Preliminary selection

1. The Recruitment Commission in support of support staff reviews all applications received.
2. In case of rejection of the application, the candidate is notified individually of the reasons for rejection, to which he has the right to appeal, within three (3) days from the date of notification.
3. The complaint of the candidate is reviewed by the Commission for Review, within five (5) days from the day of expiration of the deadline for appeal.
4. After reviewing the complaint by the Review Committee, the Council, through its official website and e-mail address, notifies the candidate who meets the conditions to undergo the first part of the exam.
5. The announcement contains the list with the name and surname of the candidate, as well as information about the time, date, place, and other data about the organization of the exam.

Article 29 of Regulation no.02/2022 on the recruitment, examination, appointment and reappointment of prosecutors

Right to appeal

The candidate, as a dissatisfied party, has the right to appeal, to oppose the process, regarding the violation of the rules, about the organization of the exam and the results of the qualifying test, written test, and oral interview, within three (3) days, from the day of the announcement of the results, on the basis of the notification made according to this Regulation.

The complaint of the candidate according to paragraph 1 of this article, is reviewed by the Commission for Review of the Council, within five (5) days, from the day of the end of the complaint. In the event that the Review Committee, after evaluating the complaint, finds that violations of the rules regarding the organization of the qualifying test, written test, and oral interview, as defined by this Regulation, may take a decision to repeat the contested part of the exam.

If the Review Committee decides to repeat the relevant part of the exam, the exam is organized within five (5) days, from the decision of the Review Committee.

In this case, the Recruitment Commission will draft the new test, the results of which will be taken into consideration when compiling the final exam list.

In case the Review Commission finds that technical errors have been made, in the case of calculating the points of the qualifying test, written test, essay and oral interview, while in the case of reviewing the complaint it is confirmed that the candidate is ranked in the group of candidates who have not passed the relevant part of the exam, that candidate will be included in the list of candidates who have passed that part of the exam.

After reviewing the complaints for the qualifying test, the written test, and the oral interview, the Council shall compile the final list of the exam, as determined by this Regulation,

Question 118

Albania

(General Comment): Article 28, of the Law on the status of judges and prosecutors provides for the following selection criteria applicable to both judges and prosecutors:
All persons are entitled to apply to the School of Magistrates for admission to the initial training as a magistrate, as long as they fulfil simultaneously the following criteria:
a) Have full capacity to act;
b) Be an Albanian citizen;
c) Have graduated with the minimum scoring as determined by the School of Magistrates the second cycle of university studies in law, with a diploma of "Master of Science" and have passed the state exam for jurists in Albania, or have graduated in law with the minimum points set out by the School of Magistrates in a European Union Member State and have been awarded an equivalent diploma, recognised under the rules for recognition of diplomas provided by law;
ç) Have at least three years of full time active professional experience in the judiciary or the prosecution office, public administration, free legal professions or teaching in law faculties, or in any other equivalent position in the private sector or international organizations;
d) Have never been criminally convicted by a final decision;
dh) Have never been dismissed from office for disciplinary reasons and are not subject to a current disciplinary sanction;
e) Not to be a member of political parties at the time of application;
ë) Have not been a member, collaborator or favoured by the State Security before 1990;
f) Have not been a collaborator, informant, or agent of any secret service.
Except the fulfilment of the legal criteria provided in Article 28, of the Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors", as amended, the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam of the School of Magistrates, should pass positively the process of verifying the integrity and assets before they are accepted in the initial forming programme of the School of Magistrates (Article 32, of the Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors", as amended).
Lastly, as provided in article 32 of the status law, a student at the School of Magistrates can be appointed as a judge or a prosecutor if it fulfills the following criteria:
a) Having graduated from the School of Magistrates in the initial training with a score of at least 70% of the maximum reachable scores;
b) Having achieved evaluation scores of at least "good" in each of the assignments during the professional internship in the third year of the initial training;
c) Having passed the asset declaration and background check, carried out by the Councils in accordance with the provisions in paragraphs 2 to 6 of Article 32 of this Law.

(2025): According to Article 28, of the Law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended, the candidates for prosecutors who successfully pass the entry exam of the School of Magistrates, undergo a process for verification of the integrity and assets as an additional criterion before they are accepted at the School of Magistrates. Negative results from this verification result in rejection of the candidate. The verification process is carried out from High Judicial /Prosecutorial Council (Article 32, of the Law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended).

(2024): According to Article 28, of the Law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended, (above mentioned in Q.112), the candidates for prosecutors who successfully pass the entry exam of the School of Magistrates, undergo a process for verification of the integrity and assets as an additional criterion before they are accepted at the School of Magistrates. Negative results from this verification result in rejection of the candidate. The verification process is carried out from High Judicial /Prosecutorial Council (Article 32, of the Law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended).

(2022): The focus of the question, regarding the selection criteria of judges/prosecutors, is after the entry exam. After the entry exam, the selection is made only on the basis of the results/score they received in the exam. The criteria of work performance and experience are applied in the pre-selection phase of the candidates who apply to be registered to take the entry exam. Except the fulfilment of the legal criteria provided in Article 28, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended, the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam of the School of Magistrates, should pass positively the process of verifying the integrity and assets before they are accepted in the initial forming programme of the School of Magistrates. The verification process is carried out from High Judicial /Prosecutorial Council (Article 32, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended).

(2025): Based on Regulation No. 02/2022 on the Recruitment, Examination, Appointment and Re-appointment of State Prosecutors, the testing and interview process for prosecutor candidates consists of these main stages:

1. Qualifying exam

The qualifying test (also sometimes called a qualification test) is the first stage in the recruitment process, after the preselection of candidates who fulfil the legal criteria. It is designed to assess the basic eligibility and general knowledge of candidates before they move on to more advanced evaluation stages. Only candidates who pass this qualifying test are allowed to continue to the next phase, which is the written exam. A list of candidates who passed the qualifying test is published, and candidates have the right to file appeals against the results within a specified deadline.

2. Written exam

The written test is the next stage after the qualifying test. It evaluates candidates on substantive legal knowledge and practical legal skills, typically focusing on specific areas of law (e.g., criminal law) and practical problem-solving relevant to prosecutorial duties. Passing the written test is necessary before candidates can advance to the integrity evaluation and interview. A list of candidates who passed the written test is published, and candidates have the right to file appeals against the results within a specified deadline.

3. Integrity and Eligibility Verification

Candidates who pass the written exam undergo verification of submitted documentation and integrity, including compliance with legal and ethical requirements.

4. Interview

Eligible candidates are invited to an interview before the Recruitment Commission. The interview assesses professional competence, ethical standards, communication skills, reasoning ability, and overall suitability for the position of State Prosecutor.

5. Final Scoring and Ranking

Final scores are calculated based on the results of the written exams and the interview. Candidates are ranked, and those with the highest scores are proposed for appointment, in line with the number of available positions.

(2024): Article 28 of Regulation no.02/2022 on the recruitment, examination, appointment and reappointment of prosecutors Preliminary results of the exam 1.The final result for the success of a candidate is calculated on the basis of the accumulation of points achieved in the qualifying test, written test, and oral interview. 2. The Recruitment Commission compiles the list of candidates, according to the points obtained in the exam. Candidates are ranked according to the highest score obtained in the qualifying test, written test, essay and oral interview. The ranking of successful candidates in the list ends with the number of candidates determined by announcement (competition) by the Council. The Chairman of the Recruitment Commission sends the list of successful candidates to the Council, after reviewing any complaints by the Review Commission.

Albania

(General Comment): According to Article 32/2, of the "On the status of judges and prosecutors", as amended, the process of verifying the integrity and assets of the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam, is realised from the High Prosecutorial Council who requests reporting from the competent institutions for the verification of integrity and assets and any other exceptional cause, from the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Control of Assets and Conflict of Interest, the prosecution offices, tax and customs administration bodies, the National Bureau of Investigation, state intelligence services, as well as any disciplinary body that has supervised the discipline in the previous employment relations of the candidates.

(2023): According to Article 32/2, of the Law no. 96/2016 “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended, the process of verifying the integrity and assets of the candidates for prosecutors who pass successfully the entry exam, is realized and finalised from the High Prosecutorial Council. Before the decision, High Prosecutorial Council requests reports from the other national competent institutions for the verification of integrity and assets and any other exceptional cause, such as the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Control of Assets and Conflict of Interest, the prosecution offices, tax and customs bodies, the National Bureau of Investigation, state intelligence services, as well as any disciplinary body.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The procedure of recruitment and selection of prosecutors is conducted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Rules of Procedure of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Book of Rules on Entrance Exams and Written Tests for Candidates for Judicial Office in the Judiciary of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A public announcement of vacant positions in any prosecutor’s office (regardless of the level) precedes the appointment of prosecutors, including chief prosecutors. The Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina in general does not distinguish the recruitment of new prosecutors from the promotion or transfer of prosecutors to different positions within the judiciary. Thus a public vacancy is applicable to both internal candidates (candidates who hold judicial office) and external candidates, who compete each other for the vacant position. However, certain aspects of selection procedure are different for internal or external candidates. Selection procedure may include entrance exams and written tests, depending on the status of the candidate. Entrance exams and written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions of prosecutors on any level. Written tests shall be carried out mainly for candidates who do not hold judicial office and who have applied for positions in highest prosecutors’ offices, and who have previously passed the entrance exam. Results of the aforementioned tests are relevant for the establishing the competences of the external candidates. Competences of the candidates who are already prosecutors are established based on the performance evaluation.

All candidates have to be interviewed by the interview panel, which assesses the criteria regulated in the aforementioned Rules of Procedure. Candidates are ranked based on their success in the selection procedure. The points received according to the competence criterion (results of entrance exam/written test or performance evaluation) are added to the points received at the interview and candidates are ranked according to the total points scored. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina appoints prosecutors from the list of successful candidates upon proposal of the relevant nomination sub-council (an internal committee within the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina). The decision on the appointment has to be reasoned.

Albania
(2025): Considering the question related to the integrity check of candidates for prosecutors, in the answer we have referred to the phase after the completion of the Magistrates' School and the appointment of prosecutors by the High Prosecutorial Council. A psychological assessment is carried out by the Magistrates' School for the admission of aspirants for prosecutors to that school.

Bosnia and Herzegovina
(General Comment): Through the check of disciplinary proceedings and sanctions:
In the competition procedure for the post of a judge or a prosecutor information is checked whether disciplinary proceedings are being conducted against the candidate, whether a final disciplinary measure has been imposed to the candidate, meaning whether the candidate has been convicted. The said information impact the decision whether the candidate will be invited to an interview, meaning whether or not they will further participate in the competition procedure. If a disciplinary measure is imposed to the candidate in a certain time period, depending on the measure, they cannot participate in the competition procedure. Through an integrity assessment test:
The candidate’s ability to responsibly, independently and impartially hold the office they applied for, professional impartiality and reputation and conduct outside the job is one of the criteria examined in the interview with the candidate by asking suitable questions.
During the appointment procedure consideration shall also be given to circumstances relevant for the evaluation of candidate suitability, such as information concerning any previous disciplinary offences, previous criminal convictions and other circumstances that may deem a candidate unsuitable to hold judicial office.
The candidate in the application form must reply to the following question: Have you been convicted of a felony or been found responsible for a misdemeanor offense or been found responsible for disciplinary offense?
Also, the candidate is required to submit as an attachment to the application form an official court document confirming that there is no pending criminal proceedings against him or her. Candidate's criminal record does not constitute an eliminatory criterion in the process of appointment of candidates. But in this regard, the Interview panel and the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, through the appointment procedure determine the ability of the candidate with criminal record to perform the judicial function.

Albania

Q131 (General Comment): As per provisions of Law No 96/2016 “on the status of judges and prosecutors in the republic of Albania”, Art. 48, “Promotion to Higher or Specialized Levels” - the Council opens the promotion procedure by calling for applications - the call for applications is published on the website of the Council and it contains the necessary information for the vacancy - following a call for applications for a promotion, the candidate may apply for up to three vacant positions or positions expected to become vacant. - only applicants who have passed the asset declaration and background check and have no disciplinary sanction in force are allowed to participate further in the promotion procedure.

- the Councils reviews the applications and ranks eligible candidates by reference to the following indicators:

a) Firstly, two previous evaluations, taking into consideration that:

i) The experience in seconded positions, as magistrate in a mobility scheme or as member of the Council, whose mandate has ended three years before the application, will be an advantage;

ii) In cases of more candidates with the same grades, the magistrates within the group of candidates with the highest evaluation grades shall be ranked according to a scoring scheme established by the Councils;

b) Secondly, if after the evaluation made under letter “a” paragraph 9 of this Article, there is more than one candidate with the highest scores, the Council shall rank these candidates referring to their specific professional experience required for the vacant position;

c) Thirdly, if after the evaluation made under letter “b” paragraph 9 of this Article, there is more than one candidate with the highest scores, the Council shall rank these candidates referring to their seniority as magistrate or jurist.

The Councils shall decide to promote the candidates ranking highest with the grades attained by a procedure and rules contained in paragraph 9 and 14 of this Article.

Q131 (2025): The promotion criteria and procedures are regulated by article 48 of law 96/2016. Candidates must undergo 2 consecutive evaluations to be eligible in a promotion procedure. The evaluation process assesses the professional and organizational skills of candidates, as well as their ethics and professional commitment, based on a new scheme adopted by the Council. Only applicants who have no disciplinary sanction in force, shall be allowed to participate further in a promotion procedure. Also all judges promoted to higher courts have successfully passed the vetting process with a final decision.
For judicial promotions, the Council initiates the process by announcing a call for applications for vacant positions, inviting eligible judges who meet the established criteria. After the application period closes, the Council publishes the list of qualified candidates on its official website, maintaining a clear and transparent procedure.

Q131 (2024): only applicants who have passed the asset declaration and background check and have no disciplinary sanction in force are allowed to participate further in the promotion procedure.
Q132 (General Comment): The Councils review the applications and rank eligible candidates by reference to the following indicators:
a) Firstly, two previous performance evaluations, taking into consideration that:
i) The experience in seconded positions, as magistrate in a mobility scheme or as member of the Council, whose mandate has ended three years before the application, will be an advantage;
ii) In cases of more candidates with the same grades, the magistrates within the group of candidates with the highest evaluation grades shall be ranked according to a scoring scheme established by the Councils;
b) Secondly, if after the evaluation made under the first paragraph, there is more than one candidate with the highest scores, the Council shall rank these candidates referring to their specific professional experience required for the vacant position;
c) Thirdly, if after the evaluation made under the second paragraph there is more than one candidate with the highest scores, the Council shall rank these candidates referring to their seniority as magistrate or jurist.
The law on the status of judges and prosecutors provides for the following evaluation levels of a magistrate:
a) 'Excellent': in case of an ethical and professional performance of very high qualities; b) Very good': in case of an above average ethical and professional performance c) 'Good': in case of an average ethical and professional performance; ç) 'Acceptable': in case of a below average ethical and professional performance; d) 'Incapable': in case of a poor ethical and/or professional performance. Hence, during promotion, a judge that has two evaluations as excellent will be promoted vis-à-vis someone who has an evaluation as excellent and very good.
Q132 (2025): Since the very beginning, in addition to the legal provisions foreseen in the Law Status for the promotion procedure, the HJC has fully implemented the recommendation of the Venice Commission. All judges promoted to higher courts have successfully passed the vetting process with a final decision. This precondition is mandatory for all candidates to be firstly considered for promotions. Additionally, candidates must undergo 2 consecutive evaluations to be eligible in a promotion procedure. The evaluation process assesses the professional and organizational skills of candidates, as well as their ethics and professional commitment, based on a new scheme adopted by the Council. Only applicants who have no disciplinary sanction in force, shall be allowed to participate further in a promotion procedure.

Q134 (General Comment): A judge has a right of appeal against a decision on promotion within 5 days from the notification of the decision of the Council. The appeal does not suspend the implementation of the decision. The competent court shall decide within two weeks as of the appeal day. The decision of the competent court shall be final. A Council's decisions, on an judge's promotion to a position in accordance, becomes final if: a) No appeal is lodged within the appeal period; b) An appeal is lodged on time and the court has decided to dismiss the case or reject the appeal; c) An appeal is lodged on time and, on its basis, a final court decision has been rendered. In cases where the court allows the appeal and repeals the Councils' decision, the latter shall, within two weeks of the notification of the court decision, revise the decision on the promotion, to the necessary extent for implementing the decision of the court. The competent court is Tirana Administrative First Instance Court

Q136 (General Comment): High Prosecutorial Council publishes the promotion announcement for prosecutors which includes the application deadline, the information and documentation attached, the candidacy procedure and the place of submission of documentation. The following candidates may be promoted:
a) the prosecutor who fulfils the criteria for promotion in accordance with the requirements of the vacancy;
b) the prosecutor in command or the one in the delegation scheme who meets the criteria for promotion in accordance with the requirements of the vacant position;
After the announcement of the promotion procedure, the candidate may run for no more than three vacancies or positions expected to become vacant. If the prosecutor is running for more than one position, he shall rank them by preference.
The High Prosecutorial Council verifies candidates regarding the integrity and assets and only candidates who successfully complete this process and who do not have disciplinary measures in place are admitted to further promotion procedures.
Detailed rules on the promotion of prosecutors are provided in Article 47 and subsequent of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended.
With Decision no. 222, dated 27.07.2022, High Prosecutorial Council approved the Regulation “For the promotion to the highest levels in Prosecution Offices of the general jurisdiction”. According to this Regulation, the promotion procedure at the highest levels takes place in three stages, as follows: a) In the first stage is carried out the verification of the candidates for meeting the legal conditions of candidacy; b) In the second stage is taken the decision on the ranking of qualified candidates, and; c) In the third stage, is taken the decision to promote the candidate listed above others.
Also, with Decision no. 200, dated 23.09.2020, the Council has approved the Regulation “On the criteria and procedures for the promotion of heads of Prosecution Offices of the general jurisdiction”. High Prosecutorial Council publishes the promotion announcement for prosecutors which includes the application deadline, the information and documentation attached, the candidacy procedure and the place of submission of documentation. The following candidates may be promoted: a) the prosecutor who fulfils the criteria for promotion in accordance with the requirements of the vacancy; b) the prosecutor in command or the one in the delegation scheme who meets the criteria for promotion in accordance with the requirements of the vacant position. After the announcement of the promotion procedure, the candidate may run for no more than three vacancies or positions expected to become vacant. If the prosecutor is running for more than one position, he shall rank them by preference. High Prosecutorial Council verifies candidates regarding the integrity and assets and only candidates who successfully complete this process and who do not have disciplinary measures in place are admitted to further promotion procedures.
With the Decision no. 303, dated 19.09.2023, High Prosecutorial Council approved the "Regulation on the criteria and procedure for the promotion of prosecutors at the Special Prosecutor's Office against Corruption and Organized Crime". According to this Regulation, the promotion in this prosecution follows this procedure:
1. The Special Commission conducts an initial evaluation of all candidates to determine whether they meet the legal requirements for promotion to office as a Prosecutor in the Special Prosecutor's Office or as head of this prosecutor's office.
2. The Special Commission proposes to the Council the qualification of candidates who meet the legal requirements.
3. The High Prosecutorial Council qualifies candidates who meet the legal requirements and announces the official list of candidates.

Q136 (2025): Promotion in higher levels in General Jurisdiction

With Decision no. 222, dated 27.07.2022, High Prosecutorial Council approved the Regulation “For the promotion to the highest levels in Prosecution Offices of the general jurisdiction”. According to this Regulation, the promotion procedure at the highest levels takes place in three stages, as follows: a) In the first stage is carried out the verification of the candidates for meeting the legal conditions of candidacy; b) In the second stage is taken the decision on the ranking of qualified candidates, and; c) In the third stage, is taken the decision to promote the candidate listed above others.

The Council shall rank the candidates who meet the criteria, according to the following results:

a) first, taking into account the two previous professional assessments;

i) the experience in commanded positions, as magistrate in the delegation scheme, or as a member of the Council whose term of office has ended three years before the candidacy shall have priority;

ii) in the case of more than one candidate with the same results, the magistrates within the group of candidates with the highest evaluation results shall be ranked according to the points scheme determined by the Council;

b) second, in the event that after the evaluation carried out according to letter “a”, above, there is more than one candidate with the highest points, the Council shall rank these candidates according to the specific professional experience required for the vacant position;

Albania

(General Comment): As per provisions of Law No 96/2016 “on the status of judges and prosecutors in the republic of Albania”, Art. 48, “Promotion to Higher or Specialized Levels” - the Council opens the promotion procedure by calling for applications - the call for applications is published on the website of the Council and it contains the necessary information for the vacancy - following a call for applications for a promotion, the candidate may apply for up to three vacant positions or positions expected to become vacant. - only applicants who have passed the asset declaration and background check and have no disciplinary sanction in force are allowed to participate further in the promotion procedure.
- the Councils reviews the applications and ranks eligible candidates by reference to the following indicators:
a) Firstly, two previous evaluations, taking into consideration that:
i) The experience in seconded positions, as magistrate in a mobility scheme or as member of the Council, whose mandate has ended three years before the application, will be an advantage;
ii) In cases of more candidates with the same grades, the magistrates within the group of candidates with the highest evaluation grades shall be ranked according to a scoring scheme established by the Councils;
b) Secondly, if after the evaluation made under letter “a” paragraph 9 of this Article, there is more than one candidate with the highest scores, the Council shall rank these candidates referring to their specific professional experience required for the vacant position;
c) Thirdly, if after the evaluation made under letter “b” paragraph 9 of this Article, there is more than one candidate with the highest scores, the Council shall rank these candidates referring to their seniority as magistrate or jurist.
The Councils shall decide to promote the candidates ranking highest with the grades attained by a procedure and rules contained in paragraph 9 and 14 of this Article.

(2025): The promotion criteria and procedures are regulated by article 48 of law 96/2016. Candidates must undergo 2 consecutive evaluations to be eligible in a promotion procedure. The evaluation process assesses the professional and organizational skills of candidates, as well as their ethics and professional commitment, based on a new scheme adopted by the Council. Only applicants who have no disciplinary sanction in force, shall be allowed to participate further in a promotion procedure. Also all judges promoted to higher courts have successfully passed the vetting process with a final decision.
For judicial promotions, the Council initiates the process by announcing a call for applications for vacant positions, inviting eligible judges who meet the established criteria. After the application period closes, the Council publishes the list of qualified candidates on its official website, maintaining a clear and transparent procedure.

(2024): only applicants who have passed the asset declaration and background check and have no disciplinary sanction in force are allowed to participate further in the promotion procedure.

Question 132

Albania

(General Comment): The Councils review the applications and rank eligible candidates by reference to the following indicators:
a) Firstly, two previous performance evaluations, taking into consideration that:
i) The experience in seconded positions, as magistrate in a mobility scheme or as member of the Council, whose mandate has ended three years before the application, will be an advantage;
ii) In cases of more candidates with the same grades, the magistrates within the group of candidates with the highest evaluation grades shall be ranked according to a scoring scheme established by the Councils;
b) Secondly, if after the evaluation made under the first paragraph, there is more than one candidate with the highest scores, the Council shall rank these candidates referring to their specific professional experience required for the vacant position;
c) Thirdly, if after the evaluation made under the second paragraph there is more than one candidate with the highest scores, the Council shall rank these candidates referring to their seniority as magistrate or jurist.
The law on the status of judges and prosecutors provides for the following evaluation levels of a magistrate:
a) 'Excellent': in case of an ethical and professional performance of very high qualities; b) Very good': in case of an above average ethical and professional performance c) 'Good': in case of an average ethical and professional performance; ç) 'Acceptable': in case of a below average ethical and professional performance; d) 'Incapable': in case of a poor ethical and/or professional performance. Hence, during promotion, a judge that has two evaluations as excellent will be promoted vis-à-vis someone who has an evaluation as excellent and very good.

(2025): Since the very beginning, in addition to the legal provisions foreseen in the Law Status for the promotion procedure, the HJC has fully implemented the recommendation of the Venice Commission. All judges promoted to higher courts have successfully passed the vetting process with a final decision. This precondition is mandatory for all candidates to be firstly considered for promotions. Additionally, candidates must undergo 2 consecutive evaluations to be eligible in a promotion procedure. The evaluation process assesses the professional and organizational skills of candidates, as well as their ethics and professional commitment, based on a new scheme adopted by the Council. Only applicants who have no disciplinary sanction in force, shall be allowed to participate further in a promotion procedure.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The decision on appointment made by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is the final administrative act pursuant to the Law on Amendments to the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina ("Official Gazette of BiH", No. 63/23), which entered into force in December 2023, and an administrative dispute may be initiated against the decision by the candidate in the appointment procedure.

Serbia

(General Comment): Yes.

Kosovo*

(General Comment): The appeal bench is the KPC. All appeals are directed to the KPC and then, the KPC takes decisions on each case by voting. The KPC member who is also a member of the Commission on Transfer and Promotion does not vote.

Question 139

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina has jurisdiction to resolve these administrative disputes. In the event of an administrative dispute, the appointment of the newly appointed judge or prosecutor shall be postponed for that position until the court proceedings have been completed.

(2023): The decision on appointment made by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is the final administrative act pursuant to the Law on Amendments to the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina ("Official Gazette of BiH", No. 63/23), which entered into force in December 2023, and an administrative dispute may be initiated against the decision by the candidate in the appointment procedure. The Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina has jurisdiction to resolve these administrative disputes. In the event of an administrative dispute, the appointment of the newly appointed judge or prosecutor shall be postponed for that position until the court proceedings have been completed.

Montenegro

(General Comment): On the decision of the Prosecutorial Council, lawsuit may be filed to the Administrative court, art. 40 par 1. of the Law on State Prosecution Service.

(2023): Administrative court

(2022): Administrative court. In accordance with the Law on State Prosecutor's Office, Article 40, decisions of the Prosecutorial Council shall be final and administrative dispute may be initiated against them, unless this Law requires otherwise.

Serbia

(General Comment): Constitutional court.

(2025): Constitutional court

Article 93 of the Law on Public Prosecutors Office states that a candidate has the right to lodge an appeal with the Constitutional court against the decision on election of a chief public prosecutor or public prosecutor within 15 days from its publication in the Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia. This appeal excludes the possibility of filing a separate constitutional complaint afterwards. The Constitutional Court must decide within 30 days after the expiry of the appeal deadline and may either reject the appeal as unfounded and confirm the appointment decision or uphold the appeal and annul the decision. The Court’s ruling is published in the Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia.

(2022): The deputy public prosecutor can file the Constitutional Appeal to the Constitutional Court (it differs from the Appeal to the Constitutional Court.

Kosovo*

(General Comment): Prosecutors have the right of objection in writing against the final report of the Commission on Transfer and Promotion, within 7 days of receipt of the decision. The KPC shall decide on the objection within 10 days of its receipt or in the first upcoming meeting of the KPC. If the decision of the KPC results in the amendment of the Committee's report regarding promotion or transfer of a prosecutor who has filed an objection, the KPC shall publish the final decision along with the amended report. KPC shall decide with a simple majority of votes regarding the promotion or transfer of prosecutors. KPC's decision shall be published on the official website of the KPC and State Prosecutor.

(2025): The Commission drafts the final report with the list of candidates proposed to the Council for transfer or promotion based on their ranking according to the points earned. Prosecutors have the right to appeal against the final report of the commission within 7 days. KPC decides on the appeal in the first meeting or no later than 30 days from the day the appeal was received. If KPC approves the appeal, it obliges the Commission to re-evaluate the report and prepare a final report for the KPC. KPC decides with a majority of votes regarding the promotion or transfer of prosecutors. The decision of the KPC is final.

Training participants in live trainings

CEPEJ distinguish these types of trainings:
"A live" training shall be understood as a training conducted in real time. This means that both trainers and participants are physically present in one location or several locations assisted with information technology (digital tools).
"Internet-based" trainings are all trainings that take place over internet, irrespective of the format of the training (such as trainings via specifically designed LMS - Learning Management System platforms, webinars, podcasts and other forms of downloadable lectures and self-learning digital tools). The internet-based training shall be understood as e-training that is implemented according to participant own pace and time of training.

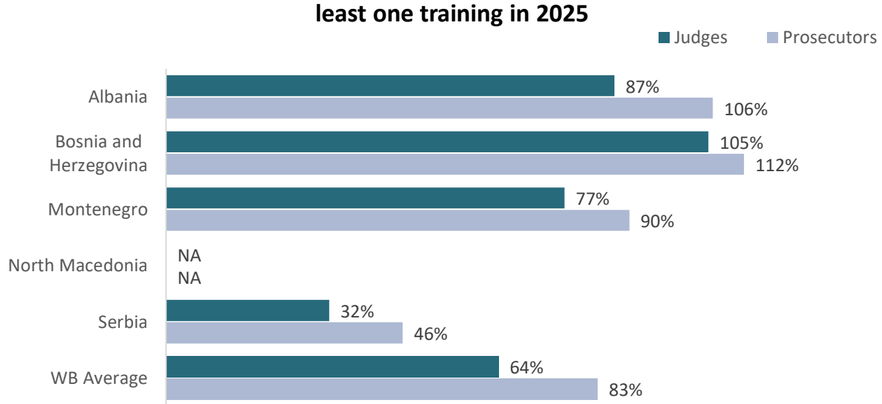
Figure 7.4 Average number of live training participations per judge/prosecutor in 2025



The average number of live training participations per professional is calculated by dividing the number of participants in live trainings by the number of professionals (for each professional category). For example, the WB Average for judges is 2,9. This means that, on average, each judge in the region participated to 2,9 live trainings.

Albania

Q10 (2025): One judicial training institution covers the training of the categories of judges, prosecutors, non-judge staff, non-prosecutor staff.

Q10 (2024): Its the same institution for both the training of judges and prosecutors. The institution in charge for the training of magistrate is School of Magistrate Q10 (2023): The implemented budget in EURO is calculated by the average of exchange rate for the reference year 2023 that is 108.75. The budget in ALL is 461 639 120. The increase in the previous cycle can be explained by the increase of the number of candidates for magistrates attending the Initial Training Program, the increase of number of trainings of the Continuous Training Program, and the increase of salaries for the State Administration.

Q10 (2022): The amount provided by the State Budget to the School of Magistrates is 2 470 872 EURO

The total amount of funds given to the SoM by donors in 2022 is: 1 997 EURO.

Q10-1 (2025): the correct answer is NAP

Q70 (2022): A training topic may be developed regularly or occasionally in different academic years. This is a different variable since the calendar of continuing education training activities itself is variable from one academic year to another. The components that influence the variability of this data are mainly the needs of the justice system for the development of training activities in a specific direction or field, as well as the selection of this topic by the main beneficiaries of continuing education, which are the in-service magistrates.

In other words, after we conduct the needs assessment process and collect the concrete needs of in-service magistrates, we organize the training activities. This is why we have checked the boxes “as needed” intending to say, “according to the needs of the system”. This means that we organize them regularly but according to the needs of the in-service magistrates.

Q72 (General Comment): Initial compulsory training – minimum number of training: The initial training program is a teaching program which operates in teaching hours. We don’t count the teaching hours as training because they start lessons in the morning, usually at 8.30 and finish in the afternoon, usually at around 17.00, like a regular school. Initial compulsory trainings – minimum number of days: There is no minimum number of days. The school year starts on the first Monday of October and end by the end of May of the following year. In-service compulsory trainings – minimum number of trainings per year: The legal obligation for in-service magistrates is 5 training days a month. It does not provide for a minimum number of trainings, but a minimum number of DAYS.

Q72 (2024): Duration of the initial training studies in the Albanian Magistrates School is for 3 academic years. The academic year starts on the first Monday of October and ends by the end of May the following year.

Q72 (2023): 195 - The first and second year of the initial training are divided in two semesters of 15 weeks each of them. A calendar year has 30 weeks, with 5 days of initial training in a week, in total 150 days of initial training in the first year, and 45 days of initial training in the second year.

Q72 (2022): The first and second year of the initial training are divided in two semesters of 15 weeks each of them. A calendar year has 30 weeks, with 5 days of initial training in a week, in total 150 days of initial training in the first year, and 45 days of initial training in the second year.

Q73 (2024): Number of trainings available for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff is equal to the number of training delivered because there are no training activities that are repeated.

Q73 (2022): The total does not match as SoM does not organize trainings only for judges or only for prosecutors. In the table of training activities, trainings are defined which are addressed to a specific target group such as judges, prosecutors, judicial police officers, state lawyers, administrative staff of courts or prosecutions, chancellors, etc. but most of the training activities are open to all subjects whose law recognizes the right to be trained by the School of Magistrates. So, apart from the fact that there are trainings with a certain target group, the same trainings where judges have participated, prosecutors have also participated, especially when it comes to dealing with procedural law, where the confrontation of the prosecutor's perspective with the court is quite important. In this case, in 76 trainings for judges, there were trainings dedicated only to judges, but also trainings where there were judges, prosecutors and other subjects of the justice system.
Q74 (2023): The increase is explained by the increase of available and delivered training activities, as well as the increase of the number of judges and prosecutors in the system after the last two years of graduation from SoM.
Q77 (General Comment): The obligation of magistrates to complete mandatory training comes from Law No. 96/2016 On the Status of Judges and Prosecutors in the Republic of Albania.
Article 5, point 3 defines the mandatory period to be followed by the magistrate in the continuing training as follows:
The period of continuing education should be:
a) not less than five full days per year and not less than 30 full days during five years;
b) not more than 40 days per year and 200 days during five years
Regular follow-up and compliance with the law or not is a component that serves for the professional ethical evaluation of judges and prosecutors by the High Judicial Council and the High Prosecutorial Council, and non-attendance of continuous training can serve to be considered a disciplinary violation.
Article 102, point g
Disciplinary violations related to the exercise of the function:
unjustified non-fulfillment of the obligation to participate at least in the specified number of continuing training activities, according to the conditions and criteria established by law.
Also, the sanction for non-fulfillment of continuing training, which may lead to a disciplinary violation, is defined in articles 112 and 113 of the same law:
Article 112
Complementary disciplinary measures
1. If the magistrate has been convicted by a final decision for criminal offenses in the field of corruption, the Council decides, in addition to the dismissal of the magistrate, also the return of the amount of the gross salary of the last year in office benefited from him.
2. The Council, along with the measures provided for in point 1, letters "b", "c", subsection "i", "ç", "d", of Article 105, of this law, may also decide one of the following additional disciplinary measures:
a) compulsory attendance of specified professional trainings, according to the provision in Article 113 of this law;
b) removal from office of the chairman. Article 113
Complementary measures for training
In support of Article 112, point 2, letter "a", of this law, the Council may impose the additional disciplinary measure of mandatory attendance of specified professional trainings, if the offense committed can be corrected through participation in mandatory training programs. In this case, the decision determines the content and duration of the mandatory training program.

Q86 (General Comment): The assessment of training needs is a process spread over different steps, time and subjects. This process begins with an invitation to propose topics, which is sent to all beneficiaries of continuing training, such as magistrates, state lawyers, judicial police officers; the institutions with which the School of Magistrates cooperates; national and international partners; High Judicial Council; High Prosecutorial Council; Ministry of Justice; internal and external teachers of the School. In short, to every beneficiary or valued entity that can make a contribution to the most coherent and beneficial drafting of the activity calendar. During the drafting of the Calendar, the suggestions given in the Evaluation Forms of each training activity that took place in a previous academic year are also taken into consideration. The approved Draft Calendar is then sent to all the beneficiary subjects where they are asked to apply for participation to the training topics they are interested in. Based on the interest shown, the final topics are approved which will be organized during the next academic year.
Regarding the evaluation of the training activities, at the end of each activity, evaluation forms are distributed to the participants and experts. The participants give their evaluation on the activity, the materials available from the experts, the panel of experts and facilitators as well as the continuing training staff. The experts evaluate the interactivity between the participants as well as between each other.

Bosnia and Herzegovina
Q10 (General Comment): There are two training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina which are responsible for training of judges and prosecutors in two different entities within the state. Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. Many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic experts who are financed directly by external donors. Only some of the external donor funds used for this purpose are included in the budget of the training institutions.
In Bosnia and Herzegovina, there are no institutions specialized in training employees in prosecutor's offices and courts. The training they receive is provided on an ad hoc basis: in house, by relevant civil servant agencies as well as other public sector employees, or to a lesser extent by judicial training institutions (i.e. legal associates of prosecutors and judges). No special budget is allocated for such training.

Q10 (2022): There are two training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina which are responsible for judicial training in two different entities in the country. Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. Their respective adopted budgets for 2022 were: The Judicial and Prosecutorial Training Centre of Republika Srpska - 281 970 EUR. Budget funds for the Center for Education of Judges and Prosecutors in the Republic of Srpska have increased as material costs rose in 2022 due to the growth of inflation. The Judicial and Prosecutorial Training Centre of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina - 333 132 EUR. Many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic experts who are financed by external donors. The external donor funds used for this purpose are not included in the budget of the training institutions. In addition, the training institutions spent grants worth EUR 38.985,57 provided within the specific projects by the external donors in 2022, (i.e. the external donors which provided the grants were: UNICEF, the Council of Europe - SOUTH-EAST EUROPE Freedom of expression, The AIRE Centre - Advice on Individual Rights in Europe).

Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. In addition to the budget funds, the training institutions spend grants provided within the specific projects by the external donors. These amounts vary every year depending on the amount of available external funds. Besides, many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic and/or foreign experts who are financed directly by external donors. External donor funds used for this purpose are not included in the data on the budget of training institutions or in the data on funds directly donated to these institutions, because training institutions do not have this data.

Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. In addition to the budget funds, the training institutions spent grants worth EUR 17 540 provided within the specific projects by the external donors in 2025. These amounts vary every year depending on the amount of available external funds, so the amount of these funds in 2025, which are provided by UNICEF and Advice on Individual Rights in Europe (i.e. AIRE Centre), was higher compared to 2024. In addition to the budget funds (i.e. EUR 680 237), the training institutions spent grants worth EUR 34 485 provided within the specific projects by the external donors in 2023. Besides, many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic and/or foreign experts who are financed by external donors. External donor funds used for this purpose are not included in the data on the budget of training institutions or in the data on funds directly donated to these institutions, because training institutions do not have this data.

Q70 (General Comment): The relevant legislation on juvenile criminal justice requires that in-service training for specialized functions is obligatory for prosecutors and judges assigned to work on criminal cases involving juveniles; they must take certain training courses in order to be able to work on such cases.
This program lasts 4 days and covers 7 topics.
As for general in-service training, the minimum requirement for prosecutors and judges is to attend trainings at the judicial training center for at least 3 days during one year. There is no minimum requirement for prosecutors and judges to attend a certain number of trainings over the course of one year. The judicial office holders may choose between training topics related to the issues they most frequently work on.
In addition, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina decided that as of 2022 an in-service online training on ethics, prevention of corruption and conflicts of interest is compulsory for all judges and prosecutors. Furthermore, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has introduced in 2022 a mandatory managerial training for newly appointed court presidents and chief prosecutors. It includes the following topics: 1) Developing leadership and management skills 2) Proactive role of court presidents and 3) Modern public relations. Moreover, all chief prosecutors and court presidents are required to attend the training on the role of chief prosecutors and court presidents in preserving the judicial integrity.

Q70 (2025): Initial training is compulsory for all newly appointed judges and prosecutors. For more details pls. refer to Q72.
As for general in-service training, the minimum requirement for prosecutors and judges is to attend every year at least 3 days of training at the judicial training center(s). The judicial office holders may choose between various training topics, but the topic selected must be related to the cases they work on.
In 2025, The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has declared the following trainings as mandatory for newly appointed presidents of courts and chief prosecutors: 1) The role of chief prosecutors and court presidents in preserving the judicial integrity, and 2) Developing leadership and management skills. In addition, all presidents of courts and chief prosecutors are obliged to attend training in Modern public relations.
In addition, in 2025 the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina issued a decision that all judges and prosecutors need to renew their knowledge on ethics and conflict of interest by attending online training on ethics, prevention of corruption and conflicts of interest every third year. The relevant legislation on juvenile criminal justice requires that in-service training for specialized functions is obligatory for prosecutors and judges assigned to work on criminal cases involving juveniles. They must attend in full the specialized training provided by JPTCs in order to receive appropriate certificate and be able to work on such cases. This program was revised in Y2025. It lasts 6 days and covers 3 tematic areas. First thematic area „Criminal proceedings involving children and minors“ has the following key areas of study: The etiology and phenomenology of juvenile delinquency from a criminological perspective, the juvenile justice system and international standards based on relevant international legal instruments in the field of children's rights, criminal procedure concerning juveniles, juvenile material and procedural criminal law, as well as the protection of juveniles and an introduction to children's rights. Second thematic area „The application of the Law on the Protection and Treatment of Children and Juveniles in Criminal Proceedings in practice“ covers the following: the use of alternative measures and diversion in criminal proceedings against juveniles, criminal offenses against children, and the implementation of the Law in practice with a focus on the protection and resocialization of child victims through practical examples. Third thematic area „The study of juvenile psychology and the role of guardianship authorities in criminal proceedings against minors“ encompasses an examination of the psychological dimensions of juvenile participation in criminal justice processes, an analysis of the role and significance of guardianship authorities in supporting judicial bodies responsible for conducting proceedings involving juveniles, and experiential learning through visits to institutional facilities. Before attending this specialized program, judges and prosecutors need to finish online CoE HELP module related to Child friendly justice.

The judicial office holders may choose between training topics related to the issues they most frequently work on.
In addition, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina decided that as of 2022 an in-service online training on ethics, prevention of corruption and conflicts of interest is compulsory for all judges and prosecutors. Furthermore, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has introduced in 2022 a mandatory managerial training for newly appointed court presidents and chief prosecutors. It includes the following topics: 1) Developing leadership and management skills 2) Proactive role of court presidents and 3) Modern public relations. Moreover, all chief prosecutors and court presidents are required to attend the training on the role of chief prosecutors and court presidents in preserving the judicial integrity.
Q71 (2025): Same as for Q70.
Q72 (General Comment): IN-SERVICE TRAINING:
The minimum requirement for prosecutors and judges is to attend trainings at the judicial training center for at least 3 days during one year. There is no minimum requirement for prosecutors and judges to attend a certain number of trainings over the course of one year. The judicial office holders may choose between training topics related to the issues they most frequently work on.
INITIAL COMPULSORY TRAINING
The newly appointed prosecutors and judges must undergo an initial training program that is consisted of 11 different trainings; typically, the program lasts for 15 days. In order to qualify for appointment to judicial or prosecutorial office, one must have passed a bar examination and have a certain number of years of practical experience after having passed the bar examination. The program includes topics focused on development of relevant skills, ethics, human rights protection etc. Besides, newly appointed prosecutors receive on the job support and guidance from more experienced prosecutors (i.e. consultative prosecutors). Mentorship system for newly appointed judges is under the development.

Q73 (2025): Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor’s offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centres.

Q73 (2024): Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor's offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centers. In comparison to the previous year, there were disparities in number of participants in internet-based trainings provided on the e-learning platform of the judicial training institutions and other e-learning platforms. This was primarily due to developments related to the online module "Ethics and Integrity", which was transitioned in 2024 from the e-platform of the USAID project in Bosnia and Herzegovina "Judiciary against Corruption" to the e-platform managed by the judicial training institutions. During the transition period, it was not possible to conduct trainings on the aforementioned module. It is planned that this module will be available again in 2025. In addition, most judges and prosecutors attended training in this module during 2023, in accordance with the decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. In addition, although this module was available during 2024 before the transition, judges and prosecutors did not use it for training during that period. This had to do with the fact that most judges and prosecutors had attended training on this module during 2023, in accordance with the decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Training on this module is expected to continue in 2025.

Q73 (2023): Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor's offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centers.
Q74 (2025): In 2025, the number of participants in the trainings slightly rose compared to the previous reporting year because there were more newly appointed judges, prosecutors and professional associates/advisors who were eligible to attend the initial training courses.

Q75 (General Comment): Court presidents and chief prosecutors are counted in the number of judges and prosecutors delivered for: Q31 (Number of professional judges sitting in courts on 31 December 2025., i.e. 1025), Q36 (Number of prosecutors on 31 December 2025, i.e. 352), and Q75 (Number of unique participants of the trainings during the reference year). The number of professional judges sitting in courts on an occasional basis (i.e. 11 reserve judges on 1 January 2025), is not included in the data provided for Q31 and Q75. Data on the number of judges and prosecutors who attended training during the reporting year but left the judiciary before the end of the reporting year due to resignation, retirement, death, etc. were not excluded from Q75. This may lead to inconsistencies between data reported under Q75 with data prepared for Q31 and Q36, as the latter do not include data on judges and prosecutors who left the judiciary during the reporting year.
Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor's offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centers.

Q75 (2025): In 2025, the number of unique participants in live trainings slightly rose compared to the previous reporting year because there were more newly appointed judges, prosecutors and professional associates/advisors who were eligible to attend the initial training courses.

Q75 (2024): Court presidents and chief prosecutors are counted in the number of judges and prosecutors delivered for: Q19 (Number of professional judges sitting in courts on 31 December 2024., i.e. 1044), Q28 (Number of prosecutors on 31 December 2024, i.e. 362), and Q147-2 (Number of unique participants of the trainings during the reference year). The number of professional judges sitting in courts on an occasional basis (i.e. 38 reserve judges on 1 January 2024), that used to be submitted for Q20, is not included in the data provided for Q19 and Q147-2. Data on the number of judges and prosecutors who attended training during the reporting year but left the judiciary before the end of the reporting year due to resignation, retirement, death, etc. were not excluded from Q147-2. This may lead to inconsistencies between data reported under Q147-2 with data prepared for Q19 and Q28, as the latter do not include data on judges and prosecutors who left the judiciary during the reporting year.

Q75 (2022): Court presidents and chief prosecutors are counted in the number of judges and prosecutors delivered for: Q19 (Number of professional judges sitting in courts on 31 December 2022), Q28 (Number of prosecutors on 31 December 2022), and Q147-2 (Number of unique participants of the trainings during the reference year). The number of professional judges sitting in courts on an occasional basis on 31 December 2022 submitted for Q20 is not included in the data provided for Q147-2. The number of professional judges sitting in courts on 31 December 2022 (i.e. 1000) was higher than the number of unique participants of the trainings registered during 2022 (i.e. 1008), as some judges, who attended the trainings, left the judiciary before the end of the reporting year due to resignation, retirement, death etc.
Q76 (2025): Comments:
In comparison to the previous reporting year, there were more courses available on the HELP platform in 2025. In addition, in 2025 newly appointed judges and prosecutors were required, as part of their mandatory initial training course, to complete 4 HELP courses, which was a prerequisite for them to be eligible to attend the further sessions within the mandatory initial training course. Consequently, there was an increase in the number of available online training courses as well as in the number of participants in those courses.

Q86 (2024): The Centers for Training of Judges and Prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina have partially amended the responses for 2024 compared to 2023. These institutions have indicated that the responses are different due to technical mistakes for the previous reporting year. These errors have been amended in the current questionnaire.

Q87 (General Comment): The analysis and creation of training programs is done by the judicial training institutions once a year.
There are two types of evaluation questionnaires that the judicial training institutions use to gather the relevant information:
1. Heads of courts and prosecutor's offices – there is a questionnaire aimed at collecting their proposals with regards to topics they find relevant for their respective institutions.
2. All judges and prosecutors – there is a questionnaire which has a purpose to obtain their proposals with regards to topics they think should be included in the annual training programs.
In addition, the judicial training institutions cooperate with the Standing Committee for Training of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina trough the analysis of relevant case - law.

Q88 (General Comment): The Centers for Training of Judges and Prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina are using the Kirkpatrick training evaluation model except that the trainings are not evaluated after 6 months or after a year from the date of realization.
Q89 (General Comment): For all judicial office holders and non-judicial staff (all topics except the ethics) only post-training satisfaction questionnaires are used.
The questionnaires are anonymous and contain three parts:
1. The first part: satisfaction with technical realization, satisfaction with the trainer and topic, 2. The second part is evaluation of the trainer - methodology, communication, knowledge sharing,
3. The third part are comments related to improvement of training, personal impressions and proposals of new topics.
The training grades range from 1 to 5 (5 being the highest grade).

Q10 (2025): The Centre is an independent legal entity. (Article 2 paragraph 1 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)) and the only institution in charge of providing training activites to representatives of Montenegrin judiciary. The Centre organizes and implement trainings for judges and state prosecutors. Centre can also organize and implement trainings for attorneys-at-law, notaries, bailiffs, advisers, clerks and trainees in courts and state prosecution offices (hereinafter referred to as: special trainings), according to this law. (Article 3 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)).
The total amount presented reflects the funds allocated within the Centre's budget for the previous year for the organization of training activities, including in-service training, initial training and specialized training. The amount shown in Table 2 specifically represents the funds spent on the in-service training of judges and state prosecutors. It should be noted that, within the overall budget, a portion of the total amount presented was also allocated to non-judge and non-prosecutor participants, as well as to candidates for judicial and prosecutorial positions; however, these amounts are not presented separately in numerical terms.

Q10 (2024): Out of the total amount of the implemented budget of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution (CTJSP) stated in the table above, the funds in amount of 4.838,23 € come from the donation - THE GRANT AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE COUNCIL OF EUROPE AND THE CENTRE FOR TRAINING IN JUDICIARY AND STATE PROSECUTION OF MONTENEGRO.

Q70 (2025): Judges and state prosecutors shall have the right and duty to attend the in-service training for at least two working days annually for which they are to apply based on their own interest. (Article 45 paragraph 2 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)). The training is not compulsory for judges of specialized courts (except for the mentioned two days per year), however, the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution in the framework of the In-service Training Program organizes regular training for judges of specialized courts at the annual level (judges of Commercial Court and Administrative Court). The only compulsory specialized training is the training for judges for the juveniles (who are the only ones competent to act in criminal proceedings with juveniles) according to the Law on the Treatment of Juveniles in Criminal Proceedings). All judges in charge of juveniles went through the specialized training. The trainings for management functions in courts are organized in accordance with current needs and, thus, these are not compulsory.

Q72 (2023): The mandatory duration of the initial training is defined by the provision from Article 42 of the Law on the Center for Training in the Judiciary and the State Prosecutor's Office.
The initial training for candidates for judges of the basic court, that is, for candidates for state prosecutors in the basic state prosecutor's office lasts 18 months, of which six months are theoretical training and 12 months are practical training.
Converted into days of theoretical training, that is 128 days of six hours of training per training day.
The initial training for candidates for misdemeanor judges lasts nine months, of which three months are theoretical training, and six months practical training, and is conducted at the Center, that is, the Court for Misdemeanors in Podgorica.
Converted into days of theoretical training, that is 60 days of six hours of training per training day.
The initial training for candidates for judges in the Commercial Court of Montenegro lasts six months, of which 40 hours per month of theoretical training are conducted in the Center, i.e. the Commercial Court of Montenegro.
Converted into days of theoretical training, that is 44 days of six hours of training per training day.
The initial training for candidates for judges of the Administrative Court of Montenegro lasts four months, of which 20 hours per month of theoretical training are conducted in the Center, i.e. the Administrative Court of Montenegro.
Converted into days of theoretical training, it is 16 days of training of six hours per training day.
Judges and state prosecutors shall have the right and duty to attend the in-service training for at least two working days annually for which they are to apply based on their own interest. (Article 45 paragraph 2 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution (“Official Gazette of Montenegro” no. 58/2015)).

Q73 (2025): During 2025, the Centre for Training in the Judiciary and State Prosecution, in accordance with the adopted 2025 In- service Training Programme, implemented 70 activities, amounting to a total of 122 training days. In addition to the aforementioned Programme, and within the framework of the continuous training of judges and state prosecutors, a further 46 activities were carried out. This brings the total number of In-service training activities for judges and state prosecutors to 116, implemented either independently by the Centre or in cooperation with the Centre's partners.
The number of 122 training days refers exclusively to the training activities implemented under the 2025 In-service Training Programme. Therefore, the overall number of training days is not precise and should be considered as NA.
N/A. In-service training activities are organized jointly for judges and state prosecutors; therefore, it is not possible to disaggregate the number of training activities or training days by these categories. In addition, separate data for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff cannot be provided, as training activities are also attended by advisors from courts and state prosecution offices.
The Centre's e-learning platform is operational. So far, two courses have been developed and uploaded to the platform. These courses are intended for all legal professionals and holders of judicial offices and are not designed for specific professional categories

Q73 (2022): - In cooperation with HELP Programme for the Western Balkans and Turkey, Council of Europe (The European Programme for Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals), the Centre organized 2 (two) HELP e-learning courses and participated in 1 (one) regional HELP online course:
- The first HELP online course – e-learning (21 February to 21 April 2022) - The total pf 40 participants successfully completed this course (in effective duration of 12 hours) - 8 judges, 3 state prosecutors, 12 advisors from courts, 3 advisors from state prosecution offices, 3 trainees from courts, 2 candidates for judges, 4 candidates for state prosecutors, 2 lawyers and 3 representatives of the Ministry of Justice and Human and Minority Rights of Montenegro.
- The second HELP online course - e-learning (21 September – 21 November 2022) - The total of 38 participants successfully completed this course (in effective duration of 18 hours) – 7 judges, 1 state prosecutor, 11 advisors from courts, 5 trainees from courts, 1 candidate for a judge, 3 lawyers, 6 representatives of the Ministry of Justice of Montenegro, 3 representatives of LGBTQ organizations and 1 representative of the Institution of the Protector of Human Rights and Freedoms of Montenegro (Ombudsman).
- The regional HELP online course (29 March – 29 May 2022) organized by the Council of Europe HELP Programme and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) – the participants herein attended separate courses in relation to the country they come from, which were translated into all languages of the Western Balkan countries and adapted to respective national legislation. The total of 11 participants successfully completed this course – 2 judges, 3 advisors from courts, 2 trainees from courts, 2 representatives of the Ministry of Justice of Montenegro, 1 representative of the Notary Office in Cetinje and 1 representative of the Ministry of Finance and Social Welfare.
The Centre participates in the activities offered by the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN) despite its status of an observer. During 2022, owing to the Centre's role of an intermediary and the invitation to participate in training activities, 19 representatives of the Montenegrin judiciary (14 judges, 2 state prosecutor, 2 trainees from courts and 1 advisor from a court) participated herein. These training activities encompassed 6 one-hour online seminars, 1 two-and-a-half-hour online seminar, 1 two-day online workshop, 2 two-day virtual study visits to the ECtHR and 1 in-person seminar.
- Finally, in 2022, owing to the role of the Centre as an intermediary and the invitation to participate in online training activities and face-to-face activities organised by foreign partners (at the regional and European level), the total of 108 representatives of Montenegrin judiciary participated in 38 training activities (51 judges, 15 special prosecutors, 18 state prosecutors, 13 candidates for a judge, 4 advisors from Special State Prosecution Office, 4 advisors from state prosecution offices, 1 advisor from a court and 2 trainees in courts). – PLEASE NOTE : This number DOES NOT include unique participants. Note: (comment ref. column 5) In total, 16,5 training days: (3 HELP courses: two 12-hour courses (4 training days) and one 18-hours course (3 training days) + EJTN two-day online workshop (2 training days), 2 EJTN two-day virtual study visits to the ECtHR (4 training days), 1 EJTN two-day in-person seminar (2 training days) + 6 one-hour online seminars and 1 two-and-a-half-hour online seminar (1 and a half training day))

Q74 (2025): Given that In-service training is primarily intended for judges and state prosecutors, the data provided refers to the number of judges and state prosecutors out of the total number of active judges and state prosecutors.
N/A. At this stage, the Centre does not yet have statistical data on the number of holders of judicial offices and legal professionals who have attended the e-learning courses, considering that users have only recently been informed that the platform has been adapted and is fully functional.
N/A. Data on the number of non-judge and non-prosecutor staff is not considered relevant in this context. Although, as previously noted, advisors and other non-judge and non-prosecutor may attend certain training activities within the framework of In-service training, the Centre has recently established a dedicated department responsible for the specialized training of advisors and trainees in courts and state prosecution offices, as well as lawyers, notaries and public enforcement agents. Therefore, participation of these categories is primarily monitored through the activities organized by this department.
During 2025, the Centre organized theoretical training sessions for a total of 72 judicial trainees in courts and state prosecution offices. Out of the total number of trainees, 52 were assigned to courts, while the remaining 20 were assigned to state prosecution offices.
The discrepancy is due to the methodology used for reporting participants in in-service training activities. In-service trainings are often organized jointly for judges and state prosecutors, while certain training modules are intended primarily for judges (particularly in the field of civil law). Training activities within the criminal law module are generally attended by both judges and prosecutors.
As a result, the distribution of participants between judges and prosecutors varies depending on the subject matter and target group of each activity. In addition, only one training activity during the reporting period, dedicated to financial investigations, was attended exclusively by state prosecutors and was therefore reported solely under prosecutors' participation.

Q74 (2023): And 310 other participants not included in this categories
Q74 (2022): In addition, as per the column one 121 other participants (representatives of state institutions, law enforcement officers, lawyers, etc) undergone trough training.
Comment: The participants in the training activities also included other legal professionals, i.e. the representatives of the Ministry of Justice (and Human and Minority Rights), notary public offices, the Ministry of Finance and Social Welfare, LGBTQ organizations and Institution of the Protector of Human Rights and Freedoms of Montenegro (Ombudsman).
Note: (comment ref. column 3 - Total): The total of 108 participants in training activities includes: 31 judges, 6 prosecutors, 42 non-judge staff (3 candidates for judges + 27 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts), 7 non-prosecutor staff (4 candidates for state prosecutors + 3 advisors from state prosecution offices), 22 legal professionals from other public institutions (5 lawyers, 11 the Ministry of Justice (and Human and Minority Rights) + 1 notary public offices + 1 the Ministry of Finance and Social Welfare + 3 LGBTQ organizations + 1 Institution of the Protector of Human Rights and Freedoms of Montenegro (Ombudsman).
Note: (comment ref. column 3 - Non-judge staff): 3 candidates for judges + 27 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts.
Note: (comment ref. column 3 - Non-prosecutor staff): 4 candidates for state prosecutors + 3 advisors from state prosecution offices.
In non-prosecutor and non-judge staff we did not count trainees/interns in courts and state prosecution offices. The Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution implements theoretical part of professional training of trainees/interns in courts and state prosecution offices, in accordance with the Law on Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices and Bar Examination ("Official Gazette of Montenegro", no. 55/2016 and 57/2016) and upon the Training Programme for Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices which was adopted in January 2018. In 2022, the CTJSP organized training for 108 interns, of which 88 are interns in courts and 20 in state prosecutor's offices. The trainees were divided into five groups, and a total of 23 trainings were conducted (2 live and 21 online), i.e. 55 days of training.

Q75 (2025): At this stage, the Centre does not maintain disaggregated statistical data on participation by gender. The internal data collection and reporting system is still being further developed and currently does not allow for the extraction of training participation data broken down by women and men. Efforts are ongoing to improve internal monitoring mechanisms in order to enable more detailed statistical reporting in the future.
Q76 (2025): there were no internet based trainings
Q76 (2024): And 18 other participants (representatives of state institutions, law enforcement officers, attorney-at-law, etc).
The participants in the training activities also included other legal professionals, i.e. attorneys-at-law, representatives of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution, Center for Women's Rights and the manager of the court registry.
Note (comment ref. row 1 - Total): The total of 109 participants in training activities includes: 29 judges, 22 prosecutors, 30 non-judge staff (2 candidate for a judge + 16 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts), 10 non-prosecutor staff (1 candidates for state prosecutors + 9 advisors from state prosecution offices), 18 legal professionals from other public institutions (15 attorneys-at-law) + 1 representative of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution + 1 representative of the Center for Women's Rights + 1 manager of the court registry.
Note (comment ref. row 4 - Non-judge staff): 2 candidates for judges + 16 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts.
Note (comment ref. row 5 - Non-prosecutor staff): 1 candidate for a state prosecutor + 9 advisors from state prosecution offices.
- In cooperation with HELP Programme for the Western Balkans and Turkey, Council of Europe (The European Programme for Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals), the Centre organized 4 (four) HELP e-learning courses:
- The first HELP online course – e-learning (4 March to 21 April 2024) - The total of 18 participants successfully completed this course on the topic Judicial Reasoning and Human Rights (in effective duration of 20 hours) - 4 judges, 4 advisors from courts, 4 trainees from courts, 1 candidate for a judge, 4 attorneys-at-law and 1 manager of the court registry.
- The second HELP online course – e-learning (26 April to 18 July 2024) - The total of 25 participants successfully completed this course on the topic of Access to Justice for Women (in effective duration of 20 hours) - 4 judges, 5 state prosecutors, 3 advisors from courts, 2 advisors from state prosecution, 1 candidate for judges, 1 candidate for state prosecution, 7 attorneys-at-law, 1 representative of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution and 1 representative of the Center for Women's Rights. - The third HELP online course - e-learning (3 June – 31 July 2024) - The total of 1 participant successfully completed this course on the topic of The Importance of Quality of Justice in Mediation (in effective duration of 25 hours) – 1 judge.
- The fourth HELP online course – e-learning (4 October to 1 December 2024) - The total of 41 participant successfully completed this course on the topic of Procedural Safeguards in Criminal Proceedings and Victim's Rights (in effective duration of 26 hours) - 12 judges, 5 state prosecutors, 9 advisors from courts, 2 advisors from state prosecution, 8 trainees from courts, 4 attorneys-at-law and 1 representative of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution. - The Centre participates in the activities offered by the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN) within EJTN - Pilot Action on Judicial Training (Western Balkans II Project) that project was launched in March 2022 for a period of three years. It is implemented within the "IPA II Multi-country Action Programme 2020" and benefits from the financial support of the European Commission's Directorate-General for Neighbourhood and Enlargement Negotiations (DG NEAR). The main goal of the Project is to strengthen the capacities of the judicial training institutions in the Western Balkans for delivery of effective and efficient judicial training to judges and prosecutors on the EU acquis, including on the rule of law, with a view to support the enlargement and stabilisation and association process, as well as the Western Balkan Strategy of the European Union. The Project works across two closely related components. The first component, which identifies the Serbian Judicial Academy (JA) and the Montenegrin Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution (CTJSP) as the primary beneficiaries of the action, aims to Q77 (General Comment): The Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution does not stipulate penalties for judges who do not participate in training activities. However, when the work of judges is evaluated by the Judicial Council, one of the sub-criteria is participation in training activities. Therefore, if judges do not participate in training activities, it may have a negative effect on the overall evaluation of the work of judges.

