Q142 (2023): The implemented budget in EURO is calculated by the average of exchange rate for the reference year 2023 that is 108.75. The budget in ALL is 461 639 120. The increase in the previous cycle can be explained by the increase of the number of candidates for magistrates attending the Initial Training Program, the increase of number of trainings of the Continuous Training Program, and the increase of salaries for the State Administration.

Q142 (2022): The amount provided by the State Budget to the School of Magistrates is 2 470 872 EURO

The total amount of funds given to the SoM by donors in 2022 is: 1 997 EURO.

Q143 (2022): A training topic may be developed regularly or occasionally in different academic years. This is a different variable since the calendar of continuing education training activities itself is variable from one academic year to another. The components that influence the variability of this data are mainly the needs of the justice system for the development of training activities in a specific direction or field, as well as the selection of this topic by the main beneficiaries of continuing education, which are the in-service magistrates. In other words, after we conduct the needs assessment process and collect the concrete needs of in-service magistrates, we organize the training activities. This is why we have checked the boxes “as needed” intending to say, “according to the needs of the system”. This means that we organize them regularly but according to the needs of the in-service magistrates.

Q145 (2022): A training topic may be developed regularly or occasionally in different academic years. This means that we organize them regularly but according to the needs of the in-service magistrates.

Q146 (2022): A training topic may be developed regularly or occasionally in different academic years. This is a different variable since the calendar of continuing education training activities itself is variable from one academic year to another. The components that influence the variability of this data are mainly the needs of the justice system for the development of training activities in a specific direction or field, as well as the selection of this topic by the main beneficiaries of continuing education, which are the in-service magistrates. This means that we organize them regularly but according to the needs of the in-service magistrates.

Q146-1 (2023): 195 - The first and second year of the initial training are divided in two semesters of 15 weeks each of them. A calendar year has 30 weeks, with 5 days of initial training in a week, in total 150 days of initial training in the first year, and 45 days of initial training in the second year.

Q146-1 (2022): The first and second year of the initial training are divided in two semesters of 15 weeks each of them. A calendar year has 30 weeks, with 5 days of initial training in a week, in total 150 days of initial training in the first year, and 45 days of initial training in the second year.

Q147 (2022): The total does not match as SoM does not organize trainings only for judges or only for prosecutors. In the table of training activities, trainings are defined which are addressed to a specific target group such as judges, prosecutors, judicial police officers, state lawyers, administrative staff of courts or prosecutions, chancellors, etc. but most of the training activities are open to all subjects whose law recognizes the right to be trained by the School of Magistrates. So, apart from the fact that there are trainings with a certain target group, the same trainings where judges have participated, prosecutors have also participated, especially when it comes to dealing with procedural law, where the confrontation of the prosecutor's perspective with the court is quite important. In this case, in 76 trainings for judges, there were trainings dedicated only to judges, but also trainings where there were judges, prosecutors and other subjects of the justice system.

Q147 (2021): Please note that more attention is being given to initial training, as the number of new students has substantially increased

Q147 (2020): The decrease in the number of in-person training course in days is due to Covid-19 related restrictions

Q147-1 (2023): The increase is explained by the increase of available and delivered training activities, as well as the increase of the number of judges and prosecutors in the system after the last two years of graduation from SoM.

Q147-1 (2021): Please note that more attention is being given to initial training, as the number of new students has substantially increased

Q147-1 (2020): Non-judge and non-prosecutor staff: 630 participants in in-person training courses and 337 participants in online training courses

Q153 (2023): The School of Magistrates organizes ongoing training with prosecutors on topics such as domestic violence and gender-based violence; obligations arising from the Istanbul Convention and the Recommendations of the Greco Committee for the justice system. Introduction to Gender Theory, Gender theories in courtrooms, national and international context and case law, etc.

Q154 (2020): To answer to the question on the decrease of number of judges and prosecutors:

The needs-based methodology of drafting the training calendar makes it mandatory for the School of Magistrates to plan and hold the training activities as requested by judges and prosecutors in service. Because last year a considerable part of judges and prosecutors in service participated in specific trainings on EU Law and because there have been a lot of changes in the domestic legislation, including basic laws (e.g. criminal code, criminal procedure code), the interest of in-service judges and prosecutors has been higher for trainings on changes of legislation rather than in EU training activities.

Q155 (2020): The reason is with the coming of the pandemic, the training activities we had planned with our international partners, due to suspension of international travel, were cancelled. This is why there were no activities financed by our international partners on the topic and therefore no participating judges or prosecutors.

Q147 (2023): The decrease is due to the different needs defined in the Program for continuous training.

Q147 (2021): In 2021, because of COVID 19 situation most of the trainings which were planned to be delivered in person, were delivered on-line. From this 10 trainings, on 2 trainings participated judges, on 1 training participated public prosecutors, 7 trainings were organized as common for judges and prosecutors.

From a total of 121 delivered trainings, 79 were delivered online (74 trainings for judges, 49 trainings for prosecutors, 0 for non-judge staff and non prosecutor staff and 6 for other categories).

Because we don't have separate row for common trainings, in the total number of 211 available trainings in 2020, are included 79 which were planned to be common trainings for judges and public prosecutors. According to the system on the Academy for judges and public prosecutors, the trainings are common for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff and the days of training are therefore reflected under both categories. (2022): General training during service, or continuous training for judges as stated by the Law on the Academy of Justice is in principle voluntary, while the training quota is determined by the KJC for mandatory training within the year.

Also, for specialized functions, such as the case for a judge of the Economic Court, training is mandatory.

Training for CMIS has been mandatory training. In the reporting period, there was a training for Registers, statistical reports and dashboards of CMIS which was dedicated to the administrative staff of the courts, namely heads of the office for case management, statistical officers, administrators and assistant administrators of the courts in which they participated 35 participants from all courts.

We have highlighted the in-service training on child-friendly justice as optional for all judges, since all without exception have the opportunity to participate in training, while juvenile judges choose to continue training in this field as they are within the scope of their work competencies.

In-service ethics training is mandatory for all judges except for judges who are 2 years before retirement. However, for 2022, the Judicial Council has removed the obligation for ethics training, which is why we have emphasized that it was optional.

In addition to professional training, the program also offers interdisciplinary training, which is why judges also participate in other trainings during their service.

- second stage - practical teaching in courts and public prosecutor's offices and others institutions, in accordance with the initial training program lasting 15 months.

The initial training is organized in three modules. Each module contains 7 subjects, or total of 21 subjects. The first and second modules are composed of 414 hours, while the third module is composed of 207 hours. Initial training contains 1035 hours in total. One teaching hour equals 40 minutes.

The Academy conducts compulsory training for judges and public prosecutors, in accordance with Article 5 of the Rules for Continuous Training, which they must attend as soon as they are elected. The number of mandatory days of training on an annual level decreasing gradually, as the judge's /the prosecutor seniority increases. Failure to meet the required number of training days on an annual level may even lead to deducting points, i.e. obtaining a lower annual grade, which, further, may make it more difficult for the concerned judge, i.e. public prosecutor, to be promoted in the future.

According to Article 7 paragraph 4, new elected judges and public prosecutors are obliged, of their choice, to attend intensive continuous training lasting five working days, which is carried out on the basis of a specialized program (divided into two modules: criminal and civil) for mandatory continuous training. Judges/public prosecutors with up to 3 years of experience are obliged to attend a total of 10 days of training.

1-3 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=10 days of training

3-8 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=6 days of training

8-15 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=4 days of training

over 15 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=2 days of training

Question 146-1-0

Serbia

(2023): The training solely dedicated to prevention of corruption and conflict of interest is not compulsory but Judicial Academy devotes a lot of attention to this topic in its Annual program and every year a large number of judges and prosecutors attend trainings in this area organized by Judicial Academy.

Question 147

Albania

(2022): The total does not match as SoM does not organize trainings only for judges or only for prosecutors. In the table of training activities, trainings are defined which are addressed to a specific target group such as judges, prosecutors, judicial police officers, state lawyers, administrative staff of courts or prosecutions, chancellors, etc. but most of the training activities are open to all subjects whose law recognizes the right to be trained by the School of Magistrates. So, apart from the fact that there are trainings with a certain target group, the same trainings where judges have participated, prosecutors have also participated, especially when it comes to dealing with procedural law, where the confrontation of the prosecutor's perspective with the court is quite important. In this case, in 76 trainings for judges, there were trainings dedicated only to judges, but also trainings where there were judges, prosecutors and other subjects of the justice system.

(2021): Please note that more attention is being given to initial training, as the number of new students has substantially increased

(2020): The decrease in the number of in-person training course in days is due to Covid-19 related restrictions

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2023): Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor's offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centers.

(2021): Number of in-service training courses in 2021 were provided by the institutions for the training of judges and prosecutors – please refer to the comment provided for Q142. Training courses are held in different formats: in-person, online and combined. Individual training courses last one or more days.

It should be taken into account that both judges and prosecutors took part in certain training courses (e.g. there were joint training courses aimed at enhancing the competences of criminal judges and prosecutors dealing with corruption cases, organized crime cases etc.). Non-judge staff and Non-prosecutor staff: The institutions for the training of judges and prosecutors could not provide precise data for the training courses that were at disposal to this category of participants.

Other professionals: The data in the table refers to the training courses that were available for the legal advisers working in prosecutors' offices and courts.

(2020): Number of delivered in-person training courses plummeted in 2020 as a result of the measures taken against the spread of coronavirus.

Number of on-line training courses increased considerably in 2020 as a result of the measures taken against the spread of coronavirus.

(2019): The number of on-line training courses was much lower in 2019 compared to 2018, because the judicial training centers did not deliver the planned on-line courses due to the lack of resources and other unforeseen circumstances.

- In the table above related to online trainings, we did not include 2 HELP online courses (e-learning) due to the days of training (multi-month courses):

- The first HELP online course – e-learning (19 February – 10 May 2021) – The total of 49 participants successfully completed this course – 11 judges, 2 state prosecutors, 17 advisers from courts, 2 advisers from the Special State Prosecution Office, 7 trainees from courts, 1 trainee from a state prosecution office, 3 candidates for judges, 2 candidates for state prosecutors, 2 lawyers, 2 special pedagogues of the Professional Service of the High Courts.

Advisors from courts and State prosecution also have the right to participate in trainings intended for judges and state prosecutors (they are allowed to participate in continuous training in case that judges and state prosecutors are prevented to attend the trainings) From the number of 34 online only 2 training activities planned to be online (CE HELP program e-learning courses). The rest of the number are training that were planned to be in-person but due the situation which is caused by covid pandemic we organized it online. The training that were supposed to be in-person we adapted to the online format-shorter lecture time, encourage participants to use online platforms for training. In 2020, due to the situation caused by the corona virus, 11 trainings planned by the Program for Continuous Training of Judges and State Prosecutors were not implemented.

In non-prosecutor and non-judge staff we did not count trainees/interns in courts and State prosecution. The Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution implements theoretical part of professional training of trainees/interns in courts and state prosecution offices, in accordance with the Law on Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices and Bar Examination ("Official Gazette of Montenegro", no.55/2016 and 57/2016) and upon the Training Programme for Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices which was adopted in January 2018. North Macedonia

(2023): The decrease is due to the different needs defined in the Program for continuous training.

(2021): In 2021, because of COVID 19 situation most of the trainings which were planned to be delivered in person, were delivered on-line. From a total of 235 delivered trainings, 69 were trainings for judges, 31 trainings for prosecutors, 94 trainings were common for judges and prosecutors, 17 for non-judge staff and 0 for non-prosecutor staff, 11 trainings were organized as common for non-judges and non-prosecutors and 16 for other categories).

Because we don't have separate row for common trainings, in the total number of 160 for judges are included 66 trainings organized only for judges + 94 common trainings for judges and public prosecutors. In total number of 125 trainings for public prosecutors are included 31 trainings organized only for public prosecutors plus 94 common trainings.

In total number of 28 trainings for non-judges staff are included 17 trainings organized for non-judges staff plus 11 common trainings for non-judges staff and non-prosecutors staff.

In total number of 11 trainings for non-prosecutor staff are included 11 from common trainings, separate trainings only for non-prosecutors were not organized.

Trainings for judges reflected in days are total 188 days (69 +17 from common trainings) Trainings for prosecutors in days are total 187 (68 +119 from common trainings), for non-judge staff are 27 days (17+10 from common trainings) and for non-prosecutor staff are total 10 days.

According to the system on the Academy for judges and public prosecutors, the trainings are common for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff and the days of training are therefore reflected under both categories.

In the column on -line training courses available in 2021, by the Academy were organized a total of 10 common on line trainings for judges, prosecutors, non-judge staff and non prosecutor staff. From this 10 trainings, on 2 trainings participated judges, on 1 training participated public prosecutors, 7 trainings were organized as common for judges and prosecutors.

In 2021 the number of organized trainings increased in compared to 2020 when the number decreased because of the COVID 19 situation.

(2020): In 2020, because of COVID 19 situation most of the trainings which were planned to be delivered in person, were delivered on line. From a total of 121 delivered trainings, 79 were delivered online (74 trainings for judges, 49 trainings for prosecutors, 0 for non-judge staff and non prosecutor staff and 6 for other categories).

Because we don't have separate row for common trainings, in the total number of 211 available trainings in 2020, are included 79 which were planned to be common trainings for judges and public prosecutors. According to the system on the Academy for judges and public prosecutors, the trainings are common for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff and the days of training are therefore reflected under both categories. In the column on line training courses available in 2020, by the Academy were organized a total of 9 common on line trainings for judges, prosecutors, non-judge staff and non prosecutor staff. From this 9 trainings, on 8 trainings participate judges, on 7 trainings participate public prosecutors, on all 9 trainings participate non-judge and non-prosecutor staff. For the numbers of participants please see the answer on Q147-1.

The total number of trainings in 2020 in coparison with 2019 decreased because of the COVID 19 situation.

Serbia

(2023): In 2023 the priority of the Judicial Academy was the development and the promotion of the Academy's new distance learning platform-LMS platform as well as development of the e-learning courses and e-library. That is the reason of the decreased number of live trainings delivered in comparison to 2022.

(2022): A large number of trainings includes few groups of stakeholders, such as police officers, lawyers, social workers, NGO representatives, tax administration officials and others, depending on the topic discussed of the specific training, and not only judges and prosecutors. Also, where possible and appropriate, Judicial Academy gathers judges, prosecutors, judicial and prosecutorial assistants and the users of the initial training of the Judicial Academy at the same trainings. This is the reason why total number of all participants is higher than the sum of the number of judges, prosecutors, non-judge and non-prosecutor staff who attended the trainings. For example, in 2022 Judicial Academy trained, together with judges and prosecutors, 1105 police officers and 643 lawyers.

(2021): During 2020, many trainings were delayed or canceled, both online and in person, given the pandemic and measures prescribed by the state due to Covid 19. Double-checked by competent institution.

Kosovo*

(2022): -In the total number of trainings 209, there were also 114 joint trainings for judges and prosecutors, 145 continuous trainings programme, 10 trainings for free legal professions, 7 training of trainers. For non-judge staff and For non-prosecutor staff there were 33 joint trainings.

-Regarding the category Number of days of delivered live (in person, hybrid, video conference) trainings, the total number of 354 days includes 237 trainings jointly for judges and prosecutors, 35 days trainings only for judges, 10 days only for prosecutors, 36 days of trainings jointly for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff. Furthermore, there were 10 days training for free legal professions and 19 days for trainings for trainers.

(2020): With regard to online courses, because of the pandemic situation, during 2020 have been organized a higher number of online training courses for judges and prosecutors compared to the number of online training courses available: 68 training courses for Judges(111 days), 48 training courses for prosecutors (86 days). This number of training courses includes also in-person training courses, which, for the well-known reasons, could not be held in person.

Question 147-1

Albania

(2023): The increase is explained by the increase of available and delivered training activities, as well as the increase of the number of judges and prosecutors in the system after the last two years of graduation from SoM.

(2021): Please note that more attention is being given to initial training, as the number of new students has substantially increased

(2020): Non-judge and non-prosecutor staff: 630 participants in in-person training courses and 337 participants in online training courses

Montenegro

(2023): And 310 other participants not included in this categories

(2022): In addition, as per the column one 121 other participants (representatives of state institutions, law enforcement officers, lawyers, etc) undergone through training. Comment: The participants in the training activities also included other legal professionals, i.e. the representatives of the Ministry of Justice (and Human and Minority Rights), notary public offices, the Ministry of Finance and Social Welfare, LGBTQ organizations and Institution of the Protector of Human Rights and Freedoms of Montenegro (Ombudsman).

Note: (comment ref. column 3 - Total): The total of 108 participants in training activities includes: 31 judges, 6 prosecutors, 42 non-judge staff (3 candidates for judges + 27 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts), 7 non-prosecutor staff (4 candidates for state prosecutors + 3 advisors from state prosecution offices), 22 legal professionals from other public institutions (5 lawyers, 11 the Ministry of Justice (and Human and Minority Rights) + 1 notary public offices + 1 the Ministry of Finance and Social Welfare + 3 LGBTQ organizations + 1 Institution of the Protector of Human Rights and Freedoms of Montenegro (Ombudsman).

Note: (comment ref. column 3 - Non-judge staff): 3 candidates for judges + 27 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts.

Note: (comment ref. column 3 - Non-prosecutor staff): 4 candidates for state prosecutors + 3 advisors from state prosecution offices.

In non-prosecutor and non-judge staff we did not count trainees/interns in courts and state prosecution offices. The Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution implements theoretical part of professional training of trainees/interns in courts and state prosecution offices, in accordance with the Law on Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices and Bar Examination ("Official Gazette of Montenegro", no. 55/2016 and 57/2016) and upon the Training Programme for Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices which was adopted in January 2018. In 2022, the CTJSP organized training for 108 interns, of which 88 are interns in courts and 20 in state prosecutor's offices. The trainees were divided into five groups, and a total of 23 trainings were conducted (2 live and 21 online), i.e. 55 days of training.

(2021): This change was caused by COVID-19 pandemic. Owing to the aforementioned change, the Centre now has more modalities of training, i.e. in-person, hybrid and online training activities, which in a sense can be considered as a systematic change, or more precisely – the broadening of modalities.

(2020): Note: Additional to above numbers in non-prosecutor and non-judge staff we did not count trainees/ interns in courts and state prosecution. The Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution implements theoretical part of professional training of trainees/ interns in courts and state prosecution offices, in accordance with the Law on Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices and Bar Examination ("Official Gazette of Montenegro", no.55/2016 and 57/2016) and upon the Training Programme for Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices which was adopted in January 2018. In 2020, the Centre organised 24 training (of this number 15 online trainings - all together 57 days of training) activities for 141 trainees/interns, 107 in courts and 34 in state prosecution offices.

North Macedonia

(2022): 2348 participants is total number for non-judges and non-prosecutors for in live trainings, and 91 is total number for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff for e-learning training. The Academy's system can't provide separate number for this category.

(2021): The Academy usually organizes common trainings for judges, prosecutors, non-judge and non-prosecutor staff. Some of those participants cannot be differentiated (between non-judge and non-prosecutor staff) and those categories are therefore answered as NA. 1229 is total number for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff that participated on the trainings. Total number of participants in online training courses (e-learning) is 3 and because of the same reason it is answered as NA. In 2021 increased the number of organized trainings which also means increased number of participants.

(2020): The Academy usually organizes common trainings for judges, prosecutors, non-judge and non-prosecutor staff. Some of those participants cannot be differentiated (between non-judge and non-prosecutor staff) and those categories are therefore answered as “NA”. 370 non-differentiated non-judge and non-prosecutor staffs participated on trainings (208 with physical presence and 162 participated online). In 2020, only 2 separate trainings were realized for the non-judge and non-prosecutor staff with physical presence, whereby a total of 56 non-judge and non-prosecutor staff participated, out of which 27 for non-judge and 29 for non-prosecutor staff, which are included in the total number of 370.

That is the reason why total number of all participants is higher than the sum of the number of judges, prosecutors, non-judge and non-prosecutor staff who attended the trainings. In 2023 the Academy increased the participation of the future judges and prosecutors (the users of the initial training, the judicial and prosecutorial assistants) in its educational events. Please consider that the total number of all participants is 4858.

Albania

(2020): To answer to the question on the decrease of number of judges and prosecutors:

The needs-based methodology of drafting the training calendar makes it mandatory for the School of Magistrates to plan and hold the training activities as requested by judges and prosecutors in service. Because last year a considerable part of judges and prosecutors in service participated in specific trainings on EU Law and because there have been a lot of changes in the domestic legislation, including basic laws (e.g. criminal code, criminal procedure code), the interest of in-service judges and prosecutors has been higher for trainings on changes of legislation rather than in EU training activities.

Q156 (General Comment): In the competence of courts, shall be included the adjudication of requests for due compensation to the person, who has suffered a pecuniary or non-pecuniary damage due to the unreasonable length of a case, as per the definition of Article 6/1 of the European Convention "On Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms". Provisions define the evaluation of reasonable duration of a process, as well as the due compensation, when unreasonable delays have been determined in investigation procedures, trial of cases, as well as in the procedures of execution of decisions. Just satisfaction for violation of reasonable time limits shall be deemed the recognition of violation, any measures taken to expedite the proceedings of investigation, trial of the case and execution of the decision, and/or compensation of the damage, according to the provisions of this Chapter.

Q156 (2023): The Albanian legislation provides a system of compensation for all the above circumstances.

-Regarding the excessive length of proceedings and non-execution of court decisions:

The procedural legislation provides for the right of the party in a judicial process to be compensated for the damage caused due to the unreasonable length of a procedure according to legal provisions. More specifically, the Code of Civil Procedure, as amended, has provided the rules and procedures for reasonable length of procedures in its articles 399/1-399/12.

Article 399/2 of this Code provides for reasonable deadlines for the investigation, trial or execution of a final decision. In case of exceeding the deadlines provided for in this article, the parties in the process can submit a request, which is adjudicated by the competent court. If a violation is found by the court, the party can file a claim for damage compensation.

-Regarding the wrongful arrest / detention and wrongful conviction:

The Code of Criminal Procedure, as amended, has provided in its Article 268 the right to compensation for the detention suffered by those who have been found innocent by a final court decision, except in cases where it has been proven that the wrongful decision or failure to discover the unknown fact in due time, is caused, wholly or in part, by the person himself. This right is also granted for the convicted person who has been placed in precautionary detention in prison, when it is proven by a final decision that the act by which the precautionary measure was established, has been issued in absence of the requirements provided for by Articles 228 and 229 of this Code. These provisions also apply to cases where the court or prosecutor decided to dismiss the case. Whereas in cases when it is proven by a court decision that the act is not provided under the law as a criminal offence, due to the abrogation of the relative provision, the right of compensation is not recognized for the part of precautionary detention in prison served before the abrogation.

The request for compensation must be submitted within three years of the day in which the judgment of acquittal or dismissal has become final. Whereas the compensation amount, the method for its calculation, and the cases of house arrest compensation, are established by special law.

Q156 (2022): The requests for excessive length of proceedings and non-execution of court decisions, have been introduced as a separate request to the court by national law in 2017. According to the Civil Procedural Code the procedure is divided in 2 different phases. The first phase is logged as a simple request to the court and is registered in the CMS system as non-litigious cases either civil or administrative depending on the court. They are registered without a specific identifying code. The second phase is logged as litigious case based on tort legal provisions. We cannot identify these specific cases within the category. We will tackle this issue while creating the new CMS system.

Regarding the requests for wrongful arrest / detention and wrongful conviction, these cases are registered as litigious administrative cases and do not have a specific identifying code in the CMS.

Requests to dismiss judges assigned to decide on the dismissal are not accepted.

Q181-1 (2023): NA

Q181-1 (2022): The High Prosecutorial Council handled a request of a prosecutor in the general jurisdiction offices to engage as an expert in monitoring the activity of the Special Prosecutor's Office against Corruption and Organized Crime, within the framework of a project implemented by an NPO. According to the law, the prosecutor has the right to participate in off-duty activities related to legal issues, the legal system and the administration of justice.

However, the prosecutor's request was related to the monitoring of the work of the Special Prosecutor's Office for various issues, therefore, this request contradicted the criteria provided for in Article 9, point 1, letter "dh", of the Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors", as amended, where it is stated that, the activities outside the function should not be incompatible with the exercise of the function of the magistrate.

In the "Standards with the Rules of Ethics and the Rules of Conduct of the Prosecutor" have been established some basic principles which aim to increase impartiality during and outside the exercise of the functions of the prosecutor, support the implementation of the highest standards of ethical and professional behaviour, preserve the image of the professional, as well as the appropriate behaviour in the office in court or outside these premises of the prosecutor. In article 5, letters "b" and "ç", of these Rules, related to the principle of impartiality, it is provided that the Prosecutor must: b) avoid any type of behaviour that may create the impression of partiality; ç) avoids situations that can reasonably be perceived as leading to a conflict of interest. The member of the family and the person related to the declaring subject is legally liable for the authenticity and accuracy of the declared data. Spouses and adult children have an obligation to declare assets the same as the judge or prosecutor. On the special form, there is a separate section for the spouse and the adult children that is signed by them, and if there are any assets that have not been declared, they are administratively or criminally liable for the omission to declare. However, for underage children the obligation to declare their assets rests with the judge or the prosecutor since, in any case, if the children would have any assets under their name, they would be acting as legal representatives for that asset, and therefore such interests would have to be declared. However, this is a very rare situation, since, in the most cases, underage children are unable to enter into legal transactions

Q208 (2020): In accordance with article 21 and 22 of the special law, the declaration of assets includes the assets of the subject and his family (husband / wife, cohabitant and adult children), the sources of creation and financial liabilities of the entity. The declaration shall also include the fact whether the declarant has or does not have any other related persons.

When the property of the members of the family is divided and registered as such in the bodies of the state or judicial administration, the declaration is submitted separately by each member of the family, with the property registered in his/her own name, and it is attached to the declaration of the subject who has the obligation to make the declaration. The member of the family and the person related to the declaring subject is legally liable for the authenticity and accuracy of the declared data. Spouses and adult children have an obligation to declare assets the same as the judge or prosecutor. On the special form, there is a separate section for the spouse and the adult children that is signed by them, and if there are any assets that have not been declared, they are administratively or criminally liable for the omission to declare. Q222 (General Comment): In the Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors", as amended, is provided that, breach of the rules of incompatibility or conflict of interest prevention is a disciplinary violation. Also, in the Law no. 9367 dated 7.4.2005, "On the prevention of conflicts of interest in the exercise of public functions", as amended, is provided that, any violation of the obligations set forth in this law, when it does not constitute a criminal offense, constitutes an administrative offense and is punishable by a fine.

Q223 (General Comment): Please briefly describe the procedure: Please note that civil procedure code and criminal procedure code have been checked because they regulate the recusals of judges in civil or criminal proceedings and the procedure for doing so.

Please note that some of the procedure to sanction breaches of the rules on the conflict of interest for both judges and prosecutors are provided in the law on the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania. In question 223, this law under the "law on judges" tick. However, please be advised that this law in question 232 has been reported in the section "other, please specify" because, under the similar section includes "law on public prosecutors/public prosecution". In Albania these are two different law: law on the status of judges and prosecutors, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecutors" and the law on the organisation and functioning of the prosecution offices in the Republic of Albania, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecution".

Q232 (General Comment): Please briefly describe the procedure: In the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, is provided that, breach of the rules of incompatibility or conflict of interest prevention is a disciplinary violation. Also, in the Law no. 9367 dated 7.4.2005, “On the prevention of conflicts of interest in the exercise of public functions”, as amended, is provided that, any violation of the obligations set forth in this law, when it does not constitute a criminal offense, constitutes an administrative offense and is punishable by a fine.

Please note that some of the procedure to sanction breaches of the rules on the conflict of interest for both judges and prosecutors are provided in the law on the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania. In question 223, this law under the "law on judges" tick. However, please be advised that this law in question 232 has been reported in the section "other, please specify" because, under the similar section includes "law on public prosecutors/public prosecution". In Albania these are two different law: law on the status of judges and prosecutors, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecutors" and the law on the organisation and functioning of the prosecution offices in the Republic of Albania, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecution".

Q232 (2023): No changes from previous years.

Q232 (2021): other: In the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors” is provided that, breach of the rules of incompatibility or conflict of interest prevention is a disciplinary violation. Q233 (2021): Please note that under the new constitutional amendments, judges and prosecutors are undergoing a vetting process. As part of this temporary process, judges and prosecutors are re-evaluation based on three criteria:

(a) Asset assessment, (b) Background assessment, and (c) Proficiency assessment. Under the asset declaration process, HIDAACI plays a key role: HIDAACI based on declarations of assets shall conduct a full audit procedure in compliance with this law, the Law “On the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials, the Law “On prevention of conflict of interest in exercising public functions” and the “Code of Administrative Procedures”.

