exams. The evaluation of candidate is divided in three phases. First, a general qualifying exam containing questions (multiple choice) from Civic, Criminal and Administrative fields, and also questions from professional ethic and human rights fields, is held. Candidates should score at least 45 out of maximum 60 points in order to pass the exam. The results are published in the KJC web page. This exam is used only to qualify for the next stage (as a filter) and its results do not count in the overall result. Candidates who pass the first general written exam, will be invited to another written exam which consists of both a penal and civil case and the candidate is required to solve both cases. This exam is divided in two days: the first day is dedicated to a penal exercise and the second day is reserved for a civil one. The maximum length of each exam is five hours. Each candidate is required to score at least 70 out of 100 points (each exercise has 50 points) in order to pass the exam. All candidates are notified with their results while the final list of candidates who have passed the exam is published in the web page of KJC. After the second phase of recruitment is completed (including appealing period), there will be an integrity check of candidates before being invited to interview. The integrity check is focused on information regarding candidates' work experience, performance in previous job and candidates' criminal past, in cases when the recruitment commission notices an inconsistency/discrepancy or incompatibility in the information provided by candidates in their application. Then, the interview is held. A candidate can score a maximum of 50 points in the interview. The interview is recorded by camera and the candidate is notified in advance. A candidate has successfully completed the recruitment process if he/she has scored a minimum of 100 points overall (at least 70 from the written exam and 30 from the interview) is ranked within the number of vacancy positions as defined by KJC in the call for application. Candidates can appeal each result, starting from the qualifying exam, with three days after the results are published.

Q090 (2019): By clean criminal record is meant the subject have not been convicted of a criminal offence nor is under criminal investigation(has an indictment)

Q091 (2022): KJC through the commission for recruitment of judges, as per the law on the Kosovo Judicial Council is responsible for organizing recruitment of judges and selection of candidates.

Q095 (General Comment): Unsatisfied candidates that were not selected, have the right to appeal. In the event that the Review Committee of the KJC, after evaluating the complaint, finds that there have been violations of the rules regarding the organization of the qualifying test, the written test, the essay and the oral interview, as defined in this regulation, it may decide to repeat the part opposed to the exam to which the candidates from the list who have met the conditions to be submitted to the relevant part of the exam will be submitted. If the Review Committee of the KJC decides to repeat the relevant part of the exam, the exam will be organized within five (5) days from the decision of the Review Committee. In the event that the Review Committee finds that technical errors have been made in the calculation of the points of the qualifying test, the written test, the essay and the oral interview, while in the case of reviewing the complaint it is verified that the candidate is ranked in the group of candidates who have not passed the relevant part of the exam, that candidate will be included in the list of candidates who have passed that part of the exam. After reviewing the complaints for the qualifying test, the written test, and the oral interview, the Council compiles the final list of the exam, as determined by this regulation, which is published on the Council's official website.

Q096 (General Comment): There are three different Commissions working on the recruitment process: first, the recruitment commission which is consisted of five (5) members, three (3) of whom are members of the KJC; second, there is a Review Commission consisting of 3 (three) members, of which at least one (1) member is from among the judges of the Supreme Court, one (1) judge from the Court of Appeal and one (1) a member of the KJC Judges; and third, the Qualification Test Drafting Commission which is composed of nine (9) members whose mandate ends with the preparation of the Qualifying Test with which they have been assigned as the Commission. So, the commission who drafts the exam, the recruitment commission and the review commission are three different bodies.

So, the commission who drafts the exam, the recruitment commission and the review commission are three different bodies.

Q097 (General Comment): According to the Law on Kosovo Judicial Council, article 20 (recruitment of judges), there are seven main requirements when it comes to the recruiting criteria: 1. professional knowledge, work experience and performance, including knowledge and respect for human rights;

2. capacity for legal justifications as evidenced by professional activities in the field of justice, including in the capacity of a judge, prosecutor or Lawyer, academic work or other professional activity;
3. the professional ability based on the result of the previous career, including participation in organized training forms where performance is assessed;
4. ability and capacity to analyze legal problems;
5. the ability to perform tasks impartially, honestly, with care and responsibility;
6. communication skills; and
7. personal integrity.

The procedure for assessing the eligibility of a candidate to become part of the judiciary is carried out through verification of the data submitted by the candidate, data from relevant public records for evaluation, including the standard verification of records for the criminal past.

Q099 (General Comment): At the end of these procedures, in accordance with the proposal of the KJC, the President of Kosovo decrees the new judges

Q099 (2021): Other body: President

Q099 (2020): Other body: The President of Republic of Kosovo

Q100 (General Comment): According to the Article 22 of Law on KJC, The President appoints judges in the judicial system with a three (3) year initial mandate based on the Council's proposals. Within sixty (60) days after the receipt of the proposal, the President shall issue a decree on the appointment as judge of the candidate proposed by the Council. If within this deadline the President does not appoint the judge, the Council may re-submit the proposed candidate together with the supplementary reasoning in writing. Thereafter the President appoints the judge upon the proposal of the Council. As per the article 84, the President of the Republic of Kosovo appoints and dismisses judges of the Republic of Kosovo upon the proposal of the Kosovo Judicial Council. Therefore, candidates that are proposed by the Kosovo Judicial Council, will be verified again by the office of the President, hence it is upon President's discretion to appoint a judge or to return back the proposal regarding that judge to the KJC.

