Annually, the National Agency for Employment draws up the Programme of Workforce Employment given the powers conferred by legislation in force, which implements active measures to stimulate employment, as provided by Law no. 76/2002, as amended and supplemented.

- Professional training is one of active measures to be granted to all registered persons with the National Agency for Employment, which have the capacity of people looking for a job.
- Through the National Professional Training Programme, developed annually by the National Agency for Employment according to Art. 65 of Law no. 76/2002, as amended and supplemented, shall ensure initiation, (re)qualification, training, specialization courses organized both by a network of centers subordinated to the National Agency for Employment (regional professional training centers for adults and the 22 own training centers of the county agencies of employment) and by authorized training providers (public and private).
- The overall objective of the National Professional Training Plan for 2010 is to increase and diversify the skills of persons seeking employment and in particular of those from vulnerable groups so that they lead to the jobs maintenance by increasing productivity, and avoid long-term unemployment.

In order to fulfill course of action related to increased participation in professional training at least 7% of the population of working age between 25-64 years and to support the establishment and operation of sectoral committees, as provided in the Government Programme, the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection has proposed to amend the Government Ordinance no. 129/2000 on adult vocational training, as amended and supplemented. The purpose of legislative changes aimed at:

- Adapt legislation on professional training of adults in the current labour market conditions and needs,
- Ensuring consistency with the policies of education and
- Improve the quality of the programmes of continuing vocational training.

To provide the same course of action, the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection has made changes and additions to Law no. 132/1999, republished, on the establishment, organization and functioning of the National Council for Adults Vocational Training, as amended and supplemented by the Government Emergency Ordinance no. 28/2009 on the regulation of social protection measures.

Sectoral Committees plays a key role in developing, updating and validation of national qualifications, and in building the National Qualifications Framework, as an essential tool of correspondence between the national and European qualifications used in the qualifications analysis and planning. Government Emergency Ordinance no. 28/2009 establishes sectoral committees organization as social dialogue institutions of public utility, with legal personality, at the branches of activity level and defined by the collective labour contract at national level, in force.

Also the legal regulations introduced provide both the financing sources of sectoral committees and the rights and obligations arising from the quality of social dialogue institutions of public utility.

These legislative changes have established both a uniform procedure for obtaining legal personality by the sectoral committees and the main tasks of the sectoral committees.

We note that to effectively respond to the challenges of the labour market in Romania, in the future, the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection is considering amending the legal framework aiming to stimulate employment and to simplify and make flexible the implementation of the measures to stimulate employment, so that they become more attractive for the two categories of beneficiaries - people seeking employment and employers - and their development and improvement, in order to make a quick adjustment of active measures in the context of economic and labour market requirements.

In this respect, we promote permanently active measures provided by specific legislation to stimulate employment, namely Law no. 76/2002 on the unemployment insurance system and employment stimulation, with subsequent amendments, which provide the necessary framework for achieving strategies and policies designed to protect people for risk of unemployment, provide a high level of employment and workforce adjustment to the labour market requirements and to stimulate employers to hire unemployed people.

Article 1§2

According to national legislation, namely Law no. 76 of 16 January 2002 on the unemployment insurance system and employment stimulation, with subsequent amendments and changes, in Romania each people are guaranteed the right to choose freely their profession and workplace, and the right to unemployment insurance .

Considering the great difficulties caused by economic and financial crisis, the Romanian Government came to support employees and employers to overcome successfully this time. In this respect, it was adopted the Emergency Ordinance no. 28/2009 on the regulation of social protection measures.

The Emergency Ordinance no.28/2009 provided the extension of unemployment benefits by three months for people whose employment or service relationship stopped after the entry into force of the Emergency Ordinance (March 25, 2009), but not later than 31 December 2009. Also, for the unemployed enjoying unemployment benefits on the entry into force of this emergency ordinance, grant period is extended by three months from the date when that right was established.

According to data from the National Agency for Employment, between March and December 2009, a total of 262,777 people benefited from the provisions of this act.

Due to the fact that in 2009 this measure had a positive impact on companies that were forced to temporarily suspend their work, was adopted Emergency Ordinance no. 4 / 2010 on the regulation of social protection measures for 2010.

In accordance with the provisions of this ordinance, the employer supports only 75% of basic salary related to the job as provided in art. 53 para. (1) of Law no.53/2003 - Labour Code, as amended and supplemented, as these benefits, paid from the payroll during the temporary interruption of business of the employer are not included in wages income and are not taxable, as to income tax required by Law no. 571/2003 regarding the Fiscal Code, as amended and supplemented.

And in 2010, as in the previous, the period for which the individual employees whose contracts of employment are suspended and employers of these employees are exempt from paying social security contributions due by law, is considered a contribution period without payment.

Measures under the Government Emergency Ordinance no. 4 / 2010 were applied since February 2010 to December 2010, exemption from social security contributions was for a maximum 90 days in 2010.

It should be noted that, unlike 2009, this year employers were required to submit to the territorial labour inspectorate within whose jurisdiction they were based, an affidavit showing that they were in one of the situations under Article 52 para. (1) d) of Law nr.53/2003, as amended and supplemented (i.e. for interruption of business particularly for economic, technological, structural reasons or similar) at the time they found the respective situations. Emergency Ordinance 4 / 2010 expressly provide that, in accordance with their legal competence, Labour Inspection and the National Tax Administration Agency, through their territorial subordinated institutions regularly check employers receiving social protection measures.

According to data recorded by the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection, in 2010 there were 13,459 employers that have suspended business activities, benefiting from the measures provided by the Emergency Ordinance No.4/2010 , and a total of 548,999 employees whose individual employment contracts were suspended, received the same ordinance provisions.

To support the creation of new jobs and reduce unemployment was adopted another bill, including measures designed to assist employers by reducing partially the work force costs in the unemployed category. It's the Emergency Ordinance no. 13 of 23.02.2010 on the regulation of measures to stimulate the creation of new jobs and reduce unemployment in 2010, which was intended, on the one hand, to reduce the tax burden on employers and on the other, focus on incentives measures to hire unemployed people, a category severely affected by this crisis.

According to this legislation employers who, in 2010, employed unemployed benefited from exemption from social security contributions for employing the unemployed for six months.

Employers had to hire in the new jobs created, regardless of the contract type, unemployed persons, and maintain them in activity for at least 12 months since the employment date. Also, employers could take advantage of this advantage only if they employ people from the unemployed people registered at employment agencies for at least 3 months before the hiring decision.

Another compulsory condition requires that between employers and unemployed workers do not exist employment relationships in the last 6 months prior to their employment.

Employers who qualify for exemption from paying social security contributions and, in the period between the entry into force of this legislation and the expiry of those 12 months, operating other dismissals, reasons not attributable to the employee, were required to pay social security contributions that have been exempted.

Employers benefited from this advantage only if the jobs envisaged to establish a work relationship were new jobs created and no available jobs.

Also, a condition that the employer had to meet refers to the fact that the jobs did not have to be the result of the termination of employment relationship in the last 6 months prior to the establishment of employment relation under the provisions of that ordinance.

To ensure an adequate level of protection for workers employed under the present law, the period during which employers paid social security contributions represented a contribution period without employer's contribution payment.

Thus, employers were exempt from social security contributions, unemployment insurance contribution, the contribution of insurance for work accidents and occupational diseases, the contribution to the guarantee fund for payment of wage claims, the contribution for health insurance, including contribution for holidays and health insurance benefits due by employers under the law.

According to data from the National Agency for Employment in 2010 benefited from this law number of 3625 employers, which led to the employment of 6072 people..

Professional training

Improving workforce skills is a priority and a necessity of the Government, as reflected by the reform measures adopted in education and on lifelong learning. One of the challenges facing our country is on adaptability of human resources dynamic to the requirements of the economy and labour market.

