HFIII: Towards a better evaluation of the results of judicial reform efforts in the Western Balkans – phase II “Dashboard Western Balkans II”

Data collection 2023

Report prepared by the CEPEJ for the attention of the European Commission

Methodological Note

The methodology used for this report is fully based on the methodology used by the CEPEJ for its biennial evaluation cycles. The data is collected by using a questionnaire, which is filled out by the CEPEJ's Dashboard correspondents (the main contacts points within the judicial systems of the beneficiaries for this exercise). Their responses are statistically processed, analysed, and validated under the supervision of the CEPEJ Evaluation Working Group (CEPEJ-GT-EVAL). The CEPEJ works in full transparency with all beneficiaries during the whole process.

Data collection, validation and analysis

The CEPEJ Secretariat collects quantitative and qualitative data. Comments are also collected to provide additional information on the specificities of the beneficiaries' judicial system and to better contextualise the data.

From a methodological point of view, and with a commitment to quality, consistency and comparability of the supplied data, data collection is primarily assigned to the CEPEJ's Dashboard correspondents. The Dashboard correspondents are the unique interlocutors of the CEPEJ Secretariat when collecting and controlling data. The beneficiaries are liable for the quality of data provided in the survey.

According to the CEPEJ methodology, an extensive work is carried out by the CEPEJ Secretariat to verify the quality of the data submitted by the correspondents. This quality check process requires a certain amount of time in order to guarantee the reliability of the quantitative and qualitative data, which will eventually be presented to the European Commission (EC).

The data validation process has been implemented according to the CEPEJ's methodology. Nevertheless, the Beneficiary correspondent is responsible for the reliability and quality of the provided.

The first year of data collection for the Dashboard Western Balkans is 2019. This is considered as the base year to be presented in each consecutive cycle. The reference year for the current report's data is 2023. Evolutions/trends and variations using previous data collection are presented where relevant. CEPEJ will focus on up to 5 cycles (including the base year) in all the deliverables throughout the duration of the project.

The report is composed of two parts:

- Part 1- Comparative tables and graphs for all Western Balkans beneficiaries with summary overviews and comments per indicator (1 files)
- Part 2- Beneficiary profiles (6 files). There is one beneficiary profile per beneficiary, and each is divided in a Part A and a Part B.

This structure was discussed and agreed upon with the EC during previous cycle and was only updated in this cycle. The delivery date is 31 May for Part 1, and 30 June for Part 2.

It should be noted that the content of the Beneficiary profiles was elaborated by the CEPEJ Secretariat and the Greco Secretariat (with the assistance of one expert). Each Secretariat has implemented its own methodology. The analysis conducted by the CEPEJ Secretariat in the Beneficiary profiles is done based on the comments provided by the beneficiaries alongside the data.

The quality of data

The reader should always interpret the presented statistical figures together with the respective narrative comments.

The CEPEJ has chosen to process and show only the data which offered a high level of quality and accountability. Hence, it decided to disregard those replies that significantly varied between exercises and for which there was no relevant explanation provided by the Dashboard correspondent, to give sufficient guarantees of quality and reliability. For some issues covered by this study, no data could be provided. When a data is shown as “NA” (i.e., “Not available”), it means that the data was not available, the data could not be collected as such or no data meeting the quality and reliability requirements was provided by the deadline. As a consequence, there might be some instances where data are shown as “NA” while there was data presented in the previous CEPEJ exercises. This is critical to ensure a high level of data quality.

Definitions and abbreviations

- NA: data not available.
- NAP: data non applicable.
- CR: Clearance Rate. The Clearance rate is the ratio obtained by dividing the number of resolved cases by the number of incoming cases in a given period, expressed as a percentage. It demonstrates how the court, or the judicial system is coping with the in-flow of cases and allows comparison between systems regardless of their differences and individual characteristics.
- DT: Disposition Time. The Disposition Time is the calculated time necessary for a pending case to be resolved, considering the current pace of work. It is reached by dividing the number of pending cases at the end of a particular period by the number of resolved cases within that period, multiplied by 365. The Disposition Time is the ratio between pending cases and resolved cases (in days). It shows the theoretical duration for a court to solve all the pending cases.
- ICT Indices: The three ICT indices (CMS, Courts decisions DB and Statistical tools) range from 0 to 10 points. Their calculation is based on the features and deployment rates of each beneficiary. The methodology for calculation provides points for each feature in each case matter. They are summarised and multiplied by the deployment rate as a weight. In this way, if the system is not fully deployed, the value is decreased even if all features are included.

Numbers indicated between brackets following the letter Q (for example Q12) refer to the questions of the CEPEJ Dashboard Western Balkans questionnaire.

Methodological disclaimer

1) The comparisons of data between beneficiaries with various size, economic and legal situations is a delicate task and should be approached with great caution. Indeed, the specificities of each system, which might explain differences in the data, should be taken into account (e.g., different judicial structures, the approach of the courts organisation, use of statistical tools to evaluate the systems, etc.). This is especially true when a particular region like the Western Balkans is compared to the European Union. Since the Western Balkans region presents its own peculiarities (e.g., per capita GDP, budget distribution, litigiousness rate, number of tasks handled by the judges, number of judges etc.), the comparison with the European Union region might be misleading. As requested by the European Commission, this report presents the EU median, where relevant. However, the EU median should not be considered as a benchmark for the Western Balkans region, but it should rather be considered as a “reference only as f

Furthermore, it is crucial to notice that the data for calculating the 2023 EU median have not been collected yet. Hence, the 2022 EU median is included in this report. Yet, the reference year for the Dashboard Western Balkans is 2023. These statistics should be referred to for orientation only since they are not for the same reference year. For this reason, they are not comparable and should not be jointly analysed.

2) Some of the data might be updated or changed after each delivery (31 May and 30 June), in case of comments provided by the beneficiaries. According to the CEPEJ methodology, only the final version of the report can be disseminated, i.e., after considering the comments by the beneficiaries. Before then, all the collected data remain confidential.

3) Changed requested by beneficiaries after the delivery of this report may appear in future reports, since the CEPEJ's database is regularly updated. For this reason, previous cycles' data presented in this report might be different from data presented in the reports for the previous cycles.

4) It should also be noted that the summary statistics (minimum, maximum, average and median values) are presented in this report as an orientation only. Kosovo* is not included in these summary statistics. Indeed, the group of beneficiaries is too small for the summary to be statistically meaningful. These statistics are calculated by using quantitative data, hence excluding the “NA” or “NAP” answers. Furthermore, in case data are available only for one or two beneficiaries, the summary statistics would not be useful even as an orientation. Consequently, they are shown as “-”.

5) When using the data provided by the CEPEJ in public reports, EC should always mention “Source: CEPEJ data”. CEPEJ will only be able to produce comparison data tables and graphs between member States of the Council of Europe. If the EC wants to compare data between the six beneficiaries by constructing new charts and tables adding Kosovo*, it should be made clear that it is of its responsibility even if the source of the data is the CEPEJ. This should be mentioned under each relevant table and/or graph.

* This designation is without prejudice to positions on status, and is in line with UNSCR 1244 and the ICJ Opinion on the Kosovo Declaration of Independence.

Kosovo* is not included in the calculation of summary statistics

The provided figures for the population for Bosnia and Herzegovina, and Kosovo* is for 2022.

The GDP per capita for Bosnia and Herzegovina, Montenegro, North Macedonia is for 2022

North Macedonia: a census of the population was undertaken in 2021. As a result, the figure for the population dropped in that year compared to the previous cycles.

North Macedonia: Because of the 2021 Census, the number of inhabitants changed dramatically between 2020 and 2021. For this reason, all the variations of values standardised by the number of inhabitants are mainly due to the variation in the population.
In Albania, Montenegro, and Kosovo*, mandatory representation in court is not counted under the legal aid budget. Since 2023, Serbia has included mandatory representation in court under its legal aid budget, which explains the increase in the budget.

The exchange rate is 1 Eur = 103.88 ALL, resource Bank of Albania 29.12.2023

Explanations for the variations:

Salaries + 74%

Changes and increases in salaries budget come as a result of changes in legislation on salary specifically:

Law no. 33/2023 "For a change in the law no. 96/2016 on the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", changed, which changed the salaries of magistrates.

Decision no. 325, dated 31.5.2023 "For the approval of the structure of wages, salary levels and other allowances above salary of deputy minister, cabinet officers, prefect, sub-prefect, civil employees and employees in some institutions of Public Administration" and Decision no. 326, dated 31.5.2023" For employees' salaries supporters and employees of other specialties of different in some institutions of public administration", of the Council of Ministers.

Investments in computerisation + 884%

IT maintenance +252%

In the framework of the implementation of new software systems, the High Judicial Council has focused its investments in the purchase of electronic equipment.

The change in the official exchange rate, which from 1 euro = 115 lek in 2022, became 1 euro = 103.8 lek in 2023.

Court building maintenance -50%

As part of the implementation of the new judicial map, which ended in 2023, the courts have been in the process of restructuring, which has led to a decrease in funds for building maintenance.

(2022): Total - Annual public budget allocated to the judicial system = TOTAL - Annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all courts (1 + 2 + 3 + 4 + 5 + 6 + 7) + Annual public budget allocated to the HJC + Annual public budget allocated to the CIT regarding the specific figures there is a discrepancy of 1 Euro. ;Total Annual public budget allocated to the judicial system: 27,824,922+ 2,385,360 +39,509 = 30,249,791

The training in courts is divided in 2 different parts, the training of magistrates is done by the School of Magistrates with their own budge, while the training of all non-magistrate staff is done by the HJC, for different reasons the budget this year has been planned as 0.

(General Comment): Data on the approved budget are classified according to the economic classification adopted by the ministries of finance. The data regarding the approved budget is classified in a way that allows obtaining data only on the following elements that relate to question 4:

-TOTAL - Annual budget allocated to the functioning of all courts, and -1. Annual public budget allocated to (gross) salaries. The classification used for budget approval does not allow to obtain data on other elements referred to in question 4.

The reports on execution budgets make it possible to distinguish budget figures for all the elements in the table. The amounts of all items are calculated using the budget execution reports as the best possible estimation.

5. Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings.

In 2023, a large investment in court buildings in the area of the Posavina Canton was realized. Since no investments in new buildings were recorded in other courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina, there was a significant increase in the allocated budget for this purpose compared to 2022.

7. Other

The budget allocated for other purposes includes funds allocated for employee benefits such as sick leave, maternity leave and various other benefits. Also, the budget allocated for other purposes includes provisions for deposits. Provisions for retained bails and deposits are reported as long-term provisions for costs that will occur with great certainty in the coming years on the basis of retained bails and deposits. All of these costs can vary significantly from year to year.

(2022): There are two reasons why the amounts allocated for judicial expenses and training in 2022 are higher compared to the amounts allocated in 2021. First, after operating at a limited capacity in 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the courts continued to operate at full capacity in 2022. Secondly, due to inflation, a significant increase in the prices of services was recorded in 2022, and therefore the services of expertise, interpretation and training have become more expensive. In several courts, the amount of funds allocated for these purposes increased by more than 100% in 2022 compared to 2021

As regards investment in new buildings, the amount of funds allocated for the construction of new court buildings fluctuates from year to year, because it directly depends on the amount of funds donated for this purpose.

(2021): 5. Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings: Based on the insight into the implemented budgets for 2021, it is evident that the amount of annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings has significantly decreased compared to 2020. The decline in investments is due to the slow process of public procurement in the last two years, which is a result of the COVID-19 outbreak. Other costs are the expenditures such as travel expenses and the costs for the purchase of office material and office equipment.

(2020): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of courts is different from actually implemented budget mainly because the courts could not implement some of the allocated budget funds, as certain number of judicial and non-judicial positions were not filled in during the reporting year since the ongoing recruitment procedures have not been finalized fully. In addition, one of the highest courts could not implement the allocated budget for setting up the new department for organized crime and corruption cases, because the new department has not been established. Furthermore, the implemented annual public budget for training and investments in new court buildings declined considerably in 2020 compared to 2019, because the courts could not use all of the funds allocated for these purposes due to the reduction of the relevant activities in the context of the measures undertaken against the spread of COVID-19 pandemic. Other costs are the expenditures such as travel expenses and the costs for the purchase of office material and office equipment.

(2019): Some of the allocated budget funds have not been implemented because certain number of judicial and non-judicial position remained vacant. The allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest instance courts has not been implemented. There is no continuity of planning budget funds for the construction of new court buildings. For this reason, the amount of funds spent for this purpose can vary significantly. That is the explanation for the variation in the implemented budget for investments in new (court) buildings. Other costs are the expenditures for travel expenses and purchase of office material and office equipment.

Montenegro

(2023): Other includes: other personal income, jubilee awards, separation, aid, separate life, administrative material, fuel, energy, communication services, lawyer services, consulting, banking services, insurance, contract of work, utility services

(2022): -Differences relate to the enforcements via the Ministry of Finance (court experts and lawyers expenses) payed through enforcement procedures (e.g. bailiffs etc.)
- Other costs are other personal incomes, jubilee awards, severance payments, one time assistance payments, separate family life bonus, administrative/office material, fuel costs, energy bills, communication services, lawyer services, consulting services, banking services, licenses, insurances, employment contracts, utilities etc.

(2021): The difference relates to the enforcements through the Ministry of Finance (court experts and lawyers), which are being payed by enforced collection.

(Source: Judicial council)
Since 2018 there has been an increase in the budget allocated to courts buildings (maintenance, operating costs) which is due to the fact that the requests of courts for more funds for this purpose were approved during the preparation of the courts budget.

(2020): The difference relates to the enforcements through the Ministry of Finance (court experts and lawyers), which are being payed by enforced collection.

Since 2018 there has been an increase in the budget allocated to courts buildings (maintenance, operating costs) which is due to the fact that the requests of courts for more funds for this purpose were approved during the preparation of the courts budget.

Discrepancy clarifications:

-Annual public budget allocated to court buildings (maintenance, operating costs) - There was an increase in the monetary amount due to the adaptation of official premises in several Montenegrin courts.

-Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings - There was an increase in the monetary amount due to the fact that construction works were carried out on the building of the Commercial Court of Montenegro on the adaptation of the building itself.

-Annual public budget allocated to training - There was a decrease in the said amount due to the fact that this year a smaller number of trainings was conducted compared to the previous reporting because of the COVID-19 pandemics.

North Macedonia

(General Comment): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc.

(2023): After the investments in ICT made in the previous year, additional resources were allocated to maintain the new system. Regarding investments in new court buildings, the increase is attributable to expenses for renovating a few existing courts.

(2022): The court budget includes only the budget of all courts.

2. North Macedonia in 2022 allocated huge budget to investments in computerization (replacement of all old servers in all the courts and in the Judicial Council with new servers, 308 new computers, new laptops, 212 new printers, 64 new scanners, new softwares (for example: for evaluation of judges).

4. Maintenance of the court buildings and operating costs in 2022 are higher due to new prices of gas and electricity in our country and on the world level, as a consequences from COVID-19 and war in Ukraine.

5. In 2022, the renovation of the new building of Administrative court was finished. That was the second phase of the plan with smaller allocated budget for finishing the project, since the budget of first phase of the plan was larger and implemented in 2021.

7. All the prices and costs in 2022 are higher due to inflation. Please, see also explanation for category 4.

(2021): 2. In 2020 the courts were supplied with more IT equipment.

3. The expenses are higher due to higher amount of court expertise.

4. Expected increased amount of bills. 5. Reconstruction of the building of the Administrative court.

7. No supply on new cars and all cost are decreased because other expenses in other lines are higher.

(2020): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc. The court budget includes only the budgets of all courts.

The decreasing of the court budget in 2020 in total is due to the fact that with the rebalance of the budget in 2019, about 2 million euros were provided for non paid allowances on the judges from the previous years. This allowances were paid in 2019.

Regarding the line 3 which refers to the justice expenses, the significant reduction of the total amount is due to the fact that according to the Law on Criminal Procedure, costs for court expertise are no longer paid by the court budget. Now they are paying by the PPO Budget. From the court budget now are only paying court expertise for old cases which are long time in the system, before the new Law on criminal procedure start with implementation. In 2020, the number of this type of old cases for which the expertise was paid by the courts was significantly lower compared to previous years.

Regarding the line 5 (New court buildings), in 2019 money were provided for the renovation of the building of the Administrative Court. However, the renovation of the building was not realized, due to administrative-technical problems. In the 2020 budget, money for this purpose were not provided.

Line for training is not included here, but in the questions about the Academy for judges and public prosecutors.

Serbia

(General Comment): The budget system of RS provides for unified collection of court fees, which are all paid to one account. The collected court fees are a revenue of the Republic of Serbia, from which 40% is allocated to the High Judicial Council for current expenses of the courts, except for expenses for court staff and staff at the public prosecutor's office, and 20% is allocated to the Ministry of Justice to improve the financial situation of employees in the courts and the public prosecutors' offices who are court staff and the staff of the Public Prosecutor's Office, other expenditures as well as investments in accordance with the law. Therefore, the amounts which the High Judicial Council and the MoJ transfer to the courts for various items in Q6 also come from court fees. Addition to this it is important to emphasise that the notary public is obliged to pay the amount of 30% of the collected prize without VAT, to the account prescribed for the payment of public revenues, within 15 days from the day of collection.

The referred amount is distributed for the current expenses of the courts and the improvement of the material position of the employees in the courts, as well as other expenses and investments for the courts, in accordance with the law.

(2023): High judicial Council budget + MoJ budget

(2021): E.g. New furniture

The methodology of collecting budgetary data has been changed with cooperation with CEPEJ.

(2022): Digitalization of services;

New courts to be build;

No financing trainings for 2022 due to budget cut.

(2021): Justice expenses budget increased because as the courts proceeded with full capacity after Covid restrictions, more expertise and interpretation expenses became indispensable.

Budget allocated to court buildings was lowered due to budget cuts.

As regards budget allocated to court buildings, the new court buildings that began in the previous years were in process, therefore in 2021 the budget was lowered to the amount on finalising those court buildings projects.

As regards training budget, due to the other essential needs appeared during the year for the KJC, the training budget was cut.

(2020): Budget allocated to computerization includes 160,000 for buying computers and IT equipment for Kosovo Judicial Council and Courts, and 150,000 for the maintenance of the IT system. Concerning sub-q. 3, there is a considerable discrepancy with the data from the previous year. This is because, in the data from the last year, we did not deduct the amount dedicated to free legal aid. So, the data from the previous year regarding the total budget for this sector should be minus the sum dedicated to free legal aid. Concerning sub-Q. 4,5 and, the discrepancy between approved and implemented budget is a result of budgetary cuts because of the pandemic Covid 19. The differences in the approved and implemented budget of the sub2 is due to the purchase of new IT equipment(mainly new computers).

Albania

(2023): The data for the implemented budget "Implemented budget" for the year 2023 are approximate and were obtained from the AFMIS system until 22.01.2024. This figure is not final as the Treasury Office responsible for confirming this data will publish this figure in February 2024.

In the first column, we planned the budget at the beginning of the year.

In the second column, we have the actual realization of budget funds during the year 2023.

The revised budget during the year is 32,016,181 euros due to institutional needs.

The increase in this budget has come as a result of additions during the year 2023 of funds for personnel expenses for the payments of magistrates and officers in implementation of the Decision no. 35 of the Constitutional Court for wrongly calculated salaries.

(2021): At the prosecution, office there is no budget allocated to training of public prosecution services. Please note that training of judges and prosecutors is allocated to the budget of School of Magistrates.

The difference between approved budget and implemented budget consists mainly in savings of payments due to the vetting process (dismissal of prosecutors, some vacancies of administrative staff and prosecutors, savings from building reconstructions, etc

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2022): Some prosecution offices allocated a smaller amount of funding in connection with the training in the reporting year. However, the disparities in training funding for 2022 compared to 2021 are not significant considering the small value of absolute amounts the prosecution offices generally allocate for this purpose.

(2020): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all prosecutors' offices is different from actually implemented budget mainly because the prosecutors' offices could not implement some of the allocated budget funds, as certain number of judicial and non-judicial positions were not filled in during the reporting year since the ongoing recruitment procedures have not been finalized fully. Also, the allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest prosecutor's offices has not been implemented, because the new unit has not been established. The implemented annual public budget for training of public prosecution services declined considerably in 2020 compared to 2019, because the prosecutors' offices could not use all of the funds allocated for this purpose due to the reduction of the training activities in the context of the measures undertaken against the spread of COVID-19 pandemic.

(2019): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all prosecutors' offices from actually implemented budget is different mainly due to the following reasons: Some of the allocated budget funds have not been implemented because certain number of judicial and non-judicial position remained vacant. The allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest prosecutor's offices has not been implemented.

Montenegro

(2023): difference between approved and implemented is because there were additional transfers from state budget to Prosecution during a budget year

(2020): The difference between the approved and implemented budget was due to the budget rebalance, all pursuant to the Law on Amendments to the Budget Law (Official Gazette of Montenegro 61/2020 as of 24 June 2020).

North Macedonia

(2023): The increase in the total budget is due to increased salaries

Serbia

(2023): Regarding the question annual public budget allocated to training of public prosecution services please note that this funds is provided through the Judicial Academy budget, due to the judicial Academy jurisdiction which is training in the whole Serbian Judiciary.

Question 010

Albania

(2022): During 2022 there have been no external donor's contributions, included in courts' budgets.

(2020): The above budget is the amount spent by the EU technical assistance mission EURALIUS, aiming to support the implementation of justice reform in Albania for 2020. However, please note that there are at least two other major projects aiming to support the justice system, one implemented by Council of Europe in Albania and the other by a contractor of USAID. However, no data are available for these project.

(2023): We have a lot of international projects supporting whole justice system with special emphasize of the judiciary. Taking into account that all of the projects are planned for two or more years and they cover different areas, it is not possible to answer specific subcategories defined in the question. Also some projects cover judiciary and justice system, but also institutions that not belong to judiciary and justice systems. Some projects are planned to finance defined activities for more countries. Presented figure is for all above mentioned categories. Methodology used: absolute amount of each project is divided by number of years of implementation of each project. Please find attached details for each project:

(2022): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2022, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular. Regional projects are included in the total amount.

(2021): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2021, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular.

The amount is lower in the column budget allocated to courts in comparison to the last year, because for many of the projects where a larger amount of funds was allocated (ex. projects related with supply on equipment) finished at the end of 2020.

All relevant projects are counted in this question. Regional projects are not included in the total amount. Regional projects that were implemented in 2021 by the external donors in North Macedonia were: Regional Rule of Law initiative, Strengthening Enforcement in North Macedonia, Serbia, Kosovo, Albania, Global Program Combating Illicit Financial Flows, Countering Serious Crimes in the Western Balkans-IPA 2019, Open Regional Fund for SEE-Legal reform, Regional project Enhancing penitentiary capacities in addressing radicalisation in prisons in Western Balkans, Regional project: iPROCEEDS – Targeting crime proceeds on the Internet in South Eastern Europe and Turkey.

In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2020, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular. Most of the projects started with implementation in 2019. For example, if the project last 24 months and started in June 2019 till June 2021, then according to the formula from the explanation note the higher amount from the project budget was spent in 2020. This is the reason, why in 2020 the budget is higher in comparison with 2019. Also, new projects started with implementation in 2020.

All relevant projects are counted in this question. Regional projects are not included in the total amount. Regional projects that were implemented in 2020 by the external donors in North Macedonia were: Regional Rule of Law initiative, Strengthening Enforcement in North Macedonia, Serbia, Kosovo, Albania, Global Program Combating Illicit Financial Flows, Countering Serious Crimes in the Western Balkans, Open Regional Fund for SEE-Legal reform, Building capacities of South Eastern Europe to conduct financial investigations to effectively detect, deter and prosecute money laundering and the financing of terrorism as well as enhance regional and inter-agency cooperation, Promoting rule of law and good governance through targeted border control measures at ports and airports.

(2020): EU projects can only present data from financial reports adopted by the Audit / Control, and the reporting period does not coincide necessarily with the calendar year. Namely, as the reports are submitted every 6 months, in this review it is possible to present data in relation to the following two periods (according to the approved financial reports): November 1, 2018-31.

October 2019 = 565,656 (for the period of 12 months)

November 1, 2019-31. October 2020 = 863,544 (for the period of 12 months).

Data for the period running from 1 November 2020 will be known at the end of that period (March 2021), upon adoption by the Audit.

Within the Component 3 of IPA 2013 project, which dealt with corruption repression, joint trainings for prosecution, courts, MoI and other state authorities were organized. It is not possible to divide costs per each institution. USDOJ / OPDAT was organized joint trainings for prosecution, courts and MoI, and it is not possible to divide cost for each institution. Also, certification courses for fraud and money laundering (82 454 EUR) was organised for representatives of different state authorities (MoI, prosecution, etc.), whose costs is not possible to divide. Within the item „donation of equipment and vehicles (total amount of eur 250.393), there is donation to the Main Group for fighting human trafficking that consist of MoI, Prosecution for organized crime, where is not possible to divide costs (eur 41 458), as well as donation of equipment and vehicles for Specialized departments for suppression of corruption, which is only dedicated to the prosecution (eur 208 935).

USAID GAI noted that there is no possibility to divide budget per institutions for 2019 and 2020, and that part of activities is being implements with funding from other donors. OEBS organized joint trainings for courts, prosecution and MoI, and implemented budget is not possible to divide . Within this period implementation of activities .started with other beneficiary institution's, and support to the RPPO is planned for 2021. The number Budget allocated to the whole justice system (question 7)- 3,941,467.

(2023): The agency for free legal aid has had a genuine cooperation with international organizations over the years. During the year 2023, we can single out the close cooperation with GIZ, USAID, EUKOJUST, OSCE and UNHCR, cooperation which has also resulted in support to FLAA in different activities such as: realization of workshops for the drafting of by-laws, trainings, organization of awareness campaigns, preparation and printing of brochures, holding workshops, info legal sessions and meetings, realization of focus groups with citizens, drafting and publishing of analyses, manuals and other documents etc.

However, they have supported the activities but have not transferred the budget to FLAA, except for GIZ, which has supported the salaries of 4 (four) officials in 6 (six) mobile offices for free legal aid for 6 (six) months - January to June and the amount is included in the table above.

(2022): -KJC during 2022 had donations in the amount of €350,783.24 and that from UNDP and GIZ mainly for the support of the administrative staff in some courts of Kosovo (€48,627.95) and from the Norwegian Government for the SMIL project (€302,155.29).

-Prosecutorial system is constantly being supported by international partners, donors and projects through trainings, events, roundtables and donations. The sum in the table includes all of these activities.

-For FLAA funds have been allocated for the extension of free legal aid in municipalities where there is no regional office and mobile office for providing free legal aid and raising the professional capacities of officials.

During 2022, FLAA was also supported by the donor USAID - JAK through these activities:

- Publication of the Manual of Legal Aid Practitioners in Kosovo in civil, family and property legal matters;
- Training for 5 trainers trained in the use of the Manual of Legal Aid Practitioners in Kosovo in civil, family and property legal matters and the realization of trainings;
- Drafting of the report Mapping the Needs of Communities for Justice 2022;
- Organization of training on Mediation for 24 officials of ANJF;
- ANJF Communication Strategy 2022 - 2025;
- Support in the organization of the Free Legal Aid Week (23 – 27 May)
- Organization of 3 thematic roundtables with the participation of representatives from ANJF and NGOs that offer free legal assistance;
- Setting up the Info stand and distributing brochures with information about the ANJF, in Prizren during the Dokufest festival;
- Placement of permanent information shelves with brochures for the ANJF in the Basic Court in Mitrovica (in the south and north);
- Preparation and publication of the Video with information on the Agency for Free Legal Aid in sign language - dedicated to deaf people;
- Preparation, promotion and distribution of brochures in Braille with information on the Agency for Free Legal Aid and services, dedicated to blind people;
- Distribution of 1,100 questionnaires in 11 branches of the association HANDIKOS throughout Kosovo and summary of data from the respondents.

The donor USAID - JAK has implemented the budget, so we have no knowledge about the amount spent for the above activities.

(2021): -The KJC has received donations from UNDP and GIZ mainly as support to the administrative staff of the courts (legal officer, translator).

The value of the donation from UNDP was € 26,997.77 while from GIZ was € 3,037.62

-Prosecutorial system is constantly being supported by international partners, donors and projects through trainings, events, roundtables and donations. The sum in the table includes all of these activities.

-Free Legal Aid Agency was supported by the donor GIZ and UNDP. The project of Providing Free Legal Aid, supported by the Donor GIZ, for the period 1 year January-December 2021, has employed 4 officials to provide free legal aid. The budget from the donor was in the amount of € 36,948.00. Meanwhile, the project Immediate Support for Recovery to COVID-19 supported by the Donor UNDP, has supported the Agency during 2021 with the amount of 10,240.00 €, has hired officials to provide free legal aid and a mobile clinic driver, from their salary € 8,018.76 and goods in the amount of € 2,221.24. The budget spent on this project was € 8,895.71.

(2020): In the category 'Budget allocated of the Whole Justice System" we have used data from the Aid Management Platform, where we generated this sum from the sub-category 'Legal and Judicial Development'. The last year we did not provide data in this question because there are no official numbers regarding the total contribution of external donors. So, please note that this is only an approximation and does not reflect the total amount of external donor funds with certainty. The real numbers can be different from what we offered here, but until we are able to find a way to get those data, we propose to use these data from the Aid Management Platform, as a general idea regarding external donor funds in Justice Sector. This estimate is by defect because there might be other projects which are not included: have refused to be included or for other reasons. The external donor funds which contribute to the budget of courts is not linear. These donations are annually based and can change from one year to another. For instance, an external donor can finance or support certain elements of courts, such as interpreters or other administrative staff. Same applies the Prosecution Services. We already collected the data from legal aid to.

(General Comment): The legal aid is financed through the budgets of individual courts (e.g. funds for legal aid are mainly used to pay for the services of ex officio appointed attorneys in criminal cases) and the budgets of legal aid institutions that are government bodies independent from the courts. The accounting methodology does not make it possible to distinguish the amount of budget funds earmarked by the courts for legal aid from other funds which are planned within the same line in the court budget. Though, it is possible to differentiate the amount of funds spent for legal aid in the implemented court budget. On the other hand the lawyers employed by the government legal aid institutions provide legal aid in different legal fields (i.e. representation in criminal, civil, administrative court proceedings; provision of legal advice outside of court or other proceedings), therefore it is not possible to split the planned or implemented budget funds of the legal aid institutions between different legal fields. In conclusion, it is only possible to make the calculation of the annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid without dividing it among criminal and other than criminal cases.

Montenegro

(2022): in 2022 no separate amount for legal aid for courts was allocated, but that was a part of the budget section 4146 - lawyer services. In 2022 for legal aid the amount implemented is 108.776 Eur

(2020): Free legal aid is always approved under account 4146 of the Budget of Montenegro (Law on Budget), which refers to all attorney's fees, so it is not possible to provide the requested information separately.

North Macedonia

(2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are calculated according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

(2020): Provided data from courts and Ministry of Justice.

Budget is increased for implementation on the new Law on free legal aid and facilitation of the conditions for getting on free legal aid.

For line 2.for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services) budget is planed in total budget for free legal aid. Because of that it not possible to be given separately.

Serbia

(2023): Annual approved public budget for the High Judicial Council for mandatory defense 11536009 EUR.

In question 012 we counted only free legal aid. I see now we made a mistake.

(2021): The methodology of collecting budgetary data has been changed with cooperation with CEPEJ.

(2020): TOTAL - Annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) Total budget approved for 2020 was 6 million EUR. Nevertheless, due to COVID 19 and the fact that the budget was not spent during that budgetary year, there have been some adjustments to the total amount. 1. for cases brought to court (court fees and/or legal representation)
2. for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services)

Serbian law stipulates funding from the state budget and local self-government budget for cases brought to court (court fees and/or legal representation), as well as for mediators and public notaries as providers of free legal aid. These cases are funded 50% from the state budget and 50% from local self-government budget. The actual payment takes place following the completion of a certain phase of the proceedings. Given that the law started implementation on October 1st 2019, most cases brought to court have not yet been finalized.

Kosovo*

(2022): Budget increased

(2021): In KPC budget categories we don't have separate category for budget for lawyers, but the budget code is named "legal representation cost" which include lawyers and experts. The total budget approved for this category was 843,959€ which we divided in 2 and the budget approved for lawyers being 421,979.5€.

As for the discrepancies, they are due to Covid pandemic aftermath and budget review.

(2020): In this year, we have been able to obtain the data for categories 'cases brought to court and cases not brought to court' for criminal cases too. The budget concerning cases not brought to court is managed by Kosovo Prosecutorial Council(KPC), while the Budget concerning cases brought to court is managed by the Kosovo Judicial Council(KJC). Therefore, for cases not brought to court, we have used the data offered by KPC, while for cases brought to court, we have used the data from KJC.

Albania

(2023): We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

(2021): Performance throughout 2021, the first year of full capacity operation of the free legal aid mechanism, has marked an increase in the number of court decisions that grant applicants the right to secondary legal aid and exemption from court fees and costs. We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

(2020): The above data is referred to the implemented/ allocated budget of Free Legal Aid Directorate for 2020. The difference between allocated budget and implemented budget has come as a result of delays in the recruitment of FLAD staff but also employees of primary legal aid service centers in the districts of the Republic of Albania. Also, another factor is related to the financing procedures of 12 authorized non-profit organizations which provide primary legal aid, a procedure which is expected to start in March 2021.

Following the approval of the legal aid law, the budget of legal aid was increased substantially to provide for primary and secondary legal aid. The law foresees the opening of legal clinics, that will provide primary legal aid to all citizens. For 2020, 8 legal clinics were foreseen to be opened. Additionally, the criteria for providing secondary legal aid were clarified in the law, and they granted legal aid to a considerate number of applicants. With the establishment of the Legal Aid Directorate, courts started to grant secondary legal aid to applicants. (the Directorate is in charge of administering the court decision, and making the payment to the lawyer, based on that court decision). Hence, all these activities, were supported by an increased budget.

Montenegro

(2023): Not including ex officio mandatory representation. Legal aid is different specific category

(2022): in 2022 no separate amount for legal aid for courts was allocated, but that was a part of the budget section 4146 - lawyer services. In 2022 for legal aid the amount implemented is 108.776 Eur

(2020): A smaller number of requests for free legal aid were adopted, thus less money was spent.

North Macedonia

(2023): In 2023, more criminal cases brought to court were concluded. The rise in the budget allocated to criminal cases may also be attributed to the complexity of these cases and their longer durations, resulting in higher expenses for lawyers.

(2022): Implementation of the new Law on free legal aid was one of the strategic goals. Campaigns in 2022 through the whole country to raise awareness of beneficiaries about their rights to free legal aid were very successful. These Numbers are the proof for improvement of usage of free legal aid system in our country.

(2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are payed according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

(2020): The budget for the legal aid in criminal cases is composed by: the budget for ex-officio lawyers according to the Law on Criminal procedure and the poor law budget. There are no other criminal cases, except criminal cases brought to court.

A little increasing in the implemented public budget in the other than criminal cases, is due to the fact that we start with full implementation new Law on free legal aid where the conditions for obtaining legal aid are facilitated.

Serbia

(2023): Official data obtained from the Sector for financial affairs in the MOJ

Annual implemented public budget for the High Judicial Council for mandatory defense 11469009 EUR.

In question 012 we counted only free legal aid. I see now we made a mistake.

(2022): Please note that the total amount refers only to the cases of granted free legal aid according the Law on free legal aid. This amount does not cover the free legal aid that was provided according to the Criminal Procedure Code (mandatory defense, etc.)