Albania

(General Comment): The School of Magistrates shall receive applications for admission to the initial training by end of February of each year. The applicants submit the necessary documents proving the fulfilment of the criteria determined to be appointed as a magistrate as provided in the status law. Where the submitted documentation does not fully prove the fulfilment of the criteria, or is not complete, accurate, or there are reasonable doubts regarding its authenticity, the School of Magistrates may request further information or documentation from state institutions or employers of an applicant. By 15 March each year, the School of Magistrates carries out a preliminary assessment as to whether the applicant satisfies the application criteria. The School submits to the Councils the report of preliminary assessment outcome, together with the files of the application documents for each applicant. The Councils may deliver comments or objections not later than by end of March each year. The School of Magistrates adopts the final assessment report by taking into account the comments and objections received and publishes the final assessment report on its official website, including the list of applicants who fulfil the criteria.

Any applicant, who is not included in the list of applicants meeting the criteria, has the right to appeal the decision.

The admission exam takes place by the end of April of each year and is opened to all applicants included in the list of qualified applicants.

The admission exam is divided into three parts: a general admission exam, a professional exam and a psychological evaluation exam. The general admission exam focuses on IQ tests and general knowledge test. The participants need to obtain at least 60% to be qualified for the next stage. The professional exam is a written exam with theoretical and case law questions. The third part of the exam is performed by a team of two medical psychiatrist, two psychologist and one of the professors of the school. The School of Magistrates establishes a ranking list of the applicants in accordance with the exam results and publishes the adopted list by the 15th of May each year, by indicating in the list also the maximum number of candidates admitted to the initial training, in accordance with the decision of the Councils.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of judges is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any court (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of judges, including court presidents. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new judges from the promotion or transfer of judges to a different position in judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of judges on any level. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already judges or prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation. All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints judges from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of relevant nomination subcouncil (internal body within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Montenegro

(General Comment): Judicial Council is an independent body regulates appointment and termination of office of judges in Montenegro. Article 128 of the Constitution of Montenegro states the jurisdiction of the Judicial Council. Article 28 of the Law on Judicial Council states that judges and Presidents of the Courts are elected on the bases of public announcement. The candidates' applications shall be submitted to the Judicial Council within 15 days as of the day of the public announcement. Article 32 of the Law determines criteria for elections of judges to be appointed for the first time, namely: 1. Acquired knowledge with established sub criteria; 2. Ability to perform judicial function on the basis of established sub criteria; 3. Worthiness to perform judiciary function being valued based on established sub criteria. For judges to be elected for the first time, the law prescribes the written examination of candidates by the Commission. Written examination shall be anonymous, and potential questions can be found on the Judicial Council website. After the written examination conducted, interviews shall be organized with the candidates who passed the written test. Members of the Judicial Council evaluate candidates based on the interview, applicants' documentation and opinions, applying the criteria and sub-criteria from Article 32, 32a and 32b of the Law on Judicial Council and shall fill out standardized candidate assessment forms, which they submit to the Commission. The Commission establishes the average number of points, based on the evaluation of each member of the Judicial Council. Based on an average score, the Commission makes a list of candidates for election to be submitted to the Judicial Council for decision - making. The Decision on the Selection The Judicial Council issues a secret ballot and the same has to hold a written statement of reasons. Each candidate shall have the right to inspect his documentation, as well as a written test, the opinion and the final grade of other candidates who have applied for the selection of the judge within 30 days from the date after the decision. The decision of the Judicial Council on the election of a judge is final and an administrative dispute can be initiated against it. The Judicial Council publishes an internal notices for filling vacancies of judges on its website. The right to apply for an internal vacancy shall have judges who want to be permanently allocated to another court of the same or lower instance. The Judicial Council shall form a list of candidates for deployment from paragraph 2 of this Article, according to the results of the work in the last three years, or according to the evaluation of the work performed by the judge in accordance with this Law. The Judicial Council on the basis of a list of candidates referred to in paragraph 3 of this Article, shall decide on the assignment of judges to another court of the same instance, taking into account the needs of the court in which a judge performs a judicial function and court in which it is seconded.

Serbia

(General Comment): According to the Law on Judges, a citizen of the Republic of Serbia who meets the requirements for employment in State bodies, who is a law school graduate, who has passed the State judicial exam may be elected a judge. Other requirements for the election of a judge are qualification, competence and worthiness, as well as duration of work experience in the legal profession upon passing of the State judicial exam. Recruitment and promotion reform remains one of the main reform areas within the Action Plan for Chapter 23: judicial independence.

Judges in Serbia are elected for the first time for a three-year term of office by the National Assembly among one or more candidates nominated respectively by the High Judicial Council. After three years of service and upon high evaluation the judges are appointed to a permanent office respectively by the HJC.

Currently there exist two parallel ways of access to the career of a judge: -As a judicial assistant - As a graduate of the Judicial Academy. Most of the candidates for appointment to the office of a judge are judicial assistants, which is the traditional (and still the principal in term of number of appointments) way of access to the judicial career.

The legal status and the functions of judicial assistants are regulated by the Law on Organisation of Courts (Articles 57- 64). Their number is determined by each court president for his/her court. Selection and appointment is made by the court president, usually among the judicial interns. The law gives the latter the privilege of being permanently employed as judicial assistants in case they pass the bar exam “with distinction”. On the other hand, the HJC approve the number of “beneficiaries of initial training” to be admitted every year for initial training at the Academy (Article 26 on Law on Judicial Academy). The entrance exams and the graduation criteria are vaguely regulated by the Law. The candidates who completed initial training with the Judicial Academy are exempted from the obligatory exam and the criteria for competence and qualification evaluation for judicial position is the final exam grade achieved in the basic training at the Academy.