The General Inspector of HIDAACI, for the purpose of this assessment, can request through the General Directorate of Prevention of Money Laundering or Ministry of Justice records of assets owned by assesseees or their related persons, or any financial transactions in Albania or abroad according to Law “On prevention of money laundering and financing of terrorism” or documents used abroad by assesseees or their related persons. Such documents or information can be used as evidence before the Commission or Appeal Chamber.

3. HIDAACI provides full access to international observers, upon their request, to seek information, consult, copy or investigate declaration of assets submitted by the assessee or his or her related persons and their accompanying documents.

4. HIDAACI shall conduct a full audit procedure as soon as possible but no longer than 180 days as of the day of asset declaration submission.

5. Upon completion of the audit, the General Inspector of HIDAACI shall prepare a reasoned detailed report and, as appropriate, shall find out that: (a) Accurate declaration /disclosure in compliance with the law, with legitimate financial sources and not found in situation of conflicts of interest; (b) Lack of legitimate financial sources to justify their assets; (c) Hiding wealth/ assets; (d) False declaration; (e) Assessee found in situation of conflicts of interests.

For these reasons, HIDAACI has not in itself, referred for further proceedings against judges and prosecutors to criminal investigation or fined, as an administrative measure, any judge or prosecutor during 2020; however, due to the work of HIDAACI, a considerable number of judges and prosecutors have been dismissed from the vetting bodies based on the reports filed by HIDAACI. those institutions find that the complaints are well founded, they order that irregularities in the work of the court be corrected and in addition, in some cases, award compensation to the complainants. The information provided in the answer to the Question 156 relates to all complaints about the work of the courts submitted to the institutions listed below in 2023.

Excessive length of proceedings/Non execution of court decisions: A person whose right to a fair trial is violated by the excessive length of court proceedings or non-execution of the court decisions, can submit an appeal to the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Based on Article VI of the Constitution the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina inter alia has appellate jurisdiction over issues under the Constitution arising out of a judgment of any other court in the country. According to Article 16, paragraph 3 of its Rules, the Constitutional Court may examine, within its appellate jurisdiction, an appeal when there is no decision of a competent court if the appeal indicates a grave violation of the rights and fundamental freedoms safeguarded by the Constitution or by the international documents applied in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The Court admits appeals, based on the aforementioned provision of the Rules, alleging that a court of general jurisdiction has breached both Article II/3.e of the Constitution and Article 6, paragraph 1, of the European Convention on Human Rights by exceeding a reasonable time for determining a court case (i.e. any sort of a court case). If the violation is found, the Constitutional Court orders the court of general jurisdiction to finalize the case in question without any delay. In a decision granting an appeal, the Constitutional Court may also award compensation for non-pecuniary damages. If the Constitutional Court considers that compensation is necessary, it shall award it on equitable basis, taking into account the standards set forth in the case-law of the Constitutional Court. The compensation is paid from budget of the government financing the court of general jurisdiction found to be responsible for the excessive length of proceedings.

In addition, a legislative framework that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time, according to which the courts act, has been established recently in several jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina. According to this legal framework, the party has two options: to file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested or file a complaint with the highest court in respective jurisdictions to determine the violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time, which requires the determination of financial compensation. In the remaining jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, a legislative procedure is underway for the adoption of a legal framework on the protection of the right to a trial within a reasonable time. Wrongful arrest/detention and wrongful conviction: Terms under which person is entitled to compensation of damages for wrongful arrest and wrongful conviction are provided in criminal procedure codes. These terms are provided as follows:

Wrongful arrest - a person is entitled to compensation of damages in the following cases: (i) a person who was in detention, but criminal proceedings were not instituted or proceedings were dismissed or a final verdict was pronounced acquitting the person of charges or charges were rejected; (ii) a person who was subjected to unlawful detention or retained in detention or a correctional institution due to a mistake; (iii) a person who was in detention longer than the sentence to which he was convicted; (iv) a person who served a sentence of imprisonment, and was pronounced a shorter imprisonment sentence in reopened criminal proceedings than the sentence he had served, or was pronounced a criminal sanction other than imprisonment or he was pronounced guilty but freed from sanction; (v) a person who was imprisoned without a legal ground is entitled to compensation of damages if no pretrial detention was ordered against him or the time for which he was imprisoned was not included in the sentence pronounced for a criminal offense or minor offense.

Wrongful conviction - A person against whom an effective criminal sanction was pronounced or who was found guilty and freed from sanction, and later, based on extraordinary remedy, reopened proceedings were effectively dismissed or effective verdict was pronounced acquitting the person of charges, or the charges were rejected, is entitled to compensation of damages on grounds of unjust conviction, except in the following cases: (i) if the dismissal of proceedings or the verdict rejecting the charges resulted from the prosecutor dismissing the prosecution in the reopened proceedings, and the dismissal took place based on an agreement with the suspect or the accused; (ii) if in the reopened proceedings a verdict was pronounced rejecting the charges compared to 2022. Namely, during 2023, the Constitutional Court functioned to a reduced extent because the vacant positions in this court could not be filled due to reasons falling within the competence of legislative institutions. In addition, the Constitutional Court stated that the appellate jurisdiction of this institution continues to be influenced by the right of parties in court proceedings to appeal to the court of general jurisdiction for the acceleration of proceedings under relatively new legislation that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time, according to which the courts act, has been established in three out of four main different jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

According to this legal framework, the parties to the court proceedings have two options: to file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested or file a complaint with the highest court in respective jurisdictions to determine the violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time, which requires the determination of financial compensation. As for the time-limits under this legislative framework, the court proceedings may file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested (time limits for the court to decide: 60 days in first instance proceedings; 30 days in second instance proceedings). Furthermore, parties to legal proceedings have the right to seek damages for violation of the right to a trial within a reasonable time (time limit for the relevant courts to decide: no later than six months from the date of receipt of the action). When it comes to the number of motions to expedite case resolution, a total of 128 motions were filed to the courts in 2023. In 2023, the courts granted 25 and denied/dismissed 49 motions of the parties. In addition, the courts received 19 claims for damages last year. In 9 cases, the courts decided to award compensation to the plaintiffs, while they rejected the lawsuit with a claim for damages in 14 cases.

The Institution of Human Rights Ombudsman of Bosnia and Herzegovina (the Ombudsman) handles complaints related to malfunctioning of public authorities or to human rights violations committed by any public institution in Bosnia and Herzegovina. In performing its competences the Ombudsman cannot decide on compensation for determined human rights violations. There is no strict deadline for handling complaints. In cases where violation of rights is established, the Ombudsman issues recommendation to competent public institutions to undertake measures to restore human rights violation or poor functioning of administration. The Institution also provides assistance to citizens how to use the most adequate legal remedies or advises them which institution to address. The Ombudsman received 367 complaints against courts in 2023; the structure of the complaints was as follows: 62 complaints alleging excessive length of proceedings, 50 complaints alleging ineffective enforcement of court decisions, 23 complaints against judges for violation of procedural laws, 9 complaints against the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and 223 complaints related to the violation of other rights related to court procedure. In 2023 the Ombudsman issued 51 recommendations to the courts. These statistics are not included in the data prepared for Question 156, as the Ombudsman does not have the authority to determine compensation for damages caused to complainants by the work of courts and prosecutors' offices.

The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC) receives complaints against judges and prosecutors, conducts disciplinary proceedings, determines disciplinary liability, and imposes disciplinary measures. The Office of Disciplinary Counsel (ODC) within HJPC performs prosecutorial functions concerning allegations of misconduct against judges and prosecutors.

ODC investigates complaints alleging misconduct of judges and prosecutors, initiates and presents cases of disciplinary violations before the disciplinary panels of the HJPC. The legal deadline for completing disciplinary investigation is two years, given that at the expiration of this deadline complaint reaches the statute of limitations for initiating disciplinary proceedings. However, the vast majority of complaints are resolved well before the expiry of two years period. If disciplinary investigation results in initiation of the disciplinary proceeding, such proceeding must be completed within one year from the date of the filing of a formal complaint before a disciplinary panel, unless upon a showing of a cause that an extension is justified. In these proceedings complainants are Q156 (2022): The Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina reported that the influx of cases at the Constitutional Court of BiH varies from year to year. Depending on the influx, other data on cases of the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina also vary. The Constitutional Court of BiH could not give an answer as to what factors influenced that figure. In previous years, the only thing that was evident was that cases involving the length of court procedures and the non-enforcement of court decisions had an effect on the total number of incoming cases. This was not the case in 2022, due to the fact that a certain number of these cases were processed by courts within the new legislative framework that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time. According to the Constitutional Court of BiH, most of their cases concern allegations regarding the violation of the right to a fair trial (Article 6 of the European Convention) and the right to property (Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 to the European Convention) as well as cases in which the Constitutional Court of BiH is petitioned to proceed as a court of the fourth instance. A legislative framework that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time, according to which the courts act, has been established in one part of the jurisdiction in Bosnia and Herzegovina. According to this legal framework, the party has two options: to file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested or file a complaint with the highest court in respective jurisdictions to determine the violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time, which requires the determination of financial compensation. In other parts of the jurisdiction of BiH, the establishment of this legislative framework is underway. When it comes to the number of motions to expedite case resolution, a total of 154 motions were filed to the courts in 2022. In 2022, the courts granted 39 and denied/dismisssed 76 motions of the parties. In addition, the courts received 15 claims for damages last year. In 7 cases, the courts decided to award compensation to the plaintiffs, while they rejected the lawsuit with a claim for damages in 5 cases.

The Institution of Human Rights Ombudsman of Bosnia and Herzegovina (the Ombudsman) handles complaints related to malfunctioning of public authorities or to human rights violations committed by any public institution in Bosnia and Herzegovina. In performing its competences the Ombudsman cannot decide on compensation for determined human rights violations. There is no strict deadline for handling complaints. In cases where violation of rights is established, the Ombudsman issues recommendation to competent public institutions to undertake measures to restore human rights violation or poor functioning of administration. The Institution also provides assistance to citizens how to use the most adequate legal remedies or advises them which institution to address. The Ombudsman received 347 complaints against courts in 2022; the structure of the complaints was as follows: 29 complaints alleging excessive length of proceedings, 22 complaints alleging ineffective enforcement of court decisions, 12 complaints against judges for violation of procedural laws, 2 complaints against the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and 282 complaints related to the violation of other rights related to court procedure. In 2022 the Ombudsman issued 67 recommendations to the courts. These statistics are not included in the data prepared for Question 156, as the Ombudsman does not have the authority to determine compensation for damages caused to complainants of the work of courts and other institutions.

Q156 (2021): Number of requests shown in the table refers to the requests received in 2021 and number of the condemnations refers to the total number of condemnations issued in 2021, regardless of the year of request.

There were some significant variations between data for 2020 and 2021.

The Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina reported the increase of the number of condemnations for excessive length of proceedings and non-execution of court decisions in 2021. Namely, the Court concluded during the reporting year that the majority of the relevant legislative and other authorities in Bosnia and Herzegovina failed to meet the timeframe determined previously by that institution for taking legislative measures and other corrective activities to help reduce systematic violations of the right to trial within a reasonable time. Accordingly, the Court has intensified the processing of individual applications of the parties in court proceedings alleging infringement of the right to trial within a reasonable time or the right to have a court decision enforced. There were no particular reasons (e.g. change of policy or legislation) for the data variations between 2020 and 2021 for the following categories: wrongful arrest, wrongful conviction, and others. In this regard, the relevant authorities (e.g. ministries of justice, public defenders, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina) explained that the numbers of requests and condemnations and the amount of compensation were based on the circumstances of individual cases.

Q156 (2020): Specific comments for 2020: Number of requests shown in the table refers to the requests received in 2020 and number of the condemnations refers to the total number of condemnations in 2020, regardless of the year of request.

There were significant variations between data for 2020 and 2019.

In particular, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina reported that during 2020 it rejected all individual applications alleging the non-execution of court decisions against public sector debtors (e.g. government, state-owned companies, local self-government units etc.). Having concluded that the non-execution of court decisions against public sector debtors was a systematic problem, in relation to the Article 6 of the European Convention the Human Rights, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina introduced the previously mentioned policy. In addition, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina requested the relevant authorities to take comprehensive corrective activities.

As for the increased number of condemnations regarding excessive length of court proceedings in 2020, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina reported that the higher number of condemnations corresponds with the relevant authorities' continued lack of success to take efficient legislative and other measures to reduce the length of proceedings at the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina. There were no particular reasons (e.g. change of policy or legislation) for the data variations between 2020 and 2019 for the following categories: wrongful arrest, wrongful conviction, and others. In this regard, the relevant authorities (e.g. ministries of justice, public defenders) stated that the numbers of requests and condemnations and the amount of compensation depend on the circumstances of individual cases.

Q156 (2019): Specific comments for 2019: Number of requests shown in the table refers to the requests received in 2019 and number of the condemnations refers to the total number of condemnations in 2019, regardless of the date of submission of the request. There are significant variations between data for 2019 compared to 2018 when it comes to the number of requests, the number of condemnations, and the amount of awarded compensations for the Excessive length of proceedings and the Non - execution of court decisions. The reason for the variations is a current temporary policy change of the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina, regarding admissibility and handling of individual applications, pending its request to the legislative authorities and the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina to take systemic measures to ensure the reasonable length of proceedings at the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina. There are no particular reasons (e.g. change of policy or legislation) for the data differences between 2019 and 2018 for Wrongful arrest, Wrongful conviction, and Others. The variations are explained by the relevant institutions (i. e. ministries of justice, public defenders) as the increase or decrease, registered specially in 2019, in terms of the number of requests, the number of condemnations, and the amount of awarded compensations (e.g. Courts of general jurisdiction awarded in some cases relatively higher amounts of damages to the plaintiffs due to the specific facts and circumstances of those cases).

Q156-1 (General Comment): Other court and Ministry of justice - Requests that include compensation claims:

The Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina has appellate jurisdiction over issues under the Constitution arising out of a judgement of any other court in Bosnia and Herzegovina. This includes appeals regarding excessive length of court proceeding, non-enforcement of judicial decisions, and other aspects of the right to a fair trial, as well as other rights protected by the European Convention. In addition, a legislative framework that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time, according to which the courts act, has been established recently in several jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina. According to this legal framework, the party has two options: to file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested or file a complaint with the highest court in respective jurisdiction to determine the violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time, which requires the determination of financial compensation. The court must decide within the strict legal deadline. In the remaining jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, a legislative procedure is underway for the adoption of a legal framework on the protection of the right to a trial within a reasonable time. Compensation for wrongful arrest/detention and wrongful conviction is awarded in civil court proceedings which are initiated against public authorities by the person entitled to compensation. The filing of a lawsuit is preceded by an attempt to reach a settlement through the ministry of justice at the relevant level of government, which must decide on the compensation request within the strict legal deadline.

The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and The Institution of Human Rights Ombudsman of Bosnia and Herzegovina - Requests that do not include compensation claims:

The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council (HJPC) receives complaints against judges and prosecutors, conducts disciplinary proceedings, determines disciplinary liability, and imposes disciplinary measures. The Office of Disciplinary Counsel (ODC) within HJPC performs prosecutorial functions concerning allegations of misconduct against judges and prosecutors. ODC investigates complaints alleging misconduct of judges and prosecutors, initiates and presents cases of disciplinary violations before the disciplinary panels of the HJPC. The legal deadline for completing disciplinary investigation is two years, given that at the expiration of this deadline complaint reaches the statute of limitations for initiating disciplinary proceedings. However, the vast majority of complaints are resolved well before the expiry of two years period. If disciplinary investigation results in initiation of the disciplinary proceeding, such proceeding must be completed within one year from the date of the filing of a formal complaint before a disciplinary panel, unless upon a showing of a cause that an extension is justified. In these proceedings complainants are not entitled to compensation if their complaint is found to be sound. The Institution of Human Rights Ombudsman of Bosnia and Herzegovina (the Ombudsman) handles complaints related to malfunctioning of public authorities or to human rights violations committed by any public institution in Bosnia and Herzegovina. There is no strict deadline for handling complaints. In cases where violation of rights is established, the Ombudsman issues recommendation to competent public institutions to undertake measures to restore human rights violation or poor functioning of administration. The Institution also provides assistance to citizens how to use the most adequate legal remedies or advises them which institution to address. In performing its competences, the Ombudsman cannot decide on compensation for determined human rights violations.

Q162 (General Comment): In December 2021, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the guidelines requiring the chief prosecutors in the country to prescribe internal procedure for issuing specific instructions. The guidelines read as follows: The chief prosecutor gives mandatory individual instructions for taking procedural and substantive prosecutorial decisions in accordance with the law. The instructions must be issued in writing and entered in the case file. The prosecutor is obliged to act in accordance with the individual instructions given by the chief prosecutor unless following such instructions would mean a violation of the law. If the prosecutor disagrees with the individual instructions, he will submit his dissenting opinion to the chief prosecutor. The chief prosecutor, after obtaining the opinion of the collegiate of the prosecutor's office, makes an elaborate decision in relation to the prosecutor's dissenting opinion. The chief prosecutors issued specific instructions to public prosecutors to make a certain decision (i.e. to investigate or not, to prosecute or not) or take a certain action in a total of 80 cases in 2022, following the general guidelines that the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has adopted requiring the chief prosecutors to prescribe internal procedure for issuing specific instructions.

Q162 (2019): The Criminal Procedure Code pinpoints a series of core principles. Criminal proceedings may only be initiated and conducted upon the motion of the prosecutor. The latter shall initiate prosecution if there is evidence that a criminal offence has been committed. If during the course of an investigation, the prosecutor finds that there is enough evidence for grounded suspicion that the suspect has committed a criminal offence, he/she shall prepare and refer the indictment to the preliminary hearing judge. The main rights and duties of prosecutors are: as soon as he/she becomes aware that there are grounds for suspicion that a criminal offense has been committed, to take necessary steps to discover it and investigate it, to identify the suspect(s), guide and supervise the investigation, as well as direct the activities of authorized officials pertaining to the identification of suspect(s) and the gathering of information and evidence; to perform an investigation; to grant immunity; to request information from governmental bodies, companies and physical and legal persons in Bosnia and Herzegovina; to issue summonses and orders and to propose the issuance of summonses and orders as provided under this Code; to order authorized officials to execute an order issued by the Court as provided by this Code; to establish facts necessary for deciding on claims under property law and on the forfeiture of property gain obtained by the commission of a criminal offence; to propose the issuance of a warrant for pronouncement of the sentence pursuant to the Code; to issue and defend indictment before the Court; to file legal remedies; to perform other tasks as provided by law. Senior public prosecutor shall have the right and duty to give mandatory instructions to the junior public prosecutor regarding his/her work, and may, apart from that: take certain actions which are in the competence of junior public prosecutor; authorize a different junior public prosecutor to process individual cases that are within the competence of the junior public prosecutor; authorize a junior public prosecutor to perform individual activities that are within the competence of another junior public prosecutor.

powers. The law establishes prosecutor's offices and courts as autonomous institutions. Judges and prosecutors are considered to be judicial office holders. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina— an institution with mixed composition- appoints judges and prosecutors; it has identical competences over issues regarding both judges and prosecutors/courts and prosecutor's offices. The same legislation regulates salaries of public prosecutors and judges. Prosecutor's offices have their own respective budgets, adopted by parliaments in the procedure applicable to all other public institutions. Pursuant to the specific legislation regulating the legal status of prosecutors' offices in Bosnia and Herzegovina, they constitute independent authorities which prosecute perpetrators of criminal offenses and file legal expedients for the purpose of protecting legality and constitutionality. Public prosecution offices shall perform their functions on the basis of the constitution and the law. No one shall have the right to influence the public prosecutor's office in the execution of its constitutional and legal functions.

The basic right and the basic duty of the prosecutor is the detection and prosecution of perpetrators of criminal offenses. The prosecutor has have the following rights and duties: a) as soon as the prosecutor becomes aware that there are grounds for suspicion that a criminal offense has been committed, to take necessary steps to discover it and investigate it, to identify the suspect(s), guide and supervise the investigation, as well as direct the activities of authorized officials pertaining to the identification of suspect(s) and the gathering of information and evidence; b) to conduct an investigation in accordance with the law; c) to grant immunity in accordance with law; d) to request information from governmental bodies, companies and other physical and legal persons; e) to issue summonses and orders and to propose the issuance of summonses and orders in accordance with the law; f) to order authorized officials to execute an order issued by the court as provided by the law; g) to propose the issuance of a warrant for pronouncement of the sentence; h) to issue and defend indictment before the court; i) to file legal remedies; j) to perform other tasks as provided by the law.

The Chief Prosecutor shall have the right and duty to give mandatory instructions to the public prosecutor regarding his/her work, and may, apart from that: take certain actions which are in the competence of the public prosecutor; authorize a different public prosecutor to process individual cases that are within the competence of the public prosecutor; authorize a public prosecutor to perform individual activities that are within the competence of another public prosecutor. The Chief Prosecutor may perform criminal prosecution within the competence of a public prosecutor, and in doing so, s/he may: undertake necessary measures related to detection of crimes and identification of perpetrators with the purpose of directing preceding criminal proceedings; request investigation conduct; bring and represent indictment, i.e. indictment proposals and other proposals before competent court; file appeals against unlawful court decisions, i.e. withdraw already filed appeals.

Q171 (2023): Although no judges or prosecutors were indicted in 2023, two criminal investigations were initiated by prosecutor's office – one against court president and one against prosecutor but indictments have not been confirmed by the competent courts yet. It should also be noted that judicial institutions are not formally obliged to inform HJPC regarding criminal proceedings against judges or prosecutors whose mandate was ceased (e.g. resignation or retirement).

Q171 (2022): ODC was informed about three investigations initiated against two judges and one prosecutor. ODC wasn't informed about end of the investigations. One judge was sentenced to one-year prison sentence for corruptive criminal offence, in proceeding initiated last year.

Q171 (2020): In addition to one corruption-related case, there is also one case initiated because of family violence in 2020. There are also pending criminal cases against 2 judges and 4 public prosecutors from previous years.

In one case not related to corruption, the judge was sentenced to two years and ten months in prison.

Q171 (2019): In addition to one criminal case initiated against one judge in 2019, it should be noted that there are also pending criminal cases against 3 judges and 5 prosecutors that had been initiated in previous years.

Q172-0 (General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the Guidelines for the prevention of conflicts of interest in the judiciary (July 2016), covering a) incompatibilities; b) reporting on property, income, obligations and interests; c) gifts and other benefits; d) contacts with third persons and abuse of confidential information; e) nepotism; and f) education and awareness-raising. The Guidelines elaborate the existing legislation and code of ethics and go into further detail with practical “do’s and don’ts” in a variety of situations.

There is an automated case assignment system in place, where cases are randomly assigned to judges, according to predetermined criteria.

In a situation where the judge to whom a case is assigned must, as required by law, be disqualified or recused from further proceedings, the case will be reassigned to another judge by the Court President or his deputy.

Disqualification of judges is governed by the civil procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina (Law on Civil Procedure before the Court of BiH and civil procedure codes of the BiH Federation, Republika Srpska and Brcko District of BiH), which stipulate that:

a) the judge may be disqualified if circumstances exist that cast doubt to his impartiality (disqualification); b) the motion for disqualification of a judge shall be decided by Court President, and the motion for disqualification of Court President shall be decided by the court in plenary session; c) the provisions on disqualification of judges shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to record keepers. The criminal procedure codes of BiH, BiH Federation, Republika Srpska and Brcko District of BiH stipulate that:

a) the provisions on disqualification of a judge shall accordingly be applied to prosecutors and persons authorised to represent the prosecutor in the proceedings, record keepers, court interpreters and other staff members; b) the prosecutor shall decide the disqualification of persons authorised to represent him in criminal proceedings, and the Collegium of the Prosecutor’s Office shall decide the disqualification of the prosecutor. c) the panel, presiding judge or judge shall decide the disqualification of record keepers, court interpreters and other staff member, and, until the indictment is filed, it shall be decided by the prosecutor. In a situation where the judge to whom a case is assigned must be disqualified or recused from the case, the case will be reassigned to another judge. The same rule applies to prosecutors.

Case reassignment is governed by the books of rules on the case management systems in courts and prosecutor's offices (the Book of Rules on CMS and the Book of Rules on TCMS).

The case is reassigned to another judge by the Court President or a person authorised by him, who must state the grounds for reassignment.

The case is reassigned to another prosecutor by the Chief Prosecutor, who must state the grounds for reassignment.

Herzegovina, the Council provides its opinion on complaints submitted by a judge or prosecutor who considers that his/her rights established by this or another law, or his/her independence, are endangered. These opinions are issued in order to identify threats to the independence of judicial institutions, that is holders of judicial functions, and to publicize it, as well as to invite relevant participants to refrain from further activities that threaten the independence of the judiciary. The Law does not provide for sanctions that the Council may impose in these situations.

Q184 (General Comment): The system for distribution of cases in the courts of Bosnia and Herzegovina is organized as random and automatic allocation, in accordance with predefined parameters. Due to the parameters the system for distribution of cases is classified as "other type of allocation". These parameters are prescribed by the decision of the court president and they include specialization of judges and percentage of participation of every judge in the distribution of cases. After these parameters are set, system randomly distributes cases to judges of particular specialization and in accordance with the percentage of each judges' participation in the distribution, but also considering workload of individual judges. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has adopted the Rulebook on internal court operations and the Rulebook on the Automated Case Management System in Courts. Priority cases (e.g. cases involving detention, cases involving minors etc.) are distributed urgently as prescribed by the law or by the decision of the court president. The law stipulates shorter deadlines for priority cases, so these cases have to be allocated to judges urgently and judges have to start working on them immediately. It is possible to exclude a judge from the allocation for various reasons. Judge can be temporarily excluded due to illness, vacation, longer absence, over load with cases etc.

Q185-1 (2023): The relevant legislation on court procedures in Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes circumstances that call into question his/her impartiality in which a judge cannot adjudicate the case. These circumstances indicate that the judge has a conflict of interest in the individual case and therefore there is a legal base for initiating procedures to prevent or recuse him/her from dealing with the case.

As an example, the judge must not deal with the case if the party, legal representative or authorized agent is his/her blood relative in direct line to any degree or in the lateral line up to fourth degree, or if they are spouses or relatives up to second degree, regardless of whether the marriage has been terminated or not. In addition, as another example, the judge must be taken off the case if it turns out that he/she has participated in the same case in reaching the judgment of the inferior instance court. In conclusion, the legislation on court procedures defines the basis (i.e. aforementioned circumstances that pertain to the conflict of interest) and the procedure for the recusal of the judge.

In this regard, the legislation does not refer specifically to the conflict of interest, i.e. the laws do not foresee it as a separate category. However, it is in the law that the recusal of the judges as a legal term comprises all matters related to the protection of the impartiality in the court procedures. Consequently, it is not possible in Bosnia and Herzegovina to differentiate data on the number of reassigned cases for the following category: Recusal of the judge or requested by the parties. In the context of data on the total number of reassigned court cases in 2023 (i.e. 644 931), it is important to take into account that these court cases were redistributed primarily because the judges in charge of these court cases have ceased to work in a particular court (i.e. appointment to another court, retirement, resignation etc.). In addition, courts had to reassign a significant number of cases owing to the longer absence of judges because of sick leave. Finally, harmonizing the burden of judges with court cases in a single court and regrouping judges within the court made it necessary to reassign noteworthy number of court cases. In 2023, there was a remarkable increase in the number of reassignments in the largest court of first instance in the state, due to the need for a significant number of cases to be reassigned in the court because an unusually high number of judges stopped working in that court due to career advancement or retirement.

Q186 (General Comment): When reassigning the case through the Case Management System it is necessary to select a valid reason for reassignment.

Users of system have to select an option from the list of the reasons for obligatory reassignment prescribed by the law, or the alternative option “Other reasons”. When the latter option is selected, a detailed explanation on reasons for reassignment of the case needs to be submitted pursuant to the Article 9 of the Rulebook on the Automated Case Management System in Courts.

Q187 (General Comment): Priority cases are allocated to judges and prosecutors through automatic allocation algorithm based on specific setup of predefined parameters used for priority cases. This basically means that in courts and prosecutor offices there is always at least one judge or prosecutor determined in advance, who is person on duty for certain period and to whom such cases will be assigned automatically by system.

All other non-priority cases are also allocated to judges through automatic allocation algorithm but setup for this allocation is more complex and based on more than one information from new case, and usually with more judges available in pool to select from.

Both algorithms (for priority and non-priority cases) are always based on court president decision, which is created once per year or more often if necessary.

