3rd activity report of the Lanzarote Committee

(covering the period 18 March 2016 – 12 May 2017)

Adopted by the Lanzarote Committee on 12 May 2017

Main achievements

- ▶ Special report “Protecting children affected by the refugee crisis from sexual exploitation and abuse”
- ▶ Declaration on “Web addresses advertising or promoting child sexual abuse material or images or any other offences established in accordance with the Lanzarote Convention”
- ▶ Work on trends in child sexual exploitation and abuse
- ▶ Interpretative opinion on “The applicability of the Lanzarote Convention to sexual offences against children facilitated through the use of information and communication technologies (ICTs)”
- ▶ Decisions on the second monitoring round on the “Protection of children against ICT facilitated sexual exploitation and sexual abuse”

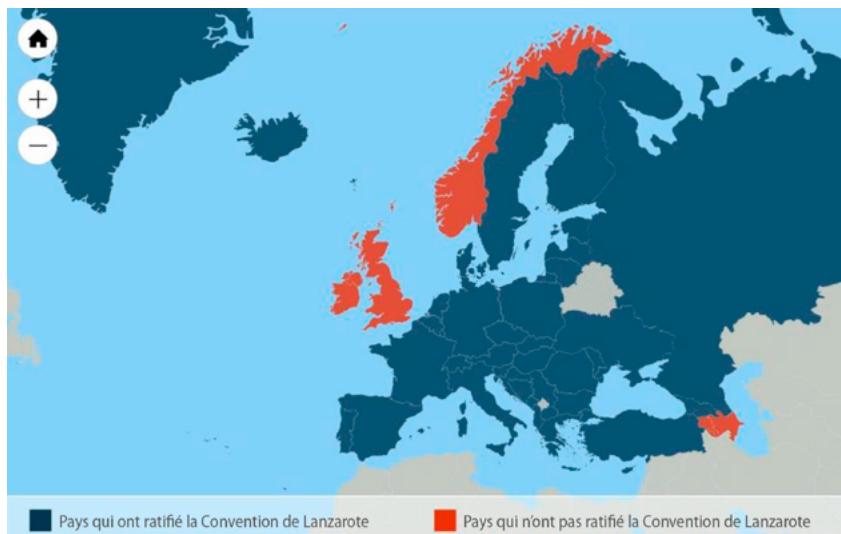

■ Article 39 of the Convention on the Protection of Children against Sexual Exploitation and Sexual Abuse (the “Lanzarote Convention”) provides for the creation of a Committee of the Parties to the Convention (the “Lanzarote Committee”).

■ This activity report covers the period from the 14th meeting of the Lanzarote Committee (15-17 March 2016) to its 18th meeting (10-12 May 2017) (see Appendix I – List of meetings of the Lanzarote Committee). It follows on from the Committee’s 1st and 2nd activity reports adopted on 11 September 2014 and 17 March 2016 respectively.

I. Composition of the Lanzarote Committee

— The Committee comprises:

- ▶ members (the Parties to the Lanzarote Convention);¹

- ▶ participants (in particular Council of Europe member states and observer states which are not yet parties to the Convention, the United Nations, the European Union and other intergovernmental organisations, together with the Council of Europe institutions and bodies);
- ▶ observers, particularly representatives of civil society.

(See Rule 2 – Composition – of the Committee’s Rules of Procedure, adopted by the Committee at its 2nd meeting on 29 and 30 March 2012 and revised at its 14th meeting on 15-17 March 2016). The composition of the Lanzarote Committee is shown in Appendix II.

— During the period covered by this activity report, the Lanzarote Committee received requests from the NGO “Hope for Children – National Centre of the Committee on the Rights of the Child (CRC) of the United Nations”, International Association of Juvenile and Family Judges and Magistrates, and the Independent

1. The Committee is composed of 42 members at the date of adoption of this report: see mapping out the Lanzarote Convention which shows the countries which have ratified the Convention and those which have not ratified it.

Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse (IICSA) to participate in its meetings as observers. The Committee approved the request of the first two and rejected that of the latter.

■ The Committee was chaired by Mr Claude Janizzi (Luxembourg) for the whole of the period covered by this activity report. The composition of the Bureau of the Lanzarote Committee and the list of representatives of the Lanzarote Committee to other entities is shown in Appendix III.

II. Functions of the Lanzarote Committee

■ The functions of the Lanzarote Committee are set out in Article 41 of the Convention. They comprise two main tasks: monitoring the implementation of the Convention by the States Parties and facilitating the collection, analysis and exchange of information, experience and good practice in order to build their capacity to prevent and combat sexual exploitation and sexual abuse of children.

A. Lanzarote Convention monitoring mechanism function

1. Drawing up of the 1st implementation report: protection of children against sexual abuse in the circle of trust

■ As explained in the 1st activity report and in the 2nd activity report, the Lanzarote Committee decided that the monitoring of implementation of the Convention by the Parties would be based on a thematic approach and the theme of the monitoring in the first round would focus on sexual abuse of children in the circle of trust.

■ It was also decided that all the Parties would be monitored at the same time, and not assessed on a country-specific basis, and that two implementation reports would be adopted for the 1st round of thematic monitoring, each dealing with a specific sub-theme. These reports are based on an analysis of national situations as they emerged from the replies of the 26 States Parties which had ratified the Convention at the time the monitoring round was launched² and other stakeholders (mainly civil society) to a Thematic Questionnaire. The replies received are published on the Committee's website.

2. i.e.: Albania, Austria, Belgium, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, Denmark, Finland, France, Greece, Iceland, Italy, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Republic of Moldova, Montenegro, Netherlands, Portugal, Romania, San Marino, Serbia, Spain, "The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia", Turkey and Ukraine.

■ The 1st report was adopted on 4 December 2015 and published on the Committee’s website, together with its Appendices (which reproduce the main information on the applicable legislation). It focuses on the framework of the criminal law and associated judicial proceedings regarding sexual abuse of children in the circle of trust (“The Framework”).

■ The 2nd implementation report will focus on the structures, measures and processes in place to prevent and protect children from sexual abuse in the circle of trust (“The Strategies”). The Committee began working on this second report in the first quarter of 2016 and continued throughout the period covered by this activity report. It examined, in particular, the reports prepared on the following issues:

- ▶ raising awareness on sexual abuse in the circle of trust;
- ▶ participation of children, the private sector, the media and civil society;
- ▶ education for children;
- ▶ specialised training;
- ▶ preventive intervention programmes or measures;
- ▶ recruitment and screening;
- ▶ denial of exercise of professional or voluntary activity;
- ▶ reporting suspicion of sexual abuse.

■ The Lanzarote Committee should finalise the report and adopt it at its 19th meeting (25-27 October 2017). The indicative timetable for the first monitoring round is reproduced in Appendix IV.

2. Drawing up and adoption of the special implementation report: Protecting children affected by the refugee crisis from sexual exploitation and abuse

■ In March 2016 the Secretary General of the Council of Europe called for a set of priority actions focusing on protecting children affected by the refugee crisis to be taken.

■ In this context, the Lanzarote Committee recognised the high risk of children affected by the refugee crisis being or becoming victims of sexual exploitation or abuse. It decided, therefore, at its 15th meeting (14-17 June 2016) to make urgent requests for information to the States Parties to the Lanzarote Convention, in accordance with Article 28 of its Rules of Procedure (special reports and urgent situations). A special report was adopted following this process on 3 March 2017, together with its Appendices. It is based on an analysis of national situations drawing on replies from the 41 States

Parties which had ratified the Convention at the time the urgent monitoring round was launched³ and other stakeholders (mainly civil society) to a focused questionnaire. The replies received are published on the Committee's website.