Kosovo*

(General Comment): Firstly, the recruitment commission reviews all application. All applicants who meet the general criteria defined by legislation, are invited to written exams. The evaluation of candidate is divided in three phases. First, a general qualifying exam containing questions (multiple choice) from Civic, Criminal and Administrative fields, and also questions from professional ethic and human rights fields, is held. Candidates should score at least 45 out of maximum 60 points in order to pass the exam. The results are published in the KJC web page. This exam is used only to qualify for the next stage (as a filter) and its results do not count in the overall result. Candidates who pass the first general written exam, will be invited to another written exam which consists of both a penal and civil case and the candidate is required to solve both cases. This exam is divided in two days: the first day is dedicated to a penal exercise and the second day is reserved for a civil one. The maximum length of each exam is five hours. Each candidate is required to score at least 70 out of 100 points (each exercise has 50 points) in order to pass the exam. All candidates are notified with their results while the final list of candidates who have passed the exam is published in the web page of KJC. After the second phase of recruitment is completed (including appealing period), there will be an integrity check of candidates before being invited to interview. The integrity check is focused on information regarding candidates' work experience, performance in previous job and candidates' criminal past, in cases when the recruitment commission notices an inconsistency/discrepancy or incompatibility in the information provided by candidates in their application. Then, the interview is held. A candidate can score a maximum of 50 points in the interview. The interview is recorded by camera and the candidate is notified in advance. A candidate has successfully completed the recruitment process if he/she has scored a minimum of 100 points overall (at least 70 from the written exam and 30 from the interview) is ranked within the number of vacancy positions as defined by KJC in the call for application. Candidates can appeal each result, starting from the qualifying exam, with three days after the results are published.

(2019): Firstly, the recruitment commission reviews all application. All applicants who meet the general criteria defined by KJC legislation, are invited to written exams. The evaluation of candidate is divided in three phases. First, a general qualifying exam containing questions (multiple choice) from Civic, Criminal and Administrative fields, and also questions from professional ethic and human rights fields, is held. Candidates should score at least 45 out of maximum 60 points in order to pass the exam. The results are published in the KJC web page. This exam is used only to qualify for the next stage (as a filter) and its results do not count in the overall result. Candidates who pass the first general written exam, will be invited to another written exam which consists of both a penal and civil case and the candidate is required to solve both cases. (General Comment): The candidate who has not been pre-selected can file Constitutional Appeal (it differs from the Appeal to the Constitutional Court explained in Article 57) Constitution of the Republic of Serbia - Constitutional appeal

A constitutional complaint can be filed against individual acts or actions of state bodies or organizations entrusted with public powers, which violate or deny human or minority rights and freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution, if other legal means for their protection have been exhausted or are not provided for.

(2021): According to Art 57 of Law on judges a judge's office ends at the request of the judge, with retirement age, due to a permanent loss of working ability, if not elected to permanent office, or in case of dismissal. The High Judicial Council issues a decision on the termination of office, against which the judge may file an objection before the High Judicial Council within 15 days from date of the delivery of the decision.

High Judicial Council can dismiss the objection if it was not submitted in due time, sustain the objection and amend the decision on the termination of office or reject the objection and confirm the decision on the termination of office.

The decision on the termination of office shall become final and binding upon its confirmation in the proceedings on the raised objection or, if no objection was submitted, upon the expiry of the time limit for submitting the objection.

In Art 67 of Law on judges is prescribed that the judge is entitled to file an appeal against the final and binding decision of the High Judicial Council on the termination of office to the Constitutional Court, within 30 days of the delivery of the decision.

The Constitutional Court may reject the appeal, or uphold the appeal and set aside the decision on dismissal. The decision of the Constitutional Court is final.

(2019): According to Article 57 of the Law on Judges the High Judicial Council issues a decision on the termination of office, against which the judge may file an objection/complaint before the High Judicial Council within 15 days from date of the delivery of the decision (the composition of members of the HJC at the two different sessions is not necessarily - and rarely - the same; it is only important that there is a quorum for decision making).

The decision of the High Judicial Council on the termination of office shall become final and binding upon its confirmation in the proceedings on the raised objection or, if no objection was submitted, upon the expiry of the time limit for submitting the objection.

The Article 67 prescribes that the judge is entitled to file an appeal to the Constitutional Court against the final and binding decision of the High Judicial Council.

Therefore, the institution competent to decide on the complaint (pre-appeal procedure) is the HJC but the body competent to decide on appeal is the Constitutional Court. Please see the relevant provisions: The Law on Judges (Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia No. 116/08, 58/09-decision of Constitutional Court, 104/09, 101/10, 8/12- decision of Constitutional Court, 121/12, 124/12-decision of Constitutional Court, 101/13, 111/14-decision of Constitutional Court, 117/14, 40/15, 63/15-decision of Constitutional Court, 106/15, 63/16-decision of Constitutional Court and 47/17) contains the following provisions:

(General Comment): Law on Judges: Article 49

The High Council of the Judiciary obtains data and opinions on the expertise, competence and worthiness of candidates.

Data and opinions are obtained from bodies and organizations where the candidate worked in the legal profession, and for candidates coming from the courts, it is mandatory to obtain the opinion of the session of all judges of the court from which the candidate comes, as well as the opinion of the session of all judges of the immediately higher court, in which the candidate has the right of inspection before the election.

Article 50

When nominating candidates for judges who are elected for the first time, in addition to expertise, competence and worthiness, the High Council of the Judiciary will especially value the type of work that the candidate performed after passing the bar exam.

For candidates coming from the ranks of judicial assistants, a performance evaluation must be obtained.