Regarding reassignment of cases:

All reassignments of cases are processed through the computerized distribution of cases, whether new judge is selected by automatic allocation algorithm (in accordance to predefined parameters) or by court president decision. In every case, reason for reassignment has to be entered in the system by selecting from predefined list of reasons for reassignment and/or adding free text as description. This is why „Yes“ is more appropriate as answer for Q187, with two options selected as explanatory answer in Q188 (2nd and 3rd). Reassignments of cases can be processed as random and automatic where system will choose from the judges of same specialization, or it can be processed in a way that court president makes a decision and chooses the judge to whom the case will be reassigned.

Q187 (2019): Regarding allocation of cases (assignment):

Priority cases are allocated to judges and prosecutors through automatic allocation algorithm based on specific setup of predefined parameters used for priority cases. This basically means that in courts and prosecutor offices there is always at least one judge or prosecutor determined in advance, who is person on duty for certain period and to whom such cases will be assigned automatically by system.

All other non-priority cases are also allocated to judges through automatic allocation algorithm but setup for this allocation is more complex and based on more than one information from new case, and usually with more judges available in pool to select from. This is why „Yes“ is more appropriate as answer for Q187, with two options selected as explanatory answer in Q188 (2nd and 3rd). Both algorithms (for priority and non-priority cases) are always based on court president decision, which is created once per year or more often if necessary.

Regarding reassignment of cases:

All reassignments of cases are processed through the computerized distribution of cases , whether new judge is selected by automatic allocation algorithm (in accordance to predefined parameters) or by court president decision. Q190 (General Comment): The Law on Amendments to the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina ("Official Gazette of Bosnia and Herzegovina", number: 63/23) was adopted on 6 September 2023. The Law entered into force on 23 September 2023 and it is in application since from 23 December 2023. However, the implementation of the Law will begin in 2024, following the organizational and technical preparations at the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. For the purpose of verifying declarations, through the Department responsible for processing declarations within the Secretariat of the HJPC referred to in Article 86f of the Law on Amendments to the Law on the HJPC, the HJPC shall adopt and regularly revise the risk criteria which shall be confidential. A risk criterion is a circumstance or a set of circumstances based on which declarations of assets and interests are prioritized for regular checks, a schedule of checks is prepared and an additional check is conducted.

Q190 (2021): After launching a legislative Initiative to amend the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina so as to include the provisions for declaring the assets and interests of judicial office holders, the HJPC in September 2018 adopted the Rulebook on the Submission, Verification and Processing of the Financial Statements of Judges and Prosecutors and a new Financial Statement Form (the Rulebook).

The Rulebook establishes the procedures and high standards of transparency for financial statements of judges and prosecutors in BiH, which primarily stipulates the obligations, the manner of and the deadline for filing the statements, information on sources and the manner of acquisition of financial assets, as well as information on their relatives employed in the judiciary. These rules provide for an active role of the HJPC in ensuring the electronic submission, monitoring, processing and verification of personal financial statement data, including the basis for and the manner of cooperation with competent authorities, as well as their publication on the HJPC website in accordance with the applicable legal framework in BiH regulating access to public information and ensuring privacy and protection of personal data. The application of the Rulebook was foreseen as of 1st January 2019 for the financial statements of judges and prosecutors for 2018.

After the administrative dispute initiated by the Association of Judges in BiH, the Agency for Personal Data Protection in BiH prohibited the HJPC from processing personal data in a manner prescribed by the Rulebook, the HJPC issued a decision postponing the application of the Rulebook until the completion of an administrative dispute initiated by the HJPC before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina against the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in of Bosnia and Herzegovina. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2018 using an earlier financial statement form. Considering that the HJPC's suit was rejected by the Court of BiH and the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in BiH confirmed, the Rulebook was annulled in February 2020. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2019 using an earlier financial statement form.

Currently, the Law on the HJPC is subject to the legislative procedure aimed at amending the provisions on asset declaration.

- (a) the number and severity of the disciplinary offence committed and its consequences;
- (b) the degree of responsibility;
- (c) the circumstances under which the disciplinary offence was committed;
- (d) the previous work and behaviour of the offender; and
- (e) any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.

(2) The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office.

(3) The Council may take into account any prior suspension, imposed in the course of the proceedings in question, and may reduce the disciplinary measure accordingly, or may, at its discretion, determine that the prior suspension is itself a sufficient measure for the disciplinary violation or violations found.

The Law on Amendments to the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina ("Official Gazette of Bosnia and Herzegovina", number: 63/23) was adopted on 6 September 2023, it entered into force on 23 September 2023, and it will apply from 23 December 2023. Q233 (2019): The numbers included in the table refer to disciplinary procedures initiated against prosecutors in the reference year.

Q234 (General Comment): Judges may be subject to disciplinary proceedings for violations stipulated by the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC). Disciplinary proceedings are initiated by the Office of Disciplinary Counsel of the HJPC.

The latter receives and reviews complaints concerning the conduct of judges or runs cases on its own initiative. After the Office of Disciplinary Counsel receives a complaint and reviews it, the complaint can be immediately discarded or other necessary actions can be carried out, including launching of an investigation. If the Office of Disciplinary Counsel establishes that there is reasonable ground to believe that a judge has made a disciplinary offence, it will launch an investigation of the facts and circumstances.

If the investigation shows that the complaint is not founded or the allegations of the complaint cannot be verified and proven, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will close the case and will not initiate disciplinary proceeding against a judge.

If the investigation shows that there is evidence to confirm allegations of misconduct of a judge, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will launch a disciplinary proceeding before the HJPC filing a disciplinary complaint. After filing the complaint, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel may offer the accused prosecutor a joint consent agreement for establishment of disciplinary liability for the committed disciplinary offences, which will be considered and approved by the competent panel of the HJPC.

Q235 (General Comment): Judges may be subject to disciplinary proceedings for violations stipulated by the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC). The Disciplinary Panels (first-and second instance) comprising of the members of the HJPC decide in disciplinary procedures initiated by the Office of Disciplinary Counsel against a judge. During the disciplinary proceeding, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel may submit a request to remove the prosecutors temporarily from any duty, until the completion of the disciplinary proceeding on the basis of which there was a temporary removal from office. Temporary removal from office of a prosecutor can be requested until completion of an initiated dismissal procedure as well as until the termination of a criminal proceeding initiated against a judge, while the temporary removal from office is mandatory in case when a judge is in pre-trial detention, until pre-trial detention ends.

Q237 (2023): In the reference year 24 disciplinary proceedings were initiated against 23 judges. Two disciplinary proceedings were initiated against one judge.

Q237 (2022): Some cases against judges were initiated for two or more disciplinary mistakes. Such cases were counted only once in accordance with the Explanatory note. The main mistake for those disciplinary cases was determined in our best estimate.

Q237 (2021): Some cases against judges were initiated for two or more disciplinary mistakes. Such cases were counted only once in accordance with the Explanatory note. The main mistake for those disciplinary cases was determined in our best estimate.

Q237 (2020): Some cases against judges were initiated for two or more disciplinary mistakes. Such cases were counted only once in accordance with the Explanatory note. The main mistake for those disciplinary cases was determined in our best estimate.

The following disciplinary offences are listed as the professional inadequacies:

1. neglect or careless exercise of official duties;
2. issuing decisions in patent violation of the law or persistent and unjustified violation of procedural rules;
3. unjustified delays in issuing decisions or any other act related to the exercise of judicial functions, or any other repeated disregard of the duties of the judicial function;
4. failure, for an unjustifiable reason, to comply with decisions, orders or requests of the Council;
5. failure to fulfil any mandatory training obligations or any other obligations imposed by law; 6. failure to comply with the decision on temporary transfer to another court.

Number of initiated cases is significantly lesser in 2020 than in the previous report (35). It should be noted that COVID-19 related issues had impact on work of disciplinary bodies, including lesser number of received complaints compared to prior year (15% for both judges and prosecutors).

Q237 (2019): Some proceedings against judges were initiated for both breach of professional ethics and professional inadequacy. According to your instruction, we tried to list the “main reasons” for initiating disciplinary proceedings, in our best estimate.

For purpose of the Questionnaire, the following disciplinary offences are listed as the professional inadequacies:

1. neglect or careless exercise of official duties;
2. issuing decisions in patent violation of the law or persistent and unjustified violation of procedural rules;
3. unjustified delays in issuing decisions or any other act related to the exercise of judicial functions, or any other repeated disregard of the duties of the judicial function;
4. failure, for an unjustifiable reason, to comply with decisions, orders or requests of the Council;
5. failure to fulfil any mandatory training obligations or any other obligations imposed by law; 6. failure to comply with the decision on temporary transfer to another court.

It should be noted that number of initiated proceedings is the highest since the establishment of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC), because of the high number of grounded complaints as well as an increase in number of the Office of Disciplinary Counsel staff.

Q239 (2023): Difference between completed disciplinary proceedings (28) and the total number of sanctions (23) is because four disciplinary proceedings were rejected and one disciplinary proceedings was suspended (one judge was retired).

Q239 (2022): A significant difference between the number of disciplinary proceedings initiated (35) and the total number of sanctions imposed (23) was caused by the following circumstances: the disciplinary action was rejected in (3) cases and disciplinary proceedings were suspended in (9) cases (4 judges retired, 3 judges resigned, 1 judge died, and 1 judge's term expired).

Q239 (2020): “Other” measure - written warning which shall not be made public - was imposed against 4 judges; this is a non-public measure.

Although there were no suspensions imposed in 2020 as a disciplinary sanction, it should be noted that 2 judges were temporarily suspended from office pending criminal proceedings and another judge was temporarily suspended from office until the completion of disciplinary proceedings initiated against him. In addition, 2 judges remain suspended as a result of criminal proceedings initiated before 2020.

Q239 (2019): As “other” measure, there is a written warning which shall not be made public imposed against 6 judges. This is a non-public measure.

Number of imposed sanctions (25) is lesser than the number of initiated proceedings (35). Usually, it takes up to six months (and sometimes more) for disciplinary bodies to complete disciplinary proceedings if they reach the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina as third instance. Therefore, some of the proceedings initiated in 2019 were not completed in 2019.

Although there were no suspensions imposed in 2019 as a disciplinary sanction, it should be noted that one judge was temporarily suspended from office pending criminal proceedings and another judge was temporarily suspended from office until the completion of disciplinary proceedings initiated against him. Also, 3 judges remain suspended as a result of criminal proceedings initiated before 2019.

Q241 (General Comment): Decisions of first-instance disciplinary panel can be appealed to a second-instance disciplinary panel. Decisions of second- instance disciplinary panel decisions can be appealed to the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council, but only regarding pronounced disciplinary sanction. In the event of removal from office, appeal is possible to the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina (Court of BiH). There is also a possibility of appeal to the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina, against final decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC)/Court of BiH, regarding possible breach of appellant’s right prescribed by European Convention of Human Rights, in disciplinary proceedings. The Constitutional Court can revoke decisions of the HJPC.

Q241 (2019): Decisions of first-instance disciplinary panel can be appealed to a second-instance disciplinary panel. Decisions of second- instance disciplinary panel decisions can be appealed to the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council, but only regarding pronounced disciplinary sanction. In the event of removal from office, appeal is possible to the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The Constitutional Court can revoke decisions of the HJPC.

Q242 (2019): According to the Law on High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC), HJPC may impose as a disciplinary measure a temporary or permanent reassignment to another court. According to the Law on High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, a judge may be assigned to perform judicial services in another court without his or her consent for a period of up to 3 months, in the event that such assignment is in order to participate in one particular case at the receiving court, or in the event that no other judge has consented to such an assignment. A judge may not be temporarily assigned to another court without his or her consent if he or she has been the subject of a temporary assignment in the preceding 12 months.

Q243 (General Comment): Prosecutors may be subject to disciplinary proceedings for violations stipulated by the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC). Disciplinary proceedings are initiated by the Office of Disciplinary Counsel of the HJPC.

The latter receives and reviews complaints concerning the conduct of prosecutors, or runs cases on its own initiative. After the Office of Disciplinary Counsel receives a complaint and reviews it, the complaint can be immediately discarded or other necessary actions can be carried out, including launching of an investigation. If the Office of Disciplinary Counsel establishes that there is reasonable ground to believe that a prosecutor has made a disciplinary offence, it will launch an investigation of the facts and circumstances.

If the investigation shows that the complaint is not founded or the allegations of the complaint cannot be verified and proven, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will close the case and will not initiate disciplinary proceeding against a prosecutor.

If the investigation shows that there is evidence to confirm allegations of misconduct of a prosecutor, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will launch a disciplinary proceeding before the HJPC filing a disciplinary complaint. After filing the complaint, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel may offer the accused prosecutor a joint consent agreement for establishment of disciplinary liability for the committed disciplinary offences, which will be considered and approved by the competent panel of the HJPC.

Q246 (2021): Some cases against prosecutors were initiated for two or more disciplinary mistakes. Such cases were counted only once in accordance with the Explanatory note. The main mistake for those disciplinary cases was determined in our best estimate.

The number of disciplinary proceedings initiated against prosecutors increased considerably in 2021 compared to 2020. The most significant cause for this development was the increased number of complaints received in 2021 by the Office of Disciplinary Counsel at HJPC.

Q246 (2020): Some cases against prosecutors were initiated for two or more disciplinary mistakes. Such cases were counted only once in accordance with the Explanatory note. The main mistake for those disciplinary cases was determined in our best estimate.

For purpose of the Questionnaire, the following disciplinary offences are listed as the professional inadequacies:

1. Neglect or careless exercise of official duties;
2. Unjustified delays in performing any acts related to the exercise of prosecutorial functions, or any other repeated disregard of the duties of the prosecutor;
3. Failing to carry out instructions of a superior prosecutor under whose authority they serve, unless the carrying out of such instruction would itself constitute a violation of law or this Article;
4. Failure, for an unjustified reason, to comply with the decisions, orders or requests of the Council;
5. Failure to fulfil any mandatory training obligations or any other obligations imposed by law;
6. Failure to comply with the decision on temporary transfer to another prosecutor's office.

Number of initiated cases is significantly lesser in 2020 than in the previous report (11). It should be noted that COVID-19 related issues had impact on work of disciplinary bodies, including lesser number of received complaints compared to prior year (15% for both judges and prosecutors).

It should be noted that number of initiated proceedings is the highest since the establishment of the HJPC, because of high number of grounded complaints as well as an increase in the number of the Office of Disciplinary Counsel staff.

Law on HJPC, article 57, paragraphs 8, 9, 10, 13, 15, 17, 20 and 21 are used for classification of disciplinary offences of prosecutors related to the professional inadequacies. Other paragraphs of article 57 are classified under Breach of professional ethics (including breach of integrity).

Q247 (2020): Number of completed cases is significantly lesser in 2020 than in the previous report (13). It should be noted that COVID-19 related issues had impact on work of disciplinary bodies, including lesser number of received complaints compared to prior year (15% for both judges and prosecutors).

Q248 (2022): There was a difference between the number of disciplinary proceedings (13) and the number of penalties (10). This difference occurred because a disciplinary lawsuit was rejected in (3) cases.

Q248 (2020): Number of sanctions pronounced is significantly lesser in 2020 than in the previous report (12). It should be noted that COVID-19 related issues had impact on work of disciplinary bodies, including lesser number of received complaints compared to prior year (15% for both judges and prosecutors).

In 2020 only one sanction was pronounced against a prosecutor for the following reasons: out of 5 completed cases, 3 cases were dismissed and in one case a prosecutor died during the proceedings.

Although no suspension was imposed as disciplinary sanction in 2020, it should be noted that 4 prosecutors remain suspended as a result of criminal proceedings initiated against them before 2020.

Q248 (2019): As “other” measure, there is a written warning which shall not be made public, imposed against 4 prosecutors. This is a non-public measure.

The number of completed cases (13) is higher than the number of initiated proceedings (11). Usually, it takes up to six months (and sometimes more) for disciplinary bodies to complete disciplinary proceedings if they reach the Council as third instance. Therefore, some of the proceedings initiated in 2018 were completed in 2019.

Although no suspension was imposed as disciplinary sanction in 2019, it should be noted that there is ongoing suspension of 5 prosecutors, emanating from criminal proceedings initiated against them before 2019.

It should be noted that number of initiated proceedings and the number of sanctions pronounced against prosecutors is the highest since the establishment of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, because of high number of grounded complaints as well as an increase in the number of the Office of Disciplinary Counsel staff.

Q251 (General Comment): Decisions of first-instance disciplinary panel can be appealed to a second-instance disciplinary panel. Decisions of second- instance disciplinary panel decisions can be appealed to the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council, but only regarding pronounced disciplinary sanction. In the event of removal from office, appeal is possible to the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina (Court of BiH). There is also a possibility of appeal to the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina, against final decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC)/Court of BiH, regarding possible breach of appellant’s right prescribed by European Convention of Human Rights, in disciplinary proceedings. The Constitutional Court can revoke decisions of the HJPC.

Article 7.

The party submits an objection to the court conducting the proceedings or the court before which the proceedings are conducted if he believes that the public prosecutor has violated his right. The attorney of the party who is authorized to undertake all actions in the procedure that is requested to be accelerated does not need particularly many opportunities to submit the contract. If the attorney of the party is authorized to foresee only individual actions in the procedure, which does not include the submission of legal means for the protection of the right to a trial within a reasonable time, he is obliged to submit a special power of attorney along with the objection.

If it is suspected that one of the legally prescribed reasons for the termination of the power of attorney has occurred, the court will, by means of a reasoned decision against which no personal appeal is allowed, order the attorney to submit a special deadline for the power of attorney to be issued in accordance with the law, with a warning that the objection to the contrary will be rejected as illegal.

The procedure for the objection is led by the president of the court, who decides on the objection. With the annual schedule of work, he can designate one court or several judges to lead the proceedings alongside him and decide on interviews.

An oral hearing is not held, and the law governing non-litigation proceedings is applied accordingly to other issues.

The president of the court is obliged to decide on the objection within two months from the date of receipt of the contract.

Article 14.

The party has the right to appeal if his objection is rejected or if the president of the court does not decide on it within two months from the day of receipt of the objection.

An appeal can also be filed if the objection was accepted, but the chief public prosecutor did not issue a mandatory instruction within eight days from the date of receipt of the court president's decision, then if the court president or the immediately superior public prosecutor did not order the judge or the public prosecutor to take procedural actions that effectively speed up the procedure, or if the judge or public prosecutor has not taken the ordered procedural actions within the deadline set for him.

An appeal can be filed even if the president of the court, in the decision by which he accepted the objection and determined the violation of the right to a trial, did not set a deadline for taking procedural actions that effectively speed up the procedure.

Among other things, the complaint contains the same mandatory elements as the complaint.

In the case referred to in paragraph 2 of this article, a judge may be permanently transferred only to a court of the same level that takes over the jurisdiction of a court that has been abolished or to which the majority of its jurisdiction has been abolished.

If the jurisdiction of the abolished court was taken over by two or more courts, i.e. the predominant jurisdiction of the court was taken over by one or more courts, when making a decision on the permanent transfer of a judge, the High Council of the Judiciary takes into account the residence of the judge, the length of the judge's service and the type of work that the judge performed.

Within 15 working days from the receipt of the request for initiation of disciplinary investigations, the Council must establish the investigative panels. Investigative panels are tasked with securing the facts and gathering evidence regarding the alleged disciplinary violation. After this procedure (it is explained in more detail in the Law) the panel sends the report to the Council, where the latter holds a hearing and decides whether the alleged disciplinary violation has been committed or not. Question 156

(General Comment): In the competence of courts, shall be included the adjudication of requests for due compensation to the person, who has suffered a pecuniary or non-pecuniary damage due to the unreasonable length of a case, as per the definition of Article 6/1 of the European Convention "On Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms".

Provisions define the evaluation of reasonable duration of a process, as well as the due compensation, when unreasonable delays have been determined in investigation procedures, trial of cases, as well as in the procedures of execution of decisions.

Just satisfaction for violation of reasonable time limits shall be deemed the recognition of violation, any measures taken to expedite the proceedings of investigation, trial of the case and execution of the decision, and/or compensation of the damage, according to the provisions of this Chapter.

(2023): The Albanian legislation provides a system of compensation for all the above circumstances.

-Regarding the excessive length of proceedings and non-execution of court decisions:

The procedural legislation provides for the right of the party in a judicial process to be compensated for the damage caused due to the unreasonable length of a procedure according to legal provisions. More specifically, the Code of Civil Procedure, as amended, has provided the rules and procedures for reasonable length of procedures in its articles 399/1-399/12.

Article 399/2 of this Code provides for reasonable deadlines for the investigation, trial or execution of a final decision. In case of exceeding the deadlines provided for in this article, the parties in the process can submit a request, which is adjudicated by the competent court. If a violation is found by the court, the party can file a claim for damage compensation.

-Regarding the wrongful arrest / detention and wrongful conviction:

The Code of Criminal Procedure, as amended, has provided in its Article 268 the right to compensation for the detention suffered by those who have been found innocent by a final court decision, except in cases where it has been proven that the wrongful decision or failure to discover the unknown fact in due time, is caused, wholly or in part, by the person himself. This right is also granted for the convicted person who has been placed in precautionary detention in prison, when it is proven by a final decision that the act by which the precautionary measure was established, has been issued in absence of the requirements provided for by Articles 228 and 229 of this Code. These provisions also apply to cases where the court or prosecutor decided to dismiss the case. Whereas in cases when it is proven by a court decision that the act is not provided under the law as a criminal offence, due to the abrogation of the relative provision, the right of compensation is not recognized for the part of precautionary detention in prison served before the abrogation.

The request for compensation must be submitted within three years of the day in which the judgment of acquittal or dismissal has become final. Whereas the compensation amount, the method for its calculation, and the cases of house arrest compensation, are established by special law.

(2022): The requests for excessive length of proceedings and non-execution of court decisions, have been introduced as a separate request to the court by national law in 2017. According to the Civil Procedural Code the procedure is divided in 2 different phases. The first phase is logged as a simple request to the court and is registered in the CMS system as non-litigious cases either civil or administrative depending on the court. They are registered without a specific identifying code. The second phase is logged as litigious case based on tort legal provisions. We cannot identify these specific cases within the category. We will tackle this issue while creating the new CMS system.

Regarding the requests for wrongful arrest / detention and wrongful conviction, these cases are registered as litigious administrative cases and do not have a specific identifying code in the CMS.

institutions find that the complaints are well founded, they order that irregularities in the work of the court be corrected and in addition, in some cases, award compensation to the complainants. The information provided in the answer to the Question 156 relates to all complaints about the work of the courts submitted to the institutions listed below in 2023.

Excessive length of proceedings/Non execution of court decisions: A person whose right to a fair trial is violated by the excessive length of court proceedings or non-execution of the court decisions, can submit an appeal to the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Based on Article VI of the Constitution the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina inter alia has appellate jurisdiction over issues under the Constitution arising out of a judgment of any other court in the country. According to Article 16, paragraph 3 of its Rules, the Constitutional Court may examine, within its appellate jurisdiction, an appeal when there is no decision of a competent court if the appeal indicates a grave violation of the rights and fundamental freedoms safeguarded by the Constitution or by the international documents applied in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The Court admits appeals, based on the aforementioned provision of the Rules, alleging that a court of general jurisdiction has breached both Article II/3.e of the Constitution and Article 6, paragraph 1, of the European Convention on Human Rights by exceeding a reasonable time for determining a court case (i.e. any sort of a court case). If the violation is found, the Constitutional Court orders the court of general jurisdiction to finalize the case in question without any delay.

In a decision granting an appeal, the Constitutional Court may also award compensation for non-pecuniary damages. If the Constitutional Court considers that compensation is necessary, it shall award it on equitable basis, taking into account the standards set forth in the case-law of the Constitutional Court. The compensation is paid from budget of the government financing the court of general jurisdiction found to be responsible for the excessive length of proceedings.

In addition, a legislative framework that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time, according to which the courts act, has been established recently in several jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina. According to this legal framework, the party has two options: to file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested or file a complaint with the highest court in respective jurisdictions to determine the violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time, which requires the determination of financial compensation. In the remaining jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, a legislative procedure is underway for the adoption of a legal framework on the protection of the right to a trial within a reasonable time. Wrongful arrest/detention and wrongful conviction: Terms under which person is entitled to compensation of damages for wrongful arrest and wrongful conviction are provided in criminal procedure codes. These terms are provided as follows:

Wrongful arrest - a person is entitled to compensation of damages in the following cases: (i) a person who was in detention, but criminal proceedings were not instituted or proceedings were dismissed or a final verdict was pronounced acquitting the person of charges or charges were rejected; (ii) a person who was subjected to unlawful detention or retained in detention or a correctional institution due to a mistake; (iii) a person who was in detention longer than the sentence to which he was convicted; (iv) a person who served a sentence of imprisonment, and was pronounced a shorter imprisonment sentence in reopened criminal proceedings than the sentence he had served, or was pronounced a criminal sanction other than imprisonment or he was pronounced guilty but freed from sanction; (v) a person who was imprisoned without a legal ground is entitled to compensation of damages if no pretrial detention was ordered against him or the time for which he was imprisoned was not included in the sentence pronounced for a criminal offense or minor offense.

Wrongful conviction - A person against whom an effective criminal sanction was pronounced or who was found guilty and freed from sanction, and later, based on extraordinary remedy, reopened proceedings were effectively dismissed or effective verdict was pronounced acquitting the person of charges, or the charges were rejected, is entitled to compensation of damages on grounds of unjust conviction, except in the following cases: (i) if the dismissal of proceedings or the verdict rejecting the charges resulted from the prosecutor dismissing the prosecution in the reopened proceedings, and the dismissal took place based on an agreement with the suspect or the accused; (ii) if in the reopened proceedings a verdict was pronounced rejecting the charges to 2022. Namely, during 2023, the Constitutional Court functioned to a reduced extent because the vacant positions in this court could not be filled due to reasons falling within the competence of legislative institutions. In addition, the Constitutional Court stated that the appellate jurisdiction of this institution continues to be influenced by the right of parties in court proceedings to appeal to the court of general jurisdiction for the acceleration of proceedings under relatively new legislation that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time, according to which the courts act, has been established in three out of four main different jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

According to this legal framework, the parties to the court proceedings have two options: to file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested or file a complaint with the highest court in respective jurisdictions to determine the violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time, which requires the determination of financial compensation. As for the time-limits under this legislative framework, the court proceedings may file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested (time limits for the court to decide: 60 days in first instance proceedings; 30 days in second instance proceedings). Furthermore, parties to legal proceedings have the right to seek damages for violation of the right to a trial within a reasonable time (time limit for the relevant courts to decide: no later than six months from the date of receipt of the action). When it comes to the number of motions to expedite case resolution, a total of 128 motions were filed to the courts in 2023. In 2023, the courts granted 25 and denied/dismissed 49 motions of the parties. In addition, the courts received 19 claims for damages last year. In 9 cases, the courts decided to award compensation to the plaintiffs, while they rejected the lawsuit with a claim for damages in 14 cases.

The Institution of Human Rights Ombudsman of Bosnia and Herzegovina (the Ombudsman) handles complaints related to malfunctioning of public authorities or to human rights violations committed by any public institution in Bosnia and Herzegovina. In performing its competences the Ombudsman cannot decide on compensation for determined human rights violations. There is no strict deadline for handling complaints. In cases where violation of rights is established, the Ombudsman issues recommendation to competent public institutions to undertake measures to restore human rights violation or poor functioning of administration. The Institution also provides assistance to citizens how to use the most adequate legal remedies or advises them which institution to address. The Ombudsman received 367 complaints against courts in 2023; the structure of the complaints was as follows: 62 complaints alleging excessive length of proceedings, 50 complaints alleging ineffective enforcement of court decisions, 23 complaints against judges for violation of procedural laws, 9 complaints against the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and 223 complaints related to the violation of other rights related to court procedure. In 2023 the Ombudsman issued 51 recommendations to the courts. These statistics are not included in the data prepared for Question 156, as the Ombudsman does not have the authority to determine compensation for damages caused to complainants by the work of courts and prosecutors' offices.

The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC) receives complaints against judges and prosecutors, conducts disciplinary proceedings, determines disciplinary liability, and imposes disciplinary measures. The Office of Disciplinary Counsel (ODC) within HJPC performs prosecutorial functions concerning allegations of misconduct against judges and prosecutors.