Q77 (2025): Judges and state prosecutors shall have the right and duty to attend the in-service training for at least two working days annually for which they are to apply based on their own interest. (Article 45 paragraph 2 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)). According to the Law on the Judicial Council and Judges "Official Gazette of Montenegro", No. 11/2015, 28/2015, 42/2018, and 60/2024, it is stipulated that the general abilities and professional activities of a judge are assessed based on the following sub-criteria: communication skills; ability to adapt to changing circumstances; participation in various professional activities. Participation in various professional activities is assessed based on the judge's involvement in training and other professional activities. Therefore, it is important to fulfill the required number of training sessions prescribed by the Law on the Center, because the final assessment of the judge depends on their further advancement in service.

Q85 (2025): Comments
One training session was organized within Phase III of the joint European Union–Council of Europe programme, “Horizontal Facility for the Western Balkans and Turkey 2023–2026”, which supports the implementation of reform agendas in the fields of human rights, rule of law, and democracy, and assists in aligning with European standards and EU legal acquis where relevant. The training was conducted under the “Strengthening Justice” theme, specifically within the project “Accountability and Professionalism in the Justice System”.
All other training activities were conducted within the framework of the 2025 In-service Training Programme for Judges and State Prosecutors, organized independently by the Centre.

Q86 (2025): Before adopting an annual training programme, the Centre conducts training needs assessment on the basis of the Training Needs Assessment Methodology developed with the support of the Council of Europe within the project "Accountability and Professionalism of the Judicial System in Montenegro", i.e. the Horizontal Facility for the Western Balkans and Turkey II. This methodology is based on a comprehensive approach which includes various qualitative and quantitative research tools and methods. This includes collecting data by sending electronic questionnaires to judges and state prosecutors who express their interests and needs for training, but also through focus group meetings and interviews with the training programme beneficiaries, which serve as a basis for preparation of the annual training programme. The Centre also takes into account the review of legislation, reports and strategic documents, letters from national institutions and organizations, contributions from professional associations and non-governmental organizations, analysis of other available statistical data, expert assessments and, of course, the Progress Report of Montenegro prepared by the EU Commission, as well as other relevant recommendations. The Centre also uses the Google Analytics platform, i.e. a questionnaire for collecting opinions and suggestions of key target groups, i.e. judges The invitation link is sent to all judges through court presidents. When it comes to focus groups, first of all, the Centre carefully selects the members of these focus groups on an annual basis and then at the meetings the Centre gains a deeper insight into their views, opinions and suggestions. There are three focus groups - for criminal law, civil law and misdemeanor law. When it comes to the judges of the Commercial Court and the Administrative Court, due to the small number of these judges, the Centre usually conducts an interview with them in order to take into account their opinion. The Supreme State Prosecutor’s Office prepares a separate Training Needs Analysis (TNA) for prosecutors and submits it to the Centre.

From 2023 a set of questions about the EU law was included in the questionnaire with the help of the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN). The main expected result hereof was development of a Training Programme on the EU acquis, consisting of 5 (five) face-to-face and 1 (one) online seminar, which has been incorporated into the CTJSP’s Annual Training Programme in 2023 and 2024. Namely, the EJTN appointed two experts who worked on conducting the analysis of the results of the TNA in cooperation with the Centre from November to December 2022. These experts contributed to the TNA with elaboration of survey questions, participation in focus groups meetings, discussions with project beneficiaries and other relevant stakeholders, as well as with drafting a proposal for organization of training courses on the EU law and recommendations for improvement of the TNA process.

Q88 (General Comment): The so-far evaluation carried out by the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution was aimed at measuring satisfaction of participants in training activities, immediately after the training activity.
Through evaluation questionnaires, which are filled out at the end of the training, we examined whether and to what extent the participants are satisfied with the training programme, owing to which we obtain average grades by taking into account the following:
- to what extent the participants' expectations are fulfilled;
- satisfaction with the offered material;
- general evaluations of the training activity;
- knowledge self-assessment before and after the training; (i.e. positive differences in self-assessment of participants' knowledge before and after the training);
- proposals for future topics;
- and acceptability of the teaching method or the way in which the lecture was implemented.
In the evaluation questionnaire, special attention is paid to the assessment of the quality of lecturers, where the following is assessed: - Quality of lectures; - Adherence to scheduled duration of lectures; - Communication and interaction with participants in the training activity; - Clarity and interestingness of the presentation; - Mastery of knowledge transfer skills; - Applicability in practice when it comes to the contents of the lecture and the materials shared during the training; - Demonstrated motivation.
Taking into account the above, the Centre interprets the results and opinions presented in the evaluation form, and adapts its training offer to the suggestions provided by the participants (and based on the analysis, the Centre can also change the lecturers).
In addition, the Rulebook on Lecturers prescribes the obligation of lecturers to submit a report after the training (where the lecturer himself expresses his opinion on success of the training, whether the topic was relevant, involvement of the participants, etc.). At the end of 2022, the Centre started to amend its Rulebook on Lecturers. The amendment hereof foresees introduction of a questionnaire that will be distributed to participants both at the beginning and at the end of the training, with the same questions, in order to measure knowledge improvement in terms of specific training activity, i.e. training topic.
Furthermore, the Centre monitors implementation of its Annual Training Programmes through quantitative indicators of success, such as the number of implemented programmes, implemented training activities, and the number and structure of the participants. In this way, the Centre can obtain the number of the most attended training activities (through average attendance and the interest expressed in attending the training).
When it comes to the measurement of real effects of the training activity (in addition to the evaluation questionnaires after completion of the training, sending of questionnaires after a certain period of time), we believe that the best indicator of the effects of the training activities is the analysis of judicial practice, i.e. the way in which judges and state prosecutors apply acquired knowledge in their daily practice. The Centre carries out this type of evaluation exceptionally and in cooperation with international partners, within the projects related to a specific area. For example, such an analysis was carried out in relation to the freedom of expression, when court decisions were analysed, the number of court decisions and the manner in which international standards were applied in connection with Article 10 of the ECHR, in the time period before and during the implementation of the

- first phase - theoretical teaching at the Academy lasting nine months and
- second stage - practical teaching in courts and public prosecutor's offices and others institutions, in accordance with the initial training program lasting 15 months.
The initial training is organized in three modules. Each module contains 7 subjects, or total of 21 subjects. The first and second modules are composed of 414 hours, while the third module is composed of 207 hours. Initial training contains 1035 hours in total. One teaching hour equals 40 minutes.
The Academy conducts compulsory training for judges and public prosecutors, in accordance with Article 5 of the Rules for Continuous Training, which they must attend as soon as they are elected. The number of mandatory days of training on an annual level decreasing gradually, as the judge's /the prosecutor seniority increases. Failure to meet the required number of training days on an annual level may even lead to deducting points, i.e. obtaining a lower annual grade, which, further, may make it more difficult for the concerned judge, i.e. public prosecutor, to be promoted in the future.
According to Article 7 paragraph 4, new elected judges and public prosecutors are obliged, of their choice, to attend intensive continuous training lasting five working days, which is carried out on the basis of a specialized program (divided into two modules: criminal and civil) for mandatory continuous training. Judges/public prosecutors with up to 3 years of experience are obliged to attend a total of 10 days of training.
1-3 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=10 days of training
3-8 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=6 days of training
8-15 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=4 days of training over 15 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=2 days of training

Q72 (2023): During initial training the users of the initial training have the obligation to pass 4 HELP courses.
Q73 (2025): There is a discrepancy due to the specific training provided for a specific target group and each one is counted (calculated) separately
Q73 (2024): Judicial Academy is continuously working to improve its training programs, therefore there might be a discrepancy regarding the number of participants, number of trainings, different offered trainings in regards to topics etc. and it all depends on the yearly demands and expectations of the all public institutions which take active participation in our programs, both in vivo and online. Moreover, at the end of each year Judicial Academy conducts a training needs analysis which is a guiding reference for the future trainings.

Q73 (2023): In 2023 the priority of the Judicial Academy was the development and the promotion of the Academy's new distance learning platform-LMS platform as well as development of the e-learning courses and e-library. That is the reason of the decreased number of live trainings delivered in comparison to 2022.
Q73 (2022): A large number of trainings includes few groups of stakeholders, such as police officers, lawyers, social workers, NGO representatives, tax administration officials and others, depending on the topic discussed of the specific training, and not only judges and prosecutors. Also, where possible and appropriate, Judicial Academy gathers judges, prosecutors, judicial and prosecutorial assistants and the users of the initial training of the Judicial Academy at the same trainings. This is the reason why total number of all participants is higher than the sum of the number of judges, prosecutors, non-judge and non-prosecutor staff who attended the trainings. For example, in 2022 Judicial Academy trained, together with judges and prosecutors, 1105 police officers and 643 lawyers.

Q86 (General Comment): The annual training needs assessment primarily consists of the collection of qualitative and quantitative data from the target group -users of the training programs, as well as a wide range of partners in the implementation of the educational activities. The methodology used includes surveys and focus groups. Quantitative data is collected using standardised questionnaires adapted to the job analysis and the educational characteristics of the target audience. Focus groups with relevant representatives of courts and prosecutor's offices (representatives of the judicial practice department, presidents of the departments, first deputies, and users of initial training) are organised for the purpose of checking the quality of data obtained through surveys, but also for the purpose of obtaining more complex information in order to improve the quality of training and better functionalisation of the curriculum. Taking into account the complexity of the role of judges and prosecutors, the Judicial Academy also conducts an analysis of all relevant strategic documents and legal regulations, when constructing instruments for training needs analysis. Before sending the questionnaire, Judicial Academy regularly communicates with all important judicial bodies involved in defining the criteria for assessing the work performance of judges and prosecutors, in order to more comprehensively analyse the educational needs and make the curriculum sufficiently adaptable to the general and specific needs of the target audience.

Q90 (General Comment): Assessment of satisfaction with some aspects of the training is carried out immediately after the training. Assessment of changes in knowledge is carried out using standardized pre and post tests. When the structure of the educational activity allows, the Judicial Academy evaluates the medium and long-term effects of the training. The medium-term effects are determined using a standardized questionnaire for assessing knowledge retention and the possibility of application in daily work. It is conducted two to three months after the training. The long-term effects of the training are carried out by a comparative analysis of the changes in the daily work of the participants also 6 months after the training.

Q10 (2025): The Academy of Justice is the only public and independent institution mandated to train judges, prosecutors, and judicial and prosecutorial administrative staff. When possible and upon request—though not required—the Academy also provides training to other legal professionals and members of the free professions, such as state attorneys, bankruptcy administrators, mediators, enforcement officers, and notaries, who are otherwise served by their own institutions. The Academy's budget is unified for the fulfillment of its mandate, with no separate budget lines allocated to specific beneficiary categories. The initial budget for 2025 was €864,973.00, while the final budget across all categories amounted to €737,099.16. Of this, €218,560.00 was dedicated exclusively to education and training services.

Q10 (2022): Based on the Law on the Academy of Justice, Kosovo has a joint institution that provides training for judges and prosecutors, administrative staff of courts and prosecutors' offices, as well as, according to the possibility and requirements, also for the free professions and other legal professionals.
The budget that was available for the year 2022 is a total of 660,149 euros, within which were all expenses for training, staff payments and other categories of goods and services. With the Law on the Budget of the Republic of Kosovo for the year 2022, the initial budget for this year was 660,149.00 euros, for all economic categories including salaries and wages, goods and services and municipal expenses.
The total amount of donations made for 2022 was 27,007.11 euros, from JUFREX the donation is 12,007.11 euros, of which 4,227.11 are carryovers from 2021 and 7,780.00 euros are donations this year, a donation of 15,000.00 euros was made by UNDP this year, while 24,607.11 euros were spent from the total donations for this year, and the remainder for the next year is 2,400.00 euros unspent donation from UNDP.

Q10-1 (2025): Out of 190 training activities conducted within the framework of continuous training, 49 were funded by donors. The Academy of Justice does not hold information on the financial value of these activities, as they were managed directly by the donors themselves. These donor-funded trainings were supported through various projects and organizations, including the Council of Europe, CYBERKOP, CEPEJ, the project Support to the Constitutional Court in the Implementation and Dissemination of the Standards of the European Court of Human Rights, Approximation of Laws and Policies with the Istanbul Convention, PRO-FREX-K (Protecting Freedom of Expression and of the Media), the Coalition of NGOs for the Protection of Children (KOMF), GIZ, the Humanitarian Law Center Kosovo, IRZ (German Foundation for International Legal Cooperation), NGO Terres des Hommes, OSCE, the European Union Home Affairs Programme in Kosovo Project (HAPE), the Balkan Investigative Reporting Network (BIRN), the Magistrates' School in Albania, UNDP, UNHCR, the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), and the Western Balkan Rule of Law Initiative (WBROLI).

Q70 (General Comment): It is mandatory for the specialized functions, for leading functions, and for other aspects for sitting judges who by the Performance Evaluation Committee for judges are rated as "good" and "sufficient". Judges with the performance rating of "good" are obliged to attend three trainings, namely training on Ethics, Case Management, and Drafting of Court Decisions. Judges that are evaluated with the rating of "Sufficient" will attend the tree aforementioned trainings as well as trainings in the areas established as findings by the Performance Evaluation Committee. Judges that receive evaluation rating above the grades of "Sufficient" and "Good" are exempt from the mandatory trainings.

Q70 (2025): According to the applicable legislation for courts, in addition to the initial training that is legally required for newly appointed judges, further training is also mandatory in specific circumstances: when there are substantial changes in legislation, upon promotion to a higher judicial level, when assigned to a specialized field, when appointed as court president, during performance evaluations, and when required by strategic documents. The Academy of Justice is obliged only to design programs and implement them upon request. In 2025, the Academy received a request from the Kosovo Judicial Council (KJC) to conduct mandatory training for one serving judge following a performance evaluation. Based on the approved program, seven training sessions were delivered, totaling 21 hours of instruction.

Q70 (2022): General training during service, or continuous training for judges as stated by the Law on the Academy of Justice is in principle voluntary, while the training quota is determined by the KJC for mandatory training within the year.
Also, for specialized functions, such as the case for a judge of the Economic Court, training is mandatory.
Training for CMIS has been mandatory training. In the reporting period, there was a training for Registers, statistical reports and dashboards of CMIS which was dedicated to the administrative staff of the courts, namely heads of the office for case management, statistical officers, administrators and assistant administrators of the courts in which they participated 35 participants from all courts.
We have highlighted the in-service training on child-friendly justice as optional for all judges, since all without exception have the opportunity to participate in training, while juvenile judges choose to continue training in this field as they are within the scope of their work competencies.
In-service ethics training is mandatory for all judges except for judges who are 2 years before retirement. However, for 2022, the Judicial Council has removed the obligation for ethics training, which is why we have emphasized that it was optional.
In addition to professional training, the program also offers interdisciplinary training, which is why judges also participate in other trainings during their service.
Q71 (General Comment): In principle, in-service training of prosecutors is voluntary, however, during a calendar year, all prosecutors must attend at least three training sessions, one on ethics, when there are legislative changes, and when promoted or advanced from one department to another or when moving to a management position. Other cases are also based on performance evaluation by the Performance Evaluation Committee for Prosecutors.
Q71 (2025): In principle, continuous (in-service) training for prosecutors is voluntary. However, within each calendar year, all prosecutors are required to attend at least three training sessions: one on ethics, one addressing legislative changes, and one when they are promoted, transferred to another department, or appointed to a management position. Additional mandatory training may also be required based on performance evaluations conducted by the Commission for the Evaluation of the Performance of Prosecutors. All such trainings are organized at the request of the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council. In 2025, the Academy of Justice did not receive any requests from the Prosecutorial Council for mandatory in-service training of prosecutors, apart from the compulsory initial training for 24 newly appointed prosecutors, who represent the Academy's eleventh generation of prosecutors in initial training.
Q71 (2022): In principle, ongoing training for prosecutors is voluntary, however, during a calendar year, all prosecutors must participate in at least three (3) trainings. All trainings according to the order in the questionnaire can become mandatory if this is assessed by the Unit for review and evaluation of performance in the KPK and in cases where there are legislative changes, when the prosecutor is promoted in office as well as for professional ethics.
According to Regulation No. 01/2020 for training and professional development in the prosecutorial system, Ethics training is mandatory.
For each field according to the weight, the same description applies as for the judges.

Q72 (2025): For judges out of the 245 days of compulsory training, 117 days are theoretical training at the Academy of Justice and 128 days are practical training (120 days in the respective courts of appointment and 8 in other non-judicial institutions). Whereas, for prosecutors, out of the 245 days of compulsory training, 100 days are theoretical training at the Academy of Justice and 145 days are practical training (137 days in the respective prosecutor's offices of appointment and 8 in other non-judicial institutions).
During 2025, four generations of newly appointed judges and one generation of newly appointed prosecutors attended initial training. The XI, XII, XIII, and XIV generations comprised a total of 86 new judges, while the XI generation of prosecutors included 24 newly appointed members. The XI and XII generations of judges successfully completed all theoretical and practical training sessions during 2025. The XIII and XIV generations are still in progress, with their programs scheduled to continue into 2026. Similarly, the XI generation of prosecutors is currently undergoing theoretical and practical training, which will extend into January 2026 until the completion of all sessions in accordance with the program.

Q72 (2024): Initial compulsory training for judges includes:116 days of theoretical training in KJA
118 days of practical training in Courts, as well as 8 days of practical training in other non-judicial institutions Initial compulsory training for prosecutors includes:87 days of theoretical training in KJA
158 days of practical training in Prosecution Offices, as well as 8 days of practical training in other non-judicial institutions
Q72 (2022): In-service compulsory trainings - minimum number of days per year - Judges with work experience over 20 years - 2 (two) days.
Judges with work experience over 10 to 20 years - 5 (five) days.
Judges with work experience from 5 to 10 years - 6 (six) days.
Judges with experience from 3 to 5 years-7 (seven) days.
Per prosecutors the number of days is set according to the request of the KPC.
Regarding In-service compulsory trainings - minimum number of trainings per year it is indicated 1 as the minimum days and it varies from 1 to 7.
Regarding In-service compulsory trainings - minimum number of days per year it is indicated 2 and it varies from 2 to 7.
Mandatory initial training - means for newly appointed judges and prosecutors that in total they have to continue the training in 12 months, 6 months of theoretical training at the Law Academy and 6 months at the respective courts/prosecution offices where they are appointed .
During the reporting period in the framework of the trainings for judges, 206 days of training were carried out, divided into two groups (for two groups of 103 days each) because the training started in July 2022. While for the procurator, a total of 112 days of training were carried out.
Q73 (2025): In 2025, a total of 83 training sessions were conducted. Of these, 48 were joint sessions for judges and prosecutors, out of them 2 were held exclusively for prosecutors. Additionally, 87 training activities were organized specifically for employees in the judicial administration, and 4 for administrative staff of the prosecutorial system. Furthermore, 11 joint trainings were conducted for professional associates and legal officers of courts and prosecutorial offices, along with 3 joint trainings for administrative staff of both the judiciary and prosecution. Through the HELP platform, two joint courses were also delivered in 2025, covering the topics Human Rights and the Environment and The Right to Liberty and Security – Article 5. These courses were attended by judges, prosecutors, professional associates, and legal officers of courts and prosecutorial offices.

Q73 (2022): -In the total number of trainings 209, there were also 114 joint trainings for judges and prosecutors, 145 continuous trainings programme, 10 trainings for free legal professions, 7 training of trainers. For non-judge staff and For non-prosecutor staff there were 33 joint trainings.
-Regarding the category Number of days of delivered live (in person, hybrid, video conference) trainings, the total number of 354 days includes 237 trainings jointly for judges and prosecutors, 35 days trainings only for judges, 10 days only for prosecutors, 36 days of trainings jointly for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff. Furthermore, there were 10 days training for free legal professions and 19 days for trainings for trainers.
Q74 (2025): In addition to the categories specified in the previous table, other legal professionals from various institutions—such as mediators, free legal aid officers, victim advocates, probation officers, police officers, and others—also participated in the training programs. As a result, the number of participants increased from 3,460 to a total of 4,456 across all training activities during 2025.
Q74 (2023): The number of 19 trainings included 18 courses of HELP were translated into Albanian and Serbian languages and they are expected to be launched and provided for all the legal community and another course for seizing and confiscating assets, the only one that has been implemented.
Q74 (2022): Besides 3,810 participants judges, prosecutors, non-judge staff and non-prosecutor staff, the total number of participants at the Academy of Justice was 4,374 participants, including the participants from 139 trainings for private enforcement agents, free legal aid officers and victims' defenders, 289 other participants from the Probation Service, Kosovo Police, lawyers, Center for Social Work, Financial Intelligence Unit, etc.
Q75 (2022): Moreover, there were 78 (private enforcement agents, free legal aid officials and victim defender) and 286 other professionals.
Q77 (General Comment): The Kosovo Judicial Council has a mechanism for evaluating the performance of judges, including the attendance of judges in training. It has also approved Regulation No.06 / 2017 on Judge Training, according to which ethics training is mandatory for all judges and has determined the number of trainings depending on the experience of judges averaging 3-4 trainings per year. The failure to comply with this obligation without reasonable justification results in the application of the Law on Disciplinary Liability.
Q77 (2025): The Academy of Justice is required to design training programs in accordance with the requests of the Judicial Council and to deliver them to the relevant judges. The Academy does not have the authority to impose sanctions; its role is limited to reporting on the training programs, their implementation, and the attendance of judges in mandatory sessions to the Kosovo Judicial Council. However the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors stipulates that if the judge continuously does not follow the mandatory trainings, it constitutes disciplinary offence. Kosovo Judicial Council is responsible for conducting disciplinary procedures.

Q77 (2022): The training aspect is an important component that has an impact on the evaluation of the judge's performance. The Performance Evaluation Commission within the KJC is the competent authority and decides on sanctions or any other measure. The Academy of Justice has the obligation to design and implement mandatory training if there are requests from the Judicial Council and through reports to notify the relevant institution about the attendance or non-attendance of judges in training.

Q78 (General Comment): Kosovo Prosecutorial Council Regulation No. 01/2020 on Trainings and Professional Development in the Prosecutorial System was approved on 14 January 2020. This regulation foresees mandatory trainings and sanctions. Article 18 of this regulation foresees that if prosecutors do not act pursuant with the obligations deriving from the regulation, namely attend the trainings foreseen, they have disciplinary liability.

Q78 (2025): Similar to its obligations toward judges, the Academy of Justice is required to design training programs based on the requests of the Prosecutorial Council and to make them available to the respective prosecutors. The Academy does not hold authority to impose sanctions; its role is limited to providing information on the training programs, their implementation, and the attendance of prosecutors to the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council.
However the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors stipulates that if the prosecutor continuously does not follow the mandatory trainings, it constitutes disciplinary offence. Kosovo Prosecutorial Council is responsible for conducting disciplinary procedures.

Q79 (2024): In all prosecution offices of Kosovo, domestic violence coordinators are appointed from among the prosecutors. Usually, the Justice Academy when organizing trainings of this nature targets the coordinators for participation, who based on their working agenda participate in the respective trainings. This year, 16 trainings have been conducted on the criminal and civil aspects of domestic violence, in which prosecutors from all prosecution offices of the Republic of Kosovo have participated with over 25 prosecutors trained.

Q79 (2023): in all the Prosecution Offices in Kosovo there are assigned Coordinators of Domestic Violence chosen from the rank of prosecutors. Usually in these types of trainings the respective prosecutors are invited and participate Q79 (2022): To the trainings carried out on domestic violence and training against the sexual integrity of children.
Q80 (2025): In 2025, the Academy of Justice conducted two trainings specifically focused on EU law. The first training addressed Judicial and Law Enforcement Cooperation in Criminal Matters (EU) and was held with physical participation. The second training, on Fundamental Aspects of EU Law, was delivered online. Both trainings were joint sessions attended by judges and prosecutors.
Q81 (2025): In addition to the EU law trainings organized directly by the Academy of Justice, the Academy also facilitated the participation of judges and prosecutors from Kosovo in other EU law trainings delivered by judicial training institutions at the regional level. These included sessions on EU Law against Discrimination, EU Law on Gender Equality, and Procedural Protections in Criminal Proceedings in the EU, with a Focus on the Advanced Directive on Children.
Q82 (2025): In 2025, the Academy of Justice supported participation in a total of eight EU law–related training activities. Six of these were organized by ERA, covering EU Law on Gender Equality and EU Law against Discrimination. In addition, the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN) organized one training on Procedural Safeguards in Criminal Proceedings in the EU, with a Focus on the Advanced Directive on Children. Altogether, these accounted for eight specialized training activities on EU law.
As for online trainings, no additional sessions were held beyond the one already highlighted in Q154.
Q83 (2025): During 2025, 6 trainings on the ECHR were conducted, which were joint for judges and prosecutors with specific topics as follows:
Training European Standards: Protection of Reputation, Defamation and SLAPP Lawsuits conducted on 20-21 February 2025-supported by Chemonics.
Use and reference of the jurisprudence of the ECHR when writing court decisions conducted on 29-30 April 2025-supported by the EC
Effective Legal Remedies under Article 13 of the ECHR: Case law of the ECHR in civil and criminal matters conducted on 20 May 2025-supported by the EC
Conference - Freedom of Expression conducted on 17 June 2025-supported by PROFREX
Article 5 of the ECHR conducted on 11 September 2025-in AD cooperation with EC
Trial within a reasonable time under Article 6 of the ECHR: Unreasonable Length of Civil and Criminal Proceedings in the Case Law of the ECtHR, 18-19 November 2025 - supported by the EC.

Q86 (General Comment): The Academy of Justice, in addition to the above-mentioned resources, also implements the following mechanisms:
• Strategies and documents approved by the institutions that contain recommendations for the judiciary and the rule of law;
• Work reports of courts and prosecutors' offices;
• Monitoring of print and electronic media
• Recommendations of the Office for Performance Evaluation of judges and prosecutors;
• Analysis of the legislative agenda of the assembly
• Proposals of the staff, the Program Council and the Governing Council of the AD;
• Recommendations from NGOs
• The recommendations of local and international institutions and organizations are also taken as a basis
• The report of the European Commission on Kosovo.
The list of defined mechanisms is updated according to developments or priorities. The innovation in this list was also receiving opinions from civil societies, whose activity helps to create new perspectives for the training program.
Q86 (2025): Other mechanisms such as the perspective of civil society, the legislative agenda of the assembly and legal novelties, media monitoring of the judiciary, reports on the work of courts and prosecutors' offices, recommendations of the Ombudsman and strategic documents at the country level that have an impact on the work of the judiciary.

Q86 (2024): Besides the aforementioned sources, we take into account also take the perspective of the Civil Society, media monitoring on the judiciary, the court and prosecution office working reports, recommendations from the Ombudsperson, and the national strategic documents that impact the work of the judiciary
Q87 (General Comment): The assessment of training needs is done continuously throughout the year.
Q87 (2025): The training needs assessment is conducted annually and serves as the basis for drafting the training program within the framework of continuous education. For initial training, the program includes modules covering the jurisdiction assigned to newly appointed judges and prosecutors in the general divisions. However, for each new generation of judges and prosecutors, the program is reviewed and updated to reflect any legal developments, as well as improvements in training methodology.

Q88 (2025): For each type of training, the results are reviewed and taken into account when drafting the subsequent training program. Conclusions and recommendations are derived from the evaluation tables, which are dedicated to the Academy of Justice for improving both the training programs and the experience of their beneficiaries. These findings are directly applicable to judicial practice.
Q91 (2025): For all the presented options a special report is drafted on the training impact before and after the training.

Question 10

Albania

(2025): One judicial training institution covers the training of the categories of judges, prosecutors, non-judge staff, non-prosecutor staff.

(2024): Its the same institution for both the training of judges and prosecutors. The institution in charge for the training of magistrate is School of Magistrate

(2023): The implemented budget in EURO is calculated by the average of exchange rate for the reference year 2023 that is 108.75. The budget in ALL is 461 639 120. The increase in the previous cycle can be explained by the increase of the number of candidates for magistrates attending the Initial Training Program, the increase of number of trainings of the Continuous Training Program, and the increase of salaries for the State Administration.

(2022): The amount provided by the State Budget to the School of Magistrates is 2 470 872 EURO
The total amount of funds given to the SoM by donors in 2022 is: 1 997 EURO.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): There are two training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina which are responsible for training of judges and prosecutors in two different entities within the state. Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. Many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic experts who are financed directly by external donors. Only some of the external donor funds used for this purpose are included in the budget of the training institutions.
In Bosnia and Herzegovina, there are no institutions specialized in training employees in prosecutor's offices and courts. The training they receive is provided on an ad hoc basis: in house, by relevant civil servant agencies as well as other public sector employees, or to a lesser extent by judicial training institutions (i.e. legal associates of prosecutors and judges). No special budget is allocated for such training.

(2022): There are two training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina which are responsible for judicial training in two different entities in the country. Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. Their respective adopted budgets for 2022 were: The Judicial and Prosecutorial Training Centre of Republika Srpska - 281 970 EUR. Budget funds for the Center for Education of Judges and Prosecutors in the Republic of Srpska have increased as material costs rose in 2022 due to the growth of inflation. The Judicial and Prosecutorial Training Centre of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina - 333 132 EUR. Many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic experts who are financed by external donors. The external donor funds used for this purpose are not included in the budget of the training institutions. In addition, the training institutions spent grants worth EUR 38.985,57 provided within the specific projects by the external donors in 2022, (i.e. the external donors which provided the grants were: UNICEF, the Council of Europe - SOUTH-EAST EUROPE Freedom of expression, The AIRE Centre - Advice on Individual Rights in Europe).

Montenegro

(2025): The Centre is an independent legal entity. (Article 2 paragraph 1 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)) and the only institution in charge of providing training activites to representatives of Montenegrin judiciary. The Centre organizes and implement trainings for judges and state prosecutors. Centre can also organize and implement trainings for attorneys-at-law, notaries, bailiffs, advisers, clerks and trainees in courts and state prosecution offices (hereinafter referred to as: special trainings), according to this law. (Article 3 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)).
The total amount presented reflects the funds allocated within the Centre's budget for the previous year for the organization of training activities, including in-service training, initial training and specialized training. The amount shown in Table 2 specifically represents the funds spent on the in-service training of judges and state prosecutors. It should be noted that, within the overall budget, a portion of the total amount presented was also allocated to non-judge and non-prosecutor participants, as well as to candidates for judicial and prosecutorial positions; however, these amounts are not presented separately in numerical terms.

(2024): Out of the total amount of the implemented budget of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution (CTJSP) stated in the table above, the funds in amount of 4.838,23 € come from the donation - THE GRANT AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE COUNCIL OF EUROPE AND THE CENTRE FOR TRAINING IN JUDICIARY AND STATE PROSECUTION OF MONTENEGRO.

(2025): The Academy of Justice is the only public and independent institution mandated to train judges, prosecutors, and judicial and prosecutorial administrative staff. When possible and upon request—though not required—the Academy also provides training to other legal professionals and members of the free professions, such as state attorneys, bankruptcy administrators, mediators, enforcement officers, and notaries, who are otherwise served by their own institutions. The Academy's budget is unified for the fulfillment of its mandate, with no separate budget lines allocated to specific beneficiary categories. The initial budget for 2025 was €864,973.00, while the final budget across all categories amounted to €737,099.16. Of this, €218,560.00 was dedicated exclusively to education and training services.

(2022): Based on the Law on the Academy of Justice, Kosovo has a joint institution that provides training for judges and prosecutors, administrative staff of courts and prosecutors' offices, as well as, according to the possibility and requirements, also for the free professions and other legal professionals.
The budget that was available for the year 2022 is a total of 660,149 euros, within which were all expenses for training, staff payments and other categories of goods and services. With the Law on the Budget of the Republic of Kosovo for the year 2022, the initial budget for this year was 660,149.00 euros, for all economic categories including salaries and wages, goods and services and municipal expenses.
The total amount of donations made for 2022 was 27,007.11 euros, from JUFREX the donation is 12,007.11 euros, of which 4,227.11 are carryovers from 2021 and 7,780.00 euros are donations this year, a donation of 15,000.00 euros was made by UNDP this year, while 24,607.11 euros were spent from the total donations for this year, and the remainder for the next year is 2,400.00 euros unspent donation from UNDP.

Bosnia and Herzegovina
(General Comment): There are two training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina which are responsible for training of judges and prosecutors in two different entities within the state. Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. In addition to the budget funds, the training institutions spend grants provided within the specific projects by the external donors. These amounts vary every year depending on the amount of available external funds. Besides, many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic and/or foreign experts who are financed directly by external donors. External donor funds used for this purpose are not included in the data on the budget of training institutions or in the data on funds directly donated to these institutions, because training institutions do not have this data.

(2025): There are two training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina which are responsible for training of judges and prosecutors in two different entities within the state. Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. In addition to the budget funds, the training institutions spent grants worth EUR 17 540 provided within the specific projects by the external donors in 2025. These amounts vary every year depending on the amount of available external funds, so the amount of these funds in 2025, which are provided by UNICEF and Advice on Individual Rights in Europe (i.e. AIRE Centre), was higher compared to 2024. Besides, many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic and/or foreign experts who are financed by external donors. External donor funds used for this purpose are not included in the data on the budget of training institutions or in the data on funds directly donated to these institutions, because training institutions do not have this data.
The difference in terms of value between 2025 and 2024 is significant in percentage terms, but that difference is negligible when comparing the absolute amounts of donations in 2025 and 2024.

(2024): There are two training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina which are responsible for training of judges and prosecutors in two different entities within the state. Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. In addition to the budget funds, the training institutions spent grants worth EUR 13 130 provided within the specific projects by the external donors in 2024. These amounts vary every year depending on the amount of available external funds, so the amount of these funds in 2024 was lower compared to 2023. Besides, many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic and/or foreign experts who are financed by external donors. External donor funds used for this purpose are not included in the data on the budget of training institutions or in the data on funds directly donated to these institutions, because training institutions do not have this data.

(2023): There are two training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, which are responsible for judicial training in two different entities in the country. Each of these institutions is responsible for both judges and prosecutors. In addition to the budget funds (i.e. EUR 680 237), the training institutions spent grants worth EUR 34 485 provided within the specific projects by the external donors in 2023. Besides, many of training courses delivered in the training institutions are prepared by domestic and/or foreign experts who are financed by external donors. External donor funds used for this purpose are not included in the data on the budget of training institutions or in the data on funds directly donated to these institutions, because training institutions do not have this data.

The Academy of Justice does not hold information on the financial value of these activities, as they were managed directly by the donors themselves. These donor-funded trainings were supported through various projects and organizations, including the Council of Europe, CYBERKOP, CEPEJ, the project Support to the Constitutional Court in the Implementation and Dissemination of the Standards of the European Court of Human Rights, Approximation of Laws and Policies with the Istanbul Convention, PRO-FREX-K (Protecting Freedom of Expression and of the Media), the Coalition of NGOs for the Protection of Children (KOMF), GIZ, the Humanitarian Law Center Kosovo, IRZ (German Foundation for International Legal Cooperation), NGO Terres des Hommes, OSCE, the European Union Home Affairs Programme in Kosovo Project (HAPE), the Balkan Investigative Reporting Network (BIRN), the Magistrates' School in Albania, UNDP, UNHCR, the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), and the Western Balkan Rule of Law Initiative (WBROLI).

Albania

(2022): A training topic may be developed regularly or occasionally in different academic years. This is a different variable since the calendar of continuing education training activities itself is variable from one academic year to another. The components that influence the variability of this data are mainly the needs of the justice system for the development of training activities in a specific direction or field, as well as the selection of this topic by the main beneficiaries of continuing education, which are the in-service magistrates.

In other words, after we conduct the needs assessment process and collect the concrete needs of in-service magistrates, we organize the training activities. This is why we have checked the boxes "as needed" intending to say, "according to the needs of the system". This means that we organize them regularly but according to the needs of the in-service magistrates.

(General Comment): The relevant legislation on juvenile criminal justice requires that in-service training for specialized functions is obligatory for prosecutors and judges assigned to work on criminal cases involving juveniles; they must take certain training courses in order to be able to work on such cases.
This program lasts 4 days and covers 7 topics.
As for general in-service training, the minimum requirement for prosecutors and judges is to attend trainings at the judicial training center for at least 3 days during one year. There is no minimum requirement for prosecutors and judges to attend a certain number of trainings over the course of one year. The judicial office holders may choose between training topics related to the issues they most frequently work on.
In addition, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina decided that as of 2022 an in-service online training on ethics, prevention of corruption and conflicts of interest is compulsory for all judges and prosecutors. Furthermore, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has introduced in 2022 a mandatory managerial training for newly appointed court presidents and chief prosecutors. It includes the following topics: 1) Developing leadership and management skills 2) Proactive role of court presidents and 3) Modern public relations. Moreover, all chief prosecutors and court presidents are required to attend the training on the role of chief prosecutors and court presidents in preserving the judicial integrity.

As for general in-service training, the minimum requirement for prosecutors and judges is to attend every year at least 3 days of training at the judicial training center(s). The judicial office holders may choose between various training topics, but the topic selected must be related to the cases they work on.
In 2025, The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has declared the following trainings as mandatory for newly appointed presidents of courts and chief prosecutors: 1) The role of chief prosecutors and court presidents in preserving the judicial integrity, and 2) Developing leadership and management skills. In addition, all presidents of courts and chief prosecutors are obliged to attend training in Modern public relations.
In addition, in 2025 the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina issued a decision that all judges and prosecutors need to renew their knowledge on ethics and conflict of interest by attending online training on ethics, prevention of corruption and conflicts of interest every third year. The relevant legislation on juvenile criminal justice requires that in-service training for specialized functions is obligatory for prosecutors and judges assigned to work on criminal cases involving juveniles. They must attend in full the specialized training provided by JPTCs in order to receive appropriate certificate and be able to work on such cases. This program was revised in Y2025. It lasts 6 days and covers 3 temathic areas. First thematic area „Criminal proceedings involving children and minors“ has the following key areas of study: The etiology and phenomenology of juvenile delinquency from a criminological perspective, the juvenile justice system and international standards based on relevant international legal instruments in the field of children's rights, criminal procedure concerning juveniles, juvenile material and procedural criminal law, as well as the protection of juveniles and an introduction to children's rights. Second thematic area „The application of the Law on the Protection and Treatment of Children and Juveniles in Criminal Proceedings in practice“ covers the following: the use of alternative measures and diversion in criminal proceedings against juveniles, criminal offenses against children, and the implementation of the Law in practice with a focus on the protection and resocialization of child victims through practical examples. Third thematic area „The study of juvenile psychology and the role of guardianship authorities in criminal proceedings against minors“ encompasses an examination of the psychological dimensions of juvenile participation in criminal justice processes, an analysis of the role and significance of guardianship authorities in supporting judicial bodies responsible for conducting proceedings involving juveniles, and experiential learning through visits to institutional facilities. Before attending this specialized program, judges and prosecutors need to finish online CoE HELP module related to Child friendly justice.

(2025): Judges and state prosecutors shall have the right and duty to attend the in-service training for at least two working days annually for which they are to apply based on their own interest. (Article 45 paragraph 2 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)). The training is not compulsory for judges of specialized courts (except for the mentioned two days per year), however, the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution in the framework of the In-service Training Program organizes regular training for judges of specialized courts at the annual level (judges of Commercial Court and Administrative Court). The only compulsory specialized training is the training for judges for the juveniles (who are the only ones competent to act in criminal proceedings with juveniles) according to the Law on the Treatment of Juveniles in Criminal Proceedings). All judges in charge of juveniles went through the specialized training. The trainings for management functions in courts are organized in accordance with current needs and, thus, these are not compulsory.

Until the year of 2024, training on IT skills was conducted exclusively by the Judicial Council and Human Resource Management Authority, however, in 2024 Center for training began to organize trainings on IT skills, through the In-service training programme, that is intended for judges and state prosecutors.

(2023): The mandatory duration of the initial training is defined by the provision from Article 42 of the Law on the Center for Training in the Judiciary and the State Prosecutor's Office.
The initial training for candidates for judges of the basic court, that is, for candidates for state prosecutors in the basic state prosecutor's office lasts 18 months, of which six months are theoretical training and 12 months are practical training.
Converted into days of theoretical training, that is 128 days of six hours of training per training day.
The initial training for candidates for misdemeanor judges lasts nine months, of which three months are theoretical training, and six months practical training, and is conducted at the Center, that is, the Court for Misdemeanors in Podgorica.
Converted into days of theoretical training, that is 60 days of six hours of training per training day.
The initial training for candidates for judges in the Commercial Court of Montenegro lasts six months, of which 40 hours per month of theoretical training are conducted in the Center, i.e. the Commercial Court of Montenegro.
Converted into days of theoretical training, that is 44 days of six hours of training per training day.
The initial training for candidates for judges of the Administrative Court of Montenegro lasts four months, of which 20 hours per month of theoretical training are conducted in the Center, i.e. the Administrative Court of Montenegro.
Converted into days of theoretical training, it is 16 days of training of six hours per training day.

(General Comment): It is mandatory for the specialized functions, for leading functions, and for other aspects for sitting judges who by the Performance Evaluation Committee for judges are rated as “good” and “sufficient”. Judges with the performance rating of “good” are obliged to attend three trainings, namely training on Ethics, Case Management, and Drafting of Court Decisions. Judges that are evaluated with the rating of “Sufficient” will attend the tree aforementioned trainings as well as trainings in the areas established as findings by the Performance Evaluation Committee. Judges that receive evaluation rating above the grades of “Sufficient” and “Good” are exempt from the mandatory trainings.

(2025): According to the applicable legislation for courts, in addition to the initial training that is legally required for newly appointed judges, further training is also mandatory in specific circumstances: when there are substantial changes in legislation, upon promotion to a higher judicial level, when assigned to a specialized field, when appointed as court president, during performance evaluations, and when required by strategic documents. The Academy of Justice is obliged only to design programs and implement them upon request. In 2025, the Academy received a request from the Kosovo Judicial Council (KJC) to conduct mandatory training for one serving judge following a performance evaluation. Based on the approved program, seven training sessions were delivered, totaling 21 hours of instruction.

(2022): General training during service, or continuous training for judges as stated by the Law on the Academy of Justice is in principle voluntary, while the training quota is determined by the KJC for mandatory training within the year.
Also, for specialized functions, such as the case for a judge of the Economic Court, training is mandatory.
Training for CMIS has been mandatory training. In the reporting period, there was a training for Registers, statistical reports and dashboards of CMIS which was dedicated to the administrative staff of the courts, namely heads of the office for case management, statistical officers, administrators and assistant administrators of the courts in which they participated 35 participants from all courts.
We have highlighted the in-service training on child-friendly justice as optional for all judges, since all without exception have the opportunity to participate in training, while juvenile judges choose to continue training in this field as they are within the scope of their work competencies.
In-service ethics training is mandatory for all judges except for judges who are 2 years before retirement. However, for 2022, the Judicial Council has removed the obligation for ethics training, which is why we have emphasized that it was optional.
In addition to professional training, the program also offers interdisciplinary training, which is why judges also participate in other trainings during their service.

(General Comment): In principle, in-service training of prosecutors is voluntary, however, during a calendar year, all prosecutors must attend at least three training sessions, one on ethics, when there are legislative changes, and when promoted or advanced from one department to another or when moving to a management position. Other cases are also based on performance evaluation by the Performance Evaluation Committee for Prosecutors.

(2025): In principle, continuous (in-service) training for prosecutors is voluntary. However, within each calendar year, all prosecutors are required to attend at least three training sessions: one on ethics, one addressing legislative changes, and one when they are promoted, transferred to another department, or appointed to a management position. Additional mandatory training may also be required based on performance evaluations conducted by the Commission for the Evaluation of the Performance of Prosecutors. All such trainings are organized at the request of the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council. In 2025, the Academy of Justice did not receive any requests from the Prosecutorial Council for mandatory in-service training of prosecutors, apart from the compulsory initial training for 24 newly appointed prosecutors, who represent the Academy's eleventh generation of prosecutors in initial training.

(2022): In principle, ongoing training for prosecutors is voluntary, however, during a calendar year, all prosecutors must participate in at least three (3) trainings. All trainings according to the order in the questionnaire can become mandatory if this is assessed by the Unit for review and evaluation of performance in the KPK and in cases where there are legislative changes, when the prosecutor is promoted in office as well as for professional ethics.
According to Regulation No. 01/2020 for training and professional development in the prosecutorial system, Ethics training is mandatory.
For each field according to the weight, the same description applies as for the judges.

(General Comment): The initial training lasts 24 months and takes place in two phases, namely:
- first phase - theoretical teaching at the Academy lasting nine months and
- second stage - practical teaching in courts and public prosecutor's offices and others institutions, in accordance with the initial training program lasting 15 months.
The initial training is organized in three modules. Each module contains 7 subjects, or total of 21 subjects. The first and second modules are composed of 414 hours, while the third module is composed of 207 hours. Initial training contains 1035 hours in total. One teaching hour equals 40 minutes.
The Academy conducts compulsory training for judges and public prosecutors, in accordance with Article 5 of the Rules for Continuous Training, which they must attend as soon as they are elected. The number of mandatory days of training on an annual level decreasing gradually, as the judge's /the prosecutor seniority increases. Failure to meet the required number of training days on an annual level may even lead to deducting points, i.e. obtaining a lower annual grade, which, further, may make it more difficult for the concerned judge, i.e. public prosecutor, to be promoted in the future.
According to Article 7 paragraph 4, new elected judges and public prosecutors are obliged, of their choice, to attend intensive continuous training lasting five working days, which is carried out on the basis of a specialized program (divided into two modules: criminal and civil) for mandatory continuous training. Judges/public prosecutors with up to 3 years of experience are obliged to attend a total of 10 days of training.
1-3 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=10 days of training
3-8 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=6 days of training
8-15 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=4 days of training
over 15 years of experience as a judge/prosecutor=2 days of training

(2025): For judges out of the 245 days of compulsory training, 117 days are theoretical training at the Academy of Justice and 128 days are practical training (120 days in the respective courts of appointment and 8 in other non-judicial institutions). Whereas, for prosecutors, out of the 245 days of compulsory training, 100 days are theoretical training at the Academy of Justice and 145 days are practical training (137 days in the respective prosecutor's offices of appointment and 8 in other non-judicial institutions).
During 2025, four generations of newly appointed judges and one generation of newly appointed prosecutors attended initial training. The XI, XII, XIII, and XIV generations comprised a total of 86 new judges, while the XI generation of prosecutors included 24 newly appointed members. The XI and XII generations of judges successfully completed all theoretical and practical training sessions during 2025. The XIII and XIV generations are still in progress, with their programs scheduled to continue into 2026. Similarly, the XI generation of prosecutors is currently undergoing theoretical and practical training, which will extend into January 2026 until the completion of all sessions in accordance with the program.

(2024): Initial compulsory training for judges includes:116 days of theoretical training in KJA
118 days of practical training in Courts, as well as 8 days of practical training in other non-judicial institutions Initial compulsory training for prosecutors includes:87 days of theoretical training in KJA
158 days of practical training in Prosecution Offices, as well as 8 days of practical training in other non-judicial institutions

(2022): In-service compulsory trainings - minimum number of days per year - Judges with work experience over 20 years - 2 (two) days.
Judges with work experience over 10 to 20 years - 5 (five) days.
Judges with work experience from 5 to 10 years - 6 (six) days.
Judges with experience from 3 to 5 years-7 (seven) days.
Per prosecutors the number of days is set according to the request of the KPC.
Regarding In-service compulsory trainings - minimum number of trainings per year it is indicated 1 as the minimum days and it varies from 1 to 7.
Regarding In-service compulsory trainings - minimum number of days per year it is indicated 2 and it varies from 2 to 7.
Mandatory initial training - means for newly appointed judges and prosecutors that in total they have to continue the training in 12 months, 6 months of theoretical training at the Law Academy and 6 months at the respective courts/prosecution offices where they are appointed .
During the reporting period in the framework of the trainings for judges, 206 days of training were carried out, divided into two groups (for two groups of 103 days each) because the training started in July 2022. While for the procurator, a total of 112 days of training were carried out.

Question 73

Albania
(2024): Number of trainings available for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff is equal to the number of training delivered because there are no training activities that are repeated.

(2022): The total does not match as SoM does not organize trainings only for judges or only for prosecutors. In the table of training activities, trainings are defined which are addressed to a specific target group such as judges, prosecutors, judicial police officers, state lawyers, administrative staff of courts or prosecutions, chancellors, etc. but most of the training activities are open to all subjects whose law recognizes the right to be trained by the School of Magistrates. So, apart from the fact that there are trainings with a certain target group, the same trainings where judges have participated, prosecutors have also participated, especially when it comes to dealing with procedural law, where the confrontation of the prosecutor's perspective with the court is quite important. In this case, in 76 trainings for judges, there were trainings dedicated only to judges, but also trainings where there were judges, prosecutors and other subjects of the justice system.

(2025): Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor’s offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centres.

(2024): Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor’s offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centers. In comparison to the previous year, there were disparities in number of participants in internet-based trainings provided on the e-learning platform of the judicial training institutions and other e-learning platforms. This was primarily due to developments related to the online module "Ethics and Integrity", which was transitioned in 2024 from the e-platform of the USAID project in Bosnia and Herzegovina “Judiciary against Corruption” to the e-platform managed by the judicial training institutions. During the transition period, it was not possible to conduct trainings on the aforementioned module. It is planned that this module will be available again in 2025. In addition, most judges and prosecutors attended training in this module during 2023, in accordance with the decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. In addition, although this module was available during 2024 before the transition, judges and prosecutors did not use it for training during that period. This had to do with the fact that most judges and prosecutors had attended training on this module during 2023, in accordance with the decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Training on this module is expected to continue in 2025.

(2023): Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor’s offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centers.

Montenegro

(2025): During 2025, the Centre for Training in the Judiciary and State Prosecution, in accordance with the adopted 2025 In- service Training Programme, implemented 70 activities, amounting to a total of 122 training days. In addition to the aforementioned Programme, and within the framework of the continuous training of judges and state prosecutors, a further 46 activities were carried out. This brings the total number of In-service training activities for judges and state prosecutors to 116, implemented either independently by the Centre or in cooperation with the Centre's partners.

The number of 122 training days refers exclusively to the training activities implemented under the 2025 In-service Training Programme. Therefore, the overall number of training days is not precise and should be considered as NA.

N/A. In-service training activities are organized jointly for judges and state prosecutors; therefore, it is not possible to disaggregate the number of training activities or training days by these categories. In addition, separate data for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff cannot be provided, as training activities are also attended by advisors from courts and state prosecution offices.

The Centre's e-learning platform is operational. So far, two courses have been developed and uploaded to the platform. These courses are intended for all legal professionals and holders of judicial offices and are not designed for specific professional categories

(2022): - In cooperation with HELP Programme for the Western Balkans and Turkey, Council of Europe (The European Programme for Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals), the Centre organized 2 (two) HELP e-learning courses and participated in 1 (one) regional HELP online course:
- The first HELP online course – e-learning (21 February to 21 April 2022) - The total pf 40 participants successfully completed this course (in effective duration of 12 hours) - 8 judges, 3 state prosecutors, 12 advisors from courts, 3 advisors from state prosecution offices, 3 trainees from courts, 2 candidates for judges, 4 candidates for state prosecutors, 2 lawyers and 3 representatives of the Ministry of Justice and Human and Minority Rights of Montenegro.
- The second HELP online course - e-learning (21 September – 21 November 2022) - The total of 38 participants successfully completed this course (in effective duration of 18 hours) – 7 judges, 1 state prosecutor, 11 advisors from courts, 5 trainees from courts, 1 candidate for a judge, 3 lawyers, 6 representatives of the Ministry of Justice of Montenegro, 3 representatives of LGBTQ organizations and 1 representative of the Institution of the Protector of Human Rights and Freedoms of Montenegro (Ombudsman).
- The regional HELP online course (29 March – 29 May 2022) organized by the Council of Europe HELP Programme and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) – the participants herein attended separate courses in relation to the country they come from, which were translated into all languages of the Western Balkan countries and adapted to respective national legislation. The total of 11 participants successfully completed this course – 2 judges, 3 advisors from courts, 2 trainees from courts, 2 representatives of the Ministry of Justice of Montenegro, 1 representative of the Notary Office in Cetinje and 1 representative of the Ministry of Finance and Social Welfare.
The Centre participates in the activities offered by the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN) despite its status of an observer. During 2022, owing to the Centre's role of an intermediary and the invitation to participate in training activities, 19 representatives of the Montenegrin judiciary (14 judges, 2 state prosecutor, 2 trainees from courts and 1 advisor from a court) participated herein. These training activities encompassed 6 one-hour online seminars, 1 two-and-a-half-hour online seminar, 1 two-day online workshop, 2 two-day virtual study visits to the ECtHR and 1 in-person seminar.
- Finally, in 2022, owing to the role of the Centre as an intermediary and the invitation to participate in online training activities and face-to-face activities organised by foreign partners (at the regional and European level), the total of 108 representatives of Montenegrin judiciary participated in 38 training activities (51 judges, 15 special prosecutors, 18 state prosecutors, 13 candidates for a judge, 4 advisors from Special State Prosecution Office, 4 advisors from state prosecution offices, 1 advisor from a court and 2 trainees in courts). – PLEASE NOTE : This number DOES NOT include unique participants. Note: (comment ref. column 5) In total, 16,5 training days: (3 HELP courses: two 12-hour courses (4 training days) and one 18-hours course (3 training days) + EJTN two-day online workshop (2 training days), 2 EJTN two-day virtual study visits to the ECtHR (4 training days), 1 EJTN two-day in-person seminar (2 training days) + 6 one-hour online seminars and 1 two-and-a-half-hour online seminar (1 and a half training day))

North Macedonia
(2023): The decrease is due to the different needs defined in the Program for continuous training.

Serbia
(2025): There is a discrepancy due to the specific training provided for a specific target group and each one is counted (calculated) separately

(2024): Judicial Academy is continuously working to improve its training programs, therefore there might be a discrepancy regarding the number of participants, number of trainings, different offered trainings in regards to topics etc. and it all depends on the yearly demands and expectations of the all public institutions which take active participation in our programs, both in vivo and online. Moreover, at the end of each year Judicial Academy conducts a training needs analysis which is a guiding reference for the future trainings.

(2023): In 2023 the priority of the Judicial Academy was the development and the promotion of the Academy's new distance learning platform-LMS platform as well as development of the e-learning courses and e-library. That is the reason of the decreased number of live trainings delivered in comparison to 2022.

(2022): A large number of trainings includes few groups of stakeholders, such as police officers, lawyers, social workers, NGO representatives, tax administration officials and others, depending on the topic discussed of the specific training, and not only judges and prosecutors. Also, where possible and appropriate, Judicial Academy gathers judges, prosecutors, judicial and prosecutorial assistants and the users of the initial training of the Judicial Academy at the same trainings. This is the reason why total number of all participants is higher than the sum of the number of judges, prosecutors, non-judge and non-prosecutor staff who attended the trainings. For example, in 2022 Judicial Academy trained, together with judges and prosecutors, 1105 police officers and 643 lawyers.

Kosovo*

(2025): In 2025, a total of 83 training sessions were conducted. Of these, 48 were joint sessions for judges and prosecutors, out of them 2 were held exclusively for prosecutors. Additionally, 87 training activities were organized specifically for employees in the judicial administration, and 4 for administrative staff of the prosecutorial system. Furthermore, 11 joint trainings were conducted for professional associates and legal officers of courts and prosecutorial offices, along with 3 joint trainings for administrative staff of both the judiciary and prosecution. Through the HELP platform, two joint courses were also delivered in 2025, covering the topics Human Rights and the Environment and The Right to Liberty and Security – Article 5. These courses were attended by judges, prosecutors, professional associates, and legal officers of courts and prosecutorial offices.

(2022): -In the total number of trainings 209, there were also 114 joint trainings for judges and prosecutors, 145 continuous trainings programme, 10 trainings for free legal professions, 7 training of trainers. For non-judge staff and For non-prosecutor staff there were 33 joint trainings.
-Regarding the category Number of days of delivered live (in person, hybrid, video conference) trainings, the total number of 354 days includes 237 trainings jointly for judges and prosecutors, 35 days trainings only for judges, 10 days only for prosecutors, 36 days of trainings jointly for non-judge and non-prosecutor staff. Furthermore, there were 10 days training for free legal professions and 19 days for trainings for trainers.

Albania

(2023): The increase is explained by the increase of available and delivered training activities, as well as the increase of the number of judges and prosecutors in the system after the last two years of graduation from SoM.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2025): In 2025, the number of participants in the trainings slightly rose compared to the previous reporting year because there were more newly appointed judges, prosecutors and professional associates/advisors who were eligible to attend the initial training courses.

(2024): In comparison to the previous year, there were disparities in number of participants in internet-based trainings provided on the e-learning platform of the judicial training institutions and other e-learning platforms. This was primarily due to developments related to the online module "Ethics and Integrity", which was transitioned in 2024 from the e-platform of the USAID project in Bosnia and Herzegovina “Judiciary against Corruption” to the e-platform managed by the judicial training institutions. During the transition period, it was not possible to conduct trainings on the aforementioned module. It is planned that this module will be available again in 2025. In addition, most judges and prosecutors attended training in this module during 2023, in accordance with the decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. In addition, although this module was available during 2024 before the transition, judges and prosecutors did not use it for training during that period. This had to do with the fact that most judges and prosecutors had attended training on this module during 2023, in accordance with the decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Training on this module is expected to continue in 2025.

Montenegro

(2025): Given that In-service training is primarily intended for judges and state prosecutors, the data provided refers to the number of judges and state prosecutors out of the total number of active judges and state prosecutors.
N/A. At this stage, the Centre does not yet have statistical data on the number of holders of judicial offices and legal professionals who have attended the e-learning courses, considering that users have only recently been informed that the platform has been adapted and is fully functional.
N/A. Data on the number of non-judge and non-prosecutor staff is not considered relevant in this context. Although, as previously noted, advisors and other non-judge and non-prosecutor may attend certain training activities within the framework of In-service training, the Centre has recently established a dedicated department responsible for the specialized training of advisors and trainees in courts and state prosecution offices, as well as lawyers, notaries and public enforcement agents. Therefore, participation of these categories is primarily monitored through the activities organized by this department.
During 2025, the Centre organized theoretical training sessions for a total of 72 judicial trainees in courts and state prosecution offices. Out of the total number of trainees, 52 were assigned to courts, while the remaining 20 were assigned to state prosecution offices.
The discrepancy is due to the methodology used for reporting participants in in-service training activities. In-service trainings are often organized jointly for judges and state prosecutors, while certain training modules are intended primarily for judges (particularly in the field of civil law). Training activities within the criminal law module are generally attended by both judges and prosecutors.
As a result, the distribution of participants between judges and prosecutors varies depending on the subject matter and target group of each activity. In addition, only one training activity during the reporting period, dedicated to financial investigations, was attended exclusively by state prosecutors and was therefore reported solely under prosecutors' participation.

(2023): And 310 other participants not included in this categories

(2022): In addition, as per the column one 121 other participants (representatives of state institutions, law enforcement officers, lawyers, etc) undergone trough training.
Comment: The participants in the training activities also included other legal professionals, i.e. the representatives of the Ministry of Justice (and Human and Minority Rights), notary public offices, the Ministry of Finance and Social Welfare, LGBTQ organizations and Institution of the Protector of Human Rights and Freedoms of Montenegro (Ombudsman).
Note: (comment ref. column 3 - Total): The total of 108 participants in training activities includes: 31 judges, 6 prosecutors, 42 non-judge staff (3 candidates for judges + 27 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts), 7 non-prosecutor staff (4 candidates for state prosecutors + 3 advisors from state prosecution offices), 22 legal professionals from other public institutions (5 lawyers, 11 the Ministry of Justice (and Human and Minority Rights) + 1 notary public offices + 1 the Ministry of Finance and Social Welfare + 3 LGBTQ organizations + 1 Institution of the Protector of Human Rights and Freedoms of Montenegro (Ombudsman).
Note: (comment ref. column 3 - Non-judge staff): 3 candidates for judges + 27 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts.
Note: (comment ref. column 3 - Non-prosecutor staff): 4 candidates for state prosecutors + 3 advisors from state prosecution offices.
In non-prosecutor and non-judge staff we did not count trainees/interns in courts and state prosecution offices. The Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution implements theoretical part of professional training of trainees/interns in courts and state prosecution offices, in accordance with the Law on Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices and Bar Examination ("Official Gazette of Montenegro", no. 55/2016 and 57/2016) and upon the Training Programme for Trainees in Courts and State Prosecution Offices which was adopted in January 2018. In 2022, the CTJSP organized training for 108 interns, of which 88 are interns in courts and 20 in state prosecutor's offices. The trainees were divided into five groups, and a total of 23 trainings were conducted (2 live and 21 online), i.e. 55 days of training.

This is the number (4487) for participants who have completed the training.

(2023): A large number of trainings includes few groups of stakeholders, such as police officers, lawyers, social workers, NGO representatives, tax administration officials and others, depending on the topic discussed of the specific training, and not only judges and prosecutors. Also, where possible and appropriate, Judicial Academy gathers judges, prosecutors, judicial and prosecutorial assistants and the users of the initial training of the Judicial Academy at the same trainings. That is the reason why total number of all participants is higher than the sum of the number of judges, prosecutors, non-judge and non-prosecutor staff who attended the trainings. In 2023 the Academy increased the participation of the future judges and prosecutors (the users of the initial training, the judicial and prosecutorial assistants) in its educational events.
Please consider that the total number of all participants is 4858.

Kosovo*

(2025): In addition to the categories specified in the previous table, other legal professionals from various institutions—such as mediators, free legal aid officers, victim advocates, probation officers, police officers, and others—also participated in the training programs. As a result, the number of participants increased from 3,460 to a total of 4,456 across all training activities during 2025.

(2023): The number of 19 trainings included 18 courses of HELP were translated into Albanian and Serbian languages and they are expected to be launched and provided for all the legal community and another course for seizing and confiscating assets, the only one that has been implemented.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Court presidents and chief prosecutors are counted in the number of judges and prosecutors delivered for: Q31 (Number of professional judges sitting in courts on 31 December 2025., i.e. 1025), Q36 (Number of prosecutors on 31 December 2025, i.e. 352), and Q75 (Number of unique participants of the trainings during the reference year). The number of professional judges sitting in courts on an occasional basis (i.e. 11 reserve judges on 1 January 2025), is not included in the data provided for Q31 and Q75. Data on the number of judges and prosecutors who attended training during the reporting year but left the judiciary before the end of the reporting year due to resignation, retirement, death, etc. were not excluded from Q75. This may lead to inconsistencies between data reported under Q75 with data prepared for Q31 and Q36, as the latter do not include data on judges and prosecutors who left the judiciary during the reporting year.
Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor’s offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centers.

(2025): In 2025, the number of unique participants in live trainings slightly rose compared to the previous reporting year because there were more newly appointed judges, prosecutors and professional associates/advisors who were eligible to attend the initial training courses.