Q013: TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) - 92056 euros. A greater number of cases of free legal aid in 2022 resulted in a greater amount of money spent on the provided free legal aid. The amount for 2022 is higher compared to the previous two years, taking into account that during 2022 all measures against covid-19 were canceled.

(2021): The budget for the Legal Aid is executed based on the requests from the municipalities (local governments) and can cover only up to 50% of the total budget spent annually by municipalities (local governments), based on the Law on Legal Aid.

The Legal Aid does not include "mandatory representation in criminal cases" by lawyers, before the Serbian courts, which is the cost covered by the High Judicial Council.

(2020): TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2)

If the public budget actually implemented regarding legal aid is different from the annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid, please indicate the main reasons for the differences:
Data shall be available for the next report.

Kosovo*

(2021): As there was quite a budget cut for legal aid in 2020 due to the pandemic, in 2021 the budget was increased.

(2020): There is a difference between the approved and the implemented budget for Legal Aid, mainly because of the pandemic Covid 19. However, in the category "cases not brought to court" in criminal cases, the discrepancy between the approved and implemented budget is because the approved budget includes legal aid and expertise. At this moment, we are not been able to localize only the budget dedicated to legal aid. The courts have been dealing only with emergency cases for two and a half months in 2020(mid-March to June). However, even after the June, courts have not worked in their full capacities, because the Codiv-19 situation deteriorated again in July. The budget was reviewed in June, and significant reallocation in the budget were made. And of course, due to the lockdown, the number of criminal cases was lower compared to previous years and consequently, a part from the budget allocated to legal aid for criminal cases was reallocated.

(General Comment): Data on the approved budget are classified according to the economic classification adopted by the ministries of finance. The data regarding the approved budget is classified in a way that allows obtaining data only on the following elements that relate to question 4:

-TOTAL - Annual budget allocated to the functioning of all courts, and -1. Annual public budget allocated to (gross) salaries. The classification used for budget approval does not allow to obtain data on other elements referred to in question 4.

The reports on execution budgets make it possible to distinguish budget figures for all the elements in the table. The amounts of all items are calculated using the budget execution reports as the best possible estimation.

5. Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings.

In 2023, a large investment in court buildings in the area of the Posavina Canton was realized. Since no investments in new buildings were recorded in other courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina, there was a significant increase in the allocated budget for this purpose compared to 2022.

7. Other

The budget allocated for other purposes includes funds allocated for employee benefits such as sick leave, maternity leave and various other benefits. Also, the budget allocated for other purposes includes provisions for deposits. Provisions for retained bails and deposits are reported as long-term provisions for costs that will occur with great certainty in the coming years on the basis of retained bails and deposits. All of these costs can vary significantly from year to year.

(2022): There are two reasons why the amounts allocated for judicial expenses and training in 2022 are higher compared to the amounts allocated in 2021. First, after operating at a limited capacity in 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the courts continued to operate at full capacity in 2022. Secondly, due to inflation, a significant increase in the prices of services was recorded in 2022, and therefore the services of expertise, interpretation and training have become more expensive. In several courts, the amount of funds allocated for these purposes increased by more than 100% in 2022 compared to 2021

As regards investment in new buildings, the amount of funds allocated for the construction of new court buildings fluctuates from year to year, because it directly depends on the amount of funds donated for this purpose.

(2021): 5. Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings: Based on the insight into the implemented budgets for 2021, it is evident that the amount of annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings has significantly decreased compared to 2020. The decline in investments is due to the slow process of public procurement in the last two years, which is a result of the COVID-19 outbreak. Other costs are the expenditures such as travel expenses and the costs for the purchase of office material and office equipment.

(2020): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of courts is different from actually implemented budget mainly because the courts could not implement some of the allocated budget funds, as certain number of judicial and non-judicial positions were not filled in during the reporting year since the ongoing recruitment procedures have not been finalized fully. In addition, one of the highest courts could not implement the allocated budget for setting up the new department for organized crime and corruption cases, because the new department has not been established. Furthermore, the implemented annual public budget for training and investments in new court buildings declined considerably in 2020 compared to 2019, because the courts could not use all of the funds allocated for these purposes due to the reduction of the relevant activities in the context of the measures undertaken against the spread of COVID-19 pandemic. Other costs are the expenditures such as travel expenses and the costs for the purchase of office material and office equipment.

(2019): Some of the allocated budget funds have not been implemented because certain number of judicial and non-judicial position remained vacant. The allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest instance courts has not been implemented. There is no continuity of planning budget funds for the construction of new court buildings. For this reason, the amount of funds spent for this purpose can vary significantly. That is the explanation for the variation in the implemented budget for investments in new (court) buildings. Other costs are the expenditures for travel expenses and purchase of office material and office equipment.

Montenegro

(2023): Other includes: other personal income, jubilee awards, separation, aid, separate life, administrative material, fuel, energy, communication services, lawyer services, consulting, banking services, insurance, contract of work, utility services

(2022): -Differences relate to the enforcements via the Ministry of Finance (court experts and lawyers expenses) payed through enforcement procedures (e.g. bailiffs etc.)
- Other costs are other personal incomes, jubilee awards, severance payments, one time assistance payments, separate family life bonus, administrative/office material, fuel costs, energy bills, communication services, lawyer services, consulting services, banking services, licenses, insurances, employment contracts, utilities etc.

(2021): The difference relates to the enforcements through the Ministry of Finance (court experts and lawyers), which are being payed by enforced collection.

Other” includes: other personal income, jubilee awards, severance pay, assistance, separate life, administrative/office supplies, fuel, communication services, lawyer services, consulting services, banking services, licenses, insurance, employment contracts, utilities, technological redundancy-severance pay... (Source: Judicial council)
Since 2018 there has been an increase in the budget allocated to courts buildings (maintenance, operating costs) which is due to the fact that the requests of courts for more funds for this purpose were approved during the preparation of the courts budget.

(2020): The difference relates to the enforcements through the Ministry of Finance (court experts and lawyers), which are being payed by enforced collection.

Since 2018 there has been an increase in the budget allocated to courts buildings (maintenance, operating costs) which is due to the fact that the requests of courts for more funds for this purpose were approved during the preparation of the courts budget.

Discrepancy clarifications:

-Annual public budget allocated to court buildings (maintenance, operating costs) - There was an increase in the monetary amount due to the adaptation of official premises in several Montenegrin courts.

-Annual public budget allocated to investments in new (court) buildings - There was an increase in the monetary amount due to the fact that construction works were carried out on the building of the Commercial Court of Montenegro on the adaptation of the building itself.

-Annual public budget allocated to training - There was a decrease in the said amount due to the fact that this year a smaller number of trainings was conducted compared to the previous reporting because of the COVID-19 pandemics.

North Macedonia

(General Comment): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc.

(2023): After the investments in ICT made in the previous year, additional resources were allocated to maintain the new system. Regarding investments in new court buildings, the increase is attributable to expenses for renovating a few existing courts.

(2022): The court budget includes only the budget of all courts.

2. North Macedonia in 2022 allocated huge budget to investments in computerization (replacement of all old servers in all the courts and in the Judicial Council with new servers, 308 new computers, new laptops, 212 new printers, 64 new scanners, new softwares (for example: for evaluation of judges).

4. Maintenance of the court buildings and operating costs in 2022 are higher due to new prices of gas and electricity in our country and on the world level, as a consequences from COVID-19 and war in Ukraine.

5. In 2022, the renovation of the new building of Administrative court was finished. That was the second phase of the plan with smaller allocated budget for finishing the project, since the budget of first phase of the plan was larger and implemented in 2021.

7. All the prices and costs in 2022 are higher due to inflation. Please, see also explanation for category 4.

(2021): 2. In 2020 the courts were supplied with more IT equipment.

3. The expenses are higher due to higher amount of court expertise.

4. Expected increased amount of bills. 5. Reconstruction of the building of the Administrative court.

7. No supply on new cars and all cost are decreased because other expenses in other lines are higher.

(2020): In other are included: costs for mailing services, office materials, travel costs, costs for renting of apartments, new cars etc. The court budget includes only the budgets of all courts.

The decreasing of the court budget in 2020 in total is due to the fact that with the rebalance of the budget in 2019, about 2 million euros were provided for non paid allowances on the judges from the previous years. This allowances were paid in 2019.

Regarding the line 3 which refers to the justice expenses, the significant reduction of the total amount is due to the fact that according to the Law on Criminal Procedure, costs for court expertise are no longer paid by the court budget. Now they are paying by the PPO Budget. From the court budget now are only paying court expertise for old cases which are long time in the system, before the new Law on criminal procedure start with implementation. In 2020, the number of this type of old cases for which the expertise was paid by the courts was significantly lower compared to previous years.

Regarding the line 5 (New court buildings), in 2019 money were provided for the renovation of the building of the Administrative Court. However, the renovation of the building was not realized, due to administrative-technical problems. In the 2020 budget, money for this purpose were not provided.

Line for training is not included here, but in the questions about the Academy for judges and public prosecutors.

Serbia

(General Comment): The budget system of RS provides for unified collection of court fees, which are all paid to one account. The collected court fees are a revenue of the Republic of Serbia, from which 40% is allocated to the High Judicial Council for current expenses of the courts, except for expenses for court staff and staff at the public prosecutor's office, and 20% is allocated to the Ministry of Justice to improve the financial situation of employees in the courts and the public prosecutors' offices who are court staff and the staff of the Public Prosecutor's Office, other expenditures as well as investments in accordance with the law. Therefore, the amounts which the High Judicial Council and the MoJ transfer to the courts for various items in Q6 also come from court fees. Addition to this it is important to emphasise that the notary public is obliged to pay the amount of 30% of the collected prize without VAT, to the account prescribed for the payment of public revenues, within 15 days from the day of collection.

The referred amount is distributed for the current expenses of the courts and the improvement of the material position of the employees in the courts, as well as other expenses and investments for the courts, in accordance with the law.

(2023): High judicial Council budget + MoJ budget

(2021): E.g. New furniture

The methodology of collecting budgetary data has been changed with cooperation with CEPEJ.

(2020): Other: Additional furniture for new court buildings

Part of the legal aid budget is included in "justice expenses" and cannot be calculated separately

(2022): Digitalization of services;

New courts to be build;

No financing trainings for 2022 due to budget cut.

(2021): Justice expenses budget increased because as the courts proceeded with full capacity after Covid restrictions, more expertise and interpretation expenses became indispensable.

Budget allocated to court buildings was lowered due to budget cuts.

As regards budget allocated to court buildings, the new court buildings that began in the previous years were in process, therefore in 2021 the budget was lowered to the amount on finalising those court buildings projects.

As regards training budget, due to the other essential needs appeared during the year for the KJC, the training budget was cut.

(2020): Budget allocated to computerization includes 160,000 for buying computers and IT equipment for Kosovo Judicial Council and Courts, and 150,000 for the maintenance of the IT system. Concerning sub-q. 3, there is a considerable discrepancy with the data from the previous year. This is because, in the data from the last year, we did not deduct the amount dedicated to free legal aid. So, the data from the previous year regarding the total budget for this sector should be minus the sum dedicated to free legal aid. Concerning sub-Q. 4,5 and, the discrepancy between approved and implemented budget is a result of budgetary cuts because of the pandemic Covid 19. The differences in the approved and implemented budget of the sub2 is due to the purchase of new IT equipment(mainly new computers).

Albania

(2023): The data for the implemented budget "Implemented budget" for the year 2023 are approximate and were obtained from the AFMIS system until 22.01.2024. This figure is not final as the Treasury Office responsible for confirming this data will publish this figure in February 2024.

In the first column, we planned the budget at the beginning of the year.

In the second column, we have the actual realization of budget funds during the year 2023.

The revised budget during the year is 32,016,181 euros due to institutional needs.

The increase in this budget has come as a result of additions during the year 2023 of funds for personnel expenses for the payments of magistrates and officers in implementation of the Decision no. 35 of the Constitutional Court for wrongly calculated salaries.

(2021): At the prosecution, office there is no budget allocated to training of public prosecution services. Please note that training of judges and prosecutors is allocated to the budget of School of Magistrates.

The difference between approved budget and implemented budget consists mainly in savings of payments due to the vetting process (dismissal of prosecutors, some vacancies of administrative staff and prosecutors, savings from building reconstructions, etc

(2022): Some prosecution offices allocated a smaller amount of funding in connection with the training in the reporting year. However, the disparities in training funding for 2022 compared to 2021 are not significant considering the small value of absolute amounts the prosecution offices generally allocate for this purpose.

(2020): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all prosecutors' offices is different from actually implemented budget mainly because the prosecutors' offices could not implement some of the allocated budget funds, as certain number of judicial and non-judicial positions were not filled in during the reporting year since the ongoing recruitment procedures have not been finalized fully. Also, the allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest prosecutor's offices has not been implemented, because the new unit has not been established. The implemented annual public budget for training of public prosecution services declined considerably in 2020 compared to 2019, because the prosecutors' offices could not use all of the funds allocated for this purpose due to the reduction of the training activities in the context of the measures undertaken against the spread of COVID-19 pandemic.

(2019): The annual public budget allocated to the functioning of all prosecutors' offices from actually implemented budget is different mainly due to the following reasons: Some of the allocated budget funds have not been implemented because certain number of judicial and non-judicial position remained vacant. The allocated budget for setting up the new unit for organized crime and corruption cases within one of the highest prosecutor's offices has not been implemented.

Montenegro

(2023): difference between approved and implemented is because there were additional transfers from state budget to Prosecution during a budget year

(2020): The difference between the approved and implemented budget was due to the budget rebalance, all pursuant to the Law on Amendments to the Budget Law (Official Gazette of Montenegro 61/2020 as of 24 June 2020).

North Macedonia

(2023): The increase in the total budget is due to increased salaries

(2020): Presented budget is lower in comparison with last year, because approximately 4 million euros were distributed for the Special Public Prosecution office last year. The SPO is not exist anymore in the Macedonian justice system.

Serbia

(2023): Regarding the question annual public budget allocated to training of public prosecution services please note that this funds is provided through the Judicial Academy budget, due to the judicial Academy jurisdiction which is training in the whole Serbian Judiciary.

Albania

(2022): During 2022 there have been no external donor's contributions, included in courts' budgets.

(2020): The above budget is the amount spent by the EU technical assistance mission EURALIUS, aiming to support the implementation of justice reform in Albania for 2020. (2023): We have a lot of international projects supporting whole justice system with special emphasize of the judiciary. Taking into account that all of the projects are planned for two or more years and they cover different areas, it is not possible to answer specific subcategories defined in the question. Also some projects cover judiciary and justice system, but also institutions that not belong to judiciary and justice systems. Some projects are planned to finance defined activities for more countries. Presented figure is for all above mentioned categories. Methodology used: absolute amount of each project is divided by number of years of implementation of each project. Please find attached details for each project:

(2022): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2022, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular. Regional projects are included in the total amount.

(2021): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2021, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular.

The amount is lower in the column budget allocated to courts in comparison to the last year, because for many of the projects where a larger amount of funds was allocated (ex. projects related with supply on equipment) finished at the end of 2020.

All relevant projects are counted in this question. Regional projects are not included in the total amount. Regional projects that were implemented in 2021 by the external donors in North Macedonia were: Regional Rule of Law initiative, Strengthening Enforcement in North Macedonia, Serbia, Kosovo, Albania, Global Program Combating Illicit Financial Flows, Countering Serious Crimes in the Western Balkans-IPA 2019, Open Regional Fund for SEE-Legal reform, Regional project Enhancing penitentiary capacities in addressing radicalisation in prisons in Western Balkans, Regional project: iPROCEEDS – Targeting crime proceeds on the Internet in South Eastern Europe and Turkey.

(2020): The external donor funds are provided to the Justice sector through implementation of relevant projects. Contribution of external donors is not a direct part of the national budget. In the table are given numbers from the projects which were realized in 2020, calculated according to the formula given in the Explanation note. In order to ensure a full integration and synergy between national policies and the use of foreign assistance by donors and creditors in North Macedonia was established Sector Working Group for Justice with a mandate for coordination and monitoring of the use of donor assistance in general and the European Union's IPA programme in particular. Most of the projects started with implementation in 2019. For example, if the project last 24 months and started in June 2019 till June 2021, then according to the formula from the explanation note the higher amount from the project budget was spent in 2020. This is the reason, why in 2020 the budget is higher in comparison with 2019. Also, new projects started with implementation in 2020.

All relevant projects are counted in this question. Regional projects are not included in the total amount. Regional projects that were implemented in 2020 by the external donors in North Macedonia were: Regional Rule of Law initiative, Strengthening Enforcement in North Macedonia, Serbia, Kosovo, Albania, Global Program Combating Illicit Financial Flows, Countering Serious Crimes in the Western Balkans, Open Regional Fund for SEE-Legal reform, Building capacities of South Eastern Europe to conduct financial investigations to effectively detect, deter and prosecute money laundering and the financing of terrorism as well as enhance regional and inter-agency cooperation, Promoting rule of law and good governance through targeted border control measures at ports and airports.

The budget allocated for co-financing the building for courts and prosecutors offices (criminal departments) in the city of Novi Sad - is 13.078.394,00

(2020): EU projects can only present data from financial reports adopted by the Audit / Control, and the reporting period does not coincide necessarily with the calendar year. Namely, as the reports are submitted every 6 months, in this review it is possible to present data in relation to the following two periods (according to the approved financial reports): November 1, 2018-31.

October 2019 = 565,656 (for the period of 12 months)

November 1, 2019-31. October 2020 = 863,544 (for the period of 12 months).

Data for the period running from 1 November 2020 will be known at the end of that period (March 2021), upon adoption by the Audit.

Within the Component 3 of IPA 2013 project, which dealt with corruption repression, joint trainings for prosecution, courts, MoI and other state authorities were organized. It is not possible to divide costs per each institution. USDOJ / OPDAT was organized joint trainings for prosecution, courts and MoI, and it is not possible to divide cost for each institution. Also, certification courses for fraud and money laundering (82 454 EUR) was organised for representatives of different state authorities (MoI, prosecution, etc.), whose costs is not possible to divide. Within the item „donation of equipment and vehicles (total amount of eur 250.393), there is donation to the Main Group for fighting human trafficking that consist of MoI, Prosecution for organized crime, where is not possible to divide costs (eur 41 458), as well as donation of equipment and vehicles for Specialized departments for suppression of corruption, which is only dedicated to the prosecution (eur 208 935).

USAID GAI noted that there is no possibility to divide budget per institutions for 2019 and 2020, and that part of activities is being implements with funding from other donors. OEBS organized joint trainings for courts, prosecution and MoI, and implemented budget is not possible to divide . OEBS Project Strengthening capacities of Serbian police in a fight against corruption, Phase 2 is primarily supported MoI, but there were organized joint trainings for MoI and prosecution, and implemented budget is not possible to divide.

Council of Europe Project Preventing money laundering and financing of terrorism in Serbia has been officially started 2020, but for the objective circumstances, implementation of activities started in November 2020. Within this period implementation of activities .started with other beneficiary institution's, and support to the RPPO is planned for 2021. The number Budget allocated to the whole justice system (question 7)- 3,941,467.

(2023): The agency for free legal aid has had a genuine cooperation with international organizations over the years. During the year 2023, we can single out the close cooperation with GIZ, USAID, EUKOJUST, OSCE and UNHCR, cooperation which has also resulted in support to FLAA in different activities such as: realization of workshops for the drafting of by-laws, trainings, organization of awareness campaigns, preparation and printing of brochures, holding workshops, info legal sessions and meetings, realization of focus groups with citizens, drafting and publishing of analyses, manuals and other documents etc.

However, they have supported the activities but have not transferred the budget to FLAA, except for GIZ, which has supported the salaries of 4 (four) officials in 6 (six) mobile offices for free legal aid for 6 (six) months - January to June and the amount is included in the table above.

(2022): -KJC during 2022 had donations in the amount of €350,783.24 and that from UNDP and GIZ mainly for the support of the administrative staff in some courts of Kosovo (€48,627.95) and from the Norwegian Government for the SMIL project (€302,155.29).

-Prosecutorial system is constantly being supported by international partners, donors and projects through trainings, events, roundtables and donations. The sum in the table includes all of these activities.

-For FLAA funds have been allocated for the extension of free legal aid in municipalities where there is no regional office and mobile office for providing free legal aid and raising the professional capacities of officials.

During 2022, FLAA was also supported by the donor USAID - JAK through these activities:

- Publication of the Manual of Legal Aid Practitioners in Kosovo in civil, family and property legal matters;
- Training for 5 trainers trained in the use of the Manual of Legal Aid Practitioners in Kosovo in civil, family and property legal matters and the realization of trainings;
- Drafting of the report Mapping the Needs of Communities for Justice 2022;
- Organization of training on Mediation for 24 officials of ANJF;
- ANJF Communication Strategy 2022 - 2025;
- Support in the organization of the Free Legal Aid Week (23 – 27 May)
- Organization of 3 thematic roundtables with the participation of representatives from ANJF and NGOs that offer free legal assistance;
- Setting up the Info stand and distributing brochures with information about the ANJF, in Prizren during the Dokufest festival;
- Placement of permanent information shelves with brochures for the ANJF in the Basic Court in Mitrovica (in the south and north);
- Preparation and publication of the Video with information on the Agency for Free Legal Aid in sign language - dedicated to deaf people;
- Preparation, promotion and distribution of brochures in Braille with information on the Agency for Free Legal Aid and services, dedicated to blind people;
- Distribution of 1,100 questionnaires in 11 branches of the association HANDIKOS throughout Kosovo and summary of data from the respondents.

The donor USAID - JAK has implemented the budget, so we have no knowledge about the amount spent for the above activities.

(2021): -The KJC has received donations from UNDP and GIZ mainly as support to the administrative staff of the courts (legal officer, translator).

The value of the donation from UNDP was € 26,997.77 while from GIZ was € 3,037.62

-Prosecutorial system is constantly being supported by international partners, donors and projects through trainings, events, roundtables and donations. The sum in the table includes all of these activities.

-Free Legal Aid Agency was supported by the donor GIZ and UNDP. The project of Providing Free Legal Aid, supported by the Donor GIZ, for the period 1 year January-December 2021, has employed 4 officials to provide free legal aid. The budget from the donor was in the amount of € 36,948.00. Meanwhile, the project Immediate Support for Recovery to COVID-19 supported by the Donor UNDP, has supported the Agency during 2021 with the amount of 10,240.00 €, has hired officials to provide free legal aid and a mobile clinic driver, from their salary € 8,018.76 and goods in the amount of € 2,221.24. The budget spent on this project was € 8,895.71.

(2020): In the category 'Budget allocated of the Whole Justice System" we have used data from the Aid Management Platform, where we generated this sum from the sub-category 'Legal and Judicial Development'. The last year we did not provide data in this question because there are no official numbers regarding the total contribution of external donors. So, please note that this is only an approximation and does not reflect the total amount of external donor funds with certainty. The real numbers can be different from what we offered here, but until we are able to find a way to get those data, we propose to use these data from the Aid Management Platform, as a general idea regarding external donor funds in Justice Sector. This estimate is by defect because there might be other projects which are not included: have refused to be included or for other reasons. The external donor funds which contribute to the budget of courts is not linear. These donations are annually based and can change from one year to another. For instance, an external donor can finance or support certain elements of courts, such as interpreters or other administrative staff. Same applies the Prosecution Services. We already collected the data from legal aid to.

For Courts: 0.11%

For Prosecution services: 6.24%

For Legal Aid: 2,80%

(2020): Since the system does not allow decimals, the space between the numbers refers to a comma. i.e. 0 22 is 0,22%, 0 44 is 0,44%, 3 25 is 3,25% and 12 19 is 12,19%.

Question 012

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The legal aid is financed through the budgets of individual courts (e.g. funds for legal aid are mainly used to pay for the services of ex officio appointed attorneys in criminal cases) and the budgets of legal aid institutions that are government bodies independent from the courts. The accounting methodology does not make it possible to distinguish the amount of budget funds earmarked by the courts for legal aid from other funds which are planned within the same line in the court budget. Though, it is possible to differentiate the amount of funds spent for legal aid in the implemented court budget. On the other hand the lawyers employed by the government legal aid institutions provide legal aid in different legal fields (i.e. representation in criminal, civil, administrative court proceedings; provision of legal advice outside of court or other proceedings), therefore it is not possible to split the planned or implemented budget funds of the legal aid institutions between different legal fields. In conclusion, it is only possible to make the calculation of the annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid without dividing it among criminal and other than criminal cases.

Montenegro

(2022): in 2022 no separate amount for legal aid for courts was allocated, but that was a part of the budget section 4146 - lawyer services. In 2022 for legal aid the amount implemented is 108.776 Eur

(2020): Free legal aid is always approved under account 4146 of the Budget of Montenegro (Law on Budget), which refers to all attorney's fees, so it is not possible to provide the requested information separately.

North Macedonia

(2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are calculated according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

(2020): Provided data from courts and Ministry of Justice.

Budget is increased for implementation on the new Law on free legal aid and facilitation of the conditions for getting on free legal aid.

For line 2.for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services) budget is planed in total budget for free legal aid. Because of that it not possible to be given separately.

Serbia

(2023): Annual approved public budget for the High Judicial Council for mandatory defense 11536009 EUR.

In question 012 we counted only free legal aid. I see now we made a mistake.

(2021): The methodology of collecting budgetary data has been changed with cooperation with CEPEJ.

(2020): TOTAL - Annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) Total budget approved for 2020 was 6 million EUR. Nevertheless, due to COVID 19 and the fact that the budget was not spent during that budgetary year, there have been some adjustments to the total amount. 1. for cases brought to court (court fees and/or legal representation)
2. for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services)

Serbian law stipulates funding from the state budget and local self-government budget for cases brought to court (court fees and/or legal representation), as well as for mediators and public notaries as providers of free legal aid. These cases are funded 50% from the state budget and 50% from local self-government budget. The actual payment takes place following the completion of a certain phase of the proceedings. Given that the law started implementation on October 1st 2019, most cases brought to court have not yet been finalized.

(2022): Budget increased

(2021): In KPC budget categories we don't have separate category for budget for lawyers, but the budget code is named "legal representation cost" which include lawyers and experts. The total budget approved for this category was 843,959€ which we divided in 2 and the budget approved for lawyers being 421,979.5€.

As for the discrepancies, they are due to Covid pandemic aftermath and budget review.

(2020): In this year, we have been able to obtain the data for categories 'cases brought to court and cases not brought to court' for criminal cases too. The budget concerning cases not brought to court is managed by Kosovo Prosecutorial Council(KPC), while the Budget concerning cases brought to court is managed by the Kosovo Judicial Council(KJC). Therefore, for cases not brought to court, we have used the data offered by KPC, while for cases brought to court, we have used the data from KJC.

Albania

(2023): We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

(2021): Performance throughout 2021, the first year of full capacity operation of the free legal aid mechanism, has marked an increase in the number of court decisions that grant applicants the right to secondary legal aid and exemption from court fees and costs. We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

(2020): The above data is referred to the implemented/ allocated budget of Free Legal Aid Directorate for 2020. The difference between allocated budget and implemented budget has come as a result of delays in the recruitment of FLAD staff but also employees of primary legal aid service centers in the districts of the Republic of Albania. Also, another factor is related to the financing procedures of 12 authorized non-profit organizations which provide primary legal aid, a procedure which is expected to start in March 2021.

Following the approval of the legal aid law, the budget of legal aid was increased substantially to provide for primary and secondary legal aid. The law foresees the opening of legal clinics, that will provide primary legal aid to all citizens. For 2020, 8 legal clinics were foreseen to be opened. Additionally, the criteria for providing secondary legal aid were clarified in the law, and they granted legal aid to a considerate number of applicants. With the establishment of the Legal Aid Directorate, courts started to grant secondary legal aid to applicants. (the Directorate is in charge of administering the court decision, and making the payment to the lawyer, based on that court decision). Hence, all these activities, were supported by an increased budget.

Montenegro

(2023): Not including ex officio mandatory representation. Legal aid is different specific category

(2022): in 2022 no separate amount for legal aid for courts was allocated, but that was a part of the budget section 4146 - lawyer services. In 2022 for legal aid the amount implemented is 108.776 Eur

(2020): A smaller number of requests for free legal aid were adopted, thus less money was spent.

North Macedonia

(2023): In 2023, more criminal cases brought to court were concluded. The rise in the budget allocated to criminal cases may also be attributed to the complexity of these cases and their longer durations, resulting in higher expenses for lawyers.

(2022): Implementation of the new Law on free legal aid was one of the strategic goals. Campaigns in 2022 through the whole country to raise awareness of beneficiaries about their rights to free legal aid were very successful. These Numbers are the proof for improvement of usage of free legal aid system in our country.

(2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are payed according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

(2020): The budget for the legal aid in criminal cases is composed by: the budget for ex-officio lawyers according to the Law on Criminal procedure and the poor law budget. There are no other criminal cases, except criminal cases brought to court.

A little increasing in the implemented public budget in the other than criminal cases, is due to the fact that we start with full implementation new Law on free legal aid where the conditions for obtaining legal aid are facilitated.

Serbia

(2023): Official data obtained from the Sector for financial affairs in the MOJ

Annual implemented public budget for the High Judicial Council for mandatory defense 11469009 EUR.

In question 012 we counted only free legal aid. I see now we made a mistake.

(2022): Please note that the total amount refers only to the cases of granted free legal aid according the Law on free legal aid. This amount does not cover the free legal aid that was provided according to the Criminal Procedure Code (mandatory defense, etc.)

Q013: TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) - 92056 euros. A greater number of cases of free legal aid in 2022 resulted in a greater amount of money spent on the provided free legal aid. The amount for 2022 is higher compared to the previous two years, taking into account that during 2022 all measures against covid-19 were canceled.

(2021): The budget for the Legal Aid is executed based on the requests from the municipalities (local governments) and can cover only up to 50% of the total budget spent annually by municipalities (local governments), based on the Law on Legal Aid.

The Legal Aid does not include "mandatory representation in criminal cases" by lawyers, before the Serbian courts, which is the cost covered by the High Judicial Council.

(2020): TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2)

If the public budget actually implemented regarding legal aid is different from the annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid, please indicate the main reasons for the differences:
Data shall be available for the next report.

Kosovo*

(2021): As there was quite a budget cut for legal aid in 2020 due to the pandemic, in 2021 the budget was increased.

(2020): There is a difference between the approved and the implemented budget for Legal Aid, mainly because of the pandemic Covid 19. However, in the category "cases not brought to court" in criminal cases, the discrepancy between the approved and implemented budget is because the approved budget includes legal aid and expertise. At this moment, we are not been able to localize only the budget dedicated to legal aid. The courts have been dealing only with emergency cases for two and a half months in 2020(mid-March to June). However, even after the June, courts have not worked in their full capacities, because the Codiv-19 situation deteriorated again in July. The budget was reviewed in June, and significant reallocation in the budget were made. And of course, due to the lockdown, the number of criminal cases was lower compared to previous years and consequently, a part from the budget allocated to legal aid for criminal cases was reallocated.

Q014 (2022): (<https://www.instat.gov.al/media/11344/statistikat-e-pagave-t4-2022.pdf>), the average gross monthly salary for a salaried employee, in the end of 2022 was 66,014 ALL and the average gross annual salary was 792,168 ALL or 6,888 EUR (exchange rate 1 euro = 115 ALL).

Average monthly gross salary for a salaried employee, during in the end of 2022, is 66,014 ALL, increasing by 10.8%, compared to the data of previous years.

Q015 (2023): NA

Q015 (2022): The difference in amount from one year to another comes for two reasons:

the values are set in the Euro currency, which brings changes in the amount from year to year depending on the exchange rate at the time of reporting, since judges' salaries are calculated in Lek. the maximum salary that is reported is the salary that is actually given to the judge who is paid more in the system and not the potential salary that the salary can go higher. This means that the maximum salary given, because it also includes the element of seniority at work, which of course changes every year.

Q015 (2020): The gross salary for the Appellate prosecutors is ALL 269268 and the net one is ALL 202687. While the salary in euro consists of the gross one of € 2025 and the net one of € 1524.

On the first January of 2019 the new salary scheme for judges and prosecutors entered into force. The new salary scheme, part of the justice reform law nearly doubled the salaries of judges and prosecutors, especially at first instance level.

A magistrate's salary is determined by the magistrate's affiliation to a salary group and the salary scale.

2. A magistrate's salary is categorised into salary groups (G), based on the following indicators:

a) Magistrates assuming their functions in first instance courts of general and administrative jurisdiction or prosecution offices attached to first instance courts (G1):

b) Magistrates assuming their functions in appeal courts of general and administrative jurisdiction, prosecution offices attached to courts of appeal, magistrates assuming their function at the Anti-corruption and Organised Crime Specialised Court of first instance (G2);

c) Magistrates assuming their functions at the High Court and General Prosecution Office, as well as magistrates assuming their functions at the Anti-Corruption and Organized Crime Court of Appeal and at the Special Prosecution Office (G3).

3. The seniority bonus in exercising the function shall be calculated at the extent of 2% of the reference basic salary for each year of service in the function, but not more than 25 years of service.

4. In the case of High Court judges, appointed from among jurists who do not come from a judicial career, for the purpose of determining the seniority of service in exercising the function, the seniority bonus is calculated as equivalent to that of 15 years' of judicial career.

5. The monthly gross salary of a magistrate consists of the following elements:

a) The basic reference salary for judicial and prosecutorial functions, which is equivalent to the 'function-related salary' of civil servants of first category, the third scale in the position of Director of the General Directorate at Prime Minister's Office or any other equivalent position, as set out by the Council of Ministers decision. The reference of the monthly basic salary for judicial and prosecutorial positions to the "function-related salary" according to the above provisions, does not aim at defining the relative value of judicial and prosecutorial positions as against the civil service positions or to enable its classification into the respective category or class.

b) Supplements to group salary, which is the amount resulting from the multiplication of the

Q016 (2020): In terms of housing, the law on status of judges and prosecutors (article 17) provides that "A magistrate shall, during the exercise of function and after having exercised the function at least three years, be once entitled to benefit a state funded home loan, at the amount of an average value of an apartment of 50 m² in a central area of the town, where the magistrate exercises the function. Per family member in the sense of paragraph 5 of this Article living in the household with the magistrate, the reference size of the apartment surface shall be increased per 10m² per person. In case two persons in a household are entitled to a state funded home loan, this shall be benefited only by one of them."

Q018 (2022): Based on Article 16, paragraph 1, of law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", stipulates "The magistrates, who during the previous calendar year, had an exceptionally high ethical and professional evaluation, shall each year benefit a reward equal to a basic reference salary".

In paragraph 2 it is determined that: "The Councils shall adopt more detailed rules on the remuneration according to paragraph 1 of this article by:

a) restricting the entitlement to a maximum to 5 % of magistrates annually, being evaluated during the previous calendar year. b) setting out the criteria and procedure on the selection of the magistrates benefiting this entitlement."

This provision is still valid. However, since the Council (HJC in this case) has yet to adopt rules on this matter, in practice this benefit has never been allocated.