Before nominating, the High Council of the Judiciary will conduct an interview with the registered candidates.

The High Council of the Judiciary proposes to the National Assembly one candidate for election to one judicial post.

The decision on the proposal of the High Council of the Judiciary must be explained and published on the website of the High Council of the Judiciary.

(General Comment): According to the Law on Kosovo Judicial Council, article 20 (recruitment of judges), there are seven main requirements when it comes to the recruiting criteria: 1. professional knowledge, work experience and performance, including knowledge and respect for human rights;

2. capacity for legal justifications as evidenced by professional activities in the field of justice, including in the capacity of a judge, prosecutor or Lawyer, academic work or other professional activity;
3. the professional ability based on the result of the previous career, including participation in organized training forms where performance is assessed;
4. ability and capacity to analyze legal problems;
5. the ability to perform tasks impartially, honestly, with care and responsibility;
6. communication skills; and
7. personal integrity.

The procedure for assessing the eligibility of a candidate to become part of the judiciary is carried out through verification of the data submitted by the candidate, data from relevant public records for evaluation, including the standard verification of records for the criminal past.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of judges is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any court (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of judges, including court presidents. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new judges from the promotion or transfer of judges to a different position in judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of judges on any level. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already judges or prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation. All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints judges from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of relevant nomination subcouncil (internal body within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The relevant provisions of the Book of Rules, adopted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, read as follows:

Article 61 (Decision on the Appointment of Judges and Prosecutors) (1) The Council shall decide on each appointment separately on the basis on the proposal from the relevant sub-council. (2) In the event that the Council does not adopt the proposal of a sub-council and the sub-council does not propose another candidate, the Council may, based on an elaborated proposal by any member of the Council, appoint one of the candidates who achieved the appropriate results required for appointment. (3) When proposing a candidate pursuant to paragraph (2) of the Article, consideration shall be given to circumstances from Article 59b, paragraph (2) of the Rules of Procedure. (4) During an appointment the Council shall also decide on the date of taking up office of an appointee. Article 59b

(Activities of the Sub-Council) (1) The relevant sub-council shall carry out the final candidate ranking and submit a proposal to the Council for action. (2) When nominating a candidate for appointment, apart from points scored and the ranking of the candidates who have achieved the required results, the relevant sub-council shall also cumulatively take into account the following: -circumstances that are relevant to the assessment of candidate suitability; -the need to ensure the appropriate ethnic and gender representation in the court or prosecutors office in accordance with Article 43, paragraph (2) of the Law; -the work-related experience of a candidate for a certain field of law, if the court for which appointment is being carried out, apart from municipal and basic court levels, has a need for a judge of a certain specialisation. (3) If the list of candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment has no candidates of the appropriate ethnicity or with the specific work-related experience, the competition shall be repeated only once. (4) Apart from reasons pursuant to paragraph (3) of the Article, a competition may be repeated also in the event that none of the proposed candidates i.e. candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment, receive a majority vote as required for appointment or in the event that none of the candidates achieved the required results within the competition procedure. Article 61b (Nomination and Appointment to Managerial Positions) (11) If, after the presentation of the work programs, no candidate has received a majority vote required to render a decision on appointment, any member of the Council may propose any candidate who has the achieved the appropriate result required for appointment to present their work program at the subsequent session

(General Comment): According to the Article 22 of Law on KJC, The President appoints judges in the judicial system with a three (3) year initial mandate based on the Council's proposals. Within sixty (60) days after the receipt of the proposal, the President shall issue a decree on the appointment as judge of the candidate proposed by the Council. If within this deadline the President does not appoint the judge, the Council may re-submit the proposed candidate together with the supplementary reasoning in writing. Thereafter the President appoints the judge upon the proposal of the Council. As per the article 84, the President of the Republic of Kosovo appoints and dismisses judges of the Republic of Kosovo upon the proposal of the Kosovo Judicial Council. Therefore, candidates that are proposed by the Kosovo Judicial Council, will be verified again by the office of the President, hence it is upon President's discretion to appoint a judge or to return back the proposal regarding that judge to the KJC.

Albania

(General Comment): The School of Magistrates shall receive applications for admission to the initial training by end of February of each year. The applicants submit the necessary documents proving the fulfilment of the criteria determined to be appointed as a magistrate as provided in the status law. Where the submitted documentation does not fully prove the fulfilment of the criteria, or is not complete, accurate, or there are reasonable doubts regarding its authenticity, the School of Magistrates may request further information or documentation from state institutions or employers of an applicant. By 15 March each year, the School of Magistrates carries out a preliminary assessment as to whether the applicant satisfies the application criteria. The School submits to the Councils the report of preliminary assessment outcome, together with the files of the application documents for each applicant. The Councils may deliver comments or objections not later than by end of March each year. The School of Magistrates adopts the final assessment report by taking into account the comments and objections received and publishes the final assessment report on its official website, including the list of applicants who fulfil the criteria.

Any applicant, who is not included in the list of applicants meeting the criteria, has the right to appeal the decision. The admission exam takes place by the end of April of each year and is opened to all applicants included in the list of qualified applicants. The admission exam is divided into three parts: a general admission exam, a professional exam and a psychological evaluation exam. The general admission exam focuses on IQ tests and general knowledge test. The participants need to obtain at least 60% to be qualified for the next stage. The professional exam is a written exam with theoretical and case law questions. The third part of the exam is performed by a team of two medical psychiatrist, two psychologist and one of the professors of the school. The School of Magistrates establishes a ranking list of the applicants in accordance with the exam results and publishes the adopted list by the 15th of May each year, by indicating in the list also the maximum number of candidates admitted to the initial training, in accordance with the decision of the Councils.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of prosecutors is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any prosecutor's office (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of prosecutors, including chief prosecutors. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new prosecutors from the promotion or transfer of prosecutors to different positions within the judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of prosecutors on any level. Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors' offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation.