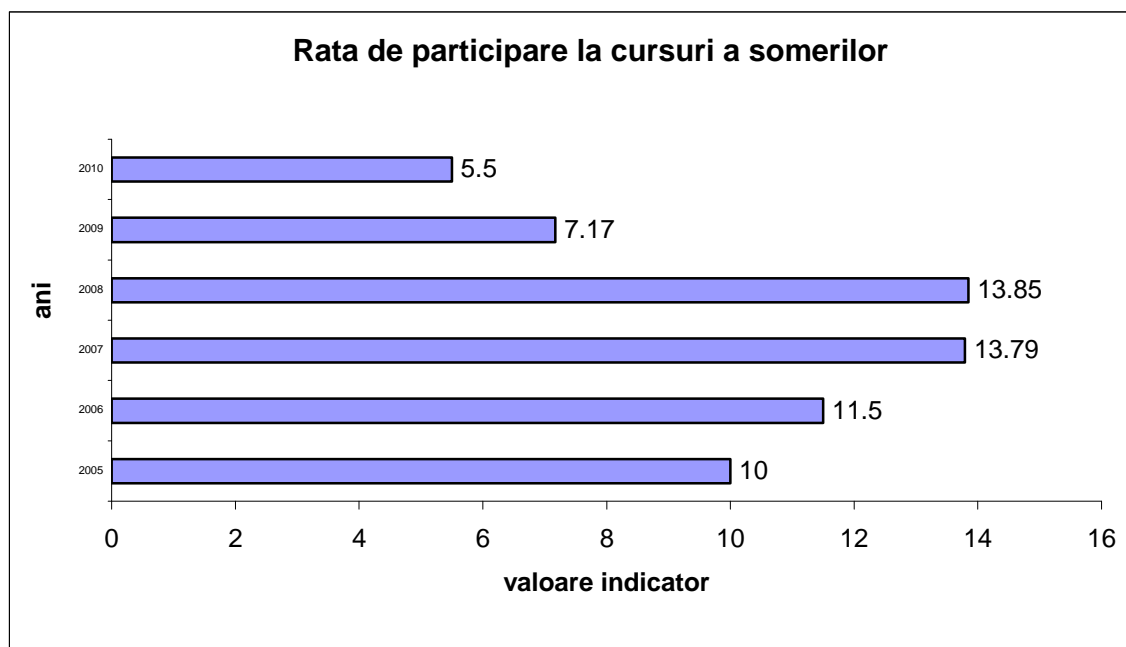

In this context we attach great importance to training programmes that ensure initiation, qualification, development and specialization of peopler looking for a job. Training activity takes place according to the national training plan developed annually by the National Agency for Employment, based on proposals and studies prepared by county agencies for employment, and approved by the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection.

Professional training is taking into account the current and future labour market requirements to be according to individual skills and options of people looking for a job.

People looking for a job and people operating in rural areas and do not earn a monthly income or an income lower than the reference social indicator in force and which are registered in employment agencies shall benefit of free professional training services.

Article 1§4

According to the annual management performance contract concluded between the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection and the National Agency for Employment since 2008 for professional training was set a performance indicator "rate of participation in vocational training of unemployed " whose value was 15%, however, it can be seen from the diagram below, that the level of this indicator has not reached the level set..

Participation rate in training courses of the unemployed

Indicator value

The cause of this indicator failure is represented by factors related to management and internal organization:

- the different capacity of each agency to turn to the requirements of employers, resulted in differences from one county to another, regarding the execution of the training plan; there are local agencies that have achieved and even exceeded the approved training plan, but there are also agencies whose performance was well below expectations,
- Insufficient budgetary allocation for training activities, implementation of the budget at the end of 2009 was 98.4%, which is reflected in the rate of the plan completion, only 83%;
- companies preferred to employ and train in their own facilities the staff they needed, leading to lower participation rate in professional training;
- Massive labourforce migration abroad;
- Reduced demand from economic agents to train professionally their employees on the ground largely excessive bureaucracy in accessing facilities offered by the legislation in force (art.48¹ of Law 76/2002);
- Low interest of economic agents to form their own employees, training them is considered to be a cost burden and not as a medium and long term investment;
- Insufficient staff at the territorial agencies for employment as a result of staff cuts over the past two years, which led to a situation where the same person has to manage several activities.

For 2011 it was an attempt to establish a more realistic indicator, its value being between 7% and 10%.

To improve training activity is trying to implement the following measures:

- A more accurate assessment of needs, offers sizing a better qualification and structuring of training programmes of each regional agencies;
- Increasing the number of permits to assess the skills obtained in other ways than formal;
- Intensification of economic relations with territorial agencies for a better match of demand and supply of labourforce;
- Increasing the number of participants looking for a job to attend courses funded by the ESF.

Article 48¹ of the same Law no.76/2002 on the unemployment insurance system and employment stimulation, with subsequent amendments, provides that "the purpose of preventing unemployment and jobs consolidation by increasing and diversification of the professional skills of people employed, employers who organize, based on the annual training plan, training programmes for their employees, conducted by providers of service training, authorized by law, shall be granted an amount from the unemployment insurance budget, representing 50% of the cost of training services held for a maximum 20% of the employed personnel."

Employers can benefit from this amount to run a single training programme in a year.

The respective amount will be provided from the unemployment insurance budget, from chapter "Educational expenses", up to at least 15%, to employers selected annually by the Agency for Employment.

According to Article 66¹ of the same Law, people seeking for a job, receiving services for free training, have the following rights:

- a) receive theoretical and practical training throughout the course and support free of charge up to twice the graduation exam to its completion;
- b) to receive supplies and training materials and manuals;
- c) benefit, if appropriate, of protective equipment during practical training;
- d) benefit, to travel from home to training unit, of free transport subscription or, where appropriate, reimbursement of travel expenses for up to four trips a month, if they can not travel daily to the training unit, as provided by regulations in force for employees of public institutions and autonomous administrations that are highly specific, during temporary work in another town, and for the movement inside the locality, in the interest of service and a free subscription for the public transport company, from the accommodation place to the training unit;
- e) to receive medical consultations, medical tests and tests required to attend the course.

According to Law no. 233 of 7 December 2010 amending and supplementing Law no. 76/2002 on the unemployment insurance system and employment stimulation, people receiving unemployment benefits, except those participating in training programmes organized under the law, which receive irredeemable funding from financial assistance granted to Romania, as EU member state, through the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF), European Social Fund (ESF) and Cohesion Fund (CF), while they participate in these training programmes, if, prior to inclusion in such training programmes were not included in the services to boost employment and training offered by the agency for employment, are required to attend training programmes offered and organized by employment agencies and to pass the final examination

The existence of the possibility of participation in training other than those funded from the unemployment insurance budget has led to the introduction of legislation details to stipulate that those participating in courses funded by the ESF, ERDF, CF be exempted from further participation in training provided by the agency for employment, if people do not already participate in employment and professional training courses funded from the unemployment insurance budget, a relief for this budget, by encouraging participation in professional training supported from alternative sources of financing, having as effect both an increased attraction of European irredeemable fund and participation in adult vocational training

Development of professional skills of the unemployed is a prerequisite for rapid finding of a new job, so that the in an attempt to make the unemployed realize the benefits of vocational training, providing passive support (unemployment benefits) is conditioned by requiring participation in training courses funded from the Unemployment Insurance Budget, and in the final examination, for those people who do not participate in courses organized by other funds.

ARTICLE 9 – RIGHT TO VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Nationally, in the period 2007-2010 disabled people received free information services, advice and guidance as follows:

YEAR	DISABLED PEOPLE
2007	1868
2008	1661
2009	1888
2010	1322

Information, advice and guidance services were provided by their own local structures and external suppliers, with which agents have signed contracts and have received financial support for providing these services from the unemployment insurance budget.