Executive Summary of the implementation report “Protection of children against sexual abuse in the circle of trust - The framework”, adopted by the Lanzarote Committee on 4 December 2015

The Special Report draws on replies from the Parties to the Lanzarote Convention and other stakeholders to a focused questionnaire. This questionnaire sought to evince answers that would allow the mapping of the Parties' responses to the increased risks of sexual violence that confronts children affected by the refugee crisis. Information was sought on four broad topics: 1) Data; 2) Prevention; 3) Protection; and 4) Co-operation.

A number of the systemic challenges that have been brought into sharp focus by the increased numbers of people arriving in Europe looking for international protection are raised by the Report. These challenges can have particularly worrying consequences for children affected by the refugee crisis, exposing them to a risk of sexual exploitation and sexual abuse. They are particularly pertinent for both those children who arrive in Europe unaccompanied, and those who go missing after arrival, with their heightened vulnerability posing an increased risk of them falling victim to sexual violence. The Lanzarote Committee commends Parties who have put in place procedures to address such challenges.

The Special Report regrets that it remains the case that data collection is sporadic and non-comprehensive across Parties. It is probable that the number of instances of sexual exploitation and abuse is significantly under-reported. There are no specific data collection mechanisms or focal points tasked with collecting data on child sexual exploitation and abuse within the context of the refugee crisis. Reasons explaining the difficulties in capturing such data cut across a number of sectors such as limited capacity, insufficient training, abuse not reported due to linguistic or trust issues, or practical difficulties in establishing the number of migrant children on the territory. It is clear that more accurate data would help all relevant actors and stakeholders frame, adjust, and evaluate policies in this field.

3. i.e.: Albania, Andorra, Austria, Belgium, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, France, Georgia, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Italy, Latvia, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Republic of Moldova, Monaco, Montenegro, Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Russian Federation, San Marino, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, “The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia”, Turkey and Ukraine.

The uneven distribution across the continent of children affected by the refugee crisis is stark, with some Parties reporting very few or no such children on their territories, whereas other Parties are receiving thousands of such children. Therefore some Parties' child support services are bearing a disproportionately large burden, while others have not tested the implementation of their child protection approaches in this context.

Reception centres need to provide adequate protection for children, with prolonged stays in inappropriate conditions increasing a child's risk of exposure to sexual exploitation or sexual abuse. Parties have taken steps to improve the available facilities and lodging solutions for children, and work in this sphere must continue to ensure that children can be helped and assisted in a non-traumatising environment. It is reiterated that unaccompanied children should be separated from adults in reception centres, and that robust complaint mechanisms to report abuse must be effective.

Parties have indicated that a number of children go missing from reception facilities. This is of concern, and steps to identify the children that are at particular risk of going missing and to develop specific protocols to support those children to avoid their disappearance are needed to confront this. A number of Parties are implementing methods to avoid that children go missing through increased co-operation between relevant authorities to record and trace disappearances. These efforts could be further fortified by transnational development of common strategies and procedures.

The Committee notes that numerous challenges need to be met to ensure effective preventive measures are taken to target the specific needs of children affected by the refugee crisis. Culture and language differences can pose problems for Parties when screening children for signs of sexual exploitation and abuse, and for transmitting relevant information and advice. Appropriate arrangements should be made to ensure that children receive information on their rights, on care facilities and on procedures available to them in a language they understand, that is culturally and gender appropriate. Equally, all personnel (professional or voluntary) that come into contact with children should be adequately trained, and screened in order to give the best possible protection to children affected by the refugee crisis.

■ This report contains specific recommendations drawn up by the Lanzarote Committee on measures to be taken to improve or reinforce the protection of children affected by the refugee crisis against sexual abuse. Promising practices are also highlighted.