ODC investigates complaints alleging misconduct of judges and prosecutors, initiates and presents cases of disciplinary violations before the disciplinary panels of the HJPC. The legal deadline for completing disciplinary investigation is two years, given that at the expiration of this deadline complaint reaches the statute of limitations for initiating disciplinary proceedings. However, the vast majority of complaints are resolved well before the expiry of two years period. If disciplinary investigation results in initiation of the disciplinary proceeding, such proceeding must be completed within one year from the date of the filing of a formal complaint before a disciplinary panel, unless upon a showing of a cause that an extension is justified. In these proceedings complainants are (2022): The Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina reported that the influx of cases at the Constitutional Court of BiH varies from year to year. Depending on the influx, other data on cases of the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina also vary. The Constitutional Court of BiH could not give an answer as to what factors influenced that figure. In previous years, the only thing that was evident was that cases involving the length of court procedures and the non-enforcement of court decisions had an effect on the total number of incoming cases. This was not the case in 2022, due to the fact that a certain number of these cases were processed by courts within the new legislative framework that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time. According to the Constitutional Court of BiH, most of their cases concern allegations regarding the violation of the right to a fair trial (Article 6 of the European Convention) and the right to property (Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 to the European Convention) as well as cases in which the Constitutional Court of BiH is petitioned to proceed as a court of the fourth instance. A legislative framework that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time, according to which the courts act, has been established in one part of the jurisdiction in Bosnia and Herzegovina. According to this legal framework, the party has two options: to file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested or file a complaint with the highest court in respective jurisdictions to determine the violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time, which requires the determination of financial compensation. In other parts of the jurisdiction of BiH, the establishment of this legislative framework is underway. When it comes to the number of motions to expedite case resolution, a total of 154 motions were filed to the courts in 2022. In 2022, the courts granted 39 and denied/denied/dismissed 76 motions of the parties. In addition, the courts received 15 claims for damages last year. In 7 cases, the courts decided to award compensation to the plaintiffs, while they rejected the lawsuit with a claim for damages in 5 cases.

The Institution of Human Rights Ombudsman of Bosnia and Herzegovina (the Ombudsman) handles complaints related to malfunctioning of public authorities or to human rights violations committed by any public institution in Bosnia and Herzegovina. In performing its competences the Ombudsman cannot decide on compensation for determined human rights violations. There is no strict deadline for handling complaints. In cases where violation of rights is established, the Ombudsman issues recommendation to competent public institutions to undertake measures to restore human rights violation or poor functioning of administration. The Institution also provides assistance to citizens how to use the most adequate legal remedies or advises them which institution to address. The Ombudsman received 347 complaints against courts in 2022; the structure of the complaints was as follows: 29 complaints alleging excessive length of proceedings, 22 complaints alleging ineffective enforcement of court decisions, 12 complaints against judges for violation of procedural laws, 2 complaints against the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and 282 complaints related to the violation of other rights related to court procedure. In 2022 the Ombudsman issued 67 recommendations to the courts. These statistics are not included in the data prepared for Question 156, as the Ombudsman does not have the authority to determine compensation for damages caused to complainants of the work of courts and other institutions.

(2021): Number of requests shown in the table refers to the requests received in 2021 and number of the condemnations refers to the total number of condemnations issued in 2021, regardless of the year of request.

There were some significant variations between data for 2020 and 2021.

The Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina reported the increase of the number of condemnations for excessive length of proceedings and non-execution of court decisions in 2021. Namely, the Court concluded during the reporting year that the majority of the relevant legislative and other authorities in Bosnia and Herzegovina failed to meet the timeframe determined previously by that institution for taking legislative measures and other corrective activities to help reduce systematic violations of the right to trial within a reasonable time. Accordingly, the Court has intensified the processing of individual applications of the parties in court proceedings alleging infringement of the right to trial within a reasonable time or the right to have a court decision enforced. There were no particular reasons (e.g. change of policy or legislation) for the data variations between 2020 and 2021 for the following categories: wrongful arrest, wrongful conviction, and others. In this regard, the relevant authorities (e.g. ministries of justice, public defenders, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina) explained that the numbers of requests and condemnations and the amount of compensation were based on the circumstances of individual cases.

(2020): Specific comments for 2020: Number of requests shown in the table refers to the requests received in 2020 and number of the condemnations refers to the total number of condemnations in 2020, regardless of the year of request.

There were significant variations between data for 2020 and 2019.

In particular, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina reported that during 2020 it rejected all individual applications alleging the non-execution of court decisions against public sector debtors (e.g. government, state-owned companies, local self-government units etc.). Having concluded that the non-execution of court decisions against public sector debtors was a systematic problem, in relation to the Article 6 of the European Convention the Human Rights, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina introduced the previously mentioned policy. In addition, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina requested the relevant authorities to take comprehensive corrective activities.

As for the increased number of condemnations regarding excessive length of court proceedings in 2020, the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina reported that the higher number of condemnations corresponds with the relevant authorities' continued lack of success to take efficient legislative and other measures to reduce the length of proceedings at the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina. There were no particular reasons (e.g. change of policy or legislation) for the data variations between 2020 and 2019 for the following categories: wrongful arrest, wrongful conviction, and others. In this regard, the relevant authorities (e.g. ministries of justice, public defenders) stated that the numbers of requests and condemnations and the amount of compensation depend on the circumstances of individual cases.

(2019): Specific comments for 2019: Number of requests shown in the table refers to the requests received in 2019 and number of the condemnations refers to the total number of condemnations in 2019, regardless of the date of submission of the request. There are significant variations between data for 2019 compared to 2018 when it comes to the number of requests, the number of condemnations, and the amount of awarded compensations for the Excessive length of proceedings and the Non - execution of court decisions. The reason for the variations is a current temporary policy change of the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina, regarding admissibility and handling of individual applications, pending its request to the legislative authorities and the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina to take systemic measures to ensure the reasonable length of proceedings at the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina. There are no particular reasons (e.g. change of policy or legislation) for the data differences between 2019 and 2018 for Wrongful arrest, Wrongful conviction, and Others. The variations are explained by the relevant institutions (i. e. ministries of justice, public defenders) as the increase or decrease, registered specially in 2019, in terms of the number of requests, the number of condemnations, and the amount of awarded compensations (e.g. Courts of general jurisdiction awarded in some cases relatively higher amounts of damages to the plaintiffs due to the specific facts and circumstances of those cases).

In accordance with the article 498 of the Criminal Procedure Code, "(1) The right to compensation of damages for unjustifiable conviction shall be held by a person against whom a criminal sanction was imposed by a final decision or who was pronounced guilty but whose punishment was remitted, and subsequently, upon an extraordinary legal remedy, the new proceedings was finally discontinued or the convicted person was acquitted by a final decision or the charge was rejected, except in the following cases:

1) if the proceedings was discontinued or the charge was dismissed because in the new proceedings the subsidiary prosecutor or private prosecutor waived the prosecution, provided that the waiver occurred on the basis of an agreement with the accused person, 2) in the new proceedings the charge was dismissed by a ruling because the court lacked jurisdiction and the authorized prosecutor has initiated prosecution before the competent court.

"Court concerned" is referred to as the Court before which the violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time has been questioned in the procedure prescribed by the Law on the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time (this could be any court in Montenegro).

North Macedonia

(General Comment): 1. In line with the responsibilities for implementation of the standards for the right of trial in a reasonable time frame, according to the European Convention on Human Rights, and the priority to decrease of the number of applications from RM on the basis of article 6, before the ECHR, the Law on courts from 2006 and the Amendments to the Law on courts provide sole jurisdiction to trial on claims for protection of the right to a trial in a reasonable time frame for the Supreme Court of RM. Hence, in April 2009 the Department for Processing of Cases within Reasonable Time was established, in line with the Working Schedule of the Supreme Court of RM. Additionally, Law on enforcement of ECHR decisions and Law for legal representation of RM before ECHR were adopted in order to establish efficient system for enforcement of the ECHR decisions.

2. The Law on Criminal procedure defines the procedure for damage compensation, rehabilitation and for realisation of other rights of persons who are convicted and arrested on unjustified grounds or unlawfully.

The procedure for compensation of damage is acting by the court and the amounts depends from case to case. The amounts are related with the case and the taken actions in that case (days in wrongful arrest, wrongful conviction, lost profit, costs, rate of interest etc.)

Serbia

: Article 3

The legal means that protect the right to a trial within a reasonable time are:

- 1) objection to speed up the procedure (hereinafter: objection);
- 2) appeal;
- 3) request for just satisfaction.

The party does not pay the court fee in proceedings in which the right to a trial within a reasonable time is protected. They are urgent and have priority in decision-making.

Complaint submission and complaint procedure

Article 7.

The party submits an objection to the court conducting the proceedings or the court before which the proceedings are conducted if he believes that the public prosecutor has violated his right. The attorney of the party who is authorized to undertake all actions in the procedure that is requested to be accelerated does not need particularly many opportunities to submit the contract. If the attorney of the party is authorized to foresee only individual actions in the procedure, which does not include the submission of legal means for the protection of the right to a trial within a reasonable time, he is obliged to submit a special power of attorney along with the objection.

If it is suspected that one of the legally prescribed reasons for the termination of the power of attorney has occurred, the court will, by means of a reasoned decision against which no personal appeal is allowed, order the attorney to submit a special deadline for the power of attorney to be issued in accordance with the law, with a warning that the objection to the contrary will be rejected as illegal.

The procedure for the objection is led by the president of the court, who decides on the objection. With the annual schedule of work, he can designate one court or several judges to lead the proceedings alongside him and decide on interviews.

An oral hearing is not held, and the law governing non-litigation proceedings is applied accordingly to other issues.

The president of the court is obliged to decide on the objection within two months from the date of receipt of the contract.

Article 14.

The party has the right to appeal if his objection is rejected or if the president of the court does not decide on it within two months from the day of receipt of the objection.

An appeal can also be filed if the objection was accepted, but the chief public prosecutor did not issue a mandatory instruction within eight days from the date of receipt of the court president's decision, then if the court president or the immediately superior public prosecutor did not order the judge or the public prosecutor to take procedural actions that effectively speed up the procedure, or if the judge or public prosecutor has not taken the ordered procedural actions within the deadline set for him.

An appeal can be filed even if the president of the court, in the decision by which he accepted the objection and determined the violation of the right to a trial, did not set a deadline for taking procedural actions that effectively speed up the procedure.

Among other things, the complaint contains the same mandatory elements as the complaint.

Article 23:

(2023): According to the Law on Protection of Right to Trial within a Reasonable Time („Official Gazette RS“, No. 40/15 and 92/23), in 2023 there were 19,092 objections to the presidents of courts for acceleration of the proceedings. Further, there were 4,816 claims were filed to courts for non-pecuniary damages and 3,380 claims were filed for pecuniary damages. The largest number of new cases for claims for compensation for pecuniary and non-pecuniary damage was in 2019 (31.825). The growing trend of such a high number of lawsuits has been stopped, since in 2020 there were 29.341 of these cases, in 2021 year 20.930, while in 2022 that number was reduced to 13.060 cases, and this trend was continued in 2023 to 8,196 cases. With regard to the total amount of compensation paid according to court judgments due to the violation of the right to a trial within a reasonable time for 2023, we refer to the data of the High Judicial Council , 1. Compensation for damages based on the violation of the right to a trial within a reasonable time according to the judgments of domestic courts, voluntarily paid by the courts, was in the amount of RSD 166,263,292.52.

2. Compensation for damages based on the violation of the right to a trial within a reasonable time according to the judgments of the domestic courts, collected from the courts, was about 4,090,654,824.02 dinars.

3. Compensation for damages based on the violation of the right to a trial within a reasonable time according to the judgments of domestic courts, paid voluntarily based on an agreement with the State Attorney's Office, was in the amount of RSD 63,007,938.00 dinars.

(2022): Based on the decisions of the presidents of the courts, which accepted objections for speeding up the proceedings and found a violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time before the basic and higher courts in the Republic of Serbia, out of the total number of cases received (13,060).The largest number of these cases refer to the enforcement of legally binding court decisions. However, the exact number of Non-execution of court decisions cases is N/A.

(2020): Concerning the system for compensating users in cases of excessive length of proceedings (and the same goes for non-execution of court decisions), there is a possibility to request a compensation because of excessive length of proceedings in accordance with the provisions of the Law on Protection of Right to Trial within a Reasonable Time (“RS Official Gazette”, No. 40/2015). The right to trial within a reasonable time is granted to every party in court proceedings, including enforcement proceedings, to every party in non-litigious proceedings and to the injured party in criminal proceedings, the private prosecutor and the injured party only if they have submitted a claim for damages. The public prosecutor as a party to criminal proceedings is not entitled to a trial within a reasonable time. Legal remedies according to this Law are: 1) complaint to speed up the procedure; 2) appeal; 3) request for just satisfaction. Request for just satisfaction includes the right to payment of monetary compensation for non-pecuniary damages or pecuniary damages caused to a party by violation of the right to a trial within a reasonable time (monetary compensation). A party may file a lawsuit against the Republic of Serbia for monetary compensation within one year from the day when it acquired the right to fair satisfaction (Articles 26-33 of this Law). The amount of compensation for non pecuniary damages is limited to EUR 300 - 3,000 and regarding pecuniary damages it is to be determined by court in accordance with the principle of causality and provisions of the Law on Contracts and Torts. The statistics concerning these lawsuits are presented regarding questions 32 and 36 referring to “other than criminal law cases.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Other court and Ministry of justice - Requests that include compensation claims:

The Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina has appellate jurisdiction over issues under the Constitution arising out of a judgement of any other court in Bosnia and Herzegovina. This includes appeals regarding excessive length of court proceeding, non-enforcement of judicial decisions, and other aspects of the right to a fair trial, as well as other rights protected by the European Convention. In addition, a legislative framework that regulates the protection of the right to a trial within reasonable time, according to which the courts act, has been established recently in several jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina. According to this legal framework, the party has two options: to file a motion for procedure expedition to the court processing the case for which expedition is requested or file a complaint with the highest court in respective jurisdiction to determine the violation of the right to a trial within reasonable time, which requires the determination of financial compensation. The court must decide within the strict legal deadline. In the remaining jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, a legislative procedure is underway for the adoption of a legal framework on the protection of the right to a trial within a reasonable time. Compensation for wrongful arrest/detention and wrongful conviction is awarded in civil court proceedings which are initiated against public authorities by the person entitled to compensation. The filing of a lawsuit is preceded by an attempt to reach a settlement through the ministry of justice at the relevant level of government, which must decide on the compensation request within the strict legal deadline.

The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and The Institution of Human Rights Ombudsman of Bosnia and Herzegovina - Requests that do not include compensation claims:

The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council (HJPC) receives complaints against judges and prosecutors, conducts disciplinary proceedings, determines disciplinary liability, and imposes disciplinary measures. The Office of Disciplinary Counsel (ODC) within HJPC performs prosecutorial functions concerning allegations of misconduct against judges and prosecutors. ODC investigates complaints alleging misconduct of judges and prosecutors, initiates and presents cases of disciplinary violations before the disciplinary panels of the HJPC. The legal deadline for completing disciplinary investigation is two years, given that at the expiration of this deadline complaint reaches the statute of limitations for initiating disciplinary proceedings. However, the vast majority of complaints are resolved well before the expiry of two years period. If disciplinary investigation results in initiation of the disciplinary proceeding, such proceeding must be completed within one year from the date of the filing of a formal complaint before a disciplinary panel, unless upon a showing of a cause that an extension is justified. In these proceedings complainants are not entitled to compensation if their complaint is found to be sound. The Institution of Human Rights Ombudsman of Bosnia and Herzegovina (the Ombudsman) handles complaints related to malfunctioning of public authorities or to human rights violations committed by any public institution in Bosnia and Herzegovina. There is no strict deadline for handling complaints. In cases where violation of rights is established, the Ombudsman issues recommendation to competent public institutions to undertake measures to restore human rights violation or poor functioning of administration. The Institution also provides assistance to citizens how to use the most adequate legal remedies or advises them which institution to address. In performing its competences, the Ombudsman cannot decide on compensation for determined human rights violations.

(General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the Guidelines for the prevention of conflicts of interest in the judiciary (July 2016), covering a) incompatibilities; b) reporting on property, income, obligations and interests; c) gifts and other benefits; d) contacts with third persons and abuse of confidential information; e) nepotism; and f) education and awareness-raising. The Guidelines elaborate the existing legislation and code of ethics and go into further detail with practical “do’s and don’ts” in a variety of situations.

There is an automated case assignment system in place, where cases are randomly assigned to judges, according to predetermined criteria.

In a situation where the judge to whom a case is assigned must, as required by law, be disqualified or recused from further proceedings, the case will be reassigned to another judge by the Court President or his deputy.

Disqualification of judges is governed by the civil procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina (Law on Civil Procedure before the Court of BiH and civil procedure codes of the BiH Federation, Republika Srpska and Brcko District of BiH), which stipulate that:

a) the judge may be disqualified if circumstances exist that cast doubt to his impartiality (disqualification); b) the motion for disqualification of a judge shall be decided by Court President, and the motion for disqualification of Court President shall be decided by the court in plenary session; c) the provisions on disqualification of judges shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to record keepers. The criminal procedure codes of BiH, BiH Federation, Republika Srpska and Brcko District of BiH stipulate that:

a) the provisions on disqualification of a judge shall accordingly be applied to prosecutors and persons authorised to represent the prosecutor in the proceedings, record keepers, court interpreters and other staff members; b) the prosecutor shall decide the disqualification of persons authorised to represent him in criminal proceedings, and the Collegium of the Prosecutor’s Office shall decide the disqualification of the prosecutor. c) the panel, presiding judge or judge shall decide the disqualification of record keepers, court interpreters and other staff member, and, until the indictment is filed, it shall be decided by the prosecutor. In a situation where the judge to whom a case is assigned must be disqualified or recused from the case, the case will be reassigned to another judge. The same rule applies to prosecutors.

Case reassignment is governed by the books of rules on the case management systems in courts and prosecutor's offices (the Book of Rules on CMS and the Book of Rules on TCMS).

The case is reassigned to another judge by the Court President or a person authorised by him, who must state the grounds for reassignment.

The case is reassigned to another prosecutor by the Chief Prosecutor, who must state the grounds for reassignment.

(2022): The High Prosecutorial Council handled a request of a prosecutor in the general jurisdiction offices to engage as an expert in monitoring the activity of the Special Prosecutor's Office against Corruption and Organized Crime, within the framework of a project implemented by an NPO. According to the law, the prosecutor has the right to participate in off-duty activities related to legal issues, the legal system and the administration of justice.

However, the prosecutor's request was related to the monitoring of the work of the Special Prosecutor's Office for various issues, therefore, this request contradicted the criteria provided for in Article 9, point 1, letter "dh", of the Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors", as amended, where it is stated that, the activities outside the function should not be incompatible with the exercise of the function of the magistrate.

In the "Standards with the Rules of Ethics and the Rules of Conduct of the Prosecutor" have been established some basic principles which aim to increase impartiality during and outside the exercise of the functions of the prosecutor, support the implementation of the highest standards of ethical and professional behaviour, preserve the image of the professional, as well as the appropriate behaviour in the office in court or outside these premises of the prosecutor. In article 5, letters "b" and "ç", of these Rules, related to the principle of impartiality, it is provided that the Prosecutor must: b) avoid any type of behaviour that may create the impression of partiality; ç) avoids situations that can reasonably be perceived as leading to a conflict of interest.

The High Prosecutorial Council assessed that the prosecutor's participation in off-duty activities to monitor the activity of the Special Prosecutor's Office against Corruption and Organized Crime was incompatible with the activity of the magistrate, violates the principles of independence and impartiality of the prosecutor, as well as the principle of avoidance of conflict of interest.

In the same time, the law has provide special bodies such as the High Prosecutorial Council and the Parliament which monitor the activity of the Special Prosecution against Corruption and Organized Crime, as this institution reports to them on its annual activity.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

Herzegovina, the Council provides its opinion on complaints submitted by a judge or prosecutor who considers that his/her rights established by this or another law, or his/her independence, are endangered. These opinions are issued in order to identify threats to the independence of judicial institutions, that is holders of judicial functions, and to publicize it, as well as to invite relevant participants to refrain from further activities that threaten the independence of the judiciary. The Law does not provide for sanctions that the Council may impose in these situations.

Additionally, all criminal codes adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina contain chapters dedicated to the protection of judiciary. The object of the criminal protection of this group of crimes is the functioning of the judiciary. The main objective of the prescribed criminals is to ensure and protect the independence of the judiciary and the legitimate work of the judiciary and other bodies. Most of the offenses in this group relate to endangering the criminal proceedings, endangering the smooth conduct of criminal proceedings and executing the criminal sanctions, ie protecting the special categories of subjects in criminal proceedings.

The criminal codes contain provisions by which obstruction of the judiciary is criminalized (eg. Article 241 of the Criminal Code BiH, Article 339 of the Criminal Code RS, 358, 359, 359a of the Criminal Code FBiH, Articles 352, 353 of the Criminal Code BD BiH) in such a way that attacks, threats or intimidation of a judge or prosecutor in connection with the exercise of judicial or prosecutorial duties are prescribed as criminal offenses.

Pursuant to this law, natural and legal persons may file a complaint against a prosecutor regarding any allegation of a disciplinary violation to the following authorities.

- The Chief State Prosecutor regarding the alleged violations of any Chief Prosecutor
- Chief Prosecutors of the Prosecution regarding the alleged violations of any prosecutor of that Prosecution

Natural and legal persons can also file complaints against prosecutors with the People's Advocate.

In cases when the complaint is grounded and contains elements of a criminal offense, the competent authority must forward the case to the prosecutor's office and notify the Council and the People's Advocate.

Within 15 working days from the receipt of the request for initiation of disciplinary investigations, the Council must establish the investigative panels. Investigative panels are tasked with securing the facts and gathering evidence regarding the alleged disciplinary violation. After this procedure (it is explained in more detail in the Law) the panel sends the report to the Council, where the latter holds a hearing and decides whether the alleged disciplinary violation has been committed or not. If it is decided that there is a disciplinary violation, a disciplinary measure is imposed on that prosecutor according to this Law.

Albania

(General Comment): Every intervention made while distributing cases by electronic lot is logged in the system, this means a third party can audit in every moment the procedure of the lot, and see if it has been done according to the rules in place. Whenever the workload of a judge is considered disproportionate compared to the average, the judge in question is excluded from the random distribution of the cases, by an internal order issued by the president of the court.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The system for distribution of cases in the courts of Bosnia and Herzegovina is organized as random and automatic allocation, in accordance with predefined parameters. Due to the parameters the system for distribution of cases is classified as "other type of allocation". These parameters are prescribed by the decision of the court president and they include specialization of judges and percentage of participation of every judge in the distribution of cases. After these parameters are set, system randomly distributes cases to judges of particular specialization and in accordance with the percentage of each judges' participation in the distribution, but also considering workload of individual judges. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has adopted the Rulebook on internal court operations and the Rulebook on the Automated Case Management System in Courts. Priority cases (e.g. cases involving detention, cases involving minors etc.) are distributed urgently as prescribed by the law or by the decision of the court president. The law stipulates shorter deadlines for priority cases, so these cases have to be allocated to judges urgently and judges have to start working on them immediately. It is possible to exclude a judge from the allocation for various reasons. Judge can be temporarily excluded due to illness, vacation, longer absence, over load with cases etc.

Automatic Redistribution of Cases

Article 177

The cases allocated to the judge may be reallocated to another judge, after the decision of the president of the court registered in the SU register has been passed, and the reason for the redistribution of case can be: a request for a judge to be exempted (submitted by the parties, the judge, by a decision of a higher instance court, etc.), the judge no longer works on a certain type of case, new judge for a certain type of case has been assigned, absence of a judge for an urgent matter that does not endure postponement of the procedure.

Article 178

After the request for exemption of a judge to whom the case is allocated, the president of the court, after the decision on exemption of the judge, shall adopt a decision for automatic redistribution of the case (in this case, the judges who were excluded in this case do not participate in the automatic distribution).

Upon a request for exemption or sudden absence of a judge, a member of council, the president of the court, by a decision on exemption of that judge, recorded in the register for exemption, shall appoint a judge who will replace the judge who is exempted.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2023): The relevant legislation on court procedures in Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes circumstances that call into question his/her impartiality in which a judge cannot adjudicate the case. These circumstances indicate that the judge has a conflict of interest in the individual case and therefore there is a legal base for initiating procedures to prevent or recuse him/her from dealing with the case.

As an example, the judge must not deal with the case if the party, legal representative or authorized agent is his/her blood relative in direct line to any degree or in the lateral line up to fourth degree, or if they are spouses or relatives up to second degree, regardless of whether the marriage has been terminated or not. In addition, as another example, the judge must be taken off the case if it turns out that he/she has participated in the same case in reaching the judgment of the inferior instance court. In conclusion, the legislation on court procedures defines the basis (i.e. aforementioned circumstances that pertain to the conflict of interest) and the procedure for the recusal of the judge.

In this regard, the legislation does not refer specifically to the conflict of interest, i.e. the laws do not foresee it as a separate category. However, it is in the law that the recusal of the judges as a legal term comprises all matters related to the protection of the impartiality in the court procedures. Consequently, it is not possible in Bosnia and Herzegovina to differentiate data on the number of reassigned cases for the following category: Recusal of the judge or requested by the parties. In the context of data on the total number of reassigned court cases in 2023 (i.e. 644 931), it is important to take into account that these court cases were redistributed primarily because the judges in charge of these court cases have ceased to work in a particular court (i.e. appointment to another court, retirement, resignation etc.). In addition, courts had to reassign a significant number of cases owing to the longer absence of judges because of sick leave. Finally, harmonizing the burden of judges with court cases in a single court and regrouping judges within the court made it necessary to reassign noteworthy number of court cases. In 2023, there was a remarkable increase in the number of reassignments in the largest court of first instance in the state, due to the need for a significant number of cases to be reassigned in the court because an unusually high number of judges stopped working in that court due to career advancement or retirement.

(General Comment): Articles 60 and 61 of the Court Rule of Procedure: Article 60

To a judge who, due to justifiable overload or anticipated longer leave (longer than 30 days), is unable to resolve the assigned cases in a timely manner, the case assignment might be suspended for a limited time. In that case, the cases shall be assigned to other judges in the judicial department or legal area on the principle of the random allocation of cases through the judicial information system in accordance with Article 57 of these Rules of Procedure.

Article 61

Suspension of case assignment in accordance with Article 60 of these Rules of Procedure for a limited period shall be decided by the President of the court alone or at the proposal of the President of the Division or a judge. Question 187

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Priority cases are allocated to judges and prosecutors through automatic allocation algorithm based on specific setup of predefined parameters used for priority cases. This basically means that in courts and prosecutor offices there is always at least one judge or prosecutor determined in advance, who is person on duty for certain period and to whom such cases will be assigned automatically by system.

All other non-priority cases are also allocated to judges through automatic allocation algorithm but setup for this allocation is more complex and based on more than one information from new case, and usually with more judges available in pool to select from.

Both algorithms (for priority and non-priority cases) are always based on court president decision, which is created once per year or more often if necessary.

Regarding reassignment of cases:

All reassignments of cases are processed through the computerized distribution of cases, whether new judge is selected by automatic allocation algorithm (in accordance to predefined parameters) or by court president decision. In every case, reason for reassignment has to be entered in the system by selecting from predefined list of reasons for reassignment and/or adding free text as description. This is why „Yes“ is more appropriate as answer for Q187, with two options selected as explanatory answer in Q188 (2nd and 3rd). Reassignments of cases can be processed as random and automatic where system will choose from the judges of same specialization, or it can be processed in a way that court president makes a decision and chooses the judge to whom the case will be reassigned.

Question 190

Albania

(General Comment): Please note that the constitution provides that a judge can be an Albanian citizen appointed by the High Judicial Council after graduating the School of Magistrates and after the conduction of a preliminary process of verification of their assets and their background checks, in accordance with the law. Hence, an initial obligation to declare assets, prior to their appointment as judges is provided in the constitution. Further, this obligation is further elaborated in the law on status of judges of prosecutors that provides that judges and prosecutors undergo an assets and background check, prior to their admission to the School of Magistrates, prior to their appointment as judges and prosecutors and every time that they apply for a position at a higher level.

However, please note that the obligation to annually declare their (applicable to judges and prosecutors) assets is provided in a special law, namely law on the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The Law on Amendments to the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina ("Official Gazette of Bosnia and Herzegovina", number: 63/23) was adopted on 6 September 2023. The Law entered into force on 23 September 2023 and it is in application since from 23 December 2023. However, the implementation of the Law will begin in 2024, following the organizational and technical preparations at the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. For the purpose of verifying declarations, through the Department responsible for processing declarations within the Secretariat of the HJPC referred to in Article 86f of the Law on Amendments to the Law on the HJPC, the HJPC shall adopt and regularly revise the risk criteria which shall be confidential. A risk criterion is a circumstance or a set of circumstances based on which declarations of assets and interests are prioritized for regular checks, a schedule of checks is prepared and an additional check is conducted.