We appreciate that training is of great benefit in terms of increasing employment opportunities, ensuring people mobility on labour market .

Because the waiting time for finding a new job is so low, an unemployed person can quickly take up a job, if that person has previously attended a training course which led to his acquiring the necessary skills to receive the job.

Thus, people looking for a job and the unemployed can receive free training to ensure their growth and diversification of professional skills and ensure mobility and reintegration into the labour market.

Training funding is provided from the unemployment insurance budget and is done by employment agencies through training centers in their jurisdiction and regional centers for training of adults within the National Agency for Employment, as well as by suppliers of training services, public or private, authorized by law.

Thus, for 2010, the National Training Plan prepared by the National Agency for Employment proposed the training programmes coverage, at national level, of a number of 47,423 people, of which 1,662 people were to pay the equivalent training services, and 45,761 were to be beneficiaries of free training services.

By 31/12/2010, in the training programmes organized by the National Agency for Employment, starting in January 2010, 35,454 people were included, of which:

- 33.682 unemployed,
- 666 people among the beneficiaries of free services training, other than the unemployed,
- 1.106 people among those who do not benefit from free services.

Regarding stimulation through fiscal measures, participation in continuing vocational training of employees, a priority for action set by the Government Programme 2009-2012, should be mentioned that the draft-bill amending and supplementing Law no. 76/2002 focuses on simplifying implementation measure of co-financing from the unemployment insurance budget the expenses for employees' professional training.

At this point, the law gives the opportunity to employers that organize, based on the annual training plan, training programmes for their employees, to receive from the unemployment insurance budget, an amount representing 50% of the cost of training services held for a maximum of 20% of staff. In the future, we want an increase of the coverage rate of this measure in terms of number of employees who may participate in training programmes organized by employers who accesses the unemployment insurance budget, subsidies to cover the costs of these programmes.

Labour Ministry has also proposed, the amendment of Law no. 279/2005 on apprenticeship in the workplace. Legislative changes aimed primarily at:

- Increasing the attractiveness of this way of training and labour market insertion,
- Simplification of licensing and certification of apprentice master and employers,

- Providing access of young and other people categories at risk of becoming unemployed, to the apprenticeship scheme (eliminating age limits of recipients).

In order to fulfill course of action related to increased participation in training of at least 7% of the population of working age between 25-64 years and supporting the establishment and operation of sectoral committees, included in the Government Programme, the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection elaborated draft law amending Government Ordinance no. 129/2000 on adult vocational training, with subsequent amendments, aimed at:

- Adapting legislation on professional training of adults for the current needs and labour market conditions,
- Ensuring consistency with the policies of education and
- Improve the quality of vocational training programmes.

Legislative programme to meet the Government Programme for 2009 - 2012 provides the amendment of Law 76/2002 on the unemployment insurance system and employment stimulation in order to diversify employment incentives and simplify the of certain implementation conditions. One aspect considered is to provide financial support during the unemployed not paid, during their participating in a training course.

Along with the work of psycho-pedagogical assistance county centers operate educational counseling and career guidance provided by classroom tutors. In terms of legislation, the latest act is OMECI no. 5132/2009 on the specific activities of tutor function. In the Annex to this order Art. 3 para. 1 states: „ Tutors support educational activities, counseling and career guidance for the students of the class that he/she coordinates ”

According to these duties, the classroom tutors organize a series of activities with educational and vocational guidance role, both in class and outside school. Programmes for master classes / counseling include dedicated topics. School programmes, as part of the curriculum were adopted by the orders of Minister in 2006: no. 5286 for primary education, no. 5287 for secondary education and no. 5288 for high school.

The education institutions, especially high schools, include in their extracurricular activities, the participation in educational fairs providing offers, organize "open doors" days.

A great involvement has, for example, the organization Junior Achievement Romania - a nonprofit organization founded in 1993, part of Junior Achievement Worldwide® SUA and Junior Achievement - Young Enterprise Europe. Some successful actions in recent years have included (as an example) International Programme Job Shadow Day (JSD) offering students a true picture of the business community and jobs offer, helping them to find more easily an answer to the questions: "What do I do after I finish school? Where I want to work? What can be the best job for me? ".

By participating in the programme, students spend several hours in the "shadow" of an employee of a company / institution, having the opportunity to learn more about the activities, duties and responsibilities at work. During the time spent in the company, students will better understand the company and employees activity.

For 2010, the organizers announced a participation of more than 200 educational institutions in the country and 10 000 pupils (7-19 years) in the cities: Alba Iulia, Baia Mare, Bârlad, Braşov, Bucharest, Constanţa, Craiova, Iaşi, Oradea, Piatra Neamţ, Piteşti, Timișoara. 1500 students of the 12th grade will stay for a day in the "shadow" of a professional in an area where students would like to work, and another over 8500 students in grades 1-11 will go to the place of work of one of the parents.⁷

Higher education

Arrangements for counseling of students are different. It organizes various events on the educational offer in terms of employment of graduates of higher education institutions. However, in the same sense, universities publish brochures, use the media etc. In addition, specialized departments of the universities provide counseling to those interested.

Advisory work is done by each institution of higher education independently. Under current regulations in the undergraduate university studies the component of counseling, guidance and information should become a niche that beneficiaries of educational services can use to receive various useful resources:

- academic route,
- University practice,
- information about various job opportunities and internships.

Provisions of OMEdC no. 3235/2005 on the organization of undergraduate studies are still in force. Article 11 stipulates: „ universities set up counseling and career guidance centers to assist students to take appropriate decisions in structuring their training course”.⁸

Current legislation provides incentives to increase employment opportunities of people seeking for a job including people with disabilities and in particular, facilities only for disabled people, as follows:

In accordance with art. 80 of Law no. 76/2002 on the unemployment insurance system and employment stimulation, as supplemented and amended, employers who employ on an indefinite period people among graduates with disabilities are exempted from paying the contribution due to the unemployment insurance budget, related to graduates employed and receive on a monthly basis over a period of 18 months for each graduate:

Employers that have fulfilled their obligation by law to employ people with disabilities, as compared to the number of their employees and also employers who do not have this legal obligation, if they employ people with disabilities for an indefinite period and maintain the employment relations or job at least two years, receive on a monthly basis, during that period, for each person employed included in these categories, an amount equal to the reference current social indicator, with the obligation to maintain the labour relations or job at least 2 years.

Acknowledging the problems disabled people are facing in their efforts to work integration, ANOFM has proposed to develop the capacity of employment agencies to provide counseling and mediation services to this target group with special needs.

Thus, between 2004 - December 2008 ANOFM implemented the project "Advisory Services for disabled people" developed under the World Bank loan (Ro 4616), Thus, 2004 - December 2008 NEA implemented the project "Advisory Services for disabled people" developed based on loan from the World Bank, whose aim is to develop the capacity of employment agencies to provide counseling and mediation of target groups with special needs, paying attention simultaneously to the work with economic agents that are to employ people in this category, addressing thus both segments of the labour market: supply and demand.

Among the results of this project, we mention the following:

- establishment of 20 mediation and counseling centers for people with disabilities, within the county agencies for employment;

Data on schooling for disabled people

In the school year 2008 - 2009 the number of children with disabilities attending mainstream education: 23.261 people.

- Children who attend special education 26.313 people.

In the school year 2009 - 2010 the number of children with disabilities attending mainstream education: 24.410 people.

- Children who attend special education 23.971 people.

There is a decrease in the number of children in special education and an increase in the number of children with disabilities integrated in mainstream education. One of the reasons why some children with disabilities drop out school is familie ,low income especially in rural areas.