All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints prosecutors from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of the relevant nomination sub-council (an internal committee within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

(General Comment): Firstly, the recruitment commission reviews all application. All applicants who meet the general criteria defined by KPC legislation, are invited to written exams. The evaluation of candidate is divided in three phases. First, a general qualifying exam containing questions (multiple choice) from Criminal Law (material & procedural), and also questions from professional ethic and human rights fields, is held. Candidates should score at least 45 out of maximum 60 points in order to pass the exam. The results are published in the KPC web page. This exam is used only to qualify for the next stage (as a filter) and its results do not count in the overall result. Candidates who pass the first general written exam, will be invited to another written exam which consists of two practical cases. There is a maximum of 3 hours per each case. Each candidate is required to score at least 40 out of 60 points (each exercise has 30 points) in order to pass the exam. All candidates are notified with their results while the final list of candidates who have passed the exam is published in the web page of KPC. After the second phase of recruitment is completed (including appealing period), there will be an integrity check of candidates before being invited to interview. The integrity check is focused on information regarding candidates' work experience, performance in previous job and candidates' criminal past, in cases when the recruitment commission notices an inconsistency/discrepancy or incompatibility in the information provided by candidates in their application. Then, the interview is held. A candidate can score a maximum of 40 points in the interview. After the interview, preliminary results with a combination of results from written exam and interview are published in the KPC web page. A candidate is considered to have successfully passed the recruitment process if he/she has scored a minimum of 60 points in total and is ranked within the number of vacancy positions as defined by KPC in the call for application. Candidates can appeal each result, starting from the qualifying exam, with three days after the results are published.

After the second phase of recruitment is completed (including appealing period), there will be an integrity check of candidates before being invited to interview. The integrity check is focused on information regarding candidates' work experience, performance in previous job and candidates' criminal past, in cases when the recruitment commission notices an inconsistency/discrepancy or incompatibility in the information provided by candidates in their application. Then, the interview is held. A candidate can score a maximum of 40 points in the interview. After the interview, preliminary results with a combination of results from written exam and interview are published in the KPC web page. A candidate is considered to have successfully passed the recruitment process if he/she has scored a minimum of 60 points in total and is ranked within the number of vacancy positions as defined by KPC in the call for application. Candidates can appeal each result, starting from the qualifying exam, with three days after the results are published.

Albania

(General Comment): In addition to the above criteria, in the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, it is stipulated that candidates must meet other criteria such as:

- the lack of disciplinary measures in force;
- should not be members of political parties in the at the time of candidacy;
- they must not be a member or associate of State Security prior to 1990 and;
- have not been an associate, informant, or intelligence agent.

(2022): Related to the “age” criteria to become a prosecutor, in the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended, there is no any criteria related to the age of the candidates to enter the exam and then, accepted in the Initial Forming program of the Judicial Academy. Each person, who fulfill the legal criteria, despite of his age, may enter the exam and be graduated in the Judicial Academy, to become a prosecutor.

The criteria related to “Clean criminal record” means that, candidates should have not been convicted by a final criminal decision for a criminal offense that, due to the nature of the offense committed, discredits the position and image of the judge or prosecutor or seriously damages the public's trust in the judicial system, regardless of whether he has been rehabilitated according to the provisions of the Criminal Code. Also “Other” legal criteria are: The candidate should have not been removed from office or his license, authorization or permission to practice a profession has not been revoked for disciplinary reasons, regardless of whether the disciplinary measure is considered extinguished, and there is no disciplinary measure in force; is not a member of political parties at the time of candidacy; was not a member, associate or beneficiary of State Security prior to 1990; and, was not a collaborator, informant, or secret service agent (Article 28, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended).

(2021): According to the Law no. 96/2016, “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, one of the admissibility criteria is the non-conviction of a candidate by a final criminal decision of committing a criminal offense which, due to the nature of the offense committed, discredits the position and image of the judge or prosecutor or severely damages the public trust in the judicial system, regardless of whether he/she has been rehabilitated.

(2019): In addition to the above criteria, in the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, it is stipulated that candidates must meet other criteria such as:

- the lack of disciplinary measures in force;
- should not be members of political parties in the at the time of candidacy;
- they must not be a member or associate of State Security prior to 1990 and;
- have not been an associate, informant, or intelligence agent

(General Comment): Clean criminal record: During the appointment procedure consideration shall also be given to circumstances relevant for the evaluation of candidate suitability, such as information concerning any previous disciplinary offences, previous criminal convictions and other circumstances that may deem a candidate unsuitable to hold judicial office. The candidate in the application form must reply to the following question: Have you been convicted of a felony or been found responsible for a misdemeanor offense or been found responsible for disciplinary offense? Also, the candidate is required to submit as an attachment to the application form an official court document confirming that there is no pending criminal proceedings against him or her.

Candidate's criminal record does not constitute an eliminatory criterion in the process of appointment of candidates. But in this regard, the Interview panel and the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, through the appointment procedure determine the ability of the candidate with criminal record to perform the prosecutorial function.