3. Drawing up and adoption of a declaration on “Web addresses advertising or promoting child sexual abuse material or images or any other offences established in accordance with the Lanzarote Convention”

■ Having been alerted by its Working Group on Trends in Child Sexual Exploitation and Abuse, the Lanzarote Committee noted that the registering of web addresses or domain names which blatantly advertise or promote child sexual abuse material or images or offences established under the Lanzarote Convention was a serious and unacceptable practice, justifying the adoption of a declaration on this issue. The Committee recognised that whether web addresses hosted illegal contents or not was a separate issue.

■ This declaration was adopted by the Lanzarote Committee on 16 June 2016.

Declaration on web addresses advertising or promoting child sexual abuse material or images or any other offences established in accordance with the Lanzarote Convention

1. Concerned by the registering of web addresses which self-evidently advertise or promote criminal offences against children and recalling that, on 3 June 2015, the Committee of the Ministers of the Council of Europe adopted a Declaration on the Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers \(ICANN\), human rights and the rule of law, encouraging its member States, through their Governmental Advisory Committee (GAC) membership to ensure that ICANN assumes responsibility for respecting internationally-recognised human rights law and standards;
2. Recalling that in accordance with Article 8§2 of the Council of Europe Convention on the Protection of Children against Sexual Exploitation and Sexual Abuse (Lanzarote Convention), Parties should “take the necessary legislative or other measures to prevent or prohibit the dissemination of materials advertising the offences established in accordance with this Convention”;
3. Affirming the importance for web addresses or names not to self-evidently advertise or promote child sexual abuse material or images or any of the offenses established in accordance with the Lanzarote Convention;

The Lanzarote Committee:

Urges its Parties to ensure that Article 8§2 of the Lanzarote Convention is effectively implemented by calling on competent authorities and bodies, at a national and/or international level, to:

- a. take the necessary measures to identify any web addresses which self-evidently advertise or promote child sexual abuse material or images or any other offences established in accordance with the Lanzarote Convention;
- b. take the necessary measures to remove any such web addresses and to ensure that no new such addresses are registered.

■ The Declaration was consequently promoted within the Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers (ICANN), in particular through representatives to the Government Advisory Committee (GAC).

4. Work on trends in child sexual exploitation and abuse

■ The Lanzarote Committee's Working Group on Trends in Child Sexual Exploitation and Abuse continued its discussions throughout the period covered by this activity report. It identified a number of trends which were presented to the Lanzarote Committee at its 15th meeting (14-17 June 2016), including:

- ▶ sexual coercion and extortion;
- ▶ commercial child sexual exploitation (payments and the phenomenon of teenagers' pimps, so-called "lover boys");
- ▶ peer-to-peer sexual violence;
- ▶ self-generated sexual images and material (SGIM) of children initiated by themselves;
- ▶ live online (distant) child sexual exploitation and abuse;
- ▶ sex chatting/sexting;
- ▶ bad hosting;
- ▶ anonymity and encryption of data/use of the darknet;
- ▶ virtual reality;
- ▶ taking pictures and/or videos of naked children for the purposes of sexual gratification;
- ▶ audio and written materials;
- ▶ compensation for victims;
- ▶ data retention;
- ▶ extraterritoriality and discrepancies due to differences in the legal age for sexual activities.

■ The Working Group looked, in particular, into whether and how these trends are covered by the Lanzarote Convention and the EU Directive on combating the sexual abuse and sexual exploitation of children and child pornography.

■ To follow up its work, the Working Group has proposed three types of action on most of the trends mentioned above (adoption of opinions to complement the Lanzarote Convention; organisation of awareness-raising activities; conducting further research and studies before deciding on possible action).

■ The work of the Working Group has also been very useful in choosing the theme of the second monitoring round on the “Protection of children against ICT facilitated sexual exploitation and sexual abuse” and preparing a draft thematic questionnaire on this issue (see point 6 below).