Q018 (2020): The magistrates, who during the previous calendar year, had an exceptionally high ethical and professional evaluation, shall each year benefit a reward equal to a basic reference salary. The Councils can adopt more detailed rules on the remuneration by: a) Restricting the entitlement to 5 % of magistrates annually, being evaluated during the previous calendar year; b) Setting out the criteria and procedure on the selection of the magistrates benefiting this entitlement. Part of the ethical and professional evaluation are also the organisational skills, as provided in article 74 of the law on status of judges and prosecutors. By the criterion of organisational skills the magistrates' ability to handle the workload and to handle judicial or investigatory procedures and skills to administer the judicial files are evaluated by avoiding that circumstances which do not depend on the magistrate and have negative effect on the results of the evaluation. The skills to handle the workload are measured based on the indicators to meet legal deadlines, to meet the minimum time standards, the average time spent on each case, the clearance rate of judicial cases and the average time to make a final judicial decision or a final prosecutorial decision in a case.

In the case of a judge, the skill of a judge to handle judicial procedures is measured by the indicators of the average number of hearings per case, conducting the necessary procedural actions for the organization of the judicial process, avoidance of unproductive court hearings, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

In case of a prosecutor, the skill of a prosecutor to handle efficiently investigation procedures and other procedures of the prosecutorial system is measured by the indicators of conducting necessary investigative and procedural actions within the set time frame, collection of necessary evidence, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

5. The skill to administer the judicial or prosecutorial files is measured by the indicators of the order, completeness and accuracy of documentation of the file.

Q019 (2023): -In regard of the number of judges

Referred to the decision of Council of Ministers no. 495, dated 21.07.2022 "On the reorganization of judicial districts and territorial powers of the courts", on 01.07.2023 the process of implementing the New Judicial Map was completed, reorganizing the number of courts operating in the Republic of Albania from 38 courts to 20 courts.

Occurring in the conditions of a transitional year, due to the implementation of the New Judicial Map and due to the redistribution of the number of 408 magistrates (judges), referring to decision no. 553, dated 29.12.2022 "On the appointment of the number of magistrates in the Court of Appeal with General Jurisdiction", decision no. 146, dated 29.03.2023 "On determining the number of magistrates in the Courts of First Instance with General Jurisdiction" and decision no. 286, dated 29.05.2023 "On the determination of the number of magistrates in the Administrative Courts of the First Instance" of the Supreme Judicial Council, the comparison of data in specific courts becomes difficult.

However, the main factor in the reduction of the number of magistrates (judges) is attributed to the transitional re-evaluation process, and more specifically, in terms of losses from the system as a result of the transitional re-evaluation process, it is worth noting that 24 decision-making for dismissal from office resulted from The Appeal Chamber belonging to the year 2023, as well as resulting in 53 judges (magistrates) dismissed from office, with decision-making by the Independent Qualification Commission, of which 11 magistrates (judges) dismissed by the Independent Qualification Commission during 2023, who are waiting for the development of the process in The Appeal Chamber, meanwhile maintaining the status of a judge due to the suspension and simultaneously benefiting according to the law of 75% of the salary.

Also, in 2023, there are 6 magistrates (judges) who have left office, of which 2 magistrates (judges) have resigned from office and 4 magistrates (judges) have left due to reaching retirement age/ early retirement;

Q019 (2020): Please note that the High Court should have 19 judges. At the start of the vetting process, there were 17 judges in the High Court. However, in the end of the vetting process for the High Court only 2 judges remained at the High Court. The rest of them either resigned or were dismissed by the vetting process. Currently the High court has 4 judges (one of them is currently acting as a member of the High Judicial Council, therefore his mandate as a High Court Judge has been suspended).

Q019-1 (2023): - In regard of the Court Presidents

From the data available to the Directorate of Human Resources, it results that currently in the courts of all levels, 1 (one) President of the Court and 20 (twenty) Deputy President of the Court exercise the function.

In fulfillment of legal obligations, with the minutes of the General Meeting of Supreme Court Judges, dated 17.10.2023, the President of the Supreme Court was resolved.

Meanwhile, within the framework of the proper functioning of the courts, the 20 courts operating in the Republic of Albania have elected a magistrate (judge) in the position of Deputy President of the Court .

In the absence of the required number of judges for voting in the election of the President of the court, the courts have continued with the elections for the Deputy President, in the framework of the proper functioning of the respective courts, as well as the fulfillment of the legal obligation.

Q019-1 (2022): The number of court presidents decreased due to different reasons. Several of the aforementioned court presidents were dismissed because of the vetting process, several of the first instance court presidents have been promoted to higher courts or have been appointed in the delegation scheme.

Q015 (General Comment): First of all, the work experience affects the amount of net and gross salaries. The following assumptions were used for the above stated calculations of the salaries of judicial office holders (i. e. judges and prosecutors): three-year working experience of judge/prosecutor at the beginning of his/her career; twenty-year working experience of a judge/prosecutor of the supreme court or the highest appellate instance. There are somewhat different general regimes for the salary contributions in different jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, these regimes apply to the salaries of the judicial office holders as well. Having in mind the aforementioned factors, the above stated calculations of the salaries are made as the weighted average salary based on the number of judges/prosecutors.

The method used to calculate net and gross salaries for judges/prosecutors is based on the basic salary amount as prescribed by law together with allowances added to the net salary subject to years of employment, and other contributions for the calculation of gross salaries. Deviations occur due to the application of different legal regulations on entity level, i.e. specifically with reference to judicial office positions in one of the jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e. the Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina), where there are far more judges than prosecutors, which directly impacts the calculation of overall indicators.

Q015 (2022): Due to the changes in the Dashboard Western Balkans Questionnaire for 2022, the amount of salaries of judges and public prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina at the Highest Appellate Instance is significantly higher in 2022 compared to the relevant figure included in the Dashboard Western Balkans Questionnaire for 2021.

Q019 (General Comment): The number of court presidents is included in the number of judges.

There are 3 courts of general jurisdiction in Bosnia and Herzegovina that are included in the Supreme Court category.

Firstly, at entity level, there are the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court and the Republika Srpska Supreme Court.

Both courts are competent to decide within the respective entity on legal remedies concerning decisions of the immediately lower courts.

Secondly, there is the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina at the State level. Its competencies are regulated by the Law on the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina and are related to criminal, administrative and appellate jurisdiction. However, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina has no jurisdiction over the decisions adopted by the entity – level Supreme Courts. Within its criminal jurisdiction, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina tries cases pertaining to the specific category of crimes laid down by the laws of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which include war crimes, organized crime, economic crime and corruption cases. The administrative jurisdiction means that the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina adjudicates cases pertaining to the decisions issued by the State institutions and other organizations in charge of public functions, such as property disputes related to the performance of public functions between the State and the entities, breaches of the election law, etc. Its Appellate Division only decides appeals against the decisions of the Court's first instance divisions. Accordingly, there are three

Prosecutor's Offices representing criminal cases before the courts that are included in the Supreme Court category: the Prosecutor's Office before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina; the Prosecutor's Office before the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court; the Prosecutor's Office before the Republika Srpska Supreme Court.

Q019 (2019): The numbers provided do not include information on the number of court presidents and reserve judges (Q20).

Q022 (General Comment): Lay judges are citizens who hear and decide criminal cases together with professional judges. Lay judges are appointed by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and they play a role in the Bosnia and Herzegovina judicial system, due to application of previously valid criminal procedural laws that required their participation. The procedural laws have been changed in a way that participation of lay judges is not required any longer, but due to a backlog of cases, their participation is still needed. Concretely, courts adjudicate the criminal law cases by panels that include lay judges if the proceedings were instituted before the currently valid Criminal Procedure Codes came into force.

Q022 (2023): In 2023, the trend of decreasing the number of non-professional judges continued, in line with a decrease in the number of old pending criminal cases in courts.

Q014 (2023): data source: National Statistical Administration

Q014 (2022): Average gross salary in 2022

Q015 (2023): Increase of salaries 2023 is a result of the adoption of new so called "Branch collective agreement for the administration and judiciary" (the agreement between employers and unions) which foresees possibilities of increase of basic salary for overtime and on-call and similar types of out of operating hours work

Q015 (2021): Regarding the average salary in the previous year in the Supreme State Prosecutor's Office, prosecutors had more years of service compared to prosecutors this year (who had a smaller number of years of service), so the average salary was higher for that reason. The number of years of service affects the salary of a judge. As the judges of the Supreme Court who retired in 2021 had the highest number of years of work experience, their retirement had the effect of reducing the average salary of judges, because judges with fewer years of service remained in the Supreme Court.

Q019 (2022): some of the judges were retired and in the meantime new judges elected

Q019 (2021): During 2021, the Judicial Council noted the termination of the judicial function for 54 judges. Out of that, 19 judges were in the position related to the second instance before the termination of their judicial function, while 12 judges performed the function of a judge of the Supreme Court of Montenegro. For this reason, there was a difference compared to last year's report. In particular, a number of judges have exercised their right to a pension. The procedure for selecting new judges takes some time. At the beginning of 2022, a number of new judges were elected (eg 11 new judges of the Supreme Court of Montenegro)

Q019 (2020): Even though the percentage discrepancy in the reported values seems drastic, those values may be misleading. The number of total judges has not changed drastically. Last year: Number of Supreme Court professional judges total - 19 judges

Males:- 5

Females- 14

This year: total - 18

males - 3

females - 15

Q019-1 (2023): The Basic Court in Žabljak does not have a Court President, while the Supreme Court of Montenegro, the Higher Misdemeanor Court, the Basic Court in Nikšić, and the Basic Court in Danilovgrad have Acting Presidents of the Court.

Q019-1 (2022): new presidents elected in the meantime

Q026 (2021): Regarding "2. Non-judge (judicial) staff whose task is to assist the judges such as registrars" - this is not a significant discrepancy (last report there the answer was 78) Please take into account that in last year's report, the percentage of women in the "Other non-judge staff" category was 17.48, while this year the percentage was 26.06, which we believe is not a big deviation.

Q026 (2020): The presidents of the courts submitted official data related to the number of full-time employees on December 31, 2020. We do not have a specific answer to the question why the structure of employees by certain categories has changed.

Q027 (2021): The Judicial Council pointed out the fact that there has been a reduction in the number of employees in the Supreme Court of Montenegro, and for that reason the number of men is lower compared to last year's report.

Q028 (2023): Special State Prosecutor's Office has 15 prosecutors, 8 males and 7 females. This is counted in total as well as in section 2. because they are also competent for the court of appeal cases

Q028 (2022): Section 2 includes also prosecutors of the Special State Prosecutor's Office,

Q028 (2021): Although in percentage terms these are changes that can be characterized as significant, we believe that these changes are not significant. Significant differences in percentages can occur because the total number of prosecutors is relatively small.

Q028 (2020): In the column "Number of prosecutors at first instance level", in addition to the number of state prosecutors in the basic state prosecutor's offices the number of special state prosecutors is included.

Q032 (2023): all staff civil servants full time employed.

Q015 (2023): Salaries increased due to a decision of the Constitutional Court. Decision of the Constitutional Court effects several laws governing the salaries of appointed and elected officials, judges, and public prosecutors followed a specific methodology for calculating salaries. According to this methodology, salaries were determined by multiplying a coefficient defined by law with a fixed amount specified as the legally established basis. However, the Constitutional Court overturned the provision that specified the fixed amount as the legally established basis. Consequently, a new methodology defined in the law is still in force where the coefficient defined by law is multiplied by the average monthly salary in the state. This change has led to a rapid increase in salaries for judges, prosecutors, and other appointed and elected individuals.

Albania

(2023): NA

(2022): The difference in amount from one year to another comes for two reasons:

the values are set in the Euro currency, which brings changes in the amount from year to year depending on the exchange rate at the time of reporting, since judges' salaries are calculated in Lek. the maximum salary that is reported is the salary that is actually given to the judge who is paid more in the system and not the potential salary that the salary can go higher. This means that the maximum salary given, because it also includes the element of seniority at work, which of course changes every year.

On the first January of 2019 the new salary scheme for judges and prosecutors entered into force. The new salary scheme, part of the justice reform law nearly doubled the salaries of judges and prosecutors, especially at first instance level.

A magistrate's salary is determined by the magistrate's affiliation to a salary group and the salary scale.

2. A magistrate's salary is categorised into salary groups (G), based on the following indicators:

a) Magistrates assuming their functions in first instance courts of general and administrative jurisdiction or prosecution offices attached to first instance courts (G1):

b) Magistrates assuming their functions in appeal courts of general and administrative jurisdiction, prosecution offices attached to courts of appeal, magistrates assuming their function at the Anti-corruption and Organised Crime Specialised Court of first instance (G2);

c) Magistrates assuming their functions at the High Court and General Prosecution Office, as well as magistrates assuming their functions at the Anti-Corruption and Organized Crime Court of Appeal and at the Special Prosecution Office (G3).

3. The seniority bonus in exercising the function shall be calculated at the extent of 2% of the reference basic salary for each year of service in the function, but not more than 25 years of service.

4. In the case of High Court judges, appointed from among jurists who do not come from a judicial career, for the purpose of determining the seniority of service in exercising the function, the seniority bonus is calculated as equivalent to that of 15 years' of judicial career.

5. The monthly gross salary of a magistrate consists of the following elements:

a) The basic reference salary for judicial and prosecutorial functions, which is equivalent to the 'function-related salary' of civil servants of first category, the third scale in the position of Director of the General Directorate at Prime Minister's Office or any other equivalent position, as set out by the Council of Ministers decision. The reference of the monthly basic salary for judicial and prosecutorial positions to the "function-related salary" according to the above provisions, does not aim at defining the relative value of judicial and prosecutorial positions as against the civil service positions or to enable its classification into the respective category or class.

b) Supplements to group salary, which is the amount resulting from the multiplication of the (General Comment): First of all, the work experience affects the amount of net and gross salaries. The following assumptions were used for the above stated calculations of the salaries of judicial office holders (i. e. judges and prosecutors): three-year working experience of judge/prosecutor at the beginning of his/her career; twenty-year working experience of a judge/prosecutor of the supreme court or the highest appellate instance. There are somewhat different general regimes for the salary contributions in different jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, these regimes apply to the salaries of the judicial office holders as well. Having in mind the aforementioned factors, the above stated calculations of the salaries are made as the weighted average salary based on the number of judges/prosecutors.

The method used to calculate net and gross salaries for judges/prosecutors is based on the basic salary amount as prescribed by law together with allowances added to the net salary subject to years of employment, and other contributions for the calculation of gross salaries. Deviations occur due to the application of different legal regulations on entity level, i.e. specifically with reference to judicial office positions in one of the jurisdictions in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e. the Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina), where there are far more judges than prosecutors, which directly impacts the calculation of overall indicators.

(2022): Due to the changes in the Dashboard Western Balkans Questionnaire for 2022, the amount of salaries of judges and public prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina at the Highest Appellate Instance is significantly higher in 2022 compared to the relevant figure included in the Dashboard Western Balkans Questionnaire for 2021.

(2023): Increase of salaries 2023 is a result of the adoption of new so called "Branch collective agreement for the administration and judiciary" (the agreement between employers and unions) which foresees possibilities of increase of basic salary for overtime and on-call and similar types of out of operating hours work

(2021): Regarding the average salary in the previous year in the Supreme State Prosecutor's Office, prosecutors had more years of service compared to prosecutors this year (who had a smaller number of years of service), so the average salary was higher for that reason. The number of years of service affects the salary of a judge. As the judges of the Supreme Court who retired in 2021 had the highest number of years of work experience, their retirement had the effect of reducing the average salary of judges, because judges with fewer years of service remained in the Supreme Court.

North Macedonia

(2023): Salaries increased due to a decision of the Constitutional Court. Decision of the Constitutional Court effects several laws governing the salaries of appointed and elected officials, judges, and public prosecutors followed a specific methodology for calculating salaries. According to this methodology, salaries were determined by multiplying a coefficient defined by law with a fixed amount specified as the legally established basis. However, the Constitutional Court overturned the provision that specified the fixed amount as the legally established basis. Consequently, a new methodology defined in the law is still in force where the coefficient defined by law is multiplied by the average monthly salary in the state. This change has led to a rapid increase in salaries for judges, prosecutors, and other appointed and elected individuals.

(2022): In 2022 public prosecutors in the PPO for organized crime had an additional financial benefits of 35% of the salary every month. In 2022 the highest gross/net annual salary of the public prosecutor for organized crime was 26.179 /17.135 euros. Also, in 2022 there were additional financial benefits for judges, 15-30%.

(2021): There are discrepancies from the last report because the lowest value of the salary for 2021 for the first instance professional judge at the beginning of his/her career is for the judge that has less professional experience than the judge before.

(2020): The annual salaries of judges are lower in 2020 in comparison to 2019, because in 2019 a higher amount of allowances has been paid on judges for the previous years. That type of allowances has not been paid in 2020.

Salaries of judges and public prosecutors are regulated in the Law on salaries for judges and the Law on salaries for public prosecutors.

(2020): There are some minor differences with the data from the previous year, mainly because the Law on Kosovo Judicial Council and the Law on Court have started to implement, and they have leveled salaries between all departments of the same instance(horizontal). There has been no decrease in the salaries of the Judges of Supreme Court. However, our colleagues from the Kosovo Judicial Council, when reported last year, they provided us with the highest salary in Supreme Court, and not the average. We figured it out this year, during our internal meetings, and changed it.

Albania

(2022): Based on Article 16, paragraph 1, of law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", stipulates "The magistrates, who during the previous calendar year, had an exceptionally high ethical and professional evaluation, shall each year benefit a reward equal to a basic reference salary".

In paragraph 2 it is determined that: "The Councils shall adopt more detailed rules on the remuneration according to paragraph 1 of this article by:

a) restricting the entitlement to a maximum to 5 % of magistrates annually, being evaluated during the previous calendar year. b) setting out the criteria and procedure on the selection of the magistrates benefiting this entitlement."

This provision is still valid. However, since the Council (HJC in this case) has yet to adopt rules on this matter, in practice this benefit has never been allocated.

(2020): The magistrates, who during the previous calendar year, had an exceptionally high ethical and professional evaluation, shall each year benefit a reward equal to a basic reference salary.

The Councils can adopt more detailed rules on the remuneration by: a) Restricting the entitlement to 5 % of magistrates annually, being evaluated during the previous calendar year;

b) Setting out the criteria and procedure on the selection of the magistrates benefiting this entitlement. Part of the ethical and professional evaluation are also the organisational skills, as provided in article 74 of the law on status of judges and prosecutors. By the criterion of organisational skills the magistrates' ability to handle the workload and to handle judicial or investigatory procedures and skills to administer the judicial files are evaluated by avoiding that circumstances which do not depend on the magistrate and have negative effect on the results of the evaluation. The skills to handle the workload are measured based on the indicators to meet legal deadlines, to meet the minimum time standards, the average time spent on each case, the clearance rate of judicial cases and the average time to make a final judicial decision or a final prosecutorial decision in a case.

In the case of a judge, the skill of a judge to handle judicial procedures is measured by the indicators of the average number of hearings per case, conducting the necessary procedural actions for the organization of the judicial process, avoidance of unproductive court hearings, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

In case of a prosecutor, the skill of a prosecutor to handle efficiently investigation procedures and other procedures of the prosecutorial system is measured by the indicators of conducting necessary investigative and procedural actions within the set time frame, collection of necessary evidence, as well as including the monitoring of sending without delay the necessary acts of notification.

5. The skill to administer the judicial or prosecutorial files is measured by the indicators of the order, completeness and accuracy of documentation of the file.

Question 019

Albania

(2023): In regard of the number of judges

Referred to the decision of Council of Ministers no. 495, dated 21.07.2022 "On the reorganization of judicial districts and territorial powers of the courts", on 01.07.2023 the process of implementing the New Judicial Map was completed, reorganizing the number of courts operating in the Republic of Albania from 38 courts to 20 courts.

Occurring in the conditions of a transitional year, due to the implementation of the New Judicial Map and due to the redistribution of the number of 408 magistrates (judges), referring to decision no. 553, dated 29.12.2022 "On the appointment of the number of magistrates in the Court of Appeal with General Jurisdiction", decision no. 146, dated 29.03.2023 "On determining the number of magistrates in the Courts of First Instance with General Jurisdiction" and decision no. 286, dated 29.05.2023 "On the determination of the number of magistrates in the Administrative Courts of the First Instance" of the Supreme Judicial Council, the comparison of data in specific courts becomes difficult.

However, the main factor in the reduction of the number of magistrates (judges) is attributed to the transitional re-evaluation process, and more specifically, in terms of losses from the system as a result of the transitional re-evaluation process, it is worth noting that 24 decision-making for dismissal from office resulted from The Appeal Chamber belonging to the year 2023, as well as resulting in 53 judges (magistrates) dismissed from office, with decision-making by the Independent Qualification Commission, of which 11 magistrates (judges) dismissed by the Independent Qualification Commission during 2023, who are waiting for the development of the process in The Appeal Chamber, meanwhile maintaining the status of a judge due to the suspension and simultaneously benefiting according to the law of 75% of the salary.

Also, in 2023, there are 6 magistrates (judges) who have left office, of which 2 magistrates (judges) have resigned from office and 4 magistrates (judges) have left due to reaching retirement age/ early retirement;

(2022): During the year 2022 there were appointed new judges to the supreme court

(2020): Please note that the High Court should have 19 judges. At the start of the vetting process, there were 17 judges in the High Court. However, in the end of the vetting process for the High Court only 2 judges remained at the High Court. The rest of them either resigned or were dismissed by the vetting process. Currently the High court has 4 judges (one of them is currently acting as a member of the High Judicial Council, therefore his mandate as a High Court Judge has been suspended).

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The number of court presidents is included in the number of judges.

There are 3 courts of general jurisdiction in Bosnia and Herzegovina that are included in the Supreme Court category.

Firstly, at entity level, there are the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court and the Republika Srpska Supreme Court.

Both courts are competent to decide within the respective entity on legal remedies concerning decisions of the immediately lower courts.

Secondly, there is the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina at the State level. Its competencies are regulated by the Law on the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina and are related to criminal, administrative and appellate jurisdiction. However, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina has no jurisdiction over the decisions adopted by the entity – level Supreme Courts. Within its criminal jurisdiction, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina tries cases pertaining to the specific category of crimes laid down by the laws of Bosnia and

Herzegovina, which include war crimes, organized crime, economic crime and corruption cases. The administrative jurisdiction means that the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina adjudicates cases pertaining to the decisions issued by the State institutions and other organizations in charge of public functions, such as property disputes related to the performance of public functions between the State and the entities, breaches of the election law, etc. Its Appellate Division only decides appeals against the decisions of the Court's first instance divisions. Accordingly, there are three

Prosecutor's Offices representing criminal cases before the courts that are included in the Supreme Court category: the Prosecutor's Office before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina; the Prosecutor's Office before the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court; the Prosecutor's Office before the Republika Srpska Supreme Court.

The court presidents were excluded from the statistics provided for the Western Balkans indicators and questionnaire in order to ensure consistency with the statistics provided for the Q46 in the Questionnaire dashboard of Evaluation of the judicial systems (2018 - 2020). 76 court presidents were appointed on 31st December 2020.

Montenegro

(2022): some of the judges were retired and in the meantime new judges elected

(2021): During 2021, the Judicial Council noted the termination of the judicial function for 54 judges. Out of that, 19 judges were in the position related to the second instance before the termination of their judicial function, while 12 judges performed the function of a judge of the Supreme Court of Montenegro. For this reason, there was a difference compared to last year's report. In particular, a number of judges have exercised their right to a pension. The procedure for selecting new judges takes some time. At the beginning of 2022, a number of new judges were elected (eg 11 new judges of the Supreme Court of Montenegro)

(2020): Even though the percentage discrepancy in the reported values seems drastic, those values may be misleading. The number of total judges has not changed drastically. Last year:

Number of Supreme Court professional judges total - 19 judges

Females- 14

Lay judges are appointed by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and they play a role in the Bosnia and Herzegovina judicial system, due to application of previously valid criminal procedural laws that required their participation.

The procedural laws have been changed in a way that participation of lay judges is not required any longer, but due to a backlog of cases, their participation is still needed. Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): There are 3 courts of general jurisdiction in Bosnia and Herzegovina that are included in the Supreme Court category. Firstly, at entity level, there are the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court and the Republika Srpska Supreme Court. Both courts are competent to decide within the respective entity on legal remedies concerning decisions of the immediately lower courts. Secondly, there is the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina at the State level. Its competencies are regulated by the Law on the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina and are related to criminal, administrative and appellate jurisdiction. However, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina has no jurisdiction over the decisions adopted by the entity – level Supreme Courts. Within its criminal jurisdiction, the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina tries cases pertaining to the specific category of crimes laid down by the laws of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which include war crimes, organized crime, economic crime and corruption cases. The administrative jurisdiction means that the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina adjudicates cases pertaining to the decisions issued by the State institutions and other organizations in charge of public functions, such as property disputes related to the performance of public functions between the State and the entities, breaches of the election law, etc. Its Appellate Division only decides appeals against the decisions of the Court's first instance divisions. Accordingly, there are three Prosecutor's Offices representing criminal cases before the courts that are included in the Supreme Court category: the Prosecutor's Office before the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina; the Prosecutor's Office before the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Supreme Court; the Prosecutor's Office before the Republika Srpska Supreme Court. The High and Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints judicial associates in municipal courts (i.e. first instance courts) in one part of the country, the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, for an undetermined period. A judicial associate may proceed and decide non-contentious matters, enforcement matters, including payment orders, and small claims cases in accordance with the law and as assigned by the court president. Appeals against their decisions are decided by the second instance courts. As for the requirements in terms of qualifications set by the legislation, judicial associates must possess a law degree and have to pass the bar examination. The three ICT deployment indices (CMS, Courts decisions DB and Statistical tools) range from 0 to 10 points. Their calculation is based on the features and deployment rates of each beneficiary. The methodology for calculation provides points for each feature in each case matter. They are summarised and multiplied by the deployment rate as a weight. In this way, if the system is not fully deployed, the value is decreased even if all features are existing.

North Macedonia: Because of the 2021 Census, the number of inhabitants changed dramatically between 2020 and 2021. For this reason, all the variations of values standardised by the number of inhabitants are mainly due to the variation in the population.

North Macedonia: Because of the 2021 Census, the number of inhabitants changed dramatically between 2020 and 2021. For this reason, all the variations of values standardised by the number of inhabitants are mainly due to the variation in the population.

North Macedonia: Because of the 2021 Census, the number of inhabitants changed dramatically between 2020 and 2021. For this reason, all the variations of values standardised by the number of inhabitants are mainly due to the variation in the population.

Q038 (2023): Based on the table of statistics collected from the reporting of the courts “other cases” refers to “administrative criminal cases”.

Q038 (2022): Other Criminal cases: a) criminal administrative cases (exe: probation requests, security measures etc) b) cases related to anti-mafia law.

The number of resolved cases during 2022 is believed to have been caused by the decrease of the number of judges in the second instance due to different factors such as resignations, vetting process, promotions. In addition, the inequal distribution of cases between courts is another factor contributing to the problem.

Q038 (2021): Criminal requirements of the preliminary investigation phase; Criminal cases of the preliminary hearing; Criminal requirements of the execution phase; Security measures; parole; Extradition

Q038 (2020): Variations from the previous cycle remain unexplained

Q039 (2023): The increase in the number of administrative resolved cases In 2023, the number of judges effectively in office is 8.3 judges marking an increase of 49% but again far from the full number of the corps of 13 judges. Also, the number of non-judge staff increased by 46% during 2023, reaching in 67 non-judge support staff.

Q039 (2022): The decrease in the number of resolved cases during 2022 is believed to have been caused by the decrease of the number of judges in the second instance due to different factors such as resignations, vetting process, promotions. In addition, the inequal distribution of cases between courts is another factor contributing to the problem.

As regards administrative cases, during 2022 the Administrative Appeal Court has functioned with 43% of judges.

Q040 (2023): Based on the table of statistics collected from the reporting of the courts “other cases” refers to “administrative criminal cases”.

Q040 (2022): Other Criminal cases: a) criminal administrative cases (exe: probation requests, security measures etc) b) cases related to anti-mafia law.

Long disposition time is due to the lack of judges and uneven distribution of workload.

Q040 (2020): A decrease in the number of resolved criminal cases (-45%) remains unexplained

Q041 (2023): NA

Q041 (2022): In the present condition of the CMS system, we cannot calculate the exact average length of proceedings. We use the disposition time as a proxy.

Q042 (General Comment): Yes, there are quality standards determined for the judicial system at national level approved by the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, (Article 71) who are related to the assessment process of the prosecutors. The assessment is conducted according to the criteria of: a) professional skills; b) organizational skills; c) ethics and commitment to professional values and personal skills and; c) professional commitment of the prosecutor.

Concerning the professional skills of the prosecutor, the assessment includes the legal knowledge and legal reasoning to conduct the investigation logically, gathering the evidence required by law, interpret the law and analyse jurisprudence, make investigative decisions and actions, clarity and the understanding of prosecution acts, the consistent and well-organized structure of prosecution acts, the ability to question and the quality of the analysis, and the logical reasoning of the prosecutor, etc.

HJC is the body responsible for determining the quality standards of the judiciary, including efficiency and quality. HJC is working on producing the sub-legal acts concerning standards, in cooperation with external partners. Furthermore, each Council publishes Standards of Ethics and Rules of Conduct. Hence, standards generally speaking standards are divided into performance related standards (quality and quantity of performance of magistrates) and behavioral related standards (ethics).

Q043 (General Comment): On the performance related standards, implementation is assessed individually for each magistrate during its professional and ethical evaluation. This process includes a self evaluation by the magistrate, the chair and then the relevant Council. Additionally, for behavior related standards each Council appoints a magistrate as Ethics Advisor under the provisions of the Law “On the Governance Institutions of the Justice System”.

Q048 (General Comment): NA

Q048 (2021): The court performance is assessed as part of the annual report but because there is no officially approved indicators yet, the court performance can not be evaluated.

Q049 (2022): The HJC has in place 2 different statistical reports: a yearly report based on CEPEJ methodology as well as a quarterly report. Both are analyzed by the statistic sector of the HJC. The decisions regarding human resources distribution, judges’ appointments and transfers are based on these data.

Q053 (General Comment): NA

Q057 (2021): According to the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, the head of the Prosecution office, where the prosecutor is exercising his/her duty presents an opinion on the activity of the prosecutor in accordance with the standards set by the High Prosecutorial Council

Q058 (General Comment): NA

Q058 (2022): We can deduct the number of appeals and appeal ratio by the data that we gather but it is not an indicator directly reported by courts. Furthermore, it is not analyzed as part of a court functional indicator, it is used during the personal assessment of a judge. Regarding the "satisfaction of users", an online survey is being piloted in the First instance court of Tirana.

Q058 (2020): Based on this provision and based on the annual plan of Inspections, the High Inspector of Justice has approved the following decisions:

- Decision no. 1 dated 11.02.2020, "On conducting the thematic inspection of courts and prosecutor's offices near them on the treatment of requests subject to" Conditional Release ";

Q082-1 (2023): Thanks to the developments occurred in the field of Information Technology, for more than 15 years from now, services offered by courts are easily accessible online by citizens, media representatives, as well as other civil society actors. Since 2005, two different electronic case management systems have been operating in the Albanian courts (ARKIT and ICMIS). Currently it turns out that out of 20 courts in the Albanian territory, 18 of them are using the ICMIS system, 2 of them using the ARKIT system. While, only two courts, respectively Tirana Judicial District Court and the Special Court of First Instance for Corruption and Organized Crime are using the ARKIT system

Q082-1 (2022): THE ARKIT system has been used since 2002, and the ICMIS system has been used since 2007.

Q082-2 (2023): timeline including when the new system is expected to become operational:

Preliminary steps (Governance structure setup, Preliminary decisions, Decision on migration of data from existing systems, etc);

Phase 1 (case handling, statistics, decisions);

Phase 2 (e-filing etc. for criminal cases);

Phase 3 (e-filing etc. for civil and admin. cases);

Legislation;

System support, operation and maintenance;

Taking into account that a newly developed judicial case management system should nowadays necessarily include a full digitization of all procedures, and considering the inherent complexity of such endeavor, a 5-year timeline for the completion of the whole project is proposed.

Q082-2 (2020): The current CMS presents a number of shortfalls and the latest study conducted by HJC concludes on the necessity to develop e new system. Because of the substantive financial efforts it requires, in 2020 HJC commissioned a total of 84 upgrades to the system which functionalities have improved since, but still a new system is envisaged. Its development depends primarily on the securing of financial support.

Q082-1-0 (2023): The Case Management Systems with which the Albanian courts operate are CMIS and ARKIT .

A broad consensus has been achieved in the Albanian judiciary about the need to replace both existing case management systems used by Albanian courts (ARK-IT and ICMIS, with their variants and their 2 and 36 local installations respectively) with a single new generation, state-of-the-art system.

The Centre for the IT in the Judiciary of Albania has adopted in December 2021, upon proposal of the High Judicial Council (HJC), a Road Map for the development of the new Albanian Court Case Management System. Among these, the relevant decisions of the Information Technology Centre in the High Judicial Council were approved in order to start work on the development of a new Court Case Management System. However, it's obvious that the systems used in the Albanian courts are almost obsolete despite frequent updates with new features. Additionally, each of the courts have their own servers installed locally which are not unified. The internal network architecture across the courts is specific to each court and is not standardized and unified yet. The renewal of the licenses of the various software components used by the courts is managed by each court in particular. This also applies to security programs that must be used on each of the court servers.

In terms of security, the case management system operates offline and can only be accessed locally by court users. Each court through the institutions of the IT is responsible for guaranteeing security and implementing policies that protect the system from possible threats.

Q084 (2020): Please note that data are anonymized only for first and second instance courts. The High court still publishes its decisions without anonymizing the data

Q085 (2020): The website is www.gjykata.gov.al; however decisions of the High Court are published in the website of the High Court www.gjykataelarte.gov.al. Furthermore, Tirana District Court and Tirana Appeals Court also have their dedicated websites where data are anonymised. This happens because there are currently two systems in use in Albania; ICMIS, which is used by the majority of the Courts and ARKIT which is used only in Tirana District Court and Former Serious Crimes Court.

Q036 (General Comment): The most important case categories among civil and commercial non-litigious cases are: uncontested payment orders, non-litigious enforcement cases, inheritance proceedings, non-contentious proceedings related to personal and family matters (e.g. establishing that a person does not have legal competence, stripping of parental rights), non-contentious proceedings for settling relationships between co-owners of the real estate including dissolution of co-ownership, settlement of boundary lines, voluntary sales. The majority of non-litigious cases were enforcement proceedings the state-owned utility companies initiated because of unpaid bills for utility services. (e.g. heating, water, electricity, garbage collection, television subscription etc.).

Q038 (General Comment): As of 2022, i.e. the Evaluation of the judicial systems 2024 (data 2022), the statistics for severe criminal cases and other cases for this question include data for criminal cases from the first instance jurisdiction of second instance courts. Regardless of the above change, the general trends for criminal cases in 2023 remain similar to the tendencies from the previous reporting cycles.

Severe criminal offences: a criminal offense is an unlawful act which violates or jeopardizes the protected values and which is, because of the danger it represents, defined by law as a criminal offense and for which a punishment is prescribed. Criminal sanctions are: punishments, suspended sentence, security measures and educational measures. Examples of serious criminal offenses are: criminal acts against state, homicide, organized crime, criminal acts against official duty (i.e. corruption cases), theft and other crimes against property, rape and other crimes against sexual integrity, traffic accidents where a person suffered grievous bodily injury or a significant damage and other crimes against public transportation etc.

Statistics on severe criminal offences include data on the cases in which the main part of the proceedings has started following the confirmation of indictment by court.