(2024): Court presidents and chief prosecutors are counted in the number of judges and prosecutors delivered for: Q19 (Number of professional judges sitting in courts on 31 December 2024., i.e. 1044), Q28 (Number of prosecutors on 31 December 2024, i.e. 362), and Q147-2 (Number of unique participants of the trainings during the reference year). The number of professional judges sitting in courts on an occasional basis (i.e. 38 reserve judges on 1 January 2024), that used to be submitted for Q20, is not included in the data provided for Q19 and Q147-2. Data on the number of judges and prosecutors who attended training during the reporting year but left the judiciary before the end of the reporting year due to resignation, retirement, death, etc. were not excluded from Q147-2. This may lead to inconsistencies between data reported under Q147-2 with data prepared for Q19 and Q28, as the latter do not include data on judges and prosecutors who left the judiciary during the reporting year.
Non-judicial staff are professional associates in courts and prosecutor’s offices who attend the initial training and other seminars provided by the judicial training centers.

(2023): Court presidents and chief prosecutors are counted in the number of judges and prosecutors delivered for: Q19 (Number of professional judges sitting in courts on 31 December 2023), Q28 (Number of prosecutors on 31 December 2023), and Q147-2 (Number of unique participants of the trainings during the reference year). The number of professional judges sitting in courts on an occasional basis (i.e. 38 reserve judges on 31 December 2023), that used to be submitted for Q20, is not included in the data provided for Q19 and Q147-2.

(2022): Court presidents and chief prosecutors are counted in the number of judges and prosecutors delivered for: Q19 (Number of professional judges sitting in courts on 31 December 2022), Q28 (Number of prosecutors on 31 December 2022), and Q147-2 (Number of unique participants of the trainings during the reference year). The number of professional judges sitting in courts on an occasional basis on 31 December 2022 submitted for Q20 is not included in the data provided for Q147-2. The number of professional judges sitting in courts on 31 December 2022 (i.e. 1000) was higher than the number of unique participants of the trainings registered during 2022 (i.e. 1008), as some judges, who attended the trainings, left the judiciary before the end of the reporting year due to resignation, retirement, death etc.

Montenegro

(2025): At this stage, the Centre does not maintain disaggregated statistical data on participation by gender. The internal data collection and reporting system is still being further developed and currently does not allow for the extraction of training participation data broken down by women and men. Efforts are ongoing to improve internal monitoring mechanisms in order to enable more detailed statistical reporting in the future.

North Macedonia

(2022): Currently, the Academy's system can process and deliver data on the total number of judges and public prosecutors, that is, the total number of judges and the total number of public prosecutors who participated in the training. It can also provide data on the total number of training sessions by topic, but it is not possible to provide data according to your requirements.

Serbia

(2024): From the total number of 3128, 1298 participants are lawyers, police officers, social workers and beneficiaries of the Judicial Academy. The total number of 1830 unique participants include these categories: judges, prosecutors, non-judge staff and non-prosecutor staff.

(2023): With the new platform and the new internal system for gathering data, the Academy should have this statistics from the next year.

Kosovo*

(2022): Moreover, there were 78 (private enforcement agents, free legal aid officials and victim defender) and 286 other professionals.

Question 76

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2025): Comments:

In comparison to the previous reporting year, there were more courses available on the HELP platform in 2025. In addition, in 2025 newly appointed judges and prosecutors were required, as part of their mandatory initial training course, to complete 4 HELP courses, which was a prerequisite for them to be eligible to attend the further sessions within the mandatory initial training course. Consequently, there was an increase in the number of available online training courses as well as in the number of participants in those courses.

(2024): In comparison to the previous year, there were disparities in number of participants in internet-based trainings provided on the e-learning platform of the judicial training institutions and other e-learning platforms. This was primarily due to developments related to the online module "Ethics and Integrity", which was transitioned in 2024 from the e-platform of the USAID project in Bosnia and Herzegovina “Judiciary against Corruption” to the e-platform managed by the judicial training institutions. During the transition period, it was not possible to conduct trainings on the aforementioned module. It is planned that this module will be available again in 2025. In addition, most judges and prosecutors attended training in this module during 2023, in accordance with the decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. In addition, although this module was available during 2024 before the transition, judges and prosecutors did not use it for training during that period. This had to do with the fact that most judges and prosecutors had attended training on this module during 2023, in accordance with the decision of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Training on this module is expected to continue in 2025.

Montenegro

(2025): there were no internet based trainings

(2024): And 18 other participants (representatives of state institutions, law enforcement officers, attorney-at-law, etc).
The participants in the training activities also included other legal professionals, i.e. attorneys-at-law, representatives of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution, Center for Women's Rights and the manager of the court registry.
Note (comment ref. row 1 - Total): The total of 109 participants in training activities includes: 29 judges, 22 prosecutors, 30 non-judge staff (2 candidate for a judge + 16 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts), 10 non-prosecutor staff (1 candidates for state prosecutors + 9 advisors from state prosecution offices), 18 legal professionals from other public institutions (15 attorneys-at-law) + 1 representative of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution + 1 representative of the Center for Women's Rights + 1 manager of the court registry.
Note (comment ref. row 4 - Non-judge staff): 2 candidates for judges + 16 advisors from courts + 12 trainees from courts.
Note (comment ref. row 5 - Non-prosecutor staff): 1 candidate for a state prosecutor + 9 advisors from state prosecution offices.
- In cooperation with HELP Programme for the Western Balkans and Turkey, Council of Europe (The European Programme for Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals), the Centre organized 4 (four) HELP e-learning courses:
- The first HELP online course – e-learning (4 March to 21 April 2024) - The total of 18 participants successfully completed this course on the topic Judicial Reasoning and Human Rights (in effective duration of 20 hours) - 4 judges, 4 advisors from courts, 4 trainees from courts, 1 candidate for a judge, 4 attorneys-at-law and 1 manager of the court registry.
- The second HELP online course – e-learning (26 April to 18 July 2024) - The total of 25 participants successfully completed this course on the topic of Access to Justice for Women (in effective duration of 20 hours) - 4 judges, 5 state prosecutors, 3 advisors from courts, 2 advisors from state prosecution, 1 candidate for judges, 1 candidate for state prosecution, 7 attorneys-at-law, 1 representative of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution and 1 representative of the Center for Women's Rights. - The third HELP online course - e-learning (3 June – 31 July 2024) - The total of 1 participant successfully completed this course on the topic of The Importance of Quality of Justice in Mediation (in effective duration of 25 hours) – 1 judge.
- The fourth HELP online course – e-learning (4 October to 1 December 2024) - The total of 41 participant successfully completed this course on the topic of Procedural Safeguards in Criminal Proceedings and Victim's Rights (in effective duration of 26 hours) - 12 judges, 5 state prosecutors, 9 advisors from courts, 2 advisors from state prosecution, 8 trainees from courts, 4 attorneys-at-law and 1 representative of the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution. - The Centre participates in the activities offered by the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN) within EJTN - Pilot Action on Judicial Training (Western Balkans II Project) that project was launched in March 2022 for a period of three years. It is implemented within the "IPA II Multi-country Action Programme 2020" and benefits from the financial support of the European Commission's Directorate-General for Neighbourhood and Enlargement Negotiations (DG NEAR). The main goal of the Project is to strengthen the capacities of the judicial training institutions in the Western Balkans for delivery of effective and efficient judicial training to judges and prosecutors on the EU acquis, including on the rule of law, with a view to support the enlargement and stabilisation and association process, as well as the Western Balkan Strategy of the European Union. The Project works across two closely related components. The first component, which identifies the Serbian Judicial Academy (JA) and the Montenegrin Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution (CTJSP) as the primary beneficiaries of the action, aims to (2025): All 6 trainings are intended for judges, prosecutors, non judge staff and non prosecutor staff, there is no separate training for each category.

(2024): 2 participants is total number for non-judges and non-prosecutors. The Academy`s system can`t provide separate number for this category.

(2024): The total number of participants is 92, which inludes all participant categories.
Judicial Academy is continuously working to improve its training programs, therefore there might be a discrepancy regarding the number of participants, number of trainings, different offered trainings in regards to topics etc. and it all depends on the yearly demands and expectations of the all public institutions which take active participation in our programs, both in vivo and online. Moreover, at the end of each year Judicial Academy conducts a training needs analysis which is a guiding reference for the future trainings.

Question 77

Albania

(General Comment): The obligation of magistrates to complete mandatory training comes from Law No. 96/2016 On the Status of Judges and Prosecutors in the Republic of Albania.
Article 5, point 3 defines the mandatory period to be followed by the magistrate in the continuing training as follows:
The period of continuing education should be:
a) not less than five full days per year and not less than 30 full days during five years;
b) not more than 40 days per year and 200 days during five years
Regular follow-up and compliance with the law or not is a component that serves for the professional ethical evaluation of judges and prosecutors by the High Judicial Council and the High Prosecutorial Council, and non-attendance of continuous training can serve to be considered a disciplinary violation.
Article 102, point g
Disciplinary violations related to the exercise of the function:
unjustified non-fulfillment of the obligation to participate at least in the specified number of continuing training activities, according to the conditions and criteria established by law.
Also, the sanction for non-fulfillment of continuing training, which may lead to a disciplinary violation, is defined in articles 112 and 113 of the same law:
Article 112
Complementary disciplinary measures
1. If the magistrate has been convicted by a final decision for criminal offenses in the field of corruption, the Council decides, in addition to the dismissal of the magistrate, also the return of the amount of the gross salary of the last year in office benefited from him.
2. The Council, along with the measures provided for in point 1, letters "b", "c", subsection "i", "ç", "d", of Article 105, of this law, may also decide one of the following additional disciplinary measures:
a) compulsory attendance of specified professional trainings, according to the provision in Article 113 of this law;
b) removal from office of the chairman. Article 113
Complementary measures for training
In support of Article 112, point 2, letter "a", of this law, the Council may impose the additional disciplinary measure of mandatory attendance of specified professional trainings, if the offense committed can be corrected through participation in mandatory training programs. In this case, the decision determines the content and duration of the mandatory training program.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The Law on High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (Article 56) defines the list of disciplinary offences for judges which includes the following "failure to fulfill the obligation to participate in forms of compulsory professional training“.
Historically, none of the judges has been found liable for this offence.

Montenegro

(General Comment): The Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution does not stipulate penalties for judges who do not participate in training activities. However, when the work of judges is evaluated by the Judicial Council, one of the sub-criteria is participation in training activities. Therefore, if judges do not participate in training activities, it may have a negative effect on the overall evaluation of the work of judges.

(2025): Judges and state prosecutors shall have the right and duty to attend the in-service training for at least two working days annually for which they are to apply based on their own interest. (Article 45 paragraph 2 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)). According to the Law on the Judicial Council and Judges "Official Gazette of Montenegro", No. 11/2015, 28/2015, 42/2018, and 60/2024, it is stipulated that the general abilities and professional activities of a judge are assessed based on the following sub-criteria: communication skills; ability to adapt to changing circumstances; participation in various professional activities. Participation in various professional activities is assessed based on the judge's involvement in training and other professional activities. Therefore, it is important to fulfill the required number of training sessions prescribed by the Law on the Center, because the final assessment of the judge depends on their further advancement in service.

North Macedonia

(General Comment): According to the current Law on Courts, (Article 77 paragraph 1 item 5) as a disciplinary violation for which a disciplinary procedure is initiated to determine the disciplinary responsibility of a judge for whom a disciplinary measure will be imposed, is considered lack of mandatory training. the duty of continuing training).
According to the Law and bylaws of the Academy, the Academy only organize trainings that are mandatory and at the end of each calendar year they give certificates to the judges for the number of days spent on training. For the training days that the judges have gone through and whether they have completed the number of trainings according to their length of service, the Academy inform the Judicial Council which is acting further.

Serbia

(General Comment): If a specialization course is compulsory, those judges who do not receive certificate on that specialization will not be able to take cases on the relevant subject, e.g. juvenile law cases.
Under Article 97, paragraph 1, item 13 of the Law on Judges (Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia, No. 10/2023), unjustified absence from mandatory training programmes constitutes a disciplinary offense

(2025): Under Article 97, paragraph 1, item 13 of the Law on Judges (Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia, No. 10/2023), unjustified absence from mandatory training programmes constitutes a disciplinary offense

(2024): There is no sanction, but the judge cannot act in a cases for which according to the law, training is mandatory and the judge did not attend it.

(2023): There is no sanction, but the judge cannot act in a cases for which according to the law, training is mandatory and the judge did not attend it.

Kosovo*
(General Comment): The Kosovo Judicial Council has a mechanism for evaluating the performance of judges, including the attendance of judges in training. It has also approved Regulation No.06 / 2017 on Judge Training, according to which ethics training is mandatory for all judges and has determined the number of trainings depending on the experience of judges averaging 3-4 trainings per year. The failure to comply with this obligation without reasonable justification results in the application of the Law on Disciplinary Liability.

(2025): The Academy of Justice is required to design training programs in accordance with the requests of the Judicial Council and to deliver them to the relevant judges. The Academy does not have the authority to impose sanctions; its role is limited to reporting on the training programs, their implementation, and the attendance of judges in mandatory sessions to the Kosovo Judicial Council. However the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors stipulates that if the judge continuously does not follow the mandatory trainings, it constitutes disciplinary offence. Kosovo Judicial Council is responsible for conducting disciplinary procedures.

(2022): The training aspect is an important component that has an impact on the evaluation of the judge's performance. The Performance Evaluation Commission within the KJC is the competent authority and decides on sanctions or any other measure. The Academy of Justice has the obligation to design and implement mandatory training if there are requests from the Judicial Council and through reports to notify the relevant institution about the attendance or non-attendance of judges in training.

In this case, the decision determines the content and duration of the mandatory training program.
HPC - In Article 102, point 1, letter “h”, of the Law no. 96/2016 “On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”, as amended, is provided as a disciplinary violation related to the exercise of function, the non-compliance of the prosecutor with unjustified causes of the legal obligation to attend continuing training programs, according to the conditions and criteria set by law.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The Law on High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (Article 57) defines the list of disciplinary offences for prosecutors which includes the following "failure to fulfill the obligation to participate in forms of compulsory professional training“. Historically, none of the prosecutors has been found liable for this offence.

Montenegro

(General Comment): The Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution does not stipulate penalties for state prosecutors who do not participate in training activities. However, when the work of state prosecutors is evaluated by the Prosecutorial Council, one of the sub-criteria is participation in training activities. Therefore, if state prosecutors do not participate in training activities, it may have a negative effect on the overall evaluation of the work of state prosecutors

(2025): Judges and state prosecutors shall have the right and duty to attend the in-service training for at least two working days annually for which they are to apply based on their own interest. (Article 45 paragraph 2 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)). According to the Law on the Judicial Council and Judges "Official Gazette of Montenegro", No. 11/2015, 28/2015, 42/2018, and 60/2024, it is stipulated that the general abilities and professional activities of a judge are assessed based on the following sub-criteria: communication skills; ability to adapt to changing circumstances; participation in various professional activities. Participation in various professional activities is assessed based on the judge's involvement in training and other professional activities. Therefore, it is important to fulfill the required number of training sessions prescribed by the Law on the Center, because the final assessment of the judge depends on their further advancement in service.

(2024): Judges and state prosecutors shall have the right and duty to attend the in-service training for at least two working days annually for which they are to apply based on their own interest. (Article 45 paragraph 2 of the Law on the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro" no. 58/2015)).
According to the Law on the State Prosecutor's Office "Official Gazette of Montenegro", No. 11/2015, 42/2015, 80/2017, 10/2018, 76/2020, 59/2021, and 54/2024, the Secretariat keeps a record of data on state prosecutors and heads of state prosecutor offices, which includes, among other things, data on published scientific and professional papers and other activities in the profession. Professional activities also include participation in training, which is significant when evaluating the work of state prosecutors. Therefore, it is important to fulfill the required number of training sessions prescribed by the Law on the Center, as the final evaluation of the state prosecutor depends on their further advancement in service.

North Macedonia

(General Comment): See the answer on question 148.

Serbia

(General Comment): If a specialization course is compulsory, those prosecutors who do not receive certificate on that specialization will not be able to take cases on the relevant subject, e.g. juvenile law cases.
Under Article 115, paragraph 1, item 16 of the Law on the Public Prosecutor's Office (Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia, No. 10/2023), unjustified absence from mandatory training programmes constitutes a disciplinary offense

(2025): Under Article 115, paragraph 1, item 16 of the Law on the Public Prosecutor's Office (Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia, No. 10/2023), unjustified absence from mandatory training programmes constitutes a disciplinary offense. The public prosecutor cannot act in cases for which according to the law, training is mandatory and the public prosecutor did not attend it.

(2024): There is no sanction, but the public prosecutor cannot act in a cases for which according to the law, training is mandatory and the public prosecutor did not attend it.

(2023): There is no sanction, but the public prosecutor cannot act in a cases for which according to the law, training is mandatory and the public prosecutor did not attend it.

Kosovo*

(General Comment): Kosovo Prosecutorial Council Regulation No. 01/2020 on Trainings and Professional Development in the Prosecutorial System was approved on 14 January 2020. This regulation foresees mandatory trainings and sanctions. Article 18 of this regulation foresees that if prosecutors do not act pursuant with the obligations deriving from the regulation, namely attend the trainings foreseen, they have disciplinary liability.

(2025): Similar to its obligations toward judges, the Academy of Justice is required to design training programs based on the requests of the Prosecutorial Council and to make them available to the respective prosecutors. The Academy does not hold authority to impose sanctions; its role is limited to providing information on the training programs, their implementation, and the attendance of prosecutors to the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council.
However the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors stipulates that if the prosecutor continuously does not follow the mandatory trainings, it constitutes disciplinary offence. Kosovo Prosecutorial Council is responsible for conducting disciplinary procedures.

(2022): The training aspect is an important component that has an impact on the evaluation of the prosecutor's performance. The Performance Evaluation Commission within the KPK is the competent authority and decides on sanctions or any other measure. The Academy of Law has the obligation to design and implement mandatory trainings if there are requests from the Prosecutorial Council and through reports to notify the relevant institution about the attendance or non-attendance of the prosecutors in the training

Albania

(General Comment): The assessment of training needs is a process spread over different steps, time and subjects. This process begins with an invitation to propose topics, which is sent to all beneficiaries of continuing training, such as magistrates, state lawyers, judicial police officers; the institutions with which the School of Magistrates cooperates; national and international partners; High Judicial Council; High Prosecutorial Council; Ministry of Justice; internal and external teachers of the School. In short, to every beneficiary or valued entity that can make a contribution to the most coherent and beneficial drafting of the activity calendar. During the drafting of the Calendar, the suggestions given in the Evaluation Forms of each training activity that took place in a previous academic year are also taken into consideration. The approved Draft Calendar is then sent to all the beneficiary subjects where they are asked to apply for participation to the training topics they are interested in. Based on the interest shown, the final topics are approved which will be organized during the next academic year.
Regarding the evaluation of the training activities, at the end of each activity, evaluation forms are distributed to the participants and experts. The participants give their evaluation on the activity, the materials available from the experts, the panel of experts and facilitators as well as the continuing training staff. The experts evaluate the interactivity between the participants as well as between each other.

(2025): Before adopting an annual training programme, the Centre conducts training needs assessment on the basis of the Training Needs Assessment Methodology developed with the support of the Council of Europe within the project "Accountability and Professionalism of the Judicial System in Montenegro", i.e. the Horizontal Facility for the Western Balkans and Turkey II. This methodology is based on a comprehensive approach which includes various qualitative and quantitative research tools and methods. This includes collecting data by sending electronic questionnaires to judges and state prosecutors who express their interests and needs for training, but also through focus group meetings and interviews with the training programme beneficiaries, which serve as a basis for preparation of the annual training programme. The Centre also takes into account the review of legislation, reports and strategic documents, letters from national institutions and organizations, contributions from professional associations and non-governmental organizations, analysis of other available statistical data, expert assessments and, of course, the Progress Report of Montenegro prepared by the EU Commission, as well as other relevant recommendations. The Centre also uses the Google Analytics platform, i.e. a questionnaire for collecting opinions and suggestions of key target groups, i.e. judges The invitation link is sent to all judges through court presidents. When it comes to focus groups, first of all, the Centre carefully selects the members of these focus groups on an annual basis and then at the meetings the Centre gains a deeper insight into their views, opinions and suggestions. There are three focus groups - for criminal law, civil law and misdemeanor law. When it comes to the judges of the Commercial Court and the Administrative Court, due to the small number of these judges, the Centre usually conducts an interview with them in order to take into account their opinion. The Supreme State Prosecutor’s Office prepares a separate Training Needs Analysis (TNA) for prosecutors and submits it to the Centre.

From 2023 a set of questions about the EU law was included in the questionnaire with the help of the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN). The main expected result hereof was development of a Training Programme on the EU acquis, consisting of 5 (five) face-to-face and 1 (one) online seminar, which has been incorporated into the CTJSP’s Annual Training Programme in 2023 and 2024. Namely, the EJTN appointed two experts who worked on conducting the analysis of the results of the TNA in cooperation with the Centre from November to December 2022. These experts contributed to the TNA with elaboration of survey questions, participation in focus groups meetings, discussions with project beneficiaries and other relevant stakeholders, as well as with drafting a proposal for organization of training courses on the EU law and recommendations for improvement of the TNA process.

(General Comment): The annual training needs assessment primarily consists of the collection of qualitative and quantitative data from the target group -users of the training programs, as well as a wide range of partners in the implementation of the educational activities. The methodology used includes surveys and focus groups. Quantitative data is collected using standardised questionnaires adapted to the job analysis and the educational characteristics of the target audience. Focus groups with relevant representatives of courts and prosecutor's offices (representatives of the judicial practice department, presidents of the departments, first deputies, and users of initial training) are organised for the purpose of checking the quality of data obtained through surveys, but also for the purpose of obtaining more complex information in order to improve the quality of training and better functionalisation of the curriculum. Taking into account the complexity of the role of judges and prosecutors, the Judicial Academy also conducts an analysis of all relevant strategic documents and legal regulations, when constructing instruments for training needs analysis. Before sending the questionnaire, Judicial Academy regularly communicates with all important judicial bodies involved in defining the criteria for assessing the work performance of judges and prosecutors, in order to more comprehensively analyse the educational needs and make the curriculum sufficiently adaptable to the general and specific needs of the target audience.

The methodology used includes surveys and focus groups. Quantitative data is collected using standardized questionnaires adapted to the job analysis and the educational characteristics of the target audience. Focus groups with relevant representatives of courts and prosecutor's offices (representatives of the judicial practice department, presidents of the departments, first deputies, users of initial training) are organized for the purpose of checking the quality of data obtained through surveys, but also for the purpose of obtaining more complex information in order to improve the quality of training and better functionalization of the curriculum. Taking into account the complexity of the roll of judges and prosecutors, the Judicial Academy also conducts an analysis of all relevant strategic documents and legal regulations, when constructing instruments for training needs analysis. Before sending the questionnaire, Judicial Academy regularly communicates with all important judicial bodies involved in defining the criteria for assessing the work performance of judges and prosecutors, in order to more comprehensively analyze the educational needs and make the curriculum sufficiently adaptable to the general and specific needs of the target audience.

(General Comment): The Academy of Justice, in addition to the above-mentioned resources, also implements the following mechanisms:

- Strategies and documents approved by the institutions that contain recommendations for the judiciary and the rule of law;
- Work reports of courts and prosecutors' offices;
- Monitoring of print and electronic media
- Recommendations of the Office for Performance Evaluation of judges and prosecutors;
- Analysis of the legislative agenda of the assembly
- Proposals of the staff, the Program Council and the Governing Council of the AD;
- Recommendations from NGOs
- The recommendations of local and international institutions and organizations are also taken as a basis
- The report of the European Commission on Kosovo.

The list of defined mechanisms is updated according to developments or priorities. The innovation in this list was also receiving opinions from civil societies, whose activity helps to create new perspectives for the training program.

(2025): Other mechanisms such as the perspective of civil society, the legislative agenda of the assembly and legal novelties, media monitoring of the judiciary, reports on the work of courts and prosecutors' offices, recommendations of the Ombudsman and strategic documents at the country level that have an impact on the work of the judiciary.

(2024): Besides the aforementioned sources, we take into account also take the perspective of the Civil Society, media monitoring on the judiciary, the court and prosecution office working reports, recommendations from the Ombudsperson, and the national strategic documents that impact the work of the judiciary

(2024): the frequency of assessment: School of Magistrates of Albania, each year organizes the needs assessment process for the continuous training program for in-service magistrates in the country. They are invited to send to the School of Magistrates all their needs/proposals for topics to be included the year's continuous training program and treated in training seminars.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The analysis and creation of training programs is done by the judicial training institutions once a year.
There are two types of evaluation questionnaires that the judicial training institutions use to gather the relevant information:
1. Heads of courts and prosecutor's offices – there is a questionnaire aimed at collecting their proposals with regards to topics they find relevant for their respective institutions.
2. All judges and prosecutors – there is a questionnaire which has a purpose to obtain their proposals with regards to topics they think should be included in the annual training programs.
In addition, the judicial training institutions cooperate with the Standing Committee for Training of the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina trough the analysis of relevant case - law.

(General Comment): The assessment of training needs is done continuously throughout the year.

(2025): The training needs assessment is conducted annually and serves as the basis for drafting the training program within the framework of continuous education. For initial training, the program includes modules covering the jurisdiction assigned to newly appointed judges and prosecutors in the general divisions. However, for each new generation of judges and prosecutors, the program is reviewed and updated to reflect any legal developments, as well as improvements in training methodology.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The Centers for Training of Judges and Prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina are using the Kirkpatrick training evaluation model except that the trainings are not evaluated after 6 months or after a year from the date of realization.

Montenegro

(General Comment): The so-far evaluation carried out by the Centre for Training in Judiciary and State Prosecution was aimed at measuring satisfaction of participants in training activities, immediately after the training activity.
Through evaluation questionnaires, which are filled out at the end of the training, we examined whether and to what extent the participants are satisfied with the training programme, owing to which we obtain average grades by taking into account the following:
- to what extent the participants' expectations are fulfilled;
- satisfaction with the offered material;
- general evaluations of the training activity;
- knowledge self-assessment before and after the training; (i.e. positive differences in self-assessment of participants' knowledge before and after the training);
- proposals for future topics;
- and acceptability of the teaching method or the way in which the lecture was implemented.
In the evaluation questionnaire, special attention is paid to the assessment of the quality of lecturers, where the following is assessed: - Quality of lectures; - Adherence to scheduled duration of lectures; - Communication and interaction with participants in the training activity; - Clarity and interestingness of the presentation; - Mastery of knowledge transfer skills; - Applicability in practice when it comes to the contents of the lecture and the materials shared during the training; - Demonstrated motivation.
Taking into account the above, the Centre interprets the results and opinions presented in the evaluation form, and adapts its training offer to the suggestions provided by the participants (and based on the analysis, the Centre can also change the lecturers).
In addition, the Rulebook on Lecturers prescribes the obligation of lecturers to submit a report after the training (where the lecturer himself expresses his opinion on success of the training, whether the topic was relevant, involvement of the participants, etc.). At the end of 2022, the Centre started to amend its Rulebook on Lecturers. The amendment hereof foresees introduction of a questionnaire that will be distributed to participants both at the beginning and at the end of the training, with the same questions, in order to measure knowledge improvement in terms of specific training activity, i.e. training topic.
Furthermore, the Centre monitors implementation of its Annual Training Programmes through quantitative indicators of success, such as the number of implemented programmes, implemented training activities, and the number and structure of the participants. In this way, the Centre can obtain the number of the most attended training activities (through average attendance and the interest expressed in attending the training).
When it comes to the measurement of real effects of the training activity (in addition to the evaluation questionnaires after completion of the training, sending of questionnaires after a certain period of time), we believe that the best indicator of the effects of the training activities is the analysis of judicial practice, i.e. the way in which judges and state prosecutors apply acquired knowledge in their daily practice. The Centre carries out this type of evaluation exceptionally and in cooperation with international partners, within the projects related to a specific area. For example, such an analysis was carried out in relation to the freedom of expression, when court decisions were analysed, the number of court decisions and the manner in which international standards were applied in connection with Article 10 of the ECHR, in the time period before and during the implementation of the (2025): The annual plan for the implementation of monitoring and evaluation determines the activities, as well as the instruments that will be used to assess the quality of the implemented educational activities. The evaluation instruments are based on the following indicators: the quality of the training program, the quality of lecturers/trainers, the quality of the chosen methodology, the quality of the training content and the practical knowledge application. Quality and satisfaction with the continuous training program are measured by the following instruments: Standard evaluation questionnaire, Assessment of the impact of the training in the Judicial Academy on the performance of the respondents, Evaluation of the Judicial Academy's educational activities with permanent participants, Participant's educational expectations from Judicial Academy, Participant's satisfaction with the educational aspects of the Judicial Academy, Monitoring reports, Structured tests (pre and post assessment of learning outcomes).

Conclusions and recommendations are derived from the evaluation tables, which are dedicated to the Academy of Justice for improving both the training programs and the experience of their beneficiaries. These findings are directly applicable to judicial practice.

(General Comment): For all judicial office holders and non-judicial staff (all topics except the ethics) only post-training satisfaction questionnaires are used.
The questionnaires are anonymous and contain three parts:
1. The first part: satisfaction with technical realization, satisfaction with the trainer and topic, 2. The second part is evaluation of the trainer - methodology, communication, knowledge sharing,
3. The third part are comments related to improvement of training, personal impressions and proposals of new topics.
The training grades range from 1 to 5 (5 being the highest grade).

(General Comment): Assessment of satisfaction with some aspects of the training is carried out immediately after the training. Assessment of changes in knowledge is carried out using standardized pre and post tests. When the structure of the educational activity allows, the Judicial Academy evaluates the medium and long-term effects of the training. The medium-term effects are determined using a standardized questionnaire for assessing knowledge retention and the possibility of application in daily work. It is conducted two to three months after the training. The long-term effects of the training are carried out by a comparative analysis of the changes in the daily work of the participants also 6 months after the training.

Q156 (General Comment): As provided by the Criminal Procedure Code, Parties may request the disqualification of a judge in cases of incompatibility, on grounds of participating in proceedings; incompatibility on grounds of family, blood or in-laws relation, when the judge has the duty to abstain from the judgment, and if, in the exercise of his functions and prior to the issuance of the decision, he has expressed his opinion on the facts or circumstances object of the proceedings. Similar proceedings are provided by civil procedures and administrative procedures codes.

The judge is obliged to withdraw from a case when:

1. he has an interest in the case or in another dispute which is related to it in the trial.
2. he or his spouse has kin relations to the fourth degree or in-law to the second degree, or is related by obligations of child adoption, or lives together in a permanently with one of the parties or attorneys.
3. he or his spouse is in legal conflict or in enmity or in relations of credit or loan with one of the parties or one of the representatives.
4. he has given advise or has expressed opinion on the case in trial or has participated in the trial of the case in a different level of the process, has been questioned as a witness, as expert or representative of one or the other party.
5. he is guardian, employer of one of the parties, administrator or has another task in an entity, association, society or other institution which has interests in the case in trial.
6. in any other event when, according to concrete circumstances, serious reasons for partiality are verified. The request for resignation is presented to the chairman of the respective court who decides. The chairman of the Court of Appeal decides on the presentation of the resignation of the chairman of the district court, and the Chairman of the High Court decides on the request of the chairman of the Court of Appeal. The parties are notified on the content of the request

The judge who on his conscience assesses that there are reasonable causes not to take part in the revision of a case, requests the chairman of the court to be replaced. When Chairman of the court deems relevant the request orders his replacement with another judge through lot.

In cases where the resignation of a judge is mandatory, each of the parties may request the exempt of the judge.

The request, signed by the respective party or its representative, must be deposited with the court secretariat when the announcement of the judge or judges that shall examine the case is made public, or if not, immediately after the announcement of the judge or judges that shall try the case.

Later submission of the request is permitted only in the instance that the party has received information on the grounds of dismissal, or if the judge has inappropriately expressed biased opinion of the facts and circumstances pertaining to the trial during the execution of his duties, although no later than three days from receipt of information.

The request must contain the grounds of dismissal, documents and other available evidence.

The request for the dismissal of a judge is examined in consultation chamber in a session by another judge of the same court. The appeal against the decision to accept or reject the request for dismissal is allowed together with the final decision.

The request for dismissing a judge of the appeals court is decided by a panel of three judges of the same court, different from the panel to which the judge belongs. The decision is of a final form.

The request for dismissing a judge of the High Court is decided by a panel of three judges of the same court, different from the panel to which the judge belongs. The decision is of a Q157 (2024): To avoid confusion with last year's data, we clarify that from the statistical data that the Council collects, there are 1006 requests for resignation on the case by the judge, approved by the president of the court; and 14 decisions aimed at excluding a judge.

Q158 (General Comment): Every intervention made while distributing cases by electronic lot is logged in the system, this means a third party can audit in every moment the procedure of the lot, and see if it has been done according to the rules in place. Whenever the workload of a judge is considered disproportionate compared to the average, the judge in question is excluded from the random distribution of the cases, by an internal order issued by the president of the court.

Q165 (2025): This is defined by internal rules and regulations of courts. Following guidelines and by-laws to be approved by HJC, as provided by Law No. 98 / 2016 “on the organisation of the judicial power in the Republic of Albania”, this aspect will be further defined. Furthermore, Law 98/2016, art. 6 “When carrying out its activity, judicial civil servants shall be obliged to avoid any conflict of interest, in accordance with the rules provided in the legislation on the prevention of conflict of interests.”. In addition, art. 8 “The activity of the judicial civil service is governed by law and is based on the principles of equal opportunities, non-discrimination, transparency, professionalism, integrity, responsiveness and orientation towards efficient and accessible services to every person. 2. The status of judicial civil servants is based on the principle of the guarantee of stability, merit and transparent career development.”
Q167 (General Comment): Please note that the constitution provides that a judge can be an Albanian citizen appointed by the High Judicial Council after graduating the School of Magistrates and after the conduction of a preliminary process of verification of their assets and their background checks, in accordance with the law. Hence, an initial obligation to declare assets, prior to their appointment as judges is provided in the constitution. Further, this obligation is further elaborated in the law on status of judges of prosecutors that provides that judges and prosecutors undergo an assets and background check, prior to their admission to the School of Magistrates, prior to their appointment as judges and prosecutors and every time that they apply for a position at a higher level.
However, please note that the obligation to annually declare their (applicable to judges and prosecutors) assets is provided in a special law, namely law on the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials.

Q155 (General comment): Article 3, 2 of law no. 9049, dated 10.4.2003 "On the declaration and control of the assets, financial obligations of the elected and some public employees", as amended, that follows article 3, and it states:
"Article 3/1

2. Candidates for the positions referred to in point 1 of this article, who are subject to the obligation to declare private interests in accordance with the provisions of Article 3 of this law, shall not perform a new declaration, but shall be subjected to full audit of assets. In the event during 180 days prior to the submission of the request, the candidate has already been audited by the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interests and the audit didn't prove to be disfavourable for them, then the audit shall be considered as already performed.
3. The High Inspectorate shall perform full audit on the verification of truthfulness and accuracy of the data contained in the declarations of persons referred to in point 1 of this article within 2 months from the submission of the declaration, unless otherwise stipulated by the law. At the end of verification, the General Inspector shall immediately send the relevant verification reports to the relevant institutions."
Article 3/1 of the law no. 9049, dated 10.4.2003 "On the declaration and control of the assets, financial obligations of the elected and some public employees", as amended, specifies the obligation to declare for the candidates for different positions in the justice system.
This article has been added with the amendments made to the law, by law no. 42/2017, dated 6.4.2017, "On some changes and additions to the law no. 9049, dated 10.4.2003 'On the declaration and control of the assets, financial obligations of the elected and some public employees', as amended".

Q168 (General comment): Article 7 of the law no. 9049, dated 10.4.2003 "On the declaration and control of the assets, financial obligations of the elected and some public employees", as amended, sets out the provisions regarding the annual periodic declaration:
"Article 7
Annual Periodic Declaration
1. Periodic declarations shall only include the changes to the previously declared assets, financial obligations, and private interests, in accordance with Article 6 of this law, those appearing during the declaration year and any earned income and declarable expenditure carried out during the year being declared.
2. The declarations prior to the beginning of duty, according to Article 5/1 of this Law, and the declaration after leaving office, according to Article 7/1 of this Law, shall be specific instances of the periodic declaration.
3. All officials and other persons related, who have the obligation to declare, shall be obliged to present their declaration, by March 31 of each year, to the authority or responsible structure of the public institution contemplated in the legislation applicable to the prevention of conflict of interests in the exercise of public functions.
4. When the official transfers the rights of active ownership of shares or parts of the capital, according to the provisions of the legislation applicable to the prevention of conflict of interests in the exercise of public functions, in the periodic declaration, as long as this situation continues, they shall only declare the status of such rights before the transfer and the earning from property they effectively received during the year for which the declaration is made.
5. For the purpose of declaration before taking office, annual periodic declaration, or after leaving office, according to the above points of this article, the persons related to the officials who have the obligation to make a declaration shall include only the spouse, cohabitant, and their adult children."
Article 9 of the law no. 9049, dated 10.4.2003 "On the declaration and control of the assets, financial obligations of the elected and some public employees", as amended, sets out the provisions regarding the declaration on request:
"Article 9
Declaration on Request
1. The Inspector General shall have the duty to request the declaration of assets and private interests and the sources of their creation, according to the requirements of this Law, as well as to order the inspection of the accuracy of these declarations even for individuals, or natural and legal persons, when, from the verifications made, it turns out that the latter are persons related to entities that have the obligation to declare periodically.
2. The definition of a related person, pursuant to point 1 of this Article, shall also apply to a trustee, as defined in the legislation applicable to prevention of conflict of interests in the exercise of public functions, as well as to the cohabitants as defined by the Family Code.
3. The Inspector General, for the purpose of verifying the declaration of income, in accordance with the legislation applicable to income tax, shall send to the Minister of Finance and the General Director of Taxation information about the list of individuals who result as persons related with the declaring entities that have the obligation to declare, according to point 1 of this Article."

Q169 (2025): No changes from previous year

Q170 (General Comment): In accordance with article 21 and 22 of the special law, the declaration of assets includes the assets of the subject and his family (husband / wife, cohabitant and adult children), the sources of creation and financial liabilities of the entity. The declaration shall also include the fact whether the declarant has or does not have any other related persons.
When the property of the members of the family is divided and registered as such in the bodies of the state or judicial administration, the declaration is submitted separately by each member of the family, with the property registered in his/her own name, and it is attached to the declaration of the subject who has the obligation to make the declaration. The member of the family and the person related to the declaring subject is legally liable for the authenticity and accuracy of the declared data. Spouses and adult children have an obligation to declare assets the same as the judge or prosecutor. On the special form, there is a separate section for the spouse and the adult children that is signed by them, and if there are any assets that have not been declared, they are administratively or criminally liable for the omission to declare. However, for underage children the obligation to declare their assets rests with the judge or the prosecutor since, in any case, if the children would have any assets under their name, they would be acting as legal representatives for that asset, and therefore such interests would have to be declared. However, this is a very rare situation, since, in the most cases, underage children are unable to enter into legal transactions.

Q173 (General Comment): Article 25/1

Q177 (2024): The cases represent administrative investigations conducted by HIDAACI while sanctions represent fines.
Q177 (2023): *The cases represent administrative investigations conducted by HIDAACI while sanctions represent fines.

Q179 (General Comment): The subjects are obliged to declare to the High Inspectorate of the Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interests, by March 31st of each year, the situation of their private interests inside and outside the territory of Albania, the sources of their creation, and their financial obligations up to December 31st of the previous year, as follows:
a) immovable properties and the real rights over them according to the Civil Code;
b) movable properties that can be registered in the public registers and the real rights over them according to the Civil Code;
c) Items with special value over 300 000 (three hundred thousand) ALL;
ç) The value of shares, securities and parts of capital owned;
d) The amount of liquidity, situation in cash outside the banking system, in current account, deposits, treasury bonds and loans, in ALL or foreign currency;
dh) Financial obligations to natural and legal persons, expressed in ALL or in foreign currency;
e) Personal income for the year, from the salary or participation in boards, commissions or any other activity that brings personal income;
ë) Licenses and patents that bring income.
f) Gifts and preferential treatments, including the identity of the natural or legal person from whom come or are created the gifts or preferential treatments. The gifts or preferential treatments are not declared when their value is less than 10,000 (ten thousand) ALL, and when two or more gifts or preferential treatments given by the same person, together, do not exceed this value during the same period of declaration;
g) Engagements in private activities for profit or any kind of activity that generates income, including any kind of income created by this activity or this engagement;
gj) Private interests of the entity, corresponding, containing, based on or derived from family or cohabitation relations;
h) Any declarable expenses, worth over 300,000 (three hundred thousand) ALL, carried out during the declaration year;
Private interests of other types, different from those specified in Article 4 of this Law, may be required to be declared periodically, if it is possible and appropriate for subcategories of interests within these types, determined by order of the Inspector General.
2. Subjects specified in Article 3/1 of this law, shall be obliged to declare – to the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interests – their private interests, their sources, as well as their domestic and out-of-country financial obligations, in compliance with Article 5/1 of this law and in accordance to the timeframes stipulates by the effective legislation.
Q179 (2025): No changes from previous year.
Q179 (2022): Except above mentioned, must be declared any expenses incurred in the amount of over 300,000 ALL, eg. for education, health care, vacation, rent, etc., and the total of the annual expenditure by declaring savings, as appropriate.
Q180 (General Comment): Also, another declaration of prosecutors is the Periodic/Annual Private Interest Statement, who is declared during each year (annual/periodic) of exercising their function. Declaration Forms are approved from the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interests.
Q180 (2024): Another declarations of assets from prosecutors is the Periodic/Annual Private Interest Statement, which are declared during each time the prosecutors apply for promotion in higher positions. Declaration Forms are approved from the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interests

Q181 (General Comment): In accordance with article 21 and 22 of the special law, the declaration of assets includes the assets of the subject and his family (husband / wife, cohabitant and adult children), the sources of creation and financial liabilities of the entity. The declaration shall also include the fact whether the declarant has or does not have any other related persons.
When the property of the members of the family is divided and registered as such in the bodies of the state or judicial administration, the declaration is submitted separately by each member of the family, with the property registered in his/her own name, and it is attached to the declaration of the subject who has the obligation to make the declaration. The member of the family and the person related to the declaring subject is legally liable for the authenticity and accuracy of the declared data. Spouses and adult children have an obligation to declare assets the same as the judge or prosecutor. On the special form, there is a separate section for the spouse and the adult children that is signed by them, and if there are any assets that have not been declared, they are administratively or criminally liable for the omission to declare. However, for underage children the obligation to declare their assets rests with the judge or the prosecutor since, in any case, if the children would have any assets under their name, they would be acting as legal representatives for that asset, and therefore such interests would have to be declared. However, this is a very rare situation, since, in the most cases, underage children are unable to enter into legal transactions.

Q181 (2025): No changes from previous year.

Q188 (2025): The cases represent administrative investigations conducted by HIDAACI while sanctions represent fines.
Q188 (2024): The cases represent administrative investigations conducted by HIDAACI while sanctions represent fines.
Q188 (2023): *The cases represent administrative investigations conducted by HIDAACI while sanctions represent fines.

Q188 (2022): Please note that under the new constitutional amendments, judges and prosecutors are undergoing a vetting process. As part of this temporary process, judges and prosecutors are re-evaluation based on three criteria:
(a) Asset assessment, (b) Background assessment, and (c) Proficiency assessment. Under the asset declaration process, HIDAACI plays a key role: HIDAACI based on declarations of assets shall conduct a full audit procedure in compliance with this law, the Law “On the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials, the Law “On prevention of conflict of interest in exercising public functions” and the “Code of Administrative Procedures”.
The General Inspector of HIDAACI, for the purpose of this assessment, can request through the General Directorate of Prevention of Money Laundering or Ministry of Justice records of assets owned by assessees or their related persons, or any financial transactions in Albania or abroad according to Law “On prevention of money laundering and financing of terrorism” or documents used abroad by assessees or their related persons. Such documents or information can be used as evidence before the Commission or Appeal Chamber.
3. HIDAACI provides full access to international observers, upon their request, to seek information, consult, copy or investigate declaration of assets submitted by the assessee or his or her related persons and their accompanying documents.
4. HIDAACI shall conduct a full audit procedure as soon as possible but no longer than 180 days as of the day of asset declaration submission.
5. Upon completion of the audit, the General Inspector of HIDAACI shall prepare a reasoned detailed report and, as appropriate, shall find out that: (a) Accurate declaration /disclosure in compliance with the law, with legitimate financial sources and not found in situation of conflicts of interest; (b) Lack of legitimate financial sources to justify their assets; (c) Hiding wealth/ assets;
(d) False declaration; (e) Assessee found in situation of conflicts of interests.
For these reasons, HIDAACI has not in itself, referred for further proceedings against judges and prosecutors to criminal investigation or fined, as an administrative measure, any judge or prosecutor during 2019; however, due to the work of HIDAACI, a considerable number of judges and prosecutors have been dismissed from the vetting bodies based on the reports filed by HIDAACI. To ilustrate the work of HIDAACI under the vetting process, from 8 February 2018 to 31 December 2019 the IQC (the first vetting body) has dismissed from duty 50 judges, 31 prosecutors and 2 legal advisors. The findings of the assessment process done from HIDAACI for 178 subjects that were under evaluation, 119 subjects resulted without any problems, and 59 subjects were reported by HIDAACI with problems with their asset declarations. Further to these reports, IQC undertakes a more in-depth investigation. These in-depth investigations resulted in the following data: 80 subjects were reported without violations/discrepancies in their declaration of assets and 98 subjects were reported with violations/discrepancies in their declaration of assets. Most of these subjects were dismissed due to these discrepancies.

Q189 (General Comment): 1.Any official, in the exercise of his powers or in the performance of his public duties on the basis of his recognition and in good faith, is obliged to make a preliminary declaration, case by case, of the existence of his private interests, which may give rise to the a conflict of interest. Q192 (2025): Article 9 of Law 96/2016

Q194 (General Comment): In the Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors", as amended, is provided that, breach of the rules of incompatibility or conflict of interest prevention is a disciplinary violation. Also, in the Law no. 9367 dated 7.4.2005, "On the prevention of conflicts of interest in the exercise of public functions", as amended, is provided that, any violation of the obligations set forth in this law, when it does not constitute a criminal offense, constitutes an administrative offense and is punishable by a fine.

Q195 (General Comment): Please briefly describe the procedure: Please note that civil procedure code and criminal procedure code have been checked because they regulate the recusals of judges in civil or criminal proceedings and the procedure for doing so.
Please note that some of the procedure to sanction breaches of the rules on the conflict of interest for both judges and prosecutors are provided in the law on the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania. In question 223, this law under the "law on judges" tick. However, please be advised that this law in question 232 has been reported in the section "other, please specify" because, under the similar section includes "law on public prosecutors/public prosecution". In Albania these are two different law: law on the status of judges and prosecutors, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecutors" and the law on the organisation and functioning of the prosecution offices in the Republic of Albania, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecution".

Q195 (2025): Article 102 of law 96/2016: Disciplinary misconducts during the exercise of the function are, in particular, but not limited to the acts, omissions or behaviours of the magistrate, as follows: a) Failure to submit a request for recusal from the proceedings or from the trial of the case, when it is mandatory under the law, if the magistrate is aware or should have been aware of such circumstances; b) Filing a request for recusal from proceeding or trial of the case, if this action is: (i) not based on reasons provided by law; (ii) done aiming at creating unfair benefit for the parties and third parties or aiming at shirking the legal responsibility to review the case or aiming at creating the possibility of assigning the case to another magistrate; (iii) Non-submission of the request immediately after getting aware about the cause;
Article 103 of law 96/2016: Disciplinary misconducts outside of the exercise of the function are in particular but not limited the actions, omissions and behaviours of the magistrate, as follows…. “Benefiting unfairly, directly or indirectly gifts, favours, promises or preferential treatment of any kind, which are given because of the exercised function or due to the use of his/her position as a magistrate, even in the case when they are formalized through a legal act”.

Q130 (General comment): Please note that under the new constitutional amendments, judges and prosecutors are undergoing a vetting process. As part of this temporary process, judges and prosecutors are re-evaluation based on three criteria:
(a) Asset assessment, (b) Background assessment, and (c) Proficiency assessment. Under the asset declaration process, HIDAACI plays a key role: HIDAACI based on declarations of assets shall conduct a full audit procedure in compliance with this law, the Law “On the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials, the Law “On prevention of conflict of interest in exercising public functions” and the “Code of Administrative Procedures”.
The General Inspector of HIDAACI, for the purpose of this assessment, can request through the General Directorate of Prevention of Money Laundering or Ministry of Justice records of assets owned by assessees or their related persons, or any financial transactions in Albania or abroad according to Law “On prevention of money laundering and financing of terrorism” or documents used abroad by assessees or their related persons.HIDAACI, for all the subjects involved in this process, took measures for the compilation of individual physical files, which included systematically and thoroughly the form of declaration of assets, the justifying documents and following all the correspondence related to the reevaluation process. All documentation administered in the file is reflected in each case in the file inventory.
The High Inspectorate with the purpose of fulfilling the constitutional and legal obligations for the completion of the full audit of assets declarations regarding the legitimacy of the source of the creation of the property, the fulfillment of financial obligations, including private interests, started the establishment of the official communication with all public and private entities for verification purposes for more than 3,000 persons (subjects of re-evaluation and related persons).
Moreover, the High Inspectorate for the purposes of data accuracy, and reconciliation took measures to manually extract and process from the assets declaration forms submitted for the re-evaluation process, along with assets declaration forms submitted by subjects over the years, detailed data (fatherhood, motherhood, date of birth, identification number, civil status etc.) to more than 3,000 persons (re-evaluation subjects and related persons).
The correspondence was initially sent to about 26 public and private legal entities (Bank of Albania, second tier banks, investment companies, IPRO, NBC, Agency for Legalisation, Urbanisation and Integration of Informal Areas and Buildings, GDT, GDPML, General Maritime Directorate, Electricity Power Distribution Operator, etc.). During the audit process, depending on its progress, as well as the need to obtain additional information, HIDAACI proceeded with the further delivery of correspondence with public and private legal entities. Such documents or information can be used as evidence before the Commission or Appeal Chamber.
3. HIDAACI provides full access to international observers, upon their request, to seek information, consult, copy or investigate declaration of assets submitted by the assessee or his or her related persons and their accompanying documents.
4. HIDAACI shall conduct a full audit procedure as soon as possible but no longer than 180 days as of the day of asset declaration submission.
5. Upon completion of the audit, the General Inspector of HIDAACI shall prepare a reasoned detailed report and, as appropriate, shall find out that: (a) Accurate declaration /disclosure in compliance with the law, with legitimate financial sources and not found in situation of conflicts of interest; (b) Lack of legitimate financial sources to justify their assets; (c) Hiding wealth/ assets;

Q137 (General comment): There is legislation in force which already prohibits the conflict of interests of the prosecutors during the exercise of their public function:
1. Criminal Procedure Code (as above mentioned);
2. Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended;
3. Law no. 9367, dated 7.4.2005, “On the prevention of conflicts of interest in the exercise of public functions”, as amended;
4. Order no. 141, dated 19.07.2014 “On adoption of rules on ethics and conduct of prosecutors”, of General Prosecution Office (as above mentioned).
In Articles 6-7, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, concerning incompatibilities with the function of magistrate, it is provided that the function of magistrate is incompatible with the ... conduct of any political activity, whether or not the activity is carried out in conjunction with any political party or not, which may affect the independence of the magistrate, create a conflict of interest or, in any event, create the impression that the magistrate is impartial and unaffected.
Also, the Magistrate is prohibited from actively owning shares or portions of the capital of a business organization, or passively owning shares or portions of the capital of a business organization, if the company has profits or benefits from public contracts, in accordance with the prevention legislation of the conflict of interest in force as well as passively owning shares or portions of the capital of a company in which the activity of the magistrate is prohibited because it creates a conflict of interest.
According to Articles 32 and 35, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, High Prosecutorial Council verifies the integrity and assets before the candidates are accepted in the initial formation/training in the School of Magistrates, part of which is the evaluation of possible conflict of interests based on the reports of the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interests.
According to Article 90, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, part of the evaluation of the prosecutor's performance are:
a) … reports of the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interests;
b) the number of cases in which prosecutors have been expelled due to a conflict of interest.
Also, according to Article 102, of the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, disciplinary violations in the exercise of office shall be the actions, omissions or behaviours of the magistrate, as follows: …. p) breach of the rules of incompatibility or conflict of interest prevention, in accordance with the provisions of the legislation in force.
In Article 7 of Law no. 9367 dated 7.4.2005, “On the prevention of conflicts of interest in the exercise of public functions”, as amended, is provided that:
1. Every official, in the exercise of his powers or in the performance of his public duties, on the basis of his recognition and in good faith, is obliged to make a preliminary, on a case-by-case basis, of the existence of his private interests, which may cause to arise a conflict of interest.

Q252 (2023): According to the Law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended, failure to file a request for waiver of processings or adjudication of the case, where is mandatory, by law, if the magistrate was aware or should have been aware of such circumstances is a disciplinary violation. Anyone can submit a complaint to the High Inspector of Justice against a prosecutor to investigate whether the latter has exercised the function under conditions of conflict of interest. If, after the disciplinary investigation, it is established that there has been a disciplinary violation from the magistrate, the High Inspector of Justice proposes to the High Prosecutorial Council, the approval of a disciplinary measure. In Decision no. 407, dated 17.12.2021, "On the organising and functioning of High Prosecutorial Council" of High Prosecutorial Council regarding the conflict of interest is provided that:

1. A member of the Council shall avoid actual, apparent or potential conflicts of interest and other legal obstacles to perform his or her duties in good faith.
2. A member of the Council shall take active measures to prevent actual, apparent or potential conflicts of interest arising from family, gender or in-law relationships.
3. Each member of the Council shall, immediately upon receipt of the agenda and materials for a future meeting of the Council, the Commission or the working group and, in any case, before voting on the relevant issue, declare the conflict of interest or obstacle. The member of the Council who has declared the conflict of interest or obstacle shall not participate in the discussion or voting of the relevant issue.
4. If a conflict of interest occurs, the member shall request to withdraw from the discussion or vote. The decision to accept the resignation of the member shall be taken by the Head of the Council. When the Head resigns, the decision to accept it shall be taken by the Deputy Head.
5. If a member is aware that another member of the Council is in a conflict of interest or obstacle, he shall declare it immediately upon becoming aware of it and, in any case, before the vote of the relevant issue.
6. The member, for whom a conflict of interest or legal obstacle is alleged, shall declare his position regarding this claim. If the member considers that the claim is valid, as the case may be, he shall not participate in the discussion or voting on the relevant issue or shall withdraw. When the request for withdraw is submitted in a plenary session, a meeting of the Commission or a working group, the discussion or voting on the issue in question shall be postponed to the next plenary session or Meeting. 7. The parties may request the exclusion of a member of the Council from participating in the administrative procedure, only at the preliminary stage of the process, when exists one of the grounds for withdraw the procedure according to the law, and the member does not voluntarily withdraw on that issue. The decision to exclude a member from the participation in the plenary meeting or Commission shall be taken by the Council, in accordance with the rules provided for in the law. When the exclusion of the Head of the Council is requested, the meeting shall be chaired by the Deputy Head of the Council. 8. In the event that the Council deems it necessary, it shall request an official opinion from the HIDAACCI regarding the situation of the conflict of interest.

Law no. 9367, dated 7.4.2005, "On the prevention of conflict of interests in the exercise of public functions", as amended, aims to ensure that the exercise of public duty is carried out without being influenced by the private interests of the official, directly or indirectly, which affect, may affect or appear to affect the improper performance of his public duties and responsibilities. This law defines the rules, tools, ways, procedures, responsibilities and powers for the identification, declaration, registration, treatment, resolution and punishment of cases of conflict of interest. According to Article 44, of this law, any violation of the obligations defined in the law, when it does not constitute a criminal offense, constitutes an administrative misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine. The fines are higher, according to the evaluation of the measure of the violation and according to the level of increase in the official's position.
In article 45, it is determined that any violation of the obligations defined in this law by officials constitutes a disciplinary violation, regardless of criminal or administrative liability. The measures and procedures defined by the Constitution and the relevant law (Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors", as amended) apply to officials who are members of constitutional bodies (such as prosecutor's offices). According to Article 26, of Criminal Procedural Code, the prosecutor has the duty to resign when there are reasons of one-sidedness in the cases provided by Article 17. On the declaration of relinquishment, according to their duties dhe decision is taken from the head of the prosecution at the court of first instance, of the prosecution at the court of appeal, the General Prosecutor and the head of the Special Prosecution. For the heads of prosecutions, the decision is taken from dhe heads of the higher prosecution offices. With the decision accepting the relinquishment declaration, the prosecutor who resigned is replaced by another prosecutor.
In Decision no. 32, dated 24.2.2022, "On the approval of the standards of ethics and rules of conduct of the prosecutor" of High Prosecutorial Council is provided that, the head of the prosecution office oversees compliance with the rules of conduct and ethics of the prosecutor and reports every problem to the High Council of Prosecution. Violation of the standards of ethics and rules of conduct of the prosecutor when it does not constitute grounds for disciplinary responsibility is taken into consideration within the ethical and professional assessment of the prosecutor. According to the Law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended, failure to file a request for waiver of proceedings or adjudication of the case, where is mandatory, by law, if the magistrate was aware or should have been aware of such circumstances is a disciplinary violation. Anyone can submit a complaint to the High Inspector of Justice against a prosecutor to investigate whether the latter has exercised the function under conditions of conflict of interest. If, after the disciplinary investigation, it is established that there has been a disciplinary violation from the magistrate, the High Inspector of Justice proposes to the High Prosecutorial Council, the approval of a disciplinary measure Q202 (2022): Law no. 9367, dated 7.4.2005, "On the prevention of conflict of interests in the exercise of public functions", as amended, aims to ensure that the exercise of public duty is carried out without being influenced by the private interests of the official, directly or indirectly, which affect, may affect or appear to affect the improper performance of his public duties and responsibilities. This law defines the rules, tools, ways, procedures, responsibilities and powers for the identification, declaration, registration, treatment, resolution and punishment of cases of conflict of interest. The law is enforced by the High Inspectorate of Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interest (HIDAACI).

According to Article 44, of this law, any violation of the obligations defined in the law, when it does not constitute a criminal offense, constitutes an administrative misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine. The fines are higher, according to the evaluation of the measure of the violation and according to the level of increase in the official's position.

Q203 (General Comment): Please briefly describe the procedure: In the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, is provided that, breach of the rules of incompatibility or conflict of interest prevention is a disciplinary violation. Also, in the Law no. 9367 dated 7.4.2005, “On the prevention of conflicts of interest in the exercise of public functions”, as amended, is provided that, any violation of the obligations set forth in this law, when it does not constitute a criminal offense, constitutes an administrative offense and is punishable by a fine.
Please note that some of the procedure to sanction breaches of the rules on the conflict of interest for both judges and prosecutors are provided in the law on the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania. In question 223, this law under the "law on judges" tick. However, please be advised that this law in question 232 has been reported in the section "other, please specify" because, under the similar section includes "law on public prosecutors/public prosecution". In Albania these are two different law: law on the status of judges and prosecutors, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecutors" and the law on the organisation and functioning of the prosecution offices in the Republic of Albania, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecution".

Bosnia and Herzegovina

Constitutions are adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e. state, entities, cantons), whereas the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which is a single administrative unit of local self-government existing under the sovereignty of Bosnia and Herzegovina, has enacted its Statute.

In the Constitution of Bosnia and Herzegovina, there are no provisions that explicitly mention the independence of the courts. However, as Article II of the Constitution stipulates that the rights and freedoms guaranteed by the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and fundamental freedoms and its Protocols shall be directly applied in Bosnia and Herzegovina, and that the Convention and its Protocols shall have priority over all other laws, this way, indirectly, through the Convention Provisions, the independence of the courts is introduced as a constitutional principle. In parallel to the Constitution of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Constitution of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Republika Srpska Constitution, the constitutions of all cantons that exist within the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as the Statute of the Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina introduce the independence of the courts as a constitutional principle, based on the principle of the division of power between the legislative, executive and judicial branches. Furthermore, the Constitution of the Federation of BiH the Republika Srpska Constitution the constitutions of all cantons that exist within the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, as well as the Statute of the Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina contain certain mechanisms for the protection of judicial independence in the form of: the permanence of judicial function, material guarantees in the form of prohibition of salary reduction and other compensations during the performance of judicial practice, immunity from criminal and civic liability for any opinion expressed in the decision-making process and the prohibition of performing public functions that are incompatible with judicial office.

Special law: Additionally, besides the provisions on courts in the above-mentioned constitutions, special laws on courts are adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e., state, entities, and the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina). Laws on courts regulate the organization, jurisdiction, and functioning of courts at the respective level of government. According to the laws on courts, courts are independent and autonomous from the legislative and executive authorities. No one may influence the independence and impartiality of a judge in deciding cases assigned to them for work.

Finally, separate state level law has established the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is independent and autonomous body, with the task of ensuring the maintenance of an independent, impartial and professional judiciary. It has an array of competencies concerning all judges in Bosnia and Herzegovina as follows:

Courts are autonomous and independent of the legislative and executive authorities. No one may influence the independence and impartiality of a judge in deciding the cases assigned to them.

Finally, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has been established by separate state level law. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is independent and autonomous body, with the task of ensuring the maintenance of an independent, impartial and professional judiciary. It has an array of competencies with regards to all judges in Bosnia and Herzegovina as follows: appointing court presidents and judges, receiving complaints against judges, conducting disciplinary proceedings, determining disciplinary liability, and imposing disciplinary measures on judges; deciding upon appeals in disciplinary proceedings; deciding

Q142 (Judicial Council): Consultation

Constitutions are adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e. state, entities, and cantons), whereas the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina which is a single administrative unit of local self-government existing under the sovereignty of Bosnia and Herzegovina has enacted its Statute.

The Constitution of the Republic of Srpska and the Statute of the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina provide that prosecutor's offices are independent institutions that prosecute perpetrators of criminal and other legally punishable acts and take legal actions to protect legality, as well as that the establishment, organization, and competencies of the prosecutor's office are regulated by law.

The other constitutions (that is, the Constitution of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Constitution of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the constitutions of the cantons) do not contain provisions on prosecutor's offices.