Serbia

(General Comment): In the Republic of Serbia, a public prosecutor is a holder of a prosecutorial function who is head of a public prosecutorial office. All other holders of prosecutorial function are his deputies, so called 'deputy prosecutors'. However, for the purpose of filling the questionnaire, we will refer all prosecutorial function holders, as prosecutors. Hence, responses regarding entry criteria to become a prosecutor, authority which is competent during the entry selection procedure and final appointment refer only to candidates who are yet to become public prosecutors (deputies) and not to public prosecutors who are being appointed as a chief of public prosecutorial offices. According to Art 45 of Law on civil servants a person who is legally an adult, has the nationality of the Republic of Serbia, has prescribed professional qualifications and fulfils other requirements prescribed by law, other legislation or Regulation on internal organisation and systematisation of job positions may be employed as a civil servant, if his or her employment relationship was not earlier terminated due to grave breach of obligation from the employment relationship and if he or she was not convicted by prison sentence of at least six months.

Article 76 of Law on Public Prosecutor's Office

A citizen of the Republic of Serbia who meets the general requirements for working in state bodies, who has graduated from law school, passed the bar exam and is worthy of the office of public prosecutor can be elected as public prosecutor and deputy public prosecutor.

(General Comment): The clean criminal record is defined as follows: “have not been convicted of a criminal offence;”

Other criteria include: be a citizen and resident of Kosovo; and have high professional reputation and personal integrity

As I have explained in the previous section, Kosovo Prosecutorial Council and Kosovo Judicial Council are two independent institutions of the Rule of Law Sector. Therefore, they have both internal specific regulations which define the criteria for becoming a judge or prosecutors. So, KPC and KJC are fully competent to define the criteria independently.

Question 113

Albania

(2019): .

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of prosecutors is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any prosecutor's office (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of prosecutors, including chief prosecutors. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new prosecutors from the promotion or transfer of prosecutors to different positions within the judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of prosecutors on any level. Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors' offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation.

All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints prosecutors from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of the relevant nomination sub-council (an internal committee within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Montenegro

(General Comment): The jurisdiction for selection of prosecutors and heads of prosecution offices is under the Prosecutorial Council. The Prosecutorial Council establishes the plan of vacated positions, announces the public call, receiving applications conducts the written testing procedure, performs the interview with the candidates, making decision on selection etc.

(2020): Forbidden or untimely objection to the rank list is being dismissed by the Council conclusion. The Council adopts the objection to the rank list if it is founded and it changes the rank list in line with the adopted objection. The Council rejects the objection to the rank list if it is unfounded. The decision on the objection to the rank list must be elaborated. After deciding upon the objection, the Council is determining the final rank list of candidates. When the State Prosecutorial Council makes a decision on the election, then the candidate can file a lawsuit with the Administrative Court against the decision of the Council.

(2019): Forbidden or untimely objection to the rank list is dismissed by State Prosecutorial Council conclusion. The Council adopts the objection to the rank list if it is founded and it changes the rank list in line with the adopted objection. The Council rejects the objection to the rank list if it is unfounded. The decision on the objection to the rank list must be elaborated. After deciding upon the objection, the Council determines the final rank list of candidates. The State Prosecutorial Council decides on the complaint related to the rank list but the composition of members of the SPC at the two different sessions is not necessarily the same; it is only important that there is a quorum for decision making. The decision of the SPC shall become final and binding upon its confirmation in the proceedings on the raised objection or, if no objection was submitted, upon the expiry of the time limit for submitting the objection.

A candidate is entitled to file an administrative lawsuit (not bene: not an appeal) to the Administrative Court against the final decision of the SPC. Therefore, the institution competent to decide on the complaint (pre-lawsuit procedure) is the SPC but the body competent to decide on the administrative lawsuit is the Administrative Court.

Question 119

Albania

(General Comment): Article 28, of the Law on the status of judges and prosecutors provides for the following selection criteria applicable to both judges and prosecutors:

All persons are entitled to apply to the School of Magistrates for admission to the initial training as a magistrate, as long as they fulfil simultaneously the following criteria:

- a) Have full capacity to act;
- b) Be an Albanian citizen;
- c) Have graduated with the minimum scoring as determined by the School of Magistrates the second cycle of university studies in law, with a diploma of “Master of Science” and have passed the state exam for jurists in Albania, or have graduated in law with the minimum points set out by the School of Magistrates in a European Union Member State and have been awarded an equivalent diploma, recognised under the rules for recognition of diplomas provided by law;
- ç) Have at least three years of full time active professional experience in the judiciary or the prosecution office, public administration, free legal professions or teaching in law faculties, or in any other equivalent position in the private sector or international organizations;
- d) Have never been criminally convicted by a final decision;
- dh) Have never been dismissed from office for disciplinary reasons and are not subject to a current disciplinary sanction;
- e) Not to be a member of political parties at the time of application;
- ë) Have not been a member, collaborator or favoured by the State Security before 1990;
- f) Have not been a collaborator, informant, or agent of any secret service.

Except the fulfilment of the legal criteria provided in Article 28, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam of the School of Magistrates, should pass positively the process of verifying the integrity and assets before they are accepted in the initial forming programme of the School of Magistrates (Article 32, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended).

Lastly, as provided in article 32 of the status law, a student at the School of Magistrates can be appointed as a judge or a prosecutor if it fulfills the following criteria:

- a) Having graduated from the School of Magistrates in the initial training with a score of at least 70% of the maximum reachable scores;
- b) Having achieved evaluation scores of at least “good” in each of the assignments during the professional internship in the third year of the initial training;
- c) Having passed the asset declaration and background check, carried out by the Councils in accordance with the provisions in paragraphs 2 to 6 of Article 32 of this Law.