Minor offence or misdemeanor cases: minor offences are violations of public order or of regulations on economic and financial operations defined as such by laws or other regulations, whose characteristics are described and for which sanctions are prescribed. The following sanctions may be imposed upon a person found responsible for commission of a minor offence: fine; suspended sentence; reprimand; and protective measures. The following measures may be imposed because of being found responsible for a minor offence: confiscation of gains; obligation to compensate damages; penalty points; and deprivation of liberty to compel payment of a fine. Examples of minor offences: traffic offences, violations of public order, begging etc.

Statistics on misdemeanor offences include data on the cases in which the main part of the misdemeanor proceedings has started.

Statistics on other cases include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.)

statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanor proceedings and to the enforcement of pronounced penalties.

Q038 (2023): Criminal cases As of 2022, i.e. the Evaluation of the judicial systems 2024 (data 2022), the statistics for severe criminal cases and other cases for this question include data for criminal cases from the first instance jurisdiction of second instance courts. Regardless of the above change, the general trends for criminal cases in 2023 remain similar to the tendencies from the previous reporting cycles.

Misdemeanor cases:

The number of pending first-instance misdemeanor cases increased by 1% during 2023, unlike the previous reporting year (i.e. 2022) during which the number of pending cases decreased by 12%.

The number of incoming cases in 2023 was higher by 7% compared to 2022. The most significant increase in the influx of cases occurred in several courts in major towns, due to the increased number of requests for misdemeanor proceedings from various administrative authorities and police (i.e. traffic violations). Furthermore, the courts resolved more cases in 2023 than in the previous year. However, the courts failed to achieve 100% clearance rate in 2023 (i.e. 99%).

Q038 (2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal law cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases rose by 8% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases registered in 2019 and 2018. Statistics on first-instance criminal cases in 2022 indicate that the situation in the courts is, basically, consistent with the parameters from 2021.

Unlike previous years, the number of incoming cases decreased in 2022. Consequently, the number of pending cases in the first instance decreased at the end of 2022. The reduction in the influx of cases was recorded, predominantly, in the largest courts. This is not a consequence of legislative changes. It remains to be seen whether such indicators will continue to be achieved in the coming period.

Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanour proceedings and for the enforcement of pronounced penalties.

In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases rose by 8% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases registered in 2019 and 2018.

In addition, as in 2019 and 2020, the number of incoming first instance misdemeanour cases continued a clear upward trend in the reference year. Predominantly, increase of the new cases remains to be the result of a more consistent approach of the law enforcement institutions concerning traffic offences and some offences against public order. In addition, the number of resolved first instance cases in 2021 was bigger in comparison to 2020, which was marked by the Covid-19 measures restricting the work in prosecutors' offices and courts. However, the courts failed to reach the 100% clearance rate in the reference year. Consequently, the number of pending misdemeanour cases continued to grow in 2021 as in the previous years. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

Q038 (2020): Specific comments for 2020:

There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal cases over recent years, that trend improved in 2020 due to the decrease of activity of public prosecutors and judges in the context of measures implemented against the epidemic of Covid-19. However, in contrast to 2019, the number of resolved first instance criminal cases plunged in 2020, due to Covid-19 measures restricting the work in prosecutors' offices and courts. Therefore, the number of pending severe criminal cases was bigger at the end of the reporting year. As in 2019, the number of incoming first instance misdemeanour cases continued to raise in 2020. Predominantly, increase of the new cases remains to be the result of a more consistent approach of the law enforcement institutions concerning traffic offences and some offences against public order. The number of resolved first instance cases in 2020 was lesser compared to 2019 because of Covid-19 measures restricting the work in courts. Consequently, the number of pending misdemeanour cases continued to grow in 2020 as in the previous year. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). Also, the historical statistics since 2014 show the decrease of the severe criminal cases. Due to the increase of the incoming misdemeanor and other cases in 2019 the courts did not achieve 100% clearance rate causing the increase of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019. The increase of the incoming cases was mostly the result of a more strict approach of the law enforcement institutions with regards to the punishing traffic offences. Also, it is important to note that although the increase of pending misdemeanor cases between 2018 and 2019 is high in relative terms, it is not as significant in absolute numbers.

Q039 (2023): Civil (and commercial) litigious cases: The number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases declined in 2023, following a massive one-time increase in the influx of cases in one of the courts in 2022. The influx of this category of court cases in 2023 is in balance with the influx of cases in 2021. In addition, there has been a significant decrease in the number of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. This trend continued in 2023. It is particularly facilitated by the continuous reduction of backlog in several of the largest courts that have jurisdiction over second instance civil commercial litigious cases.

Administrative cases: The number of incoming second-instance administrative law cases remained stable in 2023 compared to the influx of cases in 2022 and 2021. In 2023, the courts continued to reduce the number of second-instance administrative law cases in 2023, which is in line with historical trends for this category of court cases.

Q039 (2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions; therefore, the number of appeals initiating the second instance court cases in 2020 was much lower, compared to the previous years. In 2021, however, the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases was increased by 9% compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is by far smaller than the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases registered in 2019 and 2018. This trend continued in 2022. However, one of the second-instance courts received a large number of simple cases, which were resolved during the same year, which resulted in an increase in the total number of cases received compared to 2021. This was a one-time increase in the influx of cases, related specifically to this court's territorial jurisdiction. Furthermore, the courts with the biggest caseload in the country have managed to surpass the 100% clearance rate for many consecutive years, including the reference year; consequently, the number of pending second instance civil commercial litigious cases was lesser at the end of 2022. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. When it comes to administrative court cases, the number of pending cases has been further reduced in 2022, confirming indicators from 2021.

Q039 (2021): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions; therefore, the number of appeals initiating the second instance court cases in 2020 was much lower, compared to the previous years. In 2021, however, the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases was increased by 9% compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is by far smaller than the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases registered in 2019 and 2018. In addition, the courts with the biggest caseload in the country have managed to surpass the 100% clearance rate for many consecutive years, including the reference year; consequently, the number of pending second instance civil commercial litigious cases was lesser at the end of 2021. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. The courts registered the decreased numbers of incoming and resolved administrative cases in 2021 in contrast to the previous year. The workload shrank predominantly in one of the courts in the reference year; which received almost no complaints against the decisions of the election commission unlike in 2020.

In general, the courts maintained the trend from 2020 and previous years to make a significant reduction of the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

Q039 (2020): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. The courts registered the increased numbers of incoming and resolved administrative cases in 2020 in contrast to the previous year; the workload increased particularly in one of the courts, which had to decide urgently on the huge number of the complaints against the election commission's decisions in relation to the 2020 local elections. The courts maintained the trend from 2019 to make a significant reduction of the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

Q039 (2019): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of civil commercial litigious cases over recent years, including 2019; also, the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019 can be explained by the fact that the courts have achieved or surpassed the 100% clearance rate for commercial and civil litigious cases throughout the same period. The decrease of administrative cases was registered in 2019 as in the previous year; in such conditions the backlog of cases was reduced in 2019. The above-mentioned reduction in the number of new cases is not caused by the legislative amendments. When it comes to the statistics on pending civil and commercial litigious and administrative cases older than 2 years, it is important to note the following circumstances: The courts reduced significantly the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years in 2019 compared to 2018 due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

Q040 (General Comment): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. The second instance courts have first instance jurisdiction for criminal offences for which more than 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed, they also have second instance jurisdiction to decide on appeals against the decisions brought by the first instance courts for criminal offences for which up to 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed. The statistics of second instance courts on criminal law cases (Q040, i.e. incoming, resolved, pending, pending older than two years) include only second instance cases within the jurisdiction of the second instance courts, whereas the first instance cases within their jurisdiction are included in the statistics under the question Q038 First instance courts: number of criminal law cases. In addition, the statistics included under the question Q040 do not include data on severe criminal cases managed by the three courts that are included in the category of supreme courts under the Q100 (Evaluation of the judicial systems 2024) Highest instance courts (Supreme Court): Number of criminal law cases. Their caseload in terms of criminal law consists of the first (i.e. one of the courts in this category has both first and second instance criminal jurisdiction), second and third instance severe criminal cases. The courts of appeal have jurisdiction only to deal with the second-instance misdemeanor cases. Severe criminal offences: a criminal offense is an unlawful act which violates or jeopardizes the protected values and which is, because of the danger it represents, defined by law as a criminal offense and for which a punishment is prescribed. Q040 (2023): Criminal cases:

As of 2022, i.e. the Evaluation of the judicial systems 2024 (data 2022), the statistics for severe criminal cases and other cases for this question include only data for criminal cases from the second instance jurisdiction of relevant courts, whereas the statistics on cases generating from their first instance jurisdiction are included in the data for the first instance courts: number of criminal law cases. This change may lead to some inconsistencies between data for 2023 and the previous reporting cycle. Regardless of the above change, the general trends for criminal cases for this question remain similar to the tendencies from the previous reporting cycles.

Misdemeanor cases:

The number of pending second-instance misdemeanor cases rose during 2023 by 13%, unlike the previous reporting year (i.e. 2022) during which the number of pending cases decreased by 10%. However, it is important to note that this modification was not significant in absolute terms. The number of incoming and resolved cases remained stable in the reporting year compared to 2022.

Q040 (2022): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. The second instance courts have first instance jurisdiction for criminal offences for which more than 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed, they also have second instance jurisdiction to decide on appeals against the decisions brought by the first instance courts for criminal offences for which up to 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed. The statistics of second instance courts on criminal law cases (Q 40, i.e. incoming, resolved, pending, pending older than two years) include only second instance cases within the jurisdiction of the second instance courts. These statistics do not include data on severe criminal cases managed by the three courts that are included in the category of supreme courts; their caseload in terms of criminal law consists of the first (i.e. one of the courts in this category has both first and second instance criminal jurisdiction), second and third instance severe criminal cases. There has been a significant decrease of the first instance severe criminal cases over recent years to the second instance courts of the aforementioned category. The trend advanced in 2020 due to the decrease of activity of public prosecutors and judges in the context of measures implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus. In addition, in 2020 the number of incoming second instance criminal cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019 and 2018. The number of the first instance severe criminal cases remained stable in 2021 and 2022.

Q040 (2021): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019 and 2018. The number of the first instance severe criminal cases remained stable in 2021.

As for the number of incoming severe criminal law cases at second instance courts, it was increased in 2021 compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is smaller significantly than the number of incoming severe instance criminal law cases registered at second instance courts in 2019 and 2018.

The second instance courts deal only with the appeal cases within their jurisdiction for misdemeanour cases. Even though the number of pending cases dropped slightly in 2021, the decrease is not as significant in absolute numbers.

When it comes to the statistics on pending severe criminal cases and other cases older than 2 years, the number of those cases increased slightly in 2021 mostly due to the measures which continued to be implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus in the reference year (e.g. number of persons in the court rooms was restricted). However, certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable).

Furthermore, many of the pending cases that are classified as other cases older than 2 years will become severe criminal cases once the procedural obstacles in those cases are removed for the commencement of the trial.

Although the second instance courts resolved smaller number of severe criminal cases in 2020 compared to the previous year, they were able to exceed the 100% clearance rate during the reporting year. Accordingly, the number of pending first and second instance severe criminal cases declined significantly in the reporting period.

The second instance courts deal only with the appeal cases within their jurisdiction for misdemeanour cases. Even though the number of pending cases continued to rise considerably in relative terms in 2020, the increase is not as significant in absolute numbers.

Note regarding 2019 data: During the analysis of data for 2020, a technical error was discovered in the Business Intelligence System. In 2019, the error caused that certain number of incoming and pending criminal cases could not be identified as severe criminal cases; instead, the Business Intelligence System included incorrectly those cases in the other cases category. The correct data for 2019 have been prepared in order to replace the previously included data for that year.

The statistics on criminal law cases (Q 40, i.e. incoming, resolved, pending, pending older than two years) include both first and second instance cases. There has been a significant decrease in the influx of severe criminal cases over recent years, including 2019; also, the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019 can be explained by the fact that the courts have achieved or surpassed the 100% clearance rate for severe criminal cases in the same period. The number of misdemeanor cases and other cases rose considerably in relative terms between 2018 and 2019, the increase is not as significant in absolute numbers.

When it comes to the statistics on pending severe criminal cases and other cases older than 2 years, it is important to note the following circumstances: The courts reduced significantly the number of pending cases older than 2 years in 2019 compared to 2018 due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable).

Q041 (General Comment): Description of calculation method: The average length of court procedure is calculated as the average of time needed to resolve a case for cases resolved during the reporting year. The average length of court procedure for resolving the case is calculated separately for different phases of the court procedure - from the day of initiating the phase of the court procedure to its completion. The data are retrieved from the case management system.

Average total length of the total procedure:

The average length of the total procedure is calculated as the average of time needed to resolve a case for all cases resolved in the different phases of court procedure during the year. (e. g. The first instance employment dismissal case is resolved in 100 days from its lodging with the first instance court, second instance employment dismissal case is resolved in 120 days from its lodging with the second instance court, and third instance employment dismissal case was resolved in 120 days. The average length of the total procedure employment dismissal cases is calculated as follows: $100+120+120/3=113,3$ days.)

Q041 (2023): In 2023, an average duration of proceedings continued to get reduced for the resolved first and third instance civil and commercial litigious cases, which is consistent with the decrease in the number of pending cases for both case categories during the reporting year. Unlike 2022, the average duration of second-instance civil and commercial cases rose slightly in 2023. This occurred mostly because the courts with the biggest number of pending cases resolved certain number of very old cases during the reporting year. It is important to note that the backlog of old first instance litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several first instance courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

As in previous years, as far as other types of court cases are concerned under the Question 41 (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence), it is important to put these differences into the following context. Primarily, the variations are registered within a relatively small number of cases, so the variations could be influenced significantly by the length of proceedings and other circumstances of individual cases (e.g. robberies and intentional homicides) or the registered variations are high percentage-wise but they are not significant in absolute terms (e.g. litigious divorce cases, employment dismissal cases, insolvency cases). When it comes to the Bribery cases and Trading in influence cases, it is important to note that the prosecutors' offices and the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina process very often the corruption cases as the cases of the Abuse of Office (i.e. An official or responsible person who, by taking advantage of his office or official authority and by exceeding the limits of his official authority or by failing to perform his official duty, acquires a benefit to himself or to another person or causes damage to another person or seriously violates the rights of another, shall be punished by imprisonment). The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

Q041 (2022): Generally, the relevant indicators regarding civil and commercial litigious cases for the reference year are consistent with the statistical information for such cases in 2021. It is important to note that the backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several first instance courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The average duration of second-instance litigation and economic resolved cases decreased significantly due to the increase in the number of resolved cases in the largest courts of second instance in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

As in previous years, as far as other types of court cases are concerned under the Question 41 (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence), it is important to put these differences into the following context. Q041 (2021): Generally, the relevant indicators regarding civil and commercial litigious cases for the reference year are consistent with the statistical information for such cases in 2020. It is important to note that the backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several first instance courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. As for other cases under the Question 41 (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence), it is important to put these differences into the following context. Primarily, the variations are registered within a relatively small number of cases, so the variations could be influenced significantly by the length of proceedings and other circumstances of individual cases (e.g. robberies and intentional homicides) or the registered variations are high percentage-wise but they are not significant in absolute terms (e.g. litigious divorce cases, employment dismissal cases, insolvency cases). The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

Finally, it appears that the increase in the length of proceedings in the first instance court cases resolved in 2021 originated from the smaller number of disposed cases in 2020, following the Covid- 19 restrictions regarding the functioning of the courts.

Q041 (2020): Civil and commercial litigious cases:

Overall, in relation to the civil and commercial litigious cases, the relevant trends and indicators for 2020 are corresponding to the results the courts achieved in 2019.

When it comes to statistics on civil and commercial litigious pending cases older than 3 years, it is important to note that the majority of those cases are litigious small claims cases, pending before the first instance courts, related to the unpaid utility bills. This backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Other cases (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence):

There is no particular explanation of the variations for other cases between 2019 and 2020. It is important to put these differences into the following contexts; the variations are registered within a relatively small number of cases, so the variations could be influenced significantly by the facts and circumstances of individual cases (e.g. robberies and intentional homicides) or the registered variations are high percentage-wise but they are not significant in absolute terms (e.g. litigious divorce cases, employment dismissal cases, insolvency cases). Furthermore, in 2020, Covid-19 restrictions regarding the functioning of the courts affected differently their work on individual cases and case types. When it comes to the Bribery cases and Trading in influence cases, it is important to note that the prosecutors' offices and the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina process very often the corruption cases as the cases of the Abuse of Office (i.e. An official or responsible person who, by taking advantage of his office or official authority and by exceeding the limits of his official authority or by failing to perform his official duty, acquires a benefit to himself or to another person or causes damage to another person or seriously violates the rights of another, shall be punished by imprisonment). The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

Q041 (2019): Civil and commercial litigious cases:

The average length in 2nd instance resolved civil and commercial litigious cases increased in 2019, compared to 2018, because the second instance courts resolved significant number of old cases, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans. Also, the number of resolved old civil and commercial cases increased in some of the biggest second instance courts through temporary assignment of judges from other second instance courts with a smaller caseload. The average length in 3rd instance resolved civil and commercial cases was reduced in 2019, compared to 2018, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

When it comes to statistics on civil and commercial litigious pending cases older than 3 years, it is important to note that the majority of those cases are litigious small claims cases, pending before 1st instance courts, related to the unpaid utility bills. Q041-1 (General Comment): Pursuant to the criminal procedure legislation, the basic duty of the prosecutor is the detection and prosecution of perpetrators of criminal offenses. The prosecutor has the following powers: a) as soon as the prosecutor becomes aware that there are grounds for suspicion that a criminal offense has been committed, to take necessary steps to discover it and investigate it, to identify the suspect(s), guide and supervise the investigation, as well as direct the activities of authorized officials pertaining to the identification of suspect(s) and the gathering of information and evidence; b) to conduct an investigation in accordance with the law; c) to grant immunity in accordance with law; d) to request information from governmental bodies, companies and other physical and legal persons; e) to issue summonses and orders and to propose the issuance of summonses and orders in accordance with the law; f) to order authorized officials to execute an order issued by the court as provided by the law; g) to propose the issuance of a warrant for pronouncement of the sentence; h) to issue and defend indictment before the court; i) to file legal remedies; j) to perform other tasks as provided by the law.

Q041-1 (2023): Prosecutors may end the criminal cases against juveniles by imposing certain types of criminal sanctions - i.e. cases in which prosecutors impose educational measures against minor defendants without bringing them to court.

Q041-2 (General Comment): Public prosecutors deal exclusively with criminal cases. However, the law provides for a smaller scope of jurisdiction of public prosecutors in civil and bankruptcy proceedings. If there are reasonable grounds to use a remedy against an executive court decision or a decision taken in another proceeding, the chief federal prosecutor may request that the execution of such a decision be postponed or interrupted, if its adverse effects could result in unavoidable adverse consequences. A copy of the decision on the opening of the bankruptcy procedure shall be submitted to the competent prosecutor's office. The competent prosecutor's office shall also be informed in the event that the opening of the bankruptcy procedure does not occur due to the lack of property.

Q041-3 (2023): Around 88% of pending cases on 31 December 2023 were cases involving criminal acts in which their perpetrators could not be identified by police when the case was filed, cases in which a prosecutor needs to preliminarily establish if an illegal behavior constitutes a criminal act. Additionally, around 12% of pending cases were cases against known minor and adult perpetrators. These cases are considered to be more important for the society and the criminal justice system compared to the other group of cases (cases involving criminal acts in which their perpetrators could not be identified by police when the case was filed, cases in which a prosecutor needs to preliminarily establish if an illegal behavior constitutes a criminal act).

Q041-5 (General Comment): Traffic offence cases are dealt with by the courts under the legislation on misdemeanor proceedings. In general, the misdemeanor offences are determined by the law and other regulations as violations of public order punishable by fines. The police, not the prosecution, initiate and present traffic offence cases in the courts.

Q042 (General Comment): In 2022, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the new criteria for the performance evaluation of judges, prosecutors, court presidents, and chief prosecutors, introducing minor changes to the scoring system included in the previously valid appraisal criteria that had been adopted in 2020. According to the criteria, the court presidents evaluate yearly judges in line with the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of decisions issued by a judge is evaluated based on the following parameters: a) the percentage of reversed decisions compared to the total number of decisions upheld, modified and reversed by a higher instance court; b) the percentage of reversed and modified decisions compared to the total number of cases in which a final decision was rendered to which a legal remedy may be filed with the higher instance court.

According to the criteria, the chief prosecutors evaluate yearly prosecutors in line with the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual backlog reduction plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of a prosecutor's indictments is assessed on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of enforceable judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of enforceable decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period.

The heads of higher courts and prosecutors' offices evaluate yearly lower instance court presidents and chief prosecutors based on the statistical data and the indicators related to the management of the work of the court and the prosecutor's office.

Furthermore, there is a normative framework that consists of the various law provisions, regulations, and guidelines. The framework outlines systematic processes in the entire judicial system of Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as in the prosecutors' offices and courts, which have a purpose to help the judicial institutions achieve the best possible results in terms of production and quality. The processes include meetings of departments (uniform application of the law, analysis of relevant case law, caseload, length of proceedings, backlog reduction plan etc.), quota system, adoption of yearly work plan, reporting on the yearly work plan implementation, preparation of yearly training programme by the judicial training institutions etc.

Q042 (2019): The new criteria for the evaluation of the performance of all judges and prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina, which were adopted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in 2018, have introduced respective quality standards for reasoning of court and prosecutorial decisions and quality in conducting judicial procedures. The quality of decisions and conduct of court procedures is assessed by the court president. Different information sources will be used when evaluating the quality of court decisions and procedures, including the opinion of the court department head based on their ongoing monitoring of the performance of the judge and the opinion of the department of the immediately higher instance court. The quality of the prosecutor's decisions and conduct of procedures is assessed by the chief prosecutor. Information sources for the quality of the prosecutor's decisions and conduct of proceedings are the review of randomly selected cases and the additional sources of information such as the opinion of the department head based on their ongoing monitoring of the performance of the prosecutor and the opinion of the immediately higher instance prosecutor's office.

Q043 (General Comment): Court presidents and chief prosecutors have a responsibility to evaluate the performance of the judicial office holders.

They also oversee the implementation of the normative framework outlining the systematic processes in the courts and the prosecutors' offices. Heads of departments support the chief prosecutors and the court presidents in overseeing the processes designed to improve continually the quality and efficiency of the prosecutors' offices and courts.

Q060 (General Comment): Courts prepare annual plans for resolving cases by their age. Q075-1 (General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopts the criteria for the annual performance evaluation of judges: Quantity of work (i.e. annual quota) – up to 40 points, Percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan - up to 20 points, Statistical quality of decisions (i.e. reversal rate) – up to 40 points. As mentioned above, one of the criteria is the annual quota, i.e. the number of cases that a judge should resolve over the course of a year. A judge may receive a maximum of 40 points under this criterion if they exceed the annual quota. However, if a judge fails to reach the best possible result than a certain number of points are awarded in the annual performance procedure as follows:

- a) up to 50% of the achieved quota: 0 points;
- b) 51–60% of the achieved quota: 10 points;
- c) 61–70% of the achieved quota: 15 points;
- d) 71–80% of the achieved quota: 20 points;
- e) 81–90% of the achieved quota: 30 points;
- f) 91–100% of the achieved quota: 35 points;
- g) over 100% of the achieved quota 40 points.

It is not in itself a disciplinary offense if the judge or prosecutor resolves a smaller number of cases than the intended target. However, a poor work result results in a judge or prosecutor receiving a poor grade, which may indicate that a judge or prosecutor is negligently performing his or her duties. The Disciplinary Prosecutor's Office in HJPC BiH examines the circumstances due to which the target was not achieved in individual cases.

Q085 (2021): Central database of court decisions is developed and maintained by HJPC's Judicial Documentation and Training Department – former Judicial Documentation Centre. In 2021, the HJPC decided to open this database for public free of charge and without registration. The Council of Ministers of BiH made decision to abolish the annual fee of 50 EUR, so the database is made available to the public free of charge as of 5 March 2021. The HJPC BiH has also issued a new anonymization instruction in order to make database more user friendly. According to this instruction, more information in court decisions are available, i.e. data on all state officials mentioned in the decisions, data on public enterprises and institutions, name and surname of the convicted persons in high-profile cases (war crime cases, organised crime and corruption cases, terrorism cases etc). This is an advancement comparing to the former rule where all data were anonymized (total anonymization). In this way, the HJPC has made an effort to make balance between public and private interest. Also, according to the new instruction, all final decisions in this type of cases are published through the central database, which is new practice compared to previous rule, according to which only decisions selected and provided by the courts of highest instance were published (Appellate Court of Brcko District, Court of BiH – Appellate Division, Supreme Court of BiH Federation and Supreme Court of Republika Srpska).

Also, in 2021, the HJPC secured funding for development of case-law database of the aforementioned courts of highest instance (e-Sentence), through which not only legal positions taken by these courts will be made available, but also the related court decisions, anonymised as well. This database will enable judges to get acquainted with the relevant legal positions and compare those with their cases when rendering new decisions. E-Sentence database was launched in November 2021, and will be publically available as of 1 February 2022, also free of charge. With all this, the HJPC is making an effort to ensure greater transparency and facilitate access to court decisions, as well as to enable judges and prosecutors in BiH to be more consistent in their decision-making and thus ensure a more harmonised case law.

Q085 (2020): Central database of court decisions is available at the web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd. It contains decisions selected by highest courts of Bosnia and Herzegovina in all three areas (civil, criminal and administrative). Database is searchable by case number, date of the decision, court that issued the decision, legal field, legal term, legal category, but also through free text search. Selected decisions are aligned with lower court decisions brought in the same case, anonymized and available for the members of the judiciary - judges, prosecutors and all judicial staff free of charge. Other users must pay annual fee to access the database - i. e. 50 Euro). In September 2020 HJPC adopted a decision making the database free of charge for all users; the above mentioned decision is pending confirmation by the Council of Ministers of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Some decisions in database are aligned with decisions of the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The alignment of decision in database with ECHR case law is not in place, but detailed reports on ECHR case law are available through the aforementioned web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd and this aspect of the database is subject of constant improvement through IPA 2017 (information from European highest courts and ECTHR Network). Through the same project, HJPC initiated development of the database with court stances in cooperation with highest courts (E-sentence). This database will enable highest courts to record their case law in line with pre-defined descriptors (legal terms). Besides, this database should enable identification of diverse case law between highest court, and move forward the process of harmonisation of the case law at the state level (Case law harmonisation panels).

Note for Data anonymised: there was a technical mistake in the previous reporting cycle, in order to correct this the reply "No" should be changed to "Yes" for 2019.

Q085 (2019): Court decisions database is available online through the HJPC Judicial Documentation Centre's web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd. It contains court decisions selected by highest courts in all three areas (civil, criminal and administrative) and is searchable by different parameters: case number, court that issued the decision, legal field, legal term, applied institute, but also through free text search. At the moment, the selected decisions are: aligned with lower court decisions brought in the same case, anonymized and available on-line (for the members of the judiciary - judges, prosecutors and all judicial staff free of charge, and the rest of the public must pay annual fee to access the database - i. e. 50 Euro). Some decisions from database are also aligned with decisions of the Constitutional Court of BiH. The alignment of this database with ECHR case law is not in place. Various detailed reports on ECHR case law is available through JDC web site , and is subject of improvement through IPA 2017 (information from European highest courts with ECTHR Network).

Q038 (2023): reason that sum up numbers do not match is that certain number of cases were delegated, and there is no option to show it. (source Judicial Council)

other criminal cases - Misdemeanor cases - Execution cases for misdemeanor (IPS)

Q038 (2022): Higher inflow (number of received cases by misdemeanour courts due to the fact in practice that the subject with jurisdiction of issuing misdemeanour orders (fines) were using the legal possibility to initiate misdemeanour proceedings before the courts instead. That led to higher inflow of cases which reflected to the number of unresolved cases. This was mainly the issue related to the slowdown of public procurance system (major cyber attacks etc.) in the refence year and a lack of relevant forms for issuing misdemeanour orders (fines).

Q038 (2020): 1. Severe criminal cases":

Basic and High courts

- Criminal cases (K)

- Special criminal cases (Ks)

- Juvenile criminal cases (Km)

"2. Misdemeanour and / or minor criminal cases":

- Misdemeanor cases (PP) - Misdemeanor courts

"3. Other cases":

Misdemeanor cases - Execution cases for misdemeanor (IPS)

Discrepancy elaboration regarding increase of severe criminal cases pending on 31st December of ref.year: In 2020, there was a higher inflow of cases than in 2019, so there were more unresolved cases.

Q039 (2023): These are different types execution cases, execution of payments, cases upon constitutional appeal in commercial cases etc.

Decreasing number of resolved is a general issue, because of higher inflow of cases and same or less capacities.

Q039 (2022): higher inflow of cases in 2022

Q039 (2021): The total of other than criminal law cases is the same as the situation at the end of 2020. and the number of received O(legacy) and RS (complex non-litigation cases) cases has increased. No further explanation was provided.

Q039 (2020): Total of other than criminal law cases (1+2+3+4) - Total number given in this file represents High and Appellate court cases

1. Civil (and commercial) litigious cases - High and Appellate court: -Civil appeals (Gž and Pž) for (Civil cases (P) and Civil cases – small value (Mal))
- 2.1. General civil (and commercial) non-litigious cases - Civil appeals (Gž and Pž) for (Complex non-litigious cases (Rs) and Other civil and non-litigious cases (R))
- 2.3. Other non-litigious cases - -Civil appeals (Gž and Pž) for (Legacy cases (O))
3. Administrative law cases - -Supreme court -Administrative appeal cases (Uvp)
4. Other cases - Civil appeals (Gž and Pž) for ((O-n), (OP), (ST), (RP), (PSO), (I), (IP), (OS), (L),(PL))

Clarification on discrepancies:

Total of other than criminal law cases for pending cases 31.dec RY As the number of unresolved cases decreased on 01.01, the inflow of cases in the reporting year also decreased, thus, the number of unresolved cases decreased on 31.12.2020. year.

Q040 (2022): During 2021 the High Court in Podgorica operated with 6 judges less. In the same year there were no new appointments to fill the missing judicial positions in the court. That affected the efficiency of the court, which is the one with the highest number of criminal cases in the second instance.

Q040 (2021): The number of resolved cases is smaller, so the number of unresolved cases is higher. No further explanation was provided.

Q040 (2020): 1. Severe criminal cases":

High courts and Appellate court

- Criminal appeal case (Kž)
- Special criminal appeal case (Kžs)
- Juvenile criminal appeal case (Kžm)

"2. Misdemeanour and / or minor criminal cases": High misdemeanor court

- Misdemeanor appeal cases (Pžp)

Clarification of discrepancies:

Total of criminal law cases (1+2+3) for pending cases on 1. jan RY In 2020, the number of unresolved cases remained lower at the beginning of the year, compared to the previous year. Severe criminal cases for pending cases on 1 Jan. ref. year

In 2020, the number of unresolved cases remained lower at the beginning of the year, compared to the previous year. Also, in 2020, the number of unresolved cases remained lower at the beginning of the year, compared to the previous year.

Q041 (2021): The duration of proceedings related to Intentional homicide cases has been increased due to resolved 2018 cases.

The number of appeals filed in Litigious divorce cases Robbery cases has also decreased, and the number of appeals related to Employment dismissal cases has increased.

Q041 (2020): Clarification of discrepancies:

Employment dismissal cases in column % of decisions subject to appeal

In reference year there was a lower number of cases that went on appeal; Robbery cases in column % of decisions subject to appeal In the reference year, more cases went on appeal

In the column % of cases pending for more than 3 years for all instances in the row concerning Civil and commercial litigious cases, in the last reporting period the relationship with Unresolved cases was used, and this year realistic data concerning the relationship between Unresolved cases over 3 years of age were set in relation.

There are some variations between data of length of proceedings in 2019 and in 2020 which have not been explained (notably decrease of length of proceedings for litigious divorce cases and employment dismissal cases in first instance ; increase of length of proceedings for insolvency cases in first instance ; increase of length of proceedings in first instance and decrease in second instance for civil and commercial cases).

Q041-3 (2023): Some PPO offices in points 3.1 3.1.1, 3.1.2, 3.1.3 and 3.1.4 provided data on reported persons because they were not able to differentiate data as requested in the questionnaire. That is one of the reasons number do not sum up.

Q041-5 (2023): When it comes to this, there are no exact data, some of the prosecution offices responded that traffic offences included, others that it is not included and also there were no responses. So general answer is no, but it we can not give exact estimation. According to the Law, of course there is a possibility for traffic offences, but for criminal cases not just misdemeanours or classic fines.

Q042 (General Comment): Rules for the evaluation of judges and presidents of courts, article 11 "A judge who had 30% or more of revoked decisions in relation to the total number of cases in which it was decided in the same period - unsatisfactory; A judge who had less than 30% of revoked decisions in relation to the total number of cases in which it was decided in the same period - satisfactory. When calculating the percentage of revoked decisions, the case in which the decision was partially revoked counts as one half (0.5% of a case). If only a decision on costs was revoked, such case shall not be included in the revoked decisions."

Q048 (General Comment): There is no automatic evaluation of court performance. We regularly get reports from the court information system and provide them to the decision-makers.

Q049 (General Comment): The regular evaluation of the activities of each court is carried out for a period of 6 months and annually. However, courts are obliged to submit reports for a period of one to three months if needed.

If the state prosecutor worked in different types of cases, the quantity of work is assessed for all types of cases as indicators for assessing the quantity of work, and if the state prosecutor had fewer cases in the work of a certain type than the average measure for that type of case, then satisfies the grade if he has completed 80% of the total number of cases in the work of that type of subject, and if it is less than 80%, he does not satisfy the grade according to that indicator. If the state prosecutor did not have a certain type of case in his work, he will not be evaluated in that type of case. Article 9 The quality of work is assessed on the basis of confirmed indictments, convictions and appeals. A state prosecutor who has 80% or more confirmed indictments in relation to the total number of indictments in which a decision was made in the same period satisfies, and a state prosecutor who has less than 20% confirmed indictments in relation to the total number of indictments does not satisfy. Q038 (2022): Category 2. Please, see also the comment for Q 35. High number of judge retirements in 2022 caused by new compulsory age of retirement probably is the reason for higher number of unsolved cases. Also, in 2023 we are expecting more retirements of judges due to this reason.

Q041 (2022): It must be emphasized that the data are collected manually from the ICT system in all courts within North Macedonia. After that, the data are calculated manually in the courts and in the Ministry of justice (Excel calculation). Some of data are only from one court (for example: 130 days at first instance - trading in influence cases). 2/27 from courts didn't answer correctly to the tables, so 2 courts are excluded from calculations. According to this, the collection of data for these questions is without guarantees for total accuracy.

Q041 (2021): There are some variations in the average length of cases in 1st instance (in days) which cannot be explained due to this data being collected manually with all courts within North Macedonia.

Q041 (2020): There was not trading in influence cases in 2020 in the Macedonian courts.

Q082-0 (2023): The strategy for ICT in the judiciary was adopted in 2019 for the time period of 2019-2024.

The strategy expired in 2024. It is still being implemented, and this year, the Council for ICT in the Judiciary will start a procedure for adopting a new strategy for the next 5 years, as well as new revised operational plan.

At this moment there is no new strategy and no new operational plan.