Special law: Additionally, besides the provisions on the prosecutors' offices in the above-mentioned constitutions, special laws on the prosecutors' offices are adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e., state, entities, cantons and the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina). Laws on the prosecutors' offices regulate the organization, jurisdiction, and functioning of courts at the respective level of government. According to the prosecutors' offices, the prosecutors' offices are independent and autonomous from the legislative and executive authorities. Pursuant to the specific legislation regulating the legal status of prosecutors' offices in Bosnia and Herzegovina, they constitute independent authorities which prosecute perpetrators of criminal offenses and file legal expedients for the purpose of protecting legality and constitutionality. Public prosecution offices shall perform their functions on the basis of the constitution and the law. No one shall have the right to influence the public prosecutor's office in the execution of its constitutional and legal functions. The Chief Prosecutor shall have the right and duty to give mandatory instructions to the public prosecutor regarding his/her work, and may, apart from that: take certain actions which are in the competence of the public prosecutor; authorize a different public prosecutor to process individual cases that are within the competence of the public prosecutor; authorize a public prosecutor to perform individual activities that are within the competence of another public prosecutor. The Chief Prosecutor may perform criminal prosecution within the competence of a public prosecutor, and in doing so, s/he may: undertake necessary measures related to detection of crimes and identification of perpetrators with the purpose of directing preceding criminal proceedings; request investigation conduct; bring and represent indictment, i.e. indictment proposals and other proposals before competent court; file appeals against unlawful court decisions, i.e. withdraw already filed appeals.

Finally, separate state level law has established the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is independent and autonomous body, with the task of ensuring the maintenance of an independent, impartial and professional judiciary. It has an array of competencies concerning all prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina as follows:

appointing chief prosecutors and prosecutors, receiving complaints against prosecutors, conducting disciplinary proceedings, determining disciplinary liability, and imposing disciplinary measures on prosecutors; deciding upon appeals in disciplinary proceedings; deciding upon suspensions of prosecutors; deciding upon issues of incompatibility of other functions performed by prosecutors; deciding upon the temporary assignment or transfer of prosecutors to another prosecution office; supervising the advanced professional training of prosecutors and advising the Centers for Judicial and Prosecutorial Training in their adoption of programs of advanced professiona training for prosecutors; determining the minimum amount of advanced professional training to be undertaken by every prosecutor each year; determining the induction training for candidates chosen for and

Q142 (2025): In 2025, an indictment was confirmed against one judge whereas there were no new confirmed indictments against prosecutors. As for completed cases, there were no verdicts in criminal trials that had been instituted against judges before the reporting year; in addition, two prosecutors were acquitted in 2025 following criminal trials that had been initiated before the reporting year.

Q142 (2024): One judge received suspended sentence for domestic violence, which led to termination of his mandate. Other case for another judge is was ongoing at the end of the reporting year. In addition, the criminal case which had started during the reporting year against one of the prosecutors was closed after he died in 2024.

Q142 (2023): Although no judges or prosecutors were indicted in 2023, two criminal investigations were initiated by prosecutor's office – one against court president and one against prosecutor but indictments have not been confirmed by the competent courts yet. It should also be noted that judicial institutions are not formally obliged to inform HJPC regarding criminal proceedings against judges or prosecutors whose mandate was ceased (e.g. resignation or retirement).
Q142 (2022): ODC was informed about three investigations initiated against two judges and one prosecutor. ODC wasn't informed about end of the investigations.
One judge was sentenced to one-year prison sentence for corruptive criminal offence, in proceeding initiated last year.
Q143 (General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the Guidelines for the prevention of conflicts of interest in the judiciary (July 2016), covering a) incompatibilities; b) reporting on property, income, obligations and interests; c) gifts and other benefits; d) contacts with third persons and abuse of confidential information; e) nepotism; and f) education and awareness-raising. The Guidelines elaborate the existing legislation and code of ethics and go into further detail with practical "do's and don'ts" in a variety of situations.
There is an automated case assignment system in place, where cases are randomly assigned to judges, according to predetermined criteria.
In a situation where the judge to whom a case is assigned must, as required by law, be disqualified or recused from further proceedings, the case will be reassigned to another judge by the Court President or his deputy.
Disqualification of judges is governed by the civil procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina (Law on Civil Procedure before the Court of BiH and civil procedure codes of the BiH Federation, Republika Srpska and Brcko District of BiH), which stipulate that:
a) the judge may be disqualified if circumstances exist that cast doubt to his impartiality (disqualification); b) the motion for disqualification of a judge shall be decided by Court President, and the motion for disqualification of Court President shall be decided by the court in plenary session; c) the provisions on disqualification of judges shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to record keepers. The criminal procedure codes of BiH, BiH Federation, Republika Srpska and Brcko District of BiH stipulate that:
a) the provisions on disqualification of a judge shall accordingly be applied to prosecutors and persons authorised to represent the prosecutor in the proceedings, record keepers, court interpreters and other staff members; b) the prosecutor shall decide the disqualification of persons authorised to represent him in criminal proceedings, and the Collegium of the Prosecutor's Office shall decide the disqualification of the prosecutor. c) the panel, presiding judge or judge shall decide the disqualification of record keepers, court interpreters and other staff member, and, until the indictment is filed, it shall be decided by the prosecutor. In a situation where the judge to whom a case is assigned must be disqualified or recused from the case, the case will be reassigned to another judge. The same rule applies to prosecutors.
Case reassignment is governed by the books of rules on the case management systems in courts and prosecutor's offices (the Book of Rules on CMS and the Book of Rules on TCMS).
The case is reassigned to another judge by the Court President or a person authorised by him, who must state the grounds for reassignment.

Q158 (General Comment): Comments regarding Q158:
- Random allocation Random allocation is carried out in accordance with the predefined settings for assigning cases to judges. These settings relate to the division, type of cases, legal basis, the initial document, or the administrative unit in which the judge acts.
- Other type of allocation
Cases could be allocated in accordance with the decision of the court president or chief prosecutor.
- Specific allocation for priority cases
Priority cases (e.g. cases involving detention, cases involving minors etc.) are distributed urgently as prescribed by the law or by the decision of the court president. The law stipulates shorter deadlines for priority cases, so these cases have to be allocated to judges urgently and judges have to start working on them immediately.
- Possibility to exclude It is possible to exclude a judge from the allocation for various reasons. Judge can be temporarily excluded due to illness, vacation, longer absence, overload with cases etc. Also, it is possible to exclude a judge from the allocation for reasons prescribed by the law.
General comments:
The system for distribution of cases in the courts of Bosnia and Herzegovina is organized as random and automatic allocation, in accordance with predefined parameters. Due to the parameters the system for distribution of cases is classified as "other type of allocation". These parameters are prescribed by the decision of the court president, and they include specialization of judges and percentage of participation of every judge in the distribution of cases. After these parameters are set, system randomly distributes cases to judges of particular specialization and in accordance with the percentage of each judges' participation in the distribution but also considering workload of individual judges. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has adopted the Rulebook on internal court operations and the Rulebook on the Automated Case Management System in Courts. Priority cases (e.g. cases involving detention, cases involving minors etc.) are distributed urgently as prescribed by the law or by the decision of the court president. The law stipulates shorter deadlines for priority cases, so these cases have to be allocated to judges urgently and judges have to start working on them immediately. Q160 (General Comment): The relevant legislation on court procedures in Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes circumstances that call into question his/her impartiality in which a judge cannot adjudicate the case. These circumstances indicate that the judge has a conflict of interest in the individual case and therefore there is a legal base for initiating procedures to prevent or recuse him/her from dealing with the case.
As an example, the judge must not deal with the case if the party, legal representative or authorized agent is his/her blood relative in direct line to any degree or in the lateral line up to fourth degree, or if they are spouses or relatives up to second degree, regardless of whether the marriage has been terminated or not. In addition, as another example, the judge must be taken off the case if it turns out that he/she has participated in the same case in reaching the judgment of the inferior instance court. In conclusion, the legislation on court procedures defines the basis (i.e. aforementioned circumstances that pertain to the conflict of interest) and the procedure for the recusal of the judge.
In this regard, the legislation does not refer specifically to the conflict of interest, i.e. the laws do not foresee it as a separate category. However, it is in the law that the recusal of the judges as a legal term comprises all matters related to the protection of the impartiality in the court procedures. Consequently, it is not possible in Bosnia and Herzegovina to differentiate data on the number of reassigned cases for the following category: Recusal of the judge or requested by the parties. In the context of data on the total number of reassigned court cases in 2025 (i.e. 460 135), it is important to take into account that these court cases were redistributed primarily because the judges in charge of these court cases have ceased to work in a particular court (i.e. appointment to another court, retirement, resignation etc.). In addition, courts had to reassign a significant number of cases owing to the longer absence of judges because of sick leave. Finally, harmonizing the burden of judges with court cases in a single court and regrouping judges within the court made it necessary to reassign noteworthy number of court cases.

Q161 (2025): Unlike in 2024 when reassignments were processed in 663 080 cases, the number of cases with processed reassignments in 2025 was lower, namely 460 135. The reduction in the number of reassignments was not a result of the implementation of any guidelines or legislative changes.

Q162 (General Comment): When reassigning the case through the Case Management System it is necessary to select a valid reason for reassignment.
Users of system have to select an option from the list of the reasons for obligatory reassignment prescribed by the law, or the alternative option “Other reasons”. When the latter option is selected, a detailed explanation on reasons for reassignment of the case needs to be submitted pursuant to the Article 9 of the Rulebook on the Automated Case Management System in Courts.
Q163 (General Comment): Priority cases are allocated to judges and prosecutors through automatic allocation algorithm based on specific setup of predefined parameters used for priority cases. This basically means that in courts and prosecutor offices there is always at least one judge or prosecutor determined in advance, who is person on duty for certain period and to whom such cases will be assigned automatically by system.
All other non-priority cases are also allocated to judges through automatic allocation algorithm but setup for this allocation is more complex and based on more than one information from new case, and usually with more judges available in pool to select from.
Both algorithms (for priority and non-priority cases) are always based on court president decision, which is created once per year or more often if necessary.
Regarding reassignment of cases:
All reassignments of cases are processed through the computerized distribution of cases , whether new judge is selected by automatic allocation algorithm (in accordance to predefined parameters) or by court president decision. In every case, reason for reassignment has to be entered in the system by selecting from predefined list of reasons for reassignment and/or adding free text as description. This is why „Yes“ is more appropriate as answer for Q187, with two options selected as explanatory answer in Q188 (2nd and 3rd). Reassignments of cases can be processed as random and automatic where system will choose from the judges of same specialization, or it can be processed in a way that court president makes a decision and chooses the judge to whom the case will be reassigned.

Q164 (General Comment): Priority cases are allocated to judges and prosecutors through automatic allocation algorithm based on specific setup of predefined parameters used for priority cases. This is why „Yes“ is more appropriate as answer for Q159.
Reassignments of cases can be processed as random and automatic where system will choose from the judges of same specialization, or it can be processed in a way that court president makes a decision and chooses the judge to whom the case will be reassigned. In that sense, it is important to note that for the selection choice „By discretion of a president of a court” both options are possible. The president of the court can issue an order that a case should be reassigned so that the judge is selected systematically through the case management system, as well as the president of the court can directly decide that a case is reassigned to a specific judge without random case assignment.

Q164 (2025): Due to misinterpretation of the option 'By discretion of a president of a court', it was mistakenly left unmarked in the previous reporting cycles.

Q164 (2024): Due to misinterpretation of the "other" option in this part of the question 188, the option "all interventions on the system are irreversibly logged/registered" was not marked in the previous reporting cycles. It is confirmed that all interventions on the system are irreversibly logged/registered and, therefore, this option needs to be marked.

Conflict of interest, breaches of codes of conduct and unauthorized disclosure of confidential information are either explicitly provided as disciplinary offence/breach of duty, or covered by the broader definition of other disciplinary offences (such as e.g. performing activities conflicting with the official duties, engaging in activities that prevent or deter citizens to exercise their rights; violating rules on work discipline, inappropriate behavior towards parties/citizens and colleagues, performing tasks negligently and disorderly, exceeding official authority). At one instance conflict of interest, if not timely resolved, leads to a dismissal (Law on civil servants and employees in the judiciary of Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina). Others:

Applicable legislation provides broad list of other disciplinary offences, relating to the issue of the integrity, such as committing the actions that represent a criminal offense against official duty/ another criminal offense/minor offence that causes damage to the reputation of the civil service, which makes a civil servant unfit for duty.

Non-timely and/or incomplete asset declarations:

Duty of the court staff to declare their asset is not widely and consistently provided at all levels of jurisdiction. Some laws (i.e. the Law on civil service in the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and cantonal laws on civil service) specifically provide obligation for civil servant to disclose his/her asset upon the appointment and the duty to report any changes during the employment. Failure to adhere to these rules is not specifically proscribed as a breach of duty or disciplinary offence. Breaches of integrity are provided for by legislation in respect of court staff which is adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Relevant laws are listed below.

Bosnia and Herzegovina– Law on Labor in BiH Institutions; Rulebook on Disciplinary and Material Accountability of Employees in BiH Institutions; Code of Conduct of Civil Servants in BiH Institutions; Criminal code of BiH (e.g. Chapter Nineteen - Criminal offences of corruption and criminal offences against official duty or other responsible duty or Chapter Twenty - Criminal offences against administration of justice). Labor Law in BiH Institutions – Article 60:

1. An employee shall be disciplinarily responsible for the breach of one or more official duties prescribed by this law when the breach is a result of their own fault. 2. Breaches of official duties may be serious or minor. 3. Serious breaches of official duties are:

a) performing an act that is defined as a criminal offense against official duty, or another criminal offense, or misdemeanor, which damages the reputation of the employer, making the employee unsuitable for work with the employer; b) revealing state, military, or official secrets, or violating regulations concerning the safeguarding of these secrets; c) abuse or exceeding of official authority; d) failure to perform or negligent and careless execution of entrusted tasks; e) engaging in activities that prevent or hinder citizens or other persons from exercising their rights with the employer;

f) engaging in activities or work that is directly or indirectly contrary to the interests of the employer; g) causing greater material damage to the employer's property or assets intentionally or through gross negligence, h) unjustified absence from work for more than two days in a month; i) violation of work discipline rules; j) untimely and disorderly execution of assigned tasks; k) inappropriate behavior towards citizens, colleagues, and other persons in the performance of official duties; l) any other violation that is determined by a special law as a serious violation. 4. The Rulebook on Disciplinary and Material Accountability of Employees (hereinafter referred to as the Rulebook on Disciplinary Responsibility) determines minor violations of official duty. 5. Responsibility for committing a criminal act or offense does not exclude disciplinary and material responsibility of an employee, provided that such an act simultaneously constitutes a violation of official duty. 6. Q167 (General Comment): THE LAW ON THE HIGH JUDICIAL AND PROSECUTORIAL COUNCIL OF BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA The Article 86, paragraph 1 (Declaration of Assets and Interests) regulates as follows:
Judges and prosecutors shall submit to the HJPC their initial and annual declaration of assets and interests, including the manner and time of acquiring those assets and their acquisition value, income, interests, liabilities, expenditures and guarantees for themselves, their spouse or civil law partner, parents and children and other persons with whom they share a household. BOOK OF RULES OF THE HIGH JUDICIAL AND PROSECUTORIAL COUNCIL OF BOSNIA ON DISCLOSURE OF ASSETS AND INTERESTS HERZEGOVINA
The Article 19 regulates as follows:
(Types of Declarations and Filing Deadlines)
(1) First-time appointed judges and prosecutors shall file their asset declarations for the previous calendar year within 30 days from the date of publication of the decision on appointment on the website of the Council, while elected members of the Council shall file their asset declarations for the previous calendar year before taking office and within 30 days from the receipt of the decision on election.
(2) In the promotion procedure, the last annual report filed for the previous calendar year shall be taken as the initial report.
(3) Within the meaning of this Book of Rules, the term promotion shall not mean the appointment of:
1. of judges to the same or lower instances courts at Entity level;
2. of prosecutors to the same or lower instance prosecutor's offices at Entity level.
(4) Following the filing of their initial declaration, judges, prosecutors and Council members shall file their annual declarations by 1 March every year. (5) A judge, prosecutor and Council member whose term of office has expired shall, by 1 March of the year following the year for which the declaration is filed, file their asset declarations for the year in which their term expires and for the first calendar year following their end of term.
Q167 (2025): The bylaw was not marked in the Questionnaire for 2024, because it was inadvertently missed. Namely, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the Book of Rules on Disclosure of Assets and Interests in 2024.

Q168 (General Comment): The Article 86, paragraph 2 of the Law on the HJPC BiH, regulates as follows
(1)Declaration from paragraph (1) of this Article shall contain the following data:
a)name and surname, date of birth, place and address of temporary/permanent residence, marital status/kinship with the declarant, employment status, function and place of work;
b)data on all income for the judge, prosecutor, spouse or civil-law partner, parents, children and other persons from paragraph (1) of this Article with whom they share a household;
c)data on income from other paid activities;
d)data on ownership of real estates, including the manner and time of their acquisition, and acquisition value;
e)data on ownership of vehicles, including the manner and time of its acquisition, and acquisition value;
f)data on ownership of other movables the individual value of which exceeds EUR 2,500 including the manner and time of acquisition;
g)data on deposits in banks or other financial institutions, including e-currencies and cash the value of which exceeds EUR 2,500;

i)data on gifts and donations received in connection with the performance of office, the value of which exceeds EUR 15;
j)data on gifts and donations received as a private person if their individual value exceeds EUR 250 or 500 in total per year;
k)data on investments, including shares and other securities;
l)data on other expenses; the individual value of which exceeds EUR 2,500 m)data on liabilities.

Q168 (2025): The gifts option was not marked in the Questionnaire for 2024, because it was inadvertently missed.

Q169 (General Comment): In addition to the above stated options, in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, judges in Bosnia and Herzegovina are obliged to submit annual declaration of assets within the deadline set by the HJPC which shall not extend beyond 30 April of the current year.
A judge who is appointed to a judicial office for the first time, shall submit his/her entry declaration within 30 days from the day of assuming the office.
A judge whose mandate has expired shall submit his/her declaration pursuant to this Law for the first year following the expiry of their mandate.

Q169 (2024): In addition to the above stated options, in accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, judges in Bosnia and Herzegovina are obliged to submit annual declaration of assets within the deadline set by the HJPC which shall not extend beyond 30 April of the current year.
A judge who is appointed to a judicial office for the first time, shall submit his/her entry declaration within 30 days from the day of assuming the office.
A judge whose mandate has expired shall submit his/her declaration pursuant to this Law for the first year following the expiry of their mandate.

Q169 (2023): The Law on Amendments to the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina ("Official Gazette of Bosnia and Herzegovina", number: 63/23) was adopted on 6 September 2023. The Law entered into force on 23 September 2023 and it is in application since from 23 December 2023. However, the implementation of the Law will begin in 2024, following the organizational and technical preparations at the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. For the purpose of verifying declarations, through the Department responsible for processing declarations within the Secretariat of the HJPC referred to in Article 86f of the Law on Amendments to the Law on the HJPC, the HJPC shall adopt and regularly revise the risk criteria which shall be confidential. A risk criterion is a circumstance or a set of circumstances based on which declarations of assets and interests are prioritized for regular checks, a schedule of checks is prepared and an additional check is conducted. First appointment and promotion constitute a risk criterion requiring additional checks to be conducted ex officio in accordance with Article 86c paragraphs (4) to (8) of the Law on Amendments to the Law on the HJPC.).
Q170 (General Comment): In accordance with the Article 86, paragraph 1 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina the judges are obliged to submit the asset declaration for themselves, their spouse or civil-law partner, parents and children and other persons with whom they share a household.

Q170 (2024): In accordance with the Article 86, paragraph 1 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina the judges are obliged to submit the asset declaration for themselves, their spouse or civil-law partner, parents and children and other persons with whom they share a household (hereinafter: the Declaration).

[illegible] offences for judges which includes (among others):

l) violating provisions of this Law on submitting declaration of assets and interests.

Therefore non-declaration of assets is prescribed by the law explicitly as a disciplinary offence for the judge for which any disciplinary measure can be imposed depending on the circumstances of an individual disciplinary case. Article 58 of the the Law prescribes the disciplinary measures, which the HJPC may impose, to the judges:

(1) The Council may impose one or more of the following disciplinary measures: (a) a written warning which shall not be made public; (b) public reprimand; (c) reduction in salary or emoluments up to a maximum of 50% (fifty per cent) for a period of up to one (1) year; (d) temporary or permanent reassignment to another court or prosecutor's office; (e) demotion of a Court President to an ordinary judge or the Chief Prosecutor or Deputy Chief Prosecutor to an ordinary prosecutor; (f) removal from the office. (2) As a separate measure, instead of or in addition to any of the disciplinary measures set out above, the Council may, if appropriate, order that a judge or prosecutor participate in rehabilitation programmes, counselling, or professional training. (3) All rights and privileges under labour relations of a judge, Court President, Chief Prosecutor, Deputy Chief Prosecutor, or prosecutor who is removed from office pursuant to a disciplinary proceeding shall cease upon removal by the Council. A judges or prosecutor who is removed from office under this article shall be barred from further exercise of judicial or prosecutorial function. Article 59 of the Law refers to the Principles for determining of the measures:

(1)Disciplinary measures imposed should be governed by the principle of proportionality. Before pronouncing the measures for a disciplinary offence, the following aspects shall be taken into consideration by the disciplinary commissions:

(a)the number and severity of the disciplinary offence committed and its consequences;

(b)the degree of responsibility;

(c)the circumstances under which the disciplinary offence was committed;

(d)the previous work and behaviour of the offender; and

(e)any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.

(2)The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office.

(3)The Council may take into account any prior suspension, imposed in the course of the proceedings in question, and may reduce the disciplinary measure accordingly, or may, at its discretion,determine that the prior suspension is itself a sufficient measure for the disciplinary violation or violations found.

In order to support the disciplinary commissions and the Council in determining and imposing disciplinary measures in accordance with the Article 59 of the Law, the Council adopted in July 2016 internal Guidelines for Determining Disciplinary Measures in Disciplinary Proceedings. These Guidelines prescribe the manner in which an appropriate disciplinary measure should be determined in a specific disciplinary case, and ensure consistency and fairness in all cases relating to similar disciplinary offences and circumstances. The Guidelines serve as a means of achieving the primary purpose of disciplinary responsibility, which includes the following: (a) protecting the interests of the public, judicial

(e)any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.
(2)The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office.
(3)The Council may take into account any prior suspension, imposed in the course of the proceedings in question, and may reduce the disciplinary measure accordingly, or may, at its discretion,determine that the prior suspension is itself a sufficient measure for the disciplinary violation or violations found.
In order to support the disciplinary commissions and the Council in determining and imposing disciplinary measures in accordance with the Article 59 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Council adopted in July 2016 internal Guidelines for Determining Disciplinary Measures in Disciplinary Proceedings. Q23-1 (Judicial Council): The Article 58, paragraph 2 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the list of the disciplinary offences for judges that includes (among others):
c) not disqualifying himself or herself from hearing a case when a conflict of interest exists; o) being engaged in activities that are incompatible with the judicial function;
p) exceeding any limitations related to income generated from fees for additional activities;
t) accepting a gift or reward whose purpose is to inappropriately influence the judge's decisions or actions, including cases where the gift or reward only give an impression of inappropriate influence.
Therefore the breaches of rules on conflict of interests are prescribed by the law explicitly as a disciplinary offences for the judge for which any disciplinary measure can be imposed depending on the circumstances of an individual disciplinary case. Article 58 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the disciplinary measures, which the HJPC may impose, to the judges:
(1) The Council may impose one or more of the following disciplinary measures: (a) a written warning which shall not be made public; (b) public reprimand; (c) reduction in salary or emoluments up to a maximum of 50% (fifty per cent) for a period of up to one (1) year; (d) temporary or permanent reassignment to another court or prosecutor's office; (e) demotion of a Court President to an ordinary judge or the Chief Prosecutor or Deputy Chief Prosecutor to an ordinary prosecutor; (f) removal from the office. (2) As a separate measure, instead of or in addition to any of the disciplinary measures set out above, the Council may, if appropriate, order that a judge or prosecutor participate in rehabilitation programmes, counselling, or professional training. (3) All rights and privileges under labour relations of a judge, Court President, Chief Prosecutor, Deputy Chief Prosecutor, or prosecutor who is removed from office pursuant to a disciplinary proceeding shall cease upon removal by the Council. A judges or prosecutor who is removed from office under this article shall be barred from further exercise of judicial or prosecutorial function. Article 59 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina refers to the Principles for determining of the measures:
(1)Disciplinary measures imposed should be governed by the principle of proportionality. Before pronouncing the measures for a disciplinary offence, the following aspects shall be taken into consideration by the disciplinary commissions:
(a)the number and severity of the disciplinary offence committed and its consequences;
(b)the degree of responsibility;
(c)the circumstances under which the disciplinary offence was committed;
(d)the previous work and behavior of the offender; and
(e)any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.

Q199 (2024): Regulation/procedure on reporting a (potential) conflict of interest: THE LAW ON THE HIGH JUDICIAL AND PROSECUTORIAL COUNCIL OF BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA
Article 85 (Opinions on Activities of a Judge or Prosecutor)
The Article 85 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina referring to the Referral to the Council prescribes that prosecutor may request the Council's opinion on whether his/her activities are compatible with his or her office and the provisions of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A chief prosecutor may also request Council's opinion when he or she believes that a prosecutor performs or intends to perform an activity that is incompatible with his or her office. Chief prosecutor shall inform the prosecutor concerned about the request for opinion.
In addition to issuing opinions in response to specific request, the Council may also, ex officio, issue its opinion on compatibility of a prosecutorial office with the activities they perform upon receiving the information from Article 83, paragraph (3) of this Law. Council's opinion on compatibility of offices shall be binding and compliance with it shall protect the prosecutor against the risk of disciplinary proceedings.
Regulation/procedure for recusal/withdrawal from a case:
THE CODE OF ETHICS FOR PROSECUTORS ADOPTED BY THE HIGH JUDICIAL AND PROSECUTORIAL COUNCIL OF BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA
2.2 A prosecutor shall conduct himself or herself in his/her personal or business affairs as to minimize the occasions on which it will be necessary for the prosecutor to be disqualified from cases.
2.2.a In evaluating reasons for recusal from a case, in order to avoid every perceived, potential of actual conflict of interest, a prosecutor should take into account in particular all of their previous duties and activities performed prior to taking the prosecutor's office.
2.2.b A prosecutor who intends to terminate their prosecutor's office or who knows that their office will be terminated by force of law or by the HJPC's decision, shall not use their prosecutor's office or prosecutor's resources to promote their future activities and in this regard, they shall bear in mind the potential existence of grounds for recusal.
2.2.c If a prosecutor knows that his/her family member or other person close to him/her has a financial, political or other interest in a case that he/she adjudicates, the prosecutor should request to be recused. This implies that a prosecutor should take reasonable steps to be informed about financial, political or other interests of his/her family members.

Q202 (General comment): The Article 57, paragraph 2 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the list of the disciplinary offences for prosecutors that includes (among others):
c) not disqualifying himself or herself from hearing a case when a conflict of interest exists; p) being engaged in activities that are incompatible with the prosecutorial function;
r) exceeding any limitations related to income generated from fees for additional activities;
u) accepting a gift or reward whose purpose is to inappropriately influence the prosecutor's decisions or actions, including cases where the gift or reward only give an impression of inappropriate influence.
Therefore the breaches of rules on conflict of interests are prescribed by the law explicitly as a disciplinary offences for the prosecutor for which any disciplinary measure can be imposed depending on the circumstances of an individual disciplinary case. Article 58 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the disciplinary measures, which the HJPC may impose, to the prosecutors:
(1) The Council may impose one or more of the following disciplinary measures: (a) a written warning which shall not be made public; (b) public reprimand; (c) reduction in salary or emoluments up to a maximum of 50% (fifty per cent) for a period of up to one (1) year; (d) temporary or permanent reassignment to another court or prosecutor's office; (e) demotion of a Court President to an ordinary judge or the Chief Prosecutor or Deputy Chief Prosecutor to an ordinary prosecutor; (f) removal from the office. (2) As a separate measure, instead of or in addition to any of the disciplinary measures set out above, the Council may, if appropriate, order that a judge or prosecutor participate in rehabilitation programs, counselling, or professional training. (3) All rights and privileges under labor relations of a judge, Court President, Chief Prosecutor, Deputy Chief Prosecutor, or prosecutor who is removed from office pursuant to a disciplinary proceeding shall cease upon removal by the Council. A judges or prosecutor who is removed from office under this article shall be barred from further exercise of judicial or prosecutorial function. Article 59 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina refers to the Principles for determining of the measures:
(1)Disciplinary measures imposed should be governed by the principle of proportionality. Before pronouncing the measures for a disciplinary offence, the following aspects shall be taken into consideration by the disciplinary commissions:
(a)the number and severity of the disciplinary offence committed and its consequences;
(b)the degree of responsibility;
(c)the circumstances under which the disciplinary offence was committed;
(d)the previous work and behavior of the offender; and
(e)any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.
(2)The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office.

Q205 (General Comment): Judges may be subject to disciplinary proceedings for violations stipulated by the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC). Disciplinary proceedings are initiated by the Office of Disciplinary Counsel of the HJPC.
The latter receives and reviews complaints concerning the conduct of judges or runs cases on its own initiative. After the Office of Disciplinary Counsel receives a complaint and reviews it, the complaint can be immediately discarded or other necessary actions can be carried out, including launching of an investigation. If the Office of Disciplinary Counsel establishes that there is reasonable ground to believe that a judge has made a disciplinary offence, it will launch an investigation of the facts and circumstances.
If the investigation shows that the complaint is not founded or the allegations of the complaint cannot be verified and proven, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will close the case and will not initiate disciplinary proceeding against a judge.
If the investigation shows that there is evidence to confirm allegations of misconduct of a judge, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will launch a disciplinary proceeding before the HJPC filing a disciplinary complaint. After filing the complaint, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel may offer the accused prosecutor a joint consent agreement for establishment of disciplinary liability for the committed disciplinary offences, which will be considered and approved by the competent panel of the HJPC.
Q206 (General Comment): Judges may be subject to disciplinary proceedings for violations stipulated by the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC). The Disciplinary Panels (first-and second instance) comprising of the members of the HJPC decide in disciplinary procedures initiated by the Office of Disciplinary Counsel against a judge. During the disciplinary proceeding, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel may submit a request to remove a judge temporarily from any duty, until the completion of the disciplinary proceeding on the basis of which there was a temporary removal from the court. Temporary removal from the court can be requested until completion of an initiated dismissal procedure as well as until the termination of a criminal proceeding initiated against a judge, while the temporary removal from office is mandatory in case when a judge is in pre-trial detainment, until pre-trial detainment ends.

Rights of Parties during Disciplinary Proceedings
Disciplinary procedures shall be governed by fairness and transparency. During the course of disciplinary proceedings, the judge or prosecutor concerned shall have the following rights that must be guaranteed in the Rules of Procedure for disciplinary proceedings adopted by the Council:
(a) the right to be duly notified of the allegations of the violation and the supporting evidence, along with the right to respond in writing or to have a verbal statement recorded in writing;
(b) the right to a fair and public hearing within a reasonable time by an independent and impartial panel established by law. The press and public may be excluded from all or part of the hearing in the interests of morals, public order or national security in a democratic society, where the interests of juveniles or the protection of the private life of the parties so require, or to the extent strictly necessary in the opinion of the panel in special circumstances where publicity would prejudice the interests of justice;
(c) the right to assert the privilege against self-incrimination and to appear at any hearing and defend against the allegations with legal counsel of choice; (d) the right that judgments shall be pronounced publicly and/or made public in some manner; and
(e) the right to appeal adverse decisions.

Q208 (2024): Total number disciplinary proceedings initiated during the reference year was 29 against 31 judges. One disciplinary case was initiated against three judges.

Q208 (2023): In the reference year 24 disciplinary proceedings were initiated against 23 judges. Two disciplinary proceedings were initiated against one judge.
Q208 (2022): Some cases against judges were initiated for two or more disciplinary mistakes. Such cases were counted only once in accordance with the Explanatory note. The main mistake for those disciplinary cases was determined in our best estimate.

Q210 (2025): From this reporting cycle, reporting on the suspensions of judges within the data on the number of imposed disciplinary sanctions ceases because it has been concluded, contrary to previous interpretation, that suspensions should be treated as temporary measures imposed against judges within the disciplinary procedure, and not as disciplinary sanctions.
Q210 (2024): Difference between completed disciplinary proceedings (i.e.20) and the total number of sanctions (i.e.16) was registered due to the fact that two disciplinary cases were rejected, and two disciplinary cases were suspended.

Q210 (2023): Difference between completed disciplinary proceedings (28) and the total number of sanctions (23) is because four disciplinary proceedings were rejected and one disciplinary proceedings was suspended (one judge was retired).
Q210 (2022): A significant difference between the number of disciplinary proceedings initiated (35) and the total number of sanctions imposed (23) was caused by the following circumstances: the disciplinary action was rejected in (3) cases and disciplinary proceedings were suspended in (9) cases (4 judges retired, 3 judges resigned, 1 judge died, and 1 judge's term expired).

Q155 (2025): In 2025, there were no violations of the Ethical Code.
Q156 (2022): The procedure is granted in line with the law (Law on civil proceedings and Criminal Procedure Code).

Q157 (General Comment): The procedure is granted in line with the law (Law on civil proceedings and Criminal Procedure Code).

Q158 (2025): The assignment of cases to judges is carried out through an algorithm for the immediate random assignment of cases, which is an integral part of the judicial information system application, immediately after entry into the basic case data system.
A case in which a request for initiation of proceedings has already been submitted, and the request has been withdrawn, is assigned to the judge to whom it was previously assigned automatically.
A case in which a decision has been revoked is assigned to the judge of the first instance court who previously dealt with the case, unless a second instance decision has decided otherwise, in accordance with the law, which should be provided for through the algorithm, and if it is determined that another judge should judge the case, then that case is assigned through random assignment of cases.
A case that has been referred by the court acting on legal remedies to a lower instance court for the elimination of deficiencies is assigned to the same reporting judge.
A case that has been revoked, when re-referred to the court acting on legal remedies, is, as a rule, assigned to the same reporting judge.
A judge who, due to justified overload or planned long-term absence (longer than 30 days), cannot resolve the assigned cases in a timely manner may have the assignment of cases suspended for a certain period of time. In such a case, the cases shall be assigned to other judges in the court department, or legal area, on the principle of random assignment of cases through the judicial information system in accordance with Article 57 of these Rules of Procedure.
The president of the court shall decide on the suspension of the assignment of cases for a certain period of time, either alone or upon the proposal of the president of the department or a judge.
The president of the court shall issue a special decision on the reasons and duration of the suspension of the assignment of cases to a judge, which he shall submit to the administrator of the judicial information system and attach to the court's work plan.
If several procedural documents have been filed against the parties or participants in the proceedings and the court, in accordance with the rules of procedure prescribed by law, decides to merge the cases for the purpose of a single resolution, the case shall be assigned to the judge who was assigned the first case of those cases that arrived.
If the court, in accordance with the rules of procedure prescribed by law, decides to separate and conclude the proceedings against one party or participant separately, the separated case shall be assigned to the judge who decides on the case referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article. During annual leave, judges who are not on annual leave shall be assigned only urgent cases, which are determined as such by law or these Rules of Procedure.

Q162 (General Comment): Articles 60 and 61 of the Court Rule of Procedure: Article 60
To a judge who, due to justifiable overload or anticipated longer leave (longer than 30 days), is unable to resolve the assigned cases in a timely manner, the case assignment might be suspended for a limited time. In that case, the cases shall be assigned to other judges in the judicial department or legal area on the principle of the random allocation of cases through the judicial information system in accordance with Article 57 of these Rules of Procedure.
Article 61
Suspension of case assignment in accordance with Article 60 of these Rules of Procedure for a limited period shall be decided by the President of the court alone or at the proposal of the President of the Division or a judge. The President of the Court shall make a special decision on the reasons as well as the duration of the suspension of the assignment of the cases to the judge, which he submits to the administrator of the judicial information system and attaches it to the court work plan.

Q164 (General Comment): LAW ON COURTS
("Official Gazette of MNE", no. 11/2015 and 76/2020) Amending Annual Work Distribution Article 32
The court president may amend the annual work distribution of the court, if:
1) The number of positions for judges or the number of judges decreases or increases; or
2) The number or type of cases in court significantly increases or decreases.
The annual work distribution of the court shall be amended so that it disrupts the already established annual work distribution of the court as little as possible.
The annual work distribution of the court shall be amended in accordance with Article 31 of the present Law. Submission and Publication of Annual Work Distribution
Article 33
The court president shall submit an annual work distribution and amendments there to all judges and shall publish it on the bulletin board of the court.
4. Random Allocation of Cases
Allocation of Cases
Article 34
Cases shall be allocated to work without delay, according to the annual work distribution, through the method of random allocation of cases.
In accordance with paragraph 1 of this Article, the following cases shall also be allocated to other judges:
1) Cases that were assigned to a judge who does not perform a judicial office in that court any longer; and
2) Cases that were taken away in accordance with Article 36 of the present Law. Method of Random Allocation of Cases
Article 35
Once the basic information about a case is entered into the judicial information system, in a manner that is more closely regulated by the Court Rules, cases shall be allocated to judges through the method of random allocation of cases. Taking Away an Allocated Case
Article 36
An allocated case shall be taken away from a judge or panel only if it is determined that they unduly fail to take actions in the case, because of the recusal of a judge or if a judge is prevented from performing the judicial office for more than three months.
Cases whose urgent nature is prescribed by law may be taken away from a judge if the judge is not able to act in these cases in a timely manner or within the statutory period due to absence or incapacity for work.
The cases shall be taken away by the court president, through a decision.
The decision on taking a case away shall be submitted to the judge or the panel from which the case was taken away.
An objection may be lodged to the president of immediately higher court against the decision on taking the case away, as well as to the General Session of the Supreme Court against the decision of the Supreme Court, within three days of receipt of the decision. The decision on the objection shall be made within

Article 33
Reasons for exclusion
(1) A judge or a lay judge must not exercise his or her judicial obligations:
1) if he or she has suffered any damage as a result of the crime;
2) if the accused, his counsel, the prosecutor, the injured party, his legal counsel or attorney is his or hers marital i.e. illegitimate spouse or a blood relative according to the law regardless of the degree of kinship, a distant relative to the fourth degree and an in- law to the second degree;
3) if, with the accused, his counsel, the plaintiff or with the injured party he or she has a relationship of a guardian, a person under guardianship, one who adopts, an adopted child, foster parent or a foster child;
4) if, in the same criminal case he or she participated as a judge of the preliminary procedure, participated in the examination of the indictment before the main trial or participated in the procedure as a plaintiff, defense counsel, legal counsel or authorized representative for the injured party, i.e. the plaintiff, or was examined in the capacity of a witness or as an expert witness;
5) if, in the same case, he or she participated in the decision making process of the lower court, or if, in the same court, he or she participated in the bringing of the decision that is annulled with the appeal;
(2) Apart from the situations as referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article, a judge or a lay judge may also be excluded from performing his or her judicial obligations if there are any circumstances that would cause any doubts regarding his or her impartiality. Article 34
Exclusion procedure
As soon as he or she establishes the existence of any of the reasons for exclusion as referred to in Article 33, paragraph 1 of this Law, the judge or lay judge shall be obliged to stop working on that case and inform the President of the Court thereby, who shall appoint a substitute judge. If the exclusion is for the President of the Court, he or she shall appoint his or her own substitute judge amongst the judges from the same court, and if that is not possible, he shall ask the President of the immediate higher court to appoint the substitute.
Article 35
Exclusion upon request by the parties
(1) The parties may also ask for exclusion.
(2) The parties may submit a motion for exclusion prior to the beginning of the main hearing and if they have found out the reasons for the exclusion as referred to in paragraph 1 of Article 33 later, they shall submit the exclusion motion immediately after they have been informed about them.
(3) The party may include the exclusion motion for a judge of the higher instance court in the appeal or in the response to the appeal.
(4) The party may demand exclusion only of an individual judge or a lay judge, who proceeds in the case i.e. a judge from the higher court.

Q160 (General Comment): Court Rules of procedure
Automatic Redistribution of Cases
Article 177
The cases allocated to the judge may be reallocated to another judge, after the decision of the president of the court registered in the SU register has been passed, and the reason for the redistribution of case can be: a request for a judge to be exempted (submitted by the parties, the judge, by a decision of a higher instance court, etc.), the judge no longer works on a certain type of case, new judge for a certain type of case has been assigned, absence of a judge for an urgent matter that does not endure postponement of the procedure.
Article 178
After the request for exemption of a judge to whom the case is allocated, the president of the court, after the decision on exemption of the judge, shall adopt a decision for automatic redistribution of the case (in this case, the judges who were excluded in this case do not participate in the automatic distribution).
Upon a request for exemption or sudden absence of a judge, a member of council, the president of the court, by a decision on exemption of that judge, recorded in the register for exemption, shall appoint a judge who will replace the judge who is exempted.

Q161 (2025): Data for conflict of interest declared by the judge or by the parties are already calculated in recusal of the judge or requested by the parties, because conflict of interest is ground for recusal of the judge. Other*: retirement of a judge, return of judges who were delegated in other courts, return of a judge who was a member of the Judicial council, dismissed judge, change in the annual schedule, delegated judges, merging of cases
According to our legislation, conflict of interest is a ground for recusal of the judge or requested by the parties, because of this, the data overlaps and cannot be separated.

Q163 (General Comment): Yes, with exception. Please see article 179, p.2
Court Rules of procedure
Article 179
In cases when the judge no longer works with a certain type of cases (dismissed, assigned to another department, assigned to another type of cases, longer absence), the court president shall adopt amendments and supplements to the Annual work schedule of the court.
The reallocation of cases in the case under paragraph 1 of this Article may be conducted by awarding all cases to a particular judge (usually a newly elected or rotated judge in that department, a type of case) or if a judge is not appointed, it shall be performed through automatic redistribution of all cases from the judge to all judges in the department who work with this type of cases.
Q164 (General Comment): All court cases should be assigned electronically according to the provisions on the Law on case flow management in the courts.

Q206 (2024): Please, see the general comment.
Q206 (2023): Please, see the general comment.
Q206 (2022): Please, see the general comment.

Q208 (General comment): Unprofessional and unethical performance of the judicial function according to the Law on courts implies unconscientiousness, diligence or unconscientiousness of the judge that affects the quality and promptness of the work, as follows:

1) if in two consecutive assessments the judge does not fulfill the criteria for successful work, by his fault without justifying reasons, for which he has received two negative grades, in procedure established by the Law on Judicial Council in of the Republic of Macedonia;

2) if he was convicted by a final court verdict, with punishment lower than that determined in the Art. 73, paragraph(1) point 5 from the Law on courts which is a direct result of acting in the performance of the judicial office, deliberately or with conscious negligence; (art. 73, p.1, point 5-Conviction for a crime by a legally valid court verdict to an unconditional imprisonment sentence of minimum six months).

3) is publishing unauthorized classified information, i.e. provided information and data on court cases that violates the obligation to protect the secrecy of the procedure established by law and when the public is excluded in accordance with the law;

4) without justified reasons, does not schedule the hearings in the cases assigned to him or otherwise delay the procedure;

5) does not take the matter into consideration because of which expiration of a criminal prosecution or statute of limitations on the execution of a criminal sanction for a crime occur;

6) takes on a case that has not been allocated to him through the automatic computer system for conducting of court cases in the courts; ;

7) intentionally and inexcusably makes gross professional mistake, while differences in interpretation of law and facts cannot be taken as ground for determination of judges' responsibility. After submission on a request for determination of the responsibility of the judge or president of the court is received, the Council shall establish a Commission of Rapporteurs from the members with a right to vote by lot, which is composed of three members, two of which are from among the members elected by the judges, and one is from among the members elected by the Assembly of the Republic of North Macedonia. The president of the Commission is elected by lot from among the members of the Commission. If a submitter of the request is a member of the Council, he/she cannot be a member of this Commission.

The Commission will reject the request for determining responsibility of the judge or president of the court if the request:

- is not timely,
- is not complete, or
- clearly unmeritorious, i.e. it revokes on facts that were already a case for examination by a higher court in a procedure after a legal remedy or could have been a case for examination by a higher court but have not been commenced with a legal remedy.

In this cases, the procedure for determining responsibility of the judge or president of the court finishes with the decision of the Commission. If the Commission does not reject the request for determining the responsibility of a judge or president of a court, it shall notify the Council of the established factual situation, which is obliged to decide within seven days from the day of the notification of stopping or continuation of the procedure.

If the Council decides to continue the procedure, the Commission shall be obliged to collect all necessary information and to prepare a report within a period of three months from the day of receipt of the request.

Q149 (General Comment): The Rulebook of the High Judicial Council's Board of Ethics stipulates that the Board of Ethics shall have 7 members. A judge and a retired judge may be elected members of the Board of Ethics, but a court president, a member of the Council and a member of the permanent working body of the Council cannot be appointed members of the Board of Ethics.
The president and the deputy president of the Board of Ethics shall be elected from among the members of the Board of Ethics for a period of one year by a majority vote of the Board of Ethics' members and may be re-elected.

Q149 (2025): The Law on the High Judicial Council (RS Official Gazette, No. 10/23) sets out that the Ethics Committee is to have five members appointed by the Council from among the judges for a period of five years, without the possibility of reappointment. The competences of the Ethics Committee are prescribed by the Law on Judges ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 10/2023) and the Law on the High Judicial Council ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 10/2023), which entered into force on 10.5.2023, and the Rulebook on the work of the Ethics Committee of the High Judicial Council ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 116/2023), adopted by the High Council of the Judiciary, which entered into force on 2.1.2024.
The Ethics Committee is competent to:
- provide opinions in principle on whether certain conduct of judges is in accordance with the Code of Ethics for Judges (upon an initiative that can be submitted by anyone);
- give opinions in principle on whether a certain behavior of a judge constitutes a significant violation of the provisions of the Code of Ethics for Judges (at the request of the Disciplinary Prosecutor of the High Judicial Council);
- decide whether certain functions, jobs or private interests of a judge are contrary to the dignity and independence of a judge and are detrimental to the reputation of the court, based on the Code of Ethics for Judges (at the request of the High Judicial Council);
- whether certain functions, jobs or private interests of a member of the Council are contrary to the dignity and independence of a member of the High Judicial Council or are detrimental to the reputation of the High Judicial Council, based on the Code of Ethics for Members of the High Judicial Council (at the request of the High Judicial Council);
- issue guidelines for the behavior of judges in certain situations (at its own initiative).
The Ethics Committee appoints one or more confidential counsellors from among its members. A judge may address a confidential counsellor for advice or for clarification regarding the application of the Code of Ethics for Judges.
In 2025, there were no request that would require the confidential counsellor to act.
Q149 (2024): The Rulebook of the High Judicial Council's Board of Ethics ("Official Gazette of RS" No. 68/22) stipulates that the Board of Ethics shall have 7 members. Q150 (2025): The transparency of the work of the Ethics Committee is ensured by publishing the opinions in principle, announcements, work reports, guidelines and other decisions and acts that are available on the Council's website.
In the reference year, the Ethics Committee of the High Judicial Council held 8 sessions and 39 decisions were made, of which 7 were opinions in principle. On the website of the High Judicial Council, only one opinion of the Ethics Committee was published. The reason is that opinions on the same issues had already been made available to the public.

Q150 (2024): The Rulebook of the High Judicial Council's Board of Ethics stipulates that the Board of Ethics issued general opinions on whether the conduct of individual judges complies with the Code of Ethics for Judges, i.e. whether the conduct of a member of the Council complies with the Code of Ethics for the members of the High Judicial Council. Anyone may submit an initiative, and the Board of Ethics may issue a general opinion or decide not to consider the submitted initiative.
The transparency of the work of the Board of Ethics is ensured by publishing announcements, reports, general opinions, guidelines and other decisions and acts on the Council's website.
The Board of Ethics adopts decisions at its sessions. The sessions are convened when needed, but at least four times per year.

Q150 (2023): The Rulebook of the High Judicial Council's Board of Ethics stipulates that the Board of Ethics issued general opinions on whether the conduct of individual judges complies with the Code of Ethics for Judges, i.e. whether the conduct of a member of the Council complies with the Code of Ethics for the members of the High Judicial Council. Anyone may submit an initiative, and the Board of Ethics may issue a general opinion or decide not to consider the submitted initiative.
The transparency of the work of the Board of Ethics is ensured by publishing announcements, reports, general opinions, guidelines and other decisions and acts on the Council's website.
The Board of Ethics adopts decisions at its sessions. The sessions are convened when needed, but at least four times per year. In 2023 five sessions of the Board of Ethics were held.
During 2023, the Board of Ethics issued eight general opinions that were published on the website of the High Judicial Council and are available to all judges, six decisions regarding the request of the Disciplinary Prosecutor and the Deputy Disciplinary Prosecutor of the High Judicial Council for determination of major violations of provisions of the Code of Ethics, and decided not to consider ten initiatives.
The Confidential counsellor is a member of the Board of Ethics appointed by the Board of Ethics from among its members, with whom the judges may consult when they have doubts regarding the implementation of the Code of Ethics in specific situations in which they find themselves. When providing an opinion, the confidential counsellor is guided by the Code of Ethics, the adopted positions of the Board of Ethics, while preserving the identity of the initiator of confidential counselling.
His contact phone number and email address are published on the Council's website and are available to judges.
During 2023, there were no requests for the confidential advisor.
The Law on Judges ("Official Gazette of the RS", No. 10/2023) and the Law on the High Judicial Council ("Official Gazette of the RS", No. 10/2023), which came into force on 10th May 2023, prescribed three new responsibilities of the Board of Ethics.
The first of the new competences is related to determining the incompatibility of the judicial function with other functions, jobs and private interests, the second is related to the determination of the incompatibility of the function of a member of the High Judicial Council with other functions, jobs and private interests, and the third is related to the procedure for determining disciplinary responsibilities of judges.

Q150 (2022): The Board of Ethics is a permanent working body of the High Judicial Council.
The Board of Ethics promotes ethical principles stipulated by the Code of Ethics for Judges and the Code of Ethics for the Members of the High Judicial Council and monitors their implementation to raise the awareness of the judges, the presidents of the courts and the members of the Council about the importance of ethical principles and rules of conduct in the performance of their duties, public engagement and private lives in order to raise the reputation of the judiciary and strengthen the citizen's trust in the work of judges and courts.
The Rulebook of the High Judicial Council's Board of Ethics stipulates that the Board of Ethics issued general opinions on whether the judge's conduct is in accordance with the Judges' Code of Ethics, i.e. whether the behavior of a member of the Council is in accordance with the Code of Ethics of the members of the High Judicial Council. The Board of Ethics adopts decisions at its sessions. The sessions are convened when needed, but at least four times per year. In 2022 five sessions of the Board of Ethics were held.
During 2022, the Board of Ethics issued 12 general opinions that were published on the website of the High Judicial Council and are available to all judges.
The Confidential counsellor is a member of the Board of Ethics appointed by the Board of Ethics from among its members, with whom the judges may consult when they have doubts regarding the implementation of the Code of Ethics in specific situations in which they find themselves.
His contact phone number and email address are published on the Council's website and are available to judges.
During 2022, sixteen requests were submitted and acted upon by the confidential advisor.
When providing an opinion, the confidential counsellor is guided by the Code of Ethics, the adopted positions of the Board of Ethics, while preserving the identity of the initiator of confidential counselling.

Q152 (2022): The Rulebook on the work of the Ethics Committee of the State Prosecutorial Council, Article 2:
The Ethics Committee is an occasional working body of the State Prosecutorial Council(hereinafter: the Council).
The ethics committee has a chairman, a deputy chairman and three members.
The members, at a special session, elect a president and a deputy president among themselves.
The Council appoints members of the Ethics Committee for a period of three years.
Q153 (General Comment): The Ethics Committee has five members, one of which is an elective Council member, three are prosecutorial position holders, and one is a person, who publicly affirmed itself as defender of ethical values (for example, professor of ethics on the School of Philosophy)

Q154 (2025): The Ethics Committee of the High Prosecutorial Council operates through formal sessions chaired by its President, with a quorum of at least three members, and adopts decisions by a majority of all members.
A request for an opinion on whether a public prosecutor's conduct complies with the Code of Ethics may be submitted by a Council member, an Ethics Committee member, a disciplinary authority, or a public prosecutor. The prosecutor concerned is given the proposal and may respond within 15 days, while the Committee must issue its opinion within 60 days. Any person may also submit an initiative (including anonymous ones, though clearly unfounded or malicious anonymous submissions are generally not considered). Upon the Council's proposal, the Ethics Committee further issues opinions on whether other functions, jobs, or private interests are incompatible with the dignity, independence, and reputation of a public prosecutor or a Council member. In disciplinary matters concerning serious breaches of the Code of Ethics, the Committee provides an opinion including the explanation at the request of the Disciplinary Prosecutor within 90 days, based on a description of the conduct and the circumstances in which it occurred. The Ethics Committee had 25 requests to give its opinion in the reference year. No breach of the code of ethics was found in these cases.

Random Allocation of Cases Article 24
Cases are allocated to a judge according to a schedule that is independent of the personality of parties and circumstances of the legal matter.
Cases are allocated to a judge on the basis of the annual court schedule of tasks, taking into account the complexity of the case, pursuant to the Court Rules of Procedure, according to the order determined in advance for each calendar year, exclusively on the basis of the designation and the number of the case file.
No one has the right to establish panels of judges and allocate cases by bypassing the work schedule and the order of admission of cases.

Q158 (2022): Case management systems of court (AVP and SAPS) have implemented functionality for random distribution of court cases. The algorithm for automatic random distribution cases contains the formula for evaluating cases by weight in basic, higher, and commercial courts.
Case management systems of courts (AVP and SAPS) have functionality for excluding judges from allocation by system administrator manual commanding in case of sick leave, vacations, etc.
Q160 (2025): Law on Judges („Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 10/23)
Deviation
Article 25 Deviation from the order of admission of cases is only possible in cases stipulated by the law, as well as in case of overburdening or justified preclusion of a judge, pursuant to the Court Rules of Procedure. In accordance with the Court Rules of Procedure, a case may be subtracted from a judge: when due to his/her prolonged absence it is necessary to deliberate on cases that are urgent under the law or its essence, if efficient work of the court is jeopardised, if the judge was issued a final disciplinary sanction due to a disciplinary offence for unjustified delay of a proceeding, as well as in other cases stipulated by the law. A subtracted case from the judge, as referred to in Paragraph 2 of this Article , shall be allocated to another judge in accordance with the Court Rules of Procedure.

Q176 (2025): Types of Measures Article 82
A public official may be pronounced a measure of reprimand or a measure of public announcement of recommendation of dismissal from public office. Notwithstanding paragraph 1 of this Article, a public official elected directly by citizens, as well as a person whose public office has terminated, may be pronounced a measure of reprimand or a measure of public announcement of the decision on violation of this Law.
When pronouncing measures, all circumstances of the case shall be considered, and in particular the weight and the consequences of violation of this Law as well as the possibility of eliminating the violations, as well as whether the public official has acted upon the previously imposed measure of reprimand until the expiry of the time limit that was set in the decision.
Requirements for Pronouncing Measures
Article 83
Measure of reprimand shall be pronounced in case a public official committed a minor violation of this Law. A minor violation of this Law shall be the kind of violation that did not affect the impartial discharge of public office. The measure of public announcement of recommendation for dismissal from public office and the measure of public announcement of the decision on violation of this Law, shall be pronounced due to severe violation of this Law. A severe violation of this Law shall be the violation that affected the impartial discharge of public office, as well as the reputation and the trust of citizens shown to the public official and the public office, he/she is discharging.
According to the Law on the Corruption Prevention:
According to article 103 paragraph 17 – a public official shall be fined from 100,000 to 150,000 RSD for the failure to report assets and income or submit a notification within the prescribed time limit, i.e. submits an incorrect or incomplete report on assets and income (articles 68 and 69).
According to article 101 a public official who, contrary to the provisions of this Law, fails to report assets and income to the Agency, or provides false information on assets and income in order to conceal information on assets and income, shall be punished by a prison term of six months to five years.

Q187 (General Comment): Types of Measures Article 82
A public official may be pronounced a measure of reprimand or measure of public announcement of recommendation of dismissal from public office. Notwithstanding paragraph 1 of this Article, a public official elected directly by citizens, as well as a person whose public office has terminated, may be pronounced a measure of reprimand or a measure of public announcement of the decision on violation of this Law.
When pronouncing measures, all circumstances of the case shall be considered, and in particular the weight and the consequences of violation of this Law as well as the possibility of eliminating the violations, as well as whether the public official has acted upon the previously imposed measure of reprimand until the expiry of the time limit that was set in the decision.
Requirements for Pronouncing Measures
Article 83
Measure of reprimand shall be pronounced in case a public official committed a minor violation of this Law. A minor violation of this Law shall be the kind of violation that did not affect the impartial discharge of public office. The measure of public announcement of recommendation for dismissal from public office and the measure of public announcement of the decision on violation of this Law, shall be pronounced due to severe violation of this Law. A severe violation of this Law shall be the violation that affected the impartial discharge of public office, as well as the reputation and the trust of citizens shown to the public official and the public office, he/she is discharging.
According to the Law on the Corruption Prevention:
According to article 103 paragraph 17 – a public official shall be fined from 100,000 to 150,000 RSD for the failure to report assets and income or submit a notification within the prescribed time limit, i.e. submits an incorrect or incomplete report on assets and income (articles 68 and 69).
According to the Law on the Corruption Prevention:
According to article 101 a public official who, contrary to the provisions of this Law, fails to report assets and income to the Agency, or provides false information on assets and income in order to conceal information on assets and income, shall be punished by a prison term of six months to five years.

Q188 (2025): Number of proceedings conducted by the Agency - 6 cases initiated, 18 cases completed and 8 pronounced sanctions
Number of proceedings conducted by the misdemeanour courts - 14 cases initiated, 18 cases completed (out of which 1 is acquittal) and 17 pronounced sanctions (out of which 12 are warnings and 5 are fines)
In the table we have entered the Number of cases against prosecutors due to violations/discrepancies in their declaration of assets by the Agency.

Q188 (2024): The entered data refers to the number of proceedings conducted by the Agency, when we talk about the number of proceedings conducted by the misdemeanor courts, the number of cases initiated is 18, the number of completed cases is 3, and when it comes to the number of sanctions imposed, 2 measures of reprimands and 1 acquittal. The reason for the increased number of initiated and completed proceedings is the Annual Plan for the Verification of Assets and Income for 2024, which, in addition to other public officials, significantly includes public officials from the judiciary. This covers chief public prosecutors of basic public prosecutor's offices in the Republic of Serbia, judges of the Administrative Court, and judges of the Commercial Appellate Court.
A detailed overview of the Annual Plan for the Verification of Assets and Income is published on the Agency's website: https://www.acas.rs/cyr/page_with_sidebar/plan_provere.

Q190 (General Comment): According to Law on judges (“Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023) a judge may not hold function in other authority of the Republic of Serbia, authority of autonomous province, local units of self-government, city municipality or public authorities, if a law doesn’t prescribe otherwise, may not be a member of a political party or act politically in some other manner, engage in any paid public or private work, nor extend legal services or advice for compensation. Exceptionaly, a judge may be a member of the Managing Board and the Program Council of the Judicial Academy, in accordance with the law governing the Judicial Academy.
Incompatible with judicial function is also other function, a job or a private interest, which is contrary to the dignity, reputation and independence of a judge.
The Ethics Committee decides which job or a private interest is contrary to the dignity and independence of a judge and damaging to the reputation of the judicial function, on the basis of the Code of Ethics. A judge may, outside of working hours, be engaged in teaching, scientific and artistic activities and be a member of a body for the verification of competencies, for a fee, without special approval. In a case stipulated by the law, a judge may be engaged in teaching and scientific activities in a Judicial Academy during working hours. During working hour, upon the approval of the president of the court, a judge may participate in the work of professional bodies established in accordance with special regulations and working groups for the preparation of laws and other acts. A judge is required to notify the High Judicial Council, in writing, of another function, a job or a private interest that may be deemed incompatible with judicial function. The notification may be submitted to the High Judicial Council by any person. The High Judicial Council initiates and leads the decision-making process on the incompatibility of the judicial function with other function , a job or a private interest in accordance with the act of the High Judicial Council. The High Judicial Council shall notify the judge, the president of the court and the president of the immediately superior court about the existence of incompatibility of a function, a job or a private interest with the judicial function.

Comment by Agency for Prevention of Corruption:
Scientific activity and cultural activities with and without remuneration
About this question, an official (judge) may conduct scientific study, teaching, cultural, artistic, humanitarian and sports activities, in compliance with the provisions of Article 46 of the Law on the Prevention of Corruption, without the consent of the Agency, unless it jeopardizes the impartial performance and prestige of the public office and if it is forbidden by laws and other regulations that regulate his/her work. Revenues from this work, i.e., activities, shall be submitted to the Agency by the official. An official (judge) is obliged to submit a request for consent in accordance with the provisions of Article 49 in conjunction with Article 45 paragraph 1 if it is a function within a body of cultural and other associations (except professional). In connection with research, publications, i.e., mediation, an official (judge, public prosecutor, deputy prosecutor) is obliged to submit a request for consent in accordance with the provisions of Article 46, paragraph 4. In the case of payments, when deciding on an application for the permission of officials to carry out other work or operations, the Agency does not consider whether it is with or without compensation.

Q205 (2024): According to the RULES ON THE PROCEDURE FOR DETERMINING THE DISCIPLINARY RESPONSIBILITY OF JUDGES AND COURT PRESIDENTS ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 24/2024) Disciplinary report

Article 24

Any person can file a disciplinary complaint against a judge, that is, the president of the court, to the Disciplinary Prosecutor.

The disciplinary report is submitted in writing.

A disciplinary report can also be submitted electronically, if the applicant has an electronic signature.

The disciplinary report must contain the name and surname of the judge and the name of the court in which he performs the function of judge, i.e. the name and surname of the president of the court and the name of the court in which he performs the function of president of the court, a brief description of the actions of the judge, i.e. the president of the court, the name and surname of the applicant, his address and signature.

If the disciplinary report is incomprehensible or does not contain all the information to be able to act on it (paragraph 3), the Disciplinary Prosecutor will return the report to the applicant, set a deadline of eight days for the correction or amendment of the disciplinary report and warn of the consequences of failure.

The disciplinary prosecutor will reject the disciplinary report if the applicant does not make corrections, i.e. additions, or if he does not make them within the time limit referred to in paragraph 5 of this article.