(2022): The focus of the question, regarding the selection criteria of judges/prosecutors, is after the entry exam. After the entry exam, the selection is made only on the basis of the results/score they received in the exam. The criteria of work performance and experience are applied in the pre-selection phase of the candidates who apply to be registered to take the entry exam. Except the fulfilment of the legal criteria provided in Article 28, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended, the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam of the School of Magistrates, should pass positively the process of verifying the integrity and assets before they are accepted in the initial forming programme of the School of Magistrates. The verification process is carried out from High Judicial /Prosecutorial Council (Article 32, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended).

Serbia

(General Comment): Criteria for election of public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices) and deputy public prosecutors are stipulated by the Law on Public Prosecution Office, the Rulebook on criteria and standards for evaluation of qualification, competence and worthiness of candidates during the procedure of proposing and electing prosecutorial position holders, as well as by the Rulebook on program and method of taking the exam for evaluation of qualification and competence of candidates elected for the first time for a deputy public prosecutor.

1. According to the Law on Public Prosecution Office for a public prosecutor and a deputy public prosecutor may be elected a citizen of the Republic of Serbia who fulfills the general requirements for employment in government authorities, who is a law school graduate with a passed Bar Exam, and who is worthy of the office of a public prosecutor.

A person may be elected public prosecutor and deputy public prosecutor if he/she, in addition to general requirements, has experience in the legal profession after passing the Bar Exam, as follows:

- four years for a basic public prosecutor, and three years for a deputy basic public prosecutor;
- seven years for a high public prosecutor, and six years for a deputy high public prosecutor;
- ten years for an appellate public prosecutor and a public prosecutor with special jurisdiction, and eight years for a deputy appellate public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutor with special jurisdiction;
- twelve years for the Republic Public Prosecutor and eleven years for Deputy Republic Public Prosecutor.

When electing deputy public prosecutors a differentiation should be made between election of deputy public prosecutors, elected for the first time for the period of three years, and election of deputy public prosecutors after the three-year term, for permanent position.

Qualification and competence of candidates are being evaluated when electing deputy public prosecutors for the first time to the position in a public prosecution office. Qualification and competence of candidates are being evaluated at the exam organized by the State

(2019): Criteria for election of public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices) and deputy public prosecutors are stipulated by the Law on Public Prosecution Office ("Official Gazette of the RS", No. 116/2008, 104/2009, 101/2010, 78/2011 - other Law, 101/2011, 38/2012 - decision of Constitutional Court, 121/2012, 101/2013, 111/2014 - decision of Constitutional Court, 117/2014, 106/2015 and 63/2016 - decision of Constitutional Court), the Rulebook on criteria and standards for evaluation of qualification, competence and worthiness of candidates during the procedure of proposing and electing prosecutorial position holders ("Official Gazette of the RS", No 43/2015 and 80/2016 - other Rulebook), as well as by the Rulebook on program and method of taking the exam for evaluation of qualification and competence of candidates elected for the first time for a deputy public prosecutor (Official Gazette of the RS, No. 82/2017 and 91/2018). 1. According to the Law on Public Prosecution Office for a public prosecutor and a deputy public prosecutor may be elected a citizen of the Republic of Serbia who fulfills the general requirements for employment in government authorities, who is a law school graduate with a passed Bar Exam, and who is worthy of the office of a public prosecutor.

A person may be elected public prosecutor and deputy public prosecutor if he/she, in addition to general requirements, has experience in the legal profession after passing the Bar Exam, as follows:

- four years for a basic public prosecutor, and three years for a deputy basic public prosecutor;
- seven years for a high public prosecutor, and six years for a deputy high public prosecutor;
- ten years for an appellate public prosecutor and a public prosecutor with special jurisdiction, and eight years for a deputy appellate public prosecutors and deputy public prosecutor with special jurisdiction;
- twelve years for the Republic Public Prosecutor and eleven years for Deputy Republic Public Prosecutor.

When electing deputy public prosecutors a differentiation should be made between election of deputy public prosecutors, elected for the first time for the period of three years, and election of deputy public prosecutors after the three-year term, for permanent position. Qualification and competence of candidates are being evaluated when electing deputy public prosecutors for the first time to the position in a public prosecution office. Qualification and competence of candidates are being evaluated at the exam organized by the State Prosecutorial Council. Success at the exam is being expressed by marks from 1 to 5. The candidate for a deputy public prosecutor elected for the first time for the position in a basic public prosecution office, who completed initial education at the Judicial Academy, does not have to take the exam organized by the State Prosecutorial Council, but as his/her standard for qualification and competence shall be taken final mark at the initial education at the Judicial Academy. The State Prosecutorial Council regulates program and method of taking of the exam for evaluation of qualification and competence of candidates. Therefore, for the deputy elected for the first time may be elected someone, who, in addition to general conditions, has legal profession work experience of at least three years after passing of the Bar exam, after that period that person may be elected for a deputy public prosecutor to a three-year term, and is being elected by the National Assembly, based on proposal of the State Prosecutorial Council. After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is being elected by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the first case. Qualification and competence are being evaluated in the first case, as stated above, while in the second case, when election to the permanent position, as well as when electing public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices), worthiness is being evaluated as well. When proposing and electing candidates for the prosecutorial position, the State

Albania

(General Comment): According to Article 32/2, of the “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, the process of verifying the integrity and assets of the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam, is realised from the High Prosecutorial Council who requests reporting from the competent institutions for the verification of integrity and assets and any other exceptional cause, from the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Control of Assets and Conflict of Interest, the prosecution offices, tax and customs administration bodies, the National Bureau of Investigation, state intelligence services, as well as any disciplinary body that has supervised the discipline in the previous employment relations of the candidates.

