

Conference
Preventing sexual abuse of children
Madrid, 10-11 December 2013

Focused prevention:
intervention programmes with perpetrators and potential perpetrators

Moderator: Mr Santiago Redondo,
Professor of Psychology and Criminology, University of Barcelona (Spain)

Summary

For reducing sexual abuse of children, interventions and treatment with perpetrators are also relevant, in order to decrease the risk of new victimizations. In this session different initiatives and interventions with offenders from different countries will be presented. It includes attention on the connection between cognition and sexual abuse, the use of proactive strategies of prevention, and intervention programmes with juvenile delinquents and adult offenders.