Initiation of disciplinary proceedings

Article 31

Disciplinary proceedings are initiated when the Disciplinary Prosecutor submits a proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings to the Disciplinary Commission.

The proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings contains:

1) personal data of the judge (name and surname, date of birth and address) and the court in which he performs the function of judge, that is, personal data of the president of the court (name and surname, date of birth and address) and the court in which he performs the function of the president of the court;

2) factual description and legal qualification of the disciplinary offense;

3) a proposal on the evidence to be presented at the disciplinary hearing and a proposal for a disciplinary measure.

It is not allowed to submit a new proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings based on the same facts.

Q205 (2025): According to the Law on Judges ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023), article 102 regulates that any person can file a disciplinary complaint against a judge or the president of the court, to the Disciplinary Prosecutor.
The proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings is submitted by the Disciplinary Prosecutor based on a disciplinary report or ex officio.
Disciplinary proceedings are conducted by the Disciplinary Commission on the proposal of the Disciplinary Prosecutor. The Disciplinary Commission cannot decide beyond the proposal of the Disciplinary Prosecutor.
During the disciplinary proceedings, the Disciplinary Prosecutor may amend or expand the proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings, if the presented evidence indicates a change in the factual situation in relation to the submitted proposal or if the judge whose disciplinary responsibility is being determined committed another disciplinary offense.
Disciplinary proceedings are urgent, conducted with all guarantees of a fair trial, without the presence of the public, unless the judge against whom the disciplinary proceedings are conducted requires that the proceedings be public.
The disciplinary procedure is regulated in more detail by an act of the High Council of the Judiciary.
Conduct of disciplinary proceedings expires three years after the day when the disciplinary offense was committed, and does not expire during the duration of the administrative dispute, i.e. court proceedings related to the initiated disciplinary proceedings and executed disciplinary measures.
THE LAW
ON THE ARRANGEMENT OF THE COURTS
("Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023)
This Law regulates the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Justice and the High Judicial Council in terms of supervision of the implementation of the Court Rulebook. The Ministry of Justice has limited power over the questions regulated by the Court Rulebook (Court rules of procedure) regarding supervision. If the deficiencies are not eliminated within the set deadlines, the supervising authority, in this case the Ministry of Justice, will file a disciplinary report against the president of the supervised court.
Supervision over the implementation of the Rules of Court
Article 77
The implementation of the Court Rules of Procedure is supervised by the High Council of the Judiciary and the Ministry responsible for the judiciary.
The High Council of the Judiciary supervises the application of the Rules of Procedure of the Court in connection with the tasks referred to in Article 76, paragraph 1, point. 1)-9), 14), 15) and 17) of this law, and the ministry responsible for justice in connection with the affairs from Article 76, paragraph 1, item 10) and 16) of this law.
The High Council of the Judiciary and the Ministry responsible for the judiciary jointly supervise the implementation of the Rules of Court in connection with the tasks prescribed in Article 76, paragraph 1, point. 11)-13) of this law.
In the event that supervision is carried out on the basis of a submitted complaint, the competence of the authority for conducting supervision is determined depending on the violation of the Rules of Court that the complainant indicates.
Q205 (2022): Anyone may file a complaint based on which disciplinary proceedings are formaly initiated bu the HJC disciplinary prosecutor
Q206 (2025): The Disciplinary Prosecutor initiates disciplinary proceedings by submitting a proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings to the Disciplinary Commission of the High Judicial Council. After the procedure, the Disciplinary Commission of the High Judicial Council issues a decision against which the judge against whom the proceedings are being conducted can appeal to the High Judicial Council. After the decision of the High Judicial Council, the judge can appeal to the Administrative Court. If a judge is declared responsible for a serious disciplinary offense after the decision of the Administrative Court, the High Judicial Council makes a decision to dismiss the judge, which decision the judge has the right to appeal to the Constitutional Court.

Q206 (2024): According to the RULES ON THE PROCEDURE FOR DETERMINING THE DISCIPLINARY RESPONSIBILITY OF JUDGES AND PRESIDENTS OF COURTS ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 24/2024) Submitting a request to the Ethics Committee

Article 30

If he does not reject the disciplinary report, the Disciplinary Prosecutor, before submitting a proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings due to a disciplinary offense from Article 97, paragraph 1, point 20 of the Law on Judges ("Official Gazette of the RS", number 10/23), submits a request to the Ethics Committee to establish a significant violation of the provisions of the Code of Ethics.

In the request for establishing a significant violation of the provisions of the Code of Ethics, the Disciplinary Prosecutor states a factual description of the behavior of the judge, that is, the president of the court and the circumstances in which it was manifested, without specifying the personal data of the judge, that is, the president of the court.

The Ethics Committee is obliged to decide on a significant violation of the provisions of the Code of Ethics within 90 days from the date of receipt of the Disciplinary Prosecutor's request and to submit an opinion on the submitted request to the Disciplinary Prosecutor.

Decision of the Disciplinary Commission

Article 40

The Disciplinary Commission makes a decision in the form of a resolution.

Disciplinary commission by decision:

- rejects the Disciplinary Prosecutor's proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings;
- approves the Disciplinary Prosecutor's proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings, declares the judge, that is, the president of the court responsible for a disciplinary offense and imposes the appropriate disciplinary measure on him.

The Disciplinary Commission will suspend the procedure by decision if:

- Disciplinary prosecutor in the course of the procedure abandons the proposal for conducting the disciplinary procedure;
- the judge, that is, the president of the court against whom the proceedings are being conducted, ceases to be a judge;
- the disciplinary procedure became obsolete;
- the properly summoned Disciplinary Prosecutor does not attend the hearing without a valid reason (Article 34, paragraph 2).

Q206 (2022): The Law on Judges ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 10, 2023), Disciplinary action

24/2024) Decision of the Disciplinary Commission
Article 40
The Disciplinary Commission makes a decision in the form of a resolution.
Disciplinary commission by decision:
- rejects the Disciplinary Prosecutor's proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings;
- approves the Disciplinary Prosecutor's proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings, declares the judge, i.e. the president of the court responsible for a disciplinary offense and imposes an appropriate disciplinary measure on him.
The Disciplinary Commission will suspend the procedure by decision if:
- Disciplinary prosecutor in the course of the procedure abandons the proposal for conducting the disciplinary procedure;
- the judge, that is, the president of the court against whom the proceedings are being conducted, ceases to be a judge;
- the disciplinary procedure became obsolete;
- the properly summoned Disciplinary Prosecutor does not attend the hearing without a valid reason (Article 34, paragraph 2).
Content of the decision of the Disciplinary Commission
Article 41
The decision of the Disciplinary Commission from Article 40 of this rulebook contains:
1) name and surname of the president and members of the Disciplinary Commission and recorder;
2) names of parties to the proceedings and attorneys;
3) date and place of decision making;
4) the decision to reject the proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings, i.e. the decision declaring the judge, i.e. the president of the court responsible for the disciplinary offense committed, the factual description and legal qualification of the disciplinary offense and the disciplinary measure imposed on him or the decision suspending the proceedings;
5) explanation;
6) decision on the costs of the procedure;
7) signature of the president of the Disciplinary Commission;
8) instruction on legal remedy.
Within eight days from the date of publication of the decision, the Disciplinary Commission prepares a written copy of the decision and delivers it to the Disciplinary Prosecutor, the judge and his attorney, that is, the president of the court and his attorney.Appeal against the decision of the Disciplinary Commission

Q212 (2025): The Rulebook on the Procedure for Determining Disciplinary Responsibilities of Judges and Court Presidents (“Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia”, no. 24/24 of March 22nd, 2024) stipulates that the High Judicial Council has to decide on appeal within 15 days from the date of receipt of the file. The decision is final and it can be contested in an administrative litigation. No extraordinary legal remedies or repetition are allowed in the disciplinary procedure.

24/2024) Article 42

Against the decision of the Disciplinary Commission, the Disciplinary prosecutor, the judge and his attorney, that is, the president of the court and his attorney, may file an appeal with the Council within eight days from the date of delivery of the decision.

A complaint can be filed:

1) due to violations of procedural rules that could have an impact on the adoption of a legal and proper solution;

2) due to wrongly or incompletely established factual situation;

3) due to incorrect application of substantive law;

4) due to the decision on the pronounced disciplinary measure.

Content of the complaint

Article 43

The complaint must contain:

1) designation of the decision against which the appeal is filed;

2) a statement that the decision is disputed in its entirety or in a certain part;

3) the reason for the appeal;

4) signature of the person making the complaint.

In the appeal, new facts and new evidence may be presented only if the appellant makes it probable that he could not present them, or propose them during the first instance disciplinary proceedings, through no fault of his own.

Response to the appeal

Article 44

The complaint with attachments is submitted to the opposing party, who can submit an answer to the complaint within three days of receiving the complaint. An untimely response to the appeal will not be taken into consideration.

The Disciplinary Commission shall deliver the case file to the Council immediately upon receipt of the response to the appeal or the expiration of the deadline for providing the response to the appeal.

Second degree disciplinary proceedings before the Council

Article 45

The council decides on the appeal, as a rule, without discussion. The President of the Council appoints a reporter from among the elected members of the Council. The decision of the Disciplinary Commission from paragraph 1 of this article must be explained.
Against the decision of the Disciplinary Commission, the Disciplinary Prosecutor and the judge against whom the disciplinary proceedings are being conducted may appeal to the High Council of the Judiciary, within eight days from the date of delivery of the decision.
Q212 (2022): Article 36 of the Rulebook on determining the disciplinary responsibility of judges and presidents of courts

Q213 (2025): Irremovability of judges is one of the basic principles proclaimed by the Law on Judges ("Official Gazette of RS", 10/23). Article 3 of the Law on Judges provides that a judge may not be permanently transferred or temporary assigned to another court without his consent, except in cases provided for by the Constitution and this Law.

2. Immovability of the judge
A term
Article 18
A judge has the right to perform judicial function permanently in the court for which he was elected, except in the case prescribed by the Constitution and this law.
Only with his consent can a judge be permanently transferred or temporarily referred from one court to another, or referred to the High Council of the Judiciary, the ministry responsible for justice, the Judicial Academy or an international organization in the field of justice.
Consent is given in written form and must precede the adoption of a decision on permanent transfer, temporary assignment or assignment.
Permanent relocation
Article 19
A judge may, with his written consent, be permanently transferred to another court of the same type and of the same or lower degree, if there is a need to urgently fill a vacant judge position, which cannot be solved by the election or temporary assignment of a judge, with the consent of the president of both courts.
As an exception to paragraph 1 of this article, a judge may be permanently transferred to another court without his written consent in the event of the abolition of the court or the abolition of the majority of the jurisdiction of the court for which he was elected.
The majority of the court's jurisdiction is revoked if the necessary number of judges in the court is reduced due to a change in the substantive jurisdiction of the court, the establishment of a new court or a change in the area in which the court exercises jurisdiction. In the case referred to in paragraph 2 of this article, a judge may be permanently transferred only to a court of the same level that takes over the jurisdiction of a court that has been abolished or to which the majority of its jurisdiction has been abolished.
If the jurisdiction of the abolished court was taken over by two or more courts, i.e. the predominant jurisdiction of the court was taken over by one or more courts, when making a decision on the permanent transfer of a judge, the High Council of the Judiciary takes into account the residence of the judge, the length of the judge's service and the type of work that the judge performed.
The judge permanently continues to perform the function of judge in the court to which he was transferred.
The decision on permanent transfer is made by the High Council of the Judiciary.
Against the decision on permanent transfer, the judge can file an appeal with the Constitutional Court, which excludes the right to submit a constitutional appeal, within 30 days from the date of receipt of the decision. Temporary referral to another court
Article 20
A judge is temporarily referred to another court where the lack, impediment, exclusion of judges or other reasons make the work of the court difficult.
A judge may be temporarily assigned only to another court of the same type and of the same or immediately lower level, for a maximum of one year, without the possibility of temporary assignment to the same court again.

The decision on permanent transfer is made by the High Council of the Judiciary.
Against the decision on permanent transfer, the judge can file an appeal with the Constitutional Court, which excludes the right to submit a constitutional appeal, within 30 days from the date of receipt of the decision.
Temporary referral to another court
Article 20
A judge is temporarily referred to another court where the lack, impediment, exclusion of judges or other reasons make the work of the court difficult.

ON THE PUBLIC PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE
("Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023)
This Law regulates the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Justice and the High Prosecutorial Council in terms of Supervision over the implementation of the Act on Administration in the Public Prosecutor's Office. The Ministry of Justice has limited power over the questions regulated by the Act on Administration in the Public Prosecutor's Office regarding supervision. If the deficiencies are not eliminated within the set deadlines, the supervising authority, in this case, the Ministry of Justice, will file a disciplinary report against the chief public prosecutor of the supervised public prosecution.
Disciplinary action
Article 119
Any person may file a disciplinary report against the holder of the public prosecutor's office to the Disciplinary Prosecutor.
The proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings is submitted by the Disciplinary Prosecutor on the basis of a disciplinary report or ex officio.
Disciplinary proceedings are conducted by the Disciplinary Commission on the proposal of the Disciplinary Prosecutor. The Disciplinary Commission cannot decide beyond the proposal of the Disciplinary Prosecutor.
During the disciplinary proceedings, the Disciplinary Prosecutor may amend or expand the proposal for conducting the disciplinary proceedings, if the presented evidence indicates a change in the factual situation in relation to the submitted proposal or if the holder of the public prosecutor's office whose disciplinary responsibility is determined has committed another disciplinary offense. Disciplinary proceedings are urgent, they are conducted with all the guarantees of a fair trial, without the presence of the public, unless the holder of the public prosecutor's office in relation to whom the disciplinary proceedings are conducted requires that it be public.

Supervision over the implementation of the Act on Administration in the Public Prosecutor's Office
Article 46
Supervision over the implementation of the act on administration in the public prosecutor's office is carried out by the High Council of Prosecutors and the ministry responsible for justice.
The High Council of the Prosecution supervises the implementation of the Act on Administration in the Public Prosecution in connection with the tasks referred to in Article 45, paragraph 1, point. 1)-6) and 13), of this law, and the ministry responsible for justice in connection with the affairs from Article 45, paragraph 1, point. 8), 10) and 14) of this law.
The High Prosecution Council and the Ministry responsible for justice jointly supervise the implementation of the Act on Administration in the Public Prosecutor's Office in connection with the tasks referred to in Article 45, paragraph 1, point. 7), 9), 11), 12) and 15) of this law.

Q214 (2024): According to the RULES ON DISCIPLINARY BODIES OF THE HIGH PROSECUTOR'S COUNCIL AND DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia", No. 33/2024), the initiation and conduct of disciplinary proceedings is provided for in Article 26 and stipulates that Disciplinary proceedings are initiated by the Disciplinary Prosecutor by submitting a proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings (hereinafter: Proposal) to the Commission, based on a submitted disciplinary report or ex officio.
The Disciplinary Prosecutor may withdraw the Proposal until the Commission has made a decision.
The Disciplinary Prosecutor may not submit a new Proposal based on the same facts.
The Disciplinary Commission may not decide outside the Proposal of the Disciplinary Prosecutor.
Disciplinary proceedings are urgent, conducted with all guarantees of a fair trial, without the presence of the public, unless the holder of the public prosecutor's office against whom the disciplinary proceedings are being conducted requests that the proceedings be public.
Disciplinary proceedings do not constitute an obstacle to conducting other proceedings against the holder of the public prosecutor's office.

Q215 (2025): Disciplinary proceedings against a public prosecutor may be initiated by a written complaint from any person to the Disciplinary Prosecutor, who must examine every complaint, collect evidence, access official files, and, where relevant, seek an opinion from the Ethics Committee. Proceedings are formally opened when the Disciplinary Prosecutor submits a proposal to the Disciplinary Commission, either based on a complaint or ex officio. The procedure is urgent, ensures fair-trial guarantees, and is closed to the public unless the accused prosecutor requests otherwise. The prosecutor concerned has full rights, including access to the file, the right to respond, legal representation, and the right to appeal. If the Disciplinary Prosecutor finds that disciplinary action is needed, he gives his recommendation to the Disciplinary Commission to do so. The Commission holds a hearing, examines evidence, and may request further clarification. It may dismiss the proposal, establish disciplinary responsibility and impose a sanction, or discontinue the case if the proposal is withdrawn, the prosecutor’s function ends, or limitation periods expire. Decisions are reasoned, adopted by majority vote, recorded in the prosecutor’s official file once final, and proceedings are subject to a three-year limitation period, suspended during related court or administrative disputes.
In the second-instance disciplinary procedure, both the Disciplinary Prosecutor and the public prosecutor concerned may file an appeal to the Council within eight days of receiving the first-instance decision. The appeal must specify the challenged decision, grounds and reasons, scope of challenge, and include a signature; the other party may respond within three days. Decisions may be challenged due to procedural violations, incorrect or incomplete establishment of facts, misapplication of substantive law, or the disciplinary sanction imposed. The Council may dismiss the appeal as inadmissible or late, uphold the Commission’s decision, or amend it. A rapporteur from among Council members elected from prosecutors is appointed, decisions are adopted by the prescribed majority, the Minister of Justice does not vote, and the Supreme Public Prosecutor is excluded when his or her responsibility is concerned. The Council must decide within 30 days, issue a decision, and its ruling is final, subject only to an administrative court dispute. Final disciplinary sanctions are recorded in the prosecutor’s personal file and removed after three years, and extraordinary legal remedies are not permitted.

Serbia", No. 33/2024) Powers of the Disciplinary Commission
Article 31
In the procedure for determining the disciplinary liability of the holder of the public prosecutorial function, the Commission may:
1) reject the Proposal as unfounded;
2) adopt the Proposal, declare the holder of the public prosecutorial function responsible for the committed disciplinary offense and impose a disciplinary measure on him/her;
3) suspend the procedure if:
- The disciplinary prosecutor withdraws the Proposal during the procedure;
- the public prosecutorial function of the holder of the public prosecutorial function against whom the procedure is being conducted ceases or
- the statute of limitations for conducting disciplinary proceedings has expired.
The Commission shall make a decision within 15 days of the conclusion of the hearing and shall submit it to the Disciplinary Prosecutor and the holder of the public prosecutorial function whose disciplinary liability is being determined, or to his or her authorized representative.
The Commission shall submit a final decision to the Council for entry in the personal file of the holder of the public prosecutorial function.
If the Commission decides not to initiate proceedings to determine the reasons for the dismissal of the holder of the public prosecutorial function who has been declared liable for a serious disciplinary offence by the Commission's decision, it shall notify the Council of that decision.
Decision-making method of the Disciplinary Commission
Article 32
Decisions of the Commission shall be made by a majority vote of the members of the Commission, of which a special record shall be drawn up and signed by all members of the Commission.
Decisions of the Commission shall be drawn up in the form of a resolution, within 15 days of the date of adoption.
A dissenting opinion of a member of the Commission shall be noted in the minutes of deliberation and voting.
The decision establishing that the holder of the public prosecutor's office is liable for a disciplinary offence shall contain:
1) an introduction, which shall include: the composition of the Commission, the names of the parties and their attorneys, the subject matter of the proceedings and the date of the decision;
2) a factual description of the disciplinary offence;
3) the provisions of the Law and other laws and regulations applied in the disciplinary proceedings, as well as the legal qualification of the disciplinary offence;

Q149 (2025): The KJC has established the Advisory Committee on Judicial Ethics, where all judges have the right to request opinions on matters related to ethics.
Q149 (2024): The KJC has established the Advisory Committee on Judicial Ethics, where all judges have the right to seek opinions on issues related to ethics.
Q149 (2022): KJC has approved the Code of Ethics for Judges, which contains guidelines and rules of conduct for judges

Q150 (2025): The Advisory Committee on Judicial Ethics – refers to the group composed of judges selected by the Council, who provide guidance on how to handle situations or future behaviours that may be considered contrary to the Code of Professional Ethics for Judges.
Q150 (2024): This Committee will assist judges by providing information and advice on ethical questions or issues identified for interpretation in relation to the Code of Professional Ethics for Judges and the Law on Disciplinary Procedure for Judges and Prosecutors.
The Committee will serve as a platform where judges can seek guidance on how to handle future situations or behaviors that may be considered contrary to the Code of Professional Ethics for Judges.
The work of the Committee and the disciplinary process are separate and independent from each other. The opinions of the Advisory Committee on Judicial Ethics are given regarding future situations or behaviors that may be considered contrary to the Code of Professional Ethics for Judges, as opposed to the disciplinary process, which involves investigations and possible hearings to review and resolve complaints about alleged unethical conduct of judges in the past.
Q151 (2025): During 2025, the Committee issued two opinions:
1. The party that submitted the request for an advisory opinion for judges regarding the prioritization of court cases related to the rights and obligations associated with individuals with disabilities was the Executive Director of the NGO HENDIKOS.
In this case, the Committee clarified that it has the mandate to provide advice and opinions only for judges and does not have the mandate to issue opinions for other entities outside the judiciary, as was the case here.
2. The request was submitted by a judge, who asked for an advisory opinion regarding the question: “Is the rule of case processing in order of arrival violated for a non-priority case if such a case is sent to mediation proceedings based on the parties’ proposal?”
In this case, the Committee responded by stating that there was no need to issue an opinion, as this matter is already regulated by law.
Q152 (2025): During 2024 KPC has established an Advisory Committee on Ethics Issues.

Q152 (2024): During 2024 KPC has established an Advisory Committee on Ethics Issues.
1. The Commission is tasked with providing consistent opinions to prosecutors on ethical questions or dilemmas.
2. The work of the Commission and the disciplinary process are separate and independent from each other. The Commission's opinions are given regarding future situations or conduct that may be considered contrary to the Code of Ethics, as opposed to the disciplinary process, which includes investigations and possible hearings that review and resolve complaints about alleged unethical conduct of prosecutors in the past.
3. The Commission's opinions are not binding, but may be taken into account in determining the degree of responsibility for ethical violations.
1. The prosecutors who will serve on the Commission shall be elected by the Council.
2. The Commission shall consist of three (3) members, two (2) of whom shall be proposed by the Office of Chief State Prosecutor and one (1) member shall be proposed by the Appellate Prosecutor's Office, while the two reserve members shall be proposed: one (1) by the Office of Chief State Prosecutor and one (1) by the Appellate Prosecutor's Office.
5. Members to serve on this Commission must meet the following criteria:
5.1. have a high professional reputation;
5.2. have high moral integrity and professional ethics;
5.3. not be currently the subject of a disciplinary investigation; and
5.4. not have been subject to a disciplinary sanction within the last five (5) years.
Their mandate in this Commission is 3 years with a possibility for re-election for 1 more term.

Q153 (2025): Prosecutors who will serve in the Commission are elected by the Council.
The commission consists of three (3) members, two (2) of whom are elected by the Office of the Chief State Prosecutor (OCSP) and one (1) member from the Appellate Prosecution, while the two reserve members are elected: one (1) by the OCSP and one (1)) from the Appellate Prosecution. - Not currently be subject to a disciplinary investigation and
- Not to have a disciplinary sanction imposed during the last five (5) years.

The mandate of the members of this Commission is three (3) years with the possibility of re-election for another term

Q154 (2025): The work of this commission is regulated by Regulation no. 01/2023 on the Advisory committee on ethics issues for prosecutors. The Commission is tasked with providing consistent opinions to prosecutors regarding ethical questions or dilemmas.
The work of the Commission and the disciplinary process are separate and independent from each other. The Commission's opinions are given regarding future situations or behaviours that may be considered contrary to the Code of Ethics, as opposed to the disciplinary process, which includes investigations and possible hearings that examine and resolve complaints about the alleged unethical behaviours of prosecutors in the past.
The Commission's opinions are not obligatory, but may be taken into account for determining the degree of responsibility for ethical violations.
Requests for opinions regarding situations or behaviours that may be considered contrary to the Code of Ethics may be addressed to the Commission , as follows, by: 1. 1. The Prosecutorial Council and its bodies;
1.2. Chief prosecutors and
1.3. Prosecutors of all levels of prosecutions.
The procedure for giving the opinion
The Commission may reject the request for the provision of an advisory opinion if it finds that:
1.1. The request is unfounded;
1.2. The request was submitted in relation to the alleged unethical behaviour of prosecutors, which is dealt with under the Law on Disciplinary Responsibility for Judges and Prosecutors.
The Commission may request additional information and clarifications from the applicant, if the same is incomplete or unclear, and the applicant is obliged to act within the period of 5 (five) days from the notification.
If the applicant does not act within the deadline defined in paragraph 2 of this article, the Commission rejects the applicant's request.
The Commission issues an opinion no later than 30 days from the day of receipt of the request.
The Commission can issue advisory opinions on its own initiative on matters of general interest for ethics for prosecutors.
The publication of the opinion is done in accordance with the Regulation on Access to Public Documents, while the applicant's file is confidential.
Q154 (2024): There are no opinions published yet because this is a newly established body and there are no opinions provided yet. However, such opinions, when offered, will be published.
Q155 (2025): No opinions are yet published or issued.
Q156 (2022): According to the Code of Criminal Procedure of Kosovo, party can request the dismissal of the judge as soon as he has learned about the existence of reasons for dismissal, and this request can be exercised directly in a court session or through a complaint, in cases where the judge may have a family relationship with any party in the procedure or when he suspects that the same cannot be impartial in the exercise of his function.
Q157 (General Comment): In civil procedure, this matter is regulated by Article 68.1 of the Law on Contested Procedure, which states that a party must submit a request for the disqualification of a judge as soon as they become aware of any grounds for disqualification, but no later than the conclusion of the hearing on the case. If no hearing has taken place, the request must be submitted before the issuance of the meritorious decision.
In criminal procedure, this is regulated by Articles 39 and 40 of the Criminal Procedure Code. - The Chief Prosecutor concerning alleged disciplinary offences of prosecutors employed at the prosecution office for which the Chief Prosecutor is responsible;
- The Kosovo Prosecutorial Council concerning alleged disciplinary offenses of the Chief State Prosecutor.

The competent authority shall request the Council to initiate disciplinary procedures against a prosecutor also ex-officio when it has reasonable grounds to believe that a prosecutor has committed a disciplinary offence.
Natural and legal persons may also submit complaints against a judge or prosecutor to the Ombudsperson. In case the Ombudsperson receives a complaint, it shall forward the complaint within five (5) working days to the Competent Authority. The Ombudsperson may request the Council to initiate disciplinary investigations against a Court President or the Chief Prosecutor if they have reasons to believe that they have committed a disciplinary offense pursuant to Article 9, paragraph 7 of this Law. The Ombudsperson may also request the Council to initiate disciplinary investigations against a judge or prosecutor if they consider that a Competent Authority has decided to dismiss a complaint against such judge or prosecutor in contradiction with Article 9, paragraph 5 of the law, in which case they shall provide a reasoning why the complaint should not have been dismissed.
Q214 (2024): Law on disciplinary liability of judges and prosecutors: Article 9: Natural and legal persons may submit complaints against a judge or prosecutor concerning an allegation of a disciplinary offense to the Competent Authorities.

Q214 (2023): Natural and legal persons may submit complaints against a judge or prosecutor concerning an allegation of a disciplinary offense to the Competent Authorities
Q215 (General Comment): In the initial phases in order to treat the complaint received the role of each body is as follows:
1.4. the Chief State Prosecutor concerning alleged disciplinary offences of Chief Prosecutors; 1.5. the Chief Prosecutor concerning alleged disciplinary offences of prosecutors employed at the prosecution office for which the Chief Prosecutor is responsible; 1.6. the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council concerning alleged disciplinary offenses of the Chief State Prosecutor.

Q215 (2025): The Council shall initiate disciplinary procedures based on a request submitted by the Competent Authority.
Within fifteen (15) working days from the receipt of the request to initiate disciplinary investigations, the Council shall establish an investigation panel to conduct the investigation. Or, the Council may dismiss the request without forming the investigating panel, if it is considered with no value prima facie or not of a serious importance it is not substantial and it does not have any kind of relation with the disciplinary offence or falls under the status of limitations.
The investigation panel concerning a prosecutor, respectively chief prosecutor for prosecutors, shall be composed of three (3) prosecutors of a different prosecutorial body. The Council shall determine the chairperson of the investigation panel from among the members of the investigation panel. The members of the investigative panels are chosen ad-hoc per case and are selected through a secret ballot from a list of 30 prosecutors which list is priory approved by the Council and it consists of prosecutors with high professional reputation, high integrity and professional ethics, prosecutor with permanent mandate, no disciplinary measures and not be convicted of a criminal offense.
The investigation panel shall establish the facts and collect evidence related to the alleged disciplinary offense. The prosecutor under investigation and the authority which has requested the initiation of investigation procedures may suggest witnesses, submit evidence, as well as request the submission of documents and the evidence held by other persons or institutions.
The investigation panel shall complete the investigation within three (3) months from the day it was established by the Council. In exceptional circumstances, the Council may extend the investigation for an additional period of up to two (2) months. Upon completion of the investigation, the investigation panel shall submit to the Council, the prosecutor under investigation and the Competent Authority which has requested the initiation of disciplinary investigations, a written report on all collected facts and evidence. Upon the submission of the report, the investigation panel shall cease its function at the moment when the case becomes final.
Upon receiving of the written report on the investigation on the prosecutor, or upon receiving of the agreement based on the Article 13 of this Law, respective Council shall hold a session in the time frame of thirty (30) days. The Council may choose to hold additional sessions if the necessity derives out of the complexity of the case. Parties to the procedure shall be invited to take part in the session of the Council.
The prosecutor against who the disciplinary procedure has been initiated, has a right of defending him/herself or hire a defense lawyer. The Council shall be obliged to provide access to all the evidence collected as well as in all the dossiers of the case.
The Council shall decide whether the alleged disciplinary offense has been committed and, if it finds that the prosecutor has committed the alleged disciplinary offense, impose the disciplinary sanction according to the provisions of this Law.
The Council shall reach its decision within two (2) months from the receipt of the report of the investigation panel.
Q215 (2024): In the initial phases in order to treat the complaint received the role of each body is as follows:
1.4. the Chief State Prosecutor concerning alleged disciplinary offences of Chief Prosecutors; 1.5. the Chief Prosecutor concerning alleged disciplinary offences of prosecutors employed at the prosecution office for which the Chief Prosecutor is responsible; 1.6. the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council concerning alleged disciplinary offenses of the Chief State Prosecutor.
Q215 (2023): In the initial phases in order to treat the complaint received the role of each body is as follows:
1.4. the Chief State Prosecutor concerning alleged disciplinary offences of Chief Prosecutors; 1.5. the Chief Prosecutor concerning alleged disciplinary offences of prosecutors employed at the prosecution office for which the Chief Prosecutor is responsible; 1.6. the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council concerning alleged disciplinary offenses of the Chief State Prosecutor

Q217 (2025): During 2025, the Council received 10 requests for initiation of disciplinary procedures against prosecutors by the Competent Authorities. For 5 of those requests, the Council established the investigative panels, 2 requests were rejected by the Council and 3 requests were dismissed by the Council.
The legal bases or grounds on which the ten (10) requests for initiation of disciplinary proceedings were initiated are:
1. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors, paragraph 1, subparagraph 1.2 “A prosecutor commits a disciplinary offense if he or she violates the law“;
2. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors; paragraph 2, subparagraphs 2.8 (provides false or misleading information in matters related to disciplinary proceedings and prosecution related administrative procedures, including promotion and transfers, except if otherwise provided by Law); and 2.10 (engages in behaviour while on duty or in private which harms the honour and dignity of the State Prosecutor or which may harm public confidence in the impartiality or credibility of the State Prosecutor); 3. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors, paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.1 “continuously, fails to take any prosecutorial action required by the Law into force or fails to exercise prosecutorial within the deadlines foreseen by Law, except when the seriousness of failure to act or the level of the offense serves as a basis for initiation of the disciplinary procedures for a single violation“
4. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.10 (engages in behaviour while on duty or in private which harms the honour and dignity of the State Prosecutor or which may harm public confidence in the impartiality or credibility of the State Prosecutor);
5. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 1, subparagraph 1.2, in conjunction with paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.1 “continuously, fails to take any prosecutorial action required by the Law into force or fails to exercise prosecutorial within the deadlines foreseen by Law, except when the seriousness of failure to act or the level of the offense serves as a basis for initiation of the disciplinary procedures for a single violation;”
6. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.1 “continuously, fails to take any prosecutorial action required by the Law into force or fails to exercise prosecutorial within the deadlines foreseen by Law, except when the seriousness of failure to act or the level of the offense serves as a basis for initiation of the disciplinary procedures for a single violation”
7. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.10 “engages in behaviour while on duty or in private which harms the honour and dignity of the State Prosecutor or which may harm public confidence in the impartiality or credibility of the State Prosecutor”;
8. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.1 “continuously, fails to take any prosecutorial action required by the Law into force or fails to exercise prosecutorial within the deadlines foreseen by Law, except when the seriousness of failure to act or the level of the offense serves as a basis for initiation of the disciplinary procedures for a single violation”;
9. Violation of the Code of Conduct and Professional Ethics, point C and point I;
10. On a request from the Ombudsman, the legal basis for the alleged disciplinary violations was not determined.
Q217 (2024): Clarification: In table above, there are (6) disciplinary cases initiated in the year – 2024, six of them (all of them) are professional violations, while (4) of them are professional and ethical violations. However to avoid duplication only two cases are reported in the "professional inadequacy" box.
Q217 (2023): During 2023, KPC received 8 new cases of requests for initiating the disciplinary procedures against prosecutors. There were 2 prosecutor for whom we received 2 separate cases for each so the cases were joined. As a result, in total, there were 6 cases treated.
Q218 (2025): 4 of the 5 cases completed are the cases which were received in 2025, and 1 of the completed cases was received in 2024. 1 of the 5 cases received in 2025 is still ongoing.
Q218 (2024): Clarification: four disciplinary cases (all of them) are professional violations, while (2) two cases are professional and ethical violations. However to avoid duplication only two cases are reported in the "professional inadequacy" box.

Q218 (2023): Of the 8 cases received, 3 cases are still unfinished (1 is in the Supreme Court, 1 is being treated in the KPC and 1 is still being treated in the investigative panel)

(2022): The judges' independence is guaranteed by the constitution, by special law, by Procedural Codes both civil and penal as well as bylaws (e.g. Code of ethics)

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General comment): Constitution:
Constitutions are adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e. state, entities, cantons), whereas the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which is a single administrative unit of local self-government existing under the sovereignty of Bosnia and Herzegovina, has enacted its Statute.
In the Constitution of Bosnia and Herzegovina, there are no provisions that explicitly mention the independence of the courts. However, as Article II of the Constitution stipulates that the rights and freedoms guaranteed by the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and fundamental freedoms and its Protocols shall be directly applied in Bosnia and Herzegovina, and that the Convention and its Protocols shall have priority over all other laws, this way, indirectly, through the Convention Provisions, the independence of the courts is introduced as a constitutional principle. In parallel to the Constitution of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Constitution of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Republika Srpska Constitution, the constitutions of all cantons that exist within the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as the Statute of the Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina introduce the independence of the courts as a constitutional principle, based on the principle of the division of power between the legislative, executive and judicial branches. Furthermore, the Constitution of the Federation of BiH the Republika Srpska Constitution the constitutions of all cantons that exist within the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, as well as the Statute of the Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina contain certain mechanisms for the protection of judicial independence in the form of: the permanence of judicial function, material guarantees in the form of prohibition of salary reduction and other compensations during the performance of judicial practice, immunity from criminal and civic liability for any opinion expressed in the decision-making process and the prohibition of performing public functions that are incompatible with judicial office.
Special law: Additionally, besides the provisions on courts in the above-mentioned constitutions, special laws on courts are adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e., state, entities, and the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina). Laws on courts regulate the organization, jurisdiction, and functioning of courts at the respective level of government. According to the laws on courts, courts are independent and autonomous from the legislative and executive authorities. No one may influence the independence and impartiality of a judge in deciding cases assigned to them for work.
Finally, separate state level law has established the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is independent and autonomous body, with the task of ensuring the maintenance of an independent, impartial and professional judiciary. It has an array of competencies concerning all judges in Bosnia and Herzegovina as follows:
Courts are autonomous and independent of the legislative and executive authorities. No one may influence the independence and impartiality of a judge in deciding the cases assigned to them.
Finally, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has been established by separate state level law. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is independent and autonomous body, with the task of ensuring the maintenance of an independent, impartial and professional judiciary. It has an array of competencies with regards to all judges in Bosnia and Herzegovina as follows: appointing court presidents and judges, receiving complaints against judges, conducting disciplinary proceedings, determining disciplinary liability, and imposing disciplinary measures on judges; deciding upon appeals in disciplinary proceedings; deciding

(General comment): Constitution

Constitutions are adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e. state, entities, and cantons), whereas the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina which is a single administrative unit of local self-government existing under the sovereignty of Bosnia and Herzegovina has enacted its Statute.

The Constitution of the Republic of Srpska and the Statute of the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina provide that prosecutor's offices are independent institutions that prosecute perpetrators of criminal and other legally punishable acts and take legal actions to protect legality, as well as that the establishment, organization, and competencies of the prosecutor's office are regulated by law.

The other constitutions (that is, the Constitution of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Constitution of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the constitutions of the cantons) do not contain provisions on prosecutor's offices.

Special law: Additionally, besides the provisions on the prosecutors' offices in the above-mentioned constitutions, special laws on the prosecutors' offices are adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina (i.e., state, entities, cantons and the Brčko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina). Laws on the prosecutors' offices regulate the organization, jurisdiction, and functioning of courts at the respective level of government. According to the prosecutors' offices, the prosecutors' offices are independent and autonomous from the legislative and executive authorities. Pursuant to the specific legislation regulating the legal status of prosecutors' offices in Bosnia and Herzegovina, they constitute independent authorities which prosecute perpetrators of criminal offenses and file legal expedients for the purpose of protecting legality and constitutionality. Public prosecution offices shall perform their functions on the basis of the constitution and the law. No one shall have the right to influence the public prosecutor's office in the execution of its constitutional and legal functions. The Chief Prosecutor shall have the right and duty to give mandatory instructions to the public prosecutor regarding his/her work, and may, apart from that: take certain actions which are in the competence of the public prosecutor; authorize a different public prosecutor to process individual cases that are within the competence of the public prosecutor; authorize a public prosecutor to perform individual activities that are within the competence of another public prosecutor. The Chief Prosecutor may perform criminal prosecution within the competence of a public prosecutor, and in doing so, s/he may: undertake necessary measures related to detection of crimes and identification of perpetrators with the purpose of directing preceding criminal proceedings; request investigation conduct; bring and represent indictment, i.e. indictment proposals and other proposals before competent court; file appeals against unlawful court decisions, i.e. withdraw already filed appeals.

Finally, separate state level law has established the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina is independent and autonomous body, with the task of ensuring the maintenance of an independent, impartial and professional judiciary. It has an array of competencies concerning all prosecutors in Bosnia and Herzegovina as follows:

appointing chief prosecutors and prosecutors, receiving complaints against prosecutors, conducting disciplinary proceedings, determining disciplinary liability, and imposing disciplinary measures on prosecutors; deciding upon appeals in disciplinary proceedings; deciding upon suspensions of prosecutors; deciding upon issues of incompatibility of other functions performed by prosecutors; deciding upon the temporary assignment or transfer of prosecutors to another prosecution office; supervising the advanced professional training of prosecutors and advising the Centers for Judicial and Prosecutorial Training in their adoption of programs of advanced professiona training for prosecutors; determining the minimum amount of advanced professional training to be undertaken by every prosecutor each year; determining the induction training for candidates chosen for and

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2025): In 2025, an indictment was confirmed against one judge whereas there were no new confirmed indictments against prosecutors. As for completed cases, there were no verdicts in criminal trials that had been instituted against judges before the reporting year; in addition, two prosecutors were acquitted in 2025 following criminal trials that had been initiated before the reporting year.

(2024): One judge received suspended sentence for domestic violence, which led to termination of his mandate. Other case for another judge is was ongoing at the end of the reporting year. In addition, the criminal case which had started during the reporting year against one of the prosecutors was closed after he died in 2024.

(2023): Although no judges or prosecutors were indicted in 2023, two criminal investigations were initiated by prosecutor's office – one against court president and one against prosecutor but indictments have not been confirmed by the competent courts yet. It should also be noted that judicial institutions are not formally obliged to inform HJPC regarding criminal proceedings against judges or prosecutors whose mandate was ceased (e.g. resignation or retirement).

(2022): ODC was informed about three investigations initiated against two judges and one prosecutor. ODC wasn't informed about end of the investigations.
One judge was sentenced to one-year prison sentence for corruptive criminal offence, in proceeding initiated last year.

Montenegro

(2025): Two State Prosecutors and one Special Prosecutor have been suspended from performing prosecutorial duties pending the completion of criminal proceedings, while one Prosecutor has been dismissed.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the Guidelines for the prevention of conflicts of interest in the judiciary (July 2016), covering a) incompatibilities; b) reporting on property, income, obligations and interests; c) gifts and other benefits; d) contacts with third persons and abuse of confidential information; e) nepotism; and f) education and awareness-raising. The Guidelines elaborate the existing legislation and code of ethics and go into further detail with practical “do’s and don’ts” in a variety of situations.

There is an automated case assignment system in place, where cases are randomly assigned to judges, according to predetermined criteria.

In a situation where the judge to whom a case is assigned must, as required by law, be disqualified or recused from further proceedings, the case will be reassigned to another judge by the Court President or his deputy.

Disqualification of judges is governed by the civil procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina (Law on Civil Procedure before the Court of BiH and civil procedure codes of the BiH Federation, Republika Srpska and Brcko District of BiH), which stipulate that:

a) the judge may be disqualified if circumstances exist that cast doubt to his impartiality (disqualification); b) the motion for disqualification of a judge shall be decided by Court President, and the motion for disqualification of Court President shall be decided by the court in plenary session; c) the provisions on disqualification of judges shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to record keepers. The criminal procedure codes of BiH, BiH Federation, Republika Srpska and Brcko District of BiH stipulate that:

a) the provisions on disqualification of a judge shall accordingly be applied to prosecutors and persons authorised to represent the prosecutor in the proceedings, record keepers, court interpreters and other staff members; b) the prosecutor shall decide the disqualification of persons authorised to represent him in criminal proceedings, and the Collegium of the Prosecutor’s Office shall decide the disqualification of the prosecutor. c) the panel, presiding judge or judge shall decide the disqualification of record keepers, court interpreters and other staff member, and, until the indictment is filed, it shall be decided by the prosecutor. In a situation where the judge to whom a case is assigned must be disqualified or recused from the case, the case will be reassigned to another judge. The same rule applies to prosecutors.

Case reassignment is governed by the books of rules on the case management systems in courts and prosecutor's offices (the Book of Rules on CMS and the Book of Rules on TCMS).

The case is reassigned to another judge by the Court President or a person authorised by him, who must state the grounds for reassignment.

The case is reassigned to another prosecutor by the Chief Prosecutor, who must state the grounds for reassignment.

(2025): The Ethics Committee of the High Prosecutorial Council operates through formal sessions chaired by its President, with a quorum of at least three members, and adopts decisions by a majority of all members.
A request for an opinion on whether a public prosecutor's conduct complies with the Code of Ethics may be submitted by a Council member, an Ethics Committee member, a disciplinary authority, or a public prosecutor. The prosecutor concerned is given the proposal and may respond within 15 days, while the Committee must issue its opinion within 60 days. Any person may also submit an initiative (including anonymous ones, though clearly unfounded or malicious anonymous submissions are generally not considered). Upon the Council's proposal, the Ethics Committee further issues opinions on whether other functions, jobs, or private interests are incompatible with the dignity, independence, and reputation of a public prosecutor or a Council member. In disciplinary matters concerning serious breaches of the Code of Ethics, the Committee provides an opinion including the explanation at the request of the Disciplinary Prosecutor within 90 days, based on a description of the conduct and the circumstances in which it occurred. The Ethics Committee had 25 requests to give its opinion in the reference year. No breach of the code of ethics was found in these cases.

5. he is guardian, employer of one of the parties, administrator or has another task in an entity, association, society or other institution which has interests in the case in trial.
6. in any other event when, according to concrete circumstances, serious reasons for partiality are verified. The request for resignation is presented to the chairman of the respective court who decides. The chairman of the Court of Appeal decides on the presentation of the resignation of the chairman of the district court, and the Chairman of the High Court decides on the request of the chairman of the Court of Appeal. The parties are notified on the content of the request
The judge who on his conscience assesses that there are reasonable causes not to take part in the revision of a case, requests the chairman of the court to be replaced. When Chairman of the court deems relevant the request orders his replacement with another judge through lot.
In cases where the resignation of a judge is mandatory, each of the parties may request the exempt of the judge.
The request, signed by the respective party or its representative, must be deposited with the court secretariat when the announcement of the judge or judges that shall examine the case is made public, or if not, immediately after the announcement of the judge or judges that shall try the case.
Later submission of the request is permitted only in the instance that the party has received information on the grounds of dismissal, or if the judge has inappropriately expressed biased opinion of the facts and circumstances pertaining to the trial during the execution of his duties, although no later than three days from receipt of information.
The request must contain the grounds of dismissal, documents and other available evidence.
The request for the dismissal of a judge is examined in consultation chamber in a session by another judge of the same court. The appeal against the decision to accept or reject the request for dismissal is allowed together with the final decision.
The request for dismissing a judge of the appeals court is decided by a panel of three judges of the same court, different from the panel to which the judge belongs. The decision is of a final form.

Albania

(General Comment): Every intervention made while distributing cases by electronic lot is logged in the system, this means a third party can audit in every moment the procedure of the lot, and see if it has been done according to the rules in place. Whenever the workload of a judge is considered disproportionate compared to the average, the judge in question is excluded from the random distribution of the cases, by an internal order issued by the president of the court.

(2025): Decision of the High Judicial Council No. 554, dated 29.12.2022 “ON THE DIVISION OF COURT CASES BY LOTTERY”, provides in detail on the procedure for dividing cases by lot.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Comments regarding Q158:

- Random allocation Random allocation is carried out in accordance with the predefined settings for assigning cases to judges. These settings relate to the division, type of cases, legal basis, the initial document, or the administrative unit in which the judge acts.
- Other type of allocation

Cases could be allocated in accordance with the decision of the court president or chief prosecutor.

- Specific allocation for priority cases

Priority cases (e.g. cases involving detention, cases involving minors etc.) are distributed urgently as prescribed by the law or by the decision of the court president. The law stipulates shorter deadlines for priority cases, so these cases have to be allocated to judges urgently and judges have to start working on them immediately.

- Possibility to exclude It is possible to exclude a judge from the allocation for various reasons. Judge can be temporarily excluded due to illness, vacation, longer absence, overload with cases etc. Also, it is possible to exclude a judge from the allocation for reasons prescribed by the law.

General comments:

The system for distribution of cases in the courts of Bosnia and Herzegovina is organized as random and automatic allocation, in accordance with predefined parameters. Due to the parameters the system for distribution of cases is classified as "other type of allocation". These parameters are prescribed by the decision of the court president, and they include specialization of judges and percentage of participation of every judge in the distribution of cases. After these parameters are set, system randomly distributes cases to judges of particular specialization and in accordance with the percentage of each judges’ participation in the distribution but also considering workload of individual judges. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina has adopted the Rulebook on internal court operations and the Rulebook on the Automated Case Management System in Courts. Priority cases (e.g. cases involving detention, cases involving minors etc.) are distributed urgently as prescribed by the law or by the decision of the court president. The law stipulates shorter deadlines for priority cases, so these cases have to be allocated to judges urgently and judges have to start working on them immediately. It is possible to exclude a judge from the allocation for various reasons. Judge can be temporarily excluded due to illness, vacation, longer absence, overload with cases etc.

Montenegro

(2025): The assignment of cases to judges is carried out through an algorithm for the immediate random assignment of cases, which is an integral part of the judicial information system application, immediately after entry into the basic case data system.
A case in which a request for initiation of proceedings has already been submitted, and the request has been withdrawn, is assigned to the judge to whom it was previously assigned automatically.
A case in which a decision has been revoked is assigned to the judge of the first instance court who previously dealt with the case, unless a second instance decision has decided otherwise, in accordance with the law, which should be provided for through the algorithm, and if it is determined that another judge should judge the case, then that case is assigned through random assignment of cases.
A case that has been referred by the court acting on legal remedies to a lower instance court for the elimination of deficiencies is assigned to the same reporting judge.
A case that has been revoked, when re-referred to the court acting on legal remedies, is, as a rule, assigned to the same reporting judge.
A judge who, due to justified overload or planned long-term absence (longer than 30 days), cannot resolve the assigned cases in a timely manner may have the assignment of cases suspended for a certain period of time. In such a case, the cases shall be assigned to other judges in the court department, or legal area, on the principle of random assignment of cases through the judicial information system in accordance with Article 57 of these Rules of Procedure.
The president of the court shall decide on the suspension of the assignment of cases for a certain period of time, either alone or upon the proposal of the president of the department or a judge.
The president of the court shall issue a special decision on the reasons and duration of the suspension of the assignment of cases to a judge, which he shall submit to the administrator of the judicial information system and attach to the court's work plan.
If several procedural documents have been filed against the parties or participants in the proceedings and the court, in accordance with the rules of procedure prescribed by law, decides to merge the cases for the purpose of a single resolution, the case shall be assigned to the judge who was assigned the first case of those cases that arrived.
If the court, in accordance with the rules of procedure prescribed by law, decides to separate and conclude the proceedings against one party or participant separately, the separated case shall be assigned to the judge who decides on the case referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article. During annual leave, judges who are not on annual leave shall be assigned only urgent cases, which are determined as such by law or these Rules of Procedure.

Random Allocation of Cases Article 24
Cases are allocated to a judge according to a schedule that is independent of the personality of parties and circumstances of the legal matter.
Cases are allocated to a judge on the basis of the annual court schedule of tasks, taking into account the complexity of the case, pursuant to the Court Rules of Procedure, according to the order determined in advance for each calendar year, exclusively on the basis of the designation and the number of the case file.
No one has the right to establish panels of judges and allocate cases by bypassing the work schedule and the order of admission of cases.

(2022): Case management systems of court (AVP and SAPS) have implemented functionality for random distribution of court cases. The algorithm for automatic random distribution cases contains the formula for evaluating cases by weight in basic, higher, and commercial courts.
Case management systems of courts (AVP and SAPS) have functionality for excluding judges from allocation by system administrator manual commanding in case of sick leave, vacations, etc.

(General Comment): The relevant legislation on court procedures in Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes circumstances that call into question his/her impartiality in which a judge cannot adjudicate the case. These circumstances indicate that the judge has a conflict of interest in the individual case and therefore there is a legal base for initiating procedures to prevent or recuse him/her from dealing with the case.
As an example, the judge must not deal with the case if the party, legal representative or authorized agent is his/her blood relative in direct line to any degree or in the lateral line up to fourth degree, or if they are spouses or relatives up to second degree, regardless of whether the marriage has been terminated or not. In addition, as another example, the judge must be taken off the case if it turns out that he/she has participated in the same case in reaching the judgment of the inferior instance court. In conclusion, the legislation on court procedures defines the basis (i.e. aforementioned circumstances that pertain to the conflict of interest) and the procedure for the recusal of the judge.
In this regard, the legislation does not refer specifically to the conflict of interest, i.e. the laws do not foresee it as a separate category. However, it is in the law that the recusal of the judges as a legal term comprises all matters related to the protection of the impartiality in the court procedures. Consequently, it is not possible in Bosnia and Herzegovina to differentiate data on the number of reassigned cases for the following category: Recusal of the judge or requested by the parties. In the context of data on the total number of reassigned court cases in 2025 (i.e. 460 135), it is important to take into account that these court cases were redistributed primarily because the judges in charge of these court cases have ceased to work in a particular court (i.e. appointment to another court, retirement, resignation etc.). In addition, courts had to reassign a significant number of cases owing to the longer absence of judges because of sick leave. Finally, harmonizing the burden of judges with court cases in a single court and regrouping judges within the court made it necessary to reassign noteworthy number of court cases.

Deviation
Article 25 Deviation from the order of admission of cases is only possible in cases stipulated by the law, as well as in case of overburdening or justified preclusion of a judge, pursuant to the Court Rules of Procedure. In accordance with the Court Rules of Procedure, a case may be subtracted from a judge: when due to his/her prolonged absence it is necessary to deliberate on cases that are urgent under the law or its essence, if efficient work of the court is jeopardised, if the judge was issued a final disciplinary sanction due to a disciplinary offence for unjustified delay of a proceeding, as well as in other cases stipulated by the law. (General Comment): Priority cases are allocated to judges and prosecutors through automatic allocation algorithm based on specific setup of predefined parameters used for priority cases. This basically means that in courts and prosecutor offices there is always at least one judge or prosecutor determined in advance, who is person on duty for certain period and to whom such cases will be assigned automatically by system.
All other non-priority cases are also allocated to judges through automatic allocation algorithm but setup for this allocation is more complex and based on more than one information from new case, and usually with more judges available in pool to select from.
Both algorithms (for priority and non-priority cases) are always based on court president decision, which is created once per year or more often if necessary.
Regarding reassignment of cases:
All reassignments of cases are processed through the computerized distribution of cases , whether new judge is selected by automatic allocation algorithm (in accordance to predefined parameters) or by court president decision. In every case, reason for reassignment has to be entered in the system by selecting from predefined list of reasons for reassignment and/or adding free text as description. This is why „Yes“ is more appropriate as answer for Q187, with two options selected as explanatory answer in Q188 (2nd and 3rd). Reassignments of cases can be processed as random and automatic where system will choose from the judges of same specialization, or it can be processed in a way that court president makes a decision and chooses the judge to whom the case will be reassigned.

Reassignments of cases can be processed as random and automatic where system will choose from the judges of same specialization, or it can be processed in a way that court president makes a decision and chooses the judge to whom the case will be reassigned. In that sense, it is important to note that for the selection choice „By discretion of a president of a court” both options are possible. The president of the court can issue an order that a case should be reassigned so that the judge is selected systematically through the case management system, as well as the president of the court can directly decide that a case is reassigned to a specific judge without random case assignment.

(2025): Due to misinterpretation of the option 'By discretion of a president of a court', it was mistakenly left unmarked in the previous reporting cycles.

(2024): Due to misinterpretation of the "other" option in this part of the question 188, the option "all interventions on the system are irreversibly logged/registered" was not marked in the previous reporting cycles. It is confirmed that all interventions on the system are irreversibly logged/registered and, therefore, this option needs to be marked.

("Official Gazette of MNE", no. 11/2015 and 76/2020) Amending Annual Work Distribution Article 32
The court president may amend the annual work distribution of the court, if:
1) The number of positions for judges or the number of judges decreases or increases; or
2) The number or type of cases in court significantly increases or decreases.
The annual work distribution of the court shall be amended so that it disrupts the already established annual work distribution of the court as little as possible.
The annual work distribution of the court shall be amended in accordance with Article 31 of the present Law. Submission and Publication of Annual Work Distribution
Article 33
The court president shall submit an annual work distribution and amendments there to all judges and shall publish it on the bulletin board of the court.
4. Random Allocation of Cases
Allocation of Cases
Article 34
Cases shall be allocated to work without delay, according to the annual work distribution, through the method of random allocation of cases.
In accordance with paragraph 1 of this Article, the following cases shall also be allocated to other judges:
1) Cases that were assigned to a judge who does not perform a judicial office in that court any longer; and
2) Cases that were taken away in accordance with Article 36 of the present Law. Method of Random Allocation of Cases
Article 35
Once the basic information about a case is entered into the judicial information system, in a manner that is more closely regulated by the Court Rules, cases shall be allocated to judges through the method of random allocation of cases. Taking Away an Allocated Case
Article 36
An allocated case shall be taken away from a judge or panel only if it is determined that they unduly fail to take actions in the case, because of the recusal of a judge or if a judge is prevented from performing the judicial office for more than three months.
Cases whose urgent nature is prescribed by law may be taken away from a judge if the judge is not able to act in these cases in a timely manner or within the statutory period due to absence or incapacity for work.
The cases shall be taken away by the court president, through a decision.
The decision on taking a case away shall be submitted to the judge or the panel from which the case was taken away.
An objection may be lodged to the president of immediately higher court against the decision on taking the case away, as well as to the General Session of the Supreme Court against the decision of the Supreme Court, within three days of receipt of the decision. The decision on the objection shall be made within

3. Automatic Redistribution of Cases
Article 177
The cases allocated to the judge may be reallocated to another judge, after the decision of the president of the court registered in the SU register has been passed, and the reason for the redistribution of case can be: a request for a judge to be exempted (submitted by the parties, the judge, by a decision of a higher instance court, etc.), the judge no longer works on a certain type of case, new judge for a certain type of case has been assigned, absence of a judge for an urgent matter that does not endure postponement of the procedure.
Article 178
After the request for exemption of a judge to whom the case is allocated, the president of the court, after the decision on exemption of the judge, shall adopt a decision for automatic redistribution of the case (in this case, the judges who were excluded in this case do not participate in the automatic distribution).
Upon a request for exemption or sudden absence of a judge, a member of council, the president of the court, by a decision on exemption of that judge, recorded in the register for exemption, shall appoint a judge who will replace the judge who is exempted.
Article 179
In cases when the judge no longer works with a certain type of cases (dismissed, assigned to another department, assigned to another type of cases, longer absence), the court president shall adopt amendments and supplements to the Annual work schedule of the court.
The reallocation of cases in the case under paragraph 1 of this Article may be conducted by awarding all cases to a particular judge (usually a newly elected or rotated judge in that department, a type of case) or if a judge is not appointed, it shall be performed through automatic redistribution of all cases from the judge to all judges in the department who work with this type of cases.
Article 180
Cases recorded in a register for which only one judge is in charge of shall be allocated to the judge with the recording itself.
According to the Law on courts, president of a court shall be dismissed from the office of a president, if in a procedure, the Judicial Council of the Republic of Macedonia establishes the following bases:
failure to apply the provisions regarding the case management and distribution,
- violation of the provisions regarding the adoption and amendment of the Annual schedule for Judges.

Albania

(2025): This is defined by internal rules and regulations of courts. Following guidelines and by-laws to be approved by HJC, as provided by Law No. 98 / 2016 “on the organisation of the judicial power in the Republic of Albania”, this aspect will be further defined. Furthermore, Law 98/2016, art. 6 “When carrying out its activity, judicial civil servants shall be obliged to avoid any conflict of interest, in accordance with the rules provided in the legislation on the prevention of conflict of interests.”. In addition, art. 8 “The activity of the judicial civil service is governed by law and is based on the principles of equal opportunities, non-discrimination, transparency, professionalism, integrity, responsiveness and orientation towards efficient and accessible services to every person. 2. The status of judicial civil servants is based on the principle of the guarantee of stability, merit and transparent career development.”

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General comment): Conflict of interest, Breaches of codes of conduct, Unauthorized disclosure of confidential or sensitive information on court cases and/or procedures.
Conflict of interest, breaches of codes of conduct and unauthorized disclosure of confidential information are either explicitly provided as disciplinary offence/breach of duty, or covered by the broader definition of other disciplinary offences (such as e.g. performing activities conflicting with the official duties, engaging in activities that prevent or deter citizens to exercise their rights; violating rules on work discipline, inappropriate behavior towards parties/citizens and colleagues, performing tasks negligently and disorderly, exceeding official authority). At one instance conflict of interest, if not timely resolved, leads to a dismissal (Law on civil servants and employees in the judiciary of Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina). Others:
Applicable legislation provides broad list of other disciplinary offences, relating to the issue of the integrity, such as committing the actions that represent a criminal offense against official duty/ another criminal offense/minor offence that causes damage to the reputation of the civil service, which makes a civil servant unfit for duty.
Non-timely and/or incomplete asset declarations:
Duty of the court staff to declare their asset is not widely and consistently provided at all levels of jurisdiction. Some laws (i.e. the Law on civil service in the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and cantonal laws on civil service) specifically provide obligation for civil servant to disclose his/her asset upon the appointment and the duty to report any changes during the employment. Failure to adhere to these rules is not specifically proscribed as a breach of duty or disciplinary offence. Breaches of integrity are provided for by legislation in respect of court staff which is adopted at different levels of government in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Relevant laws are listed below.
Bosnia and Herzegovina– Law on Labor in BiH Institutions; Rulebook on Disciplinary and Material Accountability of Employees in BiH Institutions; Code of Conduct of Civil Servants in BiH Institutions; Criminal code of BiH (e.g. Chapter Nineteen - Criminal offences of corruption and criminal offences against official duty or other responsible duty or Chapter Twenty - Criminal offences against administration of justice). Labor Law in BiH Institutions – Article 60:
1. An employee shall be disciplinarily responsible for the breach of one or more official duties prescribed by this law when the breach is a result of their own fault. 2. Breaches of official duties may be serious or minor. 3. Serious breaches of official duties are:
a) performing an act that is defined as a criminal offense against official duty, or another criminal offense, or misdemeanor, which damages the reputation of the employer, making the employee unsuitable for work with the employer; b) revealing state, military, or official secrets, or violating regulations concerning the safeguarding of these secrets; c) abuse or exceeding of official authority; d) failure to perform or negligent and careless execution of entrusted tasks; e) engaging in activities that prevent or hinder citizens or other persons from exercising their rights with the employer;
f) engaging in activities or work that is directly or indirectly contrary to the interests of the employer; g) causing greater material damage to the employer's property or assets intentionally or through gross negligence, h) unjustified absence from work for more than two days in a month; i) violation of work discipline rules; j) untimely and disorderly execution of assigned tasks; k) inappropriate behavior towards citizens, colleagues, and other persons in the performance of official duties; l) any other violation that is determined by a special law as a serious violation. 4. The Rulebook on Disciplinary and Material Accountability of Employees (hereinafter referred to as the Rulebook on Disciplinary Responsibility) determines minor violations of official duty. 5. Responsibility for committing a criminal act or offense does not exclude disciplinary and material responsibility of an employee, provided that such an act simultaneously constitutes a violation of official duty. 6. Question 167

(General Comment): Please note that the constitution provides that a judge can be an Albanian citizen appointed by the High Judicial Council after graduating the School of Magistrates and after the conduction of a preliminary process of verification of their assets and their background checks, in accordance with the law. Hence, an initial obligation to declare assets, prior to their appointment as judges is provided in the constitution. Further, this obligation is further elaborated in the law on status of judges of prosecutors that provides that judges and prosecutors undergo an assets and background check, prior to their admission to the School of Magistrates, prior to their appointment as judges and prosecutors and every time that they apply for a position at a higher level.
However, please note that the obligation to annually declare their (applicable to judges and prosecutors) assets is provided in a special law, namely law on the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials.