In order to form healthy eating habits in children, the Romanian Government initiated a national program called „Milk and roll Programme” approved by the Emergency Ordinance no. 95/2008 for amending and completing Government Emergency Ordinance no. 96/2002 concerning the provision of dairy and bakery for students of classes I-VIII of the state and private education and preschool children in private kindergartens with a normal programme of 4:00 hours.

In terms of the education system, each special education unit has in its personal structure one psychological diagnostician and one school counselor teacher who assesses all students with disabilities and make recommendations on school and professional orientation of people evaluated. Criteria for assessing children and adults with handicap / disabilities are provided in specific legislation.

Education of disabled people is organized as follows:

- In units of mainstream education – children with disabilities receive support services through support / itinerant teachers.

Forms of integration in mainstream education are:

- Integration of individual children with disabilities in regular class;
 - Integration with group of 2-3 students with disabilities in regular class;
 - Special class integrated into regular school.
- in special schools, depending on the type of disability.

At the end of 2010, in Romania there were 106 special education units and were enrolled 23 971 students with various disabilities (usually severe disabilities). 24 410 students with are enrolled in mainstream schools and receive educational assistance.

- All graduates 8th grade are directed to an educational establishment in the secondary education regardless of type and degree of disability (school or college of arts and crafts). According to the National Education Law evaluation to guide school children is done by committees subordinated to County School Inspectorates. This provision changes Decision no. 1437/2004 on the organization and methodology of operation of the child protection commission for child protection committee functioning.

- professional training for children with disabilities is similar to all children.

- there are no restrictions on the specialization on training of young people with disabilities. Access to certain qualifications may be limited only by the recommendation of the Commission of work capacity expertise and by the occupational physician.

- professional retraining is free and is done by AJOFM.

Vocational evaluation is one component under evaluation made by the Complex Evaluation Service (SEC) to place the degree of disability. In the absence of specialists, this assessment is made by the psychologist member of the SEC, but he can not give solution for rehabilitation. Thus, it is considering implementing a training programme for personnel involved in assessment and vocational rehabilitation of people with disabilities.

The main piece of legislation in this area is Law. 448 of 6 December 2006 on protection and promotion of disabled people. During the reference period for this report nine acts have made changes and additions, HG no. 268/2007 which approved also its implementing rules.

This law makes direct reference (see Art. 4) to the provisions of CSER and establishes that children and adults with disabilities, Romanian citizens, foreign citizens or stateless persons benefit by its provisions during the period in which, by law, have domicile or residence in Romania,⁹ providing also the rights to education and professional training and employment and adaptation of the workplace, guidance and professional retraining.

Provisions for education of people with disabilities are included in Section II of the law and they have not undergone any change in the reference period for reporting.

Law no.84/1995 also includes an entire chapter dedicated to education for children and youth with special educational needs (Articles 41-46).

Please note that, currently is in force the National Education Law no.1/2011, published in the Official Gazette, Part I, no.18.01.2011, which refers to children and adults with disabilities (this bill exceeds the reporting period).

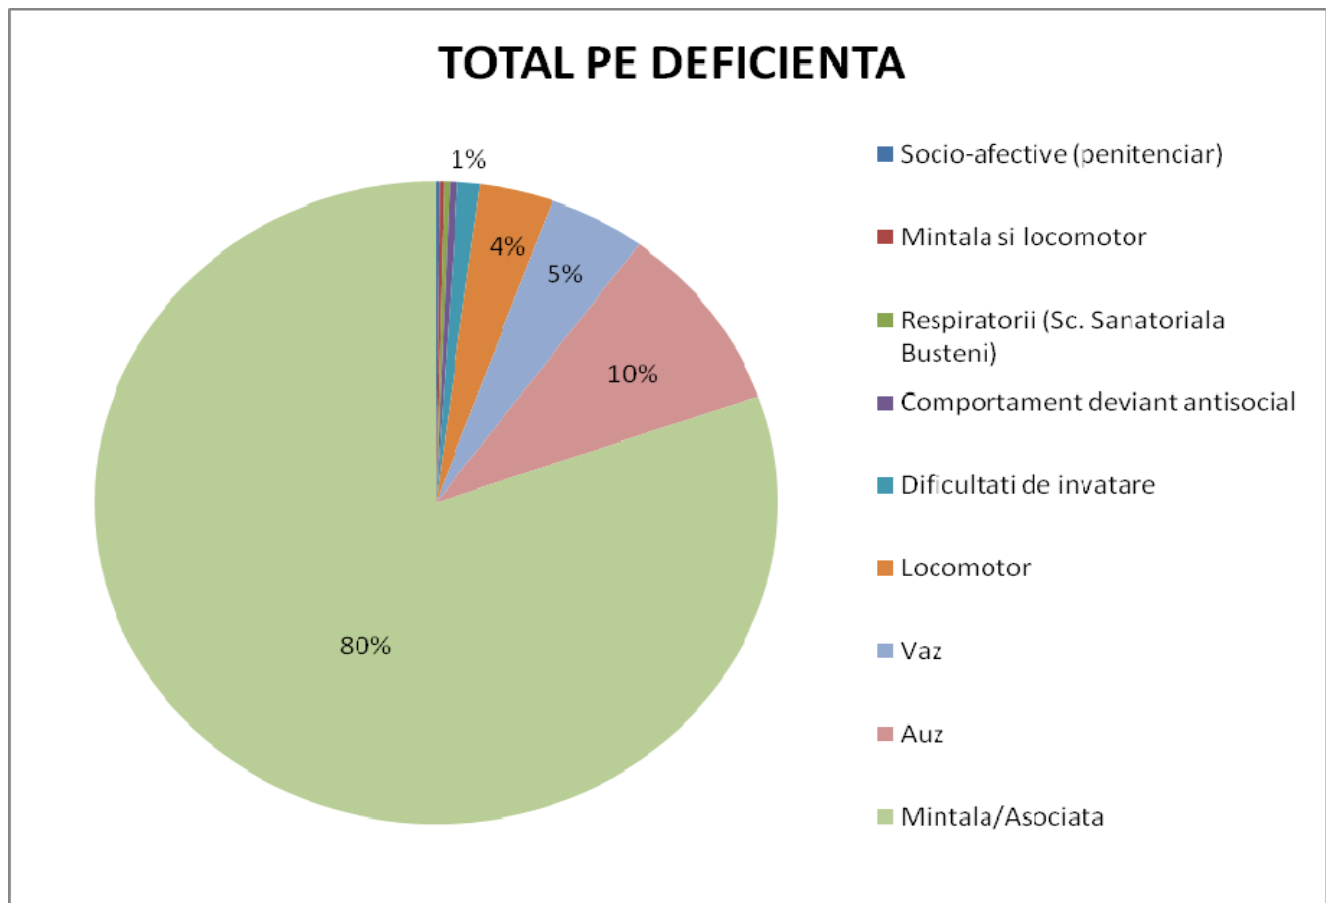

OMEDC no. 5418/2005, in its annexes 2 and 4 approves:

- Framework Regulation on the establishment, organization and operation of school centers for inclusive education (Regulation 2)
- Framework Regulation on the establishment, organization and operation of speech centres and cabinets (Regulation 4)

Total Efficiency

Article 15§2

In the period 2007-2010 through the implementation of employment programmes were employed 3433 people with disabilities, from a total of 1,602,086, as follows:

Year / number of people	Total people employed, Of which:	People with disabilities
2007	506.804	1.072
2008	412.922	1.061
2009	304.588	582
2010	377.772	718

The degree of employment of disabled people is given by the absorption of the labour market and the specificity of this category of people. We mention that the existence and functioning of counseling and mediation to people with disabilities provides conditions for employability of people with disabilities by providing specific information and advice, and mediation, but the last word in hiring these people belong to employers. Law No. 76/2002, as amended and supplemented, provides specific measures to boost enrollment of disabled people, these measures are included in the action programmes of ANOFM.