(2021): After launching a legislative Initiative to amend the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina so as to include the provisions for declaring the assets and interests of judicial office holders, the HJPC in September 2018 adopted the Rulebook on the Submission, Verification and Processing of the Financial Statements of Judges and Prosecutors and a new Financial Statement Form (the Rulebook).

The Rulebook establishes the procedures and high standards of transparency for financial statements of judges and prosecutors in BiH, which primarily stipulates the obligations, the manner of and the deadline for filing the statements, information on sources and the manner of acquisition of financial assets, as well as information on their relatives employed in the judiciary. These rules provide for an active role of the HJPC in ensuring the electronic submission, monitoring, processing and verification of personal financial statement data, including the basis for and the manner of cooperation with competent authorities, as well as their publication on the HJPC website in accordance with the applicable legal framework in BiH regulating access to public information and ensuring privacy and protection of personal data. The application of the Rulebook was foreseen as of 1st January 2019 for the financial statements of judges and prosecutors for 2018. After the administrative dispute initiated by the Association of Judges in BiH, the Agency for Personal Data Protection in BiH prohibited the HJPC from processing personal data in a manner prescribed by the Rulebook, the HJPC issued a decision postponing the application of the Rulebook until the completion of an administrative dispute initiated by the HJPC before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina against the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in of Bosnia and Herzegovina. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2018 using an earlier financial statement form. Considering that the HJPC's suit was rejected by the Court of BiH and the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in BiH confirmed, the Rulebook was annulled in February 2020. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2019 using an earlier financial statement form. Currently, the Law on the HJPC is subject to the legislative procedure aimed at amending the provisions on asset declaration.

(2020): After launching a legislative Initiative to amend the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina so as to include the provisions for declaring the assets and interests of judicial office holders, the HJPC in September 2018 adopted the Rulebook on the Submission, Verification and Processing of the Financial Statements of Judges and Prosecutors and a new Financial Statement Form (the Rulebook).

The Rulebook establishes the procedures and high standards of transparency for financial statements of judges and prosecutors in BiH, which primarily stipulates the obligations, the manner of and the deadline for filing the statements, information on sources and the manner of acquisition of financial assets, as well as information on their relatives employed in the judiciary. These rules provide for an active role of the HJPC in ensuring the electronic submission, monitoring, processing and verification of personal financial statement data, including the basis for and the manner of cooperation with competent authorities, as well as their publication on the HJPC website in accordance with the applicable legal framework in BiH regulating access to public information and ensuring privacy and protection of personal data. The application of the Rulebook was foreseen as of 1st January 2019 for the financial statements of judges and prosecutors for 2018.

After the administrative dispute initiated by the Association of Judges in BiH, the Agency for Personal Data Protection in BiH prohibited the HJPC from processing personal data in a manner prescribed by the Rulebook, the HJPC issued a decision postponing the application of the Rulebook until the completion of an administrative dispute initiated by the HJPC before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina against the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in of Bosnia and Herzegovina. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2018 using an earlier financial statement form. Considering that the HJPC's suit was rejected by the Court of BiH and the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in BiH confirmed, the Rulebook was annulled in February 2020. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2019 using an earlier financial statement form.

(2019): After launching a legislative Initiative to amend the HJPC Law including proposals of provisions for reporting on the assets and interests of judicial office holders, the HJPC in September 2018 adopted the Rulebook on the Submission, Verification and Processing of the Financial Statements of Judges and Prosecutors and a new Financial Statement Form (the Rulebook).

The Rulebook establishes procedures and high standards of transparency for the financial reporting of judges and prosecutors in BiH, which includes primarily the obligations, manner and timing of reporting, information on sources and the manner of acquisition of financial assets, as well as information on their relatives employed in the judiciary. These rules provide for an active role of the HJPC in ensuring the electronic submission, monitoring, processing and verification of personal financial statement data, including the basics and manner of cooperation with competent authorities, as well as their publication on the HJPC website in accordance with the applicable legal framework in BiH regulating access to public information and ensuring privacy and protection of personal data. Application of the Rulebook was foreseen as of 1st January 2019 and referred to the submission of the financial statements of judges and prosecutors for 2018.

Considering that in the administrative procedure initiated at the request of associations of judges in BiH, the Agency for Personal Data Protection in BiH prohibited the HJPC from processing personal data on a manner prescribed by the adopted Rulebook, the HJPC issued decision by which the application of the Rulebook was postponed indefinitely, that is until the completion of the administrative dispute initiated by the HJPC's suit before the Court of BiH against the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in BiH. Temporarily, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the financial statements of judges and prosecutors for 2018 were submitted by previously used Financial Statement Form.

Albania

(General Comment): In accordance with article 21 and 22 of the special law, the declaration of assets includes the assets of the subject and his family (husband / wife, cohabitant and adult children), the sources of creation and financial liabilities of the entity. The declaration shall also include the fact whether the declarant has or does not have any other related persons.

When the property of the members of the family is divided and registered as such in the bodies of the state or judicial administration, the declaration is submitted separately by each member of the family, with the property registered in his/her own name, and it is attached to the declaration of the subject who has the obligation to make the declaration. The member of the family and the person related to the declaring subject is legally liable for the authenticity and accuracy of the declared data. Spouses and adult children have an obligation to declare assets the same as the judge or prosecutor. On the special form, there is a separate section for the spouse and the adult children that is signed by them, and if there are any assets that have not been declared, they are administratively or criminally liable for the omission to declare. However, for underage children the obligation to declare their assets rests with the judge or the prosecutor since, in any case, if the children would have any assets under their name, they would be acting as legal representatives for that asset, and therefore such interests would have to be declared. However, this is a very rare situation, since, in the most cases, underage children are unable to enter into legal transactions.

For these reasons, HIDAACI has not in itself, referred for further proceedings against judges and prosecutors to criminal investigation or fined, as an administrative measure, any judge or prosecutor during 2020; however, due to the work of HIDAACI, a considerable number of judges and prosecutors have been dismissed from the vetting bodies based on the reports filed by HIDAACI. Question 203

(General Comment): The Law on Amendments to the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina ("Official Gazette of Bosnia and Herzegovina", number: 63/23) was adopted on 6 September 2023. The Law entered into force on 23 September 2023 and it is in application since 23 December 2023. However, the implementation of the Law will begin in 2024, following the organizational and technical preparations at the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. For the purpose of verifying declarations, through the Department responsible for processing declarations within the Secretariat of the HJPC referred to in Article 86f of the Law on Amendments to the Law on the HJPC, the HJPC shall adopt and regularly revise the risk criteria which shall be confidential. A risk criterion is a circumstance or a set of circumstances based on which declarations of assets and interests are prioritized for regular checks, a schedule of checks is prepared and an additional check is conducted.

(2021): After launching a legislative Initiative to amend the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina so as to include the provisions for declaring the assets and interests of judicial office holders, the HJPC in September 2018 adopted the Rulebook on the Submission, Verification and Processing of the Financial Statements of Judges and Prosecutors and a new Financial Statement Form (the Rulebook).

The Rulebook establishes the procedures and high standards of transparency for financial statements of judges and prosecutors in BiH, which primarily stipulates the obligations, the manner of and the deadline for filing the statements, information on sources and the manner of acquisition of financial assets, as well as information on their relatives employed in the judiciary. These rules provide for an active role of the HJPC in ensuring the electronic submission, monitoring, processing and verification of personal financial statement data, including the basis for and the manner of cooperation with competent authorities, as well as their publication on the HJPC website in accordance with the applicable legal framework in BiH regulating access to public information and ensuring privacy and protection of personal data. The application of the Rulebook was foreseen as of 1st January 2019 for the financial statements of judges and prosecutors for 2018.

After the administrative dispute initiated by the Association of Judges in BiH, the Agency for Personal Data Protection in BiH prohibited the HJPC from processing personal data in a manner prescribed by the Rulebook, the HJPC issued a decision postponing the application of the Rulebook until the completion of an administrative dispute initiated by the HJPC before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina against the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in of Bosnia and Herzegovina. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2018 using an earlier financial statement form. Considering that the HJPC's suit was rejected by the Court of BiH and the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in BiH confirmed, the Rulebook was annulled in February 2020. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2019 using an earlier financial statement form. Currently, the Law on the HJPC is subject to the legislative procedure aimed at amending the provisions on asset declaration.

(2020): After launching a legislative Initiative to amend the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina so as to include the provisions for declaring the assets and interests of judicial office holders, the HJPC in September 2018 adopted the Rulebook on the Submission, Verification and Processing of the Financial Statements of Judges and Prosecutors and a new Financial Statement Form (the Rulebook).

The application of the Rulebook was foreseen as of 1st January 2019 for the financial statements of judges and prosecutors for 2018.

After the administrative dispute initiated by the Association of Judges in BiH, the Agency for Personal Data Protection in BiH prohibited the HJPC from processing personal data in a manner prescribed by the Rulebook, the HJPC issued a decision postponing the application of the Rulebook until the completion of an administrative dispute initiated by the HJPC before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina against the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in of Bosnia and Herzegovina. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2018 using an earlier financial statement form. As an interim solution, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the judges and prosecutors filed their financial statements for 2019 using an earlier financial statement form.

(2019): After launching a legislative Initiative to amend the HJPC Law including proposals of provisions for reporting on the assets and interests of judicial office holders, the HJPC in September 2018 adopted the Rulebook on the Submission, Verification and Processing of the Financial Statements of Judges and Prosecutors and a new Financial Statement Form (the Rulebook). The Rulebook establishes procedures and high standards of transparency for the financial reporting of judges and prosecutors in BiH, which includes primarily the obligations, manner and timing of reporting, information on sources and the manner of acquisition of financial assets, as well as information on their relatives employed in the judiciary. These rules provide for an active role of the HJPC in ensuring the electronic submission, monitoring, processing and verification of personal financial statement data, including the basics and manner of cooperation with competent authorities, as well as their publication on the HJPC website in accordance with the applicable legal framework in BiH regulating access to public information and ensuring privacy and protection of personal data. Application of the Rulebook was foreseen as of 1st January 2019 and referred to the submission of the financial statements of judges and prosecutors for 2018. Considering that in the administrative procedure initiated at the request of associations of judges in BiH, the Agency for Personal Data Protection in BiH prohibited the HJPC from processing personal data on a manner prescribed by the adopted Rulebook, the HJPC issued decision by which the application of the Rulebook was postponed indefinitely, that is until the completion of the administrative dispute initiated by the HJPC's suit before the Court of BiH against the decision of the Agency for Protection of Personal Data in BiH. Temporarily, in order to comply with the Article 86 of the Law on the HJPC, the financial statements of judges and prosecutors for 2018 were submitted by previously used Financial Statement Form.

(General Comment): In accordance with article 21 and 22 of the special law, the declaration of assets includes the assets of the subject and his family (husband / wife, cohabitant and adult children), the sources of creation and financial liabilities of the entity. The declaration shall also include the fact whether the declarant has or does not have any other related persons.

When the property of the members of the family is divided and registered as such in the bodies of the state or judicial administration, the declaration is submitted separately by each member of the family, with the property registered in his/her own name, and it is attached to the declaration of the subject who has the obligation to make the declaration. The member of the family and the person related to the declaring subject is legally liable for the authenticity and accuracy of the declared data. Spouses and adult children have an obligation to declare assets the same as the judge or prosecutor. On the special form, there is a separate section for the spouse and the adult children that is signed by them, and if there are any assets that have not been declared, they are administratively or criminally liable for the omission to declare. However, for underage children the obligation to declare their assets rests with the judge or the prosecutor since, in any case, if the children would have any assets under their name, they would be acting as legal representatives for that asset, and therefore such interests would have to be declared. However, this is a very rare situation, since, in the most cases, underage children are unable to enter into legal transactions.

Question 215

Albania

(2023): *The cases represent administrative investigations conducted by HIDAACI while sanctions represent fines.

(2022): Please note that under the new constitutional amendments, judges and prosecutors are undergoing a vetting process. As part of this temporary process, judges and prosecutors are re-evaluation based on three criteria:

(a) Asset assessment, (b) Background assessment, and (c) Proficiency assessment. Under the asset declaration process, HIDAACI plays a key role: HIDAACI based on declarations of assets shall conduct a full audit procedure in compliance with this law, the Law “On the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials, the Law “On prevention of conflict of interest in exercising public functions” and the “Code of Administrative Procedures”.

The General Inspector of HIDAACI, for the purpose of this assessment, can request through the General Directorate of Prevention of Money Laundering or Ministry of Justice records of assets owned by assessees or their related persons, or any financial transactions in Albania or abroad according to Law “On prevention of money laundering and financing of terrorism” or documents used abroad by assessees or their related persons. Such documents or information can be used as evidence before the Commission or Appeal Chamber.

3. HIDAACI provides full access to international observers, upon their request, to seek information, consult, copy or investigate declaration of assets submitted by the assessee or his or her related persons and their accompanying documents.

4. HIDAACI shall conduct a full audit procedure as soon as possible but no longer than 180 days as of the day of asset declaration submission.

5. Upon completion of the audit, the General Inspector of HIDAACI shall prepare a reasoned detailed report and, as appropriate, shall find out that: (a) Accurate declaration /disclosure in compliance with the law, with legitimate financial sources and not found in situation of conflicts of interest; (b) Lack of legitimate financial sources to justify their assets; (c) Hiding wealth/ assets; (d) False declaration; (e) Assessee found in situation of conflicts of interests.

For these reasons, HIDAACI has not in itself, referred for further proceedings against judges and prosecutors to criminal investigation or fined, as an administrative measure, any judge or prosecutor during 2019; however, due to the work of HIDAACI, a considerable number of judges and prosecutors have been dismissed from the vetting bodies based on the reports filed by HIDAACI. To illustrate the work of HIDAACI under the vetting process, from 8 February 2018 to 31 December 2019 the IQC (the first vetting body) has dismissed from duty 50 judges, 31 prosecutors and 2 legal advisors. The findings of the assessment process done from HIDAACI for 178 subjects that were under evaluation, 119 subjects resulted without any problems, and 59 subjects were reported by HIDAACI with problems with their asset declarations. Further to these reports, IQC undertakes a more in-depth investigation. These in-depth investigations resulted in the following data: 80 subjects were reported without violations/discrepancies in their declaration of assets and 98 subjects were reported with violations/discrepancies in their declaration of assets. Most of these subjects were dismissed due to these discrepancies.

5. Upon completion of the audit, the General Inspector of HIDAACI shall prepare a reasoned detailed report and, as appropriate, shall find out that: (a) Accurate declaration /disclosure in compliance with the law, with legitimate financial sources and not found in situation of conflicts of interest; (b) Lack of legitimate financial sources to justify their assets; (c) Hiding wealth/ assets; (d) False declaration; (e) Assessee found in situation of conflicts of interests.

this temporary process, judges and prosecutors are re-evaluation based on three criteria:

(a) Asset assessment, (b) Background assessment, and (c) Proficiency assessment. Under the asset declaration process, HIDAACI plays a key role: HIDAACI based on declarations of assets shall conduct a full audit procedure in compliance with this law, the Law “On the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials, the Law “On prevention of conflict of interest in exercising public functions” and the “Code of Administrative Procedures”.

The General Inspector of HIDAACI, for the purpose of this assessment, can request through the General Directorate of Prevention of Money Laundering or Ministry of Justice records of assets owned by assesseees or their related persons, or any financial transactions in Albania or abroad according to Law “On prevention of money laundering and financing of terrorism” or documents used abroad by assesseees or their related persons. HIDAACI, for all the subjects involved in this process, took measures for the compilation of individual physical files, which included systematically and thoroughly the form of declaration of assets, the justifying documents and following all the correspondence related to the reevaluation process. All documentation administered in the file is reflected in each case in the file inventory.

The High Inspectorate with the purpose of fulfilling the constitutional and legal obligations for the completion of the full audit of assets declarations regarding the legitimacy of the source of the creation of the property, the fulfillment of financial obligations, including private interests, started the establishment of the official communication with all public and private entities for verification purposes for more than 3,000 persons (subjects of re-evaluation and related persons).

Moreover, the High Inspectorate for the purposes of data accuracy, and reconciliation took measures to manually extract and process from the assets declaration forms submitted for the re-evaluation process, along with assets declaration forms submitted by subjects over the years, detailed data (fatherhood, motherhood, date of birth, identification number, civil status etc.) to more than 3,000 persons (re-evaluation subjects and related persons).

The correspondence was initially sent to about 26 public and private legal entities (Bank of Albania, second tier banks, investment companies, IPRO, NBC, Agency for Legalisation, Urbanisation and Integration of Informal Areas and Buildings, GDT, GDPML, General Maritime Directorate, Electricity Power Distribution Operator, etc.). During the audit process, depending on its progress, as well as the need to obtain additional information, HIDAACI proceeded with the further delivery of correspondence with public and private legal entities. Such documents or information can be used as evidence before the Commission or Appeal Chamber.

3. HIDAACI provides full access to international observers, upon their request, to seek information, consult, copy or investigate declaration of assets submitted by the assessee or his or her related persons and their accompanying documents.

4. HIDAACI shall conduct a full audit procedure as soon as possible but no longer than 180 days as of the day of asset declaration submission.

5. Upon completion of the audit, the General Inspector of HIDAACI shall prepare a reasoned detailed report and, as appropriate, shall find out that: (a) Accurate declaration /disclosure in compliance with the law, with legitimate financial sources and not found in situation of conflicts of interest; (b) Lack of legitimate financial sources to justify their assets; (c) Hiding wealth/ assets; (d) False declaration; (e) Assessee found in situation of conflicts of interests.

For these reasons, HIDAACI has not in itself, referred for further proceedings against judges and prosecutors to criminal investigation or fined, as an administrative measure, any judge or (2019): The numbers included in the table refer to disciplinary procedures initiated against judges in the reference year.

Montenegro

(2022): During 2022, 37 disciplinary proceedings were conducted based on proposals for determining the disciplinary responsibility of judges.

In 35 proceedings, proposals for determining disciplinary responsibility were rejected as unfounded, bearing in mind that the proceedings were initiated due to failure to provide data on assets and income in accordance with the regulations governing the prevention of conflicts of interest.

In the remaining two cases, the procedure is ongoing.

(2020): The difference in figures between 2019 and 2020 (increase of number of procedures initiated) is due to the fact that in 2020 the State Audit Institution (SAI) submitted a request (which refers to 28 persons) referred to the representatives of the judiciary regarding the negative opinion in the analysis of the work of the Judicial Council for 2019, which was published by the State Audit Institution. By implementing the legal competencies prescribed by the provisions of the LPC, the Agency performed a comparative analysis of the data, i.e. detailed verification of data and incomes for 28 persons for whom the SAI indicated that their actions could violate the provisions of the law in terms of obtaining compensation for work in commissions and councils formed by the Judicial Council. The Agency acted on the request and made decisions as stated.

(2022): A significant difference between the number of disciplinary proceedings initiated (35) and the total number of sanctions imposed (23) was caused by the following circumstances: the disciplinary action was rejected in (3) cases and disciplinary proceedings were suspended in (9) cases (4 judges retired, 3 judges resigned, 1 judge died, and 1 judge's term expired).

(2020): "Other" measure - written warning which shall not be made public - was imposed against 4 judges; this is a non-public measure.

Although there were no suspensions imposed in 2020 as a disciplinary sanction, it should be noted that 2 judges were temporarily suspended from office pending criminal proceedings and another judge was temporarily suspended from office until the completion of disciplinary proceedings initiated against him. In addition, 2 judges remain suspended as a result of criminal proceedings initiated before 2020.

(2019): As "other" measure, there is a written warning which shall not be made public imposed against 6 judges. This is a non-public measure.

Number of imposed sanctions (25) is lesser then the number of initiated proceedings (35). Usually, it takes up to six months (and sometimes more) for disciplinary bodies to complete disciplinary proceedings if they reach the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina as third instance. Therefore, some of the proceedings initiated in 2019 were not completed in 2019.

Although there were no suspensions imposed in 2019 as a disciplinary sanction, it should be noted that one judge was temporarily suspended from office pending criminal proceedings and another judge was temporarily suspended from office until the completion of disciplinary proceedings initiated against him. Also, 3 judges remain suspended as a result of criminal proceedings initiated before 2019.

(2021): Some cases against prosecutors were initiated for two or more disciplinary mistakes. Such cases were counted only once in accordance with the Explanatory note. The main mistake for those disciplinary cases was determined in our best estimate.

The number of disciplinary proceedings initiated against prosecutors increased considerably in 2021 compared to 2020. The most significant cause for this development was the increased number of complaints received in 2021 by the Office of Disciplinary Counsel at HJPC.

(2020): Some cases against prosecutors were initiated for two or more disciplinary mistakes. Such cases were counted only once in accordance with the Explanatory note. The main mistake for those disciplinary cases was determined in our best estimate.

For purpose of the Questionnaire, the following disciplinary offences are listed as the professional inadequacies:

1. Neglect or careless exercise of official duties; 2. Unjustified delays in performing any acts related to the exercise of prosecutorial functions, or any other repeated disregard of the duties of the prosecutor;
3. Failing to carry out instructions of a superior prosecutor under whose authority they serve, unless the carrying out of such instruction would itself constitute a violation of law or this Article;
4. Failure, for an unjustified reason, to comply with the decisions, orders or requests of the Council;
5. Failure to fulfil any mandatory training obligations or any other obligations imposed by law;
6. Failure to comply with the decision on temporary transfer to another prosecutor's office.

Number of initiated cases is significantly lesser in 2020 than in the previous report (11). It should be noted that COVID-19 related issues had impact on work of disciplinary bodies, including lesser number of received complaints compared to prior year (15% for both judges and prosecutors).

(2019): Some proceedings against prosecutors were initiated for both breach of professional ethics and professional inadequacy. According to your instruction, we tried to list the “main reasons” for initiating proceedings, in our best estimate.

For purpose of the Questionnaire, the following disciplinary offences are listed as the professional inadequacies:

1. Neglect or careless exercise of official duties; 2. Unjustified delays in performing any acts related to the exercise of prosecutorial functions, or any other repeated disregard of the duties of the prosecutor;

5. Failure to fulfil any mandatory training obligations or any other obligations imposed by law;
6. Failure to comply with the decision on temporary transfer to another prosecutor's office.

(2022): In the case of the second disciplinary proceeding completed during 2022, the High Justice Inspector has proposed to the High Prosecutorial Council, the appointment of the disciplinary measure "Public notice" for the prosecutor and for the head of the prosecution office, for the disciplinary violations provided in Article 102/1, letters "ç", "dh", and "l", of the Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended. At the end of the disciplinary proceeding, with Decision no. 31, dated 24.02.2022, High Prosecutorial Council rejected the proposal of the High Justice Inspector to give the disciplinary measure "Public notice" to the two magistrates.

(2020): The proposal of Chief Justice Inspector for disciplinary measure "Public remark" for ta prosecutor was found not based in law from the majority of members of the Council and the proposal was rejected by the Decision no. 269, dated 17.12.2020, of High Prosecutorial Council.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2022): There was a difference between the number of disciplinary proceedings (13) and the number of penalties (10). This difference occurred because a disciplinary lawsuit was rejected in (3) cases.

(2020): Number of sanctions pronounced is significantly lesser in 2020 then in the previous report (12). It should be noted that COVID-19 related issues had impact on work of disciplinary bodies, including lesser number of received complaints compared to prior year (15% for both judges and prosecutors).

In 2020 only one sanction was pronounced against a prosecutor for the following reasons: out of 5 completed cases, 3 cases were dismissed and in one case a prosecutor died during the proceedings.

Although no suspension was imposed as disciplinary sanction in 2020, it should be noted that 4 prosecutors remain suspended as a result of criminal proceedings initiated against them before 2020.

(2019): As “other” measure, there is a written warning which shall not be made public, imposed against 4 prosecutors. This is a non-public measure.

The number of completed cases (13) is higher than the number of initiated proceedings (11). Usually, it takes up to six months (and sometimes more) for disciplinary bodies to complete disciplinary proceedings if they reach the Council as third instance. Therefore, some of the proceedings initiated in 2018 were completed in 2019.

Although no suspension was imposed as disciplinary sanction in 2019, it should be noted that there is ongoing suspension of 5 prosecutors, emanating from criminal proceedings initiated against them before 2019.

It should be noted that number of initiated proceedings and the number of sanctions pronounced against prosecutors is the highest since the establishment of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, because of high number of grounded complaints as well as an increase in the number of the Office of Disciplinary Counsel staff.

Q257 (2021): Number of mediators was not changed in 2021 in relation to 2020, but in 2021 32 candidates for mediators went through the basic training for mediators and they were accredited by the Ministry of Justice, Human and Minority Rights in the beginning of 2022.

Q257 (2020): Adoption of the new Law on ADR, in August 2020, led to the significant increase of a number of cases referred to the Center for mediation procedure, by courts and citizens and thus to the need for training of new mediators. In addition, according to the analysis done by the Centre, there is a need for additional increase of a number of mediators in some municipalities. When it comes to the numbers of male and female mediators, we have to say that there are still more female than male mediators.

Q258 (2021): Regarding the increase in the number of mediations civil and commercial cases we have to say that this was mainly caused by the new solutions foreseen in the Law on ADR and the Law on Civil Procedure. When it comes to the labour cases, decrease happened due to the fact that in 2020 there was a great number of cases, on the same basis, related to the same Responding party. In general, statistics does not depend only on the interests of the parties and legal solutions, but also on the fact that some types of disputes appear and are characteristic for a reporting year, and do not appear in the next year.

Q258 (2020): ADR Centre annual report for 2020 <https://centarzaars.me/izvjestaji/>

Q258 (2021): From 2020 the Ministry of Justice maintains a Register of mediation proceedings, in which the mediators are obliged to record the mediations. The number of court related mediations (in 2021) is from the Register (on March 3, 2022). Still, there is possibility this data to be changed as the mediators fulfill the Register.

According to our Law on mediation, mediation is allowed in property and legal disputes, family disputes, workplace disputes, trade disputes, consumer disputes, insurance disputes, disputes in the field of education, environmental protection, disputes regarding discrimination and other disputed relations where mediation is appropriate to the nature of the disputed relations and can help to resolve them. Mediation is allowed in criminal cases if its application is not excluded by a special law.

The electronic register in which the mediators themselves enter the data is one of the key factors that led to the stimulation of the mediators to record all the procedures that were given to them to act. As of December 31, 2021, they were given the opportunity to import all old cases from 2016 to 2021 in order to gain a realistic picture of the number of mediations they had at work. At the same time, the determination of the Government determined by the Conclusion of 2019 and the Memorandum of Cooperation with the Chamber of Mediators to try to resolve its disputes through mediation gave a great impetus. Procedures for mediation in labor disputes with ministries, public enterprises and other institutions are widespread.

This is one type of judicial mediation. The settlement is concluded on minutes (no court decision) and the parties sign the minutes voluntarily. Each party shall bear their own costs when the procedure is completed with a court settlement, if in the settlement is not otherwise agreed.

- According to the Law on Criminal Procedure for offences subject to private prosecution, the judge may summon only the private prosecutor and the defendant to a conciliation hearing if he considers it expedient for the prompt termination of proceedings. Having in mind the existing legal framework as well as the applicable best practice for the development of court-annexed / court-connected mediation, the Supreme Court of Cassation, the High Judicial Council and the Ministry of Justice jointly issued the Guidelines for the Improvement of Mediation in the Republic of Serbia on 28 June 2017, <https://www.mpravde.gov.rs/tekst/16729/uputstvo-za-unapredjenje-medijacije-u-republici-srbiji-po-zakonu-o-posredovanju-u-resavanju-sporova.php>. They provide that Info-Services should be established for the Support of Alternative Dispute Resolution Methods within all basic, higher and commercial courts as well as mediation Info-Desks and active cooperation with external partners of the court, i.e. providers of mediation services should be encouraged based on signed protocols of cooperation. Likewise, in order to promote court-related mediation, it is provided that Mediation Weeks should be organised around the 25 October, i.e. marking the European Day of Justice.

The basic procedural framework for court-related mediation also encompasses the Criminal Procedure Code ("Official Gazette of RS", no 72/2011 and 101/2011), and the Law on Civil Procedure ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 72/2011, 49/2013 - Decision of Constitutional Court, 74/2013 - Decision of the CC and 55/2014). Other laws, such as the Law on Juvenile Crime Offenders and Criminal Protection of Juveniles ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 85/2005), Law on Prohibition of Discrimination ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 22/2009), Law on Bankruptcy Procedure ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 104/2009, 99/2011 – other law, 71/2012 – Decision of CC and 83/2014), Law on Prevention of Harassment at Work ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 36/2010), Law on the Protection of Whistle Blowers ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 128/2014), etc. also contain specific provisions on mediation.