5. Interpretative opinion on the “Applicability of the Lanzarote Convention to sexual offences against children facilitated through the use of information and communication technologies (ICTs)”

■ The aforementioned work of the Working Group on Trends in Child Sexual Exploitation and Abuse also made it possible to draw up an interpretative opinion on “The applicability of the Lanzarote Convention to sexual offences against children facilitated through the use of information and communication technologies \(ICTs\)” adopted by the Lanzarote Committee on 12 May 2017.

■ This opinion recognises, in particular, that the ICTs “have created new means for sexual offenders to target and harm children, and that at the time of adoption of the Lanzarote Convention the uses of those means were not known to the same extent as today”. It also bears in mind that “children may be exposed to many of the same risks online as offline, such as being persuaded to engage in sexually explicit conduct (whether real or simulated), being recruited or coerced to participate in pornographic performances, or caused to witness sexual abuse or sexual activities”.

■ The opinion also stresses that “many children are victims of sexual exploitation and abuse in multiple ways: they are victims of the offenders carrying out the physical sexual abuse against them, and simultaneously of the offenders who produce, distribute, demand, order, sell or buy, exchange, download, or stream content on child sexual exploitation and abuse, or through any other ICTs assist in and contribute to, the sexual exploitation and sexual abuse of those children”.

■ Lastly, this opinion holds, in particular, that “the existing offences in the Lanzarote Convention remain criminalised by national law in the same way, whatever the means used by sexual offenders to commit them, be it through the use of ICTs or not, even when the text of the Lanzarote Convention does not specifically mention ICTs”.

■ The full wording of this opinion is reproduced in Appendix V of this activity report.

6. Decisions concerning the second monitoring round on the “Protection of children against ICT facilitated sexual exploitation and sexual abuse”

■ The Lanzarote Committee decided to devote its second monitoring round to the “Protection of children against ICT facilitated sexual exploitation and sexual abuse”, focusing in particular on self-generated sexually explicit images and/or videos and sexual coercion and/or extortion based on them. To this end, it prepared a draft thematic questionnaire which, once adopted, will be addressed to the Parties of the Lanzarote Convention, thus initiating the monitoring round.⁴

B. Exchange of information, experience and good practices function

■ The Lanzarote Committee is also tasked with facilitating the collection, analysis and exchange of information, experience and good practices among states to enhance their capacity to prevent and combat sexual exploitation and sexual abuse of children. Accordingly, the Committee can organise capacity-building activities, information exchanges and hearings on specific issues raised by the implementation of the Convention.

■ In this context, during the period covered by this activity report, the Lanzarote Committee⁵ made a study visit to Interpol (Lyon, France, 22 November 2016) at the latter’s invitation. The visit was intended for members of the Lanzarote Committee to learn about the functioning and activities of Interpol in the area of combating child sexual exploitation and provided an opportunity for dialogue including on the work carried out by Interpol relating to the situation of unaccompanied migrant children and online child sexual exploitation. Various presentations were also given of the international

4. Since the adoption of this activity report, it should be underlined that, as no objection was submitted to the questionnaire by the set deadline, the questionnaire is considered as adopted on 2 June 2017. The deadline for Parties to reply is 25 October 2017 and, within 2 months from the registering of Parties replies, other stakeholders (in particular civil society) may submit comments on such replies.
 5. The members of the Lanzarote Committee were accompanied, for this study visit, by a senior law enforcement officer.

database on child sexual exploitation set up by Interpol, the notices system and BASELINE, IWOL and CAPSEND products. Lastly, the visit opened up prospects for increased co-operation between the Committee and Interpol, especially its Crimes against Children Unit (the programme is available online).

■ In addition, representatives of the Lanzarote Committee have taken part in various events organised on the initiative of states or other stakeholders, in order to facilitate exchange of views and experience on the implementation of the Convention (see Appendix VI). Finally, several representatives of other international, governmental and non-governmental organisations and experts presented their activities which are relevant to the work of the Committee (see Appendix VII).