We mention that the evolution of labour market employment of people with disabilities is similar to people looking for a job, the trend is a reduction in 2007-2009 and growth in 2010.

To assist people with disabilities, the legal framework for the unemployment insurance system and employment stimulation provides stimulation for employers employing disabled people:

According to art. 80 para. (1) and (2) of Law no.76/2002, employers who employ permanent graduates of educational institutions among people disabled are exempt for a period of 18 months, from payment of contribution due to the unemployment insurance budget, paid for graduates employed, and receive monthly, in this period, for each graduate:

a) an amount equal to the reference social indicator into effect on employment date, for graduates of lower cycle of high school or schools of arts and crafts;

b) an amount equal to 1.2 times the reference social indicator into effect on employment date, for graduates of upper secondary or post-secondary education;

c) an amount equal to 1.5 times the reference social indicator into effect on employment date, for graduates of higher education.

Graduates can be employed in accordance with Art. 80, once for each form of education within 12 months after graduation.

Do not enjoy the provisions of Art. 80 para. (1) and (2) employers who are required by law, to employ graduates of education institutions, for graduates in this category.

According to art. 83 para. (1), employers who hire graduates in terms of art. 80 are required to maintain the relationship of their employment or service at least 3 years after completion.

Employers who terminate the graduates employment or service contract before 3 years, are obliged to reimburse, in full, to employment agencies amounts collected for each graduate plus the reference interest of the National Bank of Romania into force, on termination of employment or service for each graduate, if it was terminated for the reasons set out in art. 83 para. (2) of the Law.

According to art. 84, during the 3 years mentioned in Art. 83 para. (1), graduates can pursue a form of training, organized by the employer, under the law. Necessary expenses for training will be supported, at the request of employers, from the unemployment insurance budget.

Employers who, after fulfilling the obligation under Art. 83 para. (1), maintain employment or service relationships with graduates employed in accordance with Art. 80, continue to receive for each year of work relationship or service, a financial aid equal to the amount of social contributions paid by employers for these people and paid according to law. The financial assistance referred to above may be granted for a period of 2 years from the date the requirement of art. 83 para. (1) is fulfilled - see art. 84 ^ 1.

According to art. 85 para. (1) and (2), employers that have fulfilled their obligation by law to employ people with disabilities, and also employers who do not have this legal obligation, if they employ people with disabilities for an indefinite period and maintain the employment relations or job at least two years, receive on a monthly basis, during that period, for each person employed included in these categories, an amount equal to the reference current social indicator, with the obligation to maintain the labour relations or job at least 2 years.

Do not benefit from these facilities employers that, over the past two years, have been in employment relationships or service with disabled people employed in the category of disabled people.

Employers who receive subsidized employment under art. 80 or art. 85 para. (1) and (2) and terminate the employment or service of the people employed in these jobs, for the reasons set out in art. 83 para. (2) prior to the time limits provided by law, can not benefit from a new grant of unemployment insurance for a period of two years from the date of termination of employment or service.

However, people with disabilities as people seeking work or unemployed, are eligible, according to Law no. 76/2002, as amended and supplemented, for the following active measures:

- a) information and professional advice – a set of services provided to people seeking for a job, by specialized centers, organized as part of employment agencies and other service providers public or private sector, accredited in this regard.

Labour Mediation – linking employers with people looking for a job in order to establish relations of employment or service by employment agencies that are required to identify job vacancies from employers and make them known to people looking for a job.

Also, the National Agency for Employment organizes in each county through the county agencies for employment, job fairs, events aiming at facilitating access to labour market of people looking for a job.

- e) Income supplement for people who are entitled to unemployment benefits established by law and are employed with normal working hours, according to legal provisions, and as a consequence of employment, the payment of their unemployment benefit ceases since employment by the end of the period for which they were entitled to unemployment benefits, are given a monthly amount from the unemployment insurance budget, accounting for 30% of the unemployment benefit determined and, where appropriate, updated according to the law.
- f) Graduates of educational institutions, registered with employment agencies, when engaging with normal hours of work for a period exceeding 12 months, benefit from the unemployment insurance budget for an installation bonus equal to the reference value of employment social indicator in force on installation date.
- g) Graduates who were entitled to unemployment benefits established by law and, during the award of compensation, engages with normal hours of work for more than 12 months receive an amount equal to unemployment benefits that would have been entitled to, from the unemployment insurance budget, under the law, until the expiration of its grant, as if they wouldn't be employed. These rights are granted to graduates who retain employment or service relationship for a period of at least 12 months from the date of employment.

General legal framework:

The National Strategy for protection, integration and social inclusion of people with disabilities, "Equal opportunities for disabled people - towards a society without discrimination", reiterate the following key issues:

- occupation and employment contribute greatly to the full participation of people with disabilities in the economic, cultural and social life and personal development;

- Providing facilities to employers in the process of employment people with disabilities based on legislative provisions to increase employment;
- facilitate access of people with disabilities to new information and communication technologies creates the preconditions to improve prospects for participation;
- better access to work, in institutions of education, culture and entertainment and public transportation is especially important for affirming people with disabilities in community life.

Law no.448/2006 on the protection and promotion of disabled people, republished, with subsequent amendments, strongly stimulates interest of people with disabilities to seek a job, since the monthly allowance amounting to 202 lei and 166 lei (depending on degree of disability , severe or accentuated) is received in full, regardless of income.

To this allowance is added also the complementary personal monthly budget worth 91, 68, 33.5 lei (depending on disability degree severe, accentuated or medium), the budget is given regardless of income.

Romanian Fiscal Code, approved by Law 571/2003, with subsequent amendments stipulates in Article 55, lit. a paragraph. k1 the following: “nu sunt supuse impozitării.....veniturile din salarii realizate de către peoplele fizice cu handicap grav sau accentuat, la funcția de bază, at the basic function “

Annual evolution of the number of people with disabilities employed in the period 2008 - 2010:

Year	2008	2009	2010
Total	25.705	28.826	29.163

Currently the percentage of people with disabilities employed (of all adults with disabilities aged 18-60 years, living in family care, except adults with disability pensioners, I and II degree, who are not entitled by law to conduct paid activity, having lost their ability to work) is: 12,52%.

Disabilities as discrimination mentioned in the Labour Code - the prevention and punishment of this ground of discrimination

Labour Code, adopted by Law no. 53/2003, as amended and supplemented, in Chapter II referred to Fundamental principles of art. 5 stipulates the following:

(1) In the working relationship there is the principle of equal treatment for all employees and employers.

These guidelines provide "analysis and best practice models of reasonable adjustment" and propose "methods and procedures as a standard for adapting workplaces for disabled people". They constitute "a basis for developing integrated strategies and regulations that will be applied by employers across the country."

Within this project was developed a guide on Guidelines on reasonable adjustment of jobs in order to facilitate vocational integration of people with disabilities, guide locally spread within the, AJOFM, DGASPC and NGOs.

Art. 18 paragraph 3

Question A

Please indicate if foreign workers can and, if so, under what conditions:

- a. change the place where they carry out their professional activity;
- b. change their professional activity;
- c. claim authorization renewal.

According to the regulations contained in the Government Emergency Ordinance no. 56 of 20 June 2007 on employment and secondment of aliens on the Romanian territory, as amended and supplemented - OUG 56/2007, foreign workers operating in Romania lucrative work are issued permits for periods of up to one year.

Furthermore, in accordance with Art. 15 of GEO 56/2007, work authorization is automatically extended for further periods of up to one year in case of continuation of employment with the same employer based on the individual employment contract concluded for an indefinite period, by extending the right of residence for work , and attested by the residence permit issued for this purpose.