Judges can only perform mediation outside of working hours and free of charge.

A judge who acts in the case concerning the disputed relationship cannot be a mediator. However, such a judge can assist the parties to reach an amicable solution in civil procedure through judicial settlement.

Q253 (General Comment): The Law on Prevention of Harassment at Work ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 36/2010) provides that an employee who considers to be subjected to harassment at work („mobbed“) by a person other than the employer themselves, director or other responsible person within the company can submit directly to the director/employer a reasoned application for initiation of proceedings for protection from harassment. The employer is then obliged under the law to propose to the parties in the dispute within three days upon receipt of the application mediation as a resolution of the dispute. Mediation proceedings in these cases are urgent. The mediation proceeding is considered terminated within eight working days after the date of the determination or choice of the mediator: 1) By signing of a written agreement between the disputed parties; 2) By a decision of the mediator, after consultation with the parties, to terminate the proceedings because further proceedings are not justified; 3) By a withdrawal statement of a disputed party from further proceedings. Due to justified reasons, the deadline for the completion of the mediation process can be extended to a maximum of 30 days from the date of determination or choice of the mediator. Also, a mandatory attempt at peaceful dispute resolution before initiating civil proceedings is prescribed in some Serbian laws (but not mediation per se). The Law on Compulsory Traffic Insurance ("Official Gazette RS", no. 51/2009, 78/2011, 101/2011, 93/2012 and 7/2013 – CC decision) provides that a person entitled to a claim under third party motor liability insurance must file the claim directly to the insurance company - if the contract provides for this possibility and if this is in accordance with the business policy of the insurance company. In case the insurance company fails to submit a reasoned offer of compensation for damages within 90 days from the date of claim receipt, or in case the insurance company fails to pay the small claim within the deadline, the claimant may file a lawsuit against the company and notify the National Bank of Serbia of such proceedings. Therefore, in this specific situation, the lawsuit is considered to be filed prematurely, unless the claimant previously addresses the insurance company in an attempt at out-of-court settlement.

Further, under the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code a person who intends to file a lawsuit for compensation for unlawful deprivation of liberty, or wrongful conviction, before the filing of the complaint, shall submit a request to the Ministry of Justice in order to agree on the existence of damage, the type and amount of compensation (Article 588, Paragraph 1 of the CPC). A Commission shall decide on the request, whose composition and method of work is regulated by the Minister of Justice (Article 588, Paragraph 2 of the CPC). A member of the Commission is also a Deputy SA. If the request is not granted or the Commission does not decide on the request within three months, a lawsuit may be filed against the Republic of Serbia (Article 589, Paragraph 1 of the CPC). If agreement is reached partially, related to the claim, the lawsuit may request the remaining part (Article 589, paragraph 2 of the CPC). During the duration of the procedure for reaching agreement, the statute of limitation is not running for the right to compensation under Article 591 (Article 589, paragraph 3 of the CPA). The work and results of these commissions show that the way settlement procedure is devised should be fundamentally revised.

Q253 (2021): Exceptions when mediation is mandatory - Please see the general comments section:

If the responsible person in the legal entity is not charged with abuse, ie the employer with the status of a natural person, the employee who considers that he is exposed to abuse submits a reasoned request to initiate proceedings for protection against abuse directly to that person. There is a certain obligation in consumer disputes. There is an obligation for the trader in consumer disputes if the consumer initiates an out-of-court dispute resolution procedure which is by its nature mediation (Article 151 of the Law on Consumer Protection). Initiation and conduct of out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes does not exclude or affect the right to judicial protection, in accordance with the law.- Article 168

Q254 (General Comment): Most simply put, in Serbia judges are required to inform the parties of a possibility of mediation, but cannot order it (there are no mandatory mediation provisions). Article 11 of the Law on Civil Procedure provides that the court shall direct the parties to mediation or to informative hearing for mediation, in accordance with the law, or to instruct the parties of the option of pre-trial settlement of dispute by mediation or through another amicable manner while Art. 305 Para. 3 provides that the court shall inform the parties of their right that the procedure can be performed through mediation.

Q255 (General Comment): Family law provides that upon being served the action for annulment or divorce of marriage, the court shall schedule a hearing for conciliation/settlement, which is held only before a sole judge. The judge is under the obligation to recommend the spouses to undergo psycho-social counselling and will at the proposal of the spouses or with their consent entrust mediation to the competent guardianship authority, marriage or family counselling service, or other institution specialised in mediation in family relations (Article 232). The Law on Social Protection ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia" No.24/2011) also provides mediation as a community based social service falling in the counselling-therapeutic and social-educational group of services, also irrespective of court proceedings (in Centers for Social Work of local municipalities). The procedural legal framework has been adopted in order to allow for certain elements of mediation in penal matters. Namely, pursuant to Article 505 of the Criminal Procedure Code ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 72/2011, 101/2011, 121/2012, 32/2013, 45/2013 i 55/2014), before scheduling a trial in connection with criminal offences which are prosecutable by private prosecution, the judge shall summon the private prosecutor and the defendant to the court on a certain date to be informed about the possibility of being referred to a mediation procedure. The Criminal Code ("Official Gazette of RS", Nos. 85/2005, 88/2005, 107/2005, 72/2009, 111/2009, 121/2012, 104/2013, 108/2014 i 94/2016)) also provides a possibility of settlement between the offender and the victim (Article 59). Namely, the court may remit from punishment the perpetrator of a criminal offence punishable by up to three years' imprisonment or a fine if the offender has fulfilled all his/her obligations from an agreement reached with the victim. Therefore, according to previously mentioned provisions, in these matters the only eligible public authority is the court (which can be explained by the very nature of the proceedings). The Law on Consumer Protection ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 62/2014, 6/2016 and 44/2018) provides two manners of out-court settlement of consumer disputes: mediation (in accordance with the law that regulates mediation in Serbia) and arbitration. Parties in the consumer dispute may assign the resolution of the consumer dispute to one or more mediators chosen from the list of mediators, in accordance with the Law on Mediation.

Q255 (2021): Nota bene: In criminal cases with mediation only refers to property claims and claims for damages.

Q255 (2020): Registered mediators, including judges. Such mediators may be private mediators (lawyers, etc) or employees of the Centers for Social work of local municipalities, etc.

Q256 (General Comment): In order to promote mediation, mediators have since 2016 provided mediation services in courts pro bono. Likewise, a judge cannot charge fees for conducting mediation.

The Law on Mediation in Dispute Resolution provides for certain monetary incentives in case of reaching an agreement to resolve the dispute through mediation after the judicial or other proceedings have been initiated and before the conclusion of the first hearing for the main trial, such as that the parties may be exempt from court or administrative fees, in accordance with the law which regulates court and administrative fees (Article 31). The Parliament has enacted the Law on Amendments and Supplements to the Law on Court Fees ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 95/2018), which further encourages parties to resolve their disputes by amicable means, through mediation, negotiated settlement, court settlement or any other amicable way. These amendments, which are applicable from 1 January 2019, postpone the collection of court fees in order to leave the parties the opportunity to once again consider the amicable resolution of the dispute, once the court proceedings have been initiated. Through these provisions, the state offers financial incentives to the parties to consider other viable dispute resolution options early in the court proceedings by exempting them from paying all relevant court fees if they achieve a settlement by the time of the first hearing. Regarding general exemption from court fees please see comment to Q17.

Under the Free Legal Aid Law (2018) applicable from 2019, expenses of mediators, lawyers, etc. are a form of secondary legal aid and may be financed from the budget of the Republic of Serbia, pursuant to the provisions of the FLA Law.

Q256 (2021): Free legal aid is given by 57 registered mediators

Q257 (2020): The number of mediators in the Republic of Serbia is significantly large due to the increased interest of citizens in performing the work of mediators, which is probably due to the documents adopted by the Republic of Serbia to improve the application of mediation in Serbia.

Q257-1 (General Comment): The conditions stipulated by the law for the performance of mediation activities are: legal capacity, citizenship of the Republic of Serbia, completed basic training, higher education, that the person has not been sentenced to an unconditional prison sentence for a criminal offense that makes him unfit to perform mediation activities, possession of a mediation license and enrollment in the Register of Mediators. The request is submitted to the Ministry of Justice, which issues licenses for mediation to persons who meet the conditions and registers them in the Registry of Mediators.

Q258 (2023): The number of commercial, consumer and other cases has significantly increased compared to the previous cycle due to the fact that the Body for out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes was established at the Ministry of Trade, Tourism and Telecommunications. During the establishment of the Body, most of the mediators who were registered in the Register of mediators in the resolution of disputes, which is maintained by the Ministry of Justice, were also registered in the List of bodies for out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes compiled and publicly published by the Ministry of Trade, Tourism and Telecommunications, thereby increasing the number of completed mediations related to commercial and consumer disputes.

Q258 (2021): Annual report submitted by mediators to the Ministry of Justice

Q258 (2020): 498-these 6 categories are not all categories in which mediation proceedings were conducted, and therefore the total number of cases in which the parties agreed to initiate mediation proceedings is slightly higher 498 including other types of disputes that are not included in these 6 listed in the report.

Q259 (General Comment): Various alternative dispute resolution methods stand at parties' disposal within the legal framework of Serbia, including mediation (judicial and non-judicial), conciliation and arbitration. To date, however, they are all underutilized. Nonetheless, in the last two years, a steady increase of mediation proceedings has been noted, followed by a strong support of mediation by the Ministry of Justice and Supreme Court of Cassation, and positive activities are noted in the field of arbitration, with the establishment of a new independent arbitration centre. Still, coordinated, joint, continued multi-annual efforts must be made to establish a viable and sustainable alternative dispute resolution system.

Having the above in mind, a strategic approach to improving the use of mediation has been initiated in August 2018, whereby the Ministry of Justice, recognising that increasing and improving mediation culture and mechanisms is not a task to be dealt with only by the judiciary and its respective Ministry, is addressing other line ministries and institutions, such as the National Bank of Serbia, Ministry of Trade and Ministry of Labour, so as to seek to together find best ways to improve the use and quality of mediation in the fields of their respective competences, and in that way, jointly to successfully answer to the benchmark given in that respect within Chapter 23.

Q259 (2020): The Minister of Justice has established a Working Group for drafting of amendments to the Law on Mediation in Dispute Resolution on 19 December 2018 with the task of drafting A new legal framework which should strike a balance between the need to regulate, on the one hand, and the need to preserve a sufficient level of party autonomy and procedural flexibility, on the other. The working group has in 2019 worked on the further improvement of all relevant provisions of the law, especially taking care that changes to the legal framework encompass:

- 1) Transparency and clarity of the content of the mediation law in relation to how mediation is started, the mediation procedure itself, standards and qualifications for mediators, mediation centers and mediation training providers, as well as rights and obligations of participants in the mediation process;
- 2) Specifying the position of judges in the mediation procedure;
- 3) Enforceability of clauses on settling disputes through mediation;
- 4) The principle of confidentiality;
- 5) The enforceability of agreements reached in mediation and agreements reached in international mediation; and
- 6) The impact of mediation on the course of a lawsuit, including the possibility of prescribing the first obligatory meeting as a procedural precondition for initiating litigation in certain types of cases, as well as other ways in which the objective of Directive 2008/52/EC may be achieved.

The working group is guided by mediation standards provided in relevant acts of the United Nations, the European Union and the Council of Europe, as well as by the need for adapting standards and best practices to local possibilities and needs.

Q252 (General Comment): The mediation procedure can be initiated by the parties, court, prosecution office or a competent administrative body. If the case is before the court, prosecution office or in the competent administrative body and the parties agree to undergo mediation, the respective body informs and instructs parties to the mediation procedure.

The procedure for referral of cases by the court is regulated by a sub legal act of the Kosovo Judicial Council, procedure for referral of cases by the prosecution is regulated by a sub legal act of the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council, and the self-initiated procedure of cases, as well as cases of referral by the administrative body are regulated by a sub legal act of the Ministry of Justice. (General Comment): The civil and criminal procedure codes foresee court-related mediation procedures.

Civil proceedings:

At the preparatory hearing at the latest, the court conducting the civil proceedings may, if it finds it appropriate with regard to the nature of the dispute and the circumstances, propose to the parties the resolution of the dispute through mediation proceedings, as prescribed by a separate law. The parties may jointly put forward such proposal until the conclusion of the main hearing.

Criminal proceedings:

The court may propose mediation through the mediator to the injured party and the accused or to the defense attorney in accordance with law, if the court considers that the claim under property law is such that it would be purposeful to refer it to the mediation. Injured party, accused and the defense attorney may propose referral to the mediation until the closing of the main trial. In les complex juvenile cases involving issuing educational recommendations (i. e. an apology to the injured party or compensation of damages to the injured party) a prosecutor or a judge may suggest the mediation between the offender and the injured party.

("Official Gazette of RS", no. 72/2011, 49/2013 - US decision, 74/2013 - US decision, 55/2014, 87/2018, 18/2020 and 10/2023 - other laws) provides that the court shall direct the parties to mediation or to an informative hearing for mediation, or to instruct the parties of the option of pre-trial settlement of dispute by mediation or through another amicable manner while Art. 305 Para. 3 provides that the court shall inform the parties of their right that the procedure can be conducted by means of mediation. Article 340 of the Law on Civil Procedure provides that the court shall stay the proceedings and refer the parties to mediation procedure when provided for by a special law, or when parties propose that the dispute be resolved through mediation. The mediation procedure is to be implemented in accordance with a special law. If the parties do not resolve the dispute through mediation, the court will schedule a hearing for the trial upon the expiry of 30 days from the day when a party informs the court that it has withdrawn from the mediation (Article 341). In accordance with Article 9 Paragraph 2 of the Law on Mediation in Dispute Resolution ("Official Gazette of RS" no. 55/2014), the court is obliged to provide all necessary information to the parties in the dispute about the possibilities of mediation, which can also be done by referring the parties to the mediator.

Having in mind the existing legal framework as well as the applicable best practice for the development of court-annexed / court-connected mediation, the Supreme Court of Cassation, the High Judicial Council and the Ministry of Justice jointly issued the Guidelines for the Improvement of Mediation in the Republic of Serbia on 28 June 2017, <https://www.mpravde.gov.rs/tekst/16729/uputstvo-za-unapredjenje-medijacije-u-republici-srbiji-po-zakonu-o-posredovanju-u-resavanju-sporova.php>. The Guidelines provide that the courts should, in the early phases of proceedings, resolve disputes by referring the parties to mediation or by encouraging them to reach a court settlement, to alleviate the burden on the court and allow for more efficient procedure in other cases where amicable resolution is not possible. They provide that Info-Services should be established for the Support of Alternative Dispute Resolution Methods within all basic, higher and commercial courts as well as mediation Info-Desks and active cooperation with external partners of the court, i.e. providers of mediation services should be encouraged based on signed protocols of cooperation. Likewise, in order to promote court-related mediation, it is provided that Mediation Weeks should be organised around the 25 October, i.e. marking the European Day of Justice.

The basic procedural framework for court-related mediation also encompasses the Criminal Procedure Code ("Official Gazette of RS", no 72/2011 and 101/2011), and the Law on Civil Procedure ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 72/2011, 49/2013 - Decision of Constitutional Court, 74/2013 - Decision of the CC and 55/2014). Other laws, such as the Law on Juvenile Crime Offenders and Criminal Protection of Juveniles ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 85/2005), Law on Prohibition of Discrimination ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 22/2009), Law on Bankruptcy Procedure ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 104/2009, 99/2011 – other law, 71/2012 – Decision of CC and 83/2014), Law on Prevention of Harassment at Work ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 36/2010), Law on the Protection of Whistle Blowers ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 128/2014), etc. also contain specific provisions on mediation.

Judges can only perform mediation outside of working hours and free of charge.

A judge who acts in the case concerning the disputed relationship cannot be a mediator. However, such a judge can assist the parties to reach an amicable solution in civil procedure through judicial settlement.

Due to justified reasons, the deadline for the completion of the mediation process can be extended to a maximum of 30 days from the date of determination or choice of the mediator. Also, a mandatory attempt at peaceful dispute resolution before initiating civil proceedings is prescribed in some Serbian laws (but not mediation per se). The Law on Compulsory Traffic Insurance ("Official Gazette RS", no. 51/2009, 78/2011, 101/2011, 93/2012 and 7/2013 – CC decision) provides that a person entitled to a claim under third party motor liability insurance must file the claim directly to the insurance company - if the contract provides for this possibility and if this is in accordance with the business policy of the insurance company. In case the insurance company fails to submit a reasoned offer of compensation for damages within 90 days from the date of claim receipt, or in case the insurance company fails to pay the small claim within the deadline, the claimant may file a lawsuit against the company and notify the National Bank of Serbia of such proceedings. Therefore, in this specific situation, the lawsuit is considered to be filed prematurely, unless the claimant previously addresses the insurance company in an attempt at out-of-court settlement.

Further, under the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code a person who intends to file a lawsuit for compensation for unlawful deprivation of liberty, or wrongful conviction, before the filing of the complaint, shall submit a request to the Ministry of Justice in order to agree on the existence of damage, the type and amount of compensation (Article 588, Paragraph 1 of the CPC). A Commission shall decide on the request, whose composition and method of work is regulated by the Minister of Justice (Article 588, Paragraph 2 of the CPC). A member of the Commission is also a Deputy SA. If the request is not granted or the Commission does not decide on the request within three months, a lawsuit may be filed against the Republic of Serbia (Article 589, Paragraph 1 of the CPC). If agreement is reached partially, related to the claim, the lawsuit may request the remaining part (Article 589, paragraph 2 of the CPC). During the duration of the procedure for reaching agreement, the statute of limitation is not running for the right to compensation under Article 591 (Article 589, paragraph 3 of the CPA). The work and results of these commissions show that the way settlement procedure is devised should be fundamentally revised.

(2021): Exceptions when mediation is mandatory - Please see the general comments section:

If the responsible person in the legal entity is not charged with abuse, ie the employer with the status of a natural person, the employee who considers that he is exposed to abuse submits a reasoned request to initiate proceedings for protection against abuse directly to that person. There is a certain obligation in consumer disputes. There is an obligation for the trader in consumer disputes if the consumer initiates an out-of-court dispute resolution procedure which is by its nature mediation (Article 151 of the Law on Consumer Protection). Initiation and conduct of out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes does not exclude or affect the right to judicial protection, in accordance with the law.- Article 168 (General Comment): Family law provides that upon being served the action for annulment or divorce of marriage, the court shall schedule a hearing for conciliation/settlement, which is held only before a sole judge. The judge is under the obligation to recommend the spouses to undergo psycho-social counselling and will at the proposal of the spouses or with their consent entrust mediation to the competent guardianship authority, marriage or family counselling service, or other institution specialised in mediation in family relations (Article 232). The Law on Social Protection ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia" No.24/2011) also provides mediation as a community based social service falling in the counselling-therapeutic and social-educational group of services, also irrespective of court proceedings (in Centers for Social Work of local municipalities). The procedural legal framework has been adopted in order to allow for certain elements of mediation in penal matters. Namely, pursuant to Article 505 of the Criminal Procedure Code ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 72/2011, 101/2011, 121/2012, 32/2013, 45/2013 i 55/2014), before scheduling a trial in connection with criminal offences which are prosecutable by private prosecution, the judge shall summon the private prosecutor and the defendant to the court on a certain date to be informed about the possibility of being referred to a mediation procedure. The Criminal Code ("Official Gazette of RS", Nos. 85/2005, 88/2005, 107/2005, 72/2009, 111/2009, 121/2012, 104/2013, 108/2014 i 94/2016)) also provides a possibility of settlement between the offender and the victim (Article 59). Namely, the court may remit from punishment the perpetrator of a criminal offence punishable by up to three years' imprisonment or a fine if the offender has fulfilled all his/her obligations from an agreement reached with the victim. Therefore, according to previously mentioned provisions, in these matters the only eligible public authority is the court (which can be explained by the very nature of the proceedings). The Law on Consumer Protection ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 62/2014, 6/2016 and 44/2018) provides two manners of out-court settlement of consumer disputes: mediation (in accordance with the law that regulates mediation in Serbia) and arbitration. Parties in the consumer dispute may assign the resolution of the consumer dispute to one or more mediators chosen from the list of mediators, in accordance with the Law on Mediation.

Serbia

(General Comment): In order to promote mediation, mediators have since 2016 provided mediation services in courts pro bono. Likewise, a judge cannot charge fees for conducting mediation. The Law on Mediation in Dispute Resolution provides for certain monetary incentives in case of reaching an agreement to resolve the dispute through mediation after the judicial or other proceedings have been initiated and before the conclusion of the first hearing for the main trial, such as that the parties may be exempt from court or administrative fees, in accordance with the law which regulates court and administrative fees (Article 31). The Parliament has enacted the Law on Amendments and Supplements to the Law on Court Fees ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 95/2018), which further encourages parties to resolve their disputes by amicable means, through mediation, negotiated settlement, court settlement or any other amicable way. These amendments, which are applicable from 1 January 2019, postpone the collection of court fees in order to leave the parties the opportunity to once again consider the amicable resolution of the dispute, once the court proceedings have been initiated. Through these provisions, the state offers financial incentives to the parties to consider other viable dispute resolution options early in the court proceedings by exempting them from paying all relevant court fees if they achieve a settlement by the time of the first hearing. Regarding general exemption from court fees please see comment to Q17.

(2021): Regarding the increase in the number of mediations civil and commercial cases we have to say that this was mainly caused by the new solutions foreseen in the Law on ADR and the Law on Civil Procedure. When it comes to the labour cases, decrease happened due to the fact that in 2020 there was a great number of cases, on the same basis, related to the same Responding party. In general, statistics does not depend only on the interests of the parties and legal solutions, but also on the fact that some types of disputes appear and are characteristic for a reporting year, and do not appear in the next year.

(2021): From 2020 the Ministry of Justice maintains a Register of mediation proceedings, in which the mediators are obliged to record the mediations. The number of court related mediations (in 2021) is from the Register (on March 3, 2022). Still, there is possibility this data to be changed as the mediators fulfill the Register.

Mediation is allowed in criminal cases if its application is not excluded by a special law.

The electronic register in which the mediators themselves enter the data is one of the key factors that led to the stimulation of the mediators to record all the procedures that were given to them to act. As of December 31, 2021, they were given the opportunity to import all old cases from 2016 to 2021 in order to gain a realistic picture of the number of mediations they had at work. At the same time, the determination of the Government determined by the Conclusion of 2019 and the Memorandum of Cooperation with the Chamber of Mediators to try to resolve its disputes through mediation gave a great impetus. Procedures for mediation in labor disputes with ministries, public enterprises and other institutions are widespread.

(2020): Between 2019 and 2020, there was an increase of court related mediations for labour cases. Most of these procedures are mediations between administrative servants and the state institutions related to the employment rights.

(General Comment): Various alternative dispute resolution methods stand at parties' disposal within the legal framework of Serbia, including mediation (judicial and non-judicial), conciliation and arbitration. To date, however, they are all underutilized. Nonetheless, in the last two years, a steady increase of mediation proceedings has been noted, followed by a strong support of mediation by the Ministry of Justice and Supreme Court of Cassation, and positive activities are noted in the field of arbitration, with the establishment of a new independent arbitration centre. Still, coordinated, joint, continued multi-annual efforts must be made to establish a viable and sustainable alternative dispute resolution system.

Having the above in mind, a strategic approach to improving the use of mediation has been initiated in August 2018, whereby the Ministry of Justice, recognising that increasing and improving mediation culture and mechanisms is not a task to be dealt with only by the judiciary and its respective Ministry, is addressing other line ministries and institutions, such as the National Bank of Serbia, Ministry of Trade and Ministry of Labour, so as to seek to together find best ways to improve the use and quality of mediation in the fields of their respective competences, and in that way, jointly to successfully answer to the benchmark given in that respect within Chapter 23.

(2020): The Minister of Justice has established a Working Group for drafting of amendments to the Law on Mediation in Dispute Resolution on 19 December 2018 with the task of drafting A new legal framework which should strike a balance between the need to regulate, on the one hand, and the need to preserve a sufficient level of party autonomy and procedural flexibility, on the other. The working group has in 2019 worked on the further improvement of all relevant provisions of the law, especially taking care that changes to the legal framework encompass:

- 1) Transparency and clarity of the content of the mediation law in relation to how mediation is started, the mediation procedure itself, standards and qualifications for mediators, mediation centers and mediation training providers, as well as rights and obligations of participants in the mediation process;
- 2) Specifying the position of judges in the mediation procedure;
- 3) Enforceability of clauses on settling disputes through mediation;
- 4) The principle of confidentiality;
- 5) The enforceability of agreements reached in mediation and agreements reached in international mediation; and
- 6) The impact of mediation on the course of a lawsuit, including the possibility of prescribing the first obligatory meeting as a procedural precondition for initiating litigation in certain types of cases, as well as other ways in which the objective of Directive 2008/52/EC may be achieved.

The working group is guided by mediation standards provided in relevant acts of the United Nations, the European Union and the Council of Europe, as well as by the need for adapting standards and best practices to local possibilities and needs.

Question 260. Is there in your country a monitoring system for violations related to Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights?

Question 261. Is there in your country a possibility to review/reopen a case after a finding of a violation of the European Convention on Human Rights by the European Court of Human Rights?

article 6 specifically: "Just satisfaction" 1. Just satisfaction for violation of reasonable time limits shall be deemed the recognition of violation, any measures taken to expedite the proceedings of investigation, trial of the case and execution of the decision, and/or compensation of the damage, according to the provisions of this Chapter. 2. Anyone who is involved in a legal process, as a party in the process, has the right to just satisfaction as determined by Article 399/3 of this Code. For civil procedures (timeframe) The timeframe of Civil procedures are prescribed at the code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/2/b "Reasonable timing" –"b) The completion of a process in a civil trial at first instance within two years, in a civil trial on appeal within two years; and in a civil trial at the High Court within two years." For criminal procedures (timeframe) The timeframe of criminal procedures are prescribed at the Code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/2/d "Reasonable timing" – "d) In criminal trials at first instance, the time limit for adjudication of crimes shall be 2 years and for misdemeanors 1 year, the time limit of completion of a trial on appeal shall be 1 year for crimes and 6 months for misdemeanors, and the time limit of completion of a trial at the High Court shall be 1 year for crimes and 6 months for misdemeanors."

The final judgments of the European Court of Human Rights (herein after ECHR), in every case where Albania is a party are binding and are enforced following the procedures provided by Law No. 10018 "On the State Advocature", Chapter V/I "On the execution of Judgments and Decisions of the European Court of Human Rights".

The State Advocature, in the quality of the representative and defender of the interests of the state at the ECHR, is the competent institution for the initiation of the procedures for the execution of the ECHR judgments and decisions.

Upon receiving notice on the final judgment, the State Advocature, within 10 working days, forwards the judgment for translation and certification to the Ministry of Justice. A copy of the original judgment and a translated and certified copy by the Ministry of Justice are sent to the Constitutional Court, Supreme Court and other institutions, for the effect of a unified application of the judicial practice. By informing the aforementioned institutions, the ECHR's decision/judgment, reasoning and found violations become known with a view to unifying practices and preventing similar cases in the future.

The State Advocature is responsible for the coordination of the execution process, drafting of action plans (individual and general measures) and reports, representation in front of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe, and the monitoring of the execution of the ECHR decisions/judgments by the national authorities. Also, the State Advocature has the right to suggest general preventive measures with regard to the necessary changes in legislation or practices that may cause a financial damage to the state as a result of the violation of the European Convention on Human Rights.

The State Advocate General, in the quality of the government agent, reports at least once a year to the Standing Committee on Legal Affairs, Public Administration and Human Rights of the Assembly of the Republic of Albania on the execution of the European Court of Human Rights' judgments and the measures undertaken in this regard. Law amendments in function of domestic effective remedy:

-Referring to Article 6 of the European Convention, we would like to emphasize the amendments to the Civil Procedure Code in 2017, where it is added Chapter X by Law no. 38/2017, dated 30.03.2017 "Judgments on requests for ascertaining violations of reasonable time, expedition of proceedings and compensation for damage", in order to prevent the violation of reasonable timeframe.

-Regarding to decisions subject to review, Criminal Procedure Code is also amended by Law no. 35/2017, dated 30.03.2017, Article 450 "Revision cases...d) if the ground for the revision of the final decision results from a European Court of Human Rights judgment making the re-adjudication of the case indispensable. The request shall be filed within 6 months from the notification of that decision..."