(2019): During January of each calendar year, both Councils, following a needs analysis, determine and publish the maximum number of candidate magistrates for admission to the initial training for the next academic year. The School of Magistrates receives applications for admission to the initial training by end of February of each year. By 15 March each year, the School of Magistrates shall carry out a preliminary assessment as to whether the applicant satisfies the application criteria. The School of Magistrates submits to the Councils (Judicial and Prosecutorial council depending on the preference of the applicant) the report of preliminary assessment outcome, together with the files of the application documents for each applicant. The Councils may deliver comments or objections not later than by end of March each year. The School of Magistrates adopts the final assessment report by taking into account the comments and objections received by each council and shall publish the final assessment report on its official website, including the list of applicants who fulfil the legal criteria.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of prosecutors is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any prosecutor's office (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of prosecutors, including chief prosecutors. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new prosecutors from the promotion or transfer of prosecutors to different positions within the judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of prosecutors on any level. Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors' offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation.

All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints prosecutors from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of the relevant nomination sub-council (an internal committee within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has a right to appoint some and reject some among the selected candidates. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina also has a right to appoint candidates that were not selected (proposed) by its competent sub-council .

The procedure of recruitment and selection of prosecutors is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any prosecutor's office (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of prosecutors, including chief prosecutors. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new prosecutors from the promotion or transfer of prosecutors to different positions within the judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of prosecutors on any level. Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors' offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation.

All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints prosecutors from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of the relevant nomination sub-council (an internal committee within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

(2019): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has a right to appoint some and reject some among the selected candidates. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina also has a right to appoint candidates that were not selected (proposed) by the competent its sub-council .

(2019): There is a difference in procedure for final appointment of a "first time" deputy prosecutor for a 3 year period and for a public prosecutor.

1. For a deputy public prosecutor elected for the first time to a three-year term – finally appointed by the National Assembly, based on proposal of the State Prosecutorial Council.
2. After the three-year term, the deputy public prosecutor is being appointed (elected) by the State Prosecutorial Council to the permanent position of a deputy public prosecutor, and not by the National Assembly, as in the first case.

3. When it comes to public prosecutors (heads of public prosecution offices), they are being elected by the National Assembly, based on the Government proposal, for the period of six years and he/she may be reelected.

The Parliament elects pp's and, in rare situations, can return the proposed list or a part of it to the SPC. The Parliament in this case does not provide only a formal confirmation of the candidates proposed by the authority which makes selection but has rather the second option ("Has a right to appoint some and reject some among the selected (proposed) candidates"). It is rare that there are two proposed candidates for one post. More often is the situation that the proposal is simply returned.

Albania

(General Comment): As answered in the Questionnaire, in principle, the High Prosecutorial Council on the final appointment procedure has a right to appoint some and reject some among the selected (proposed) candidates. According the article 35, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended, a graduate in the Judicial Academy, to be appointed as magistrate should fulfill these three criteria:

- a) be graduated in the Initial Forming Program of Judicial Academy with at least 70 % of the total possible points;
- b) is evaluated at least “good” on all the duties assigned during dhe professional experience in the third year of Initial Forming;
- c) pass again the verification of integrity and assets realized from the Council, in accordance with this law. Also, a graduate in the Judicial Academy, may ask for justified reasons, to be appointed in the following year.

Within a month after the publication of the list of graduates, the Council may:

- a) appoint as magistrate each person in the graduated list who fulfil the appointment criteria or refuse to appoint each person who is in the graduated list but doesn’t fulfil the appointment criteria
- b) allow the candidate who fulfill the appointment criteria to be appointed the following year.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The relevant provisions of the Book of Rules, adopted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, read as follows:

Article 61 (Decision on the Appointment of Judges and Prosecutors) (1) The Council shall decide on each appointment separately on the basis on the proposal from the relevant sub-council. (2) In the event that the Council does not adopt the proposal of a sub-council and the sub-council does not propose another candidate, the Council may, based on an elaborated proposal by any member of the Council, appoint one of the candidates who achieved the appropriate results required for appointment. (3) When proposing a candidate pursuant to paragraph (2) of the Article, consideration shall be given to circumstances from Article 59b, paragraph (2) of the Rules of Procedure. (4) During an appointment the Council shall also decide on the date of taking up office of an appointee. Article 59b

(Activities of the Sub-Council) (1) The relevant sub-council shall carry out the final candidate ranking and submit a proposal to the Council for action. (2) When nominating a candidate for appointment, apart from points scored and the ranking of the candidates who have achieved the required results, the relevant sub-council shall also cumulatively take into account the following: -circumstances that are relevant to the assessment of candidate suitability; -the need to ensure the appropriate ethnic and gender representation in the court or prosecutors office in accordance with Article 43, paragraph (2) of the Law; -the work-related experience of a candidate for a certain field of law, if the court for which appointment is being carried out, apart from municipal and basic court levels, has a need for a judge of a certain specialisation. (3) If the list of candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment has no candidates of the appropriate ethnicity or with the specific work-related experience, the competition shall be repeated only once. (4) Apart from reasons pursuant to paragraph (3) of the Article, a competition may be repeated also in the event that none of the proposed candidates i.e. candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment, receive a majority vote as required for appointment or in the event that none of the candidates achieved the required results within the competition procedure. Article 61b (Nomination and Appointment to Managerial Positions) (11) If, after the presentation of the work programs, no candidate has received a majority vote required to render a decision on appointment, any member of the Council may propose any candidate who has the achieved the appropriate result required for appointment to present their work program at the subsequent session