In case of individual contracts of employment concluded for a limited period, work authorization is extended for the period requested that can not be greater than one year and the validity of the contract. For renewal of license validity over the initial contract period, is required the written consent of the parties on the renewal of the contract concluded according to Law no. 53/2003 - Labour Code, as amended and supplemented.

Regarding the extension of temporary stay right for aliens employed in relation to the provisions of art. 56 of Government Emergency Ordinance no.194/2002 on the legal status of foreign citizens in Romania, republished with subsequent amendments - Ordinance 194/2002, foreigners entered Romania for employment are extended their temporary right of residence if holding a valid work permit.

If foreigners can be employed to physical or legal people in Romania, without working authorization, according to the law, they may extend the right of residence without fulfilling the condition relating to possession / obtaining a valid work permit.

Article 69 of GEO 194/2002 provides that the foreign workers on secondment in Romania on the basis of long-stay visa for other purposes, may request an extension of temporary stay right with the condition of submission of the work permit issued as to the law. Right of residence for this purpose may be extended for the whole period of validity of employment authorization, for further extensions being applicable legal provisions regarding extension of the stay of foreigners employed in work.

Question B

Please, indicate situation of a recipient of a work permit if he loses his job or ceases activity during this permit.

According to GEO no. 56/2007, art. 21, work authorization is canceled by the Romanian Immigration Office within 5 working days in the following situations:

- at the request of the employer as a result of termination, of his initiative, of the employment relation with the alien or in case the individual employment contract is terminated due to the agreement of the parties;

If the work permit is canceled due to termination of employment contract, foreign worker can work with another employer only if is issued a new work permit, as determined by GEO no. 56/2007.

With the cancellation of the employment authorization of the foreign worker, terminates also his/her right to stay in Romania.

In such a situation, that employee must leave Romania and obtain, as to the conditions determined by Ordinance no.194/2002 on the legal status of foreign citizens in Romania, republished with subsequent amendments, a new visa.

Romanian Immigration Office may revoke, through a reasoned decision, the temporary stay right where it is found that the alien has violated the regulations on the state border or those related to employment of aliens..

ARTICLE 18§3

FLEXIBILITY, INDIVIDUALLY OR COLLECTIVELY, OF THE RULES GOVERNING THE EMPLOYMENT OF FOREIGNERS

1) General legal framework

Current legal framework regulating the regime of aliens in Romania, and employment, including secondment of aliens on the Romanian territory is governed mainly by:

- Government Emergency Ordinance no.194/2002 on aliens regime in Romania, republished with subsequent amendments, Government Emergency Ordinance 194/2002 on aliens in Romania, republished with additions, which states the national policy in this area, art.5, para. 1 of this bill stipulating that yearly, by decision of Government shall be determined (...) „ the number of work permits that can be issued to aliens, according to special legislation on employment and secondment of aliens on the Romanian territory.”

- The legal situation of employment authorizations for aliens with legal right to stay on the Romanian territory has been extended by adoption of GEO no. 56 of 20 June 2007 on employment and secondment of aliens on the Romanian territory, by this law are regulated in detail employment and secondment of aliens on the Romanian territory.

This latter bill defines work authorization as an official document, issued as to law provisions, that entitles the holder to be employed or seconded to Romania to one employer.

Here are also defined the following terms and concepts: permanent worker, probation worker, seasonal worker cross-border workers, seconded worker and highly qualified personnel.

Government decision also provides cumulative conditions to be met by both foreigners and employers to obtain work authorization, respectively long-stay visa for employment or, where appropriate, a residence permit for work, as follows:

- a) vacancies can not be occupied by Romanian citizens, of other EU Member States, of the States signatory of the European Economic Area Agreement, as well as permanent residents on the territory of Romania;

- b) work authorization for seconded workers;
- c) work authorization for seasonal workers;
- d) work authorization for trainees;
- e) work authorization for sportsmen;

- g) work authorization for cross-border workers.

Application for employment authorization shall be settled by the Romanian Immigration Office within 30 days from the date of its registration. In the event that, for finding the conditions for obtaining work authorization, additional checks are needed, the time to decide on the application may be extended by 15 days.

Work permit is issued for a period not exceeding one year, except as provided in art. 6 para. (1) letters c) and f).

Work authorization is automatically extended for further periods of up to one year when work relationship is continuing with the same employer based on an individual employment contract concluded for an indefinite period, by extending the right of residence for work, and this is to be certified by the residence permit to be issued for this purpose.

In case of individual contracts of employment concluded for a limited period, work authorization is extended for the requested period that can not be greater than one year and the validity of the contract.

Current legislation stipulates at the same time the terms and conditions of cancellation of work permits. Thus, the Romanian Immigration Office shall cancel the obligation to work within 5 days after the following events:

Application of the sanctioning provisions provided in art. 26 of GEO no. 56 of June 20, 2007 belongs to labour inspectors of the Labour Inspection and the Romanian Immigration Office workers.

- 2) Please show the measures taken (administrative arrangements, programmes, action plans, projects, etc.) to implement the law.

In consideration of membership of the European Union, Romanian authorities have committed to undertake a series of measures to align national legislation with the acquis on migration.

This complex process of regulatory harmonization under full development, and the need to identify viable solutions to resolve malpractice arising in the implementation of the current legal framework on Aliens, made appropriate drafting a bill amending and supplementing certain laws on aliens in Romania, respectively, Government Emergency Ordinance no. 55/2007 on the establishment of the Romanian Immigration Office, through the reorganization of the Authority for Aliens and the National Office for Refugees, the Government Emergency Ordinance no.194/2002 on aliens in Romania, republished with additions and Government Emergency Ordinance no.56/2007 on employment and secondment of aliens on the Romanian territory, as amended and supplemented.

The purpose of this legislative initiative is to achieve compatibility and correlation with the Community rules, to eliminate deficiencies in practice and repealing certain provisions which have become inapplicable.

Draft law responds to the observations of the structures involved, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Department for European Affairs, the National Supervisory Authority for Personal Data Processing, Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection, Ministry of Health, National Insurance Health and Ministry of Justice, and the NGOs with functions in the reference field.

Transfer of expertise in the fields of employment and secondment of aliens in Romania by the Romanian Immigration Office, made with the adoption of Government Emergency Ordinance no. 55/2007 on the establishment of the Romanian Immigration Office through reorganization of the Authority for Aliens and the National Office for Refugees has led also to adapt national legislation regarding the admission and residence of aliens in order to achieve simplification of obtaining right of residence for work in Romania and removal of deficiencies occurring in practice implementing application of law in this area.

In the context of Romania's current policy of labour migration, the dynamic requirements of the labour market in Romania and a shortage of domestic labour it has become necessary to amend and supplement Government Emergency Ordinance no.56/2007.

Due to reported problems in practice and some requests for remedial actions from the unions and employers, at the initiative of the Ministry of Interior - Romanian Immigration Office, in cooperation with the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection and Labour Inspectorate, was started the procedure for amending the legislation in force by organizing at MAI-ORI and MMFPS level thematic meetings in this respect.

Observations and proposals that formed the basis of these meetings have focused primarily on amending and simplifying the procedures for obtaining work permits and the existing legal framework by an approach intended only for citizens of third countries (China, Turkey, India etc.) as EU legislation itself is differentiated according to the citizen concerned (on the one hand acts for EU citizens, European Economic Area and Switzerland, as well as legislation that addresses the citizens of third countries), aiming at the same time streamlining the procedure for granting / approving the stay of foreign nationals to conduct a work activities, monitoring and evaluating their impact on the labour market in Romania.