Q260 (2023): Even though Albania has not a monitoring system for violations of Article 6 of the Convention, it has domestic mechanisms at the national level, which aims to accelerate court proceedings and allow reopening of cases, in which violations of Article 6 of the ECHR of was found. Since November 2017, a new acceleratory and compensatory remedy for excessive length of judicial proceedings has been functioning in Albania. The requests for acceleration or claims for compensation are filed with the ordinary courts or the Constitutional Court, depending on the jurisdiction. The claim for compensation may be lodged after the finding of a breach of the “reasonable time” requirement at one level of jurisdiction. Where there is a finding of a breach, the requesting party may file a claim for compensation with the first-instance court, which examines it within three months.

In addition, the State Advocate Office in the framework of the execution of the “Luli and others v. Albania” group of cases that concern the excessive length of proceedings before civil courts and administrative bodies report periodically to the Committee of Ministers of the CoE, for the length of proceedings and other general measures to prevent further violations of article 6. In this regard, the State Advocate periodically collects statistical data on the length of court proceedings from all the domestic courts, and by the High Judicial Council and Supreme Court which provide comprehensive analysis of the statistical data produced by the domestic courts. Recently a working group has been established in 2022 for drafting a strategy for reducing the number of backlog cases in domestic courts, where the collection and analysis of the statistical data on the length of proceedings is one of the focus areas.

Furthermore, aiming at general prevention of violations of article 6 of the Convention, all the judgments/decisions of the ECtHR finding a violation are disseminated to judicial and respective authorities and included in the training curricula of magistrates or other relevant authorities.

Q260 (2021): For civil procedures (non-enforcement) The code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/3 has created a monitoring system as a remedy in case of violation of article 6 specifically: “Just satisfaction” 1. Just satisfaction for violation of reasonable time limits shall be deemed the recognition of violation, any measures taken to expedite the proceedings of investigation, trial of the case and execution of the decision, and/or compensation of the damage, according to the provisions of this Chapter. 2. Anyone who is involved in a legal process, as a party in the process, has the right to just satisfaction as determined by Article 399/3 of this Code.

For civil procedures (timeframe) The timeframe of Civil procedures are prescribed at the code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/2/b “Reasonable timing” –“b) The completion of a process in a civil trial at first instance within two years, in a civil trial on appeal within two years; and in a civil trial at the High Court within two years.”

For criminal procedures (timeframe) The timeframe of criminal procedures are prescribed at the Code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/2/d “Reasonable timing” – “d) In criminal trials at first instance, the time limit for adjudication of crimes shall be 2 years and for misdemeanors 1 year, the time limit of completion of a trial on appeal shall be 1 year for crimes and 6 months for misdemeanors, and the time limit of completion of a trial at the High Court shall be 1 year for crimes and 6 months for misdemeanors.”

Q261 (2023): According to article 450.1/d of the Criminal Procedural Code and article 494.ë of the Civil Procedural Code of the Republic of Albania it is possible to reopen a criminal, civil or administrative case after the European Court of Human Rights has found a violation of the ECHR Convention.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

Human Rights). It is also within the scope of work of the Agent to coordinate and monitor implementation of the ECHR's decisions regarding BiH and to report on this issue to the Council of Ministers of BiH and the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe. If violation of the Convention is established by the final decision of the ECHR, the Agent will take all actions necessary to ensure its implementation, from translating and distributing such decision to responsible domestic authorities, to conducting intensive and continuous cooperation with them, as well as with the Department for the Execution of Judgments of the ECHR. Furthermore, if Agent finds that domestic law, applicable in the case submitted to the ECHR, is not in line with European Convention, Agent will initiate, through competent authorities, procedure to amend and harmonize respective regulation. Agent has a deputy and an office (Office of the Agent of the Council of Ministers before the European Court of Human Rights). Office of the Agent is tasked to follow domestic and international regulation relevant for the protection of the human rights, and to follow and analyze the practice of the ECHR. Specific institutional safe-guard for the rights and freedoms protected by the Constitution of BiH and European Convention (including rights provided in article 6), derives from appellate jurisdiction of the Constitutional Court of BiH. Based on Article VI of the Constitution, Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina inter alia has appellate jurisdiction over issues under the Constitution arising out of a judgment of any other court in the country. Under terms provided by its Rules, the Constitutional Court may decide on the appeal even when there is no decision of a competent court if the appeal indicates a grave violation of the rights and fundamental freedoms safeguarded by the Constitution or by the international documents applied in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Appellants, who believe that the judgment or other decision of any court is in violation of their rights, shall have the right to file an appeal after all legal remedies have been exhausted while the Court shall also consider the effectiveness of possible legal remedies. If the Constitutional Court finds an appeal well-founded, it may decide on the merits or it may quash the challenged decision and refer the case back to the court that adopted the judgment for renewed proceedings. The court whose decision has been quashed is obligated to take another decision in expedient proceedings and, in doing so, it shall be bound by the legal opinion of the Constitutional Court concerning the violation of the appellant's rights and the fundamental freedoms guaranteed under the Constitution. If the Constitutional Court finds that violation of human rights is caused by systematic flaws in functioning or organization of the public authorities or by inadequate regulations, it may, in a decision granting an appeal, instruct competent institutions to implement measures aiming to eliminate causes that led to such violation. As for the violations of human rights from Article 6 of the European Convention due to the domestic judgements not being enforced, it is important to emphasise that besides the above monitoring system, after the European Court for Human Rights rendered a decision in the case of Kunic and Others vs. BiH, application no. 68955/12 and 15 others (judgement of 14 November 2017) in which it was determined that failure to enforce domestic judgements is a systemic problem, a number of activities were taken to remove those violations and prevent future ones on the same grounds. The Government of the Federation of BiH and governments of the Zenica Dobojo, Central Bosnia, Herzegovina-Neretva, Una-Sana cantons and Canton Sarajevo adopted the action plans defining the number of non-enforced domestic judgements that were rendered against them, determined the overall debt from those judgements and adopted the payment plan to the creditors. Within the Action Plan on the enforcement of the judgements from the group of cases Kunic and Others, an office of representatives has been informing the Department for the Execution of Judgements of the European Court about their enforcement on a regular basis. In order to prevent the European Court in rendering judgements based on Article 6 of the European Convention for excessive time of the court proceedings, domestic laws on reasonable trial time have been passed. The Law on Protection of the Right to Trial Within Reasonable Time before the Court of BiH was adopted in June 2022. It was published in the Official Gazette of BiH no: 40/22 of 21 June 2022 and became effective on the eight day of the publication in the Official Gazette of BiH. The Law on Protection of the Right to Trial Within Reasonable Time of Republika Srpska was adopted in 2020. It was published in the Official Gazette of the Republika Srpska, no. 99/20 of 13 October 2020 and became effective on 1 January 2023. The Law on Trial Within Reasonable Time of the Brcko District was adopted in 2021. It was published in the Official Gazette of the Brcko District, no. 2/21 of 26 February 2021. In 2021, the House of Representatives of the Federation of BiH adopted the draft Law on Trial Within Reasonable Time of the Federation of BiH. It is

Q261 (General Comment): If the verdict of the European Court establishes a violation of the right to a fair trial that is of a nature that can only be resolved by reopening the criminal proceedings, the national court that violated such right in criminal proceedings, as stipulated with the Convention, shall reopen the criminal proceedings. The criminal procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina explicitly prescribe that criminal proceedings may be reopened in favour of the accused if the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina or the European Court of Human Rights establish that human rights and fundamental freedoms were violated during the proceedings or that the verdict was based on these violations. The Rules of the Constitutional Court, prescribe that, exceptionally, if the European Court of Human Rights finds that human rights concerning access to a court have been violated in proceedings before the Constitutional Court and if the decision of the Constitutional Court is based on such a violation, the Constitutional Court shall renew proceedings not later than three months from the finality of the judgment of the European Court of Human Rights. Based on the verdict of the European Court of Human Rights in the case Avdic and Others vs Bosnia and Herzegovina, ap. no. 28357/11, which established a violation to Mr Avdic's right to a fair trial in proceedings before the Constitutional Court of BiH, proceedings were reopened before the same court in order to address the violation of the applicants rights, as identified. At the same time, a Decision was also rendered on amendments to the Rules of the Constitutional Court in order to avoid future human rights violations on such grounds as in the Avdic case. Based on the verdict of the European Court in the case Maktouf & Damjanovic vs Bosnia and Herzegovina, ap. no. 2312/08 & 3478/09, that established a violation of the rights from Article 7 of the Convention of the applicants in criminal proceedings against them before the Court of BiH, proceedings were reopened before the said court both, in their favour, as well as in favour of all persons convicted with finality and who were in the same/similar situation. Subsequent to the verdict of the European Court in the case Muslija Adnan vs Bosnia and Herzegovina, app. no. 32042/14, establishing a violation of the rights of the applicant pursuant to Article 4 of Protocol no. 7 to the Convention, criminal proceedings were reopened in favour of the convicted person – applicant Mr Muslija. Also, the civil procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina have been amended enabling the parties to civil proceedings to request from the first instance court to reopen their case, if the European Court of Human Rights makes a decision that the court in Bosnia and Herzegovina in its judgment had made an infringement of one's human rights, or basic freedoms. The party to the civil proceeding may request from the first instance court to reopen the proceeding within 90 days from the day of the final judgment of the European Court of Human Rights.

Q260 (2021): The Law on the Protection of the Right to Trial Within a Reasonable Time provides mechanisms for the protection of this right. The parties may file a request for control to the President of the court before which the proceeding is being active, i.e. an action for fair redress shall be brought before the Supreme Court. Statistical data on these cases and duration of any other case can be obtained through the Judicial Information System (PRIS).

Q261 (2021): The Law on Civil Procedure defines that when the European Court of Human Rights establishes violation of human rights and fundamental freedoms guaranteed by the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, the party may, within three months from the final judgment of the European Court of Human Rights, submit request to the court which judged in the first instance in the case where a decision that violates human rights and fundamental freedom was made, to change the decision by which that right or fundamental freedom has been violated, if committed violation cannot be removed in any other way except by reopening of procedure.

In the reopening of procedure, the court is bound by the legal views expressed in the final judgment of the European Court of Human Rights by which is established violation of basic human right or freedom. Also, the Criminal Procedure Code defines the possibility that the criminal procedure finalized by a final verdict is repeated in favour of the accused person, if by the decision of the European Court of Human Rights or another court established by a ratified international treaty it was found that human rights and fundamental freedoms have been violated in the course of the criminal proceeding and that the judgment is based on such violation, provided that the reopening of the proceedings can remedy such violation.

Also, the Law on Administrative Dispute defines as one of the reasons for the repeating the proceeding finalized by final decision – contrast of the verdict of the Administrative court from the verdict of the European Court of Human Rights in the same matter. Proceeding is repeated upon the request of the party.

Q260 (General Comment): The Inter-Departmental Commission for Execution of Judgments and Decisions of the European Court of Human Rights (hereinafter: the Inter-Departmental Commission) , which was set up pursuant to the provisions of the Law on Execution of Judgments and Decisions of the European Court of Human Rights of 2009, as amended in 2014, presents an institutional monitoring mechanism. It is composed of representatives of the Ministry of Justice, the Ministry of the Interior, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Ministry of Finance; the President of the State Judicial Council; the President of the Supreme Court; the President of the Constitutional Court; the Presidents of the Appeal Courts in Skopje, Bitola, Gostivar and Štip; the President of the Higher Administrative Court; the Council of Public Prosecutors; the State Public Prosecutor and the Government Agent before the European Court of Human Rights. Its representatives held at least four sessions per year in order to analyse and discuss the comprehensive information gathered from all respective institutions, with a view to ensuring effective monitoring of the process of execution of the Court's judgments handed down in respect of the State.

The Inter-Departmental Commission constitutes an inter-institutional group of experts in charge of examining specific issues raised by the judgments of the Court given in respect of the State, identifying possible execution measures and monitoring their implementation. Additionally, the Inter-Departmental Commission may perform tasks which are tantamount to implementation of internal statutory and institutional systems to remedy the established violations of the European Convention on Human Rights, in particular as regards the violations found in respect of the right to a fair trial (Article 6 ECHR), as well as implementation of internal systems to prevent other similar violations in future. In this connection, Section 11 paragraph 6 of the Law provides that the Inter-Departmental Commission is competent to monitor the implementation of the existing system for execution of judgments of the European Court of Human Rights and it is also tasked with recommending measures for its improvement.

With respect to the violations of the right to hearing within reasonable time in civil and criminal procedures and the non-enforcement of final judgments rendered by the Court in civil procedures, the Inter-Departmental Commission is also in charge of monitoring the implementation of the length remedy which was introduced as an effective remedy which should be exhausted by the applicants before the Supreme Court in order to address the existing violations of the right to hearing within reasonable time and award an adequate remedy to the injured party for the damage sustained (compensatory remedy), but also to prevent further prolongation of the impugned procedures by setting a time-limit within which the ongoing procedures should be terminated (accelerator remedy).

Q260 (2020): The Inter-Departmental Commission for Execution of Judgments and Decisions of the European Court of Human Rights (hereinafter: the Inter-Departmental Commission) , which was set up pursuant to the provisions of the Law on Execution of Judgments and Decisions of the European Court of Human Rights of 2009, as amended in 2014, presents an institutional monitoring mechanism.

It is composed of representatives of the Ministry of Justice, the Ministry of the Interior, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Ministry of Finance; the President of the State Judicial Council; the President of the Supreme Court; the President of the Constitutional Court; the Presidents of the Appeal Courts in Skopje, Bitola, Gostivar and Štip; the President of the Higher Administrative Court; the Council of Public Prosecutors; the State Public Prosecutor and the Government Agent before the European Court of Human Rights. Its representatives held at least four sessions per year in order to analyse and discuss the comprehensive information gathered from all respective institutions, with a view to ensuring effective monitoring of the process of execution of the Court's judgments handed down in respect of the State.

The Inter-Departmental Commission constitutes an inter-institutional group of experts in charge of examining specific issues raised by the judgments of the Court given in respect of the State, identifying possible execution measures and monitoring their implementation. Additionally, the Inter-Departmental Commission may perform tasks which are tantamount to implementation of internal statutory and institutional systems to remedy the established violations of the European Convention on Human Rights, in particular as regards the violations found in respect of the right to a fair trial (Article 6 ECHR), as well as implementation of internal systems to prevent other similar violations in future.

In this connection, Section 11 paragraph 6 of the Law provides that the Inter-Departmental Commission is competent to monitor the implementation of the existing system for execution of judgments of the European Court of Human Rights and it is also tasked with recommending measures for its improvement.

With respect to the violations of the right to hearing within reasonable time in civil and criminal procedures and the non-enforcement of final judgments rendered by the Court in civil procedures, the Inter-Departmental Commission is also in charge of monitoring the implementation of the length remedy which was introduced as an effective remedy which should be exhausted by the applicants before the Supreme Court in order to address the existing violations of the right to hearing within reasonable time and award an adequate remedy to the injured party for the damage sustained (compensatory remedy), but also to prevent further prolongation of the impugned procedures by setting a time-limit within which the ongoing procedures should be terminated (acceleratory remedy).

Q261 (2023): According the Article 449 of the Law on Criminal Procedure, among others, procedure can be repeated If the European Court of Human Rights establishes with a decision that has entered into effect, any violations of the human rights and fundamental freedoms during the procedure.

According to the Article 400 of the Law on Civil procedure, when the European Court on Human rights determines the violation of some human rights or fundamental freedoms stipulated in the European Convention for Protection of the Basic Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and in the additional protocols of the Convention, which the Republic of Macedonia has ratified, the party may within 30 days from the day the judgment of the European Court for Human Rights becomes final, to file a request to the court in the Republic of Macedonia, that decided in the first instance procedure in which the decision was made that violated some human right or fundamental freedoms, to change the decision, with which that right or fundamental freedom is violated.

According to the Article 82 of the Law on Administrative Disputes, one of the grounds for repeating the administrative procedure is if the European Court of Human Rights found a violation of the The European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms or adopted a decision based on a unilateral statement by the state to recognize a violation of The European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms.

Q261 (2022): Please, see the general comment.

Q261 (2020): There are such kind of provisions in procedural laws (Law on Criminal Procedure, Law on Civil Procedure and the Law on Administrative Disputes).

Q260 (General Comment): Office of the Agent of the Republic of Serbia before the European Court of Human Rights (hereinafter: the Court), performs monitoring of violations of the Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights (hereinafter: the Convention) in capacity of authority competent to take care of the execution of judgments and decisions rendered by the Court. Following the delivery of judgments establishing violation of Article 6 of the Convention, the Agents office translate the judgment concerned and publishes it in Official Journal, as well as informs domestic courts or other domestic authorities , which acts or omissions led to the violation of the right about the Court's findings. Having in mind that the Agent's office deals with the process of the execution of the Court's judgments and decision's , it cooperates with domestic authorities in order to prepare and enforce appropriate measures to prevent similar violations in future. Moreover, on the request of the Agent's office, all domestic authorities are expected to provide necessary data in order to be presented before the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe in the form of action plans or action reports. Presented monitoring system is operated by the Agent's office and it is at the State level. There is no separate mechanism in the Republic of Serbia dedicated only to the monitoring of the violations related to Article 6 of the Convention.

Q260 (2023): According to Article 46 of the European Convention on Human Rights, the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe monitors the enforcement of judgments and decisions of the Court issued against all the contracting parties including the Republic of Serbia. Therefore, The Public Attorney's Office is obliged to submit reports on payments of compensation awarded, to the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe. This has been done on a regular basis. Also, numerous Action plans and action reports have been submitted to the Committee of Ministers regarding violations of Article 6 (1) of the ECHR.

Concerning the prevention of similar violations of the part of Article 6, which relates to the trial within a reasonable time, it is exercised by courts of general and special jurisdiction on the requests of the party. The Law on the Protection of the Right to a Trial within a Reasonable Time stipulates that this right is one of the aspects of the right to a fair trial under Article 6 of the ECHR. The right to a trial within a reasonable time is granted to each party to the court proceedings, including the enforcement proceedings, each party under the law governing non-contentious proceedings, and the injured parties in criminal proceedings, the private prosecutor and the injured party as a prosecutor under certain procedural preconditions. Part of the statistical report on the work of the courts also relates to the trial within a reasonable time. Protection of other various aspects of rights under Article 6 ECHR is exercised before the Constitutional Court by lodging a constitutional complaint. Sources are the RS Constitution, the Law on the Constitutional Court, the Law on the Organization of Courts, and the Law on the Protection of the Right to a Trial within a Reasonable Time.

Q261 (General Comment): Civil proceedings - According to the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code one of the reasons for reopening of the proceedings is a violation of the human rights found by the ECtHR. It is provided that “.... If the party is afforded the opportunity to use a judgment of the European Court of Human Rights finding a violation of human rights, which may have had the effect of a more favourable decision“ (Article 426(1) (11)).

The deadline for submission of a motion for reopening is 60 days from the date on which the party was able to use the final decision which is the reason for the reopening of the proceedings (Article 428(1) (4)). Criminal proceedings - The Criminal Procedure Code stipulates that the request for protection of legality may be filed by the Republic Public Prosecutor, the defendant and his defense counsel (Article 483 (1)). The Supreme Court of Cassation shall decide upon this legal remedy.

One of the reasons for submission of a request for the protection of legality is that the human rights and freedoms of the defendant or other participant in the proceedings, guaranteed by the Constitution or the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and additional protocols, have been violated or denied, as found by the Constitutional Court decision or by the Judgment of the European Court of Human Rights. (Article 485 (1) (3)).

A request for a retrial may be filed, inter alia, when the defendant was afforded the opportunity to use a decision of the ECtHR finding a violation of human rights, which may have had the effect of a more favourable decision on the defendant (Article 280 (1) (5)).

Administrative disputes - The Law on Administrative Disputes stipulates as one of the reasons for reopening of the proceedings that the proceedings concluded by a final judgment or decision will be reopened upon the party's action “if the finding from a subsequently rendered decision of the European Court of Human Rights in the same matter may have an impact on the lawfulness of finally concluded judicial proceedings“ (Article 56(1),(7)).

Similarly, by the Law on General Administrative proceedings reopening could be granted if the ECtHR in the same administrative matter found that the rights or freedoms of the applicant were violated (Art. 176, para 1.12).

Question 260. Is there in your country a monitoring system for violations related to Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights?

Question 261. Is there in your country a possibility to review/reopen a case after a finding of a violation of the European Convention on Human Rights by the European Court of Human Rights?

Question 260Albania

specifically: "Just satisfaction" 1. Just satisfaction for violation of reasonable time limits shall be deemed the recognition of violation, any measures taken to expedite the proceedings of investigation, trial of the case and execution of the decision, and/or compensation of the damage, according to the provisions of this Chapter. 2. Anyone who is involved in a legal process, as a party in the process, has the right to just satisfaction as determined by Article 399/3 of this Code. For civil procedures (timeframe) The timeframe of Civil procedures are prescribed at the code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/2/b "Reasonable timing" –"b) The completion of a process in a civil trial at first instance within two years, in a civil trial on appeal within two years; and in a civil trial at the High Court within two years." For criminal procedures (timeframe) The timeframe of criminal procedures are prescribed at the Code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/2/d "Reasonable timing" – "d) In criminal trials at first instance, the time limit for adjudication of crimes shall be 2 years and for misdemeanors 1 year, the time limit of completion of a trial on appeal shall be 1 year for crimes and 6 months for misdemeanors, and the time limit of completion of a trial at the High Court shall be 1 year for crimes and 6 months for misdemeanors."

The final judgments of the European Court of Human Rights (herein after ECHR), in every case where Albania is a party are binding and are enforced following the procedures provided by Law No. 10018 "On the State Advocature", Chapter V/I "On the execution of Judgments and Decisions of the European Court of Human Rights".

The State Advocature, in the quality of the representative and defender of the interests of the state at the ECHR, is the competent institution for the initiation of the procedures for the execution of the ECHR judgments and decisions.

Upon receiving notice on the final judgment, the State Advocature, within 10 working days, forwards the judgment for translation and certification to the Ministry of Justice. A copy of the original judgment and a translated and certified copy by the Ministry of Justice are sent to the Constitutional Court, Supreme Court and other institutions, for the effect of a unified application of the judicial practice. By informing the aforementioned institutions, the ECHR's decision/judgment, reasoning and found violations become known with a view to unifying practices and preventing similar cases in the future.

The State Advocature is responsible for the coordination of the execution process, drafting of action plans (individual and general measures) and reports, representation in front of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe, and the monitoring of the execution of the ECHR decisions/judgments by the national authorities. Also, the State Advocature has the right to suggest general preventive measures with regard to the necessary changes in legislation or practices that may cause a financial damage to the state as a result of the violation of the European Convention on Human Rights.

The State Advocate General, in the quality of the government agent, reports at least once a year to the Standing Committee on Legal Affairs, Public Administration and Human Rights of the Assembly of the Republic of Albania on the execution of the European Court of Human Rights' judgments and the measures undertaken in this regard. Law amendments in function of domestic effective remedy:

-Referring to Article 6 of the European Convention, we would like to emphasize the amendments to the Civil Procedure Code in 2017, where it is added Chapter X by Law no. 38/2017, dated 30.03.2017 "Judgments on requests for ascertaining violations of reasonable time, expedition of proceedings and compensation for damage", in order to prevent the violation of reasonable timeframe.

-Regarding to decisions subject to review, Criminal Procedure Code is also amended by Law no. 35/2017, dated 30.03.2017, Article 450 "Revision cases...d) if the ground for the revision of the final decision results from a European Court of Human Rights judgment making the re-adjudication of the case indispensable. The request shall be filed within 6 months from the notification of that decision..."

(2023): Even though Albania has not a monitoring system for violations of Article 6 of the Convention, it has domestic mechanisms at the national level, which aims to accelerate court proceedings and allow reopening of cases, in which violations of Article 6 of the ECHR of was found. Since November 2017, a new acceleratory and compensatory remedy for excessive length of judicial proceedings has been functioning in Albania. The requests for acceleration or claims for compensation are filed with the ordinary courts or the Constitutional Court, depending on the jurisdiction. The claim for compensation may be lodged after the finding of a breach of the “reasonable time” requirement at one level of jurisdiction. Where there is a finding of a breach, the requesting party may file a claim for compensation with the first-instance court, which examines it within three months.

In addition, the State Advocate Office in the framework of the execution of the “Luli and others v. Albania” group of cases that concern the excessive length of proceedings before civil courts and administrative bodies report periodically to the Committee of Ministers of the CoE, for the length of proceedings and other general measures to prevent further violations of article 6. In this regard, the State Advocate periodically collects statistical data on the length of court proceedings from all the domestic courts, and by the High Judicial Council and Supreme Court which provide comprehensive analysis of the statistical data produced by the domestic courts. Recently a working group has been established in 2022 for drafting a strategy for reducing the number of backlog cases in domestic courts, where the collection and analysis of the statistical data on the length of proceedings is one of the focus areas.

Furthermore, aiming at general prevention of violations of article 6 of the Convention, all the judgments/decisions of the ECtHR finding a violation are disseminated to judicial and respective authorities and included in the training curricula of magistrates or other relevant authorities.

(2021): For civil procedures (non-enforcement) The code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/3 has created a monitoring system as a remedy in case of violation of article 6 specifically: “Just satisfaction” 1. Just satisfaction for violation of reasonable time limits shall be deemed the recognition of violation, any measures taken to expedite the proceedings of investigation, trial of the case and execution of the decision, and/or compensation of the damage, according to the provisions of this Chapter. 2. Anyone who is involved in a legal process, as a party in the process, has the right to just satisfaction as determined by Article 399/3 of this Code.

For civil procedures (timeframe) The timeframe of Civil procedures are prescribed at the code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/2/b “Reasonable timing” –“b) The completion of a process in a civil trial at first instance within two years, in a civil trial on appeal within two years; and in a civil trial at the High Court within two years.”

For criminal procedures (timeframe) The timeframe of criminal procedures are prescribed at the Code of Civil Procedure, specifically in article 399/2/d “Reasonable timing” – “d) In criminal trials at first instance, the time limit for adjudication of crimes shall be 2 years and for misdemeanors 1 year, the time limit of completion of a trial on appeal shall be 1 year for crimes and 6 months for misdemeanors, and the time limit of completion of a trial at the High Court shall be 1 year for crimes and 6 months for misdemeanors.”