During 2023, according to the operational plan for digitization in the judiciary, a complete change of the CMS system is planned with the introduction of a new modern and integrated system of management and movement of cases, which will be compatible with the new software, and new applications will be created at the same time namely, an application for issuing certificates from criminal records, for issuing certificates from misdemeanor records, creation of the E-delivery platform, which will establish full two-way communication between the courts and all parties, i.e. state authorities and institutions, development of the platform for a mobile application, which will enable unhindered access of the parties to the electronic file of the case, as well as the creation of web services with 12 state organs and institutions.

According to the operational plan and the provided budget funds, the Court Budget Council has created a plan and program with dynamics and necessary financial resources for the digitization of the courts in 2023, namely:

1. Upgrade and installation of the Femida True Records system for audio recording in civil courts and audio-video recording in criminal courts.

- upgrade means the installation of Femida True Records or SRS Femida software, based on an existing Femida license installed on a computer in the courts (through previous purchases), regardless of whether it is currently in operation or not;

- a new license implies the installation of Femida True Records or SRS Femida software on an additional number of computers, which are not included in the number of existing licenses in the courts.

2. Procurement and replacement of hardware equipment for the courts – 410 computers.

3. Current maintenance of the hardware and software for the operation of the ACMISS system and the equipment for issuing certificates from criminal records.

4. Upgrade and ongoing maintenance of centralized hardware and system software for centralized backup/restore of the court database.

5. Restoration of Kaspersky Anti-virus and Trend Micro inter Scan messaging for personal computer protection in the court system and Gateway virus protection in the Supreme Court of RNM.

6. Ongoing maintenance of software for recording events by collating logs from ICT devices located in the Supreme Court of the RNM.

Creation of a mobile application for access to the electronic file of the case - a service for reviewing the files in the case by the parties in the procedure. Service for a complete review of a court case by the parties in the case (prosecutors, lawyers and all involved parties, natural and legal persons). Web Portal and mobile application through which each of the parties after prior authentication (service for identification of persons at the MIOA state level) can view all data and acts in the case that are available to the parties. DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE SERVICE AND BASIC FEATURES

Possibility for reviewing of all data and documents from the court case for the participants in the case from the court web portal and mobile application.

Availability of the service:

- Computer, laptop - view via browser

Q082-0 (2022): The strategy for ICT in the judiciary was adopted in 2019 for the time period of 2019-2024.

Digitization, digital transformation and the increasing development of information technology inevitably led to it being integrated in all the pores of the justice system, and especially in the last 2 years, through digital transformation in all courts and public prosecutor's offices by developing new web pages for the courts, with hardware and software for audio recording, system for audio visual recording, electronic issuance of documents, creation of web services, software development and case management, as well as platforms for two-way communication between the courts and the parties and access to the electronic file of the case.

Given that the strategy has a time period until 2024, it is still being implemented, and this year, the Council for ICT in the Judiciary will start a procedure for adopting a new strategy for the next 5 years, as well as new revised operational plan.

At this moment there is no new strategy and no new operational plan.

Q036 (General Comment): Non-contentious proceedings are prescribed by the Law on Non-Contentious proceedings and include regulation of personal status (deprivation of legal capacity), regulation of family matters (extension of parental rights), proceedings regulating property relations (inheritance proceedings, division of common assets or property). Further, according to the Law on Companies, the court in non-contentious proceedings decides in methods of determining the value of non-monetary contribution of company's stakeholders, the proceedings at the request of the stakeholders of the Company in terms of the agenda and the proceedings at the request of the authorized nominators for holding regular company sessions.

The Law on Rehabilitation ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 92/2011) regulates rehabilitation and legal consequences of rehabilitation of persons deprived of life, liberty, and other rights for political, religious, national, or ideological reasons, up to the day this law entered into force. A higher court decides on a request for rehabilitation, based on the right to file a request for rehabilitation due to violation of the abovementioned rights, which expired on December 15, 2016.

All enforcement cases are stated in the category 2.1.

2.2.1. Non litigious land registry cases – NAP as this competence has been transferred from the courts to the Real Estate Cadastre and Republic Geodetic Authority, a special administrative organisation.

2.2.2 Non-litigious business registry cases – NAP as this competence has been transferred to the Serbian Business Registers Agency ("SBRA" / Serbian: "APR"), which in accordance with the Law on Business Entities Registration (operative as of 1/1/2005): Register of Companies (in effect as of 1 January 2005), Register of Entrepreneurs (in effect as of 1 January 2006), Register of Foreign Representative Offices (in effect as of 1 January 2006). Q038 (2022): All answers were provided by the competent institution (Supreme Court of Cassation)

Q039 (General Comment): Courts deciding in the second instance (on appeal) in the "non-criminal" cases, as courts of general jurisdiction are: Higher courts: they decide upon the decisions in civil disputes and the judgment in small claims and the non-contentious proceedings.

Appellate courts: upon the decisions of higher courts and judgements of the basic courts in civil disputes unless deciding on appeals is not under the competence of higher court.

Commercial Court of Appeal: second instance commercial proceedings involving appeals, conflict and delegation of jurisdiction between commercial courts.

Misdemeanour Court of Appeal: proceedings involving appeals against first instance decisions of misdemeanour courts in cases related to whistle-blowers and conflict and delegation of jurisdiction between misdemeanour courts (cases not misdemeanour as such).

There is no second instance in administrative disputes.

With regard to "non-litigious cases", and more particularly "other non-litigious cases", it should be pointed out that, in 2015, amendments to the Law on the Court Organization and the new Law on Protection of the Right to a Trial within a Reasonable Time have shifted responsibility for protection of this right from the Constitutional Court to the courts of general and special jurisdiction.

Q039 (2023): Official information obtained by the Supreme Court

Q039 (2022): 1. The lower number of incoming cases in second instance in 2022 is primarily explained by the decrease of incoming civil and commercial cases in basic and commercial courts.

During 2019, 2020 and 2021 there was a large number of specific type of cases related to the costs of bank loans. After supplementing the legal position of the Supreme Court of Cassation from September 16, 2021, number of these cases gradually decreases. However, due to the mentioned repetitive cases (litigation for reimbursement of costs bank loans), second instance courts were unable to handle such a large influx from the previous year (regardless of the fact that the inflow in 2022 was lower), so the number cases increased.

Q039 (2021): Please note that all provided data do not cover Serbian Autonomy province of Kosovo and Metohija. The discrepancy from the previous year in the number of pending "civil and commercial litigious cases" older than two years is a result of the burden on higher courts (acting as second instance courts), and in particular the Higher court in Belgrade.

With regard to this question for more insight please see the analysis provided within the Annual Report on Work of Courts for 2021:

OVERVIEW OF THE NUMBER OF PENDING CASES BEFORE COURTS IN THE REPUBLIC OF SERBIA

TOTAL AT THE NATIONAL LEVEL - ALL CASES 1,911,086 1,701,580 1,656,645 1,510,472 1,498,237

TOTAL AT THE NATIONAL LEVEL - EXCEPT ENFORCEMENT 1,118,201 1,024,521 1,072,156 1,209,631 1,450,878

* Figures for basic courts include Registers I, IV while commercial courts include all enforcements

The number of pending cases – except enforcement – increased when compared to 2017, as a result of the increased number of cases received in the last five years (more than two and half million cases above the expected inflow) that the judicial system couldn't absorb completely. Since there was no timely systemic reaction to the enormously increased number of incoming cases, while at the same time, the number of court staff decreased and new employment was banned, or was limited, courts did not manage to stop the trend of increase of the number of pending cases, since 2018 (1,024,521). In 2019, the number of pending cases slightly increased, however, in 2020 there was a significant increase of pending cases in trial matters due to extraordinary circumstances and implementation of measures for protection of population from the pandemic, which is why the courts in the Republic worked with significantly reduced capacities.

The trend of increasing the number of pending cases continued in 2021, caused by the additional burden on the court system with so far the largest inflow of cases, which was mostly reflected in the number of pending cases in basic and misdemeanour courts.

The ratio of incoming, disposed and pending cases at the end of 2021 comparing to the previous reporting periods, shows a decreased number of pending cases (1,498,237) and increase of the number of disposed cases (2,415,672) resulting from the increased engagement of judges and judicial staff, although in circumstances of the enormous increase of inflow (2,402,486).

The ratio of incoming, disposed and pending cases in the period from 2017 to 2021 shows a continuously decreasing number of pending cases, a slight decrease in the number of disposed cases in 2020, and a sharp increase in 2021, by 401,843 more cases than in the previous year, as well as a variation in the number of incoming cases, with the largest escalation recorded in 2021, by 534,575 more cases compared to the previous year.

The increase in the number of incoming and disposed cases indicates excessive workload of judges and court staff, despite the systematic measures taken to reduce the number of backlog cases in courts.

Q039 (2020): The discrepancy from the previous year in the number of pending "civil and commercial litigious cases" older than two years is a result of the burden on higher courts (acting as second instance courts), and in particular the Higher court in Belgrade.

Q040 (2022): All answers were provided by the competent authority

Q040 (2021): Please note that all provided data do not cover Serbian Autonomy province of Kosovo and Metohija. Register of appeal cases with regard to confiscation of property (including cases of organized crime), cases regarding requests for release on parole, different criminal cases regarding minors, cases regarding extradition and transfer of convicted persons in ordinary criminal cases, (also in cases of organized crime and war crimes), extension of detention in cases of cyber crime, different decision of the extrajudicial chamber, cases regarding transfer of cases to other courts.

Q041 (General Comment): In order to calculate the average length of the court proceedings in days for the first and second instance, for insolvency, the following formula was used: pending / resolved * 365

Q041 (2023): As already stated in previous reports only data on the insolvency cases is available (according to the calculation of the Commercial Appellate Court)

Q041 (2020): It is not possible to provide automatically this information. The AVP application enables certain information but in order to provide this information the courts need to make multiple individual inquiries in order to get the requested data – such is the case with the Litigious divorce case. It is even more difficult to gather information for Employment dismissal cases – all employment cases are registered within the same register so it would be very difficult for courts to extract the requested type of cases- dismissal cases. Therefore the information requested in this table in most cases is not available.

These data are not automatically available. They refer to registers given within the question 35 (Civil (and commercial) litigious cases. Not all of these cases can be submitted to the third instance (extraordinary legal remedies) . The length of the proceedings is calculated for each instance according to CEPEJ Disposition Time formula and not an average length.

Q041-3 (2023): According to the Public Prosecution statistical reporting methodology, all data presented in this table refer to number of known adult suspects/defendants, not to overall number of cases.

Q041-4 (2023): According to the Criminal Procedure Code, every plea agreement, whether it's concluded before or during the main trial, needs to be confirmed by the court and it is the only way to conclude the case by this procedure.

Information on number of guilty plea procedures refer to number of suspects/defendants who concluded plea agreements with the Public Prosecution which were confirmed by the court in 2023.

Please note that imprisonment is foreseen as a sanction for every criminal act envisaged by the Criminal Code.

Depending on the gravity of criminal act, imprisonment is foreseen in different forms: as the only sanction, together with the money fine or alternatively to the money fine. For that reason, it is not possible to make a distinction between severe and misdemeanour/minor criminal case as described in the Explanatory note.

Q042 (General Comment): Although quality standards for the judiciary as such do not yet exist, the Rulebook on criteria, indicators and procedure for evaluating the work of judges and presidents of courts ("Official Gazette of RS", Nos. 81/2014, 142/2014, 41/2015, 7/2016) of the HJC provides for the evaluating the work of judges for the purpose of improving the efficiency of the judicial system, to preserve and improve the expertise, qualifications and responsibilities of judicial office holders, to encourage them to achieve the best results of their work, and to increase public confidence in the work of judges and courts.

The Rulebook stipulates that the evaluation of the work of judges and presidents of courts is expressed by a mark. The work of full-time judges and court presidents is regularly evaluated once every three years, and for judges who are first time elected evaluation is done once a year. Exceptionally, based on the decision of the HJC, the work of judges and presidents of courts may be extraordinary evaluated.

The criteria for evaluating judges' performance are quality and quantity. The quality of work shows the ability and knowledge of the judge in the application of substantive and procedural law, while the quantity of work shows the efficiency in solving cases.

The benchmarks for evaluating the quality of work of judges are the percentage of decisions revoked and the time necessary to bring decisions. Quality evaluation is done by establishing for each benchmark an individual grade, and on the basis of established individual grades, the evaluation of the quality of work of judges is determined. Individual marks for the quality of work benchmarks are: "extremely successful", "successful" and "not satisfactory".

The criterion for evaluating the quantity of judges' work is a monthly standard, and for judges who do not have a sufficient number of cases in the work, the number of cases solved from the total number of cases in the work.

The benchmark of the judges' work is evaluated by the individual grade "extremely successful", "successful" and "not satisfactory". The judgments related to the evaluation of the judge's work are "extremely successful in performing the judicial function", "successfully performing the judicial function" and "not satisfactory".

Rulebook on criteria and standards for assessing the expertise, competence and worthiness of candidates in the process of proposing and selecting holders of public prosecutor's office: 43/2015-31, 80/2016-81 (other rulebook)

Q042 (2023): Basis: Rulebook on criteria, standards and procedure for evaluating the work of judges and presidents of courts – HJC.

The purpose of evaluating the work of judges is to improve the efficiency of the judicial system, to preserve and improve the expertise, competence and responsibility of judicial office holders, to encourage them to achieve the best work results, and to increase public confidence in the work of judges and courts.

The Rulebook establishes that the evaluation of the work of judges and presidents of courts is expressed by a grade. The work of judges with permanent function and presidents of courts is regularly evaluated once every three years, and judges who have been elected for the first time once a year. Exceptionally, based on the decision of the Supreme Court, the work of judges and court presidents can be evaluated in an extraordinary manner.

The criteria for evaluating the judges' work are quality and quantity. The quality of the work shows the ability and knowledge of the judge to apply substantive and procedural law, while the quantity of work shows the efficiency in resolving cases.

The criteria for evaluating the quality of judges' work are the percentage of annulled rulings and the time it takes to make decisions. The evaluation of quality is carried out by determining an individual grade for each criteria and based on the established individual grades, the evaluation grade of the work of the judges is determined. The individual grades for the work quality criteria are: "extremely successful", "successful" and "not satisfactory".

The criteria for evaluating the quantity of judges' work is the monthly norm, and for judges who do not have a sufficient number of cases in their work, it is the number of cases resolved out of the total number of cases in their work.

Courts keep special records of cases by the date of submission of the initial act to the court - for cases lasting over three years, over five years and over ten years.

Q082 (2023): There are several ICT systems. The most represented is the AVP which is used in basic, higher, and commercial courts. This system is decentralized, and it has been in use for more than 10 years for the time being. On the other hand, CMS used by appellate courts, Administrative court and Supreme Court is called SAPS, and it is relatively newly developed. Also, misdemeanor courts are provided with SIPRES newest developed CMS.

The strategic act has foreseen rollout of SAPS called SUPER SAPS to replace old AVP in basic, higher, and commercial courts. It is important to emphasize that there are other applications for electronic communication with the courts such as eCOURT for administrative disputes, and eCOURT for enforcement proceedings before the commercial courts and enforcement agents. Public prosecutorial offices are using SAPO CMS.

Q085 (2022): Since 2021 there was a migration of data (decisions) from Administrative Court portal to centralized data base. Therefore centralized national database of court decisions does not include all judgements

Q085 (2020): We don't have 3rd instance for administrative courts so the answer is no and it should be NAP.

Q085-1 (2023): The Oracle BI platform enables the creation of performance indicators (CPI) according to various criteria, the monitoring of implementation, and the generation of reports on the fulfillment of various indicators.

The system enables centralized reporting on various aspects of work of court of general and special jurisdiction, monitoring of statistics, trends, key performance indicators, (CPI), and visualization and analysis of operational data. The solution has implemented a logic that generates alarms (CPI) when the defined deadlines for court action are exceeded and in a way that implies that the identified deadlines that generate alarms are mapped into the existing AVP and SAPS applications.

The system started operating in 2018 with the posting of expanded T1 annual, six-monthly, quarterly and monthly reports on the work of the basic, higher and appellate courts, where the formulas were not checked nor was a comparison made of the expanded T1 reports submitted by the courts to the Supreme Court of Cassation.

In the meantime, the set of reports has been expanded with reports that are based on the so-called "extended" T1 report or on reports that can be obtained by mapping data from the AVP, SAPS, and SIPRES case management systems, about the previously defined volume of data that is downloaded (from The AVP system downloads about 40 tables per court, based on which reports are generated).

All reports that have been established are based primarily on the number of cases, as well as on calculations according to the formulas used by the Supreme Court in its reporting system (the extended T1 form has several columns more than the official T1 form defined by the Rules of Court). The downloading of data on acting judges is compromised by the lack of timeliness of the courts in entering the working days of judges, which leads to incorrect calculations of average values per judge. This issue has been raised several times, and now the number of courts that count the number of working days concerning the annual schedule of judges has been reduced to a very small number, however, this disturbs the general calculation on the system (if only one commercial court does not enter up-to-date working days, comprehensive the report of all commercial courts, in the part that refers to the total number of judges who acted in a certain matter during the period, there can be no reliable data).

In relation to the types of courts, the system contains data on the work of appellate, higher, and basic courts, i.e. all courts of general jurisdiction and administrative, commercial, and misdemeanor courts, which makes the entire network of courts of special jurisdiction.

Here it is necessary to point out that for misdemeanor courts, data is downloaded from already prepared work reports (for reports according to the rules of procedure), which is completely different from the method of data download for other courts, where a much larger volume of data is downloaded and calculations are performed directly within the BI system. This has the effect that, if an error occurs in the SIPRES system during the calculation, that error will be transmitted to the CS system as well.

In addition to the reports that are prepared and submitted to the Supreme Court, the Supreme Court, and the Ministry of Justice, the system also creates a certain number of reports "on the day of the request" according to the Rules of Procedure. These reports are not defined by the Rules of Court, but they are significant due to the monitoring of trends in the number of received or resolved cases in a certain matter.

The following reports of form T1 or derived from it have been established on the Central Statistics portal:

- annual, semi-annual, quarterly, and monthly extended T1 performance reports for

o basic courts

o higher courts

Q038 (2021): The discrepancy in misdemeanour cases is mostly because in the data of 2020, the numbers were not fully reflecting the reality and the numbers of pending cases in the previous year and the number of resolved cases weren't included. Therefore, this year we have been able to provide the full data for those categories and it indicated the discrepancies from the last year.

Q038 (2020): The discrepancy in misdemeanor cases is because of the switch to Case management system(CMIS). The pending cases at the end of 2019 have not been included in the CMIS. After the communication with Judicial Council, we have been informed that all the pending cases from 2019 have been solved, but are not included in the CMIS. To be more specific, from 26070 pending cases (31st Dec 2019) 22729 have been not included in the CMIS. This is why the number of resolved cases is significantly lower than the number of incoming cases. As for the decrease in the number of incoming cases, it is mainly a result of the full lockdown which was imposed from mid- March to June. Restrictive measures, including restriction in the free movement have remained in place during all the year.

Q039 (2021): There is a lack of data for several categories because the Judicial Council has not been able to register all the data in the CMIS for the second instance. As for the discrepancies between pending cases, incoming and resolved cases, stands the same explanation as for the Q35 regarding the first instance. To be specific, the administrative cases increased in the first instance and they proceeded to the second instance via appeals.

Q039 (2020): We do not have the data on pending cases for the second instance this year, because the Judicial Council has not been able to register all the data in the CMIS for the second instances. We might have the data during the coming months, but we do not have a definite answer when these data will be available. As for the discrepancies between pending cases, incoming and resolved cases, stands the same explanation as for the Q35.

Q040 (2021): The discrepancy in misdemeanour cases is mostly because in the data of 2020, the numbers were not fully reflecting the reality and the numbers of pending cases in the previous year and the number of resolved cases weren't included. Therefore, this year we have been able to provide the full data for those categories and it indicated the discrepancies from the last year. Same comments as for the first instance.

Q040 (2020): The decrease in numbers, as explained in Q35, is because of the national lockdown and other restrictive measures applied throughout the 2020.

Q048 (2022): There is a Statistical and Analysis unit inside the KJC who drafts yearly reports on the performance of the Courts based on the defined indicators. These report are published online in the web page of the KJC.

Q048 (2020): Until this year, the evaluation of court performance has been done by using the performance of Judges as a reference. So, the performance of a court has been mainly attributed to the performance of the Judges in that particular court. Starting from this year, Kosovo Judicial Council has developed a dashboard in the Case Management Information System(CMIS), with specific indicators, in order to measure court performance. Unfortunately, we still do not have any data regarding the performance or the indicators used, since the CMIS is still not fully functional. However, after the discussion with KJC and CoE project in Kosovo which is supporting this activity, this CMIS feature concerning court performance will soon be tested, and from the next year, it will be used to generate dashboards and reports on court performance.

Q071 (2021): The KPC work report is published annually and the State prosecutor work report is published every 6 month and annually.

Q075 (General Comment): Actually, there is no regulation or internal act that regulates performance targets for judges. There is a so-called "oriented norm" which is not officially approved, based on which judges work. This norm/target is 330 cases a year for a first instance judge and 360 cases for a second instance judge. The KJC is actually undergoing some analysis with regard to performance targets in order to draft a specific regulations on performance targets for judges.

Q076 (2022): Based on Article 6 of Regulation 11/2016 on the Evaluation of Judicial Performance, of the KJC.

- The assessment can also be more frequent.

The Commission for the Evaluation of Judges' Performance has the competence to evaluate the performance of judges with permanent mandate according to the "Random" method, judges with initial mandate and those who are candidates for promotion. The Commission for the Evaluation of Judges' Performance performs its tasks and activities based on the Law on the Judicial Council and the Regulation on the Evaluation of the Performance of Judges, approved by the Kosovo Judicial Council. The Judicial Performance Evaluation Committee assesses the basis for the promotion or demotion of judges, including the initiation of dismissal proceedings and the evaluation for the purpose of reappointment.

Judges with initial mandates are evaluated two (2) times during this mandate and once after the initial training and once before the expiration of the initial mandate for the purpose of reappointment. Permanent judges are evaluated every 3 years.

Pursuant to Article 14 of the Regulation on the evaluation of the performance of judges, Judges are evaluated according to the following scales, from 0 to 89 points: 1.1. From 0 to 35 points is evaluated "debit", 1.2. From 36 to 51 points is considered "sufficient", 1.3. From 52 to 67 points is rated "good", 1A. From 68 to 82 points is evaluated "very good", 1.5. From 83 to 89 points is rated "excellent". 2. Only judges who are evaluated with "excellent" evaluation will be considered for promotion, in case of vacancies in the Court of Appeals and / or the Supreme Court. In case the evaluation results that there are not enough judges ranked according to the points with "excellent" evaluation, the Council takes into account the judges ranked according to the points with the evaluation "very good". The evaluation commission will compile a Guide for the evaluation of judges for each indicator which will be made public to judges before the evaluation process begins.

Pursuant to Article 3.19 of the Regulation on the Evaluation of Judges' Performance, the evaluation of judges is done in accordance with the principle of legality, objectivity, transparency and equality, in order to guarantee equal opportunities and rights for the development of the judge's career. . 2. The evaluation is not intended to interfere with the independence and impartiality of the judge. 3. Unless otherwise provided by law or regulation, all data and information collected during the performance appraisal process are confidential and are not disclosed during the first phase of the appraisal. Disclosure of any information that violates the confidentiality of the evaluation process constitutes a disciplinary violation and will be treated according to applicable law.

Q081 (General Comment): Performance evaluation is done for the prosecutors with initial term and for the permanently appointed prosecutors. Evaluation of the prosecutors with initial term is conducted after the initial training and again at the end of the initial term. The first evaluation of the performance of the prosecutors after the initial training covers the period from the thirteen (13) until the twenty-second (22) month of his/her work as a prosecutor, while the second assessment of the performance of the prosecutor with an initial term includes the period from the twenty- three (23) until thirty-second (32) month. Question 036

(General Comment): The most important case categories among civil and commercial non-litigious cases are: uncontested payment orders, non-litigious enforcement cases, inheritance proceedings, non-contentious proceedings related to personal and family matters (e.g. establishing that a person does not have legal competence, stripping of parental rights), non-contentious proceedings for settling relationships between co-owners of the real estate including dissolution of co-ownership, settlement of boundary lines, voluntary sales. The majority of non-litigious cases were enforcement proceedings the state-owned utility companies initiated because of unpaid bills for utility services. (e.g. heating, water, electricity, garbage collection, television subscription etc.).

Serbia

(General Comment): Non-contentious proceedings are prescribed by the Law on Non-Contentious proceedings and include regulation of personal status (deprivation of legal capacity), regulation of family matters (extension of parental rights), proceedings regulating property relations (inheritance proceedings, division of common assets or property). Further, according to the Law on Companies, the court in non-contentious proceedings decides in methods of determining the value of non-monetary contribution of company's stakeholders, the proceedings at the request of the stakeholders of the Company in terms of the agenda and the proceedings at the request of the authorized nominators for holding regular company sessions.

The Law on Rehabilitation ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 92/2011) regulates rehabilitation and legal consequences of rehabilitation of persons deprived of life, liberty, and other rights for political, religious, national, or ideological reasons, up to the day this law entered into force. A higher court decides on a request for rehabilitation, based on the right to file a request for rehabilitation due to violation of the abovementioned rights, which expired on December 15, 2016.

All enforcement cases are stated in the category 2.1.

2.2.1. Non litigious land registry cases – NAP as this competence has been transferred from the courts to the Real Estate Cadastre and Republic Geodetic Authority, a special administrative organisation.

2.2.2 Non-litigious business registry cases – NAP as this competence has been transferred to the Serbian Business Registers Agency ("SBRA" / Serbian: "APR"), which in accordance with the Law on Business Entities Registration (operative as of 1/1/2005): Register of Companies (in effect as of 1 January 2005), Register of Entrepreneurs (in effect as of 1 January 2006), Register of Foreign Representative Offices (in effect as of 1 January 2006). Running centralized registers in a single institution such as the SBRA, which has jurisdiction over the entire territory of the Republic of Serbia, provides standardized registration practices.

(2023): Based on the table of statistics collected from the reporting of the courts “other cases” refers to “administrative criminal cases”.

(2022): Other Criminal cases: a) criminal administrative cases (exe: probation requests, security measures etc) b) cases related to anti-mafia law.

The number of resolved cases during 2022 is believed to have been caused by the decrease of the number of judges in the second instance due to different factors such as resignations, vetting process, promotions. In addition, the unequal distribution of cases between courts is another factor contributing to the problem.

(2021): Criminal requirements of the preliminary investigation phase; Criminal cases of the preliminary hearing; Criminal requirements of the execution phase; Security measures; parole; Extradition

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): As of 2022, i.e. the Evaluation of the judicial systems 2024 (data 2022), the statistics for severe criminal cases and other cases for this question include data for criminal cases from the first instance jurisdiction of second instance courts. Regardless of the above change, the general trends for criminal cases in 2023 remain similar to the tendencies from the previous reporting cycles.

Severe criminal offences: a criminal offense is an unlawful act which violates or jeopardizes the protected values and which is, because of the danger it represents, defined by law as a criminal offense and for which a punishment is prescribed. Criminal sanctions are: punishments, suspended sentence, security measures and educational measures. Examples of serious criminal offenses are: criminal acts against state, homicide, organized crime, criminal acts against official duty (i.e. corruption cases), theft and other crimes against property, rape and other crimes against sexual integrity, traffic accidents where a person suffered grievous bodily injury or a significant damage and other crimes against public transportation etc.

Statistics on severe criminal offences include data on the cases in which the main part of the proceedings has started following the confirmation of indictment by court.

Minor offence or misdemeanor cases: minor offences are violations of public order or of regulations on economic and financial operations defined as such by laws or other regulations, whose characteristics are described and for which sanctions are prescribed. The following sanctions may be imposed upon a person found responsible for commission of a minor offence: fine; suspended sentence; reprimand; and protective measures. The following measures may be imposed because of being found responsible for a minor offence: confiscation of gains; obligation to compensate damages; penalty points; and deprivation of liberty to compel payment of a fine. Examples of minor offences: traffic offences, violations of public order, begging etc.

Statistics on misdemeanor offences include data on the cases in which the main part of the misdemeanor proceedings has started.

Statistics on other cases include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.)

statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanor proceedings and to the enforcement of pronounced penalties.

(2023): Criminal cases As of 2022, i.e. the Evaluation of the judicial systems 2024 (data 2022), the statistics for severe criminal cases and other cases for this question include data for criminal cases from the first instance jurisdiction of second instance courts. Regardless of the above change, the general trends for criminal cases in 2023 remain similar to the tendencies from the previous reporting cycles.

Misdemeanor cases:

The number of pending first-instance misdemeanor cases increased by 1% during 2023, unlike the previous reporting year (i.e. 2022) during which the number of pending cases decreased by 12%. The number of incoming cases in 2023 was higher by 7% compared to 2022. The most significant increase in the influx of cases occurred in several courts in major towns, due to the increased number of requests for misdemeanor proceedings from various administrative authorities and police (i.e. traffic violations). Furthermore, the courts resolved more cases in 2023 than in the previous year. However, the courts failed to achieve 100% clearance rate in 2023 (i.e. 99%).

(2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal law cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases rose by 8% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases registered in 2019 and 2018. Statistics on first-instance criminal cases in 2022 indicate that the situation in the courts is, basically, consistent with the parameters from 2021.

Unlike previous years, the number of incoming cases decreased in 2022. Consequently, the number of pending cases in the first instance decreased at the end of 2022. The reduction in the influx of cases was recorded, predominantly, in the largest courts. This is not a consequence of legislative changes. It remains to be seen whether such indicators will continue to be achieved in the coming period.

Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanour proceedings and for the enforcement of pronounced penalties.

(2021): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal law cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions. In 2021, however, the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases rose by 8% compared to 2020. Still, that number is smaller than the number of incoming first instance severe criminal law cases registered in 2019 and 2018.

In addition, as in 2019 and 2020, the number of incoming first instance misdemeanour cases continued a clear upward trend in the reference year. Predominantly, increase of the new cases remains to be the result of a more consistent approach of the law enforcement institutions concerning traffic offences and some offences against public order. In addition, the number of resolved first instance cases in 2021 was bigger in comparison to 2020, which was marked by the Covid-19 measures restricting the work in prosecutors' offices and courts. However, the courts failed to reach the 100% clearance rate in the reference year. Consequently, the number of pending misdemeanour cases continued to grow in 2021 as in the previous years. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanour proceedings and for the enforcement of pronounced penalties.

There has been a significant decrease in the influx of first instance severe criminal cases over recent years, that trend improved in 2020 due to the decrease of activity of public prosecutors and judges in the context of measures implemented against the epidemic of Covid-19. However, in contrast to 2019, the number of resolved first instance criminal cases plunged in 2020, due to Covid-19 measures restricting the work in prosecutors' offices and courts. Therefore, the number of pending severe criminal cases was bigger at the end of the reporting year. As in 2019, the number of incoming first instance misdemeanour cases continued to raise in 2020. Predominantly, increase of the new cases remains to be the result of a more consistent approach of the law enforcement institutions concerning traffic offences and some offences against public order. The number of resolved first instance cases in 2020 was lesser compared to 2019 because of Covid-19 measures restricting the work in courts. Consequently, the number of pending misdemeanour cases continued to grow in 2020 as in the previous year. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the procedural gridlock that the courts cannot resolve (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). The majority of pending other cases older than 2 years are misdemeanour cases in which courts are lacking effective mechanisms to enforce outstanding monetary fines pronounced in the minor offence proceedings.

(2019): Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the change of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc), statistics on criminal proceedings related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal proceedings; statistics for minor offence cases regarding related to the court decisions brought outside of the main misdemeanor proceedings and for the enforcement of pronounced penalties. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable). Also, the historical statistics since 2014 show the decrease of the severe criminal cases. Due to the increase of the incoming misdemeanor and other cases in 2019 the courts did not achieve 100% clearance rate causing the increase of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019. The increase of the incoming cases was mostly the result of a more strict approach of the law enforcement institutions with regards to the punishing traffic offences. Also, it is important to note that although the increase of pending misdemeanor cases between 2018 and 2019 is high in relative terms, it is not as significant in absolute numbers.

Montenegro

(2023): reason that sum up numbers do not match is that certain number of cases were delegated, and there is no option to show it. (source Judicial Council)
other criminal cases - Misdemeanor cases - Execution cases for misdemeanor (IPS)

(2022): Higher inflow (number of received cases by misdemeanour courts due to the fact in practice that the subject with jurisdiction of issuing misdemeanour orders (fines) were using the legal possibility to initiate misdemeanour proceedings before the courts instead. That led to higher inflow of cases which reflected to the number of unresolved cases. This was mainly the issue related to the slowdown of public procurance system (major cyber attacks etc.) in the refence year and a lack of relevant forms for issuing misdemeanour orders (fines).

(2020): 1. Severe criminal cases":

Basic and High courts

- Juvenile criminal cases (Km)

"2. Misdemeanour and / or minor criminal cases":

"3. Other cases":

Misdemeanor cases - Execution cases for misdemeanor (IPS)

Discrepancy elaboration regarding increase of severe criminal cases pending on 31st December of ref.year: In 2020, there was a higher inflow of cases than in 2019, so there were more unresolved cases.

North Macedonia

(2023): Pending cases increased due to the low clearance rate last year as a result of insufficient number of judges

(2022): Category 2. Please, see also the comment for Q 35. High number of judge retirements in 2022 caused by new compulsory age of retirement probably is the reason for higher number of unsolved cases. Also, in 2023 we are expecting more retirements of judges due to this reason.

(2021): In 2020 when the President of the Republic of North Macedonia had adopted a decision for the existence of State of Emergency because of COVID 19 pandemic, the Government of North Macedonia adopted a decree-law that allowed the deadlines for cases before the courts to be stopped. Actually, all the deadlines were stopped for 3 months in 2020 and that is the reason why there is a larger number of increased cases before the courts in 2021.

(2020): In the numbers on this question are not included cases connected with enforcement of criminal (and misdemeanor) cases.

Serbia

(General Comment): We excluded misdemeanor cases (364.414) in the category other cases.

(2023): Official information obtained by the Supreme Court

According to the CEPEJ methodology we we excluded the requested category of misdemeanor cases

(2022): All answers were provided by the competent institution (Supreme Court of Cassation)

(2021): The transition to a new case management system is the cause of uneven numbers. We will provide a more detailed explanation as soon as possible.

(2021): The discrepancy in misdemeanour cases is mostly because in the data of 2020, the numbers were not fully reflecting the reality and the numbers of pending cases in the previous year and the number of resolved cases weren't included. Therefore, this year we have been able to provide the full data for those categories and it indicated the discrepancies from the last year.

(2020): The discrepancy in misdemeanor cases is because of the switch to Case management system(CMIS). The pending cases at the end of 2019 have not been included in the CMIS. After the communication with Judicial Council, we have been informed that all the pending cases from 2019 have been solved, but are not included in the CMIS. To be more specific, from 26070 pending cases (31st Dec 2019) 22729 have been not included in the CMIS. This is why the number of resolved cases is significantly lower than the number of incoming cases. As for the decrease in the number of incoming cases, it is mainly a result of the full lockdown which was imposed from mid- March to June. Restrictive measures, including restriction in the free movement have remained in place during all the year.

Albania

(2023): The increase in the number of administrative resolved cases In 2023, the number of judges effectively in office is 8.3 judges marking an increase of 49% but again far from the full number of the corps of 13 judges. Also, the number of non-judge staff increased by 46% during 2023, reaching in 67 non-judge support staff.