Regarding the free movement of Romanian citizens for work within European Union

From 1 January 2007, Romania's accession to the European Union, the access of Romanian citizens in the labour market of EU Member States is governed by the Treaty of Accession of Bulgaria and Romania to EU. This provides the possibility for Member States to apply transitional measures for a period of seven years, according to scheme 2 +3 +2, consider the need for maintaining this regime after 2 years and 5 years after accession. If it is considered that the influx of migrant workers can cause serious disruptions in the labour market, the affected State may decide to extend the transitional arrangements for another 2 or 3 years.

In European Union Member States that do not apply restrictions to Romanian citizens on their territories for work, apply Community law in the field.

In European Union Member States that decided to impose restrictions, the access of Romanian citizens on national labour markets is determined by specific national legislation of the host Member State and bilateral agreements on workforce movements. In such cases applies the principle of Community preference that the job vacancy will be filled by a Romanian citizen if there are requests from local citizens or nationals of a EU Member State which have not applied restrictions access to the labour market. Romanian citizens have priority in employment to citizens coming from third countries.

1) Please describe the general legal framework. Please specify the nature, reasons and extent of any reforms.

Government Emergency Ordinance no. 102/2005 regarding the free movement in Romania of EU Member States and European Economic Area citizens is the general legal reference in this area.

Thus, in art. 3 there are set out basic rights and freedoms the EU citizens and their family members who enter and reside legally in Romania may enjoy, namely:

a) shall enjoy general protection of people and proprieties, as guaranteed by the Constitution and other laws and rights under the Treaties of the European Union and other international treaties to which Romania is part;

b) can move freely and establish their residence or, where appropriate, address anywhere in Romania;

c) benefit from social protection measures by the State under the same conditions as Romanian citizens;

d) have the right to check personal data entered in official documents issued by the Romanian authorities and, where appropriate, request correction or deletion of data that is not real;

e) have unrestricted access to the labour market in Romania, as well as to carry out other economic activities, under the law applicable to Romanian citizens;

f) have unrestricted access to educational and training activities within the national education system.

2) Please indicate the measures taken (administrative arrangements, programmes, action plans, projects, etc.) to implement the law.

Romania's EU accession resulted in substantial changes to the rules of law governing the legal status of citizens of EU Member States and the European Economic Area, to ensure compliance with European legislation on free movement of people and the right of residence.

Thus, the provisions of Government Emergency Ordinance no.102/2005 on the free movement in Romania of citizens from EU Member States and European Economic Area, as amended and supplemented and the rules for the application of GEO no. 102/2005, approved by Government Decision no. 1864/2006 are aligned with the EU acquis, i.e. Directive 2004/38/EC on the right of free movement and residence within Member States for Union of citizens and their family members, amending Regulation (EEC) No 1612/68 and repealing Directives 64/221/EEC, 68/360/EEC, 72/194/EEC, 73/148/EEC, 75/34/EEC, 75/35/EEC, 90/364/EEC, 90/365 / EEC and 93/96/EEC, published in the Official Journal of the European Union no.L158 of 30 April 2004.

The new legal framework entered into force on January 1, 2007 and represented a major change regarding the right of free movement and residence on the Romanian territory by citizens of the European Union and European Economic Area.

It should be noted that, considering the novelty of the legislation in this area, from the entry into force of Government Emergency Ordinance no. 102/2005, the practical application of the law has highlighted certain issues that can create disturbances in their practical implementation.

However, during the implementation process were identified some issues that require the introduction of new legislative provisions to enable the effective management of records of EU citizens and their family members exercising their right of residence in Romania, and implementation of measures to restrict the right of free movement and residence.

In this respect, was developed the law amending and completing Government Emergency Ordinance no.102/2005 on the free movement of citizens in Romania of Member States of the European Union and European Economic Area citizens, published in the Official Gazette of Romania no. 443/24 Part I, June 2011, and became law no.80/2011 (this bill exceeds the reporting period).

In recent years, the EU launched a broad debate on how to implement the provisions of Directive 2004/38/EC, which resulted in the adoption of documents on the application of European reference document, including:

- Commission report to the European Parliament and the Council on implementation of Directive 2004/38/EC [COM (2008) 840 final - Brussels, 10.12.2008];

- European Parliament resolution of 2 April 2009 on the application of Directive 2004/38/EC on the right of free movement and residence within Member States for Union citizens and their family members [2008/2184(INI)].

For better coordination and monitoring of Member States to standardize the application of the directive, the European Commission carried out a series of actions with positive impact on all Member States, such as:

- Development of studies on how to implement the relevant provisions of the Directive into national legislation of the Member States;
- announcement publication for the European Parliament and the Council on guidelines for better transposition and application of Directive 2004/38/EC [COM(2009) 313 final - Brussels, 2.7.2009];
- establishment of the Expert Group on free movement of people, from September 2008, with representatives from all Member States;
- organization and conduct bilateral meetings with all Member States aimed to clarify issues of incorrect transposition of the provisions of Directive 2004/38/EC.

Art.20 – The right to equal opportunities and equal treatment in employment and occupation without discrimination by gender

Equal rights

In Romania, women and men have equal and non-discrimination access in the labour market.

Law no. 202/2002 on equal opportunities and treatment between women and men provides men and women workers' rights and the obligations of employers in terms of ensuring equal employment opportunities. This bill contains definitions of concepts such as: direct discrimination, indirect discrimination, harassment, sexual harassment, multiple discrimination and affirmative action.

The normative act contains provisions that relate to promoting the principle of equal pay for work of equal value, equal and non discriminatory access of women and men in employment, promotion, training course. It also provides maternity protection measures and the obligation of employers to include in the Organization and Functioning Regulations and Rules of Internal discipline provisions that ensure equal opportunity and treatment between women and men in the labour market.

Other laws that ensure equal opportunities and treatment between women and men in the labour market:

- Law no. 53/2003 — Labour Code, as amended and supplemented, which states that within the work relationship is functioning the principle of equal treatment of all employees and employers. Any direct or indirect discrimination against an employee based on gender, sexual orientation, genetic characteristics, age, national affiliation, race, color, religion, political option, social origin, disability, family situation or responsibility, affiliation to or activity in a union is prohibited.

- Government Emergency Ordinance no. 148/2005 on family support to raise the child, approved with amendments by Law no. 7 / 2007, as amended and supplemented, provides the right of parents (mother or father) to qualify for parental leave under the age of 2 years or, in case of a disabled child up to three years, and a monthly allowance.
- Government Emergency Ordinance no. 67/2007 on equal treatment between men and women in occupational social security schemes, approved by Law no. 44/2008.
- Government Emergency Ordinance no. 61/2008 on the implementation of the principle of equal treatment between women and men regarding access to goods and services and the supply of goods and services, approved by Law no. 62/2009.

Situation of women in the labour market

Implement the principle of equal pay for work of equal value

One of the ways that can be achieved de facto equality between women and men is balanced participation in economic activities to ensure autonomy and financial independence of women.

The pay gap measures the difference in average gross hourly earnings relative to women and men throughout the economy. It is one of the structural indicators for monitoring the European Strategy for economic growth and jobs.

There are situations where women are paid less than men, despite providing the same type of work. Pay gap between women and men may in part reflect objective differences in terms of individual characteristics (age, education level, experience), labour (profession, type of contract or working conditions) or company (sector activity or size).

Wage gap between women and men in the 2008 -2010 period varied between 12% and 8%.

According to data provided by the National Institute of Statistics, According to data provided by the National Institute of Statistics study "Statistical Research on the Household Labour Force in the fourth quarter of 2010", the employment rate of working age population (15-64 years) was 57.9%. This level is higher than in same period of 2009 (+ 0.5% percentage points), but is lower than the third quarter of 2010 (-2.3 percentage points).

Employment was higher for men (64.7% vs. 51% for women).