Appendix V – Interpretative Opinion on the “Applicability of the Lanzarote Convention to sexual offences against children facilitated through the use of information and communication technologies (ICTs)”

Adopted by the Lanzarote Committee on 12 May 2017

1. Acknowledging that information and communication technologies (ICTs) have created new means for sexual offenders to target and harm children, and that at the time of adoption of the Lanzarote Convention the uses of those means were not known to the same extent as today, and acknowledging also that ICTs are constantly and rapidly evolving;
2. Bearing in mind that children are increasingly using ICTs, in particular social media and mobile messaging applications, to communicate and form relationships, which may, in some cases, bring them into contact with sexual offenders;
3. Acknowledging the specific developmental needs of children who sexually offend through ICTs, with the aim of addressing their sexual behavioural problems;
4. Bearing in mind that children may be exposed to many of the same risks online as offline, such as being persuaded to engage in sexually explicit conduct (whether real or simulated), being recruited or coerced to participate in pornographic performances, or caused to witness sexual abuse or sexual activities;
5. Stressing that many children are victims of sexual exploitation and abuse in multiple ways: they are victims of the offenders carrying out the physical sexual abuse against them, and simultaneously of the offenders who produce, distribute, demand, order, sell or buy, exchange, download, or stream content on child sexual exploitation and abuse, or through any other ICTs assist in and contribute to, the sexual exploitation and sexual abuse of those children;
6. Bearing in mind the long-lasting harmful impact of sexual offences against children facilitated through the use of ICTs on the victims, given the fact that child sexual abuse material, such as images and videos, often remain and continue to circulate online long after the physical sexual abuse has been committed;
7. Recognising the transnational character often present in sexual offences against children which are facilitated by ICTs, and the fact that this may complicate the identification of the victims and prosecution of offenders;

8. Recalling that the Lanzarote Convention establishes that Parties shall protect children from all forms of sexual exploitation and abuse;

9. Stressing, in this regard, that Parties shall ensure that children's well-being and best interests are protected notwithstanding the way in which they have been victimised, or the means used to enable or facilitate their sexual exploitation or abuse;

10. Underlining that the sexual exploitation and abuse of children "facilitated through the use of ICTs" refers to the means that are being employed by the offenders targeting children in order to commit the offences that are covered by the Lanzarote Convention and does not create new substantive offences;

11. Bearing in mind that Parties determine how they address the offences covered by the Lanzarote Convention within their national legal framework;

The Committee holds that:

12. The existing offences in the Lanzarote Convention remain criminalised by national law in the same way, whatever the means used by sexual offenders to commit them, be it through the use of ICTs or not, even when the text of the Lanzarote Convention does not specifically mention ICTs;

13. In implementing the Lanzarote Convention, Parties should ensure appropriate responses to technological developments and use all relevant tools, measures and strategies to effectively prevent and combat sexual offences against children which are facilitated through the use of ICTs;

14. In order to ensure effective investigation and prosecution of sexual offences against children facilitated through the use of ICTs, resources should be allocated and training should be provided to authorities responsible for investigation and prosecution;

15. In addition to the actual damage caused to the victim, due attention should be paid to the specific long-term impact that sexual offences against children facilitated through the use of ICTs can have on the victims given the continued existence of child sexual abuse and exploitation material online long after the act has been committed;

16. Parties shall develop or adapt programmes or measures to meet the specific developmental needs of children who sexually offend through ICTs with the aim of addressing their sexual behavioural problems;

17. Parties shall encourage the private sector working in the field of ICTs to contribute to preventing and combatting sexual exploitation and abuse of children that is facilitated through the use of ICTs;

18. Parties shall, in accordance with Article 10 of the Convention, encourage co-operation between the competent state authorities, civil society and the private sector in order to better prevent and combat child sexual exploitation and abuse that is facilitated through the use of ICTs;

19. Parties shall, in accordance with Article 38 of the Convention, co-operate in order to face the transnational character often present in sexual offences against children facilitated through the use of ICTs.