(2022): The decrease in the number of resolved cases during 2022 is believed to have been caused by the decrease of the number of judges in the second instance due to different factors such as resignations, vetting process, promotions. In addition, the unequal distribution of cases between courts is another factor contributing to the problem. As regards administrative cases, during 2022 the Administrative Appeal Court has functioned with 43% of judges.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2023): Civil (and commercial) litigious cases: The number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases declined in 2023, following a massive one-time increase in the influx of cases in one of the courts in 2022. The influx of this category of court cases in 2023 is in balance with the influx of cases in 2021. In addition, there has been a significant decrease in the number of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. This trend continued in 2023. It is particularly facilitated by the continuous reduction of backlog in several of the largest courts that have jurisdiction over second instance civil commercial litigious cases.

Administrative cases: The number of incoming second-instance administrative law cases remained stable in 2023 compared to the influx of cases in 2022 and 2021. In 2023, the courts continued to reduce the number of second-instance administrative law cases in 2023, which is in line with historical trends for this category of court cases.

(2022): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions; therefore, the number of appeals initiating the second instance court cases in 2020 was much lower, compared to the previous years. In 2021, however, the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases was increased by 9% compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is by far smaller than the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases registered in 2019 and 2018. This trend continued in 2022. However, one of the second-instance courts received a large number of simple cases, which were resolved during the same year, which resulted in an increase in the total number of cases received compared to 2021. This was a one-time increase in the influx of cases, related specifically to this court's territorial jurisdiction. Furthermore, the courts with the biggest caseload in the country have managed to surpass the 100% clearance rate for many consecutive years, including the reference year; consequently, the number of pending second instance civil commercial litigious cases was lesser at the end of 2022. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. When it comes to administrative court cases, the number of pending cases has been further reduced in 2022, confirming indicators from 2021.

(2021): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. In 2020, the number of incoming cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions; therefore, the number of appeals initiating the second instance court cases in 2020 was much lower, compared to the previous years. In 2021, however, the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases was increased by 9% compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is by far smaller than the number of incoming second instance civil commercial litigious cases registered in 2019 and 2018. In addition, the courts with the biggest caseload in the country have managed to surpass the 100% clearance rate for many consecutive years, including the reference year; consequently, the number of pending second instance civil commercial litigious cases was lesser at the end of 2021. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. The courts registered the decreased numbers of incoming and resolved administrative cases in 2021 in contrast to the previous year. The workload shrank predominantly in one of the courts in the reference year; which received almost no complaints against the decisions of the election commission unlike in 2020.

In general, the courts maintained the trend from 2020 and previous years to make a significant reduction of the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

(2020): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of second instance civil commercial litigious cases over recent years. No major legislative reforms in terms of the laws on civil and commercial procedure took place in the recent years. The courts registered the increased numbers of incoming and resolved administrative cases in 2020 in contrast to the previous year; the workload increased particularly in one of the courts, which had to decide urgently on the huge number of the complaints against the election commission's decisions in relation to the 2020 local elections. The courts maintained the trend from 2019 to make a significant reduction of the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

(2019): There has been a significant decrease in the influx of civil commercial litigious cases over recent years, including 2019; also, the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019 can be explained by the fact that the courts have achieved or surpassed the 100% clearance rate for commercial and civil litigious cases throughout the same period. The decrease of administrative cases was registered in 2019 as in the previous year; in such conditions the backlog of cases was reduced in 2019. The above-mentioned reduction in the number of new cases is not caused by the legislative amendments. When it comes to the statistics on pending civil and commercial litigious and administrative cases older than 2 years, it is important to note the following circumstances: The courts reduced significantly the number of pending civil, commercial and administrative cases older than 2 years in 2019 compared to 2018 due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

Montenegro

(2023): These are different types execution cases, execution of payments, cases upon constitutional appeal in commercial cases etc. Decreasing number of resolved is a general issue, because of higher inflow of cases and same or less capacities.

(2022): higher inflow of cases in 2022

(2021): The total of other than criminal law cases is the same as the situation at the end of 2020. and the number of received O(legacy) and RS (complex non-litigation cases) cases has increased. No further explanation was provided.

(2020): Total of other than criminal law cases (1+2+3+4) - Total number given in this file represents High and Appellate court cases

1. Civil (and commercial) litigious cases - High and Appellate court: -Civil appeals (Gž and Pž) for (Civil cases (P) and Civil cases – small value (Mal))
- 2.1. General civil (and commercial) non-litigious cases - Civil appeals (Gž and Pž) for (Complex non-litigious cases (Rs) and Other civil and non-litigious cases (R))
- 2.3. Other non-litigious cases - -Civil appeals (Gž and Pž) for (Legacy cases (O))
3. Administrative law cases - -Supreme court -Administrative appeal cases (Uvp)
4. Other cases - Civil appeals (Gž and Pž) for ((O-n), (OP), (ST), (RP), (PSO), (I), (IP), (OS), (L),(PL))

Clarification on discrepancies:

Total of other than criminal law cases for pending cases 31.dec RY As the number of unresolved cases decreased on 01.01, the inflow of cases in the reporting year also decreased, thus, the number of unresolved cases decreased on 31.12.2020. year.

North Macedonia

(2023): Law clearance rate for civil and administrative cases is a result of insufficient number of judges.

(2022): Category 1 - In 2022 there was no reason for larger number of income cases as it was in 2021 (see explanation in previous cycle).

(2021): In 2020 when the President of the Republic of North Macedonia had adopted a decision for the existence of State of Emergency because of COVID 19 pandemic, the Government of North Macedonia adopted a decree-law that allowed the deadlines for cases before the courts to be stopped. Actually, all the deadlines were stopped for 3 months in 2020 and that is the reason why there is a larger number of increased cases before the courts in 2021.

Serbia

(General Comment): Courts deciding in the second instance (on appeal) in the "non-criminal" cases, as courts of general jurisdiction are: Higher courts: they decide upon the decisions in civil disputes and the judgment in small claims and the non-contentious proceedings.

Appellate courts: upon the decisions of higher courts and judgements of the basic courts in civil disputes unless deciding on appeals is not under the competence of higher court.

Commercial Court of Appeal: second instance commercial proceedings involving appeals, conflict and delegation of jurisdiction between commercial courts.

Misdemeanour Court of Appeal: proceedings involving appeals against first instance decisions of misdemeanour courts in cases related to whistle-blowers and conflict and delegation of jurisdiction between misdemeanour courts (cases not misdemeanour as such).

There is no second instance in administrative disputes.

With regard to "non-litigious cases", and more particularly "other non-litigious cases", it should be pointed out that, in 2015, amendments to the Law on the Court Organization and the new Law on Protection of the Right to a Trial within a Reasonable Time have shifted responsibility for protection of this right from the Constitutional Court to the courts of general and special jurisdiction.

(2023): Official information obtained by the Supreme Court

(2022): 1. The lower number of incoming cases in second instance in 2022 is primarily explained by the decrease of incoming civil and commercial cases in basic and commercial courts. During 2019, 2020 and 2021 there was a large number of specific type of cases related to the costs of bank loans. After supplementing the legal position of the Supreme Court of Cassation from September 16, 2021, number of these cases gradually decreases. However, due to the mentioned repetitive cases (litigation for reimbursement of costs bank loans), second instance courts were unable to handle such a large influx from the previous year (regardless of the fact that the inflow in 2022 was lower), so the number cases increased.

(2021): Please note that all provided data do not cover Serbian Autonomy province of Kosovo and Metohija. The discrepancy from the previous year in the number on pending "civil and commercial litigious cases" older than two years is a result of the burden higher courts (acting as second instance courts), and in particular the Higher court in Belgrade.

With regard to this question for more insight please see the analysis provided within the Annual Report on Work of Courts for 2021:

TOTAL AT THE NATIONAL LEVEL - ALL CASES 1,911,086 1,701,580 1,656,645 1,510,472 1,498,237

* Figures for basic courts include Registers I, Iv while commercial courts include all enforcements

The number of pending cases – except enforcement – increased when compared to 2017, as a result of the increased number of cases received in the last five years (more than two and half million cases above the expected inflow) that the judicial system couldn't absorb completely. Since there was no timely systemic reaction to the enormously increased number of incoming cases, while at the same time, the number of court staff decreased and new employment was banned, or was limited, courts did not manage to stop the trend of increase of the number of pending cases, since 2018 (1.024.521). In 2019, the number of pending cases slightly increased, however, in 2020 there was a significant increase of pending cases in trial matters due to extraordinary circumstances and implementation of measures for protection of population from the pandemic, which is why the courts in the Republic worked with significantly reduced capacities.

The trend of increasing the number of pending cases continued in 2021, caused by the additional burden on the court system with so far the largest inflow of cases, which was mostly reflected in the number of pending cases in basic and misdemeanour courts.

The ratio of incoming, disposed and pending cases at the end of 2021 comparing to the previous reporting periods, shows a decreased number of pending cases (1,498,237) and increase of the number of disposed cases (2,415,672) resulting from the increased engagement of judges and judicial staff, although in circumstances of the enormous increase of inflow (2,402,486).

The ratio of incoming, disposed and pending cases in the period from 2017 to 2021 shows a continuously decreasing number of pending cases, a slight decrease in the number of disposed cases in 2020, and a sharp increase in 2021, by 401,843 more cases than in the previous year, as well as a variation in the number of incoming cases, with the largest escalation recorded in 2021, by 534,575 more cases compared to the previous year.

The increase in the number of incoming and disposed cases indicates excessive workload of judges and court staff, despite the systematic measures taken to reduce the number of backlog cases in courts.

(2020): The discrepancy from the previous year in the number on pending "civil and commercial litigious cases" older than two years is a result of the burden higher courts (acting as second instance courts), and in particular the Higher court in Belgrade.

(2021): There is a lack of data for several categories because the Judicial Council has not been able to register all the data in the CMIS for the second instance. As for the discrepancies between pending cases, incoming and resolved cases, stands the same explanation as for the Q35 regarding the first instance. To be specific, the administrative cases increased in the first instance and they proceeded to the second instance via appeals.

(2020): We do not have the data on pending cases for the second instance this year, because the Judicial Council has not been able to register all the data in the CMIS for the second instances. We might have the data during the coming months, but we do not have a definite answer when these data will be available. As for the discrepancies between pending cases, incoming and resolved cases, stands the same explanation as for the Q35.

Albania

(2023): Based on the table of statistics collected from the reporting of the courts “other cases” refers to “administrative criminal cases”.

(2022): Other Criminal cases: a) criminal administrative cases (exe: probation requests, security measures etc) b) cases related to anti-mafia law. Long disposition time is due to the lack of judges and uneven distribution of workload.

(2020): A decrease in the number of resolved criminal cases (-45%) remains unexplained

(General Comment): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. The second instance courts have first instance jurisdiction for criminal offences for which more than 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed, they also have second instance jurisdiction to decide on appeals against the decisions brought by the first instance courts for criminal offences for which up to 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed. The statistics of second instance courts on criminal law cases (Q040, i.e. incoming, resolved, pending, pending older than two years) include only second instance cases within the jurisdiction of the second instance courts, whereas the first instance cases within their jurisdiction are included in the statistics under the question Q038 First instance courts: number of criminal law cases. In addition, the statistics included under the question Q040 do not include data on severe criminal cases managed by the three courts that are included in the category of supreme courts under the Q100 (Evaluation of the judicial systems 2024) Highest instance courts (Supreme Court): Number of criminal law cases. Their caseload in terms of criminal law consists of the first (i.e. one of the courts in this category has both first and second instance criminal jurisdiction), second and third instance severe criminal cases. The courts of appeal have jurisdiction only to deal with the second-instance misdemeanor cases. Severe criminal offences: a criminal offense is an unlawful act which violates or jeopardizes the protected values and which is, because of the danger it represents, defined by law as a criminal offense and for which a punishment is prescribed. Criminal sanctions are: prison punishments, suspended sentence, security measures and educational measures. Examples of serious offenses are: criminal acts against state, homicide, organized crime, criminal acts against official duty (i.e. corruption cases), theft and other crimes against property, rape and other crimes against sexual integrity, traffic accidents where a person suffered grievous bodily injury or a significant damage and other crimes against public transportation etc.

Minor offence cases: minor offences are violations of public order or of regulations on economic and financial operations defined as such by laws or other regulations, whose characteristics are described and for which sanctions are prescribed. The following sanctions may be imposed upon a person found responsible for commission of a minor offence: fine; suspended sentence; reprimand; and protective measures. The following measures may be imposed as a consequence of being found responsible for commission of a minor offence: confiscation of gains; obligation to compensate damages; penalty points; and deprivation of liberty to compel payment of a fine. Examples of minor offences are: traffic offences, violations of public order, begging etc.

Statistics on "Other cases" include inter alia: statistics on the preliminary criminal proceedings before the main trial, i.e. during the investigative procedure which is conducted by the prosecutor's office (e.g. seizure of evidence, detention and similar measures, confirmation of indictment etc.), statistics on the court decisions brought outside of the main criminal trial (e.g. detention and similar measures, the conversion of monetary sanction to imprisonment etc.), statistics on court cases related to the enforcement of convictions pronounced in criminal and misdemeanor proceedings; statistics on court cases related to the various auxiliary matters decided in relation to the misdemeanor proceedings.

(2023): Criminal cases:

As of 2022, i.e. the Evaluation of the judicial systems 2024 (data 2022), the statistics for severe criminal cases and other cases for this question include only data for criminal cases from the second instance jurisdiction of relevant courts, whereas the statistics on cases generating from their first instance jurisdiction are included in the data for the first instance courts: number of criminal law cases. This change may lead to some inconsistencies between data for 2023 and the previous reporting cycle. Regardless of the above change, the general trends for criminal cases for this question remain similar to the tendencies from the previous reporting cycles.

Misdemeanor cases:

The number of pending second-instance misdemeanor cases rose during 2023 by 13%, unlike the previous reporting year (i.e. 2022) during which the number of pending cases decreased by 10%. However, it is important to note that this modification was not significant in absolute terms. The number of incoming and resolved cases remained stable in the reporting year compared to 2022.

(2022): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. The second instance courts have first instance jurisdiction for criminal offences for which more than 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed, they also have second instance jurisdiction to decide on appeals against the decisions brought by the first instance courts for criminal offences for which up to 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed. The statistics of second instance courts on criminal law cases (Q 40, i.e. incoming, resolved, pending, pending older than two years) include only second instance cases within the jurisdiction of the second instance courts. These statistics do not include data on severe criminal cases managed by the three courts that are included in the category of supreme courts; their caseload in terms of criminal law consists of the first (i.e. one of the courts in this category has both first and second instance criminal jurisdiction), second and third instance severe criminal cases. There has been a significant decrease of the first instance severe criminal cases over recent years to the second instance courts of the aforementioned category. The trend advanced in 2020 due to the decrease of activity of public prosecutors and judges in the context of measures implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus. In addition, in 2020 the number of incoming second instance criminal cases dropped additionally compared to 2019, due to Covid-19 restrictions decreasing the number of first instance court decisions. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019 and 2018. The number of the first instance severe criminal cases remained stable in 2021 and 2022.

(2021): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019 and 2018. The number of the first instance severe criminal cases remained stable in 2021.

As for the number of incoming severe criminal law cases at second instance courts, it was increased in 2021 compared to 2020; nevertheless, that number is smaller significantly than the number of incoming severe instance criminal law cases registered at second instance courts in 2019 and 2018.

The second instance courts deal only with the appeal cases within their jurisdiction for misdemeanour cases. Even though the number of pending cases dropped slightly in 2021, the decrease is not as significant in absolute numbers.

When it comes to the statistics on pending severe criminal cases and other cases older than 2 years, the number of those cases increased slightly in 2021 mostly due to the measures which continued to be implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus in the reference year (e.g. number of persons in the court rooms was restricted). However, certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable).

Furthermore, many of the pending cases that are classified as other cases older than 2 years will become severe criminal cases once the procedural obstacles in those cases are removed for the commencement of the trial.

(2020): Second instance courts have a dual subject matter in criminal matters. As a result, the number of appeals initiating the second instance severe criminal cases in 2020 was much lower than in 2019. Although the second instance courts resolved smaller number of severe criminal cases in 2020 compared to the previous year, they were able to exceed the 100% clearance rate during the reporting year. Accordingly, the number of pending first and second instance severe criminal cases declined significantly in the reporting period.

The second instance courts deal only with the appeal cases within their jurisdiction for misdemeanour cases. Even though the number of pending cases continued to rise considerably in relative terms in 2020, the increase is not as significant in absolute numbers.

When it comes to the statistics on pending severe criminal cases and other cases older than 2 years, the number of those cases increased slightly in 2020 mostly due to the measures implemented against the spread of Covid-19 virus. Note regarding 2019 data: During the analysis of data for 2020, a technical error was discovered in the Business Intelligence System. In 2019, the error caused that certain number of incoming and pending criminal cases could not be identified as severe criminal cases; instead, the Business Intelligence System included incorrectly those cases in the other cases category. The correct data for 2019 have been prepared in order to replace the previously included data for that year.

(2019): Second instance courts have dual subject matter in criminal matters. Second instance courts have first instance jurisdiction for criminal offences for which more than 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed, they also have second instance jurisdiction to decide on appeals against the decisions brought by the first instance courts for criminal offences for which up to 10 years of imprisonment is prescribed. There has been a significant decrease in the influx of severe criminal cases over recent years, including 2019; also, the decrease of the number of pending cases at the end of 2019 can be explained by the fact that the courts have achieved or surpassed the 100% clearance rate for severe criminal cases in the same period. The number of misdemeanor cases and other cases rose considerably in relative terms between 2018 and 2019, the increase is not as significant in absolute numbers.

When it comes to the statistics on pending severe criminal cases and other cases older than 2 years, it is important to note the following circumstances: The courts reduced significantly the number of pending cases older than 2 years in 2019 compared to 2018 due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans. Certain number of pending severe criminal cases, which are older than 2 years, cannot be resolved due to the circumstances that are outside of the responsibility of the courts (e.g. an accused person is not traceable).

Montenegro

(2022): During 2021 the High Court in Podgorica operated with 6 judges less. In the same year there were no new appointments to fill the missing judicial positions in the court. That affected the efficiency of the court, which is the one with the highest number of criminal cases in the second instance.

(2021): The number of resolved cases is smaller, so the number of unresolved cases is higher. No further explanation was provided.

(2020): 1. Severe criminal cases":

High courts and Appellate court

- Special criminal appeal case (Kžs)

- Juvenile criminal appeal case (Kžm)

"2. Misdemeanour and / or minor criminal cases": High misdemeanor court

Clarification of discrepancies:

North Macedonia

(2023): Law clearance rate from previous year for severe criminal cases is a result of insufficient number of judges.

(2022): Category 1. In 2022, we still had some negative effects from Covid -19 virus on the proceedings before courts.

(2021): In 2020 when the President of the Republic of North Macedonia had adopted a decision for the existence of State of Emergency because of COVID 19 pandemic, the Government of North Macedonia adopted a decree-law that allowed the deadlines for cases before the courts to be stopped. Actually, all the deadlines were stopped for 3 months in 2020 and that is the reason why there is a larger number of increased cases before the courts in 2021.

Kosovo*

(2021): The discrepancy in misdemeanour cases is mostly because in the data of 2020, the numbers were not fully reflecting the reality and the numbers of pending cases in the previous year and the number of resolved cases weren't included. Therefore, this year we have been able to provide the full data for those categories and it indicated the discrepancies from the last year. Same comments as for the first instance.

(2020): The decrease in numbers, as explained in Q35, is because of the national lockdown and other restrictive measures applied throughout the 2020.

Question 041

Albania

(2023): NA

(2022): In the present condition of the CMS system, we cannot calculate the exact average length of proceedings. We use the disposition time as a proxy.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Description of calculation method: The average length of court procedure is calculated as the average of time needed to resolve a case for cases resolved during the reporting year. The average length of court procedure for resolving the case is calculated separately for different phases of the court procedure - from the day of initiating the phase of the court procedure to its completion. The data are retrieved from the case management system.

Average total length of the total procedure:

The average length of the total procedure is calculated as the average of time needed to resolve a case for all cases resolved in the different phases of court procedure during the year. (e. g. The first instance employment dismissal case is resolved in 100 days from its lodging with the first instance court, second instance employment dismissal case is resolved in 120 days from its lodging with the second instance court, and third instance employment dismissal case was resolved in 120 days. The average length of the total procedure employment dismissal cases is calculated as follows: $100+120+120/3=113,3$ days.)

(2023): In 2023, an average duration of proceedings continued to get reduced for the resolved first and third instance civil and commercial litigious cases, which is consistent with the decrease in the number of pending cases for both case categories during the reporting year. Unlike 2022, the average duration of second-instance civil and commercial cases rose slightly in 2023. This occurred mostly because the courts with the biggest number of pending cases resolved certain number of very old cases during the reporting year. It is important to note that the backlog of old first instance litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several first instance courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

As in previous years, as far as other types of court cases are concerned under the Question 41 (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence), it is important to put these differences into the following context. Primarily, the variations are registered within a relatively small number of cases, so the variations could be influenced significantly by the length of proceedings and other circumstances of individual cases (e.g. robberies and intentional homicides) or the registered variations are high percentage-wise but they are not significant in absolute terms (e.g. litigious divorce cases, employment dismissal cases, insolvency cases). When it comes to the Bribery cases and Trading in influence cases, it is important to note that the prosecutors' offices and the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina process very often the corruption cases as the cases of the Abuse of Office (i.e. An official or responsible person who, by taking advantage of his office or official authority and by exceeding the limits of his official authority or by failing to perform his official duty, acquires a benefit to himself or to another person or causes damage to another person or seriously violates the rights of another, shall be punished by imprisonment). The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

(2022): Generally, the relevant indicators regarding civil and commercial litigious cases for the reference year are consistent with the statistical information for such cases in 2021. It is important to note that the backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several first instance courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The average duration of second-instance litigation and economic resolved cases decreased significantly due to the increase in the number of resolved cases in the largest courts of second instance in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

As in previous years, as far as other types of court cases are concerned under the Question 41 (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence), it is important to put these differences into the following context. It is important to note that the backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several first instance courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. As for other cases under the Question 41 (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence), it is important to put these differences into the following context. The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences. Finally, it appears that the increase in the length of proceedings in the first instance court cases resolved in 2021 originated from the smaller number of disposed cases in 2020, following the Covid- 19 restrictions regarding the functioning of the courts.

Overall, in relation to the civil and commercial litigious cases, the relevant trends and indicators for 2020 are corresponding to the results the courts achieved in 2019.

When it comes to statistics on civil and commercial litigious pending cases older than 3 years, it is important to note that the majority of those cases are litigious small claims cases, pending before the first instance courts, related to the unpaid utility bills. This backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Other cases (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides, Bribery cases, Trading in influence):

There is no particular explanation of the variations for other cases between 2019 and 2020. It is important to put these differences into the following contexts; the variations are registered within a relatively small number of cases, so the variations could be influenced significantly by the facts and circumstances of individual cases (e.g. robberies and intentional homicides) or the registered variations are high percentage-wise but they are not significant in absolute terms (e.g. litigious divorce cases, employment dismissal cases, insolvency cases). Furthermore, in 2020, Covid- 19 restrictions regarding the functioning of the courts affected differently their work on individual cases and case types. When it comes to the Bribery cases and Trading in influence cases, it is important to note that the prosecutors' offices and the courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina process very often the corruption cases as the cases of the Abuse of Office (i.e. An official or responsible person who, by taking advantage of his office or official authority and by exceeding the limits of his official authority or by failing to perform his official duty, acquires a benefit to himself or to another person or causes damage to another person or seriously violates the rights of another, shall be punished by imprisonment). The statistics included in the reply for the Question 41 do not include the court cases in which Bribery and Trading in influence are dealt with together in conjunction with the Organized crime and other criminal offences.

(2019): Civil and commercial litigious cases:

The average length in 2nd instance resolved civil and commercial litigious cases increased in 2019, compared to 2018, because the second instance courts resolved significant number of old cases, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans. Also, the number of resolved old civil and commercial cases increased in some of the biggest second instance courts through temporary assignment of judges from other second instance courts with a smaller caseload. The average length in 3rd instance resolved civil and commercial cases was reduced in 2019, compared to 2018, due to the consistent implementation of the principle to deal with cases chronologically within their backlog reduction plans.

When it comes to statistics on civil and commercial litigious pending cases older than 3 years, it is important to note that the majority of those cases are litigious small claims cases, pending before 1st instance courts, related to the unpaid utility bills. This backlog of old litigious small claims cases for unpaid utility bills is concentrated in the several courts in the biggest cities in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Other cases (Litigious divorce cases, Employment dismissal cases, Insolvency cases, Robbery cases, and Intentional homicides):

Montenegro

(2021): The duration of proceedings related to Intentional homicide cases has been increased due to resolved 2018 cases.

The number of appeals filed in Litigious divorce cases Robbery cases has also decreased, and the number of appeals related to Employment dismissal cases has increased.

(2020): Clarification of discrepancies:

Employment dismissal cases in column % of decisions subject to appeal

In reference year there was a lower number of cases that went on appeal; Robbery cases in column % of decisions subject to appeal In the reference year, more cases went on appeal

In the column % of cases pending for more than 3 years for all instances in the row concerning Civil and commercial litigious cases, in the last reporting period the relationship with Unresolved cases was used, and this year realistic data concerning the relationship between Unresolved cases over 3 years of age were set in relation.

There are some variations between data of length of proceedings in 2019 and in 2020 which have not been explained (notably decrease of length of proceedings for litigious divorce cases and employment dismissal cases in first instance ; increase of length of proceedings for insolvency cases in first instance ; increase of length of proceedings in first instance and decrease in second instance for civil and commercial cases).

North Macedonia

(2022): It must be emphasized that the data are collected manually from the ICT system in all courts within North Macedonia. After that, the data are calculated manually in the courts and in the Ministry of justice (Excel calculation). Some of data are only from one court (for example: 130 days at first instance - trading in influence cases). 2/27 from courts didn't answer correctly to the tables, so 2 courts are excluded from calculations. According to this, the collection of data for these questions is without guarantees for total accuracy.

(2021): There are some variations in the average length of cases in 1st instance (in days) which cannot be explained due to this data being collected manually with all courts within North Macedonia.

There are some variations in the average length of cases in 1st instance (in days) which cannot be explained due to this data being collected manually with all courts within North Macedonia.

Serbia

(General Comment): In order to calculate the average length of the court proceedings in days for the first and second instance, for insolvency, the following formula was used: pending / resolved * 365

(2023): As already stated in previous reports only data on the insolvency cases is available (according to the calculation of the Commercial Appellate Court)

(2020): It is not possible to provide automatically this information. The AVP application enables certain information but in order to provide this information the courts need to make multiple individual inquiries in order to get the requested data – such is the case with the Litigious divorce case. It is even more difficult to gather information for Employment dismissal cases – all employment cases are registered within the same register so it would be very difficult for courts to extract the requested type of cases- dismissal cases. Therefore the information requested in this table in most cases is not available.

These data are not automatically available. They refer to registers given within the question 35 (Civil (and commercial) litigious cases. Not all of these cases can be submitted to the third instance (extraordinary legal remedies) . The length of the proceedings is calculated for each instance according to CEPEJ Disposition Time formula and not an average length.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Pursuant to the criminal procedure legislation, the basic duty of the prosecutor is the detection and prosecution of perpetrators of criminal offenses. The prosecutor has the following powers: a) as soon as the prosecutor becomes aware that there are grounds for suspicion that a criminal offense has been committed, to take necessary steps to discover it and investigate it, to identify the suspect(s), guide and supervise the investigation, as well as direct the activities of authorized officials pertaining to the identification of suspect(s) and the gathering of information and evidence; b) to conduct an investigation in accordance with the law; c) to grant immunity in accordance with law; d) to request information from governmental bodies, companies and other physical and legal persons; e) to issue summonses and orders and to propose the issuance of summonses and orders in accordance with the law; f) to order authorized officials to execute an order issued by the court as provided by the law; g) to propose the issuance of a warrant for pronouncement of the sentence; h) to issue and defend indictment before the court; i) to file legal remedies; j) to perform other tasks as provided by the law.

(2023): Prosecutors may end the criminal cases against juveniles by imposing certain types of criminal sanctions - i.e. cases in which prosecutors impose educational measures against minor defendants without bringing them to court.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Public prosecutors deal exclusively with criminal cases. However, the law provides for a smaller scope of jurisdiction of public prosecutors in civil and bankruptcy proceedings. If there are reasonable grounds to use a remedy against an executive court decision or a decision taken in another proceeding, the chief federal prosecutor may request that the execution of such a decision be postponed or interrupted, if its adverse effects could result in unavoidable adverse consequences. A copy of the decision on the opening of the bankruptcy procedure shall be submitted to the competent prosecutor's office. The competent prosecutor's office shall also be informed in the event that the opening of the bankruptcy procedure does not occur due to the lack of property.

North Macedonia

(2023): In Article 49 from the Law on administrative disputes is prescribed that public prosecutor has right to submit the request for protection of legality. In Article 6 of the Law on Public prosecution office is prescribed that in civil and other court proceedings, as well as in administrative proceedings, the public prosecutor undertakes legal actions for which he is authorized by law.

Kosovo*

(2023): Public prosecutor has limited role in Civil cases, such as Family law (example: claims for annulling the marriage)

Question 041-3

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2023): Around 88% of pending cases on 31 December 2023 were cases involving criminal acts in which their perpetrators could not be identified by police when the case was filed, cases in which a prosecutor needs to preliminarily establish if an illegal behavior constitutes a criminal act. Additionally, around 12% of pending cases were cases against known minor and adult perpetrators. These cases are considered to be more important for the society and the criminal justice system compared to the other group of cases (cases involving criminal acts in which their perpetrators could not be identified by police when the case was filed, cases in which a prosecutor needs to preliminarily establish if an illegal behavior constitutes a criminal act).

Montenegro

(2023): Some PPO offices in points 3.1 3.1.1, 3.1.2, 3.1.3 and 3.1.4 provided data on reported persons because they were not able to differentiate data as requested in the questionnaire. That is one of the reasons number do not sum up.

North Macedonia

Serbia

(2023): According to the Public Prosecution statistical reporting methodology, all data presented in this table refer to number of known adult suspects/defendants, not to overall number of cases.

Question 041-4

Serbia

(2023): According to the Criminal Procedure Code, every plea agreement, whether it's concluded before or during the main trial, needs to be confirmed by the court and it is the only way to conclude the case by this procedure.

Information on number of guilty plea procedures refer to number of suspects/defendants who concluded plea agreements with the Public Prosecution which were confirmed by the court in 2023.

Please note that imprisonment is foreseen as a sanction for every criminal act envisaged by the Criminal Code.

Depending on the gravity of criminal act, imprisonment is foreseen in different forms: as the only sanction, together with the money fine or alternatively to the money fine. For that reason, it is not possible to make a distinction between severe and misdemeanour/minor criminal case as described in the Explanatory note.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Traffic offence cases are dealt with by the courts under the legislation on misdemeanor proceedings. In general, the misdemeanor offences are determined by the law and other regulations as violations of public order punishable by fines. The police, not the prosecution, initiate and present traffic offence cases in the courts.

Montenegro

(2023): When it comes to this, there are no exact data, some of the prosecution offices responded that traffic offences included, others that it is not included and also there were no responses. So general answer is no, but we can not give exact estimation. According to the Law, of course there is a possibility for traffic offences, but for criminal cases not just misdemeanours or classic fines.

North Macedonia

(2023): There are included only this traffic offences that are defined as a criminal offences in the Criminal Code and not these traffic offences defined as misdemeanors.

Question 042

Albania

(General Comment): Yes, there are quality standards determined for the judicial system at national level approved by the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, (Article 71) who are related to the assessment process of the prosecutors. The assessment is conducted according to the criteria of: a) professional skills; b) organizational skills; c) ethics and commitment to professional values and personal skills and; c) professional commitment of the prosecutor.

Concerning the professional skills of the prosecutor, the assessment includes the legal knowledge and legal reasoning to conduct the investigation logically, gathering the evidence required by law, interpret the law and analyse jurisprudence, make investigative decisions and actions, clarity and the understanding of prosecution acts, the consistent and well-organized structure of prosecution acts, the ability to question and the quality of the analysis, and the logical reasoning of the prosecutor, etc.

HJC is the body responsible for determining the quality standards of the judiciary, including efficiency and quality. HJC is working on producing the sub-legal acts concerning standards, in cooperation with external partners. Furthermore, each Council publishes Standards of Ethics and Rules of Conduct. Hence, standards generally speaking standards are divided into performance related standards (quality and quantity of performance of magistrates) and behavioral related standards (ethics).

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): In 2022, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the new criteria for the performance evaluation of judges, prosecutors, court presidents, and chief prosecutors, introducing minor changes to the scoring system included in the previously valid appraisal criteria that had been adopted in 2020. According to the criteria, the court presidents evaluate yearly judges in line with the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of decisions issued by a judge is evaluated based on the following parameters: a) the percentage of reversed decisions compared to the total number of decisions upheld, modified and reversed by a higher instance court; b) the percentage of reversed and modified decisions compared to the total number of cases in which a final decision was rendered to which a legal remedy may be filed with the higher instance court. According to the criteria, the chief prosecutors evaluate yearly prosecutors in line with the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual backlog reduction plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of a prosecutor's indictments is assessed on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of enforceable judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of enforceable decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period. The heads of higher courts and prosecutors' offices evaluate yearly lower instance court presidents and chief prosecutors based on the statistical data and the indicators related to the management of the work of the court and the prosecutor's office. Furthermore, there is a normative framework that consists of the various law provisions, regulations, and guidelines. The framework outlines systematic processes in the entire judicial system of Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as in the prosecutors' offices and courts, which have a purpose to help the judicial institutions achieve the best possible results in terms of production and quality. The processes include meetings of departments (uniform application of the law, analysis of relevant case law, caseload, length of proceedings, backlog reduction plan etc.), quota system, adoption of yearly work plan, reporting on the yearly work plan implementation, preparation of yearly training programme by the judicial training institutions etc.

(2020): In December 2020, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the new criteria for the performance evaluation of judges, prosecutors, court presidents, and chief prosecutors. According to the criteria, the court presidents evaluate yearly judges in line with the following performance criteria: quantity of work (i.e. annual quota), percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan, and statistical quality of decisions. The statistical quality of decisions issued by a judge is evaluated based on the following parameters: a) the percentage of reversed decisions compared to the total number of decisions upheld, modified and reversed by a higher instance court; b) the percentage of reversed and modified decisions compared to the total number of cases in which a final decision was rendered to which a legal remedy may be filed with the higher instance court.

The statistical quality of a prosecutor's indictments is assessed on the basis of the total number of issued indictments and the total number of enforceable judgements dismissing charges, acquitting the persons charged, and on the basis of enforceable decisions on dismissing indictments, proportionate to the total number of indictments issued in the evaluation period.

The heads of higher courts and prosecutors' offices evaluate yearly lower instance court presidents and chief prosecutors based on the statistical data and the indicators related to the management of the work of the court and the prosecutor's office.