Albania
(General Comment): In accordance with article 21 and 22 of the special law, the declaration of assets includes the assets of the subject and his family (husband / wife, cohabitant and adult children), the sources of creation and financial liabilities of the entity. The declaration shall also include the fact whether the declarant has or does not have any other related persons.
When the property of the members of the family is divided and registered as such in the bodies of the state or judicial administration, the declaration is submitted separately by each member of the family, with the property registered in his/her own name, and it is attached to the declaration of the subject who has the obligation to make the declaration. The member of the family and the person related to the declaring subject is legally liable for the authenticity and accuracy of the declared data. Spouses and adult children have an obligation to declare assets the same as the judge or prosecutor. On the special form, there is a separate section for the spouse and the adult children that is signed by them, and if there are any assets that have not been declared, they are administratively or criminally liable for the omission to declare. However, for underage children the obligation to declare their assets rests with the judge or the prosecutor since, in any case, if the children would have any assets under their name, they would be acting as legal representatives for that asset, and therefore such interests would have to be declared. However, this is a very rare situation, since, in the most cases, underage children are unable to enter into legal transactions.

If, during verification of the Report, there is doubt that a public official is concealing the actual value of his/her property or income, the Agency may request from the associated persons to directly file data on their property and incomes, within 30 days from the date of reception of the request. In case a discrepancy is determined, the Agency shall notify the competent body, for the purpose of undertaking measures within its purview. The body from paragraph 4 hereof, shall be bound, within three months from the date of reception of the notification, to familiarize the Agency with the undertaken measures.
*Annual Verification Plan: According to the new Law on the Corruption Prevention, the Agency, when drafting the Annual Verification Plan, will take into account the category of public officials, the amount of their receipts and the amount of funds from the budget of the authority in which they perform the function, thus defining criteria that will be applied in the preparation of the Annual Verification Plan. This will contribute to higher level of transparency in the selection of officials whose reports will be subject to verification procedure. In addition, in 2022 the Agency adopted Guidelines for Drafting Annual Verification Plan.

(2022): financial discrepancies (unusual change in assets, liabilities, income, etc.) *Note: Only for declarations of assets in Annual plan for checking reports on assets and incomes of officials and for declarations of assets in Extraordinary check.

(General comment): The Article 56, paragraph 2 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the list of the disciplinary offences for judges which includes (among others):
l) violating provisions of this Law on submitting declaration of assets and interests.
Therefore non-declaration of assets is prescribed by the law explicitly as a disciplinary offence for the judge for which any disciplinary measure can be imposed depending on the circumstances of an individual disciplinary case. Article 58 of the the Law prescribes the disciplinary measures, which the HJPC may impose, to the judges:
(1) The Council may impose one or more of the following disciplinary measures: (a) a written warning which shall not be made public; (b) public reprimand; (c) reduction in salary or emoluments up to a maximum of 50% (fifty per cent) for a period of up to one (1) year; (d) temporary or permanent reassignment to another court or prosecutor's office; (e) demotion of a Court President to an ordinary judge or the Chief Prosecutor or Deputy Chief Prosecutor to an ordinary prosecutor; (f) removal from the office. (2) As a separate measure, instead of or in addition to any of the disciplinary measures set out above, the Council may, if appropriate, order that a judge or prosecutor participate in rehabilitation programmes, counselling, or professional training. (3) All rights and privileges under labour relations of a judge, Court President, Chief Prosecutor, Deputy Chief Prosecutor, or prosecutor who is removed from office pursuant to a disciplinary proceeding shall cease upon removal by the Council. A judges or prosecutor who is removed from office under this article shall be barred from further exercise of judicial or prosecutorial function. Article 59 of the Law refers to the Principles for determining of the measures:
(1)Disciplinary measures imposed should be governed by the principle of proportionality. Before pronouncing the measures for a disciplinary offence, the following aspects shall be taken into consideration by the disciplinary commissions:
(a)the number and severity of the disciplinary offence committed and its consequences;
(b)the degree of responsibility;
(c)the circumstances under which the disciplinary offence was committed;
(d)the previous work and behaviour of the offender; and
(e)any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.
(2)The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office.
(3)The Council may take into account any prior suspension, imposed in the course of the proceedings in question, and may reduce the disciplinary measure accordingly, or may, at its discretion,determine that the prior suspension is itself a sufficient measure for the disciplinary violation or violations found.
In order to support the disciplinary commissions and the Council in determining and imposing disciplinary measures in accordance with the Article 59 of the Law, the Council adopted in July 2016 internal Guidelines for Determining Disciplinary Measures in Disciplinary Proceedings. These Guidelines prescribe the manner in which an appropriate disciplinary measure should be determined in a specific disciplinary case, and ensure consistency and fairness in all cases relating to similar disciplinary offences and circumstances. The Guidelines serve as a means of achieving the primary purpose of disciplinary responsibility, which includes the following: (a) protecting the interests of the public, judicial (General Comment): In accordance with article 21 and 22 of the special law, the declaration of assets includes the assets of the subject and his family (husband / wife, cohabitant and adult children), the sources of creation and financial liabilities of the entity. The declaration shall also include the fact whether the declarant has or does not have any other related persons.

When the property of the members of the family is divided and registered as such in the bodies of the state or judicial administration, the declaration is submitted separately by each member of the family, with the property registered in his/her own name, and it is attached to the declaration of the subject who has the obligation to make the declaration. The member of the family and the person related to the declaring subject is legally liable for the authenticity and accuracy of the declared data. Spouses and adult children have an obligation to declare assets the same as the judge or prosecutor. On the special form, there is a separate section for the spouse and the adult children that is signed by them, and if there are any assets that have not been declared, they are administratively or criminally liable for the omission to declare. However, for underage children the obligation to declare their assets rests with the judge or the prosecutor since, in any case, if the children would have any assets under their name, they would be acting as legal representatives for that asset, and therefore such interests would have to be declared. However, this is a very rare situation, since, in the most cases, underage children are unable to enter into legal transactions.

(General Comment): Fine, Article 40/1 of the law no.9049/2003 provides that "1. Any violation of the obligations set forth in this Law, when it does not constitute a criminal offense, shall constitute an administrative contravention and shall be punishable by a fine, according to the limits specified below:
a) For failure to declare before taking office, annually periodically, upon leaving office, or upon request, on time and without good cause, the official or the person related to him, who has the obligation to declare, shall be fined from 200,000 (two hundred thousand) ALL up to 500,000 (five hundred thousand) ALL" criminal sanction, Article 257/a/1 of the Criminal Code "Refusal for declaration, non-declaration, concealment or false declaration of assets, private interests of elected persons and public employees, or of any other person that is legally binding for the declaration" provides that "The refusal or failure of the elected persons or public servants or any other person being subject to the legal obligation to make the declaration in accordance with the law to declare the assets shall, where disciplinary measures have previously been taken, consist a criminal offence and it shall be punished by a fine or up to 6 months imprisonment" disciplinary sanction, Article 15 of the Law no.9049/2003 provides that "The High Inspectorate of Declaration and Audit of Assets and Conflict of Interests shall convey to the bodies responsible for investigating disciplinary violations a reasoned report accompanied by the documentation related to the verified irregularities pertaining to the declared assets".

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General comment) The Article 81, paragraph 2 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the list of the disciplinary offences for prosecutors which includes (among others):
l) violating provisions of this Law on submitting declaration of assets and interests.
Therefore, non-declaration of assets is prescribed by the law explicitly as a disciplinary offence for the prosecutor for which any disciplinary measure can be imposed depending on the circumstances of an individual disciplinary case. Article 58 of the the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the disciplinary measures, which the HJPC may impose, to the prosecutors:
(1) The Council may impose one or more of the following disciplinary measures: (a) a written warning which shall not be made public; (b) public reprimand; (c) reduction in salary or emoluments up to a maximum of 50% (fifty per cent) for a period of up to one (1) year; (d) temporary or permanent reassignment to another court or prosecutor's office; (e) demotion of a Court President to an ordinary judge or the Chief Prosecutor or Deputy Chief Prosecutor to an ordinary prosecutor; (f) removal from the office. (2) As a separate measure, instead of or in addition to any of the disciplinary measures set out above, the Council may, if appropriate, order that a judge or prosecutor participate in rehabilitation programmes, counselling, or professional training. (3) All rights and privileges under labour relations of a judge, Court President, Chief Prosecutor, Deputy Chief Prosecutor, or prosecutor who is removed from office pursuant to a disciplinary proceeding shall cease upon removal by the Council. A judges or prosecutor who is removed from office under this article shall be barred from further exercise of judicial or prosecutorial function. Article 59 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina refers to the Principles for determining of the measures:
(1)Disciplinary measures imposed should be governed by the principle of proportionality. Before pronouncing the measures for a disciplinary offence, the following aspects shall be taken into consideration by the disciplinary commissions:
(a)the number and severity of the disciplinary offence committed and its consequences;
(b)the degree of responsibility;
(c)the circumstances under which the disciplinary offence was committed;
(d)the previous work and behaviour of the offender; and
(e)any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.
(2)The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office.
(3)The Council may take into account any prior suspension, imposed in the course of the proceedings in question, and may reduce the disciplinary measure accordingly, or may, at its discretion,determine that the prior suspension is itself a sufficient measure for the disciplinary violation or violations found.
In order to support the disciplinary commissions and the Council in determining and imposing disciplinary measures in accordance with the Article 59 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Council adopted in July 2016 internal Guidelines for Determining Disciplinary Measures in Disciplinary Proceedings. (General Comment): The Agency for Prevention of Corruption (APC) brings the decision about which it informs the public authority in which public official is working, for the purposes of initiating procedure of dismissal, suspension or imposition of a disciplinary measure. The public authority acting upon the decision of the APC may initiate administrative proceedings and impose sanctions such as disciplinary sanctions. The public authority informs the Agency for prevention of corruption about the results of this proceeding, in the deadline of 60 days.
Moreover, based on its findings, the Agency for prevention of corruption has the authority to initiate misdemeanor proceedings before misdemeanor courts. Other disciplinary sanction: sanctions are those that can be imposed for heavy disciplinary offence: fine in amount of 20-40 percent of monthly income for the period of 3 to 6 months or prohibition of promotion.

(2025): Article 108, paragraph 3, item 9 of the Law on the State Prosecutor's Office stipulates that a serious disciplinary offense for a state prosecutor is if:
- accepts gifts or fails to submit information on assets and income in accordance with the regulations governing the prevention of conflicts of interest, if this is confirmed by a final decision of the competent court.
Pursuant to the aforementioned provision of the Law on the State Prosecutor's Office, the procedure for initiating disciplinary liability of the state prosecutor in the event of failure to submit data on assets and income in accordance with the Law on the Prevention of Corruption is possible after the court confirms the final decision of the Agency for the Prevention of Corruption.

(2024): The cases represent administrative investigations conducted by HIDAACI while sanctions represent fines.

(2022): Please note that under the new constitutional amendments, judges and prosecutors are undergoing a vetting process. As part of this temporary process, judges and prosecutors are re-evaluation based on three criteria:
(a) Asset assessment, (b) Background assessment, and (c) Proficiency assessment. Under the asset declaration process, HIDAACI plays a key role: HIDAACI based on declarations of assets shall conduct a full audit procedure in compliance with this law, the Law "On the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials, the Law "On prevention of conflict of interest in exercising public functions" and the "Code of Administrative Procedures".
The General Inspector of HIDAACI, for the purpose of this assessment, can request through the General Directorate of Prevention of Money Laundering or Ministry of Justice records of assets owned by assessees or their related persons, or any financial transactions in Albania or abroad according to Law "On prevention of money laundering and financing of terrorism" or documents used abroad by assessees or their related persons. Such documents or information can be used as evidence before the Commission or Appeal
Chamber.
3. HIDAACI provides full access to international observers, upon their request, to seek information, consult, copy or investigate declaration of assets submitted by the assessee or his or her related persons and their accompanying documents.
4. HIDAACI shall conduct a full audit procedure as soon as possible but no longer than 180 days as of the day of asset declaration submission.
5. Upon completion of the audit, the General Inspector of HIDAACI shall prepare a reasoned detailed report and, as appropriate, shall find out that: (a) Accurate declaration /disclosure in compliance with the law, with legitimate financial sources and not found in situation of conflicts of interest; (b) Lack of legitimate financial sources to justify their assets; (c) Hiding wealth/ assets;
(d) False declaration; (e) Assessee found in situation of conflicts of interests.
For these reasons, HIDAACI has not in itself, referred for further proceedings against judges and prosecutors to criminal investigation or fined, as an administrative measure, any judge or prosecutor during 2019; however, due to the work of HIDAACI, a considerable number of judges and prosecutors have been dismissed from the vetting bodies based on the reports filed by HIDAACI. To ilustrate the work of HIDAACI under the vetting process, from 8 February 2018 to 31 December 2019 the IQC (the first vetting body) has dismissed from duty 50 judges, 31 prosecutors and 2 legal advisors. The findings of the assessment process done from HIDAACI for 178 subjects that were under evaluation, 119 subjects resulted without any problems, and 59 subjects were reported by HIDAACI with problems with their asset declarations. Further to these reports, IQC undertakes a more in-depth investigation. These in-depth investigations resulted in the following data: 80 subjects were reported without violations/discrepancies in their declaration of assets and 98 subjects were reported with violations/discrepancies in their declaration of assets. Most of these subjects were dismissed due to these discrepancies.

(2025): Number of proceedings conducted by the Agency - 6 cases initiated, 18 cases completed and 8 pronounced sanctions
Number of proceedings conducted by the misdemeanour courts - 14 cases initiated, 18 cases completed (out of which 1 is acquittal) and 17 pronounced sanctions (out of which 12 are warnings and 5 are fines)
In the table we have entered the Number of cases against prosecutors due to violations/discrepancies in their declaration of assets by the Agency.

(2024): The entered data refers to the number of proceedings conducted by the Agency, when we talk about the number of proceedings conducted by the misdemeanor courts, the number of cases initiated is 18, the number of completed cases is 3, and when it comes to the number of sanctions imposed, 2 measures of reprimands and 1 acquittal.
The reason for the increased number of initiated and completed proceedings is the Annual Plan for the Verification of Assets and Income for 2024, which, in addition to other public officials, significantly includes public officials from the judiciary. This covers chief public prosecutors of basic public prosecutor's offices in the Republic of Serbia, judges of the Administrative Court, and judges of the Commercial Appellate Court.
A detailed overview of the Annual Plan for the Verification of Assets and Income is published on the Agency's website: https://www.acas.rs/cyr/page_with_sidebar/plan_provere.

(General comment) The Article 56, paragraph 2 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the list of the disciplinary offences for judges that includes (among others):
c) not disqualifying himself or herself from hearing a case when a conflict of interest exists; o) being engaged in activities that are incompatible with the judicial function;
p) exceeding any limitations related to income generated from fees for additional activities;
t) accepting a gift or reward whose purpose is to inappropriately influence the judge's decisions or actions, including cases where the gift or reward only give an impression of inappropriate influence.
Therefore the breaches of rules on conflict of interests are prescribed by the law explicitly as a disciplinary offences for the judge for which any disciplinary measure can be imposed depending on the circumstances of an individual disciplinary case. Article 58 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the disciplinary measures, which the HJPC may impose, to the judges:
(1) The Council may impose one or more of the following disciplinary measures: (a) a written warning which shall not be made public; (b) public reprimand; (c) reduction in salary or emoluments up to a maximum of 50% (fifty per cent) for a period of up to one (1) year; (d) temporary or permanent reassignment to another court or prosecutor's office; (e) demotion of a Court President to an ordinary judge or the Chief Prosecutor or Deputy Chief Prosecutor to an ordinary prosecutor; (f) removal from the office. (2) As a separate measure, instead of or in addition to any of the disciplinary measures set out above, the Council may, if appropriate, order that a judge or prosecutor participate in rehabilitation programmes, counselling, or professional training. (3) All rights and privileges under labour relations of a judge, Court President, Chief Prosecutor, Deputy Chief Prosecutor, or prosecutor who is removed from office pursuant to a disciplinary proceeding shall cease upon removal by the Council. A judges or prosecutor who is removed from office under this article shall be barred from further exercise of judicial or prosecutorial function. Article 59 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina refers to the Principles for determining of the measures:

Question 195

Albania

(General Comment): Please briefly describe the procedure: Please note that civil procedure code and criminal procedure code have been checked because they regulate the recusals of judges in civil or criminal proceedings and the procedure for doing so.
Please note that some of the procedure to sanction breaches of the rules on the conflict of interest for both judges and prosecutors are provided in the law on the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania. In question 223, this law under the "law on judges" tick. However, please be advised that this law in question 232 has been reported in the section "other, please specify" because, under the similar section includes "law on public prosecutors/public prosecution". In Albania these are two different law: law on the status of judges and prosecutors, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecutors" and the law on the organisation and functioning of the prosecution offices in the Republic of Albania, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecution".

(2025): Article 102 of law 96/2016: Disciplinary misconducts during the exercise of the function are, in particular, but not limited to the acts, omissions or behaviours of the magistrate, as follows: a) Failure to submit a request for recusal from the proceedings or from the trial of the case, when it is mandatory under the law, if the magistrate is aware or should have been aware of such circumstances; b) Filing a request for recusal from proceeding or trial of the case, if this action is: (i) not based on reasons provided by law; (ii) done aiming at creating unfair benefit for the parties and third parties or aiming at shirking the legal responsibility to review the case or aiming at creating the possibility of assigning the case to another magistrate; (iii) Non-submission of the request immediately after getting aware about the cause;
Article 103 of law 96/2016: Disciplinary misconducts outside of the exercise of the function are in particular but not limited the actions, omissions and behaviours of the magistrate, as follows…. “Benefiting unfairly, directly or indirectly gifts, favours, promises or preferential treatment of any kind, which are given because of the exercised function or due to the use of his/her position as a magistrate, even in the case when they are formalized through a legal act”.

(General comment) Article 56, paragraph 2 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the list of the disciplinary offences for judges that includes (among others):
c) not disqualifying himself or herself from hearing a case when a conflict of interest exists; o) being engaged in activities that are incompatible with the judicial function;
p) exceeding any limitations related to income generated from fees for additional activities;
t) accepting a gift or reward whose purpose is to inappropriately influence the judge's decisions or actions, including cases where the gift or reward only give an impression of inappropriate influence.
Therefore the breaches of rules on conflict of interests are prescribed by the law explicitly as a disciplinary offences for the judge for which any disciplinary measure can be imposed depending on the circumstances of an individual disciplinary case. Article 58 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the disciplinary measures, which the HJPC may impose, to the judges:
(1) The Council may impose one or more of the following disciplinary measures: (a) a written warning which shall not be made public; (b) public reprimand; (c) reduction in salary or emoluments up to a maximum of 50% (fifty per cent) for a period of up to one (1) year; (d) temporary or permanent reassignment to another court or prosecutor's office; (e) demotion of a Court President to an ordinary judge or the Chief Prosecutor or Deputy Chief Prosecutor to an ordinary prosecutor; (f) removal from the office. (2) As a separate measure, instead of or in addition to any of the disciplinary measures set out above, the Council may, if appropriate, order that a judge or prosecutor participate in rehabilitation programmes, counselling, or professional training. (3) All rights and privileges under labour relations of a judge, Court President, Chief Prosecutor, Deputy Chief Prosecutor, or prosecutor who is removed from office pursuant to a disciplinary proceeding shall cease upon removal by the Council. A judges or prosecutor who is removed from office under this article shall be barred from further exercise of judicial or prosecutorial function. Article 59 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina refers to the Principles for determining of the measures:
(1)Disciplinary measures imposed should be governed by the principle of proportionality. Before pronouncing the measures for a disciplinary offence, the following aspects shall be taken into consideration by the disciplinary commissions:
(a)the number and severity of the disciplinary offence committed and its consequences;
(b)the degree of responsibility;
(c)the circumstances under which the disciplinary offence was committed;
(d)the previous work and behaviour of the offender; and
(e)any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.
(2)The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office.
(3)The Council may take into account any prior suspension, imposed in the course of the proceedings in question, and may reduce the disciplinary measure accordingly, or may, at

Serbia

(General Comment): In accordance with articles 40-56 of the Law on the Corruption Prevention, the Agency aims to eliminate causes of corruption through procedures for resolving conflict of interest, decumulation of public officers, and decision on other legal violations. In accordance with articles 78, 80 and 82-85 of this Law, should it be determined, after the procedure, that a violation of the Law has taken place, measures stipulated by the law shall be issued. The aim of these measures is to eliminate such violations as far as this is possible. Thus, the cases which have led or may lead to corruption are eliminated. The measures and decisions of the Agency are measures of public announcement of recommendation for dismissal from a public office and decisions which impose the termination of second public office by force of law.
The law on prevention of conflict of interest in the Serbian legal framework is the Law on prevention of corruption ("Official Gazette 35/2019, 88/2019, 11/2021 - authentic interpretation, 94/2021, 14/2022)
Other marked laws (in addition to the Law on the prevention of corruption)are the one that regulates recusals.
According to the Law on Judges (“Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023) article 97. Disciplinary offenses, among others, are:
1) violation of the principle of impartiality;
2) failure of the judge to ask for exemption in cases where there is an obvious reason for exemption, that is, exclusion provided for by law;
9) accepting a gift contrary to the regulation governing conflict of interest;
12) performance of another function, job or private interest that is incompatible with the function of a judge;
The consequence of the above-mentioned disciplinary violations may be the dismissal of the judge.
The Law on Judges (“Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023) further regulates initiation of the procedure to determine the reasons for the judge's dismissal
Article 99.
If in the disciplinary procedure it is determined by a final decision that the judge has committed a serious disciplinary offense, the High Council of the Judiciary, i.e. the Disciplinary Commission can initiate a procedure to determine the reasons for the judge's dismissal.
In the procedure for determining the reason for the dismissal of a judge from paragraph 1 of this article, the High Council of the Judiciary assesses whether the committed disciplinary offense seriously damages the reputation of the judicial function or the public's trust in the judiciary.

Question 196

Albania

(General comment): Please note that under the new constitutional amendments, judges and prosecutors are undergoing a vetting process. As part of this temporary process, judges and prosecutors are re-evaluation based on three criteria:
(a) Asset assessment, (b) Background assessment, and (c) Proficiency assessment. Under the asset declaration process, HIDAACI plays a key role: HIDAACI based on declarations of assets shall conduct a full audit procedure in compliance with this law, the Law “On the declaration and audit of assets, financial obligations of elected persons and certain public officials, the Law “On prevention of conflict of interest in exercising public functions” and the “Code of Administrative Procedures”.
The General Inspector of HIDAACI, for the purpose of this assessment, can request through the General Directorate of Prevention of Money Laundering or Ministry of Justice records of assets owned by assessees or their related persons, or any financial transactions in Albania or abroad according to Law “On prevention of money laundering and financing of terrorism” or documents used abroad by assessees or their related persons.HIDAACI, for all the subjects involved in this process, took measures for the compilation of individual physical files, which included systematically and thoroughly the form of declaration of assets, the justifying documents and following all the correspondence related to the reevaluation process. All documentation administered in the file is reflected in each case in the file inventory.
The High Inspectorate with the purpose of fulfilling the constitutional and legal obligations for the completion of the full audit of assets declarations regarding the legitimacy of the source of the creation of the property, the fulfillment of financial obligations, including private interests, started the establishment of the official communication with all public and private entities for verification purposes for more than 3,000 persons (subjects of re-evaluation and related persons).
Moreover, the High Inspectorate for the purposes of data accuracy, and reconciliation took measures to manually extract and process from the assets declaration forms submitted for the re-evaluation process, along with assets declaration forms submitted by subjects over the years, detailed data (fatherhood, motherhood, date of birth, identification number, civil status etc.) to more than 3,000 persons (re-evaluation subjects and related persons).
The correspondence was initially sent to about 26 public and private legal entities (Bank of Albania, second tier banks, investment companies, IPRO, NBC, Agency for Legalisation, Urbanisation and Integration of Informal Areas and Buildings, GDT, GDPML, General Maritime Directorate, Electricity Power Distribution Operator, etc.). During the audit process, depending on its progress, as well as the need to obtain additional information, HIDAACI proceeded with the further delivery of correspondence with public and private legal entities. Such documents or information can be used as evidence before the Commission or Appeal Chamber.
3. HIDAACI provides full access to international observers, upon their request, to seek information, consult, copy or investigate declaration of assets submitted by the assessee or his or her related persons and their accompanying documents.
4. HIDAACI shall conduct a full audit procedure as soon as possible but no longer than 180 days as of the day of asset declaration submission.
5. Upon completion of the audit, the General Inspector of HIDAACI shall prepare a reasoned detailed report and, as appropriate, shall find out that: (a) Accurate declaration /disclosure in compliance with the law, with legitimate financial sources and not found in situation of conflicts of interest; (b) Lack of legitimate financial sources to justify their assets; (c) Hiding wealth/ assets;

(General comment) Regulation/procedure on reporting a (potential) conflict of interest THE LAW ON THE HIGH JUDICIAL AND PROSECUTORIAL COUNCIL OF BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA Article 85 (Opinions on Activities of a Judge or Prosecutor)

The Article 85 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina referring to the Referral to the Council prescribes that prosecutor may request the Council's opinion on whether his/her activities are compatible with his or her office and the provisions of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A chief prosecutor may also request Council's opinion when he or she believes that a prosecutor performs or intends to perform an activity that is incompatible with his or her office. Chief prosecutor shall inform the prosecutor concerned about the request for opinion.

In addition to issuing opinions in response to specific request, the Council may also, ex officio, issue its opinion on compatibility of a prosecutorial office with the activities they perform upon receiving the information from Article 83, paragraph (3) of this Law. Council's opinion on compatibility of offices shall be binding and compliance with it shall protect the prosecutor against the risk of disciplinary proceedings.

Notifying the Agency

Article 42

A public official shall be bound to, when assuming duty or in the course of discharging the public office, without delay and within five days, notify in written form, both the direct superior and the Agency, in case of doubt over a conflict of interest or a conflict of interest that he/she or an associated person therewith, might have.

A public official shall be bound to terminate action in a case in which there is doubt over a conflict of interest, unless the threat of delay exists.

The Agency shall give its opinion as to whether there is a conflict of interest, within 15 days from the date of reception of notification for the public official.

Should the public official seek opinion on the existence of conflict of interest in the course of public procurements, the Agency shall provide opinion thereof, within eight days.

The Agency may summon a public official and request from him/her to deliver the required data, for the purpose of obtaining information on the existence of conflict of interest from paragraph 1 and 4 of this Article. Should the Agency determine that there is a conflict of interest as set forth in paragraph1 and 4 of this Article, it shall notify the official and body in which he/she is discharging the public office and shall propose measures for the removal of conflict of interest.

Provisions of paragraph 1 and 6 hereof do not exclude the application of provisions on exclusion prescribed by other laws.

Article 43.

Initiation of the procedure for deciding on the existence of a conflict of interest

Article 43.

The Agency initiates ex officio a procedure in which it decides on the existence of a conflict of interest, within two years from the day of learning about the existence of the action or inaction of a public official that caused suspicion of a conflict of interest.

The procedure referred to in paragraph 1 of this article cannot be initiated or terminated if five years have passed since the action or inaction of the public official that caused the suspicion of a conflict of interest.

The Agency can also initiate proceedings upon the application of a natural or legal person.

Albania

(2023). According to the Law no. 96/2016 "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended, failure to file a request for waiver of proceedings of adjudication of the case, where is mandatory, by law, if the magistrate was aware or should have been aware of such circumstances is a disciplinary violation. Anyone can submit a complaint to the High Inspector of Justice against a prosecutor to investigate whether the latter has exercised the function under conditions of conflict of interest. If, after the disciplinary investigation, it is established that there has been a disciplinary violation from the magistrate, the High Inspector of Justice proposes to the High Prosecutorial Council, the approval of a disciplinary measure. In Decision no. 407, dated 17.12.2021, "On the organising and functioning of High Prosecutorial Council" of High Prosecutorial Council regarding the conflict of interest is provided that:

1. A member of the Council shall avoid actual, apparent or potential conflicts of interest and other legal obstacles to perform his or her duties in good faith.
2. A member of the Council shall take active measures to prevent actual, apparent or potential conflicts of interest arising from family, gender or in-law relationships.
3. Each member of the Council shall, immediately upon receipt of the agenda and materials for a future meeting of the Council, the Commission or the working group and, in any case, before voting on the relevant issue, declare the conflict of interest or obstacle. The member of the Council who has declared the conflict of interest or obstacle shall not participate in the discussion or voting of the relevant issue.
4. If a conflict of interest occurs, the member shall request to withdraw from the discussion or vote. The decision to accept the resignation of the member shall be taken by the Head of the Council. When the Head resigns, the decision to accept it shall be taken by the Deputy Head.
5. If a member is aware that another member of the Council is in a conflict of interest or obstacle, he shall declare it immediately upon becoming aware of it and, in any case, before the vote of the relevant issue.
6. The member, for whom a conflict of interest or legal obstacle is alleged, shall declare his position regarding this claim. If the member considers that the claim is valid, as the case may be, he shall not participate in the discussion or voting on the relevant issue or shall withdraw. When the request for withdraw is submitted in a plenary session, a meeting of the Commission or a working group, the discussion or voting on the issue in question shall be postponed to the next plenary session or Meeting. 7. Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General comment) Article 81, paragraph 2 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the list of the disciplinary offences for prosecutors that includes (among others):
c) not disqualifying himself or herself from hearing a case when a conflict of interest exists; p) being engaged in activities that are incompatible with the prosecutorial function;
r) exceeding any limitations related to income generated from fees for additional activities;
u) accepting a gift or reward whose purpose is to inappropriately influence the prosecutor's decisions or actions, including cases where the gift or reward only give an impression of inappropriate influence.
Therefore the breaches of rules on conflict of interests are prescribed by the law explicitly as a disciplinary offences for the prosecutor for which any disciplinary measure can be imposed depending on the circumstances of an individual disciplinary case. Article 58 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the disciplinary measures, which the HJPC may impose, to the prosecutors:
(1) The Council may impose one or more of the following disciplinary measures: (a) a written warning which shall not be made public; (b) public reprimand; (c) reduction in salary or emoluments up to a maximum of 50% (fifty per cent) for a period of up to one (1) year; (d) temporary or permanent reassignment to another court or prosecutor's office; (e) demotion of a Court President to an ordinary judge or the Chief Prosecutor or Deputy Chief Prosecutor to an ordinary prosecutor; (f) removal from the office. (2) As a separate measure, instead of or in addition to any of the disciplinary measures set out above, the Council may, if appropriate, order that a judge or prosecutor participate in rehabilitation programs, counselling, or professional training. (3) All rights and privileges under labor relations of a judge, Court President, Chief Prosecutor, Deputy Chief Prosecutor, or prosecutor who is removed from office pursuant to a disciplinary proceeding shall cease upon removal by the Council. A judges or prosecutor who is removed from office under this article shall be barred from further exercise of judicial or prosecutorial function. Article 59 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina refers to the Principles for determining of the measures:
(1)Disciplinary measures imposed should be governed by the principle of proportionality. Before pronouncing the measures for a disciplinary offence, the following aspects shall be taken into consideration by the disciplinary commissions:
(a)the number and severity of the disciplinary offence committed and its consequences;
(b)the degree of responsibility;
(c)the circumstances under which the disciplinary offence was committed;
(d)the previous work and behavior of the offender; and
(e)any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.
(2)The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office.
(3)The Council may take into account any prior suspension, imposed in the course of the proceedings in question, and may reduce the disciplinary measure accordingly, or may, at

Albania

(General Comment): Please briefly describe the procedure: In the Law “On the status of judges and prosecutors”, as amended, is provided that, breach of the rules of incompatibility or conflict of interest prevention is a disciplinary violation. Also, in the Law no. 9367 dated 7.4.2005, “On the prevention of conflicts of interest in the exercise of public functions”, as amended, is provided that, any violation of the obligations set forth in this law, when it does not constitute a criminal offense, constitutes an administrative offense and is punishable by a fine.
Please note that some of the procedure to sanction breaches of the rules on the conflict of interest for both judges and prosecutors are provided in the law on the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania. In question 223, this law under the "law on judges" tick. However, please be advised that this law in question 232 has been reported in the section "other, please specify" because, under the similar section includes "law on public prosecutors/public prosecution". In Albania these are two different law: law on the status of judges and prosecutors, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecutors" and the law on the organisation and functioning of the prosecution offices in the Republic of Albania, which would correspond to a section titled "law on public prosecution".

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General comment) Article 81, paragraph 2 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the list of the disciplinary offences for prosecutors that includes (among others):
c) not disqualifying himself or herself from hearing a case when a conflict of interest exists; p) being engaged in activities that are incompatible with the prosecutorial function;
r) exceeding any limitations related to income generated from fees for additional activities;
u) accepting a gift or reward whose purpose is to inappropriately influence the prosecutor's decisions or actions, including cases where the gift or reward only give an impression of inappropriate influence.
Therefore the breaches of rules on conflict of interests are prescribed by the law explicitly as a disciplinary offences for the prosecutor for which any disciplinary measure can be imposed depending on the circumstances of an individual disciplinary case. Article 58 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina prescribes the disciplinary measures, which the HJPC may impose, to the prosecutors:
(1) The Council may impose one or more of the following disciplinary measures: (a) a written warning which shall not be made public; (b) public reprimand; (c) reduction in salary or emoluments up to a maximum of 50% (fifty per cent) for a period of up to one (1) year; (d) temporary or permanent reassignment to another court or prosecutor's office; (e) demotion of a Court President to an ordinary judge or the Chief Prosecutor or Deputy Chief Prosecutor to an ordinary prosecutor; (f) removal from the office. (2) As a separate measure, instead of or in addition to any of the disciplinary measures set out above, the Council may, if appropriate, order that a judge or prosecutor participate in rehabilitation programs, counselling, or professional training. (3) All rights and privileges under labor relations of a judge, Court President, Chief Prosecutor, Deputy Chief Prosecutor, or prosecutor who is removed from office pursuant to a disciplinary proceeding shall cease upon removal by the Council. A judges or prosecutor who is removed from office under this article shall be barred from further exercise of judicial or prosecutorial function. Article 59 of the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina refers to the Principles for determining of the measures:
(1)Disciplinary measures imposed should be governed by the principle of proportionality. Before pronouncing the measures for a disciplinary offence, the following aspects shall be taken into consideration by the disciplinary commissions:
(a)the number and severity of the disciplinary offence committed and its consequences;
(b)the degree of responsibility;
(c)the circumstances under which the disciplinary offence was committed;
(d)the previous work and behavior of the offender; and
(e)any other circumstances that may affect the decision on the severity and type of disciplinary measure, including the degree of remorse and/or cooperation shown by the judge or prosecutor during the disciplinary proceedings.
(2)The disciplinary measure of dismissal shall only be used in cases where a serious disciplinary offence is found and the severity of the offence makes it clear that the offender is unfit or unworthy to continue to hold his or her office.
(3)The Council may take into account any prior suspension, imposed in the course of the proceedings in question, and may reduce the disciplinary measure accordingly, or may, at

The latter receives and reviews complaints concerning the conduct of judges or runs cases on its own initiative. After the Office of Disciplinary Counsel receives a complaint and reviews it, the complaint can be immediately discarded or other necessary actions can be carried out, including launching of an investigation. If the Office of Disciplinary Counsel establishes that there is reasonable ground to believe that a judge has made a disciplinary offence, it will launch an investigation of the facts and circumstances.
If the investigation shows that the complaint is not founded or the allegations of the complaint cannot be verified and proven, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will close the case and will not initiate disciplinary proceeding against a judge.
If the investigation shows that there is evidence to confirm allegations of misconduct of a judge, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will launch a disciplinary proceeding before the HJPC filing a disciplinary complaint. After filing the complaint, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel may offer the accused prosecutor a joint consent agreement for establishment of disciplinary liability for the committed disciplinary offences, which will be considered and approved by the competent panel of the HJPC.

Article 24

Any person can file a disciplinary complaint against a judge, that is, the president of the court, to the Disciplinary Prosecutor.

The disciplinary report is submitted in writing.

A disciplinary report can also be submitted electronically, if the applicant has an electronic signature.

The disciplinary report must contain the name and surname of the judge and the name of the court in which he performs the function of judge, i.e. the name and surname of the president of the court and the name of the court in which he performs the function of president of the court, a brief description of the actions of the judge, i.e. the president of the court, the name and surname of the applicant, his address and signature.

If the disciplinary report is incomprehensible or does not contain all the information to be able to act on it (paragraph 3), the Disciplinary Prosecutor will return the report to the applicant, set a deadline of eight days for the correction or amendment of the disciplinary report and warn of the consequences of failure.

The disciplinary prosecutor will reject the disciplinary report if the applicant does not make corrections, i.e. additions, or if he does not make them within the time limit referred to in paragraph 5 of this article.

Initiation of disciplinary proceedings

Article 31

Disciplinary proceedings are initiated when the Disciplinary Prosecutor submits a proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings to the Disciplinary Commission.

The proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings contains:

1) personal data of the judge (name and surname, date of birth and address) and the court in which he performs the function of judge, that is, personal data of the president of the court (name and surname, date of birth and address) and the court in which he performs the function of the president of the court;

2) factual description and legal qualification of the disciplinary offense;

3) a proposal on the evidence to be presented at the disciplinary hearing and a proposal for a disciplinary measure.

It is not allowed to submit a new proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings based on the same facts.

(2023). According to the Law on Judges ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023, article 102 regulates that any person can file a disciplinary complaint against a judge or the president of the court, to the Disciplinary Prosecutor.
The proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings is submitted by the Disciplinary Prosecutor based on a disciplinary report or ex officio.
Disciplinary proceedings are conducted by the Disciplinary Commission on the proposal of the Disciplinary Prosecutor. The Disciplinary Commission cannot decide beyond the proposal of the Disciplinary Prosecutor.
During the disciplinary proceedings, the Disciplinary Prosecutor may amend or expand the proposal for conducting disciplinary proceedings, if the presented evidence indicates a change in the factual situation in relation to the submitted proposal or if the judge whose disciplinary responsibility is being determined committed another disciplinary offense.
Disciplinary proceedings are urgent, conducted with all guarantees of a fair trial, without the presence of the public, unless the judge against whom the disciplinary proceedings are conducted requires that the proceedings be public.
The disciplinary procedure is regulated in more detail by an act of the High Council of the Judiciary.
Conduct of disciplinary proceedings expires three years after the day when the disciplinary offense was committed, and does not expire during the duration of the administrative dispute, i.e. court proceedings related to the initiated disciplinary proceedings and executed disciplinary measures.
THE LAW
ON THE ARRANGEMENT OF THE COURTS
("Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023)
This Law regulates the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Justice and the High Judicial Council in terms of supervision of the implementation of the Court Rulebook. The Ministry of Justice has limited power over the questions regulated by the Court Rulebook (Court rules of procedure) regarding supervision. If the deficiencies are not eliminated within the set deadlines, the supervising authority, in this case the Ministry of Justice, will file a disciplinary report against the president of the supervised court.
Supervision over the implementation of the Rules of Court
Article 77
The implementation of the Court Rules of Procedure is supervised by the High Council of the Judiciary and the Ministry responsible for the judiciary.
The High Council of the Judiciary supervises the application of the Rules of Procedure of the Court in connection with the tasks referred to in Article 76, paragraph 1, point. 1)-9), 14), 15) and 17) of this law, and the ministry responsible for justice in connection with the affairs from Article 76, paragraph 1, item 10) and 16) of this law.
The High Council of the Judiciary and the Ministry responsible for the judiciary jointly supervise the implementation of the Rules of Court in connection with the tasks prescribed in Article 76, paragraph 1, point. 11)-13) of this law.
In the event that supervision is carried out on the basis of a submitted complaint, the competence of the authority for conducting supervision is determined depending on the violation of the Rules of Court that the complainant indicates.
The complaint form is an integral part of the Court Rules of Procedure.

(General comment) Unprofessional and untimely performance of the judicial function according to the Law on courts implies unsatisfactory expertise or unconscientiousness of the judge that affects the quality and promptness of the work, as follows:
1) If in two consecutive assessments the judge does not fulfill the criteria for successful work, by his fault without justifying reasons, for which he has received two negative grades, in procedure established by the Law on Judicial Council in of the Republic of Macedonia;
2) If he was convicted by a final court verdict, with punishment lower than that determined in the Art. 73, paragraph(1) point 5 from the Law on courts which is a direct result of acting in the performance of the judicial office, deliberately or with conscious negligence; (art. 73, p.1, point 5-Conviction for a crime by a legally valid court verdict to an unconditional imprisonment sentence of minimum six months).
3) Is publishing unauthorized classified information, i.e. provided information and data on court cases that violates the obligation to protect the secrecy of the procedure established by law and when the public is excluded in accordance with the law;
4) Without justified reasons, does not schedule the hearings in the cases assigned to him or otherwise delay the procedure;
5) Does not take the matter into consideration because of which expiration of a criminal prosecution or statute of limitations on the execution of a criminal sanction for a crime occur;
6) Takes on a case that has not been allocated to him through the automatic computer system for conducting of court cases in the courts; ;
7) Intentionally and inexcusably makes gross professional mistake, while differences in interpretation of law and facts cannot be taken as ground for determination of judges' responsibility. After submission on a request for determination of the responsibility of the judge or president of the court is received, the Council shall establish a Commission of Rapporteurs from the members with a right to vote by lot, which is composed of three members, two of which are from among the members elected by the judges, and one is from among the members elected by the Assembly of the Republic of North Macedonia. The president of the Commission is elected by lot from among the members of the Commission. If a submitter of the request is a member of the Council, he/she cannot be a member of this Commission.
The Commission will reject the request for determining responsibility of the judge or president of the court if the request:
- is not timely,
- is not complete, or
- clearly unmeritorious, i.e. it revokes on facts that were already a case for examination by a higher court in a procedure after a legal remedy or could have been a case for examination by a higher court but have not been commenced with a legal remedy.
In this cases, the procedure for determining responsibility of the judge or president of the court finishes with the decision of the Commission. Serbia

(2025): Irremovability of judges is one of the basic principles proclaimed by the Law on Judges ("Official Gazette of RS", 10/23). Article 3 of the Law on Judges provides that a judge may not be permanently transferred or temporary assigned to another court without his consent, except in cases provided for by the Constitution and this Law.

2. Immovability of the judge

A term

Article 18

A judge has the right to perform judicial function permanently in the court for which he was elected, except in the case prescribed by the Constitution and this law.

Only with his consent can a judge be permanently transferred or temporarily referred from one court to another, or referred to the High Council of the Judiciary, the ministry responsible for justice, the Judicial Academy or an international organization in the field of justice.

Consent is given in written form and must precede the adoption of a decision on permanent transfer, temporary assignment or assignment.

Permanent relocation

Article 19

A judge may, with his written consent, be permanently transferred to another court of the same type and of the same or lower degree, if there is a need to urgently fill a vacant judge position, which cannot be solved by the election or temporary assignment of a judge, with the consent of the president of both courts.

As an exception to paragraph 1 of this article, a judge may be permanently transferred to another court without his written consent in the event of the abolition of the court or the abolition of the majority of the jurisdiction of the court for which he was elected.

The majority of the court's jurisdiction is revoked if the necessary number of judges in the court is reduced due to a change in the substantive jurisdiction of the court, the establishment of a new court or a change in the area in which the court exercises jurisdiction. In the case referred to in paragraph 2 of this article, a judge may be permanently transferred only to a court of the same level that takes over the jurisdiction of a court that has been abolished or to which the majority of its jurisdiction has been abolished.

If the jurisdiction of the abolished court was taken over by two or more courts, i.e. the predominant jurisdiction of the court was taken over by one or more courts, when making a decision on the permanent transfer of a judge, the High Council of the Judiciary takes into account the residence of the judge, the length of the judge's service and the type of work that the judge performed.

The judge permanently continues to perform the function of judge in the court to which he was transferred.

The decision on permanent transfer is made by the High Council of the Judiciary.

Against the decision on permanent transfer, the judge can file an appeal with the Constitutional Court, which excludes the right to submit a constitutional appeal, within 30 days from the date of receipt of the decision. Temporary referral to another court

Article 20

A judge is temporarily referred to another court where the lack, impediment, exclusion of judges or other reasons make the work of the court difficult.

A judge may be temporarily assigned only to another court of the same type and of the same or immediately lower level, for a maximum of one year, without the possibility of temporary assignment to the same court again.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): Prosecutors may be subject to disciplinary proceedings for violations stipulated by the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC). Disciplinary proceedings are initiated by the Office of Disciplinary Counsel of the HJPC.
The latter receives and reviews complaints concerning the conduct of prosecutors, or runs cases on its own initiative. After the Office of Disciplinary Counsel receives a complaint and reviews it, the complaint can be immediately discarded or other necessary actions can be carried out, including launching of an investigation. If the Office of Disciplinary Counsel establishes that there is reasonable ground to believe that a prosecutor has made a disciplinary offence, it will launch an investigation of the facts and circumstances.
If the investigation shows that the complaint is not founded or the allegations of the complaint cannot be verified and proven, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will close the case and will not initiate disciplinary proceeding against a prosecutor.
If the investigation shows that there is evidence to confirm allegations of misconduct of a prosecutor, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel will launch a disciplinary proceeding before the HJPC filing a disciplinary complaint. After filing the complaint, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel may offer the accused prosecutor a joint consent agreement for establishment of disciplinary liability for the committed disciplinary offences, which will be considered and approved by the competent panel of the HJPC.

(2022): Anyone may file a complaint based on which disciplinary proceedings are formally initiated by the SPC disciplinary prosecutor

Kosovo*

(General Comment): The Council shall initiate disciplinary procedures based on a request submitted pursuant to Article 9, paragraph 1 of the Law on DISCIPLINARY LIABILITY OF JUDGES AND PROSECUTORS
Any natural or legal person can submit a complaint to the respective head of the prosecution office where the prosecutor is employed. When the complaint is sent to the non-competent authority, such authority transfers the complaint to the competent authority. Put differently, citizens can file complaints to the Council and the Ombudsman can request the Council to initiate disciplinary investigations, but the Council is the sole competent authority to formally start disciplinary proceedings.

(2025): The disciplinary procedures against prosecutors are based on the Law on Disciplinary liability of judges and prosecutors and Regulation for disciplinary procedures against prosecutors.
Natural and legal persons may submit complaints against a judge or prosecutor concerning an allegation of a disciplinary offense to the following authorities (hereinafter the “Competent Authority”):
- The Chief State Prosecutor concerning alleged disciplinary offences of Chief Prosecutors;
- The Chief Prosecutor concerning alleged disciplinary offences of prosecutors employed at the prosecution office for which the Chief Prosecutor is responsible;
- The Kosovo Prosecutorial Council concerning alleged disciplinary offenses of the Chief State Prosecutor.

The competent authority shall request the Council to initiate disciplinary procedures against a prosecutor also ex-officio when it has reasonable grounds to believe that a prosecutor has committed a disciplinary offence.
Natural and legal persons may also submit complaints against a judge or prosecutor to the
within five (5) working days to the Competent Authority. The Ombudsperson may request the Council to initiate disciplinary investigations against a Court President or the Chief Prosecutor if they have reasons to believe that they have committed a disciplinary offense pursuant to Article 9, paragraph 7 of this Law. The Ombudsperson may also request the Council to initiate disciplinary investigations against a judge or prosecutor if they consider that a Competent Authority has decided to dismiss a complaint against such judge or prosecutor in contradiction with Article 9, paragraph 5 of the law, in which case they shall provide a reasoning why the complaint should not have been dismissed.

(2) The proceedings for establishment of the public prosecutor's liability for committed disciplinary infringement in the exertion of the public prosecutorial office shall be led by a committee, composed of five members or their deputies, one of each higher public prosecutor's offices and one member from the PPO of the Republic of North Macedonia, elected by the college in the respective prosecutor's offices. A member or a deputy member of the committee shall be exempt if they are the applicants of the proposal.
(3) Prior to initiating a proceeding, the committee, after the receipt of the application, without any delays, shall request from the public prosecutor against which the proposal for initiating a proceeding has been submitted, to state their comments on the allegations in the proposal, in a written form, within five days of the notification.
(4) If the committee finds that there are no reasonable doubts for committed disciplinary infringement by the public prosecutor, it shall conclude that no proceeding will be initiated.
(5) If the committee finds that the proposal is grounded, it shall adopt a decision for initiation of a disciplinary proceeding.
(6) The public prosecutor against whom disciplinary proceeding is initiated shall be entitled to be heard before the Committee for establishing disciplinary responsibilities in a presence of a defense attorney, as well as to propose proofs in their own favour.
(7) If the Committee, with a majority of votes from the total number of its members, finds that disciplinary infringements has been committed, it shall adopt a decision and impose one of the prescribed sanction in Article 95 paragraph (1) indents 1 and 2, and paragraph (2) indent 1 of this Law.
(8) Committee members shall start voting form the more serious to milder ones when they vote on the type of disciplinary measures.
(9) The voting shall stop when a decision to impose disciplinary measure has been adopted.
(10) In the event when after the voting on each disciplinary measure no decision has been adopted with a majority of the total number of Committee members, the voting shall not be repeated, unless a total number of members submitted a proposal to repeat the voting for one of the measures, at the same session.
(11) If the majority of the Committee members consider that evidence for the existence of grounds for dismissal of a public prosecutor has been presented during the procedure, then, they may propose such dismissal to the Council of the Public Prosecutors of the Republic of North Macedonia, and the proposal shall also be submitted to the public prosecutor against whom the proceeding is initiated. Public prosecutor shall be entitled to an appeal against the proposal for their dismissal to the Council of the Public Prosecutors of the Republic of North Macedonia, within seven days from the submission of the proposal.

Conduct of disciplinary proceedings expires three years after the day when the disciplinary offense was committed, and does not expire during the duration of the administrative dispute, i.e. court proceedings related to the initiated disciplinary proceedings and pronounced disciplinary measure.

(2025): Disciplinary proceedings against a public prosecutor may be initiated by a written complaint from any person to the Disciplinary Prosecutor, who must examine every complaint, collect evidence, access official files, and, where relevant, seek an opinion from the Ethics Committee. Proceedings are formally opened when the Disciplinary Prosecutor submits a proposal to the Disciplinary Commission, either based on a complaint or ex officio. The procedure is urgent, ensures fair-trial guarantees, and is closed to the public unless the accused prosecutor requests otherwise. The prosecutor concerned has full rights, including access to the file, the right to respond, legal representation, and the right to appeal. If the Disciplinary Prosecutor finds that disciplinary action is needed, he gives his recommendation to the Disciplinary Commission to do so. The Commission holds a hearing, examines evidence, and may request further clarification. It may dismiss the proposal, establish disciplinary responsibility and impose a sanction, or discontinue the case if the proposal is withdrawn, the prosecutor's function ends, or limitation periods expire. Decisions are reasoned, adopted by majority vote, recorded in the prosecutor's official file once final, and proceedings are subject to a three-year limitation period, suspended during related court or administrative disputes.
In the second-instance disciplinary procedure, both the Disciplinary Prosecutor and the public prosecutor concerned may file an appeal to the Council within eight days of receiving the first-instance decision. The appeal must specify the challenged decision, grounds and reasons, scope of challenge, and include a signature; the other party may respond within three days. Decisions may be challenged due to procedural violations, incorrect or incomplete establishment of facts, misapplication of substantive law, or the disciplinary sanction imposed. The Council may dismiss the appeal as inadmissible or late, uphold the Commission's decision, or amend it. A rapporteur from among Council members elected from prosecutors is appointed, decisions are adopted by the prescribed majority, the Minister of Justice does not vote, and the Supreme Public Prosecutor is excluded when his or her responsibility is concerned. The Council must decide within 30 days, issue a decision, and its ruling is final, subject only to an administrative court dispute. Final disciplinary sanctions are recorded in the prosecutor's personal file and removed after three years, and extraordinary legal remedies are not permitted.

(2024) According to the Rules on Disciplinary Bodies of the High Prosecutorial Council and Disciplinary Proceedings ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia" No. 33/2024) Powers of the Disciplinary Commission

Article 31

In the procedure for determining the disciplinary liability of the holder of the public prosecutorial function, the Commission may:

1) reject the Proposal as unfounded;

2) adopt the Proposal, declare the holder of the public prosecutorial function responsible for the committed disciplinary offense and impose a disciplinary measure on him/her;

3) suspend the procedure if:

- The disciplinary prosecutor withdraws the Proposal during the procedure;
- the public prosecutorial function of the holder of the public prosecutorial function against whom the procedure is being conducted ceases or
- the statute of limitations for conducting disciplinary proceedings has expired.

The Commission shall make a decision within 15 days of the conclusion of the hearing and shall submit it to the Disciplinary Prosecutor and the holder of the public prosecutorial function whose disciplinary liability is being determined, or to his or her authorized representative.

The Commission shall submit a final decision to the Council for entry in the personal file of the holder of the public prosecutorial function.

If the Commission decides not to initiate proceedings to determine the reasons for the dismissal of the holder of the public prosecutorial function who has been declared liable for a serious disciplinary offence by the Commission's decision, it shall notify the Council of that decision.

Decision-making method of the Disciplinary Commission

Article 32

Decisions of the Commission shall be made by a majority vote of the members of the Commission, of which a special record shall be drawn up and signed by all members of the Commission.

Decisions of the Commission shall be drawn up in the form of a resolution, within 15 days of the date of adoption.

A dissenting opinion of a member of the Commission shall be noted in the minutes of deliberation and voting.

The decision establishing that the holder of the public prosecutor's office is liable for a disciplinary offence shall contain:

1) an introduction, which shall include: the composition of the Commission, the names of the parties and their attorneys, the subject matter of the proceedings and the date of the decision;

2) a factual description of the disciplinary offence;

3) the provisions of the Law and other laws and regulations applied in the disciplinary proceedings, as well as the legal qualification of the disciplinary offence;

4) the disciplinary measure imposed;

5) a decision on the costs of the disciplinary proceedings;

Article 102/2
a) serious or repeated failure to comply with procedural and substantive legislation or incorrect application of procedural and substantive legislation, when established by a higher court;

(2024): Disciplinary violations related to the exercise of the function

Bosnia and Herzegovina
(2022): Some cases against prosecutors were initiated for two or more disciplinary mistakes. Such cases were counted only once in accordance with the Explanatory note. The main mistake for those disciplinary cases was determined in our best estimate.

Montenegro

(2024): no accurate and complete data were submitted in the report on assets and income in 2020 - one case (Article 108, paragraph 3, item 8 of the Law on State Prosecution)
- Due to failure to act in cases, the statute of limitations for criminal prosecution has expired - one case (Article 108, paragraph 3, item 1 of the Law on State Prosecution)
- Proposal submitted by an unauthorized applicant - one case

Serbia

(General Comment): "Professional inadequacy" means if the Public Prosecutor or Deputy Public Prosecutor commits a disciplinary offense if:
- does not make public prosecutorial decisions and does not file regular and extraordinary legal remedies within the prescribed period;
- often misses or is late to scheduled hearings, hearings and other procedural actions in cases assigned to him;
- refuses to perform the tasks and tasks entrusted to him; etc.

(2025): Three cases were brought to the Disciplinary Prosecutor as violations of Article 114, paragraph 1, point 11 of the Law on Public Prosecutors Office, i.e. as violations of the principle of impartiality and endangerment citizens' trust in the public prosecutor's office.
One case was brought to the Disciplinary Prosecutor as a violation of Article 114, paragraph 1, point 8 of the Law on Public Prosecutors Office, i.e. a clear violation of the obligations of proper treatment towards judges in the proceedings, parties, their legal representatives, witnesses, staff or colleagues.
One case was brought to the Disciplinary Prosecutor as a violation of Article 114, paragraph 1, point 8 of the Law on Public Prosecutors Office, i.e. One case was brought to the Disciplinary Prosecutor as a violation of Article 114, paragraph 1, point 14 of the Law on Public Prosecutors Office, i.e. unjustifiable and frequent disrespect of working hours

(2025): During 2025, the Council received 10 requests for initiation of disciplinary procedures against prosecutors by the Competent Authorities. For 5 of those requests, the Council established the investigative panels, 2 requests were rejected by the Council and 3 requests were dismissed by the Council.
The legal bases or grounds on which the ten (10) requests for initiation of disciplinary proceedings were initiated are:
1. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors, paragraph 1, subparagraph 1.2 “A prosecutor commits a disciplinary offense if he or she violates the law“;
2. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors; paragraph 2, subparagraphs 2.8 (provides false or misleading information in matters related to disciplinary proceedings and prosecution related administrative procedures, including promotion and transfers, except if otherwise provided by Law); and 2.10 (engages in behaviour while on duty or in private which harms the honour and dignity of the State Prosecutor or which may harm public confidence in the impartiality or credibility of the State Prosecutor); 3. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors, paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.1 “continuously, fails to take any prosecutorial action required by the Law into force or fails to exercise prosecutorial within the deadlines foreseen by Law, except when the seriousness of failure to act or the level of the offense serves as a basis for initiation of the disciplinary procedures for a single violation“
4. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.10 (engages in behaviour while on duty or in private which harms the honour and dignity of the State Prosecutor or which may harm public confidence in the impartiality or credibility of the State Prosecutor);
5. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 1, subparagraph 1.2, in conjunction with paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.1 “continuously, fails to take any prosecutorial action required by the Law into force or fails to exercise prosecutorial within the deadlines foreseen by Law, except when the seriousness of failure to act or the level of the offense serves as a basis for initiation of the disciplinary procedures for a single violation;”
6. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.1 “continuously, fails to take any prosecutorial action required by the Law into force or fails to exercise prosecutorial within the deadlines foreseen by Law, except when the seriousness of failure to act or the level of the offense serves as a basis for initiation of the disciplinary procedures for a single violation”
7. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.10 “engages in behaviour while on duty or in private which harms the honour and dignity of the State Prosecutor or which may harm public confidence in the impartiality or credibility of the State Prosecutor”;
8. Article 6, of the Law on Disciplinary Liability of Judges and Prosecutors paragraph 2, subparagraph 2.1 “continuously, fails to take any prosecutorial action required by the Law into force or fails to exercise prosecutorial within the deadlines foreseen by Law, except when the seriousness of failure to act or the level of the offense serves as a basis for initiation of the disciplinary procedures for a single violation”;
9. Violation of the Code of Conduct and Professional Ethics, point C and point I;
10. In a request from the Ombudsman, the legal basis for the alleged disciplinary violations was not determined.

(2024): Clarification: In table above, there are (6) disciplinary cases initiated in the year – 2024, six of them (all of them) are professional violations, while (4) of them are professional and ethical violations. However to avoid duplication only two cases are reported in the "professional inadequacy" box.

(2023): During 2023, KPC received 8 new cases of requests for initiating the disciplinary procedures against prosecutors. There were 2 prosecutor for whom we received 2 separate cases for each so the cases were joined. As a result, in total, there were 6 cases treated.

Question 218

Albania

(2025): In two cases, the request of the High Inspector of Justice for public reprimand was rejected.

(2024): Disciplinary violations related to the exercise of the function

Montenegro

(2025): one disciplinary case was initiated in 2024 and concluded in 2025, while two cases were concluded in 2025.

(2024): - 2 cases - a proposal submitted due to non-action in the cases, the statute of limitations for criminal prosecution has expired (Art. 108 para. 3 point 1 of the Law on State Prosecution)
- 2 cases - proposal submitted because accurate and complete data were not submitted in the report on assets and income in 2020 (art. 108 paragraph 3 point 8 of the Law on State Prosecution)
- 1 subject - a proposal submitted by an unauthorized applicant

North Macedonia

(2024): The cases were closed due to lack of evidence

Kosovo*

(2025): 4 of the 5 cases completed are the cases which were received in 2025, and 1 of the completed cases was received in 2024. 1 of the 5 cases received in 2025 is still ongoing.

(2024): Clarification: four disciplinary cases (all of them) are professional violations, while (2) two cases are professional and ethical violations. However to avoid duplication only two cases are reported in the "professional inadequacy" box.

(2023): Of the 8 cases received, 3 cases are still unfinished (1 is in the Supreme Court, 1 is being treated in the KPC and 1 is still being treated in the investigative panel)

Question 219

Albania

(2025): they were dismissed according to the Law No. 84/2016 “On the transitional re-evaluation of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania”.
Additional Comment. The sanction number 5 and 6 is against the same prosecutor which was the Head of Prosecution Office.

(2022): In the case of the second disciplinary proceeding completed during 2022, the High Justice Inspector has proposed to the High Prosecutorial Council, the appointment of the disciplinary measure "Public notice" for the prosecutor and for the head of the prosecution office, for the disciplinary violations provided in Article 102/1, letters "ç", "dh", and "l", of the Law "On the status of judges and prosecutors in the Republic of Albania", as amended. At the end of the disciplinary proceeding, with Decision no. 31, dated 24.02.2022, High Prosecutorial Council rejected the proposal of the High Justice Inspector to give the disciplinary measure "Public notice" to the two magistrates.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(2025): From this reporting cycle, reporting on the suspensions of prosecutors within the data on the number of imposed disciplinary sanctions ceases because it has been concluded, contrary to previous interpretation, that suspensions should be treated as temporary measures imposed against judges within the disciplinary procedure, and not as disciplinary sanctions.

(2022): There was a difference between the number of disciplinary proceedings (13) and the number of penalties (10). This difference occurred because a disciplinary lawsuit was rejected in (3) cases.

Montenegro

(2024): One case - the proposal to establishing disciplinary liability is rejected as unfounded, because the proposal was submitted for an action that is not prescribed as a disciplinary offense
Two cases - the proposal to establish disciplinary liability is rejected as unfounded due to the lack of evidence that the appointee committed a disciplinary offense
One case - the proposal to initiate disciplinary proceedings is rejected because it was submitted by an unauthorized applicant

North Macedonia

(2025): In one case a disciplinary measure was imposed - a temporary reduction in the monthly salary and in two cases a disciplinary measure was imposed - a proposal for dismissal of the public prosecutors, but in the both cases, before the final decision of the Council of Public Prosecutors following the submitted proposal for dismissal, they resigned on their own.

Serbia

(2025): In this reporting period, based on the recommendations from the Disciplinary Prosecutor, the Disciplinary Commission adopted the measure of prohibition of election to the higher prosecutor's office for 3 years in 1 case.