Rights). It is also within the scope of work of the Agent to coordinate and monitor implementation of the ECHR's decisions regarding BiH and to report on this issue to the Council of Ministers of BiH and the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe. If violation of the Convention is established by the final decision of the ECHR, the Agent will take all actions necessary to ensure its implementation, from translating and distributing such decision to responsible domestic authorities, to conducting intensive and continuous cooperation with them, as well as with the Department for the Execution of Judgments of the ECHR. Furthermore, if Agent finds that domestic law, applicable in the case submitted to the ECHR, is not in line with European Convention, Agent will initiate, through competent authorities, procedure to amend and harmonize respective regulation. Agent has a deputy and an office (Office of the Agent of the Council of Ministers before the European Court of Human Rights). Office of the Agent is tasked to follow domestic and international regulation relevant for the protection of the human rights, and to follow and analyze the practice of the ECHR. Specific institutional safe-guard for the rights and freedoms protected by the Constitution of BiH and European Convention (including rights provided in article 6), derives from appellate jurisdiction of the Constitutional Court of BiH. Based on Article VI of the Constitution, Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina inter alia has appellate jurisdiction over issues under the Constitution arising out of a judgment of any other court in the country. Under terms provided by its Rules, the Constitutional Court may decide on the appeal even when there is no decision of a competent court if the appeal indicates a grave violation of the rights and fundamental freedoms safeguarded by the Constitution or by the international documents applied in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Appellants, who believe that the judgment or other decision of any court is in violation of their rights, shall have the right to file an appeal after all legal remedies have been exhausted while the Court shall also consider the effectiveness of possible legal remedies. If the Constitutional Court finds an appeal well-founded, it may decide on the merits or it may quash the challenged decision and refer the case back to the court that adopted the judgment for renewed proceedings. The court whose decision has been quashed is obligated to take another decision in expedient proceedings and, in doing so, it shall be bound by the legal opinion of the Constitutional Court concerning the violation of the appellant's rights and the fundamental freedoms guaranteed under the Constitution. If the Constitutional Court finds that violation of human rights is caused by systematic flaws in functioning or organization of the public authorities or by inadequate regulations, it may, in a decision granting an appeal, instruct competent institutions to implement measures aiming to eliminate causes that led to such violation. As for the violations of human rights from Article 6 of the European Convention due to the domestic judgements not being enforced, it is important to emphasise that besides the above monitoring system, after the European Court for Human Rights rendered a decision in the case of Kunic and Others vs. BiH, application no. 68955/12 and 15 others (judgement of 14 November 2017) in which it was determined that failure to enforce domestic judgements is a systemic problem, a number of activities were taken to remove those violations and prevent future ones on the same grounds. The Government of the Federation of BiH and governments of the Zenica Dobojo, Central Bosnia, Herzegovina-Neretva, Una-Sana cantons and Canton Sarajevo adopted the action plans defining the number of non-enforced domestic judgements that were rendered against them, determined the overall debt from those judgements and adopted the payment plan to the creditors. Within the Action Plan on the enforcement of the judgements from the group of cases Kunic and Others, an office of representatives has been informing the Department for the Execution of Judgements of the European Court about their enforcement on a regular basis. In order to prevent the European Court in rendering judgements based on Article 6 of the European Convention for excessive time of the court proceedings, domestic laws on reasonable trial time have been passed. The Law on Protection of the Right to Trial Within Reasonable Time before the Court of BiH was adopted in June 2022. It was published in the Official Gazette of BiH no: 40/22 of 21 June 2022 and became effective on the eight day of the publication in the Official Gazette of BiH. The Law on Protection of the Right to Trial Within Reasonable Time of Republika Srpska was adopted in 2020. It was published in the Official Gazette of the Republika Srpska, no. 99/20 of 13 October 2020 and became effective on 1 January 2023. The Law on Trial Within Reasonable Time of the Brcko District was adopted in 2021. It was published in the Official Gazette of the Brcko District, no. 2/21 of 26 February 2021. Albania

(2023): According to article 450.1/d of the Criminal Procedural Code and article 494.ë of the Civil Procedural Code of the Republic of Albania it is possible to reopen a criminal, civil or administrative case after the European Court of Human Rights has found a violation of the ECHR Convention.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): If the verdict of the European Court establishes a violation of the right to a fair trial that is of a nature that can only be resolved by reopening the criminal proceedings, the national court that violated such right in criminal proceedings, as stipulated with the Convention, shall reopen the criminal proceedings. The criminal procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina explicitly prescribe that criminal proceedings may be reopened in favour of the accused if the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina or the European Court of Human Rights establish that human rights and fundamental freedoms were violated during the proceedings or that the verdict was based on these violations. The Rules of the Constitutional Court, prescribe that, exceptionally, if the European Court of Human Rights finds that human rights concerning access to a court have been violated in proceedings before the Constitutional Court and if the decision of the Constitutional Court is based on such a violation, the Constitutional Court shall renew proceedings not later than three months from the finality of the judgment of the European Court of Human Rights. Based on the verdict of the European Court of Human Rights in the case Avdic and Others vs Bosnia and Herzegovina, ap. no. 28357/11, which established a violation to Mr Avdic's right to a fair trial in proceedings before the Constitutional Court of BiH, proceedings were reopened before the same court in order to address the violation of the applicants rights, as identified. At the same time, a Decision was also rendered on amendments to the Rules of the Constitutional Court in order to avoid future human rights violations on such grounds as in the Avdic case. Based on the verdict of the European Court in the case Maktouf & Damjanovic vs Bosnia and Herzegovina, ap. no. 2312/08 & 3478/09, that established a violation of the rights from Article 7 of the Convention of the applicants in criminal proceedings against them before the Court of BiH, proceedings were reopened before the said court both, in their favour, as well as in favour of all persons convicted with finality and who were in the same/similar situation. Subsequent to the verdict of the European Court in the case Muslija Adnan vs Bosnia and Herzegovina, app. no. 32042/14, establishing a violation of the rights of the applicant pursuant to Article 4 of Protocol no. 7 to the Convention, criminal proceedings were reopened in favour of the convicted person – applicant Mr Muslija. Also, the civil procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina have been amended enabling the parties to civil proceedings to request from the first instance court to reopen their case, if the European Court of Human Rights makes a decision that the court in Bosnia and Herzegovina in its judgment had made an infringement of one's human rights, or basic freedoms. The party to the civil proceeding may request from the first instance court to reopen the proceeding within 90 days from the day of the final judgment of the European Court of Human Rights.

Montenegro

(2021): The Law on Civil Procedure defines that when the European Court of Human Rights establishes violation of human rights and fundamental freedoms guaranteed by the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, the party may, within three months from the final judgment of the European Court of Human Rights, submit request to the court which judged in the first instance in the case where a decision that violates human rights and fundamental freedom was made, to change the decision by which that right or fundamental freedom has been violated, if committed violation cannot be removed in any other way except by reopening of procedure.

In the reopening of procedure, the court is bound by the legal views expressed in the final judgment of the European Court of Human Rights by which is established violation of basic human right or freedom. Also, the Criminal Procedure Code defines the possibility that the criminal procedure finalized by a final verdict is repeated in favour of the accused person, if by the decision of the European Court of Human Rights or another court established by a ratified international treaty it was found that human rights and fundamental freedoms have been violated in the course of the criminal proceeding and that the judgment is based on such violation, provided that the reopening of the proceedings can remedy such violation.

Also, the Law on Administrative Dispute defines as one of the reasons for the repeating the proceeding finalized by final decision – contrast of the verdict of the Administrative court from the verdict of the European Court of Human Rights in the same matter. Proceeding is repeated upon the request of the party.

North Macedonia

(2023): According the Article 449 of the Law on Criminal Procedure, among others, procedure can be repeated If the European Court of Human Rights establishes with a decision that has entered into effect, any violations of the human rights and fundamental freedoms during the procedure.

According to the Article 400 of the Law on Civil procedure, when the European Court on Human rights determines the violation of some human rights or fundamental freedoms stipulated in the European Convention for Protection of the Basic Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and in the additional protocols of the Convention, which the Republic of Macedonia has ratified, the party may within 30 days from the day the judgment of the European Court for Human Rights becomes final, to file a request to the court in the Republic of Macedonia, that decided in the first instance procedure in which the decision was made that violated some human right or fundamental freedoms, to change the decision, with which that right or fundamental freedom is violated.

According to the Article 82 of the Law on Administrative Disputes, one of the grounds for repeating the administrative procedure is if the European Court of Human Rights found a violation of the The European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms or adopted a decision based on a unilateral statement by the state to recognize a violation of The European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms.

(2020): There are such kind of provisions in procedural laws (Law on Criminal Procedure, Law on Civil Procedure and the Law on Administrative Disputes).

(General Comment): Civil proceedings - According to the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code one of the reasons for reopening of the proceedings is a violation of the human rights found by the ECtHR. It is provided that “... If the party is afforded the opportunity to use a judgment of the European Court of Human Rights finding a violation of human rights, which may have had the effect of a more favourable decision” (Article 426(1) (11)).

The deadline for submission of a motion for reopening is 60 days from the date on which the party was able to use the final decision which is the reason for the reopening of the proceedings (Article 428(1) (4)). Criminal proceedings - The Criminal Procedure Code stipulates that the request for protection of legality may be filed by the Republic Public Prosecutor, the defendant and his defense counsel (Article 483 (1)). The Supreme Court of Cassation shall decide upon this legal remedy.

One of the reasons for submission of a request for the protection of legality is that the human rights and freedoms of the defendant or other participant in the proceedings, guaranteed by the Constitution or the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and additional protocols, have been violated or denied, as found by the Constitutional Court decision or by the Judgment of the European Court of Human Rights. (Article 485 (1) (3)).

Misdemeanour proceedings - The Law on Misdemeanours also provides for the possibility of reopening following the ECtHR judgment. A request for a retrial may be filed, inter alia, when the defendant was afforded the opportunity to use a decision of the ECtHR finding a violation of human rights, which may have had the effect of a more favourable decision on the defendant (Article 280 (1) (5)).

Administrative disputes - The Law on Administrative Disputes stipulates as one of the reasons for reopening of the proceedings that the proceedings concluded by a final judgment or decision will be reopened upon the party's action “if the finding from a subsequently rendered decision of the European Court of Human Rights in the same matter may have an impact on the lawfulness of finally concluded judicial proceedings” (Article 56(1),(7)).

Similarly, by the Law on General Administrative proceedings reopening could be granted if the ECtHR in the same administrative matter found that the rights or freedoms of the applicant were violated (Art. 176, para 1.12).

(Article 485 (1) (3)).

Misdemeanour proceedings - The Law on Misdemeanours also provides for the possibility of reopening following the ECtHR judgment. At the end of this time the composition of the commission is changed. The commissions decide by majority vote in the presence of all members. The High Prosecutorial Council may establish temporary commissions to deal with particular cases
Bosnia and Herzegovina	In accordance with the HJPC Law (Article 14), the Council acts and decides as a single body. Decisions are made by a majority vote of the members present and voting. The quorum requires the presence of at least 11 Council members. In matters on which the votes are divided, a vote shall be taken by roll call of the members, and the vote of the President or the Vice-President has the casting vote. In a case that the Council member who is present but abstains from voting, it will be deemed to have cast an abstention vote, and this abstention vote will not be included in the vote count. The Council may delegate certain decisions within its jurisdiction, with the exception of appointment decisions, to standing committees. The powers of standing committees to make decisions relate to less complex issues (e.g. simpler queries on compatibility of functions, opinions on laws that are not systemic and organizational and do not regulate the status of judicial office holders, shorter absences from office etc). In disciplinary proceedings against judges and prosecutors, decisions are taken by the competent disciplinary commissions, as well as by the Council when in the third instance, the Council decides on appeal against the decision of the second instance disciplinary commission. Members of the First Instance and the Second Instance Disciplinary Committees have the right to participate in the decision making process of the Council as a whole, unless their exemption is requested for reasons other than their earlier participation in the decision on the same matter. In accordance with the Rules of Procedure of the HJPC, the Council members are required to inform the President of the Council on any possible conflict of interest it may arise during their work, and must state the reasons for the exemption in writing or orally in the minutes of the Council session. If any the Council member considers that another member should be exempted from participating in the proceedings, he/she informs the President of the Council on that issue. The Council member whose exemption is being discussed may participate in that discussion, or make a statement on the request related to his/her exemption, but may not vote on his/her own exemption. An exempted member of the Council may not participate in a proceeding or discussion related to the issue for which he/she was exempted. A member of the Council is obliged to resign from membership in the Council if he/she or his child, parent, adoptee, adoptive parent, and spouse or partner apply for a vacant position in the judiciary. In other cases of presumed conflict of interest, a member of the Council is obliged to request his/her exemption from the panel for interviewing, from the procedure of nomination and appointment of candidates, as well as disciplinary procedure, fully and immediately upon learning of the existence of such circumstances. The existence of a conflict of interest in other situations not covered by the presumed conflict of interest is decided by the Council in each specific case. Compliance with the Rules on Conflict of Interests is ensured by its provision regulating that acting contrary to this act shall be considered as violation of impartiality and independence in performing of the duties of a member of the Council, which may form the basis for initiating the dismissal procedure.
Montenegro	Judicial Council All commissions and other work bodies of the Council are composed, according to the law, of at least one of the ten Council members, which implies that each member has a seat in various commissions. North Macedonia	Members of the both Councils are members on a professional base on a full time. The Judicial Council consists of 15 members: -the president of the Supreme Court of the Republic of North Macedonia and the Minister of Justice are ex officio members, without the right to vote, and they not participate in the work of the Council sessions on which initiated procedure for determining responsibility, election or dismissal of a judge or president of a Court are being discussed and decided upon; -eight members of the Council are elected by the judges from among their ranks, three of the elected members are members of the communities that are not in majority in the Republic of North Macedonia, where the principle of equitable representation of citizens belonging to all the communities is observed; -the Assembly of the Republic of North Macedonia elects three members of the Council with a majority of votes from the total number of representatives, wherefore there has to be majority of votes of the representatives belonging to the communities that are not in majority in the Republic of North Macedonia, and -two members of the Council are proposed by the president of the Republic of North Macedonia and elected by the Assembly of the Republic of North Macedonia, one of whom shall be a member of the communities that are not in majority in the Republic of North Macedonia. The Council President and his deputy are elected from among the members with a voting right, elected by the Assembly, with at least 8 votes from the members with a voting right. This is one of the solutions to avoid an over-concentration of powers in the same hands (only judges). In proceedings for election of the member of the Judicial Council, the Judicial Council from among its members forms a three member Commission for preparation of the candidate lists (Commission), and Commission for Conducting Elections of Members of the Council from among the judges (Selection Commission). The Selection Commission consist of a president (elected by the Association of Judges of the RNM), one member and his deputy (elected by Association of judges) and one member and his deputy (elected from among the representatives of the associations and foundations that have been working for more than five years in the field of human rights and rule of law). A member of the Commission for preparing the candidates list cannot be a member of the Selection Commission and vice versa. In the election of the members of the Council from among the judges, the following representation of the members from all the regional appellate courts shall be taken into consideration, as follows: -one member is elected from the appellate region Skopje, -one member is elected from the appellate region Bitola, -one member is elected from the appellate region Gostivar, -one member is elected from the appellate region Štip, -one member is elected from the Supreme Court of the Republic of North Macedonia, - two members are elected from among the judges that belong to all the communities that are more than 20% of the population in the Republic of North Macedonia by all the judges that are registered in the Judicial Electoral Directory and -one member is elected from among the judges that belong to all the communities that are less than 20% of the population in the Republic of North Macedonia by all the judges that are registered in the Judicial Electoral Directory. The elections at the polling places are conducted by an Electoral Board formed on the base of a decision by the Election Commission. A candidate for a member of the Council cannot be a member of an Electoral Board. The Electoral Board consists of a president and two members from among the judges and/or expert associates from the court and their deputies. The Electoral Board submits the minutes with the results of the voting and the other electoral material to the Election Commission within 24 hours after the closure of the voting. The Election Commission sums up the results of the polling place and determines the election results in the electoral units within 48 hours from the moment of closing the elections, and it has to ensure, through the web portal of the Council, that the public directly follows the summarizing of the election result. Each candidate and each voter may within 5 hours after the end of the voting to submit an objection to the Election Commission about the course of voting, about the procedure for summing up and determining the results of the voting and about violation the right to vote in the procedure during the conduct of the voting. The Election Commission is obliged to make a decision within 12 hours after the receipt of the complaint. Against the decision of the Election Commission, within 24 hours from the receipt of the decision, may submit lawsuit for initiation of an administrative dispute before the competent court. Regarding the lawsuit, the court decides within 48 hours from the day of its receipt. A member of the Council during his term of office may not be elected as a judge, a judge in a higher court or a president of a court or judge of the Constitutional Court of the Republic of North Macedonia. The Council elects a judge of a basic court from the list of candidates, submitted by the Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors that applied on the announcement, taking into account the year of completion of the training and the achieved success, as well as the results of the interview conducted by Council. Public prosecutor's Council (the Council) is an independent body which ensure and guarantee the autonomy and independence of the public prosecutors in performing their functions. The Council is composed of 11 members, out of which: ex officio member of the Council is the Chief Public Prosecutor, one member of the Council is elected by the prosecutors in the Public Prosecution Office of the Republic of North Macedonia from among its members, one member of the Council is elected by the prosecutors from areas of Higher Public Prosecution Offices Bitola, Gostivar, Skopje and Stip from among their ranks, one member of the Council member of a community that is not the majority in the Republic of North Macedonia elected by all public prosecutors in the Republic of North Macedonia from among their ranks and four members of the Council are elected by the Assembly of the Republic of North Macedonia from among university professors of law, lawyers and other eminent jurists, two of whom are members of the communities which are not the majority in the Republic of North Macedonia. Any political organisation and activities in the Council are forbidden. The members of the Council in performing the functions of the Council must not undertake any political activity. The function of an elected member of the Council is incompatible with membership in a political party or another public function and profession. The Minister of Justice is not a member of the Council and does not participate in the work of the Council.

North Macedonia	"Strategy on Gender Equality 2013-2020" and "Law on Equal Opportunities for women and men promulgated in 2012" are implemented. New Strategy for Gender Equality 2022-2027 was adopted on 27 July 2022 by the Assembly of the Republic of North Macedonia. This is the basic strategic document of the Republic of North Macedonia, which establishes a comprehensive framework of activities for the promotion of gender equality and the promotion of the status of women. The Strategy is adopted for a period of six years 2022 - 2027, as a fourth strategic document in this area.	In order to improve the position of women in all areas of public and private life, according to the new Strategy, one of the specific goals is: Equal access to justice for all women and men. Also, a new Law on Gender Equality is still in a process of drafting. The draft text is reviewed by experts (TAIEX instrument) for its compliance with international standards. According to article 3 of the draft Law on Gender Equality, " The Law shall be applied by all state bodies, units of the local self-government, legal entities with public authorizations and all other legal entities in the area of: 4) Judiciary and administration".	The new Strategy for Gender Equality 2022-2027 as a new key document was adopted in 2022. According to the new Strategy one of the priority areas is Policy and Decision making. It is necessary to increase the number of women in decision-making positions in the executive branch, political parties, media, sports, local self-government, and also in all areas where no legal solutions or quotas are established and where women's participation is very low, according to the Commitment 50 -50. The increase in the number of women decision-makers should be done through incentive measures, and awareness rising, as well as binding legal measures. It is especially important to encourage women to participate in the decision-making structures in the local self-government units, where decisions and measures are made that directly affect the quality of life in the local self-government units. Also, in 2022 we must emphasize some important achieved activities for implementation of Istanbul Convention and Law on the prevention and protection from violence against women and domestic violence. Amendments of the Criminal Code and new criminal offences in compliance with Istanbul Convention were adopted. Also, new bylaws for generating statistics in courts and public prosecution offices for domestic violence was adopted by the Minister of Justice in December 2022. At the end, the most important, the first Law on payment of monetary compensation to victims of criminal offences (Law on state compensation) was adopted in November 2022. Implementation of this Law is starting from May 2023.

Q278 (2021): "Strategy on Gender Equality 2013-2020" and "Law on Equal Opportunities for women and men promulgated in 2012" (in attach documents 2 and 3) are implemented. The Government of the Republic of North Macedonia on July 19, 2021 adopted the text of the new Strategy for Gender Equality 2021-2026, now in the parliamentary procedure for adoption. The Strategy is the basic strategic document of the Republic of North Macedonia, which establishes a comprehensive framework of activities for the promotion of gender equality and the promotion of the status of women. The Strategy is adopted for a period of six years 2021 - 2026, as a fourth strategic document in this area. According to the new Strategy 2021-2026, one of the priority areas is Policy and Decision making. It is necessary to increase the number of women in decision-making positions in the executive branch, political parties, media, sports, local self-government, and also in all areas where no legal solutions or quotas are established and where women's participation is very low, according to the Commitment 50 -50. The increase in the number of women decision-makers should be done through incentive measures, and awareness rising, as well as binding legal measures. It is especially important to encourage women to participate in the decision-making structures in the local self-government units, where decisions and measures are made that directly affect the quality of life in the local self-government units. In order to improve the position of women in all areas of public and private life, according to the new Strategy, one of the specific goals is: Equal access to justice for all women and men. (Annex document 1 "Strategy for Gender Equality 2021-2026). Also, a new Law on Gender Equality is being drafted. The draft text is reviewed by experts (TAIEX instrument) for its compliance with international standards. (attach 1 "Law on Gender Equality" - English version of the draft law that will be changed)

Q275 (2021): Gender inequality in terms of representation of gender has not been indicated as an issue which needs active facilitation. This is why no specific positive discrimination provisions currently address this matter. The relevant bylaws of the High Court Council and State Prosecutorial Council provide for the need for non-discrimination on all bases, for both selection and promotion.

For example, Article 46 of the Law on Judges (Official Gazette of the RS, No. 116/2008, 58/2009 – decision of the CC, 104/2009, 101/2010, 8/2012 – decision of the CC, 121/2012, 124/2012 – decision of the CC, 101/2013, 111/2014 – decision of the CC, 117/2014, 40/2015, 63/2015 – decision of the CC, 106/2015, 63/2016 – decision of the CC and 47/2017) stipulates that when electing a judge and proposing the election of a judge, discrimination on any grounds is prohibited. Q277 (2020): Statistics on the distribution males/females within the judicial system are gathered yearly. It would be useful to note that the statistics of gender equity in employment in Serbian judiciary is considered generally appropriate, as the „Serbia Judicial Functional Review” (Multi-Donor Trust Fund for Justice Sector Support in Serbia, October 2014, p. 309, <http://www.mdtfjss.org.rs/archive/file/Serbia%20Judicial%20Functional%20Review-Full%20Report.pdf>, accessed on 15 January 2018), published in 2014, states.. Figures submitted to the CEPEJ by Serbia throughout the evaluation cycles show more female than male professional judges in courts at all levels. Also, generally, among Court Presidents at first instance courts, the proportion of women is greater than men. This is reflected in the proportion of candidates for presidency of courts that are women. However, among Court Presidents at the second instance, men far outnumber women.

The Minister of Justice is a member. Please see: <https://www.rodnaravnopravnost.gov.rs/>.

Q285 (General Comment): As statistics point out, gender balance in Serbian judiciary is generally present in terms to access to different judicial professions.

With respect to the promotion of non-judge staff, the Commissioner for Protection of Equality in Serbia has addressed gender inequality issues in 2016 and 2018. Namely, on 1 June 2018, the Commissioner for Protection of Equality in Serbia issued a General Recommendation on Equality Measures to all courts in Serbia, with respect to the promotion of non-judge staff (please see: <http://ravnopravnost.gov.rs/preporuka-mera-za-ostvarivanje-ravnopravnosti-sudovima-cir/>). This is a follow-up on the recommendations issued on April 20, 2016 by the Commissioner, following an application filed by S.V. and A.M.M. from Kragujevac against the Basic Court in Kragujevac. The applicants were denied promotion under same conditions as other employees due to maternity leave and childcare parental leave. The applicants stated in their complaints that during 2012 and 2013 they received maximum job performance marks but that in 2015 they failed to be promoted as they were not given a job performance mark in 2014 since they were on maternity and childcare parental leave respectively. The Basic Court in Kragujevac stated in its justification that applicants were not eligible for promotion as they had not received the highest job performance mark for the second year in the row since they were not assessed in 2014. The Commissioner for the Protection of Equality has issued a recommendation to the Basic Court in Kragujevac instructing them to implement the regulations governing the promotion of civil servants correctly and in such a way as to prevent putting them in a disadvantaged position due to a protected characteristics, that is, the Court is advised to consider the possibilities for their promotion by taking into account the job performance marks they have already been awarded i.e. to disregard the year in which they have not received a job performance mark due to maternity and childcare parental leaves (please see: <http://ravnopravnost.gov.rs/en/complaint-filed-by-s-v-and-a-m-m-against-basic-court-in-kragujevac-for-discrimination-on-grounds-of-family-status-in-area-of-work-and-employment/>).

Wage compensation to employed pregnant women has been enhanced upon enacting of the new Law on Financial Support to Families with Children ("Official Gazette of RS no. 113/2017) in December 2017, which is applicable from 1 July 2018 (please see: <http://www.parlament.gov.rs/upload/archive/files/lat/pdf/zakoni/2017/3743-17%20lat.pdf>). The law is based on several previously conducted analyses, and to a great extent improves the financial position of employed parents (please see: https://www.unicef.org/serbia/novcana_davanja_za_decu_i_porodice_sa_decom_u_rs.pdf; <http://www.oknis.org.rs/wp-content/uploads/2013/03/Financial-Assistance-to-Families-with-Children.pdf>).

The Government of the Republic of North Macedonia on July 19, 2021 adopted the text of the new Strategy for Gender Equality 2021-2026, now in the parliamentary procedure for adoption. The Strategy is the basic strategic document of the Republic of North Macedonia, which establishes a comprehensive framework of activities for the promotion of gender equality and the promotion of the status of women. The Strategy is adopted for a period of six years 2021 - 2026, as a fourth strategic document in this area. According to the new Strategy 2021-2026, one of the priority areas is Policy and Decision making. It is necessary to increase the number of women in decision-making positions in the executive branch, political parties, media, sports, local self-government, and also in all areas where no legal solutions or quotas are established and where women's participation is very low, according to the Commitment 50 -50. The increase in the number of women decision-makers should be done through incentive measures, and awareness rising, as well as binding legal measures. It is especially important to encourage women to participate in the decision-making structures in the local self-government units, where decisions and measures are made that directly affect the quality of life in the local self-government units. In order to improve the position of women in all areas of public and private life, according to the new Strategy, one of the specific goals is: Equal access to justice for all women and men. (Annex document 1 "Strategy for Gender Equality 2021-2026). Also, a new Law on Gender Equality is being drafted. The draft text is reviewed by experts (TAIEX instrument) for its compliance with international standards. (attach 1 "Law on Gender Equality" - English version of the draft law that will be changed)

Serbia

(General Comment): As statistics point out, gender balance in Serbian judiciary is generally present in terms to access to different judicial professions.

With respect to the promotion of non-judge staff, the Commissioner for Protection of Equality in Serbia has addressed gender inequality issues in 2016 and 2018. Namely, on 1 June 2018, the Commissioner for Protection of Equality in Serbia issued a General Recommendation on Equality Measures to all courts in Serbia, with respect to the promotion of non-judge staff (please see: <http://ravnopravnost.gov.rs/preporuka-mera-za-ostvarivanje-ravnopravnosti-sudovima-cir/>). This is a follow-up on the recommendations issued on April 20, 2016 by the Commissioner, following an application filed by S.V. and A.M.M. from Kragujevac against the Basic Court in Kragujevac. The applicants were denied promotion under same conditions as other employees due to maternity leave and childcare parental leave. The applicants stated in their complaints that during 2012 and 2013 they received maximum job performance marks but that in 2015 they failed to be promoted as they were not given a job performance mark in 2014 since they were on maternity and childcare parental leave respectively. The Basic Court in Kragujevac stated in its justification that applicants were not eligible for promotion as they had not received the highest job performance mark for the second year in the row since they were not assessed in 2014. Bosnia and Herzegovina

Q288-1 (2023): Under the coordination of the Ministry of Justice of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the development of the Strategy for reform of the justice sector in Bosnia and Herzegovina is underway. The Strategy is envisaged as a comprehensive document with objectives aimed at improving the judicial sector in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Q288-1 (2022): Reform Programme of HJPC for the period 2021 – 2023 has been adopted in May 2021 (available on: <https://vstv.pravosudje.ba/>, Activities, European Integration, Recommendations European Commission) and its Implementation Plan in September 2021. It takes into account recommendations of the European Commission's Peer Review assessment missions, that were carried out between 2016 – 2017, the European Commission's Opinion on Bosnia and Herzegovina's application for membership of the European Union from May 2019 and the accompanying Analytical Report of the European Commission, the Expert Report on Rule of Law Issues in Bosnia and Herzegovina from December 2019 (the Priebe Report), recommendations of the European Commission sent to BiH institutions after the 4th and 5th meetings of the Subcommittee for Justice, Freedom and Security, as well as the third Annual OSCE Report on Judicial Response to Corruption and documents prepared within the framework of USAID's project - The Judiciary against Corruption "Assessing procedures and processes in cases involving high-profile corruption, organised crime and commercial crime".

Q288-2 (2023): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (hereinafter: HJPC BiH) is implementing activities aimed to improving the court funding system. Pursuant to Article 17 of the Law on High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of BiH, the HJPC BiH participates in the drafting of annual budgets for the courts and prosecutor's offices, whereby it assesses the adequacy of the budget, collects and analyses reports and relevant budget and revenue data for courts and prosecutor's offices, advises courts and prosecutor's offices on appropriate and effective budget, administration and management techniques and procedures in this regard, and advocates for adequate and continuous funding of courts and prosecutor's offices in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

In order to improve the capital investments planning in the courts, the HJPC BiH has created an Instruction for the creation of Court building maintenance program. The Instruction clarifies to the courts the type, scope and dynamics of ongoing and investment building maintenance activities, as well as the way of creating a building maintenance program, all with the aim of proper and timely planning of capital investments as well as preventing the occurrence of major damage in buildings.

Q288-3 (2023): Debate on the reform of state level judiciary and drafting of the new Law on Courts of Bosnia and Herzegovina is still ongoing; the legislative debate focuses on the establishment of the Appellate/Higher Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina and redefining, in clear terms, criminal jurisdiction of state level judicial institutions. There are no other plans to reform regulation on the competencies and organization of court system and prosecutor's offices.

In addition, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina implemented the reorganization of business processes in the target courts and start the process of dissemination to all courts. With the aim of achieving efficient changes in the organization of work in the courts, a work methodology has been established. In this sense, job descriptions were defined and a proposal was adopted for the systematization of a new staff category "drafting lawyer for providing assistance to judges". A new category of staff, from the perspective of expertise, will provide judges with the necessary professional assistance. From an efficiency standpoint, they will work together with a court assistant and an trainees, forming a triage system. The aim of this system is to prepare cases for trial. The judicial triage system enables optimal resource utilization, prioritizing actions based on urgency and relevance.