Furthermore, there is a normative framework that consists of the various law provisions, regulations, and guidelines. The framework outlines systematic processes in the entire judicial system of Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as in the prosecutors' offices and courts, which have a purpose to help the judicial institutions achieve the best possible results in terms of production and quality. (2019): The new criteria for the evaluation of the performance of all judges and prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina, which were adopted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in 2018, have introduced respective quality standards for reasoning of court and prosecutorial decisions and quality in conducting judicial procedures. The quality of decisions and conduct of court procedures is assessed by the court president. Different information sources will be used when evaluating the quality of court decisions and procedures, including the opinion of the court department head based on their ongoing monitoring of the performance of the judge and the opinion of the department of the immediately higher instance court. The quality of the prosecutor's decisions and conduct of procedures is assessed by the chief prosecutor. Information sources for the quality of the prosecutor's decisions and conduct of proceedings are the review of randomly selected cases and the additional sources of information such as the opinion of the department head based on their ongoing monitoring of the performance of the prosecutor and the opinion of the immediately higher instance prosecutor's office.

Montenegro

(General Comment): Rules for the evaluation of judges and presidents of courts, article 11 "A judge who had 30% or more of revoked decisions in relation to the total number of cases in which it was decided in the same period - unsatisfactory; A judge who had less than 30% of revoked decisions in relation to the total number of cases in which it was decided in the same period - satisfactory. When calculating the percentage of revoked decisions, the case in which the decision was partially revoked counts as one half (0.5% of a case). If only a decision on costs was revoked, such case shall not be included in the revoked decisions."

North Macedonia

(General Comment): The quality standards are part of the Law on the Judicial Council, the Law on Courts and the new by-law - Methodology for evaluation of the judgment's work on the basis of compliance of qualitative criteria for judicial work (adopted by the Judicial Council at the end of 2020). Supreme Court annually reviews reports of all courts regarding their work including qualitative criteria. Also, the Matrix of monitoring indicators for the justice sector performance provides quality indicators. Supreme Court annually reviews reports of all courts regarding their work including qualitative criteria. Judicial Council defines qualitative and quantitative criteria for work of the courts. According to Article 37 of the Law on Public Prosecution, the criteria for evaluating the work of public prosecutors are:

- promptness and efficiency,
- impartiality and conscientiousness,
- reputation and ethics worthy of the position,
- cooperation and the relationship with the parties and other persons in the prosecution,

- organizational skills

With immediate insight into the work of the public prosecutors in question, it is determined:

- the number of received criminal charges, cases and submissions,
- the number of resolved criminal charges and cases within the deadline provided by law,
- the number of pending criminal charges and cases and the reasons for their non-resolution,
- the quality of the actions of the public prosecutor, public prosecutor's decisions, adherence to legal formulations, ability to express in writing clearly and precise reasoning of decisions. (Article 47 of the Law on Public Prosecution)

(General Comment): Although quality standards for the judiciary as such do not yet exist, the Rulebook on criteria, indicators and procedure for evaluating the work of judges and presidents of courts ("Official Gazette of RS", Nos. 81/2014, 142/2014, 41/2015, 7/2016) of the HJC provides for the evaluating the work of judges for the purpose of improving the efficiency of the judicial system, to preserve and improve the expertise, qualifications and responsibilities of judicial office holders, to encourage them to achieve the best results of their work, and to increase public confidence in the work of judges and courts.

The Rulebook stipulates that the evaluation of the work of judges and presidents of courts is expressed by a mark. The work of full-time judges and court presidents is regularly evaluated once every three years, and for judges who are first time elected evaluation is done once a year. Exceptionally, based on the decision of the HJC, the work of judges and presidents of courts may be extraordinary evaluated.

The criteria for evaluating judges' performance are quality and quantity. The quality of work shows the ability and knowledge of the judge in the application of substantive and procedural law, while the quantity of work shows the efficiency in solving cases.

The benchmarks for evaluating the quality of work of judges are the percentage of decisions revoked and the time necessary to bring decisions. Quality evaluation is done by establishing for each benchmark an individual grade, and on the basis of established individual grades, the evaluation of the quality of work of judges is determined. Individual marks for the quality of work benchmarks are: "extremely successful", "successful" and "not satisfactory".

The criterion for evaluating the quantity of judges' work is a monthly standard, and for judges who do not have a sufficient number of cases in the work, the number of cases solved from the total number of cases in the work.

The benchmark of the judges' work is evaluated by the individual grade "extremely successful", "successful" and "not satisfactory". The judgments related to the evaluation of the judge's work are "extremely successful in performing the judicial function", "successfully performing the judicial function" and "not satisfactory".

The criteria for evaluating the judges' work are quality and quantity. The quality of the work shows the ability and knowledge of the judge to apply substantive and procedural law, while the quantity of work shows the efficiency in resolving cases.

The criteria for evaluating the quality of judges' work are the percentage of annulled rulings and the time it takes to make decisions. The evaluation of quality is carried out by determining an individual grade for each criteria and based on the established individual grades, the evaluation grade of the work of the judges is determined. Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopts the criteria for the annual performance evaluation of judges: Quantity of work (i.e. annual quota) – up to 40 points, Percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan - up to 20 points, Statistical quality of decisions (i.e. reversal rate) – up to 40 points. As mentioned above, one of the criteria is the annual quota, i.e. the number of cases that a judge should resolve over the course of a year. A judge may receive a maximum of 40 points under this criterion if they exceed the annual quota. However, if a judge fails to reach the best possible result than a certain number of points are awarded in the annual performance procedure as follows:

- a) up to 50% of the achieved quota: 0 points;
- b) 51–60% of the achieved quota: 10 points;
- c) 61–70% of the achieved quota: 15 points;
- d) 71–80% of the achieved quota: 20 points;
- e) 81–90% of the achieved quota: 30 points;
- f) 91–100% of the achieved quota: 35 points;
- g) over 100% of the achieved quota 40 points.

It is not in itself a disciplinary offense if the judge or prosecutor resolves a smaller number of cases than the intended target. However, a poor work result results in a judge or prosecutor receiving a poor grade, which may indicate that a judge or prosecutor is negligently performing his or her duties. The Disciplinary Prosecutor's Office in HJPC BiH examines the circumstances due to which the target was not achieved in individual cases.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopts the criteria for the annual performance evaluation of prosecutors: Quantity of work (i.e. annual quota) – up to 40 points, Percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan - up to 20 points, Statistical quality of decisions (i.e. conviction rate) – up to 40 points. As mentioned above, one of the criteria is the annual quota, i.e. the number of cases that a prosecutor should resolve over the course of a year. A prosecutor may receive a maximum of 40 points under this criterion if they exceed the annual quota. However, if a prosecutor fails to reach the best possible result than a certain number of points are awarded in the annual performance procedure as follows:

- a) up to 50% of the achieved quota: 0 points;
- b) 51–60% of the achieved quota: 10 points;
- c) 61–70% of the achieved quota: 15 points;
- d) 71–80% of the achieved quota: 20 points;
- e) 81–90% of the achieved quota: 30 points;
- f) 91–100% of the achieved quota: 35 points;
- g) over 100% of the achieved quota 40 points.

It is not in itself a disciplinary offense if the judge or prosecutor resolves a smaller number of cases than the intended target. However, a poor work result results in a judge or prosecutor receiving a poor grade, which may indicate that a judge or prosecutor is negligently performing his or her duties. The Disciplinary Prosecutor's Office in HJPC BiH examines the circumstances due to which the target was not achieved in individual cases.

Montenegro

Judicial Council remark: This plan's main activity is building the new information system called - ISP (abbreviation for information system of Judiciary - in Montenegrin, "Informacioni Sistem Pravosuđa"). Due to the delays and problems with the company selected on the tender to build the system, we have decided to cancel the contract with them and search for other options. (2023): The strategy for ICT in the judiciary was adopted in 2019 for the time period of 2019-2024.

The strategy expired in 2024. It is still being implemented, and this year, the Council for ICT in the Judiciary will start a procedure for adopting a new strategy for the next 5 years, as well as new revised operational plan.

At this moment there is no new strategy and no new operational plan.

During 2023, according to the operational plan for digitization in the judiciary, a complete change of the CMS system is planned with the introduction of a new modern and integrated system of management and movement of cases, which will be compatible with the new software, and new applications will be created at the same time namely, an application for issuing certificates from criminal records, for issuing certificates from misdemeanor records, creation of the E-delivery platform, which will establish full two-way communication between the courts and all parties, i.e. state authorities and institutions, development of the platform for a mobile application, which will enable unhindered access of the parties to the electronic file of the case, as well as the creation of web services with 12 state organs and institutions.

According to the operational plan and the provided budget funds, the Court Budget Council has created a plan and program with dynamics and necessary financial resources for the digitization of the courts in 2023, namely:

1. Upgrade and installation of the Femida True Records system for audio recording in civil courts and audio-video recording in criminal courts.

- upgrade means the installation of Femida True Records or SRS Femida software, based on an existing Femida license installed on a computer in the courts (through previous purchases), regardless of whether it is currently in operation or not;

- a new license implies the installation of Femida True Records or SRS Femida software on an additional number of computers, which are not included in the number of existing licenses in the courts.

2. Procurement and replacement of hardware equipment for the courts – 410 computers.

3. Current maintenance of the hardware and software for the operation of the ACMISS system and the equipment for issuing certificates from criminal records.

4. Upgrade and ongoing maintenance of centralized hardware and system software for centralized backup/restore of the court database.

5. Restoration of Kaspersky Anti-virus and Trend Micro inter Scan messaging for personal computer protection in the court system and Gateway virus protection in the Supreme Court of RNM.

6. Ongoing maintenance of software for recording events by collating logs from ICT devices located in the Supreme Court of the RNM.

Creation of a mobile application for access to the electronic file of the case - a service for reviewing the files in the case by the parties in the procedure. Service for a complete review of a court case by the parties in the case (prosecutors, lawyers and all involved parties, natural and legal persons). Web Portal and mobile application through which each of the parties after prior authentication (service for identification of persons at the MIOA state level) can view all data and acts in the case that are available to the parties. DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE SERVICE AND BASIC FEATURES

Possibility for reviewing of all data and documents from the court case for the participants in the case from the court web portal and mobile application.

Availability of the service:

- Computer, laptop - view via browser

Digitization, digital transformation and the increasing development of information technology inevitably led to it being integrated in all the pores of the justice system, and especially in the last 2 years, through digital transformation in all courts and public prosecutor's offices by developing new web pages for the courts, with hardware and software for audio recording, system for audio visual recording, electronic issuance of documents, creation of web services, software development and case management, as well as platforms for two-way communication between the courts and the parties and access to the electronic file of the case.

Given that the strategy has a time period until 2024, it is still being implemented, and this year, the Council for ICT in the Judiciary will start a procedure for adopting a new strategy for the next 5 years, as well as new revised operational plan.

At this moment there is no new strategy and no new operational plan.

Question 082-1-0

Albania

(2023): The Case Management Systems with which the Albanian courts operate are CMIS and ARKIT .

A broad consensus has been achieved in the Albanian judiciary about the need to replace both existing case management systems used by Albanian courts (ARK-IT and ICMIS, with their variants and their 2 and 36 local installations respectively) with a single new generation, state-of-the-art system.

The Centre for the IT in the Judiciary of Albania has adopted in December 2021, upon proposal of the High Judicial Council (HJC), a Road Map for the development of the new Albanian Court Case Management System. Among these, the relevant decisions of the Information Technology Centre in the High Judicial Council were approved in order to start work on the development of a new Court Case Management System. However, it's obvious that the systems used in the Albanian courts are almost obsolete despite frequent updates with new features. Additionally, each of the courts have their own servers installed locally which are not unified. The internal network architecture across the courts is specific to each court and is not standardized and unified yet. The renewal of the licenses of the various software components used by the courts is managed by each court in particular. This also applies to security programs that must be used on each of the court servers.

In terms of security, the case management system operates offline and can only be accessed locally by court users. Each court through the institutions of the IT is responsible for guaranteeing security and implementing policies that protect the system from possible threats.

The Council of Ministers of BiH made decision to abolish the annual fee of 50 EUR, so the database is made available to the public free of charge as of 5 March 2021. The HJPC BiH has also issued a new anonymization instruction in order to make database more user friendly. According to this instruction, more information in court decisions are available, i.e. data on all state officials mentioned in the decisions, data on public enterprises and institutions, name and surname of the convicted persons in high- profile cases (war crime cases, organised crime and corruption cases, terrorism cases etc). This is an advancement comparing to the former rule where all data were anonymized (total anonymization). In this way, the HJPC has made an effort to make balance between public and private interest. Also, according to the new instruction, all final decisions in this type of cases are published through the central database, which is new practice compared to previous rule, according to which only decisions selected and provided by the courts of highest instance were published (Appellate Court of Brcko District, Court of BiH – Appellate Division, Supreme Court of BiH Federation and Supreme Court of Republika Srpska). Also, in 2021, the HJPC secured funding for development of case-law database of the aforementioned courts of highest instance (e-Sentence), through which not only legal positions taken by these courts will be made available, but also the related court decisions, anonymised as well. This database will enable judges to get acquainted with the relevant legal positions and compare those with their cases when rendering new decisions. E-Sentence database was launched in November 2021, and will be publically available as of 1 February 2022, also free of charge. With all this, the HJPC is making an effort to ensure greater transparency and facilitate access to court decisions, as well as to enable judges and prosecutors in BiH to be more consistent in their decision-making and thus ensure a more harmonised case law.

(2020): Central database of court decisions is available at the web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd. It contains decisions selected by highest courts of Bosnia and Herzegovina in all three areas (civil, criminal and administrative). Database is searchable by case number, date of the decision, court that issued the decision, legal field, legal term, legal category, but also through free text search. Selected decisions are aligned with lower court decisions brought in the same case, anonymized and available for the members of the judiciary - judges, prosecutors and all judicial staff free of charge. Other users must pay annual fee to access the database - i. e. 50 Euro). In September 2020 HJPC adopted a decision making the database free of charge for all users; the above mentioned decision is pending confirmation by the Council of Ministers of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Some decisions in database are aligned with decisions of the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The alignment of decision in database with ECHR case law is not in place, but detailed reports on ECHR case law are available through the aforementioned web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd and this aspect of the database is subject of constant improvement through IPA 2017 (information from European highest courts and ECTHR Network). Through the same project, HJPC initiated development of the database with court stances in cooperation with highest courts (E-sentence). This database will enable highest courts to record their case law in line with pre-defined descriptors (legal terms). Besides, this database should enable identification of diverse case law between highest court, and move forward the process of harmonisation of the case law at the state level (Case law harmonisation panels).

Note for Data anonymised: there was a technical mistake in the previous reporting cycle, in order to correct this the reply "No" should be changed to "Yes" for 2019.

(2019): Court decisions database is available online through the HJPC Judicial Documentation Centre's web site www.pravosudje.ba/csd. It contains court decisions selected by highest courts in all three areas (civil, criminal and administrative) and is searchable by different parameters: case number, court that issued the decision, legal field, legal term, applied institute, but also through free text search. At the moment, the selected decisions are: aligned with lower court decisions brought in the same case, anonymized and available on-line (for the members of the judiciary - judges, prosecutors and all judicial staff free of charge, and the rest of the public must pay annual fee to access the database - i. e. 50 Euro). Some decisions from database are also aligned with decisions of the Constitutional Court of BiH. The alignment of this database with ECHR case law is not in place. Various detailed reports on ECHR case law is available through JDC web site , and is subject of improvement through IPA 2017 (information from European highest courts with ECTHR Network).

(2022): Since 2021 there was a migration of data (decisions) from Administrative Court portal to centralized data base. Therefore centralized national database of court decisions does not include all judgements

(2020): We don't have 3rd instance for administrative courts so the answer is no and it should be NAP.

Question 085-1Serbia

(2023): The Oracle BI platform enables the creation of performance indicators (CPI) according to various criteria, the monitoring of implementation, and the generation of reports on the fulfillment of various indicators.

The system enables centralized reporting on various aspects of work of court of general and special jurisdiction, monitoring of statistics, trends, key performance indicators, (CPI), and visualization and analysis of operational data. The solution has implemented a logic that generates alarms (CPI) when the defined deadlines for court action are exceeded and in a way that implies that the identified deadlines that generate alarms are mapped into the existing AVP and SAPS applications.

The system started operating in 2018 with the posting of expanded T1 annual, six-monthly, quarterly and monthly reports on the work of the basic, higher and appellate courts, where the formulas were not checked nor was a comparison made of the expanded T1 reports submitted by the courts to the Supreme Court of Cassation.

In the meantime, the set of reports has been expanded with reports that are based on the so-called "extended" T1 report or on reports that can be obtained by mapping data from the AVP, SAPS, and SIPRES case management systems, about the previously defined volume of data that is downloaded (from The AVP system downloads about 40 tables per court, based on which reports are generated).

All reports that have been established are based primarily on the number of cases, as well as on calculations according to the formulas used by the Supreme Court in its reporting system (the extended T1 form has several columns more than the official T1 form defined by the Rules of Court). The downloading of data on acting judges is compromised by the lack of timeliness of the courts in entering the working days of judges, which leads to incorrect calculations of average values per judge. This issue has been raised several times, and now the number of courts that count the number of working days concerning the annual schedule of judges has been reduced to a very small number, however, this disturbs the general calculation on the system (if only one commercial court does not enter up-to-date working days, comprehensive the report of all commercial courts, in the part that refers to the total number of judges who acted in a certain matter during the period, there can be no reliable data).

In relation to the types of courts, the system contains data on the work of appellate, higher, and basic courts, i.e. all courts of general jurisdiction and administrative, commercial, and misdemeanor courts, which makes the entire network of courts of special jurisdiction.

Here it is necessary to point out that for misdemeanor courts, data is downloaded from already prepared work reports (for reports according to the rules of procedure), which is completely different from the method of data download for other courts, where a much larger volume of data is downloaded and calculations are performed directly within the BI system. This has the effect that, if an error occurs in the SIPRES system during the calculation, that error will be transmitted to the CS system as well.

In addition to the reports that are prepared and submitted to the Supreme Court, the Supreme Court, and the Ministry of Justice, the system also creates a certain number of reports "on the day of the request" according to the Rules of Procedure. These reports are not defined by the Rules of Court, but they are significant due to the monitoring of trends in the number of received or resolved cases in a certain matter.

The following reports of form T1 or derived from it have been established on the Central Statistics portal:

- annual, semi-annual, quarterly, and monthly extended T1 performance reports for

o basic courts

o higher courts

Beneficiaries	Organisation of the legal aid system before going to court and during court proceedings
Albania	Legal Aid guaranteed by the state is one of the most essential forms of access to justice. In the Republic of Albania for the first time a specific legal framework was approved in 2008, enabling the establishment of a special institution responsible for providing free legal aid (State commission for legal aid). The legal aid system has been deeply transformed in the framework of the justice reform in Albania, establishing a new approach, in full compliance with the highest standards of provision of legal aid in line with the EU legislation. Constitution of the Republic of Albania: "Anyone, for the protection of his constitutional and legal rights, freedoms and interests, or in the case of charges brought against him, has the right to a fair and public trial within a reasonable time by a court, independent and impartial appointed by law" enshrined in Article 42/2. Decision of the Constitutional Court of the Republic of Albania no. 7/2013 has considered legal aid guaranteed by the state as a fundamental part of the right to due process. The Law no. 111/2017 on State Guaranteed Legal Aid (Law on Legal Aid) entered into force on 1 June 2018. It is one of the laws adopted in the framework of the justice reform. This law establishes the forms, the conditions, the procedures and the rules for the organization and administration of state guaranteed legal aid, with the aim the protection of fundamental rights of the individual and his legitimate interests. The adoption of this law led to the drafting of a package of sublegal acts which aim to regulate in detail any process on legal aid guaranteed by the state. - Law no. 111/2017 on State Guaranteed Legal Aid (Law on Legal Aid) foresees a comprehensive system of: 1. Primary Legal Aid: a. Through Primary Legal Aid Service Center- 20 Primary Legal Aid Centers, functiona, in the cities of Tirana, Durres, Elbasan, Lushnje, Berat, Fier, Vlora, Pogradec, Gjirokastrë, Lezhë, Shkodër, Dibër, Kukës, Korçë, Tropoja, Mat, Pukë, Kurbin, Kavajë and Përmet. 12 of them financed by the state budget and 8 from UNDP. Various workshops have been conducted throughout the first quarter of 2023, and moreover, an access to justice map is being developed as a tool to inform the citizens on the Free Legal Aid centres across the country, as a measure to address communication in the framework of the implementation of the new judicial map. In order to guarantee access to justice, has been thought that there was a need for 1 (one) Primary Legal Aid Service Center to be functional in the premises of the courts which are closed actually, to inform all individuals who seek information on the procedures and institutions where should be directed to solve their problems judicially and extra judicially. Specifically, the Ministry of Justice, in the beginning of 2023, planned the opening of 6 (Six) Primary Legal Aid Service Centres, in the cities of Tropoja, Mat, Pukë, Kurbin, Kavajë and Përmet, which are the cities where the first instance courts are closed with the implementation of the judicial map. In the end of July 2023 was finalized the opening of the 6 Primary Centers in Tropoja, Përmet, Mat, Pukë, Kurbin and Kavajë. b. NGOs providing primary legal aid (15 NGO-s operating in Tirana, Vlora, Berat, Elbasan, Shkoder for 2022-2024). Albanian legislation provides the provision of a state budget for Non-Profit Organizations. In 2023 2(two) NGOs wins to get the funding from the state budget, out of 9 NGOs that applied. c. Legal clinics at the higher education institutions providing legal aid (12 Legal Clinics operating in Tirana, Durres, Shkoder). Contrary to what is provided for Non-Profit Organizations, the Legislation does not provide the provision of a state budget by for Legal Clinics. 2. Secondary Legal Aid (representation by an advocate in a court procedure). Secondary legal aid is provided by advocates included in the list approved by the National Chamber of Advocates upon the request (according to the form) of the person entitled to receive secondary legal aid. The request has to be addressed to the competent court. The court has to decide within 5 days from the date of receipt of the request, when the request has been submitted. 159 advocates have signed the contract for the provision of the secondary legal aid service for 2023. 3. Exemption from payment of court fees and court costs, according to law and exemption from the obligation to prepay the fee for the enforcement of the execution order. - Law no. 111/2017 on State Guaranteed Legal Aid (Law on Legal Aid) foresees Groups of persons who qualify for legal aid (Article 11 and 12): 1. People with insufficient Income and Property; 2. Specific Groups of Beneficiaries (Victims: Children; Other vulnerable persons). Article 11, provides for special categories of beneficiaries of legal aid, legal aid is offered to the following persons, regardless of their income and wealth: a) victims of domestic violence; b) sexually abused victims and victims of human trafficking, at any stage of the criminal proceedings; c) minor victims and minors in conflict with the law, at any stage of the criminal proceedings; ç) children who live in social care institutions; d) children under guardianship, who seek to initiate a process without the approval of their legal guardian or against their legal guardian;
Bosnia and Herzegovina	The courts and the specialized government institutions provide free legal aid to citizens in relation to court proceedings. Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law (e.g. obligatory defense etc.) Also, the courts may make a decision on exemption from the costs of proceedings for parties in different types of proceedings (e.g. criminal, civil). In addition, free legal aid centers have been established by the legislation adopted at all levels of government as a part of the respective public administration system. Employees of free legal aid institutions represent the citizens in various types of court and non-court proceedings or give legal advice to the citizens and compose legal documents for them. Citizens are entitled to free legal aid provided by the legal aid institutions if they fulfill financial and property criteria prescribed by the relevant legislation.
Montenegro	Free legal aid implies providing the necessary funds to fully or partially cover the costs of legal advice, drafting letters, representation in court, the State Prosecutor's Office and the Constitutional Court of Montenegro and in out-of-court dispute resolution and enforcement proceedings as well as exemption from payment of court costs. The financial situation of the applicant for free legal aid shall be determined on the basis of his/her income and property and the income and property of his family members, unless otherwise prescribed by this Law. The body responsible for granting free legal aid is the president of the basic court, or the judge authorized by the president, in which territory the applicant has a domicile or residence. Professional and administrative tasks in the process of approving free legal aid, are organized within the Service or Office for free legal aid. The Service provides information and advice to the interested parties on the possibilities and conditions for exercising the right to free legal aid assistance and other issues related to the granting of free legal aid and assistance to the applicant when submitting the application. Free legal aid is provided by lawyers in the order from the list of the Bar Association of Montenegro, which is compiled according to local jurisdiction of the basic courts. The Bar Association shall submit the list to the Service. Free legal aid is not provided in: 1) the procedure before the commercial courts and the procedure for the registration of the form of performing economic activity; 2) proceedings for damages in connection with defamation and insult; 3) the procedure for a lawsuit to reduce the amount of child support in the case when the person who is obliged to pay maintenance has not fulfilled that obligation, unless that obligation was not fulfilled through his fault; 4) enforcement procedure on the basis of an authentic document. The Law on free legal aid prescribes in detail all the conditions which shall be met for exercising the right to free legal aid.

(7) In cases stipulated herein, the beneficiary shall reimburse the costs of the secondary legal aid, in full or partially. (8) The minister of justice shall prescribe the procedure for providing free legal aid. PRELIMINARY LEGAL AID CHAPTER I GENERAL PROVISIONS Article 5 Right to preliminary legal aid Any natural person with domicile or residence on the territory of the Republic of North Macedonia shall be entitled to preliminary legal aid. Article 6 Scope of preliminary legal aid The scope of preliminary legal aid is the following: -initial legal advice on the right to use free legal aid; -general legal information; -general legal advice; -assistance in completing the secondary legal aid application; -assistance in filling out forms issued by administrative authorities in an administrative procedure for social welfare and protection of children's rights; pension, disability and healthcare insurance; protection of victims of gender based violence and domestic violence; procedure for entry into the birth Register; obtaining personal identification and citizenship documents; -writing complaints to the Anti-Discrimination Commission and to the Ombudsman, as well as petitions to the Constitutional Court of the Republic of North Macedonia for the protection of rights and freedoms. Article 7 Providing preliminary legal aid (1) Preliminary legal aid is provided to any interested person. (2) The purpose of the initial meeting at the Ministry, at the authorized association or at the legal clinic is to explain to the interested person the nature of the issue or to help them find out whether the issue is a legal matter, whether it is in the scope of the legal services that the Ministry, the association or the legal clinic provide, as well as the types of legal aid most suitable for them. (3) When providing preliminary legal aid, the Ministry, the association or the legal clinic are not entitled to act on behalf and for the account of the person.
Serbia	According to the Serbian Constitution (Article 67.), everyone is guaranteed the right to legal aid under the conditions set by law. Legal aid is provided by the legal profession, as an independent service, and legal aid services are established in local self-government units, by the law. The law determines when legal aid is free. When criminal proceedings are conducted for a criminal offense for which a sentence of imprisonment of more than five years may be imposed by law, the court may, at the request of the injured party, appoint a proxy (from the list of lawyers submitted to the court by the competent bar association) if it is in the interest of the proceedings and if the injured party financial situation, cannot bear the costs of representation. Article 77: A defendant who, due to his financial situation, cannot pay the defense attorney's fee and expenses, will be assigned an attorney at his request if criminal proceedings are conducted for a criminal offense punishable by imprisonment for more than three years. In that case, the court's budget bears the defense costs. The Law on Free Legal Aid has been in force since October 1, 2019, except the provisions of Articles 44 to 52, which begin to be applied from the date of accession of the Republic of Serbia to the European Union. The law distinguishes between free legal aid and free legal support. Free legal assistance consists of providing legal advice, drafting submissions, representation and defense, and free legal support consists of providing general legal information, filling out forms, drawing up notarial documents and mediation in dispute resolution. Free legal aid in the Republic of Serbia can be provided to a citizen of the Republic of Serbia, a stateless person, a foreign citizen with permanent residence in the Republic of Serbia and another person who has the right to free legal aid according to another law or a confirmed international agreement, and who meets the conditions prescribed by the provision Article 4 of the Law on Free Legal Aid. The applicant for free legal aid submits a request for the approval of free legal aid to the local self-government competent according to the applicant's place of residence or place of residence or the place of provision of free legal aid in writing or orally on the record or electronically. In the request for free legal assistance, he also states a description of the problem for which he is requesting free legal assistance. If the applicant's request for free legal aid is established, local self-government issues a Decision approving free legal aid within 8 or 3 days (if there is a risk of irreparable damage or if the applicant misses the deadline for taking action) from the submission of the application and the user of free legal aid to the provider of free legal aid who is registered in the Register of Providers maintained by the Ministry of Justice. Providers of free legal aid are lawyers and legal aid services in local self-government units and city municipalities, and associations can provide free legal aid only based on the provisions of the law regulating the right to asylum and the prohibition of discrimination. Providers of free legal support are public notaries, mediators, and law faculties.

Q013 (2023): We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

Q013 (2021): Performance throughout 2021, the first year of full capacity operation of the free legal aid mechanism, has marked an increase in the number of court decisions that grant applicants the right to secondary legal aid and exemption from court fees and costs. We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

Q013 (2020): The above data is referred to the implemented/ allocated budget of Free Legal Aid Directorate for 2020. The difference between allocated budget and implemented budget has come as a result of delays in the recruitment of FLAD staff but also employees of primary legal aid service centers in the districts of the Republic of Albania. Also, another factor is related to the financing procedures of 12 authorized non-profit organizations which provide primary legal aid, a procedure which is expected to start in March 2021.

Following the approval of the legal aid law, the budget of legal aid was increased substantially to provide for primary and secondary legal aid. The law foresees the opening of legal clinics, that will provide primary legal aid to all citizens. For 2020, 8 legal clinics were foreseen to be opened. Additionally, the criteria for providing secondary legal aid were clarified in the law, and they granted legal aid to a considerable number of applicants. With the establishment of the Legal Aid Directorate, courts started to grant secondary legal aid to applicants. (the Directorate is in charge of administering the court decision, and making the payment to the lawyer, based on that court decision). Hence, all these activities, were supported by an increased budget.

Q013-2 (General Comment): Persons who have the right to receive secondary legal assistance, according to articles 11 or 12, of this the law, enjoy the right to exemption from:

- a) payment of general and special fees, according to the provisions of the law on court fees in the Republic of Albania;
- b) payment of court expenses (expenses for witnesses, experts, translators and inspection of items or on-site inspection), according to the provisions of the procedural legislation;
- c) the obligation to prepay the fee for the execution of the execution order at the service state judicial enforcement.

1. Exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses is granted on the basis of a request which is drawn up according to the request form approved by the Minister of Justice.

2. The request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses may presented:

- a) together with the request for secondary legal assistance;
- b) attached to the claim, in accordance with the provisions of the procedural legislation;
- c) at any stage of the process, until the judicial investigation is declared closed.

3. In the request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses may exemption from payment of one, some or all court fees and/or costs is requested judicial, according to the provisions of Article 25 of this law.

4. The request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses may presented by the person who enjoys the right to be exempted from paying court fees and court costs, by a legal representative or with a power of attorney, or by the spouse, cohabitant or first degree relative.

5. The request for exemption from the payment of court fees and court expenses may presented in person or through the postal service.

Article 11 mentions groups of persons who qualify for legal aid irrespective of their income and/or property. The groups covered by Article 11 can be divided into subgroups as follows: • Victims: o victims of domestic violence; o sexually abused victims and human trafficking victims, at any stage of a criminal proceeding o minor victims and minors in conflict with the law, at any stage of a criminal proceeding;

Q088-1 (2023): 1 day for Primary Legal Aid

Secondary Legal Aid - The court has to decide within 5 days from the date of receipt of the request

Maximum duration prescribed in law/regulation - First legal aid is provided immediately at the moment requested verbally or written. If it is needed can be extended the days of consultations. ---

The time of decision depends on when the application was lodged:

- The court has to decide within 5 days from the date of receipt of the request, when the request has been submitted before initiation of the judicial proceeding
- during the preliminary actions or in the preparatory session before the scheduling of the judicial session/hearing, when the request for legal aid has been submitted together with the statement of claim
- according to the provisions of the procedural legislation and the provisions of this law, when the request has been filed during judicial examination

According to the Article 22 (9) the Directorate may appeal against the acceptance (only) when it claims that the request is evidently abusive or manifestly ill-founded and not if it claims that the applicant does not fulfil the criteria of Articles 10 to 12. It will have to be clarified if the reasons of appeal were restricted on purpose or if a reference to Articles 10 to 12 was omitted by error. Since Article 22 (9) does (in contrast to Article 22 (7)) not refer to the special appeal, the provisions on normal appeals apply. Article 22 (9) states that "In this case shall be applied the time-limits and the rules for appeal of final decisions in accordance with the provisions of the procedural legislation." Thus the time-limits and the rules for appeal of final decisions in accordance with the provisions of the procedural legislation apply. I.e. that different procedural rules apply for the appeal of the Directorate against the approval than for the appeal against the dismissal. Against the decision of the court of appeal a recourse to the High Court is not allowed.

Actual average duration - First legal aid is provided immediately at the moment requested verbally or written If it is needed can be extended the days of consultations by max 2 days --- From the practice, it results that the period from the moment of sending the request for secondary legal aid until the notification of the court's decision on the acceptance or not of the request is 1 month.

Q012 (General Comment): The legal aid is financed through the budgets of individual courts (e.g. funds for legal aid are mainly used to pay for the services of ex officio appointed attorneys in criminal cases) and the budgets of legal aid institutions that are government bodies independent from the courts. The accounting methodology does not make it possible to distinguish the amount of budget funds earmarked by the courts for legal aid from other funds which are planned within the same line in the court budget. Though, it is possible to differentiate the amount of funds spent for legal aid in the implemented court budget. On the other hand the lawyers employed by the government legal aid institutions provide legal aid in different legal fields (i.e. representation in criminal, civil, administrative court proceedings; provision of legal advice outside of court or other proceedings), therefore it is not possible to split the planned or implemented budget funds of the legal aid institutions between different legal fields. In conclusion, it is only possible to make the calculation of the annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid without dividing it among criminal and other than criminal cases.

Q086 (General Comment): Criminal cases brought to court: cases (criminal/misdemeanor) in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and cases in which free legal aid was given for the costs of proceedings.

Other cases brought to court: cases in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and the preparation of legal documents, cases in which free legal aid was given only through preparation of legal documents required within the court procedure, and cases in which free legal aid was given only for the costs of proceedings.

Cases not brought to court: cases (civil, enforcement, administrative, administrative-non judicial, criminal/misdemeanor, etc.) in which free legal aid was given through legal advice only by the government founded free legal aid institutions.

Free legal aid is provided in courts and by the specialized free legal aid institutions formed by the different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law. Also, the courts make a decision on exemption from the costs of proceedings for parties in different types of proceedings (e.g. criminal, civil). Employees of institutions providing free legal aid represent the party in various types of court proceedings, compose legal documents and give legal advice to a person who meets financial and property criteria. The data refer to the number of cases in which courts and institutions of free legal aid provided legal assistance in the described ways. It is important to that the number of persons who received free legal aid may be higher than the number of cases in which free legal aid was provided.

Q086 (2020): Legal aid institutions reported that their caseload was reduced in 2020 following the introduction of measures combating the spread of coronavirus.

Q086-0 (General Comment): The courts and the specialized government institutions provide free legal aid to citizens in relation to court proceedings.

Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law (e.g. obligatory defense etc.). Also, the courts may make a decision on exemption from the costs of proceedings for parties in different types of proceedings (e.g. criminal, civil). In addition, free legal aid centers have been established by the legislation adopted at all levels of government as a part of the respective public administration system. Employees of free legal aid institutions represent the citizens in various types of court and non-court proceedings or give legal advice to the citizens and compose legal documents for them. Citizens are entitled to free legal aid provided by the legal aid institutions if they fulfill financial and property criteria prescribed by the relevant legislation.

Q086-0-0 (General Comment): Legal aid is exercised in different types of court proceedings as a right to:

- a) general information on rights and obligations,
- b) legal advice and assistance in filling out forms,
- c) legal assistance in compiling all types of correspondence,
- d) representation in court,
- e) making an appeal and
- f) legal assistance in the procedures of peaceful settlement of the dispute (e.g. mediation).