(2022): Other: ban on promotion for period of 3 years

Albania
Q65 (2024): No, in Albanian Law of Medition it is not mandatory but volunteer

Q65-1 (2025): Law No. 10 385, dated 24.2.2011 “ON MEDIATION IN THE RESOLVING OF DISPUTES”, in its article 2, provides for the obligation of the court to notify the parties of the possibility of resolving the matter through mediation. Below we quote the article in question:
1. Mediation, according to this law, is applied to the resolution of disputes provided for in points 2 and 3 of this article, at any time that the parties to the conflict, of their own free will, request and accept mediation as an alternative to resolving the dispute, regardless of whether the dispute has been submitted to the body designated by law for its resolution. The provisions of this law are also applied in those cases when the court or the relevant state body, after initiating the resolution of the dispute, notifies and instructs the parties to mediation, according to points 4 and 5 of this article. 2. Mediation is applied to the resolution of all disputes in the field of civil, commercial, labor and family law, intellectual property, consumer rights, as well as disputes between public administration bodies and private entities. 3. Mediation in the criminal field applies to disputes that are examined by the court at the request of the accusing victim, or upon complaint of the injured party, according to articles 59 and 284 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, as well as in any case where a special law allows it. For mediation in criminal cases involving minors, the provisions of the Juvenile Criminal Justice Code shall apply. 4. The court or the relevant state body, within the powers provided for by law, shall be obliged to notify, instruct and, as the case may be, inform the parties in a clear and understandable manner about the resolution by mediation, in particular, but not limited to, of disputes: a) In civil and family matters, when the interests of minors are intertwined; b) In matters of reconciliation in cases of marriage dissolution, provided for by Article 134 of the Family Code; c) Of a property nature, related to property rights or co-ownership, division of property, lawsuits for the recovery of property, for denial lawsuits and lawsuits for the cessation of infringement of possession, disputes arising from non-fulfillment of contractual obligations, as well as those that have as their object the compensation of non-contractual damage. 5. In the case of disputes in the criminal field, when criminal proceedings have commenced, the court shall compulsorily notify and instruct the parties for the mediation resolution of the disputes provided for in point 3 of this article. 6. If the parties have stipulated in a written contract or agreement that mediation will be the first alternative for resolving the conflict, prior to the judicial one, the court shall not consider the case without this condition being applied. 7. For matters related to procedures not regulated by this law, in the mediation activity, to the extent possible, the legal provisions regulating other procedures shall apply, taking into account the legal nature of the case. 8. The provisions of this law shall apply, to the extent possible, also to the mediation procedure for resolving disputes in cases where only one of the parties has his/her residence in the Republic of Albania.

Q65-2 (2025): Law No. 10 385, dated 24.2.2011 “ON MEDIATION IN THE RESOLVING OF DISPUTES”, regulates in detail the conditions and criteria for licensing intermediaries.

The Law No. 10385, dated 24.02.2011, "On Mediation in Dispute Resolution", along with amendments, regulates mediation procedures and establishes when mediation is encouraged or required.

1. Family Disputes:
   - In cases of divorce, child custody, and parental responsibilities, courts often require parties to attend an informative session with a mediator before proceeding with litigation.
   - Mediation is encouraged in disputes over alimony, property division, and visitation rights.
2. Commercial Disputes:
   - Certain commercial disputes, particularly those related to contractual obligations and business partnerships, may involve mandatory mediation sessions before resorting to court.
3. Labor Disputes:
   - Disputes between employers and employees, such as wrongful termination or discrimination cases, often involve mediation as a first step before court proceedings.
4. Civil Disputes:
   - Some civil cases involving compensation claims, property conflicts, and contractual disagreements may require an informative session about mediation as an alternative to court.
5. Penal Disputes:
   - Some penall cases involving compensation claims, article 59 Code of Penal Procedure are 13 caces and article 284 11 cases , and contractual disagreements may require an informative session about mediation as an alternative to court.

Q65-3 (2025): Yes, following the Memorandum of Cooperation between the National Chamber of Mediation and the Directorate of Free Legal Aid, there is a possibility to receive legal aid for court-related mediation. Based on this cooperation, individuals who meet the criteria for free legal aid may benefit from mediation services free of charge or with financial support, in accordance with the applicable legal framework.

Q66 (2025): The activity of mediation may be carried out either by a natural person or a legal entity, subject to prior licensing and registration in the Register of Mediators. The mediator's license is granted on a nominative and individual basis to each person who fulfills the legal requirements for licensing and registration as a mediator.
Law No. 10385, dated 24 February 2011 "On Mediation in the Resolution of Disputes", as amended, stipulates under Article 5 the conditions that must be satisfied in order to be certified as a mediator.
The requirements for licensing as a mediator are as follows:
1. An Albanian citizen shall cumulatively fulfill the following conditions in order to be licensed as a mediator:
a) Must have completed second-cycle (Master's level) studies in accordance with the legislation on higher education;
b) Must have attained the age of 28;
b/1) Must possess no less than three years of professional experience;
c) Must not have been convicted of intentional criminal offences by a final and binding court decision;
ç) Must have successfully passed the mediator qualification examination upon completion of the initial training program.
Point (a) of Article 5 of Law No. 10385, dated 24 February 2011, as amended, refers to "second-cycle study programs" without prescribing a specific academic background. Nevertheless, mediators handling cases involving the interests of minors are required to possess appropriate qualifications and specialization in the relevant fields and, preferably, hold degrees in psychology, law, or social work. Likewise, mediators dealing with disputes of a commercial nature should possess the relevant qualifications and specialization and, preferably, hold degrees in law, economics, or engineering.
One of the principal requirements is the successful completion of the mediator qualification examination following the completion of the initial training program. The initial and continuous training programs for mediators are provided at least once per year by the National Chamber of Mediators. The initial training may also be delivered by accredited higher education institutions, provided that their programs receive prior approval from the Ministry of Justice.
Upon completion of the initial training program, the mediator qualification examination is administered. This examination is organized at least once per year by the Ministry of Justice in cooperation with the National Chamber of Mediation.
Upon successfully completing both the initial training program and the qualification examination, the mediator is entitled to submit the required documentation to the Minister of Justice for the issuance of the mediator's license.
The Minister of Justice shall, within 45 days from the submission of the licensing application, grant licenses to applicants who meet the conditions set forth in Article 5 of this Law for the exercise of mediation activity. Such licensed individuals shall subsequently be registered with the tax authorities in accordance with the applicable legal framework.
Q67-1 (2024): In Albania, under the law of Arbitration (Law no 53 /2023) is crated the Permanent Institution of Arbitration, with Decision of Tirana Court no 1943 date 19.09.2024

Bosnia and Herzegovina

Q65 (General Comment): The civil and criminal procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina foresee court-related mediation procedures.
Civil proceedings:
At the preparatory hearing at the latest, the court conducting the civil proceedings may, if it finds it appropriate with regard to the nature of the dispute and the circumstances, propose to the parties the resolution of the dispute through mediation proceedings, as prescribed by a separate law. The parties may jointly put forward such proposal until the conclusion of the main hearing.
The legislation on civil proceedings applies subsidiarily to administrative matters as well
Criminal proceedings:
The court may propose mediation through the mediator to the injured party and the accused or to the defense attorney in accordance with law, if the court considers that the claim under property law is such that it would be purposeful to refer it to the mediation. Injured party, accused and the defense attorney may propose referral to the mediation until the closing of the main trial. In les complex juvenile cases involving issuing educational recommendations (i. e. an apology to the injured party or compensation of damages to the injured party) a prosecutor or a judge may suggest the mediation between the offender and the injured party.
Q65-3 (General Comment): The legislation on free legal aid regulates that free legal assistance is available for poor litigants within procedures for peaceful settlement of disputes, including the mediation procedures.

Q66 (General Comment): The Law on mediation procedure governs the mediation procedure on the territory of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The mediation tasks are by a separate law transferred to the association of mediators by the procedure set forth in that law. Parties to an individual procedure jointly select a mediator from the list of mediators established by the association of mediators.
The Law on mediation procedure determines the requirements for conducting the mediation as follows.
The mediator may be a person meeting general requirements for employment.
In addition, the mediator must meet the following requirements:
a) a university degree,
b) completed training in mediation according to the program of the association or according to another training programs recognized by the association,
c) entry into the registry of mediators held by the association.
The mediator will submit proof of payment of the registration fee to the Association of Mediators. The person who is successful in completing the training program for mediators shall be issued an appropriate certificate serving as a basis for entry into the registry of mediators in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Q66 (2024): Female mediators are majority
Q66 (2022): new mediators accredited in the meantime

Q67 (2025): The decrease in the number of mediation cases initiated in 2025 is primarily the result of amendments to the Law on Alternative Dispute Resolution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro", No.77/20 and 53/25), which introduced changes to the procedural framework for initiating mediation proceedings, particularly in the area of labour disputes. These amendments affected the inflow of new mediation cases during the reporting period.
At the same time, during 2025 the Centre also focused on the clearance of backlog cases from previous years, which resulted in a significantly higher number of completed mediations cases compared to newly initiated proceedings. For this reason, the number of completed mediations (4,265) exceeded the number of initiated mediations during the same year (1,664), taking into account that a portion of the completed cases originated from previous years.
In addition, certain deviations also arise from methodological approaches to the recording and classification of cases by type of dispute, as well as from updates to the case records during the reporting period, which may affect the comparability of data with the previous reporting cycle.
With regard to labour disputes, the decrease of newly initiated mediations is particularly noticeable and is directly linked to the reduced inflow of cases during 2025, while the number of completed proceedings also includes cases transferred from previous periods.
Therefore, the decrease in the number of mediation cases in 2025 is a consequence of amendments to the legislative framework, changes in the dynamics of incoming cases, particularly in labour disputes, as well as the Centre's focus on resolving backlog cases from previous years.
The number of completed mediations is higher than the number of newly initiated proceedings because completed cases also include cases carried over from previous years.
The comparability of the data was also partially affected by methodological changes in the recording and classification of cases during the reporting period.
Q67 (2024): Note: some of data not available comparing to previous cycle due to changed methodology for annual report for 2024 of the Centre for alternative disputes. Civil and commercial cases include also low value disputes, law suites against state and municipalities, insurance disputes, property related disputes etc.
For court related mediations we only have a number of total initiated in 2024 which is 907
NOTE: decrease of cases of mediation for 2024 comparing to 2023 is due to the fact that high number of claims on 8 January 2024 became statute-barred in accordance to the law.

Q67-1 (General Comment): Arbitration
The arbitration is also available in the legal provisions , as an alternative measure of judicial procedures in the field of commercial law. As part of the Economic Chamber , the Permanent Court of Arbitration is established, where business partners may settle mutual business relations disputes, who in their contracts have foreseen that possibility. The Arbitration in North Macedonia exists since 1993, The value of disputes resolved through arbitration varies from a few thousand to several million Euros. - Conciliation
There are a significant number of legal grounds that allow friendly settlement of disputes, both before and out-of-court proceedings.
The court settlement
The court settlement is provided in the Law on Litigation Procedure whereby the parties during the course of the whole procedure can settle upon the subject of the dispute. This is one type of judicial mediation. The settlement is concluded on minutes (no court decision) and the parties sign the minutes voluntarily. Although there is no formal court decision, the concluded court settlement is considered res judicata and the parties do not have the possibility to file a dispute again before the court for the same thing. Each party shall bear their own costs when the procedure is completed with a court settlement, if in the settlement is not otherwise agreed.
- According to the Law on Criminal Procedure for offences subject to private prosecution, the judge may summon only the private prosecutor and the defendant to a conciliation hearing if he considers it expedient for the prompt termination of proceedings. On the conciliation hearing the judge may propose the private prosecutor and the defendant to be sent to mediation, if it is agreed by both parties, whilst the settlement reached in front of a mediator shall be submitted to the court, who Q65 (General Comment): The Law on Prevention of Harassment at Work (“Official Gazette of RS”, no. 36/2010) provides that an employee who considers to be subjected to harassment at work („mobbed“) by a person other than the employer themselves, director or other responsible person within the company can submit directly to the director/employer a reasoned application for initiation of proceedings for protection from harassment. The employer is then obliged under the law to propose to the parties in the dispute within three days upon receipt of the application mediation as a resolution of the dispute. Mediation proceedings in these cases are urgent. The mediation proceeding is considered terminated within eight working days after the date of the determination or choice of the mediator: 1) By signing of a written agreement between the disputed parties; 2) By a decision of the mediator, after consultation with the parties, to terminate the proceedings because further proceedings are not justified; 3) By a withdrawal statement of a disputed party from further proceedings. Due to justified reasons, the deadline for the completion of the mediation process can be extended to a maximum of 30 days from the date of determination or choice of the mediator. Also, a mandatory attempt at peaceful dispute resolution before initiating civil proceedings is prescribed in some Serbian laws (but not mediation per se). The Law on Compulsory Traffic Insurance ("Official Gazette RS", no. 51/2009, 78/2011, 101/2011, 93/2012 and 7/2013 – CC decision) provides that a person entitled to a claim under third party motor liability insurance must file the claim directly to the insurance company - if the contract provides for this possibility and if this is in accordance with the business policy of the insurance company. In case the insurance company fails to submit a reasoned offer of compensation for damages within 90 days from the date of claim receipt, or in case the insurance company fails to pay the small claim within the deadline, the claimant may file a lawsuit against the company and notify the National Bank of Serbia of such proceedings. Therefore, in this specific situation, the lawsuit is considered to be filed prematurely, unless the claimant previously addresses the insurance company in an attempt at out-of-court settlement.

Further, under the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code a person who intends to file a lawsuit for compensation for unlawful deprivation of liberty, or wrongful conviction, before the filing of the complaint, shall submit a request to the Ministry of Justice in order to agree on the existence of damage, the type and amount of compensation (Article 588, Paragraph 1 of the CPC). A Commission shall decide on the request, whose composition and method of work is regulated by the Minister of Justice (Article 588, Paragraph 2 of the CPC). A member of the Commission is also a Deputy SA. If the request is not granted or the Commission does not decide on the request within three months, a lawsuit may be filed against the Republic of Serbia (Article 589, Paragraph 1 of the CPC). If agreement is reached partially, related to the claim, the lawsuit may request the remaining part (Article 589, paragraph 2 of the CPC). During the duration of the procedure for reaching agreement, the statute of limitation is not running for the right to compensation under Article 591 (Article 589, paragraph 3 of the CPA). The work and results of these commissions show that the way settlement procedure is devised should be fundamentally revised.

possible in property-related disputes whose subject is the fulfillment of an obligation to perform an act, in other property-related disputes, in family and commercial disputes, in administrative matters, disputes in the field of environmental protection, in consumer disputes, as well as in all other contentious relations in which mediation corresponds to the nature of the disputed relations and can help their resolution. The provisions of this law also apply to mediation in criminal and misdemeanor matters regarding property claims and claims for damages, as well as in labor disputes unless otherwise prescribed by a special law.
Article 9 of the same Law stipulates that the mediation procedure is conducted voluntarily, except in disputes in which the initiation of mediation proceedings is prescribed by a special law as a condition for conducting court or other proceedings. The court or other authority, which under a special law is obliged to inform the parties about the possibility of applying mediation, is required to provide all necessary information in order to fully inform the parties about the possibility of conducting mediation.
The Family Law ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 18/2005, 72/2011 – other law, and 6/2015) in Article 229 prescribes that the mediation procedure includes the procedure for attempting reconciliation and the procedure for attempting to end the dispute by agreement, while Article 230, paragraph 1, stipulates that mediation is regularly conducted alongside proceedings in a marital dispute initiated by a lawsuit filed by one of the spouses. Article 231 of the aforementioned Law prescribes that mediation, as a rule, is conducted by the court. Along with the summons for the mediation hearing, a lawsuit for annulment or divorce of marriage is also submitted.
The Civil Procedure Law ("Official Gazette of RS", Nos. 72/11, 18/20, … 10/23), in Article 11 prescribes that the court shall refer the parties to mediation or to an informational hearing on mediation, in accordance with the law, or shall indicate to the parties the possibility of out-of-court settlement of the dispute through mediation or another agreed way, while in Article 305, paragraph 3, stipulates that the court shall inform the parties of their right to resolve the dispute through mediation.
The Criminal Procedure Code ("Official Gazette of RS", No. 72/11…62/21) in Article 505 prescribes that before setting the main hearing for criminal offenses prosecuted under a private lawsuit, the judge shall summon the private prosecutor and the defendant to appear in court on a specified date in order to be informed about the possibility of referral to mediation proceedings.
If, during mediation, the private prosecutor and the defendant reach a settlement and the property claim is satisfied, the private lawsuit shall be considered withdrawn, and the judge shall issue a ruling dismissing the private complaint. In the case of an unsuccessful completion of the mediation procedure, the judge will schedule a main hearing after receiving notification of this.
Some courts in Serbia have established an Info-service to support alternative dispute resolution methods, which helps citizens and parties in the proceedings to familiarize themselves with the mediation process and resolve their dispute peacefully.

Q65-1 (General Comment): Most simply put, in Serbia judges are required to inform the parties of a possibility of mediation, but cannot order it (there are no mandatory mediation provisions). Article 11 of the Law on Civil Procedure provides that the court shall direct the parties to mediation or to informative hearing for mediation, in accordance with the law, or to instruct the parties of the option of pre-trial settlement of dispute by mediation or through another amicable manner while Art. 305 Para. 3 provides that the court shall inform the parties of their right that the procedure can be performed through mediation.

Q65-2 (General Comment): Family law provides that upon being served the action for annulment or divorce of marriage, the court shall schedule a hearing for conciliation/settlement, which is held only before a sole judge. The judge is under the obligation to recommend the spouses to undergo psycho-social counselling and will at the proposal of the spouses or with their consent entrust mediation to the competent guardianship authority, marriage or family counselling service, or other institution specialised in mediation in family relations (Article 232). The Law on Social Protection ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia" No.24/2011) also provides mediation as a community based social service falling in the counselling-therapeutic and social-educational group of services, also irrespective of court proceedings (in Centers for Social Work of local municipalities). The procedural legal framework has been adopted in order to allow for certain elements of mediation in penal matters. Namely, pursuant to Article 505 of the Criminal Procedure Code ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 72/2011, 101/2011, 121/2012, 32/2013, 45/2013 i 55/2014), before scheduling a trial in connection with criminal offences which are prosecutable by private prosecution, the judge shall summon the private prosecutor and the defendant to the court on a certain date to be informed about the possibility of being referred to a mediation procedure. The Criminal Code ("Official Gazette of RS", Nos. 85/2005, 88/2005, 107/2005, 72/2009, 111/2009, 121/2012, 104/2013, 108/2014 i 94/2016)) also provides a possibility of settlement between the offender and the victim (Article 59). Namely, the court may remit from punishment the perpetrator of a criminal offence punishable by up to three years' imprisonment or a fine if the offender has fulfilled all his/her obligations from an agreement reached with the victim. Therefore, according to previously mentioned provisions, in these matters the only eligible public authority is the court)which can be explained by the very nature of the proceedings).
The Law on Consumer Protection ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 62/2014, 6/2016 and 44/2018) provides two manners of out-court settlement of consumer disputes: mediation (in accordance with the law that regulates mediation in Serbia) and arbitration. Parties in the consumer dispute may assign the resolution of the consumer dispute to one or more mediators chosen from the list of mediators, in accordance with the Law on Mediation.

Q65-3 (General Comment): In order to promote mediation, mediators have since 2016 provided mediation services in courts pro bono. Likewise, a judge cannot charge fees for conducting mediation.
The Law on Mediation in Dispute Resolution provides for certain monetary incentives in case of reaching an agreement to resolve the dispute through mediation after the judicial or other proceedings have been initiated and before the conclusion of the first hearing for the main trial, such as that the parties may be exempt from court or administrative fees, in accordance with the law which regulates court and administrative fees (Article 31). The Parliament has enacted the Law on Amendments and Supplements to the Law on Court Fees ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 95/2018), which further encourages parties to resolve their disputes by amicable means, through mediation, negotiated settlement, court settlement or any other amicable way. These amendments, which are applicable from 1 January 2019, postpone the collection of court fees in order to leave the parties the opportunity to once again consider the amicable resolution of the dispute, once the court proceedings have been initiated. Through these provisions, the state offers financial incentives to the parties to consider other viable dispute resolution options early in the court proceedings by exempting them from paying all relevant court fees if they achieve a settlement by the time of the first hearing. Regarding general exemption from court fees please see comment to Q17.
Under the Free Legal Aid Law (2018) applicable from 2019, expenses of mediators, lawyers, etc. are a form of secondary legal aid and may be financed from the budget of the Republic of Serbia, pursuant to the provisions of the FLA Law.
Q65-3 (2025): In accordance with the Law on Free Legal Aid, free legal support may include mediation in the peaceful resolution of disputes (mediation). When submitting a request for free legal aid, the applicant may point out that the legal problem for which he/she is requesting free legal aid is to be resolved through mediation. Also, the local - self governments deciding on the request is obliged, after becoming acquainted with the facts of the specific case disclosed to it by the applicant, to encourage the applicant to resolve the legal problem peacefully, if the nature of the dispute allows it.

Conditions for mediation

Article 33

A mediator is a natural person who, in an independent, neutral and impartial manner, mediates between the parties in a disputed relationship.

A person must meet the following requirements to perform the work of an intermediary:

1) that it is capable of doing business;

2) that he is a citizen of the Republic of Serbia;

3) that it has completed the basic training for a mediator;

4) to have a university degree;

5) that he has not been sentenced to an unconditional prison sentence for a criminal offense that makes him unfit to perform mediation work;

6) to have a license to mediate;

7) that it is registered in the Register of Intermediaries.

In certain areas, the law may prescribe special conditions for mediation.

In international mediation and mediation in cross-border disputes, the mediator can also be a foreign citizen, provided that he is authorized to engage in mediation in another country, under the condition of reciprocity.

A mediator can also be a citizen of a member state, provided that he is authorized to engage in mediation in a member state.

Judges can mediate exclusively outside of working hours and without compensation.

The procedure for issuing a license for mediation

Article 36

Issuing a license for mediation is a procedure in which it is determined whether a person meets the conditions for performing mediation prescribed by this law.

License to mediate

Article 37

A license for mediation is a public document confirming that a person meets the requirements for mediation.

The right to obtain a license for mediation is granted to a person who fulfills the requirements from Article 33, paragraph 2, point. 1) to 5) and paragraph 3 of this law.

The mediation license is issued for the first time with a validity period of three years, and when it is renewed, it is issued for a period of five years.

Q66 (2025): In the Republic of Serbia, the conditions and procedure for obtaining the status of a mediator are regulated by the Law on Mediation in Dispute Resolution (Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia, No. 55/2014). This law prescribes both the basic conditions that a candidate must meet, and the procedure for obtaining, renewing and revoking a license. A mediator can only be a natural person who acts independently, impartially and neutrally between the parties to the dispute. In order for a person to be able to perform mediation work, he or she must meet several conditions. First of all, he or she must have business capacity and citizenship of the Republic of Serbia (except in the case of international and cross-border mediation, where he or she may also be a foreign citizen under the condition of reciprocity). The candidate must have completed basic training for a mediator, as well as higher education, i.e. a university degree. Also, he/she must not have been sentenced to an unconditional prison sentence for a criminal offense that makes him/her unfit to practice mediation. In addition to the above conditions, it is necessary for the person to obtain a mediation license and to be entered in the Register of Mediators maintained by the competent ministry. Only by fulfilling these conditions does the person acquire the status of a registered mediator.
The procedure for obtaining a license is initiated by submitting an application to the competent ministry. In this procedure, it is determined whether the candidate meets all the requirements prescribed by law. If the requirements are met, a mediation license is issued, which is a public document confirming that the person is qualified to practice mediation. The first license is issued for a period of three years.
After obtaining the license, the mediator is entered in the Register of Mediators maintained by the Ministry of Justice. This register contains basic information about the mediator (name, surname, professional qualifications, title, occupation, as well as educational information, contact telephone number, e-mail, etc.), and is publicly available on the ministry's website. Registration in the register of mediators maintained by the Ministry of Justice is a mandatory requirement for practicing mediation.
The license has a limited validity period, and its renewal is required if the person meets the conditions for renewal of the license stipulated by the Law. The application for renewal is submitted before the expiration of the license. In order for the license to be renewed, the mediator must, in addition to the basic requirements, also meet additional criteria: at least ten hours of professional development per year and at least five mediations conducted during the license validity period. Compliance with the code of ethics and legal obligations is also valued. A renewed license is valid for five years.
In the event that a mediator no longer meets the prescribed conditions or does not act in accordance with the law, his license will be revoked, and a decision will be made to remove him from the register of mediators. If the conditions stipulated in Article 33 of the Law cease to exist or the person violates the Code of Ethics and other regulations, a request may be submitted for the revocation of the mediator's license and removal from the register of mediators. The Commission checks the facts relating to the fulfillment of the conditions for performing mediation activities, i.e. whether the mediator complies with the rules of procedure in the mediation procedure in accordance with the Law. The procedure for revocation of the mediation license is conducted by the Commission for the Implementation of the Procedure for Revocation of the Mediation License, and the decision is made by the Minister upon the proposal of the Commission, which consists of one judge, one

Q67 (2024): The number of commercial, consumer and other cases has significantly increased compared to the previous cycle due to the fact that the Body for out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes was established at the Ministry of Trade, Tourism and Telecommunications. During the establishment of the Body, most of the mediators who were registered in the Register of mediators in the resolution of disputes, which is maintained by the Ministry of Justice, were also registered in the List of bodies for outof- court settlement of consumer disputes compiled and publicly published by the Ministry of Trade, Tourism and Telecommunications, thereby increasing the number of completed mediations related to commercial and consumer disputes.

Q67 (2023): The number of commercial, consumer and other cases has significantly increased compared to the previous cycle due to the fact that the Body for out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes was established at the Ministry of Trade, Tourism and Telecommunications. During the establishment of the Body, most of the mediators who were registered in the Register of mediators in the resolution of disputes, which is maintained by the Ministry of Justice, were also registered in the List of bodies for out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes compiled and publicly published by the Ministry of Trade, Tourism and Telecommunications, thereby increasing the number of completed mediations related to commercial and consumer disputes.
Q67-1 (General Comment): Various alternative dispute resolution methods stand at parties' disposal within the legal framework of Serbia, including mediation (judicial and non-judicial), conciliation and arbitration. To date, however, they are all underutilized. Nonetheless, in the last two years, a steady increase of mediation proceedings has been noted, followed by a strong support of mediation by the Ministry of Justice and Supreme Court of Cassation, and positive activities are noted in the field of arbitration, with the establishment of a new independent arbitration centre. Still, coordinated, joint, continued multi-annual efforts must be made to establish a viable and sustainable alternative dispute resolution system.
Having the above in mind, a strategic approach to improving the use of mediation has been initiated in August 2018, whereby the Ministry of Justice, recognising that increasing and improving mediation culture and mechanisms is not a task to be dealt with only by the judiciary and its respective Ministry, is addressing other line ministries and institutions, such as the National Bank of Serbia, Ministry of Trade and Ministry of Labour, so as to seek to together find best ways to improve the use and quality of mediation in the fields of their respective competences, and in that way, jointly to successfully answer to the benchmark given in that respect within Chapter 23.

Q65 (General Comment): Law on Mediation provides cases of mandatory mediation. In this regard, this Article provides: Article 9
Mandatory mediation
1. When parties submit a statement of claim before the court, regarding disputes deriving from family relations such as alimony, custody, visits, child support and division of marital property, the judge in the preliminary hearing, after the preliminary review of the indictment, must inform and oblige the parties to mediation procedure.
2. When parties file a statement of claim before a court regarding ownership contests related to rights and obligations deriving from the rights of servitudes and compensation of expropriated properties, the judge in the preliminary hearing, after the preliminary review, is obliged to inform and direct parties to mediation procedure.
3. Under such circumstances, the parties shall meet with a mediator, and will have thirty (30) days to try the commencement of mediation, starting from the day when the judge obliges the parties to try mediation.
4. Parties may chose not to continue with the mediation procedure and they can return to judicial proceedings, not longer than thirty (30) days.
5. Prior to returning the case in judicial proceedings, parties must provide a written evidence, signed by the parties and the mediator, proving that parties have tried mediation procedure.
6. Mandatory mediation does not deprive parties of their right to appear before the court, or employ arbitration procedure, and if no agreement is reached in the mediation procedure, the case shall be sent again to court or arbitration.
7. Parties are not obliged to reach an agreement through mediation against their free will.
Q65 (2024): Mandatory Mediation – refers to the mediation procedure initiated by the competent judge, who obliges the parties to attempt mediation as prescribed by this law.
Based on Article 9, paragraphs 1 and 2 of the Law on Mediation:
When the parties file a lawsuit in court regarding disputes arising from family relations, such as cases related to alimony, custody, visitation rights, child maintenance, and the division of marital property, the judge, during the preparatory session and after the preliminary review of the lawsuit, must inform and oblige the parties to undergo mediation.
When the parties file a lawsuit in court regarding property disputes involving rights and obligations related to servitude rights and compensation for expropriated property, the judge, during the preparatory session and after the preliminary review of the lawsuit, is required to inform and guide the parties toward the mediation procedure.

(General Comment): The civil and criminal procedure codes in Bosnia and Herzegovina foresee court-related mediation procedures.
Civil proceedings:
At the preparatory hearing at the latest, the court conducting the civil proceedings may, if it finds it appropriate with regard to the nature of the dispute and the circumstances, propose to the parties the resolution of the dispute through mediation proceedings, as prescribed by a separate law. The parties may jointly put forward such proposal until the conclusion of the main hearing.
The legislation on civil proceedings applies subsidiarily to administrative matters as well
Criminal proceedings:
The court may propose mediation through the mediator to the injured party and the accused or to the defense attorney in accordance with law, if the court considers that the claim under property law is such that it would be purposeful to refer it to the mediation. Injured party, accused and the defense attorney may propose referral to the mediation until the closing of the main trial. In les complex juvenile cases involving issuing educational recommendations (i. e. an apology to the injured party or compensation of damages to the injured party) a prosecutor or a judge may suggest the mediation between the offender and the injured party.

Serbia

(General Comment): The Law on Prevention of Harassment at Work ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 36/2010) provides that an employee who considers to be subjected to harassment at work („mobbed") by a person other than the employer themselves, director or other responsible person within the company can submit directly to the director/employer a reasoned application for initiation of proceedings for protection from harassment. The employer is then obliged under the law to propose to the parties in the dispute within three days upon receipt of the application mediation as a resolution of the dispute. Mediation proceedings in these cases are urgent. The mediation proceeding is considered terminated within eight working days after the date of the determination or choice of the mediator: 1) By signing of a written agreement between the disputed parties; 2) By a decision of the mediator, after consultation with the parties, to terminate the proceedings because further proceedings are not justified; 3) By a withdrawal statement of a disputed party from further proceedings. Due to justified reasons, the deadline for the completion of the mediation process can be extended to a maximum of 30 days from the date of determination or choice of the mediator. Also, a mandatory attempt at peaceful dispute resolution before initiating civil proceedings is prescribed in some Serbian laws (but not mediation per se). The Law on Compulsory Traffic Insurance ("Official Gazette RS", no. 51/2009, 78/2011, 101/2011, 93/2012 and 7/2013 – CC decision) provides that a person entitled to a claim under third party motor liability insurance must file the claim directly to the insurance company - if the contract provides for this possibility and if this is in accordance with the business policy of the insurance company. In case the insurance company fails to submit a reasoned offer of compensation for damages within 90 days from the date of claim receipt, or in case the insurance company fails to pay the small claim within the deadline, the claimant may file a lawsuit against the company and notify the National Bank of Serbia of such proceedings. Therefore, in this specific situation, the lawsuit is considered to be filed prematurely, unless the claimant previously addresses the insurance company in an attempt at out-of-court settlement.
Further, under the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code a person who intends to file a lawsuit for compensation for unlawful deprivation of liberty, or wrongful conviction, before the filing of the complaint, shall submit a request to the Ministry of Justice in order to agree on the existence of damage, the type and amount of compensation (Article 588, Paragraph 1 of the CPC). A Commission shall decide on the request, whose composition and method of work is regulated by the Minister of Justice (Article 588, Paragraph 2 of the CPC). A member of the Commission is also a Deputy SA. If the request is not granted or the Commission does not decide on the request within three months, a lawsuit may be filed against the Republic of Serbia (Article 589, Paragraph 1 of the CPC). If agreement is reached partially, related to the claim, the lawsuit may request the remaining part (Article 589, paragraph 2 of the CPC). During the duration of the procedure for reaching agreement, the statute of limitation is not running for the right to compensation under Article 591 (Article 589, paragraph 3 of the CPA). The work and results of these commissions show that the way settlement procedure is devised should be fundamentally revised.

property-related disputes whose subject is the fulfillment of an obligation to perform an act, in other property-related disputes, in family and commercial disputes, in administrative matters, disputes in the field of environmental protection, in consumer disputes, as well as in all other contentious relations in which mediation corresponds to the nature of the disputed relations and can help their resolution. The provisions of this law also apply to mediation in criminal and misdemeanor matters regarding property claims and claims for damages, as well as in labor disputes unless otherwise prescribed by a special law.
Article 9 of the same Law stipulates that the mediation procedure is conducted voluntarily, except in disputes in which the initiation of mediation proceedings is prescribed by a special law as a condition for conducting court or other proceedings. The court or other authority, which under a special law is obliged to inform the parties about the possibility of applying mediation, is required to provide all necessary information in order to fully inform the parties about the possibility of conducting mediation.
The Family Law ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 18/2005, 72/2011 – other law, and 6/2015) in Article 229 prescribes that the mediation procedure includes the procedure for attempting reconciliation and the procedure for attempting to end the dispute by agreement, while Article 230, paragraph 1, stipulates that mediation is regularly conducted alongside proceedings in a marital dispute initiated by a lawsuit filed by one of the spouses. Article 231 of the aforementioned Law prescribes that mediation, as a rule, is conducted by the court. Along with the summons for the mediation hearing, a lawsuit for annulment or divorce of marriage is also submitted.
The Civil Procedure Law (“Official Gazette of RS”, Nos. 72/11, 18/20, … 10/23), in Article 11 prescribes that the court shall refer the parties to mediation or to an informational hearing on mediation, in accordance with the law, or shall indicate to the parties the possibility of out-of-court settlement of the dispute through mediation or another agreed way, while in Article 305, paragraph 3, stipulates that the court shall inform the parties of their right to resolve the dispute through mediation.
The Criminal Procedure Code (“Official Gazette of RS”, No. 72/11…62/21) in Article 505 prescribes that before setting the main hearing for criminal offenses prosecuted under a private lawsuit, the judge shall summon the private prosecutor and the defendant to appear in court on a specified date in order to be informed about the possibility of referral to mediation proceedings.
If, during mediation, the private prosecutor and the defendant reach a settlement and the property claim is satisfied, the private lawsuit shall be considered withdrawn, and the judge shall issue a ruling dismissing the private complaint. In the case of an unsuccessful completion of the mediation procedure, the judge will schedule a main hearing after receiving notification of this.
Some courts in Serbia have established an Info-service to support alternative dispute resolution methods, which helps citizens and parties in the proceedings to familiarize themselves with the mediation process and resolve their dispute peacefully.

Albania

(2025): Law No. 10 385, dated 24.2.2011 “ON MEDIATION IN THE RESOLVING OF DISPUTES”, in its article 2, provides for the obligation of the court to notify the parties of the possibility of resolving the matter through mediation. Below we quote the article in question:
1. Mediation, according to this law, is applied to the resolution of disputes provided for in points 2 and 3 of this article, at any time that the parties to the conflict, of their own free will, request and accept mediation as an alternative to resolving the dispute, regardless of whether the dispute has been submitted to the body designated by law for its resolution. The provisions of this law are also applied in those cases when the court or the relevant state body, after initiating the resolution of the dispute, notifies and instructs the parties to mediation, according to points 4 and 5 of this article. 2. Mediation is applied to the resolution of all disputes in the field of civil, commercial, labor and family law, intellectual property, consumer rights, as well as disputes between public administration bodies and private entities. 3. Mediation in the criminal field applies to disputes that are examined by the court at the request of the accusing victim, or upon complaint of the injured party, according to articles 59 and 284 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, as well as in any case where a special law allows it. For mediation in criminal cases involving minors, the provisions of the Juvenile Criminal Justice Code shall apply. 4. The court or the relevant state body, within the powers provided for by law, shall be obliged to notify, instruct and, as the case may be, inform the parties in a clear and understandable manner about the resolution by mediation, in particular, but not limited to, of disputes: a) In civil and family matters, when the interests of minors are intertwined; b) In matters of reconciliation in cases of marriage dissolution, provided for by Article 134 of the Family Code; c) Of a property nature, related to property rights or co-ownership, division of property, lawsuits for the recovery of property, for denial lawsuits and lawsuits for the cessation of infringement of possession, disputes arising from non-fulfillment of contractual obligations, as well as those that have as their object the compensation of non-contractual damage. 5. In the case of disputes in the criminal field, when criminal proceedings have commenced, the court shall compulsorily notify and instruct the parties for the mediation resolution of the disputes provided for in point 3 of this article. 6. If the parties have stipulated in a written contract or agreement that mediation will be the first alternative for resolving the conflict, prior to the judicial one, the court shall not consider the case without this condition being applied. 7. For matters related to procedures not regulated by this law, in the mediation activity, to the extent possible, the legal provisions regulating other procedures shall apply, taking into account the legal nature of the case. 8. The provisions of this law shall apply, to the extent possible, also to the mediation procedure for resolving disputes in cases where only one of the parties has his/her residence in the Republic of Albania.

Law No. 10385, dated 24.02.2011, "On Mediation in Dispute Resolution", along with amendments, regulates mediation procedures and establishes when mediation is encouraged or required.
1. Family Disputes:
   - In cases of divorce, child custody, and parental responsibilities, courts often require parties to attend an informative session with a mediator before proceeding with litigation.
   - Mediation is encouraged in disputes over alimony, property division, and visitation rights.
2. Commercial Disputes:
   - Certain commercial disputes, particularly those related to contractual obligations and business partnerships, may involve mandatory mediation sessions before resorting to court.
3. Labor Disputes:
   - Disputes between employers and employees, such as wrongful termination or discrimination cases, often involve mediation as a first step before court proceedings.
4. Civil Disputes:
   - Some civil cases involving compensation claims, property conflicts, and contractual disagreements may require an informative session about mediation as an alternative to court.
5. Penal Disputes:
   - Some penall cases involving compensation claims, article 59 Code of Penal Procedure are 13 caces and article 284 11 cases , and contractual disagreements may require an informative session about mediation as an alternative to court.

Serbia

(General Comment): Family law provides that upon being served the action for annulment or divorce of marriage, the court shall schedule a hearing for conciliation/settlement, which is held only before a sole judge. The judge is under the obligation to recommend the spouses to undergo psycho-social counselling and will at the proposal of the spouses or with their consent entrust mediation to the competent guardianship authority, marriage or family counselling service, or other institution specialised in mediation in family relations (Article 232). The Law on Social Protection ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia" No.24/2011) also provides mediation as a community based social service falling in the counselling-therapeutic and social-educational group of services, also irrespective of court proceedings (in Centers for Social Work of local municipalities). The procedural legal framework has been adopted in order to allow for certain elements of mediation in penal matters. Namely, pursuant to Article 505 of the Criminal Procedure Code ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 72/2011, 101/2011, 121/2012, 32/2013, 45/2013 i 55/2014), before scheduling a trial in connection with criminal offences which are prosecutable by private prosecution, the judge shall summon the private prosecutor and the defendant to the court on a certain date to be informed about the possibility of being referred to a mediation procedure. The Criminal Code ("Official Gazette of RS", Nos. 85/2005, 88/2005, 107/2005, 72/2009, 111/2009, 121/2012, 104/2013, 108/2014 i 94/2016)) also provides a possibility of settlement between the offender and the victim (Article 59). Namely, the court may remit from punishment the perpetrator of a criminal offence punishable by up to three years' imprisonment or a fine if the offender has fulfilled all his/her obligations from an agreement reached with the victim. Therefore, according to previously mentioned provisions, in these matters the only eligible public authority is the court)which can be explained by the very nature of the proceedings).
The Law on Consumer Protection ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 62/2014, 6/2016 and 44/2018) provides two manners of out-court settlement of consumer disputes: mediation (in accordance with the law that regulates mediation in Serbia) and arbitration. Parties in the consumer dispute may assign the resolution of the consumer dispute to one or more mediators chosen from the list of mediators, in accordance with the Law on Mediation.

(General Comment): In order to promote mediation, mediators have since 2016 provided mediation services in courts pro bono. Likewise, a judge cannot charge fees for conducting mediation.
The Law on Mediation in Dispute Resolution provides for certain monetary incentives in case of reaching an agreement to resolve the dispute through mediation after the judicial or other proceedings have been initiated and before the conclusion of the first hearing for the main trial, such as that the parties may be exempt from court or administrative fees, in accordance with the law which regulates court and administrative fees (Article 31). The Parliament has enacted the Law on Amendments and Supplements to the Law on Court Fees ("Official Gazette of RS", no. 95/2018), which further encourages parties to resolve their disputes by amicable means, through mediation, negotiated settlement, court settlement or any other amicable way. These amendments, which are applicable from 1 January 2019, postpone the collection of court fees in order to leave the parties the opportunity to once again consider the amicable resolution of the dispute, once the court proceedings have been initiated. Through these provisions, the state offers financial incentives to the parties to consider other viable dispute resolution options early in the court proceedings by exempting them from paying all relevant court fees if they achieve a settlement by the time of the first hearing. Regarding general exemption from court fees please see comment to Q17.

Albania

(2025): The activity of mediation may be carried out either by a natural person or a legal entity, subject to prior licensing and registration in the Register of Mediators. The mediator's license is granted on a nominative and individual basis to each person who fulfills the legal requirements for licensing and registration as a mediator.
Law No. 10385, dated 24 February 2011 "On Mediation in the Resolution of Disputes", as amended, stipulates under Article 5 the conditions that must be satisfied in order to be certified as a mediator.
The requirements for licensing as a mediator are as follows:
1. An Albanian citizen shall cumulatively fulfill the following conditions in order to be licensed as a mediator:
a) Must have completed second-cycle (Master's level) studies in accordance with the legislation on higher education;
b) Must have attained the age of 28;
b/1) Must possess no less than three years of professional experience;
c) Must not have been convicted of intentional criminal offences by a final and binding court decision;
ç) Must have successfully passed the mediator qualification examination upon completion of the initial training program.
Point (a) of Article 5 of Law No. 10385, dated 24 February 2011, as amended, refers to "second-cycle study programs" without prescribing a specific academic background. Nevertheless, mediators handling cases involving the interests of minors are required to possess appropriate qualifications and specialization in the relevant fields and, preferably, hold degrees in psychology, law, or social work. Likewise, mediators dealing with disputes of a commercial nature should possess the relevant qualifications and specialization and, preferably, hold degrees in law, economics, or engineering.
One of the principal requirements is the successful completion of the mediator qualification examination following the completion of the initial training program.
The initial and continuous training programs for mediators are provided at least once per year by the National Chamber of Mediators. The initial training may also be delivered by accredited higher education institutions, provided that their programs receive prior approval from the Ministry of Justice.
Upon completion of the initial training program, the mediator qualification examination is administered. This examination is organized at least once per year by the Ministry of Justice in cooperation with the National Chamber of Mediation.
Upon successfully completing both the initial training program and the qualification examination, the mediator is entitled to submit the required documentation to the Minister of Justice for the issuance of the mediator's license.
The Minister of Justice shall, within 45 days from the submission of the licensing application, grant licenses to applicants who meet the conditions set forth in Article 5 of this Law for the exercise of mediation activity. Such licensed individuals shall subsequently be registered with the tax authorities in accordance with the

Article 33

A mediator is a natural person who, in an independent, neutral and impartial manner, mediates between the parties in a disputed relationship.

A person must meet the following requirements to perform the work of an intermediary:

1) that it is capable of doing business;

2) that he is a citizen of the Republic of Serbia;

3) that it has completed the basic training for a mediator;

4) to have a university degree;

5) that he has not been sentenced to an unconditional prison sentence for a criminal offense that makes him unfit to perform mediation work;

6) to have a license to mediate;

7) that it is registered in the Register of Intermediaries.

In certain areas, the law may prescribe special conditions for mediation.

In international mediation and mediation in cross-border disputes, the mediator can also be a foreign citizen, provided that he is authorized to engage in mediation in another country, under the condition of reciprocity.

A mediator can also be a citizen of a member state, provided that he is authorized to engage in mediation in a member state.

Judges can mediate exclusively outside of working hours and without compensation.

The procedure for issuing a license for mediation

Article 36

Issuing a license for mediation is a procedure in which it is determined whether a person meets the conditions for performing mediation prescribed by this law.

License to mediate

Article 37

A license for mediation is a public document confirming that a person meets the requirements for mediation.

The right to obtain a license for mediation is granted to a person who fulfills the requirements from Article 33, paragraph 2, point. 1) to 5) and paragraph 3 of this law.

The mediation license is issued for the first time with a validity period of three years, and when it is renewed, it is issued for a period of five years.

The work permit form is prescribed by the minister.

Renewal of the mediation license

(2025): In the Republic of Serbia, the conditions and procedure for obtaining the status of a mediator are regulated by the Law on Mediation in Dispute Resolution (Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia, No. 55/2014). This law prescribes both the basic conditions that a candidate must meet, and the procedure for obtaining, renewing and revoking a license. A mediator can only be a natural person who acts independently, impartially and neutrally between the parties to the dispute. In order for a person to be able to perform mediation work, he or she must meet several conditions. First of all, he or she must have business capacity and citizenship of the Republic of Serbia (except in the case of international and cross-border mediation, where he or she may also be a foreign citizen under the condition of reciprocity). The candidate must have completed basic training for a mediator, as well as higher education, i.e. a university degree. Also, he/she must not have been sentenced to an unconditional prison sentence for a criminal offense that makes him/her unfit to practice mediation. In addition to the above conditions, it is necessary for the person to obtain a mediation license and to be entered in the Register of Mediators maintained by the competent ministry. Only by fulfilling these conditions does the person acquire the status of a registered mediator.

The procedure for obtaining a license is initiated by submitting an application to the competent ministry. In this procedure, it is determined whether the candidate meets all the requirements prescribed by law. If the requirements are met, a mediation license is issued, which is a public document confirming that the person is qualified to practice mediation. The first license is issued for a period of three years.

After obtaining the license, the mediator is entered in the Register of Mediators maintained by the Ministry of Justice. This register contains basic information about the mediator (name, surname, professional qualifications, title, occupation, as well as educational information, contact telephone number, e-mail, etc.), and is publicly available on the ministry's website. Registration in the register of mediators maintained by the Ministry of Justice is a mandatory requirement for practicing mediation.

The license has a limited validity period, and its renewal is required if the person meets the conditions for renewal of the license stipulated by the Law. The application for renewal is submitted before the expiration of the license. In order for the license to be renewed, the mediator must, in addition to the basic requirements, also meet additional criteria: at least ten hours of professional development per year and at least five mediations conducted during the license validity period. Compliance with the code of ethics and legal obligations is also valued. A renewed license is valid for five years.

In the event that a mediator no longer meets the prescribed conditions or does not act in accordance with the law, his license will be revoked, and a decision will be made to remove him from the register of mediators. If the conditions stipulated in Article 33 of the Law cease to exist or the person violates the Code of Ethics and other regulations, a request may be submitted for the revocation of the mediator's license and removal from the register of mediators. The Commission checks the facts relating to the fulfillment of the conditions for performing mediation activities, i.e. whether the mediator complies with the rules of procedure in the mediation procedure in accordance with the Law. The procedure for revocation of the mediation license is conducted by the Commission for the Implementation of the Procedure for Revocation of the Mediation License, and the decision is made by the Minister upon the proposal of the Commission, which consists of one judge, one

(2025): The decrease in the number of mediation cases initiated in 2025 is primarily the result of amendments to the Law on Alternative Dispute Resolution ("Official Gazette of Montenegro", No.77/20 and 53/25), which introduced changes to the procedural framework for initiating mediation proceedings, particularly in the area of labour disputes. These amendments affected the inflow of new mediation cases during the reporting period.
At the same time, during 2025 the Centre also focused on the clearance of backlog cases from previous years, which resulted in a significantly higher number of completed mediations cases compared to newly initiated proceedings. For this reason, the number of completed mediations (4,265) exceeded the number of initiated mediations during the same year (1,664), taking into account that a portion of the completed cases originated from previous years.
In addition, certain deviations also arise from methodological approaches to the recording and classification of cases by type of dispute, as well as from updates to the case records during the reporting period, which may affect the comparability of data with the previous reporting cycle.
With regard to labour disputes, the decrease of newly initiated mediations is particularly noticeable and is directly linked to the reduced inflow of cases during 2025, while the number of completed proceedings also includes cases transferred from previous periods.
Therefore, the decrease in the number of mediation cases in 2025 is a consequence of amendments to the legislative framework, changes in the dynamics of incoming cases, particularly in labour disputes, as well as the Centre's focus on resolving backlog cases from previous years.
The number of completed mediations is higher than the number of newly initiated proceedings because completed cases also include cases carried over from previous years.
The comparability of the data was also partially affected by methodological changes in the recording and classification of cases during the reporting period.

(2024): Note: some of data not available comparing to previous cycle due to changed methodology for annual report for 2024 of the Centre for alternative disputes.
Civil and commercial cases include also low value disputes, law suites against state and municipalities, insurance disputes, property related disputes etc.
For court related mediations we only have a number of total initiated in 2024 which is 907
NOTE: decrease of cases of mediation for 2024 comparing to 2023 is due to the fact that high number of claims on 8 January 2024 became statute-barred in accordance to the law.

(2023): The total number of proposed mediations to the Center for Alternative Dispute Resolution in 2023 was 20960 out of which 11784 cases were ongoing.1528 cases were those that was sent by court for mediation. The Law provides conditions when mediation is obligatory before going to court and when the court refers parties to mediation. That is why statistics on agreement of parties is not available as precise. In comparison to the year 2022 there were 30 percent more settlement

(General Comment): Arbitration

The arbitration is also available in the legal provisions , as an alternative measure of judicial procedures in the field of commercial law. The Arbitration in North Macedonia exists since 1993, The value of disputes resolved through arbitration varies from a few thousand to several million Euros. - Conciliation

There are a significant number of legal grounds that allow friendly settlement of disputes, both before and out-of-court proceedings.

The court settlement

The court settlement is provided in the Law on Litigation Procedure whereby the parties during the course of the whole procedure can settle upon the subject of the dispute. This is one type of judicial mediation. The settlement is concluded on minutes (no court decision) and the parties sign the minutes voluntarily. Although there is no formal court decision, the concluded court settlement is considered res judicata and the parties do not have the possibility to file a dispute again before the court for the same thing. Each party shall bear their own costs when the procedure is completed with a court settlement, if in the settlement is not otherwise agreed.

- According to the Law on Criminal Procedure for offences subject to private prosecution, the judge may summon only the private prosecutor and the defendant to a conciliation hearing if he considers it expedient for the prompt termination of proceedings. On the conciliation hearing the judge may propose the private prosecutor and the defendant to be sent to mediation, if it is agreed by both parties, whilst the settlement reached in front of a mediator shall be submitted to the court, who

(General Comment): Various alternative dispute resolution methods stand at parties' disposal within the legal framework of Serbia, including mediation (judicial and non-judicial), conciliation and arbitration. To date, however, they are all underutilized. Nonetheless, in the last two years, a steady increase of mediation proceedings has been noted, followed by a strong support of mediation by the Ministry of Justice and Supreme Court of Cassation, and positive activities are noted in the field of arbitration, with the establishment of a new independent arbitration centre. Still, coordinated, joint, continued multi-annual efforts must be made to establish a viable and sustainable alternative dispute resolution system.

Having the above in mind, a strategic approach to improving the use of mediation has been initiated in August 2018, whereby the Ministry of Justice, recognising that increasing and improving mediation culture and mechanisms is not a task to be dealt with only by the judiciary and its respective Ministry, is addressing other line ministries and institutions, such as the National Bank of Serbia, Ministry of Trade and Ministry of Labour, so as to seek to together find best ways to improve the use and quality of mediation in the fields of their respective competences, and in that way, jointly to successfully answer to the benchmark given in that respect within Chapter 23.

Q51 (2025): Dissemination of the ECHR case-law is also carried out within public institutions when a case raises issues that are relevant to the mandate or activities of a specific institution.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

Q51 (General Comment): Information/dissemination of the ECHR case law within the judicial system

The ECHR case law is part of annual training programs of both judicial training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina, which are responsible for training of judges and prosecutors in two different entities within the state. Each of these institutions is responsible for the provision of training of both judges and prosecutors.

The training regarding the ECHR case law includes: 1) training sessions solely focusing on human rights standards and ECHR case law

2) training sessions that are primarily focused on national law, but is complimented with information of ECHR case law

3) specialized three year program on ECHR standards and case law, with topics ranging from introduction to ECHR, principles of ECHR application, procedural human rights' issues, etc.

4) online learning through access to HELP courses, including the ones with national tutoring.

The training is offered and tailored to the needs of different training groups, starting from interns, judicial and prosecutorial associates, lawyers, law students, newly appointed judges and prosecutors, but also for more experienced judges and prosecutors.

The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina publishes online the ECHR case law. Information is accessible through High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina's specialized web site for knowledge sharing, which is updated weekly. The selection of cases to be disseminated is done in cooperation with the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina. All updates are in local languages. This online publication mechanism makes it possible that judiciary and public in general have easy access to the ECHR decisions few days after they are adopted. Example of the information provided can be found at the following link: Praksa Europskog suda za ljudska prava od 21. i 23. listopada 2025. godine. The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina also ensures public access to information on development of the ECHR case law through the abovementioned web site. This information is prepared by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina on quarterly bases in cooperation with the Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina; its content is drawn from the information prepared by the ECHR Jurisconsult. Examples of the quarterly information on the ECHR case law are available at the following link: Kategorije vijesti | pravosudje.ba Furthermore, reports containing the ECHR case law are regularly distrubuted by HJPC's Department to entire judicial community, but also to law faculties and bar associations operating in Bosnia and Herzegovina, ensuring transparent knowledge sharing and equality of arms. They are distributed mostly on weekly basis via e-mail together with the case law of highest instance courts in Bosnia and Herzegovina. With regards to the question on which institution is competent to disseminate the case law of the European Court of Human Rights, there is an Article 7, paragraph 2 of the Decision on the Representative/Agent of the Council of Ministers of Bosnia and Herzegovina before the European Court of Human Rights and the Office of the Representative/Agent of the Council of Ministers of Bosnia and Herzegovina before the European Court of Human Rights (BiH Official Gazette of BiH, nos. 41/03, 65/05, 22/19, and 36/21), which prescribes that final judgments of the European Court of Human Rights are published in the BiH Official Gazette and formally delivered to the bodies in Bosnia and Herzegovina found to have violated certain rights protected by the European Convention on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and its Additional Protocols, as well as to the bodies competent for the enforcement of the final judgment.

Serbia
Q51 (2025): Decisions of the European Court of Human Rights concerning Serbia are published on the websites of the Judicial Academy, the Representative of the RS before the ECtHR, the "Official Gazette of the RS" and the website of the Supreme Court. Also, all decisions and excerpts from judgments with comments are published in the Bulletin of the Supreme Court.
Regarding the reopening of proceedings –
Civil proceedings - According to the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code one of the reasons for reopening of the proceedings is a violation of the human rights found by the ECtHR. It is provided that "…. If the party is afforded the opportunity to use a judgment of the European Court of Human Rights finding a violation of human rights, which may have had the effect of a more favourable decision" (Article 426(1) (11)).
The deadline for submission of a motion for reopening is 60 days from the date on which the party was able to use the final decision which is the reason for the reopening of the proceedings (Article 428(1) (4)). Criminal proceedings - The Criminal Procedure Code stipulates that the request for protection of legality may be filed by the Republic Public Prosecutor, the defendant and his defense counsel (ArtIcle 483 (1)). The Supreme Court of Cassation shall decide upon this legal remedy.
One of the reasons for submission of a request for the protection of legality is that the human rights and freedoms of the defendant or other participant in the proceedings, guaranteed by the Constitution or the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and additional protocols, have been violated or denied, as found by the Constitutional Court decision or by the Judgment of the European Court of Human Rights. (Article 485 (1) (3)).
Misdemeanour proceedings - The Law on Misdemeanours also provides for the possibility of reopening following the ECtHR judgment. A request for a retrial may be filed, inter alia, when the defendant was afforded the opportunity to use a decision of the ECtHR finding a violation of human rights, which may have had the effect of a more favourable decision on the defendant (Article 280 (1) (5)).
Administrative disputes - The Law on Administrative Disputes stipulates as one of the reasons for reopening of the proceedings that the proceedings concluded by a final judgment or decision will be reopened upon the party's action "if the finding from a subsequently rendered decision of the European Court of Human Rights in the same matter may have an impact on the lawfulness of finally concluded judicial proceedings" (Article 56(1),(7)).
Similarly, by the Law on General Administrative proceedings reopening could be granted if the ECtHR in the same administrative matter found that the rights or freedoms of the applicant were violated (Art. 176, para 1.12).

Kosovo*

Q51 (2025): The Constitution of Kosovo in Article 22 foresees International Agreements and Instruments that are applied directly to our national order. In this regards, the (1) Universal Declaration of Human Rights; (2) European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and its Protocols; (3) International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and its Protocols; (4) Council of Europe Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities; (5) Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination; (6) Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women; (7) Convention on the Rights of the Child; (8) Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhumane or Degrading Treatment or Punishment; (9) Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence.
ECHR case law is part of the judge's and public prosecutors' training.
ECHR case law is applied directly by the Constitutional Court and can be applied by the regular courts as well.
Constitution of Kosovo provides that citizens of Kosovo have the right to submit a case before the constitutional court after all legal remedies are exhausted, or directly if there are no effective legal remedies available. In this regard, the Court can decide to return the case to regular courts, or to establish the right to claim damages before regular courts.

Q222 (General Comment): As for the election and appointmend of the members who are not judges or prosecuters the constitutions provides that 5 members are elected by the Assembly in a procedures prescribed by the constitutions and law. Two lay members are elected from the ranks of advocates, two members from the corps of pedagogues of law faculties and the School of Magistrates and one member from civil society. Hence, in the response to the questions, each of these options has been completed.
The procedure for electing laymembers is as follows:
2. The High Judicial Council shall be composed of 11 members, six of which are elected by the judges of all levels of the judicial power and five members are elected by the Assembly among the ranks of lawyers who are not judges.
3. The judge members shall be selected from the ranks of judges of high moral and professional integrity in accordance with an open and transparent procedure that ensures a fair representation of all levels of the judiciary. The lay members shall be selected among the ranks of prominent jurists, with not less than 15 years of professional experience, of high moral and professional integrity. They should not have held political posts in the public administration or leadership positions in a political party in the last past 10 years before running as candidates. Further criteria and the procedure for selecting the candidates shall be regulated by law.
4. Two lay members shall be elected from the ranks of advocates, two members from the corps of pedagogues of law faculties and the School of Magistrates, and one member from civil society. The Secretary General of the Assembly, based on an open and transparent procedure, shall announce the vacancies in accordance with the law.
5. The Secretary General of the Assembly, not later than 10 days from the submission candidatures, shall verify if the candidates fulfil the criteria foreseen in the Constitution and the law and shall assess the professional and moral criteria for the member of the High Judicial Council and shall prepare the list. In case the candidates do not fulfil the criteria and conditions to be elected, the Secretary General of the Assembly shall not include their names in the list.
6. The Secretary General of the Assembly, upon completion of the verification, shall immediately send the list of candidates who fulfil the formal criteria to the parliamentary subcommittee, in accordance with paragraph 7 of this article. 7. The standing committee responsible for legal affairs in the Assembly shall establish a subcommittee for the further assessment and selection of candidates not later than three days from the submission of the list. The subcommittee is composed of five members of the Assembly, three members nominated by the parliamentary majority and two by the parliamentary minority. The subcommittee may, with at least four votes, include in the list of candidates even those who have been excluded from the list by the Secretary General of the Assembly for failure to comply with formal requirements. The subcommittee shall select the candidates with the support of at least 4 members. In case the required majority cannot be reached, the candidates shall be selected by lot.
8. The names of the candidates selected by the subcommittee are consolidated into one list and sent to the Speaker of the Assembly. Within ten days, the Assembly shall approve the list of candidates by two-thirds of all the members. In case the list is rejected, the procedure shall be repeated in the subcommittee under paragraph 7 of this Article, but not more than two times. In case the Assembly shall, after conducting the procedure for the third time, not approve the presented list, the candidates of this list shall be deemed elected. Detailed procedures shall be regulated by law.
9. The Chairperson of the High Judicial Council shall be elected at the first meeting of the Council from among the lay members in accordance with the law. 10. Members of the High

Q223 (2025): Section 1, articles 7 to 58 of Law no 115/2016 “For Governing Bodies of the Justice System”, foresees the procedure of appointment of members of the High Judicial Council.Based on the Law no. 115/2016 “On the governance institutions of the justice system”, as amended, the High Prosecutorial Council is a collegial body, consisting of eleven members. Six of the Council members are prosecutors from all levels of the prosecution. The General Meeting of Prosecutors of all levels elects 6 members of the High Prosecutorial Council, according to the following report:
a) three of the elected are first instance prosecutors. At least 1 of them is a prosecutor in a prosecutor's office at the court of first instance outside Tirana;
b) two of the elected are prosecutors of the prosecution offices of the courts of appeal, including the Special Prosecution Office for the fight against corruption and organized crime. At least 1 of them is a prosecutor in a prosecutor's office at an appellate court outside Tirana;
c) one of the elected members is a prosecutor at the General Prosecutors Office.
The General Prosecutor announces the call for the expression of interest by prosecutors interested in the position of a member of the High Prosecutorial Council. Within 15 days of the announcement of the call for the expression of interest, the concerned prosecutors shall express their interest in a written request to the General Prosecutor. Within the deadline for submission of expressions of interest, the General Prosecutors Office shall verify the fulfilment of the conditions by the candidates, according to the provisions of this law. Appeals against decisions to exclude candidates only for serious procedural violations are made to the Administrative Court of Appeal no later than 5 days from the date of notification of the decision.
Not later than two months before the expiry of the term of office of the Prosecuting Members of the High Prosecutorial Council in office, the General Prosecutor convenes the General Meeting of Prosecutors of all levels to elect the members of the Council. The voting for the election of members of the High Prosecutorial Council from the General Meeting of Prosecutors is secret and individual. At the conclusion of the voting process, under the responsibility of the Prosecutor General, members of the voting committee open the ballot boxes in the presence of all prosecutors attending the meeting, count the votes and announce the preliminary election result.
Complaints for violation of procedure related to convening the General Meeting of Prosecutors, verification of participation, voting and counting of votes, ascertaining and declaring invalid and declaring the result during the General Meeting of Prosecutors for the election of Council members of the High Prosecutor's Office shall be filed with the Administrative Court of Appeal no later than 5 days from the day the decision is published on the official website of the General Prosecutor's Office. For the election of the five members coming from the academic field (2 members), bar association (2 members) and civil society organisations (1 member), the Law “On the governance institutions of the justice system”, as amended has established detailed procedures for the verification and evaluation of candidates. In the preliminary assessment process are included bodies such as the National Chamber of Advocacy, the People's Advocate, the faculties of Law and the School of Magistrates as well as civil society organizations.
The candidates presented by the above mentioned bodies are reviewed by the Assembly which decides finally the selected candidates.