Q086-1 (2023): In the relevant reports for 2023, as in 2022, there was a slightly higher number of beneficiaries of free legal aid than the number of cases in which free legal aid was provided. The institutions for the provision of free legal aid explained that this difference was recorded because certain number of individual users were registered two or more times during the same year as recipients of different legal services.

Q087 (General Comment): The amount provided above is an estimate made on the basis of varying financial criteria for granting free legal aid used by institutions of different levels of government for deciding on granting free legal aid to the persons of poor property status in Bosnia and Herzegovina; these criteria are linked to the amount of average salary which increased considerably in 2022. These institutions also use different criteria for owning property for granting or refusing free legal aid cumulatively with the income criterion, as well as other additional criteria (e.g. income of other family members); however, these property criteria are not intended to be expressed through monetary amounts. The examples of the assets criteria: beneficiaries of legal aid may not own or co-own a business; they also may not own two or more housing units (i.e. a house or a flat) and they may not own business premises. Partial legal aid does not exist in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Q013 (2023): Official data obtained from the Sector for financial affairs in the MOJ

Annual implemented public budget for the High Judicial Council for mandatory defense 11469009 EUR.

In question 012 we counted only free legal aid. I see now we made a mistake.

Q013 (2022): Please note that the total amount refers only to the cases of granted free legal aid according the Law on free legal aid. This amount does not cover the free legal aid that was provided according to the Criminal Procedure Code (mandatory defense, etc.)

Q013: TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) - 92056 euros. A greater number of cases of free legal aid in 2022 resulted in a greater amount of money spent on the provided free legal aid. The amount for 2022 is higher compared to the previous two years, taking into account that during 2022 all measures against covid-19 were canceled.

Q013 (2021): The budget for the Legal Aid is executed based on the requests from the municipalities (local governments) and can cover only up to 50% of the total budget spent annually by municipalities (local governments), based on the Law on Legal Aid.

The Legal Aid does not include "mandatory representation in criminal cases" by lawyers, before the Serbian courts, which is the cost covered by the High Judicial Council.

Q013 (2020): TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2)

If the public budget actually implemented regarding legal aid is different from the annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid, please indicate the main reasons for the differences:

Data shall be available for the next report.

Q013-2 (General Comment): The Law on Civil Procedure, Article 168:

The court shall exempt from payment of the costs of the proceedings a party who, due to his general financial situation, is not able to bear these costs.

Exemption from payment of costs of proceedings includes exemption from payment of fees and exemption from advance payment for costs of witnesses, experts, on-site inspections and court announcements.

The court may also exempt a party from paying the fee, in accordance with a special law.

When making a decision on exemption from paying the costs of the procedure, the court considers all the circumstances, and especially takes into account the value of the subject matter of the dispute, the number of persons supported by the party and income and property owned by the party and its family members.

Q086 (General Comment): The Law distinguishes free legal aid (legal advice, representation before court, defense, drafting of motions) and free legal support (general legal information, mediation, services of public notaries). Legal advice and general legal information are available to everyone and are not subject to approval. The Law prescribes that citizens shall address local self-government units (hereinafter: LSG) to apply for free legal aid. Staff in LSG decide on the applications pursuant to Articles 4 and 7 of the Law (eligibility). Article 67 of the Constitution of RS provides that everyone shall be guaranteed the right to legal aid under conditions stipulated by the law. Legal aid is provided by lawyers, as an independent and autonomous service, and legal aid offices established in the units of local self-government in accordance with the law. The court shall exempt a party from the liability of paying the costs of the proceedings where that party's material situation does not allow him/her to bear such costs. Exemption from the payment of the costs of proceedings includes exemption from the payment of fees and the deposit for the costs of witnesses, expert witnesses, on-site inspections and court notices.

Q086 (2021): Please note that total data only refers to cases where legal aid is granted according to Law on Free Legal Aid, due statistic data for cases in which legal aid was granted according to Criminal Procedure Code, are not available.

This year, data from some Local Self-government units indicate that there were fewer requests than in previous ones reporting periods, which may be related to the changed functioning of the local governments due to the situation caused by COVID19. It is necessary for to enable citizens submitting requests for free legal aid even when entry to the premises of local self-government unit is not allowed for epidemiological reasons. Requests must be available to all citizens in a clearly defined and visible place.

At the same time, there are local self-government units that did not submit a report to the Ministry of Justice so it can be concluded that there were no requests in those LSU.

Q086 (2020): The Law on Free Legal Aid (2018) began to be applicable on October 1st 2019 which is why complete data were not available. Even when it is adequately gathered, as it applies to only the last quarter of the year, we do not believe it adequate to state the data from 2019 in the tables to be compared in the following cycles. The Ministry of Justice has launched the initial data collection in late January 2020 to determine data on the implementation of the Law on Free Legal Aid.

Q086-0 (General Comment): The Law on Free Legal Aid ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 87 of November 13, 2018, in force from October 1st 2019): The purpose of this law is to provide every person with effective and equal access to justice. Q086-1 (2023): The entered total number is the one related to all approved request for free legal aid.

Q087 (General Comment): The Law on Free Legal Aid ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 87/2018) was adopted in November 2018 and its implementation started in October 2019.

Training of staff in all local self-government units was organized with the support of MDTF JSS, resulting in over 300 individuals authorized to decide on free legal aid applications. Registry of all free legal aid providers is available at the website of the Ministry of Justice, including lawyers, local self-government units CSOs, notaries and mediators. All the bylaws are also available at the website of the Ministry.

Q163 (General Comment): The authority conducting proceedings may ex officio, at the request of parties or the witness himself, designate as an especially vulnerable witness a witness who is especially vulnerable in view of his age, experience, lifestyle, gender, state of health, nature, the manner or the consequences of the criminal offence committed, or other circumstances (Art. 103 CPC).

An especially vulnerable witness may be examined only through the authority conducting the proceedings, which will treat the witness with particular care, endeavoring to avoid possible detrimental consequences of the criminal proceedings to the personality, physical and mental state of the witness. Examination may be conducted with the assistance of a psychologist, social worker or other professional, which will be decided by the authority conducting proceedings.

If the authority conducting proceedings decides to examine an especially vulnerable witness using technical devices for transmitting images and sound, the examination is conducted without the presence of the parties and other participants in the proceedings in the room where the witness is located.

An especially vulnerable witness may also be examined in his place of living or other premises or in an authorized institution professionally qualified for examining especially vulnerable persons. In such case the authority conducting proceedings may order application of these measures.

An especially vulnerable witness may not be confronted with the defendant, unless the defendant himself requests this and the authority conducting proceedings grants the request, taking into account the level of the witness's vulnerability and rights of defense (Art. 104 CPC).

If there exist circumstances which indicate that by giving testimony or answering certain questions a witness would expose himself or persons close to him to a danger to life, health, freedom or property of substantial size, the court may authorize one or more measures of special protection by issuing a ruling determining a status of protected witness.

The measures of special protection include questioning the protected witness under conditions and in a manner ensuring that his identity is not revealed to the general public, and exceptionally also to the defendant and his defense counsel, in accordance with this Code (Art. 105 CPC).

The measures of special protection ensuring that the identity of a protected witness is not revealed to the public are excluding the public from the trial and prohibition of publication of data about the identity of the witness.

The measure of special protection whereby data about the identity of a protected witness is withheld from the defendant and his defense counsel may be ordered by the court exceptionally if after taking statements from witnesses and the public prosecutor it determines that the life, health or freedom of the witness or a person close to him is threatened to such an extent that it justifies restricting the right to defence and that the witness is credible (Art. 106 CPC).

The provisions related to protected witness apply accordingly to the protection of an undercover investigator, expert witness, professional consultant and professional.

The Law on Program of Protection of Participants in Criminal Proceedings envisages that the protection program is implemented if participants in the criminal proceedings and close people are due to giving evidence or notifications important for proving in criminal proceedings exposed to danger to life, health, physical integrity, freedom or property, and without that testimony or notification proving would be significantly difficult or impossible in criminal proceedings for criminal offenses:

- 1) against constitutional order and security;
- 2) against humanity and other goods protected by international law;
- 3) organized crime.

Q012 (2022): Budget increased

Q012 (2021): In KPC budget categories we don't have separate category for budget for lawyers, but the budget code is named "legal representation cost" which include lawyers and experts. The total budget approved for this category was 843,959€ which we divided in 2 and the budget approved for lawyers being 421,979.5€.

As for the discrepancies, they are due to Covid pandemic aftermath and budget review.

Q012 (2020): In this year, we have been able to obtain the data for categories 'cases brought to court and cases not brought to court' for criminal cases too. The budget concerning cases not brought to court is managed by Kosovo Prosecutorial Council(KPC), while the Budget concerning cases brought to court is managed by the Kosovo Judicial Council(KJC). Therefore, for cases not brought to court, we have used the data offered by KPC, while for cases brought to court, we have used the data from KJC.

Q013 (2021): As there was quite a budget cut for legal aid in 2020 due to the pandemic, in 2021 the budget was increased.

Q013 (2020): There is a difference between the approved and the implemented budget for Legal Aid, mainly because of the pandemic Covid 19. However, in the category "cases not brought to court" in criminal cases, the discrepancy between the approved and implemented budget is because the approved budget includes legal aid and expertise. At this moment, we are not been able to localize only the budget dedicated to legal aid. The courts have been dealing only with emergency cases for two and a half months in 2020(mid-March to June). However, even after the June, courts have not worked in their full capacities, because the Covid-19 situation deteriorated again in July. The budget was reviewed in June, and significant reallocation in the budget were made. And of course, due to the lockdown, the number of criminal cases was lower compared to previous years and consequently, a part from the budget allocated to legal aid for criminal cases was reallocated.

Q013-2 (2022): FLAA for its cases before the court is exempted from court fees.

Q013-2 (2021): NA

Q086 (2021): From the cases handled by legal aid officers in 2021, initiated by the beneficiaries of free legal aid, through the Agency for Free Legal Aid, legal actions are addressed to the following institutions and state bodies:

- Courts - 2255 legal actions
- Municipalities and municipal bodies - 747 legal actions
- Ministries and ministerial bodies - 1214 legal actions
- Other public and private bodies - 323 legal actions

In the reporting period for 2021, 467 lawyers were engaged, of which 425 in the civil field, 22 in the administrative field and in the criminal field 20. Of these, 30 cases were successfully completed, 26 in the civil field, 4 in the administrative field and 5 cases have been terminated, while 432 cases are still pending.

Q086 (2020): This year we have been able to generate the complete data for this category. Considering that the budget for Legal Aid is divided between three institutions, data on number of cases is also divided. So, this year we were able to obtain data on the number of cases when Ex officio Lawyers were paid by Kosovo Judicial and Kosovo Prosecutorial Councils. We have used the data from KJC for the cases brought to court and the data from KPC for cases not brought to court.

(General Comment): The legal aid is financed through the budgets of individual courts (e.g. funds for legal aid are mainly used to pay for the services of ex officio appointed attorneys in criminal cases) and the budgets of legal aid institutions that are government bodies independent from the courts. The accounting methodology does not make it possible to distinguish the amount of budget funds earmarked by the courts for legal aid from other funds which are planned within the same line in the court budget. Though, it is possible to differentiate the amount of funds spent for legal aid in the implemented court budget. On the other hand the lawyers employed by the government legal aid institutions provide legal aid in different legal fields (i.e. representation in criminal, civil, administrative court proceedings; provision of legal advice outside of court or other proceedings), therefore it is not possible to split the planned or implemented budget funds of the legal aid institutions between different legal fields. In conclusion, it is only possible to make the calculation of the annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid without dividing it among criminal and other than criminal cases.

The accounting methodology does not make it possible to distinguish the amount of budget funds earmarked by the courts for legal aid from other funds which are planned within the same line in the court budget. Though, it is possible to differentiate the amount of funds spent for legal aid in the implemented court budget. On the other hand the lawyers employed by the government legal aid institutions provide legal aid in different legal fields (i.e. representation in criminal, civil, administrative court proceedings; provision of legal advice outside of court or other proceedings), therefore it is not possible to split the planned or implemented budget funds of the legal aid institutions between different legal fields. In conclusion, it is only possible to make the calculation of the annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid without dividing it among criminal and other than criminal cases.

(2019): The legal aid is financed through the budgets of individual courts (e.g. funds for legal aid are mainly used to pay for the services of ex officio appointed attorneys in criminal cases) and the budgets of legal aid institutions that are government bodies independent from the courts. Montenegro

(2022): in 2022 no separate amount for legal aid for courts was allocated, but that was a part of the budget section 4146 - lawyer services. In 2022 for legal aid the amount implemented is 108.776 Eur

(2020): Free legal aid is always approved under account 4146 of the Budget of Montenegro (Law on Budget), which refers to all attorney's fees, so it is not possible to provide the requested information separately.

North Macedonia

(2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are calculated according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

(2020): Provided data from courts and Ministry of Justice.

Budget is increased for implementation on the new Law on free legal aid and facilitation of the conditions for getting on free legal aid.

For line 2. for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services) budget is planed in total budget for free legal aid. Because of that it not possible to be given separately.

Serbia

(2023): Annual approved public budget for the High Judicial Council for mandatory defense 11536009 EUR.

In question 012 we counted only free legal aid. I see now we made a mistake.

(2021): The methodology of collecting budgetary data has been changed with cooperation with CEPEJ.

(2020): TOTAL - Annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) Total budget approved for 2020 was 6 million EUR. Nevertheless, due to COVID 19 and the fact that the budget was not spent during that budgetary year, there have been some adjustments to the total amount. 1. for cases brought to court (court fees and/or legal representation)

2. for cases not brought to court (legal advice, ADR and other legal services)

Serbian law stipulates funding from the state budget and local self-government budget for cases brought to court (court fees and/or legal representation), as well as for mediators and public notaries as providers of free legal aid. These cases are funded 50% from the state budget and 50% from local self-government budget. The actual payment takes place following the completion of a certain phase of the proceedings. Given that the law started implementation on October 1st 2019, most cases brought to court have not yet been finalized.

Kosovo*

(2021): In KPC budget categories we don't have separate category for budget for lawyers, but the budget code is named "legal representation cost" which include lawyers and experts. The total budget approved for this category was 843,959€ which we divided in 2 and the budget approved for lawyers being 421,979.5€.

As for the discrepancies, they are due to Covid pandemic aftermath and budget review.

(2020): In this year, we have been able to obtain the data for categories 'cases brought to court and cases not brought to court' for criminal cases too. The budget concerning cases not brought to court is managed by Kosovo Prosecutorial Council(KPC), while the Budget concerning cases brought to court is managed by the Kosovo Judicial Council(KJC). Therefore, for cases not brought to court, we have used the data offered by KPC, while for cases brought to court, we have used the data from KJC.

Albania

(2023): We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

(2021): Performance throughout 2021, the first year of full capacity operation of the free legal aid mechanism, has marked an increase in the number of court decisions that grant applicants the right to secondary legal aid and exemption from court fees and costs. We emphasize that the planning of funds is done based on the number of decisions received by the court, while the liquidation of payments is done after all the procedural steps of judicial representation have been completed. Trials take time, especially in the nowadays conditions regarding the absence of judges due to the vetting process. This is reflected in the delays until the arrival of the liquidation practice in the Directorate.

(2020): The above data is referred to the implemented/ allocated budget of Free Legal Aid Directorate for 2020. The difference between allocated budget and implemented budget has come as a result of delays in the recruitment of FLAD staff but also employees of primary legal aid service centers in the districts of the Republic of Albania. Also, another factor is related to the financing procedures of 12 authorized non-profit organizations which provide primary legal aid, a procedure which is expected to start in March 2021.

Following the approval of the legal aid law, the budget of legal aid was increased substantially to provide for primary and secondary legal aid. The law foresees the opening of legal clinics, that will provide primary legal aid to all citizens. For 2020, 8 legal clinics were foreseen to be opened. Additionally, the criteria for providing secondary legal aid were clarified in the law, and they granted legal aid to a considerable number of applicants. With the establishment of the Legal Aid Directorate, courts started to grant secondary legal aid to applicants. (the Directorate is in charge of administering the court decision, and making the payment to the lawyer, based on that court decision). Hence, all these activities, were supported by an increased budget.

Montenegro

(2023): Not including ex officio mandatory representation. Legal aid is different specific category

(2022): In 2022 no separate amount for legal aid for courts was allocated, but that was a part of the budget section 4146 - lawyer services. In 2022 for legal aid the amount implemented is 108.776 Eur

(2020): A smaller number of requests for free legal aid were adopted, thus less money was spent.

North Macedonia

(2023): In 2023, more criminal cases brought to court were concluded. The rise in the budget allocated to criminal cases may also be attributed to the complexity of these cases and their longer durations, resulting in higher expenses for lawyers.

(2022): Implementation of the new Law on free legal aid was one of the strategic goals. Campaigns in 2022 through the whole country to raise awareness of beneficiaries about their rights to free legal aid were very successful. These Numbers are the proof for improvement of usage of free legal aid system in our country.

(2021): The amount is increased because from 2021, money for the lawyers that are engaged ex officio are payed according to the Lawyers tariff, which was not a case in the previous years.

(2020): The budget for the legal aid in criminal cases is composed by: the budget for ex-officio lawyers according to the Law on Criminal procedure and the poor law budget. There are no other criminal cases, except criminal cases brought to court.

A little increasing in the implemented public budget in the other than criminal cases, is due to the fact that we start with full implementation new Law on free legal aid where the conditions for obtaining legal aid are facilitated.

Serbia

(2023): Official data obtained from the Sector for financial affairs in the MOJ
Annual implemented public budget for the High Judicial Council for mandatory defense 11469009 EUR.

In question 012 we counted only free legal aid. I see now we made a mistake.

(2022): Please note that the total amount refers only to the cases of granted free legal aid according to the Law on free legal aid. This amount does not cover the free legal aid that was provided according to the Criminal Procedure Code (mandatory defense, etc.)

Q013: TOTAL - Annual implemented public budget allocated to legal aid (1 + 2) - 92056 euros. A greater number of cases of free legal aid in 2022 resulted in a greater amount of money spent on the provided free legal aid. The amount for 2022 is higher compared to the previous two years, taking into account that during 2022 all measures against covid-19 were canceled.

(2021): The budget for the Legal Aid is executed based on the requests from the municipalities (local governments) and can cover only up to 50% of the total budget spent annually by municipalities (local governments), based on the Law on Legal Aid.

The Legal Aid does not include "mandatory representation in criminal cases" by lawyers, before the Serbian courts, which is the cost covered by the High Judicial Council.

If the public budget actually implemented regarding legal aid is different from the annual approved public budget allocated to legal aid, please indicate the main reasons for the differences:

Data shall be available for the next report.

Kosovo*

(2021): As there was quite a budget cut for legal aid in 2020 due to the pandemic, in 2021 the budget was increased.

(2020): There is a difference between the approved and the implemented budget for Legal Aid, mainly because of the pandemic Covid 19. However, in the category "cases not brought to court" in criminal cases, the discrepancy between the approved and implemented budget is because the approved budget includes legal aid and expertise. At this moment, we are not been able to localize only the budget dedicated to legal aid. The courts have been dealing only with emergency cases for two and a half months in 2020(mid-March to June). However, even after the June, courts have not worked in their full capacities, because the Covid-19 situation deteriorated again in July. The budget was reviewed in June, and significant reallocation in the budget were made. And of course, due to the lockdown, the number of criminal cases was lower compared to previous years and consequently, a part from the budget allocated to legal aid for criminal cases was reallocated.

The court shall exempt from payment of the costs of the proceedings a party who, due to his general financial situation, is not able to bear these costs.

Exemption from payment of costs of proceedings includes exemption from payment of fees and exemption from advance payment for costs of witnesses, experts, on-site inspections and court announcements.

The court may also exempt a party from paying the fee, in accordance with a special law.

When making a decision on exemption from paying the costs of the procedure, the court considers all the circumstances, and especially takes into account the value of the subject matter of the dispute, the number of persons supported by the party and income and property owned by the party and its family members.

Question 086

Albania

(2023): Based on the administered data, it results that the cases of primary legal aid (which do not include representation in court) are 100% accepted.

Based on the administered data, it results that 44 requests for secondary legal aid (which include representation in court) out of 773 in total are not accepted by the court.

(2022): As for the year 2022, 7616 citizens have been treated with primary legal aid and 1030 court decisions have been administered with the object of secondary legal aid.

During 2022 according to the scope of court cases that citizens have requested secondary legal assistance, it is evident that they are mainly civil cases. Out of the total number of requests for legal aid of 1030, 691 of them are civil, where the main ones are marriage settlement, pension benefits and property conflicts. While the other two categories, where 70 are criminal and 269 are administrative cases.

(2021): We highlight that Instruction No. 1, dated 08/03/2019 of the Minister of Justice on “The approval of rules and procedures for the collection, completion, and administration of registers’ data” determines that: Each state-guaranteed legal aid service provider shall periodically send to the Directorate every month, the data of requests and self-declarations of the requesting entities submitted to receive state-guaranteed legal aid. The data is sent within the first 5 (five) days of the month following the reference month. More detailed data can be found at the link: <https://ndihmajuridike.gov.al/publikime>

(2020): The Law no. 111/2017 on State Guaranteed Legal Aid (Law on Legal Aid) entered into force on 1 June 2018. It foresees a comprehensive system of •Primary Legal Aid (“out of court support”)

Referring to the terminology used in this report, the section "Cases brought to court" is filled with the data collected by "Secondary legal aid and exemption from court fees and fees cases" while the section "Cases not referred to court" is completed with "primary legal aid" data.

Also, we highlight that the Instruction No. 1, dated 08/03/2019 of the Minister of Justice on “The approval of rules and procedures for the collection, completion and administration of registers’ data” determines that: Each state guaranteed legal aid service provider shall periodically send to the Directorate every month, the data of requests and self-declarations of the requesting entities submitted in order to receive state guaranteed legal aid. The data is sent within the first 5 (five) days of the month following the reference month. Consequently, in the conditions when the data on the cases handled during February are reported within 5 March 2021, the cases handled by primary and secondary legal aid providers for February 2021, are not included in this report.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Criminal cases brought to court: cases (criminal/misdemeanor) in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and cases in which free legal aid was given for the costs of proceedings.

Other cases brought to court: cases in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and the preparation of legal documents, cases in which free legal aid was given only through preparation of legal documents required within the court procedure, and cases in which free legal aid was given only for the costs of proceedings.

Cases not brought to court: cases (civil, enforcement, administrative, administrative-non judicial, criminal/misdemeanor, etc.) in which free legal aid was given through legal advice only by the government founded free legal aid institutions.

Free legal aid is provided in courts and by the specialized free legal aid institutions formed by the different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law. Also, the courts make a decision on exemption from the costs of proceedings for parties in different types of proceedings (e.g. criminal, civil). Employees of institutions providing free legal aid represent the party in various types of court proceedings, compose legal documents and give legal advice to a person who meets financial and property criteria. The data refer to the number of cases in which courts and institutions of free legal aid provided legal assistance in the described ways. It is important to that the number of persons who received free legal aid may be higher than the number of cases in which free legal aid was provided.

(2020): Legal aid institutions reported that their caseload was reduced in 2020 following the introduction of measures combating the spread of coronavirus.

(2019): Criminal cases brought to court: cases (criminal/misdemeanor) in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and cases in which free legal aid was given for the costs of proceedings.

Other cases brought to court: cases in which free legal aid was given through representation in court and the preparation of legal documents, cases in which free legal aid was given only through preparation of legal documents required within the court procedure, and cases in which free legal aid was given only for the costs of proceedings.

Cases not brought to court: cases (civil, enforcement, administrative, administrative-non judicial, criminal/misdemeanor, etc.) in which free legal aid was given through legal advice only by the government founded free legal aid institutions.

Montenegro

(2020): The total number of filed requests for free legal aid in 2020 is 365. Unfortunately, we are not able to provide other data under question 86.

North Macedonia

(2021): In 2021 there were 1610 criminal cases referred to the court for which court granted free legal aid (compulsory defense) and 3 cases referred to the court for which court granted free legal aid (Defense of indigent persons). In 2021, the law on free legal aid was implemented, a campaign was launched to promote free legal aid, which led to increased number of submitted and approved requests for free legal aid.

(2020): In 2020 there were 1586 criminal cases referred to the court for which court granted free legal aid (compulsory defense) and 2 cases referred to the court for which court granted free legal aid (Defense of indigent persons). Additionally in the same year there were 20 civil cases referred to the court for which court granted free legal aid and 137 civil cases for which Ministry of Justice granted legal aid according to the Law on free legal aid. According to the new Legal aid which start with implementation in October 2019, in 2020 we have significantly increasing of the number of cases where primary legal aid was given. Primary legal aid according to the new law can give Ministry of Justice, Associations registered in the Ministry of justice for giving on primary legal aid and legal clinics.

Serbia

(General Comment): The Law distinguishes free legal aid (legal advice, representation before court, defense, drafting of motions) and free legal support (general legal information, mediation, services of public notaries). Legal advice and general legal information are available to everyone and are not subject to approval. The Law prescribes that citizens shall address local self-government units (hereinafter: LSG) to apply for free legal aid. Staff in LSG decide on the applications pursuant to Articles 4 and 7 of the Law (eligibility). Article 67 of the Constitution of RS provides that everyone shall be guaranteed the right to legal aid under conditions stipulated by the law. Legal aid is provided by lawyers, as an independent and autonomous service, and legal aid offices established in the units of local self-government in accordance with the law. The court shall exempt a party from the liability of paying the costs of the proceedings where that party's material situation does not allow him/her to bear such costs. Exemption from the payment of the costs of proceedings includes exemption from the payment of fees and the deposit for the costs of witnesses, expert witnesses, on-site inspections and court notices.

Ex-officio lawyers are not counted here

(2021): Please note that total data only refers to cases where legal aid is granted according to Law on Free Legal Aid, due statistic data for cases in which legal aid was granted according to Criminal Procedure Code, are not available.

This year, data from some Local Self-government units indicate that there were fewer requests than in previous ones reporting periods, which may be related to the changed functioning of the local governments due to the situation caused by COVID19. It is necessary for to enable citizens submitting requests for free legal aid even when entry to the premises of local self-government unit is not allowed for epidemiological reasons. Requests must be available to all citizens in a clearly defined and visible place.

At the same time, there are local self-government units that did not submit a report to the Ministry of Justice so it can be concluded that there were no requests in those LSU.

(2020): The Law on Free Legal Aid (2018) began to be applicable on October 1st 2019 which is why complete data were not available. Even when it is adequately gathered, as it applies to only the last quarter of the year, we do not believe it adequate to state the data from 2019 in the tables to be compared in the following cycles. The Ministry of Justice has launched the initial data collection in late January 2020 to determine data on the implementation of the Law on Free Legal Aid.

Kosovo*

(2021): From the cases handled by legal aid officers in 2021, initiated by the beneficiaries of free legal aid, through the Agency for Free Legal Aid, legal actions are addressed to the following institutions and state bodies:

- Courts - 2255 legal actions
- Municipalities and municipal bodies - 747 legal actions
- Ministries and ministerial bodies - 1214 legal actions
- Other public and private bodies - 323 legal actions

In the reporting period for 2021, 467 lawyers were engaged, of which 425 in the civil field, 22 in the administrative field and in the criminal field 20. Of these, 30 cases were successfully completed, 26 in the civil field, 4 in the administrative field and 5 cases have been terminated, while 432 cases are still pending.

(2020): This year we have been able to generate the complete data for this category. Considering that the budget for Legal Aid is divided between three institutions, data on number of cases is also divided. So, this year we were able to obtain data on the number of cases when Ex officio Lawyers were paid by Kosovo Judicial and Kosovo Prosecutorial Councils. We have used the data from KJC for the cases brought to court and the data from KPC for cases not brought to court.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The courts and the specialized government institutions provide free legal aid to citizens in relation to court proceedings.

Free legal aid is provided by the courts in criminal proceedings by assigning a lawyer to a suspected or accused person if that person meets the conditions laid down by law (e.g. obligatory defense etc.). Also, the courts may make a decision on exemption from the costs of proceedings for parties in different types of proceedings (e.g. criminal, civil). In addition, free legal aid centers have been established by the legislation adopted at all levels of government as a part of the respective public administration system. Employees of free legal aid institutions represent the citizens in various types of court and non-court proceedings or give legal advice to the citizens and compose legal documents for them. Citizens are entitled to free legal aid provided by the legal aid institutions if they fulfill financial and property criteria prescribed by the relevant legislation.

Albania

(2023): 1 day for Primary Legal Aid

Secondary Legal Aid - The court has to decide within 5 days from the date of receipt of the request

Maximum duration prescribed in law/regulation - First legal aid is provided immediately at the moment requested verbally or written. If it is needed can be extended the days of consultations. ---

The time of decision depends on when the application was lodged:

- The court has to decide within 5 days from the date of receipt of the request, when the request has been submitted before initiation of the judicial proceeding • during the preliminary actions or in the preparatory session before the scheduling of the judicial session/hearing, when the request for legal aid has been submitted together with the statement of claim
- according to the provisions of the procedural legislation and the provisions of this law, when the request has been filed during judicial examination According to the Article 22 (9) the Directorate may appeal against the acceptance (only) when it claims that the request is evidently abusive or manifestly ill-founded and not if it claims that the applicant does not fulfil the criteria of Articles 10 to 12. It will have to be clarified if the reasons of appeal were restricted on purpose or if a reference to Articles 10 to 12 was omitted by error. Since Article 22 (9) does (in contrast to Article 22 (7)) not refer to the special appeal, the provisions on normal appeals apply. Article 22 (9) states that "In this case shall be applied the time-limits and the rules for appeal of final decisions in accordance with the provisions of the procedural legislation." Thus the time-limits and the rules for appeal of final decisions in accordance with the provisions of the procedural legislation apply. I.e. that different procedural rules apply for the appeal of the Directorate against the approval than for the appeal against the dismissal. Against the decision of the court of appeal a recourse to the High Court is not allowed.

Actual average duration - First legal aid is provided immediately at the moment requested verbally or written If it is needed can be extended the days of consultations by max 2 days --- From the practice, it results that the period from the moment of sending the request for secondary legal aid until the notification of the court's decision on the acceptance or not of the request is 1 month.

An especially vulnerable witness may be examined only through the authority conducting the proceedings, which will treat the witness with particular care, endeavoring to avoid possible detrimental consequences of the criminal proceedings to the personality, physical and mental state of the witness. Examination may be conducted with the assistance of a psychologist, social worker or other professional, which will be decided by the authority conducting proceedings.

If the authority conducting proceedings decides to examine an especially vulnerable witness using technical devices for transmitting images and sound, the examination is conducted without the presence of the parties and other participants in the proceedings in the room where the witness is located.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

Q089 (General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of judges is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any court (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of judges, including court presidents. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new judges from the promotion or transfer of judges to a different position in judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of judges on any level. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already judges or prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation. All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints judges from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of relevant nomination subcouncil (internal body within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Q090 (General Comment): Clean criminal record:

During the appointment procedure consideration shall also be given to circumstances relevant for the evaluation of candidate suitability, such as information concerning any previous disciplinary offences, previous criminal convictions and other circumstances that may deem a candidate unsuitable to hold judicial office.

The candidate in the application form must reply to the following question: Have you been convicted of a felony or been found responsible for a misdemeanor offense or been found responsible for disciplinary offense?

Also, the candidate is required to submit as an attachment to the application form an official court document confirming that there is no pending criminal proceedings against him or her.

Candidate's criminal record does not constitute an eliminatory criterion in the process of appointment of candidates. But in this regard, the Interview panel and the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, through the appointment procedure determine the ability of the candidate with criminal record to perform the judicial function.

Q119 (2019): Other: The candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for a public prosecutor position must take entrance exam and written test.

Q120 (General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of prosecutors is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any prosecutor's office (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of prosecutors, including chief prosecutors. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new prosecutors from the promotion or transfer of prosecutors to different positions within the judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of prosecutors on any level. Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors' offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation.

All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints prosecutors from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of the relevant nomination sub-council (an internal committee within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Q121 (General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has a right to appoint some and reject some among the selected candidates. (3) If the list of candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment has no candidates of the appropriate ethnicity or with the specific work-related experience, the competition shall be repeated only once. (4) Apart from reasons pursuant to paragraph (3) of the Article, a competition may be repeated also in the event that none of the proposed candidates i.e. candidates who have achieved the minimum results required for appointment, receive a majority vote as required for appointment or in the event that none of the candidates achieved the required results within the competition procedure. Article 61b (Nomination and Appointment to Managerial Positions) (11) If, after the presentation of the work programs, no candidate has received a majority vote required to render a decision on appointment, any member of the Council may propose any candidate who has the achieved the appropriate result required for appointment to present their work program at the subsequent session

Q124 (General Comment): Through the check of disciplinary proceedings and sanctions:

In the competition procedure for the post of a judge or a prosecutor information is checked whether disciplinary proceedings are being conducted against the candidate, whether a final disciplinary measure has been imposed to the candidate, meaning whether the candidate has been convicted. The said information impact the decision whether the candidate will be invited to an interview, meaning whether or not they will further participate in the competition procedure. If a disciplinary measure is imposed to the candidate in a certain time period, depending on the measure, they cannot participate in the competition procedure. Through an integrity assessment test:

The candidate's ability to responsibly, independently and impartially hold the office they applied for, professional impartiality and reputation and conduct outside the job is one of the criteria examined in the interview with the candidate by asking suitable questions.

The evaluation of candidate is divided in three phases. First, a general qualifying exam containing questions (multiple choice) from Criminal Law (material & procedural), and also questions from professional ethic and human rights fields, is held. Candidates should score at least 45 out of maximum 60 points in order to pass the exam. The results are published in the KPC web page. This exam is used only to qualify for the next stage (as a filter) and its results do not count in the overall result. Candidates who pass the first general written exam, will be invited to another written exam which consists of two practical cases. There is a maximum of 3 hours per each case. Each candidate is required to score at least 40 out of 60 points (each exercise has 30 points) in order to pass the exam. The integrity check is focused on information regarding candidates' work experience, performance in previous job and candidates' criminal past, in cases when the recruitment commission notices an inconsistency/discrepancy or incompatibility in the information provided by candidates in their application. Then, the interview is held. A candidate can score a maximum of 40 points in the interview. After the interview, preliminary results with a combination of results from written exam and interview are published in the KPC web page. A candidate is considered to have successfully passed the recruitment process if he/she has scored a minimum of 60 points in total and is ranked within the number of vacancy positions as defined by KPC in the call for application. Candidates can appeal each result, starting from the qualifying exam, with three days after the results are published.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of judges is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any court (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of judges, including court presidents. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new judges from the promotion or transfer of judges to a different position in judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of judges on any level. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already judges or prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation. All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints judges from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of relevant nomination subcouncil (internal body within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

(General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of prosecutors is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any prosecutor's office (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of prosecutors, including chief prosecutors. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new prosecutors from the promotion or transfer of prosecutors to different positions within the judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of prosecutors on any level. Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors' offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation. All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints prosecutors from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of the relevant nomination sub-council (an internal committee within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of prosecutors is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any prosecutor's office (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of prosecutors, including chief prosecutors. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new prosecutors from the promotion or transfer of prosecutors to different positions within the judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of prosecutors on any level. Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors' offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation. All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints prosecutors from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of the relevant nomination sub-council (an internal committee within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.