Bosnia and Herzegovina

Q222 (General Comment): There is a single regulatory body in Bosnia and Herzegovina (BiH), the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC), which is responsible for all judges, as well as prosecutors in BiH. The HJPC was established by the Law on the HJPC as an independent and autonomous body, with the task of ensuring the maintenance of an independent, impartial and professional judiciary.
The independence of the HJPC is ensured through the autonomous status of this body, which is not in a hierarchical relationship with the legislative or executive authority, nor is a part of the state administration system.
The independence of the institution is reflected in the structure of the HJPC members, as well as in a system in which they are elected.
Out of the 15 HJPC members, 11 members are judges and prosecutors elected by their colleagues. The other 4 members of the HJPC are elected by the legislative and executive authority of BiH and the two Entity Bar Chambers.
The HJPC consists of 15 members as follows:
1. one (1) member who is a judge from the Court of BiH, elected by the judges of that Court;
2. one (1) member who is a judge from the Supreme Court of the Federation of BiH, elected by the judges of that Court;
3. one (1) member who is a judge from the Supreme Court of the Republika Srpska, elected by the judges of that 4. one (1) member who is a judge from either a Cantonal or Municipal level court from the Federation of BiH, elected by the Cantonal and
Municipal court judges;
5. one (1) member who is a judge from a District or Basic level court of the Republika Srpska, elected by the district and basic courts
judges (including judges of the Higher Commercial and District Commercial Courts in RS);
6. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from the Prosecutor's Office of BiH, elected by the prosecutors of that Office;
7. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from the Prosecutor's Office of the Federation of BiH, elected by the prosecutors of that Office;
8. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from the Prosecutor's Office of the Republika Srpska, elected by the prosecutors of that Office;
9. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from a Cantonal level prosecutor's office of the Federation of BiH, elected by the Cantonal prosecutors;
10. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from a District level prosecutor's office of the Republika Srpska, elected by the district prosecutors;
11. one (1) member who is a judge or prosecutor elected by the Brcko District of BiH Judicial Commission;
(Judges/prosecutors members are appointed by Other: The process for selection of the HJPC members from the members of judiciary is conducted at all levels of the judiciary in BiH. The judges and prosecutors elect their representatives directly at the respective levels. Selections are conducted within the courts and prosecutor's offices of a certain level, with an exception with regard to one segment of the judiciary (i e Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina), within which one HJPC member (i.e. judge or prosecutor) is not elected directly by the judges and prosecutors, but by the Brcko District Judicial Commission. The elected member may be a judge of the Brcko District Court of Appeal or Basic Court, or a prosecutor of the Brcko District Prosecutor's Office.)

When exercising its competence under this paragraph, the Council shall seek a written opinion of the

Q228 (General Comment): Annual reporting:
In accordance with Article 17, item 27 of the Law on the HJPC BiH, the Council shall, not later than 1 May each year, prepare an annual report documenting its activities and describing the state of the judiciary and prosecutorial authority, including recommendations for improvement. The report shall be delivered to the Parliamentary Assembly of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Council of Ministers of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Parliament of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Cantonal Parliaments, the National Assembly of Republika Srpska, the State and Entity Ministries of Justice, and the Assembly of Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina for information. The report shall be available to the public.
Publishing Reasoned Decisions: In accordance with the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of BiH, decisions on the appointment of judges and prosecutors, which contain reasoning on the application of appointment criteria, are published on the website of the HJPC of BiH. Decisions of the disciplinary commissions of the HJPC of BiH made in disciplinary proceedings against judges and prosecutors are also published on the HJPC BiH website, after prior anonymization.
Other: 1. On the website of the HJPC BiH, announcements are published about the scheduled sessions of the HJPC BiH, with the planned agenda of each session, as well as announcements about the adopted conclusions and decisions that the HJPC BiH has made at each session.
2. In accordance with the HJPC Law (Article 14), the HJPC BiH acts and decides as a single body. Decisions are made by a majority vote of the members present and voting. The quorum requires the presence of at least 11 the HJPC BiH members. In matters on which the votes are divided, a vote shall be taken by roll call of the members, and the vote of the President or the Vice-President has the casting vote. In a case that the HJPC BiH member who is present but abstains from voting, it will be deemed to have cast an abstention vote, and this abstention vote will not be included in the vote count. The HJPC BiH may delegate certain decisions within its jurisdiction, with the exception of appointment decisions, to standing committees. The powers of standing committees to make decisions relate to less complex issues (eg simpler queries on compatibility of functions, opinions on laws that are not systemic and organizational and do not regulate the status of judicial office holders, shorter absences from office etc). In disciplinary proceedings against judges and prosecutors, decisions are taken by the competent disciplinary commissions, as well as by the HJPC BiH when in the third instance, the HJPC BiH decides on appeal against the decision of the second instance disciplinary commission. Members of the First Instance and the Second Instance Disciplinary Committees have the right to participate in the decision making process of the HJPC BiH a whole, unless their exemption is requested for reasons other than their earlier participation in the decision on the same matter. In accordance with the Rules of Procedure of the HJPC BiH, the HJPC BiH members are required to inform the President of the HJPC BiH on any possible conflict of interest it may arise during their work, and must state the reasons for the exemption in writing or orally in the minutes of the HJPC BiH session. If any the HJPC BiH member considers that another member should be exempted from participating in the proceedings, he/she informs the President of the HJPC BiH on that issue. In accordance with the HJPC Law (Article 10a) a conflict of interest for a HJPC Member shall be deemed to exist when a HJPC BiH member or his/her blood relative in direct line of descent, the child of the spouse, a spouse or a civil-law partner, adoptive parent and adopted child, applies for a vacant position in the judiciary including the Constitutional Court of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Constitutional Court of Republika Srpska or a vacant position of a chief disciplinary counsel and Q229 (General Comment): In accordance with Article 17, item 27 of the Law on the HJPC BiH, the Council provides its opinion on complaints submitted by a judge or prosecutor who considers that his/her rights established by this or another law, or his/her independence, are endangered. These opinions are issued in order to identify threats to the independence of judicial institutions, that is holders of judicial functions, and to publicize it, as well as to invite relevant participants to refrain from further activities that threaten the independence of the judiciary. The Law does not provide for sanctions that the Council may impose in these situations.

The criminal laws in BiH contain chapters dedicated to the judiciary. The object of the criminal protection of this group of crimes is the functioning of the judiciary. The main objective of the prescribed criminals is to ensure and protect the independence of the judiciary and the legitimate work of the judiciary and other bodies. Most of the offenses in this group relate to endangering the criminal proceedings, endangering the smooth conduct of criminal proceedings and executing the criminal sanctions, ie protecting the special categories of subjects in criminal proceedings.
The criminal laws contain provisions by which obstruction of the judiciary is criminalized (eg. Article 241 of the Criminal Code BiH, Article 339 of the Criminal Code RS, 358, 359, 359a of the Criminal Code FBiH, Articles 352, 353 of the Criminal Code BD BiH) in such a way that attacks, threats or intimidation of a judge or prosecutor in connection with the exercise of judicial or prosecutorial duties, are prescribed as criminal offenses.

A judge may also be elected as a member of the Council if he or she is supported by at least 20 judges according to the type and level of the court in which he or she serves as a judge (Article 26). A judge may support only one candidate.

Q223 (2025): Comment by HJC:
The Law on High Judicial Council („Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia“ No.10/ 23) prescribed that the Council has 11 members. The members of the Council are six judges elected by the judges, four prominent lawyers elected by the National Assembly and the president of the Supreme Court, as a member elected according to function.
The Council has a president of the Council who is elected by the Council from among the elected members of the Council who are judges, for a term of five years, and the vice president of the Council who is elected from among the members elected by the National Assembly for a term of five years.
The procedure for the election of Council members is regulated by Law on High Judicial Council.
According to the Law on High Judicial Council (Article 26), elective members of the Council from the ranks of judges are elected from the following courts: one from the Supreme Court; one from the Appellate courts and the Administrative Court; one from the Higher courts; one of the Commercial courts and the Commercial Appellate Court; one of the Basic courts and one from the Misdemeanour courts and the Misdemeanour Appellate Court. Any judge can be a candidate for a member of the Council from the rank of judges.
A judge nominated by a session of all judges of one or more courts according to the type and level of the court in which the judge performs judicial function can be elected as a member of the Council.
A session of all judges of a court can propose only one candidate.
At the meeting of all judges, the proposed candidate is voted on secretly.
A judge who is supported by at least 20 judges according to the type and level of the court in which he/she performs the judicial function can be elected as a member of the Council. A judge can support only one candidate.
As an exception, a candidate for an elective member of the Council from the rank of judges of the Supreme Court, the Misdemeanour Appellate Court, the Commercial Appellate Court and the Administrative Court acquires the status of a candidate by submitting an application.
The president of the court and acting president of the court cannot be a candidate for a member of the Council (Article 27).
The Law on High Judicial Council from Article 43 to Article 53 stipulates the procedure for election of non-judicial members of the Council in a transparent and merit-based manner. The National Assembly elects four members of the Council from prominent lawyers with at least ten years of experience in the legal profession from eight candidates proposed by the National Assembly's committee responsible for the judiciary, after a public competition, with the votes of two-thirds of all MPs. (Article 43) the National Assembly's Committee organizes a public hearing for the purpose of presenting candidates, which is attended by representatives of the general and professional public. (Article 50) If the National Assembly does not elect all the members of the Council to be elected within the stipulated period by law, the remaining members of the Council, from among all the candidates who meet the conditions for election, are elected by a commission consisting of the President of the National Assembly, the President of the Constitutional Court, the President of the Supreme court, the Supreme Public Prosecutor and the Ombudsperson, by majority vote. (Article 51)
The Law on High Judicial Council ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia” no. 10/2023, February 9th, 2023) stipulates that legislative is involved in a procedure of electing non-judicial members, but it is not involved in termination of non-judicial members. The National Assembly elects four members of the Council from prominent lawyers with at least ten years of experience in the legal profession from eight candidates proposed by the National Assembly's committee responsible for the judiciary, after a public competition, with the votes of two-thirds of all MPs.
A candidate for a member of the Council can be a person who also meets the following conditions:
1) that he meets the general requirements for work in state bodies;
2) to have acquired higher education at basic academic studies at the Faculty of Law in the amount of at least 240 ESPB points or higher education acquired at basic studies at the Faculty of Law for a duration of at least four years;
3) to have experience and knowledge relevant to the work of the judiciary;
4) that it is worthy to perform the function of a member of the Council;
5) that he has not reached the age of 65;
6) not to perform the function of public prosecutor or judge;
7) that he was not elected to a public office directly by the citizens, that he does not perform a function to which he is elected by the National Assembly, that is, that he does not perform the function of a judge of the Constitutional Court or the Secretary of State;
8) not to strongly influence the making of political decisions;
9) that he did not exert undue influence on the work of a holder of the public prosecutor's office and the public prosecutor's office or a judge and the court;
10) that in public appearances he did not advocate positions that threaten the independence of the public prosecution or the independence of the judiciary.
Dignity implies moral qualities that a member of the Council should possess and conduct in accordance with those qualities. The moral qualities are: honesty, conscientiousness, fairness, dignity, perseverance and exemplary behavior, and behavior in accordance with these qualities means safeguarding the reputation of the Council and the Public Prosecutor's Office in and outside the office, awareness of social responsibility, preservation of independence, impartiality, integrity and dignity in the exercise of the office and outside it, and ensuring the preservation of trust in the work and authority of the Council and the Public Prosecutor's Office in the public.
During the election, professional or scientific work of importance for the work of the judiciary, as well as an understanding of the judiciary and advocacy in professional work or public action for the independence of the public prosecutor's office, are especially valued.

According to Article 30 of Law on Judges a judge may submit a request with the High Judicial Council for protection against undue influence. The manner of submission of the request and the procedure against the request for protection against undue influence are regulated by Rulebook on the protection of judges and courts from undue influence („Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia“ No.110/ 23). The Rulebook on the protection of judges and courts from undue influence regulates the appointment and manner of work of a judge competent to act upon a request for protection from undue influence, as well as the decision-making procedure of the High Council of the Judiciary on the existence of undue influence on the work of the judge and the court. The High Judicial Council appointed a member of the High Judicial Council from the rank of judges to act in cases concerning undue influence on the holders of judicial office and judiciary
In 2025, four requests for protection from undue influence were submitted. At the session on May 15, 2025, a decision was made on one request received by the Council in 2024. By decision of May 15, 2025, the Council determined that there was undue influence on the work of the Basic and High Courts in Novi Sad. The decision was published on the website of the High Judicial Council. The procedure regarding the remaining requests is ongoing.
Comment by HPC: Apart from public condemnation, Council does not have any other mechanisms by which it could influence entities outside the public prosecution in order to stop and prevent undue influence or pressure on a public prosecutor. The introduction of competences that would give additional powers to the Council in this sense would be most welcome but remains beyond the competence of the Council itself and implies the activity of the National Assembly – amendment of relevant laws. In the domain of what the competence of the Council is, specifically the Rules of Procedure of the High Prosecutorial Council regarding undue influence on the work of the public prosecutor and the public prosecutor's office that regulate the work of the Commissioner for Autonomy, some members of the Council have publicly indicated the need to make changes in this act that would unequivocally oblige the Commissioner to clarify and explain his position even when he believes that there is no undue influence in the specific case, and not as he has done so far, i.e. to give an explanation only when he believes that undue influence exists.

THE LAW ON THE PUBLIC PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE

("Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023)

Prohibition of undue influence

Article 6

In order to preserve the authority and impartiality of the public prosecutor's office, undue influence on the holder of the public prosecutor's office in the performance of the public prosecutor's office is prohibited, especially any form of threat and coercion against the holder of the public prosecutor's office, the use of public positions, the media and public speaking, which influence the actions of the public prosecutor's office. Any other inappropriate influence on the public prosecutor's office, as well as pressure on the participant in the proceedings before the public prosecutor's office, is prohibited.

The use of legally prescribed rights of participants in the proceedings, reporting on the work of the public prosecution in accordance with the regulations governing public information, as well as expert analysis of the actions of the public prosecution, cannot be considered under undue influence from paragraph 1 of this article.

The Supreme Public Prosecutor, the Chief Public Prosecutor and the Public Prosecutor are obliged to reject any action that represents an undue influence on the independence of the Public Prosecutor's Office, as well as to report such influence to the High Council of the Prosecutor's Office.

Q229 (General Comment): Article 3 of Law on Kosovo prosecutorial council: https://gzk.rks-gov.net/ActDetail.aspx?ActID=2709
The Council:
1.1. is a fully independent institution in the exercise of its functions in order to provide an independent, professional and impartial prosecutorial system as defined by the Constitution and by law;
1.2. ensures that the Prosecution Offices reflect the multi-ethnic nature of the Republic of Kosovo and takes the necessary measures in increasing the number of prosecutors from non-majority communities in Kosovo, in accordance with internationally accepted gender equality principles;
1.4. ensures that the Prosecution Offices respect the principles of non-discrimination and proportionality, as well as human rights and gender equality, guaranteed by the Constitution and international agreements and instruments applied in the Republic of Kosovo;
1.5. in exercising duties and competencies, the Council acts in a manner that respects and preserves the independence of prosecutors while they perform their prosecution functions. The Council shall not order or influence, attempt to influence or otherwise undertake any action or make any statement which could reasonably be considered as an interference or attempt to interfere with the independence of the prosecution function in relation to any person, investigation or subject.

Q229 (2025): KJC Comment: Competence of the Council regarding threats to judges' independence or impartiality
The Council is competent to act when it is evident that the independence or impartiality of a judge is being threatened by an external party. This competence is regulated under Article 32 of Administrative Regulation No. 03-2020 on the Organization and Functioning of the Kosovo Judicial Council.
- Requests for intervention can be submitted by judges, court presidents, or Council members.
- The Council evaluates the request, gathers relevant information, and votes on a Resolution.
- In urgent cases, the Resolution may be adopted electronically.
- Once approved, the Resolution is immediately published on the Council's official website and/or announced through a press release.

This procedure ensures that any external interference with a judge's independence or authority is addressed formally and transparently.
KPC Comment: Regarding security and independence of prosecutors, KPC, in its Strategic Plan 2025-2027 has foreseen as a first objective the commitment to avoiding undue influence on the work of the prosecutorial system. This objective has foreseen the establishment of mechanisms to track and report cases of undue influence, advancing capacity building programs for prosecutors and staff to recognize and resist undue influence, strengthen whistle-blower protection, enhance security measures for prosecutors facing threats or undue pressure in cooperation with Kosovo Police. During the last years the prosecutorial system was faced with cases of attempts of political influence through public declarations towards cases that were treated by prosecutors especially those of high level, and also towards activities of members of KPC. Also, there were cases of threats against prosecutors as a result of their work. In this regard, KPC from 2022 until now has published a total of 37 public releases in the form of reactions towards these actions that attempted to put pressure on the work of prosecutors or threaten them which came as a result of prosecutors' actions towards the completion of their constitutional and legal mandate. We also have the Association of Prosecutors which also reacts in such cases and stands in the protection of the work of prosecutors.
When there are more serious cases of threats against the security of prosecutors, close protection is provided to the prosecutors and their families, when necessary.
In the Republic of Kosovo, close protection (or "special protective/security measures") for prosecutors who are threatened is regulated by the Law on the State Prosecutor.
Article 36 of the Law on the State Prosecutor states that prosecutors "have the right to request from the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council (KPC) special protective measures for themselves and their families when the threat to their life or the life of a family member arises as a result of exercising prosecutorial duties."
Special protective measures are executed by the Kosovo Police, typically through a specialized close-protection unit, who provide physical protection to the prosecutor and their family. This is confirmed by several publicly known cases where threatened prosecutors were placed under 24-hour police protection.
Special protection may be requested and granted when there is a credible threat to the life or physical safety of a prosecutor or their family, arising from cases handled in the line of duty.

Albania

(General Comment): As for the election and appointmend of the members who are not judges or prosecuters the constitutions provides that 5 members are elected by the Assembly in a procedures prescribed by the constitutions and law. Two lay members are elected from the ranks of advocates, two members from the corps of pedagogues of law faculties and the School of Magistrates and one member from civil society. Hence, in the response to the questions, each of these options has been completed.
The procedure for electing laymembers is as follows:
2. The High Judicial Council shall be composed of 11 members, six of which are elected by the judges of all levels of the judicial power and five members are elected by the Assembly among the ranks of lawyers who are not judges.
3. The judge members shall be selected from the ranks of judges of high moral and professional integrity in accordance with an open and transparent procedure that ensures a fair representation of all levels of the judiciary. The lay members shall be selected among the ranks of prominent jurists, with not less than 15 years of professional experience, of high moral and professional integrity. They should not have held political posts in the public administration or leadership positions in a political party in the last past 10 years before running as candidates. Further criteria and the procedure for selecting the candidates shall be regulated by law.
4. Two lay members shall be elected from the ranks of advocates, two members from the corps of pedagogues of law faculties and the School of Magistrates, and one member from civil society. The Secretary General of the Assembly, based on an open and transparent procedure, shall announce the vacancies in accordance with the law.
5. The Secretary General of the Assembly, not later than 10 days from the submission candidatures, shall verify if the candidates fulfil the criteria foreseen in the Constitution and the law and shall assess the professional and moral criteria for the member of the High Judicial Council and shall prepare the list. In case the candidates do not fulfil the criteria and conditions to be elected, the Secretary General of the Assembly shall not include their names in the list.
6. The Secretary General of the Assembly, upon completion of the verification, shall immediately send the list of candidates who fulfil the formal criteria to the parliamentary subcommittee, in accordance with paragraph 7 of this article. 7. The standing committee responsible for legal affairs in the Assembly shall establish a subcommittee for the further assessment and selection of candidates not later than three days from the submission of the list. The subcommittee is composed of five members of the Assembly, three members nominated by the parliamentary majority and two by the parliamentary minority. The subcommittee may, with at least four votes, include in the list of candidates even those who have been excluded from the list by the Secretary General of the Assembly for failure to comply with formal requirements. The subcommittee shall select the candidates with the support of at least 4 members. In case the required majority cannot be reached, the candidates shall be selected by lot.
8. The names of the candidates selected by the subcommittee are consolidated into one list and sent to the Speaker of the Assembly. Within ten days, the Assembly shall approve the list of candidates by two-thirds of all the members. In case the list is rejected, the procedure shall be repeated in the subcommittee under paragraph 7 of this Article, but not more than two times. In case the Assembly shall, after conducting the procedure for the third time, not approve the presented list, the candidates of this list shall be deemed elected. Detailed procedures shall be regulated by law.
9. The Chairperson of the High Judicial Council shall be elected at the first meeting of the Council from among the lay members in accordance with the law. 10. Members of the High

Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): There is a single regulatory body in Bosnia and Herzegovina (BiH), the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC), which is responsible for all judges, as well as prosecutors in BiH. The HJPC was established by the Law on the HJPC as an independent and autonomous body, with the task of ensuring the maintenance of an independent, impartial and professional judiciary.
The independence of the HJPC is ensured through the autonomous status of this body, which is not in a hierarchical relationship with the legislative or executive authority, nor is a part of the state administration system.
The independence of the institution is reflected in the structure of the HJPC members, as well as in a system in which they are elected.
Out of the 15 HJPC members, 11 members are judges and prosecutors elected by their colleagues. The other 4 members of the HJPC are elected by the legislative and executive authority of BiH and the two Entity Bar Chambers.
The HJPC consists of 15 members as follows:
1. one (1) member who is a judge from the Court of BiH, elected by the judges of that Court;
2. one (1) member who is a judge from the Supreme Court of the Federation of BiH, elected by the judges of that Court;
3. one (1) member who is a judge from the Supreme Court of the Republika Srpska, elected by the judges of that 4. one (1) member who is a judge from either a Cantonal or Municipal level court from the Federation of BiH, elected by the Cantonal and
Municipal court judges;
5. one (1) member who is a judge from a District or Basic level court of the Republika Srpska, elected by the district and basic courts
judges (including judges of the Higher Commercial and District Commercial Courts in RS);
6. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from the Prosecutor's Office of BiH, elected by the prosecutors of that Office;
7. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from the Prosecutor's Office of the Federation of BiH, elected by the prosecutors of that Office;
8. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from the Prosecutor's Office of the Republika Srpska, elected by the prosecutors of that Office;
9. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from a Cantonal level prosecutor's office of the Federation of BiH, elected by the Cantonal prosecutors;
10. one (1) member who is a prosecutor from a District level prosecutor's office of the Republika Srpska, elected by the district prosecutors;
11. one (1) member who is a judge or prosecutor elected by the Brcko District of BiH Judicial Commission;
(Judges/prosecutors members are appointed by Other: The process for selection of the HJPC members from the members of judiciary is conducted at all levels of the judiciary in BiH. The judges and prosecutors elect their representatives directly at the respective levels. Selections are conducted within the courts and prosecutor's offices of a certain level, with an exception with regard to one segment of the judiciary (i e Brcko District of Bosnia and Herzegovina), within which one HJPC member (i.e. judge or prosecutor) is not elected directly by the judges and prosecutors, but by the Brcko District Judicial Commission. The elected member may be a judge of the Brcko District Court of Appeal or Basic Court, or a prosecutor of the Brcko District Prosecutor's Office.)

(2025): Section 1, articles 7 to 58 of Law no 115/2016 “For Governing Bodies of the Justice System”, foresees the procedure of appointment of members of the High Judicial Council.Based on the Law no. 115/2016 “On the governance institutions of the justice system”, as amended, the High Prosecutorial Council is a collegial body, consisting of eleven members. Six of the Council members are prosecutors from all levels of the prosecution. The General Meeting of Prosecutors of all levels elects 6 members of the High Prosecutorial Council, according to the following report:
a) three of the elected are first instance prosecutors. At least 1 of them is a prosecutor in a prosecutor's office at the court of first instance outside Tirana;
b) two of the elected are prosecutors of the prosecution offices of the courts of appeal, including the Special Prosecution Office for the fight against corruption and organized crime. At least 1 of them is a prosecutor in a prosecutor's office at an appellate court outside Tirana;
c) one of the elected members is a prosecutor at the General Prosecutors Office.
The General Prosecutor announces the call for the expression of interest by prosecutors interested in the position of a member of the High Prosecutorial Council. Within 15 days of the announcement of the call for the expression of interest, the concerned prosecutors shall express their interest in a written request to the General Prosecutor. Within the deadline for submission of expressions of interest, the General Prosecutors Office shall verify the fulfilment of the conditions by the candidates, according to the provisions of this law. Appeals against decisions to exclude candidates only for serious procedural violations are made to the Administrative Court of Appeal no later than 5 days from the date of notification of the decision.
Not later than two months before the expiry of the term of office of the Prosecuting Members of the High Prosecutorial Council in office, the General Prosecutor convenes the General Meeting of Prosecutors of all levels to elect the members of the Council. The voting for the election of members of the High Prosecutorial Council from the General Meeting of Prosecutors is secret and individual. At the conclusion of the voting process, under the responsibility of the Prosecutor General, members of the voting committee open the ballot boxes in the presence of all prosecutors attending the meeting, count the votes and announce the preliminary election result.
Complaints for violation of procedure related to convening the General Meeting of Prosecutors, verification of participation, voting and counting of votes, ascertaining and declaring invalid and declaring the result during the General Meeting of Prosecutors for the election of Council members of the High Prosecutor's Office shall be filed with the Administrative Court of Appeal no later than 5 days from the day the decision is published on the official website of the General Prosecutor's Office. For the election of the five members coming from the academic field (2 members), bar association (2 members) and civil society organisations (1 member), the Law “On the governance institutions of the justice system”, as amended has established detailed procedures for the verification and evaluation of candidates. In the preliminary assessment process are included bodies such as the National Chamber of Advocacy, the People's Advocate, the faculties of Law and the School of Magistrates as well as civil society organizations.
The candidates presented by the above mentioned bodies are reviewed by the Assembly which decides finally the selected candidates.

1) one from the Supreme Court;

2) one from the courts of appeal and the Administrative Court;

3) one from the higher courts;

4) one from the commercial courts and the Commercial Court of Appeal;

5) one from the basic courts;

6) one from the misdemeanor courts and the Misdemeanor Court of Appeal.

Requirements for candidacy for a member of the Council from among judges

Article 27.

Any judge may be a candidate for a member of the Council from among judges.

A judge may be elected as a member of the Council if he or she is proposed by a session of all judges of one or more courts according to the type and level of the court (Article 26) in which the judge serves as a judge.

A session of all judges of one court may propose only one candidate.

At a session of all judges, a secret vote shall be held on the proposed candidate.

A judge may also be elected as a member of the Council if he or she is supported by at least 20 judges according to the type and level of the court in which he or she serves as a judge (Article 26). A judge may support only one candidate.

(2025): Comment by HJC:
The Law on High Judicial Council („Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia“ No.10/ 23) prescribed that the Council has 11 members. The members of the Council are six judges elected by the judges, four prominent lawyers elected by the National Assembly and the president of the Supreme Court, as a member elected according to function.
The Council has a president of the Council who is elected by the Council from among the elected members of the Council who are judges, for a term of five years, and the vice president of the Council who is elected from among the members elected by the National Assembly for a term of five years.
The procedure for the election of Council members is regulated by Law on High Judicial Council.
According to the Law on High Judicial Council (Article 26), elective members of the Council from the ranks of judges are elected from the following courts: one from the Supreme Court; one from the Appellate courts and the Administrative Court; one from the Higher courts; one of the Commercial courts and the Commercial Appellate Court; one of the Basic courts and one from the Misdemeanour courts and the Misdemeanour Appellate Court. Any judge can be a candidate for a member of the Council from the rank of judges.
A judge nominated by a session of all judges of one or more courts according to the type and level of the court in which the judge performs judicial function can be elected as a member of the Council.
A session of all judges of a court can propose only one candidate.
At the meeting of all judges, the proposed candidate is voted on secretly.
A judge who is supported by at least 20 judges according to the type and level of the court in which he/she performs the judicial function can be elected as a member of the Council. A judge can support only one candidate.
As an exception, a candidate for an elective member of the Council from the rank of judges of the Supreme Court, the Misdemeanour Appellate Court, the Commercial Appellate Court and the Administrative Court acquires the status of a candidate by submitting an application.
The president of the court and acting president of the court cannot be a candidate for a member of the Council (Article 27).
The Law on High Judicial Council from Article 43 to Article 53 stipulates the procedure for election of non-judicial members of the Council in a transparent and merit-based manner. The National Assembly elects four members of the Council from prominent lawyers with at least ten years of experience in the legal profession from eight candidates proposed by the National Assembly's committee responsible for the judiciary, after a public competition, with the votes of two-thirds of all MPs. (Article 43) the National Assembly's Committee organizes a public hearing for the purpose of presenting candidates, which is attended by representatives of the general and professional public. (Article 50) If the National Assembly does not elect all the members of the Council to be elected within the stipulated period by law, the remaining members of the Council, from among all the candidates who meet the conditions for election, are elected by a commission consisting of the President of the National Assembly, the President of the Constitutional Court, the President of the Supreme court, the Supreme Public Prosecutor and the Ombudsperson, by majority vote. (Article 51)
The Law on High Judicial Council ("Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia” no. 10/2023, February 9th, 2023) stipulates that legislative is involved in a procedure of electing non-judicial members, but it is not involved in termination of non-judicial members. The National Assembly elects four members of the Council from prominent lawyers with at least ten

Albania

(General Comment): According to Article 185, of the Law “On the governance institutions of the justice system”, as amended, the High Prosecutorial Council may, on its own initiative or on the basis of prosecutors' requests, make public statements in defense of individual prosecutors when it deems that their human rights are at risk of being violated because of the performance of their duties or that the exercise of their legal functions is endangered or may be endangered as a result of the actions or attitudes of any public or private entity.
The justice system in the Republic of Albania is governed based on the principles of independence, accountability, transparency, and efficiency. The Council has the obligation to react publicly and take any legal action to protect the independence or impartiality of a judge.

(2025): The Council, ex officio or based on the requests of judges, may make public statements to protect certain judges when it deems that their human rights are in danger of being violated due to the performance of their duty or that the performance of their legal functions is being endangered or may be endangered as a result of actions or positions of any public or private subject.
The magistrate and his/her family shall, during or because of the exercise of the function, benefit specific state protection for life, health and assets. The magistrate who is no longer in the office or has retired shall enjoy this special protection if he/she/requests it, as well as in case of endangerment due to a previous exercise of the function as magistrate. 2. If the life, health or property of the magistrates or the magistrate’s family is endangered, the state shall provide special protection, as well as physical protection, under the criteria and procedures set out by a decision of the Council of Ministers, following a consultation with Councils. According to Article 185, of the Law no. 115/2016 “On the governance institutions of the justice system”, as amended, the High Prosecutorial Council may, on its own initiative or on the basis of prosecutors' requests, make public statements in defence of individual prosecutors when it deems that their human rights are at risk of being violated because of the performance of their duties or that the exercise of their legal functions is endangered or may be endangered as a result of the actions or attitudes of any public or private entity.

(2024): In addition to the publication of reports and reasoned decisions, on the website of the High Prosecutorial Council are published regularly the agenda and detailed announcements after each plenary meeting where are reflected the results of each meeting and the decisions taken by the Council. Also, full audio registering of the plenary meeting is published within 24 hours. Bosnia and Herzegovina

(General Comment): In accordance with Article 17, item 27 of the Law on the HJPC BiH, the Council provides its opinion on complaints submitted by a judge or prosecutor who considers that his/her rights established by this or another law, or his/her independence, are endangered. These opinions are issued in order to identify threats to the independence of judicial institutions, that is holders of judicial functions, and to publicize it, as well as to invite relevant participants to refrain from further activities that threaten the independence of the judiciary. The Law does not provide for sanctions that the Council may impose in these situations.
The criminal laws in BiH contain chapters dedicated to the judiciary. The object of the criminal protection of this group of crimes is the functioning of the judiciary. The main objective of the prescribed criminals is to ensure and protect the independence of the judiciary and the legitimate work of the judiciary and other bodies. Most of the offenses in this group relate to endangering the criminal proceedings, endangering the smooth conduct of criminal proceedings and executing the criminal sanctions, ie protecting the special categories of subjects in criminal proceedings.
The criminal laws contain provisions by which obstruction of the judiciary is criminalized (eg. Article 241 of the Criminal Code BiH, Article 339 of the Criminal Code RS, 358, 359, 359a of the Criminal Code FBiH, Articles 352, 353 of the Criminal Code BD BiH) in such a way that attacks, threats or intimidation of a judge or prosecutor in connection with the exercise of judicial or prosecutorial duties, are prescribed as criminal offenses.

North Macedonia

(General Comment): The Judicial Council of the Republic of North Macedonia is an autonomous and independent judicial body that ensure and guarantee the autonomy and independence of the judicial authority, through performing its function in accordance with the Constitution and the laws. According to article 11 of Law on courts, the judge shall decide impartially by applying the law on the basis of free evaluation of the evidence. Any form of influence on the independence, impartiality and autonomy of the judge in the exercise of the judicial office on any grounds and by any entity shall be prohibited.
The judicial office is incompatible with the office of a member of the parliament, that is, member of a council in the municipality, that is, the City of Skopje, and the offices in state bodies, the municipality and the City of Skopje, expect for cases provided by law. The judge cannot hold any other public office or practice a profession, except an office determined by law which is not contrary to his/her independence and autonomy in the exercise of the judicial office. The judge cannot be a member of a managing or supervisory board of a trade company, or another legal entity established for the purpose of gaining profit. The judge may be an educator or may deliver lectures in the Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors and in a higher education institution and may participate in scientific projects. The Judge must not use his office or the reputation of the court to accomplish his personal interests. The judge cannot be a member or hold a political office within a political party or carry out political or party activity. In this case, The Judicial Council shall at the latest within ten days from the day of knowing of the fulfillment of these conditions determine the termination of the judicial office, except when the judicial function is in abeyance under conditions determined by law. The judge cannot accept gifts or enjoy privileges and conveniences during the exercise of the judicial office. According to articles 74 and 75 of Law on courts, the judge shall be dismissed from the judicial office due to serious disciplinary offence that makes him/her discreditable to exercise the judicial office prescribed by law. Decision on dismissal of the judge shall be adopted by Judicial Council, if the violation is committed with the intention or apparent negligence by the fault of the judge without justified reasons and if the injury caused severe consequences. Serious disciplinary offences are:
1) gross influence and interference in the performance of the judicial function of another judge;
2) manifestly violation of the rules for exemption in situations in which the judge knew or should have known about the existence of one of the grounds for exemption provided for by law.
In the exercise of the judicial office, the judges shall enjoy immunity. A judge cannot be held criminally liable for a stated opinion and manner of deciding during the adoption of a court decision. A judge cannot be taken in without an approval from the Judicial Council, unless caught in commission of a crime for which an imprisonment sentence in duration of at least five years is foreseen. The Judicial Council of the Republic of North Macedonia shall decide upon revocation of the immunity of judges. The procedure for deciding about revocation of a judge's immunity shall be urgent. The judge shall be suspended from exercising the judicial office while in custody, or while the procedure for the crime for which an imprisonment sentence of at least five years is foreseen is ongoing. The judge shall be suspended from exercising the judicial office in case of initiated procedure for establishing liability, in accordance with law and when there are justified reasons for suspension from exercising judicial office. The decision to suspend the judge from exercising the judicial office shall be adopted by the Judicial Council of the Republic of North Macedonia.
According to the article 7 from the Law on PPO, the public prosecutor shall perform their function in a lawful, impartial and objective manner, shall respect and protect human and civil rights and freedoms, and the rights of other legal entities and within the scope of their competencies, they shall ensure the efficiency of the criminal prosecution.

Serbia

(General Comment): According to Art 4 of Law on judges („Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia“ No.10/ 23) a judge is required to preserve confidence in his independence and impartiality at all times. All state bodies and officials are required to preserve, with their actions and behaviour, the confidence in independence and impartiality of judges and courts.

A judge is required to conduct proceedings impartially according to his conscience, in accordance with his own assessment of facts and interpretation of law, ensuring fair trial and compliance with procedural rights of parties guaranteed by the Constitution, ratified international treaties, laws, and the generally accepted rules of international law.

The Law on High Judicial Council prescribed that Council decides on the existence of undue influence on the work of judge and court, and measure to prevent such undue influence. According to Law on Judges a judge may submit a request with the High Judicial Council for protection against undue influence. The manner of submission of the request and the procedure against the request for protection against undue influence are regulated by Rulebook on the protection of judges and courts from undue influence.

In order to protect against any undue influence on the performance of the judicial function, the Council appointed one member of the Council from among the judges to proceed in cases of undue influence on the work of judge and court. The action of the elected member of the Council and the Council, in cases of undue influence, is regulated by Rulebook on the protection of judges and courts from undue influence („Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia“ No.110/ 23)

During 2023, seven requests of judges for protection from undue influence were submitted to the Council, which were delivered to the competent judge. In two cases, a decision was made to suspend the proceedings, and for the other five, the proceedings are ongoing.

Prohibition of undue influence

(2025): Comment by HJC: According to Art 4 of Law on judges („Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia“ No.10/ 23) a judge is required to preserve confidence in his independence and impartiality at all times. All state bodies and officials are required to preserve, with their actions and behaviour, the confidence in independence and impartiality of judges and courts.

The Law on High Judicial Council prescribed that Council decides on the existence of undue influence on the work of judge and court, and measure to prevent such undue influence. According to Article 30 of Law on Judges a judge may submit a request with the High Judicial Council for protection against undue influence. The manner of submission of the request and the procedure against the request for protection against undue influence are regulated by Rulebook on the protection of judges and courts from undue influence („Official Gazette of the Republic of Serbia“ No.110/ 23). The Rulebook on the protection of judges and courts from undue influence regulates the appointment and manner of work of a judge competent to act upon a request for protection from undue influence, as well as the decision-making procedure of the High Council of the Judiciary on the existence of undue influence on the work of the judge and the court. The High Judicial Council appointed a member of the High Judicial Council from the rank of judges to act in cases concerning undue influence on the holders of judicial office and judiciary
In 2025, four requests for protection from undue influence were submitted. At the session on May 15, 2025, a decision was made on one request received by the Council in 2024. By decision of May 15, 2025, the Council determined that there was undue influence on the work of the Basic and High Courts in Novi Sad. The decision was published on the website of the High Judicial Council. The procedure regarding the remaining requests is ongoing.
Comment by HPC: Apart from public condemnation, Council does not have any other mechanisms by which it could influence entities outside the public prosecution in order to stop and prevent undue influence or pressure on a public prosecutor. The introduction of competences that would give additional powers to the Council in this sense would be most welcome but remains beyond the competence of the Council itself and implies the activity of the National Assembly – amendment of relevant laws. In the domain of what the competence of the Council is, specifically the Rules of Procedure of the High Prosecutorial Council regarding undue influence on the work of the public prosecutor and the public prosecutor's office that regulate the work of the Commissioner for Autonomy, some members of the Council have publicly indicated the need to make changes in this act that would unequivocally oblige the Commissioner to clarify and explain his position even when he believes that there is no undue influence in the specific case, and not as he has done so far, i.e. to give an explanation only when he believes that undue influence exists.

THE LAW ON THE PUBLIC PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE
("Official Gazette of RS", No. 10/2023)
Prohibition of undue influence
Article 6
In order to preserve the authority and impartiality of the public prosecutor's office, undue influence on the holder of the public prosecutor's office in the performance of the public prosecutor's office is prohibited, especially any form of threat and coercion against the holder of the public prosecutor's office, the use of public positions, the media and public speaking, which influence the actions of the public prosecutor's office. Any other inappropriate influence on the public prosecutor's office, as well as pressure on the participant in the proceedings before the public prosecutor's office, is prohibited.
The use of legally prescribed rights of participants in the proceedings, reporting on the work of the public prosecution in accordance with the regulations governing public information, as well as expert analysis of the actions of the public prosecution, cannot be considered under undue influence from paragraph 1 of this article.
The Supreme Public Prosecutor, the Chief Public Prosecutor and the Public Prosecutor are obliged to reject any action that represents an undue influence on the independence of the Public Prosecutor's Office, as well as to report such influence to the High Council of the Prosecutor's Office.
The holder of the office of public prosecutor may submit a request for protection against undue influence to the High Council of Prosecutors.
The method of submission and the procedure for the request for protection against undue influence is prescribed by the act of the High Council of the Prosecutor's Office.

Prohibition of undue influence

Kosovo*

(General Comment): Article 3 of Law on Kosovo prosecutorial council: https://gzk.rks-gov.net/ActDetail.aspx?ActID=2709
The Council:
1.1. is a fully independent institution in the exercise of its functions in order to provide an independent, professional and impartial prosecutorial system as defined by the Constitution and by law;
1.2. ensures that the Prosecution Offices reflect the multi-ethnic nature of the Republic of Kosovo and takes the necessary measures in increasing the number of prosecutors from non-majority communities in Kosovo, in accordance with internationally accepted
gender equality principles;
1.3. ensures that all the persons have equal access to justice;
1.4. ensures that the Prosecution Offices respect the principles of non-discrimination and proportionality, as well as human rights and gender equality, guaranteed by the Constitution and international agreements and instruments applied in the Republic of Kosovo;
1.5. in exercising duties and competencies, the Council acts in a manner that respects and preserves the independence of prosecutors while they perform their prosecution functions. The Council shall not order or influence, attempt to influence or otherwise undertake any action or make any statement which could reasonably be considered as an interference or attempt to interfere with the independence of the prosecution function in relation to any person, investigation or subject.

(2025): KJC Comment: Competence of the Council regarding threats to judges' independence or impartiality

The Council is competent to act when it is evident that the independence or impartiality of a judge is being threatened by an external party. This competence is regulated under Article 32 of Administrative Regulation No. 03-2020 on the Organization and Functioning of the Kosovo Judicial Council.

- Requests for intervention can be submitted by judges, court presidents, or Council members.
- The Council evaluates the request, gathers relevant information, and votes on a Resolution.
- In urgent cases, the Resolution may be adopted electronically.
- Once approved, the Resolution is immediately published on the Council's official website and/or announced through a press release.

This procedure ensures that any external interference with a judge's independence or authority is addressed formally and transparently.

KPC Comment: Regarding security and independence of prosecutors, KPC, in its Strategic Plan 2025-2027 has foreseen as a first objective the commitment to avoiding undue influence on the work of the prosecutorial system. This objective has foreseen the establishment of mechanisms to track and report cases of undue influence, advancing capacity building programs for prosecutors and staff to recognize and resist undue influence, strengthen whistle-blower protection, enhance security measures for prosecutors facing threats or undue pressure in cooperation with Kosovo Police. During the last years the prosecutorial system was faced with cases of attempts of political influence through public declarations towards cases that were treated by prosecutors especially those of high level, and also towards activities of members of KPC. Also, there were cases of threats against prosecutors as a result of their work. In this regard, KPC from 2022 until now has published a total of 37 public releases in the form of reactions towards these actions that attempted to put pressure on the work of prosecutors or threaten them which came as a result of prosecutors' actions towards the completion of their constitutional and legal mandate. We also have the Association of Prosecutors which also reacts in such cases and stands in the protection of the work of prosecutors.

When there are more serious cases of threats against the security of prosecutors, close protection is provided to the prosecutors and their families, when necessary.

In the Republic of Kosovo, close protection (or "special protective/security measures") for prosecutors who are threatened is regulated by the Law on the State Prosecutor.

Article 36 of the Law on the State Prosecutor states that prosecutors "have the right to request from the Kosovo Prosecutorial Council (KPC) special protective measures for themselves and their families when the threat to their life or the life of a family member arises as a result of exercising prosecutorial duties."

Special protective measures are executed by the Kosovo Police, typically through a specialized close-protection unit, who provide physical protection to the prosecutor and their family. This is confirmed by several publicly known cases where threatened prosecutors were placed under 24-hour police protection.

Special protection may be requested and granted when there is a credible threat to the life or physical safety of a prosecutor or their family, arising from cases handled in the line of duty.

Table 12.1.1 Current reforms in 2025 (Q68)

Beneficiaries	Current reforms
Albania	In 2016, the Albanian Parliament adopted a radical and comprehensive constitutional and Justice Reform for the organization and functioning of the justice system. As a result, High Prosecutorial Council was established as an institution that guarantees the independence, accountability, discipline, status and career of prosecutors. It is responsible for the appointment, evaluation, promotion and transfer of prosecutors of all levels, decides on disciplinary measures against prosecutors of all levels, proposes candidates for Prosecutor General to the Parliament, approves the rules on the ethics of prosecutors and supervises their compliance, proposes and administers its budget, informs the public and the Parliament on the state of the prosecution, etc. Through this reform, also were created other institutions such as the High Judicial Council, the High Inspector of Justice, the Council for Judicial Appointments, and was resized the mandate of the School of Magistrates. This mosaic of institutions has complemented and strengthened the independence and autonomy of the justice system as one of the three branches of government, compared to the previous model. The above institutions are in the phase of implementing the legal provisions adopted with the Justice Reform by consolidating work practices to guarantee the independence, accountability, efficiency and transparency of the justice system. Also, in 2024, the Assembly of Albania established the special Parliamentary Committee for Deepening Reforms for Good Governance, Rule of Law and Anti-Corruption for Albania 2030 in the European Union. The purpose of the work of this special Committee is to further consolidate the Justice Reform and deepen the implementation of the legal and institutional reform framework by ensuring effective cooperation of justice institutions, allocation of sufficient resources and efficient functioning of the justice sector. The work of this Committee is ongoing and is in the early stages.
Bosnia and Herzegovina	The High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina (HJPC BiH) has been implementing a number of reform activities to improve the efficiency, transparency and quality of justice. The judicial reform entails numerous concurrent activities pertaining to institutional capacity-building, funding, digitalization, and procedural improvements. The key priorities are as follows: increasing the efficiency in processing complex corruption, organised and economic crime cases; transparency and accountability in the funding of judicial institutions; the use of modern technologies as well as digitalization of the preparation and monitoring of court and prosecutor's office budgets. Processing of corruption and organised crime cases A Special Department for Corruption, Organised and Intercantonal Crime (FBiH Prosecutor's Office) has been established. The Department officially began operating in May 2025, thereby implementing the FBiH Law on Suppression of Corruption and Organised Crime from 2014. This Department has been created to facilitate more effective processing of the most complex cases of corruption, organised crime and economic crime, as well as other corruption-related offences posing a serious threat to legal security, the rule of law, and social stability. The HJPC BiH has issued the guidelines requiring the courts to ensure uninterrupted course of the proceedings in organised crime and corruption cases, with the progress being monitored on a regular basis. The Asset Declarations Department has began operating in June 2025, establishing a functional system for verification of asset declarations of judicial office holders and members of the HJPC BiH. Asset declarations are published on the HJPC website, while guaranteeing the protection of personal data, and an online functionality for reporting irregularities is also available. For the purpose of data verification, there have been a number of agreements concluded with competent authorities and public registry managers. The plan is to digitalize the process using secure web services for data exchange and validation. Transparency Current judicial reforms in BiH are focused on strengthening transparency and harmonisation of case law. A new work model of the case law harmonisation panels was piloted, with meetings held in the seats of the BiH's highest courts and the new rules of the panels adopted in July 2025. The central database of court decisions has been significantly expanded to include decisions from all courts in BiH, and a faster search engine has also been added, along with a reminder to users that when downloading parts of judgements, they must provide the number, date and name of the court that rendered the decision, and with a warning to external users about the consequences of unauthorized downloading of court decisions. The Case Law Portal and High-Profile Case Map are operational and regularly updated. The HJPC Guidelines for the publication of court and prosecutorial decisions, acts and case-related information and the Book of Rules of Republika Srpska governing the publication of court decisions are in effect, thereby increasing the accessibility of court decisions and high-profile cases and ensuring greater understandability of court decisions and other content published on the aforementioned IT platforms and on the websites of judicial institutions in accordance with the new, improved Instruction for anonymisation. Also, in an effort to increase public confidence the HJPC BiH is taking measures to make disciplinary actions against judicial office holders more transparent. Following the completion of the proceedings, the HJPC BiH regularly publishes anonymised disciplinary decisions and announcements of upcoming hearings in disciplinary cases that are open to the public. Every year, summaries of all disciplinary actions completed the year before are posted on the website, thus ensuring a systematic insight into the practice. The establishment of a centralised, searchable database of disciplinary decisions is underway. The database will make it possible to filter data based on predetermined parameters, facilitate the work of disciplinary panels by enabling faster comparison of comparable cases, and increase the access to information for the public and judicial office holders. The implementation of this activity is underway, with the focus being placed on the comprehensive search functionality. Training In parallel, the training concept for newly appointed judges and prosecutors has been improved, and in line with the long-standing EU recommendations, efforts have been stepped up to strengthen the coordination role of the HJPC BiH in the training process and to assess the training effects based on the Kirckpatrick four-level framework. In cooperation with the EU4Justice project, the piloting of the Preparatory Training Programme for candidates for judicial office is underway. In parallel, a mentoring system has already been applied in the BiH Federation and the Brcko District of BiH, and the plan is to introduce it in Republika Srpska as well. Performance appraisal According to the Law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopts two sets of criteria - criteria for evaluating the performance of judges and criteria for evaluating the performance of prosecutors. The evaluation of the work results of all judges and prosecutors is carried out once a year. The performance of judges is assessed by the president of the court, whereas the chief prosecutor evaluates the work of prosecutors in accordance with the criteria established by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina. In December 2024, the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted new criteria for evaluating the work of judges and prosecutors. With the adoption of the new criteria, analytical evaluation was introduced into the evaluation system for judicial function holders. This involves a qualitative element of work evaluation („Analytical evaluation of prosecutor's work“ and „Analytical quality of judge's work and decisions“) which will enable a better assessment of the professional competencies of each judge and prosecutor. Thus, a reform of the evaluation system was initiated, which had previously been predominantly based on the assessment of results according to quantitative indicators. This reform was undertaken after the recommendations of experts engaged by the European Commission for the preparation of a 'Peer Review on the evaluation of the work of judges and prosecutors' from 2017 were accepted, suggesting that it is necessary to strengthen quality criteria in the evaluation system. The presidents of courts and chief prosecutors have evaluated the work of the holders of judicial functions according to new criteria during the first quarter of 2026. The criteria and points structure for the annual performance evaluation of judges are as follows: Quantity of work (i.e. annual quota) – up to 30 points, Percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan - up to 10 points, Analytical quality of judge's work and decisions – up to 10 points, Statistical quality of decisions (i.e. confirmation rate) – up to 50 points. The criteria and points structure for the annual performance evaluation of prosecutors are as follows: Quantity of work (i.e. annual quota) – up to 30 points, Percentage of realization of individual case resolution plan - up to 10 points, Analytical evaluation of prosecutor's work - 10 points, Statistical quality of decisions – up to 50 points. The chief prosecutor determines the analytical evaluation of the prosecutor's work based on a reasoned assessment of the prosecutor's work according to the following elements: a) the ability to determine the established facts relevant for making prosecutorial decisions; b) the ability to handle complex cases; c) timeliness in making decisions and compliance with legal deadlines; d) the ability to organize and efficiently conduct investigations in a proactive manner; e) the professional level of prosecutorial decisions, demonstrated legal knowledge, and use of legal remedies. The president of the court determines the analytical assessment of a judge's work based on a reasoned evaluation of the judge's work according to the following elements: a) the consistency of the introduction, ruling, and reasoning of the court decision from the perspective of responding to all requests and significant objections or essential appeal claims, as well as the existence of clear instructions to the higher court in case of annulment of the decision. b) the quality of the reasoning of court decisions in terms of the ability to correctly assess evidence and properly and fully determine the factual situation, legal analysis of analytical reasoning, consistency of argumentation in the reasoning, knowledge of the application of regulations and case law, including the application of international treaties, case law of the European Court of Human Rights, and other international courts. c) the skill of oral and written expression, particularly the ability to express oneself clearly and concisely, and the use of appropriate legal terminology. e) quality of conducting the proceedings, with particular regard to: - the ability to handle complex cases, - preparation for trial through proper preparation of the main hearing/session, precise definition of actions to be carried out at the hearing and evidence to be presented, as well as concentration of evidence, - conducting the proceedings in accordance with the principle of efficiency and economy, avoiding unjustified postponement and adjournment of hearings, and taking legally prescribed measures to ensure the presence of the accused, or parties to the proceedings, witnesses, and experts, taking measures to prevent abuse of procedural rights by the parties and other participants in the proceedings, compliance with statutory deadlines for scheduling and continuing hearings/sessions/proceedings, and taking legally prescribed actions, which must be recorded in the hearing minutes, for the conclusion of the dispute through a judicial settlement, - timely drafting of court decisions. Digitalization The judiciary is one of the most digitally advanced branches of government in BiH. The main priorities in further digitisation of the Judicial Information System (JIS) are as follows: the consolidation and expansion of the JIS to ensure full coverage and stability of the system, the introduction and mandatory integration of electronic signatures, ensuring the privacy and security of system users, the digitalisation of public services, including the expansion of online services (e.g. certificates of no pending criminal proceedings) and the reduction of physical visits to courts, the automation and efficiency of the processes: the implementation of AI tools for the anonymisation of court decisions and Speech-to-Text solutions, as well as the strengthening of human resources. Other reform activities The reforms also cover criminal and civil procedures, enforcement departments, digitalization of enforcement proceedings, strategic planning and gender equality. The status of implementation indicates that while some measures are currently discussed or piloted, others are already continuously implemented. The reform activities are also focused on the improvement of courts and prosecutor's offices performance, institutional capacity- building, modernisation of business processes, and digitization, with a particular focus on case management, enforcement, financing, professional development and transparency. One of the key priorities is the efficiency in managing criminal trials, where pilot courts seek to reduce the length of trials, improve trial preparation and procedural discipline. The reform of enforcement procedure is very important. Modernising the current system and exploring the prospect of transferring the enforcement of judgements to state agencies or private enforcement agents are the objectives. This is also connected to the digitalization of the enforcement procedure, which would make it possible for courts and other institutions to effectively share information about debtors' assets.
Montenegro	Special law on the salaries of judges has been adopted increasing salaries for judiciary. Drafting of the Law on Court Administration, is in progress. The amendments to the Constitution are planned in the context of EU accession to align with relevant recommendations that minister of justice will not be member of the judicial council. The projections will determine the needs for each basic court and each basic public prosecutor’s office separately, within the four appellate areas in the country (Skopje, Shtip, Bitola and Gostivar). -Introduction of merit-based ranking rules, whereby candidates with the highest scores on the entrance exams will have priority in the selection of placements after completing the training, according to a model inspired by the French judicial training system. -Strengthening continuous training, by ensuring regular, structured and high-quality training for judges and public prosecutors throughout their careers. Law on Court budget-under discussion -The preparation of amendments to this law is in an early phase as it is initially pending the completion of the law on courts and the planned amendments are mainly aimed at greater financial independence of the courts and financial management.
Serbia	The current judicial reforms in the Republic of Serbia are focused on strengthening judicial independence, improving efficiency, reducing case backlogs, and modernising court administration in line with European and international standards. Constitutional and legislative amendments aimed at strengthening the independence of the judiciary and the autonomy of the public prosecutor’s office have already been adopted. These reforms introduced a stronger institutional framework for the independence of the High Judicial Council and the High Prosecutorial Council, including enhanced budgetary autonomy. The Councils independently prepare and approve their budget proposals through their secretariats and budget commissions. The Ministry of Finance provides an opinion on the proposals but cannot unilaterally amend them. In cases of disagreement, consultation mechanisms are foreseen, while the Government may not suspend or limit the implementation of approved funds without the consent of the Councils. These arrangements strengthen the financial independence of judicial institutions. The legal framework governing the jurisdiction of courts and public prosecutors’ offices remains regulated by the Law on the Organisation of Courts and the Law on the Seats and Territories of Courts and Public Prosecutors’ Offices. The current implementation phase focuses on improving the organisation and management of courts and prosecutors’ offices, with the objective of increasing efficiency and improving access to justice. Key ongoing measures include optimisation of the judicial network and court organisation, more rational use of budgetary and human resources, improved allocation and training of judicial staff, implementation of digitalisation and modern case management tools, strengthening coordination between courts, prosecutors’ offices, and other judicial bodies. Particular emphasis is placed on reducing the backlog of cases. According to the Supreme Court, the Working Group for Monitoring the Implementation of the Unified Programme for Resolving Backlogs in the Republic of Serbia for the Period 2021–2025 regularly monitored the implementation of measures and recommendations by the courts. Digitalisation measures are also being implemented in parallel, including the introduction of modern information technologies enabling improved case tracking, easier access to information, and more efficient court administration. During 2025, the Working Group considered proposals for the preparation of the new Unified Programme for the Resolution of Backlogged Cases in the Republic of Serbia for the period 2026–2030. At its meeting held on 20 March 2026, the Working Group discussed the results of court performance in 2025 and initiated the preparation of a new methodology and objectives for the future backlog reduction programme. The new programme will be based on statistical data contained in the Annual Report on the Work of the Courts for 2025 and is expected to further strengthen efficiency, case management, and timely adjudication.
Kosovo*	KJC ANSWER: The Kosovo Judicial Council (KJC), in cooperation with other justice institutions, has initiated the drafting and finalization of legislation derived from the Joint Declaration of Commitment,(the reform package), with the aim of advancing judicial reforms. The legislative drafts have been reviewed with particular focus on enhancing the efficiency, independence, and transparency of the judicial system. The Civil Procedure Code for Kosovo is a legislative initiative aimed at harmonizing and modernizing civil procedures by consolidating them into a comprehensive document. The drafting process so far has involved joint work among the Ministry of Justice, the KJC, international partners, and other stakeholders, with a focus on efficiency, legal clarity, and practical implementation. The KJC has been part of the working group and has made significant contributions in this regard, providing recommendations and expertise. The Code is in the final stages of drafting. Establishment of the Administrative Court in Kosovo The establishment of the Administrative Court is part of the reforms under the Strategy for the Rule of Law and the Declaration of Commitment, aiming to increase efficiency and specialization in handling administrative cases. Steps taken by the KJC: The KJC has identified secondary legislation derived from the Law on Administrative Conflicts: 1.Regulation No. 01/2026 – On internal organization and the systematization of positions in the Administrative Court 2.KJC Decision No. 156/2026 – Approves Version 3 of the criteria for case distribution in the courts of the Republic of Kosovo through the Case Management Information System (SMIL) and the manner of implementation, supplemented with criteria for the Administrative Court 3.KJC Decision No. 155/2026 – Determines the conditions for transferring cases to the Administrative Court Professional judges and collaborators have been transferred to the Administrative Court. The KJC has decided that the Administrative Court will commence operations on May 5, 2026. KPC ANSWER: During 2025, the new Law on Kosovo Prosecutorial Council entered into force. This law changed the composition of the KPC, where from 13 members it now is foreseen to have 7 members. Also the permanent Committees of the KPC were reduced from 4 to 3. The changes with this law affected the administration as well. The Prosecutors’ performance review unit was removed from the law. In this regard, KPC is in the process of finalizing all sublegal acts that had to be changed because of these legal changes. MoJ Comment: Under discussion/in the process of adoption: The Joint Commitment Statement is one of the key reforms that Kosovo is taking in the justice sector. The Joint Commitment Statement includes laws on recruitment, performance evaluation, integrity control, and status of judges and prosecutors; amendments to the laws on the Kosovo Judicial Council, Kosovo Prosecutorial Council, disciplinary liability of judges and prosecutors, the Academy of Justice, and the administration of the judicial and prosecutorial systems. In November 2024, the Ministry requested an opinion from the Venice Commission on the draft laws, focusing on performance evaluation, asset declarations and integrity checks, retirement age, and disciplinary procedures. Between January and March 2025, consultations were held with Venice Commission experts, resulting in three opinions adopted at its 142nd Plenary Session. A final opinion on the Prosecutorial Council law was received on 14 October 2025. These draft laws finished public consultation process on 28 April 2026. Adopted and implemented: The reform of the administrative justice has taken its final shape. Following the Decision of the Constitutional Court issued on 9 January 2026, the Law on the Administrative Court, which was drafted by the Ministry of Justice, entered into force. This law establishes for the first time a specialized Administrative Court in the Republic of Kosovo. The Court exercises first-instance jurisdiction over all administrative disputes and labor disputes between natural persons and public bodies, as well as disputes between public bodies. It was functionalized officially on 5 May2026. Pending adoption: The Law on the State Bureau for Verification and Confiscation of Unjustifiable Assets, the Decision of the Constitutional Court issued on 9 January 2026, provided that the parliamentary procedure for its approval was not in accordance with the Constitution, therefore the Law could not enter into force. Following the establishment of the new Government, on 30 March 2026, the Government of the Republic of Kosovo approved the Draft Law on the State Bureau for Verification and Confiscation of Unjustifiable Assets. The Draft Law was approved in First Reading in the Assembly on 17 April 2026, and remains under review by the Assembly, pending approval in Second Reading following the completion of these reviews. However, this draft law differs from the existing legislation, as its scope is limited to the verification of wealth in the context of civil proceedings. The draft law establishes, organizes and determines the powers of the State Bureau for Verification and Confiscation of Unjustifiable Assets, a specialized authority responsible for monitoring, verifying and initiating confiscation proceedings concerning unjustifiable wealth, as well as determining the procedure for the verification and confiscation of unjustifiable assets. It establishes clear rules regarding the categories of persons subject to asset verification, the scope of assets to be declared, the timing and manner of declarations, and the institutional responsibilities for verification and confiscation. The draft law is broadly aligned with the EU acquis and, in particular, with the safeguards deriving from the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. It is also aligned, mutatis mutandis, with relevant secondary EU legislation, including Regulation (EU) 2018/1805, Directive 2014/42/EU and Directive (EU) 2024/1260, notwithstanding that these instruments primarily regulate criminal confiscation regimes. Additionally other planned reforms are: Approval of the Civil Code; The amendment of the Law on Mediation; The drafting and approval of the Civil Procedure Code; Amendment of the Law on Free Legal Aid; Amendment of the Criminal Code and Criminal Procedure Code; The amendment of the Law on Courts.

* This designation is without prejudice to positions on status, and is in line with UNSCR 1244 and the ICJ Opinion on the Kosovo Declaration of Independence.