The ILO unemployment rate was 7.3%, up from third quarter in 2010 (6.9%) and down from the corresponding quarter of 2009 (7.5%).

The gender gap between the two ILO unemployment rate was 1.4% percentage points (7.9% for men compared to 6.5% for women).

Measures to promote equal opportunities between women and men

As a result of developments in economic and social crisis across Europe in Romania have been taken measures to rationalize public spending, particularly by reorganizing the work of public institutions and authorities.

In this context, the National Agency for Equal Opportunities between Women and Men (ANES), as specialized body of public administration with responsibilities in promoting the active integration of gender perspective in all policies and programmes, was closed down.

Based on GEO. no. 68/2010 was approved by Government Decision no. 728/2010 amending and supplementing Government Decision no. 11/2009 on the organization and functioning of the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection, was established the Directorate of equality between women and men (DESF). This specialized technical structure of the Ministry of Labour, Family and Social Protection took over the tasks and staff of former ANES.

According to GD no. 728/2010, DESFB has the following duties:

- Develop policies and national action plans of the Government in the field of equality between women and men and coordinate their implementation.
- Receive complaints / claims on violation of legislation relating to equal opportunity and treatment between women and men and gender-based discrimination from physical people, legal people, public and private institutions and their transmission to the competent institutions for settlement and to apply sanctions.
- Approval of draft legislation initiated by other ministries and other bodies of central government, to integrate and respect the principle of equal opportunity and treatment between women and men.

Status of implementation of the National Strategy for equal opportunities between women and men for 2006-2009

National Strategy for Equal Opportunities between Women and Men for 2006-2009 was approved by Government Decision no. 319 / March 8, 2006.

This strategic document has proposed a series of specific measures designed to eliminate any direct or indirect discrimination and allow citizens freedom and fundamental rights regardless of gender.

Socio-economic analysis of the situation of women in rural and urban areas

To identify the most effective implementing tools and methods of the campaign proposed for 2008, ANES conducted two tests in rural and urban areas on women's participation in decision-making process in family and community life.

The results revealed the need to intensify efforts to promote women's role in society.

The analysis was conducted in February 2008, through ANES territorial departments and was based on a questionnaire applied to a number of 900 urban women aged between 18 and 55 years and 1046 rural women aged 18 and 55 years. The questionnaires were applied in each county of Romania.

The main issues that emerged from this analysis are those related to: occupational status, participation in decision-making regarding the financial costs of family, community participation in community decision and in politics, areas of interest and how to obtain this information.

Conclusions from the processing of questionnaires, for rural area

National professional situation reflects the fact that women in this area of residence are oriented mainly to areas such as public administration, health, agriculture, social work or education.

In terms of domestic responsibilities, they are generally assumed by women. Thus, in such counties as Botosani, Bacau, Suceava and Vaslui women assume these responsibilities at a rate of 98%.

The survey also reflects that the majority of rural women have incomes below 500 RON, with the exception of the western region of the country where the average monthly income ranges between 500 and 1,000 Ron.

In terms of balanced participation in decision making, the study shows that women do not involve in decision-making in their communities, although female participation rate is high enough to vote. For example, in the north-east of the country, women vote in 90% but get involved in decision-making only 19%. Imbalance persists in other regions, greater participation of women in the decision-making being in Cluj County.

In Romania, television remains the preferred medium of information for rural women who rarely call to print papers and do not use Internet. Also, about one third of women surveyed said they do not use any means of information. Over 50% of women surveyed expressed their interest to get more information on the rights of the labour market, being also concerned to obtain information on how to start a business or information on healthy reproduction. To obtain these data are preferred informative materials and information points obtained from local authorities.

Conclusions from processing questionnaires for urban area

Most women surveyed said they are employed full time and have a monthly income of between 500 -1000 RON.

In the division of household tasks, the analysis showed that a large percentage of women surveyed (80%) are responsible for tasks related to household and childcare. Tasks related to household repairs and small shopping belong mostly to men.

Over 90% of women surveyed say they vote, but do not engage when it comes to making decisions in the community.

Internet and television are the main information media for urban women. Women in urban areas are particularly interested in obtaining information on employment rights (60%) and how to start a business (50%). They want to obtain such information through information materials (70%), internet (60%) and media campaigns (50%).

Information campaign on anti-discrimination legislation on gender.

During the periods July-August 2008 and August-September 2009 ANES began national information campaigns through the media, aimed at informing the general public on the legislative provisions concerning equality of opportunity and treatment between women and men.

An important aspect revealed by analysis of ANES conducted in early 2008 is the failure to inform people about anti-discrimination legislation. More than 60% of women surveyed nationally want to have access to information about their rights in the labour market.

The information campaign of family and family planning physicians.

During 2008, according to ANES objectives on reconciling family and professional life, this institution has developed through its territorial departments, a campaign among family physicians. Within this campaign were developed and disseminated information materials on the protection of motherhood and family life and counseling on family and professional life..

The measures proposed for 2010-2012

Government of Romania adopted by Government Decision no. 237 / 24 March 2010, Government of Romania adopted by Government Decision no. 237/24 March 2010 National Strategy for equality of opportunities between women and men for 2010-2012 and General Plan of Action for implementing the Strategy.

The main activities underlying the Strategy are:

- Establish training programmes in the field of gender equality for teaching staff of non-formal education.
- Organize information and awareness campaigns in the field of gender equality for high school students.
- Organizing national conferences conducted with the participation of social partners and government representatives to identify measures to reduce the wage gap between women and men.
- Making a diagnosis on the impact of video media on the construction and dissemination of gender roles and stereotypes.
- The introduction of national legislative affirmative measures to encourage balanced representation of women and men in political decision-making process.

Labour Inspectorate checks under Law no. 202/2002 on equal opportunities and treatment between women and men (republished in the Official Gazette no. 150 from 01.03.2007) had the following results:

INDICATORS	Period 2007-2010
Number of employees checked	136.204
Number of employers checked	11.731
The total amount of fines imposed (lei)	359.500

Employers have been sanctioned for:

- Failure to prohibit discrimination provisions based on gender in internal regulations of units;
- no permanent employees information on the rights they have in terms of equal opportunities;
- lack of maternity protection at work;
- Failure to mention in the internal regulations of disciplinary sanctions for employees who violate the dignity of other employees.

Regarding applying the principle of equal opportunity and treatment between women and men, 7957 women are working within the Romanian Police, of which 2032 police officers, 4045 police agents and 1880 agents on contract.

Article 24 - Right to protection in cases of dismissal

According to the Labour Code dismissal (individual termination of employment contract of the employer's initiative) may be ordered for reasons related to the employee (art. 61 letters .a-d) and for reasons not related to the employee (art. 65 para. 1). It is prohibited to dismiss employees on grounds of discrimination, it should be noted that to exercise under the law, the right to strike and trade union rights can not constitute grounds for dismissal.

Whatever the reason for the dismissal - excluding reorganization and bankruptcy of the employer - it can not be ordered:

- a) during temporary disability, established by medical certificate according to law provisions;
- b) during quarantine leave ;
- c) throughout the period employed woman is pregnant, to the extent that the employer became aware of this issue before the decision to dismiss;
- d) during maternity leave;
- e) throughout the period of parental leave under the child's age of 2 years or, if a disabled child up to age 3 years;
- f) throughout the period of sick leave to take care for children aged up to 7 years or, if a disabled child, for intercurrent disease before the age of 18 years;
- g) during military service;
- h) while exercising an eligible function in an trade union body, unless the dismissal is ordered for serious misconduct or repeated disciplinary violations committed by that employee;
- i) during performance of the holiday leave.

A. Dismissal for reasons related to the employee may happen:

- as a disciplinary sanction when the employee commits a serious or repeated violations of labour discipline rules;
- if the employee is taken into preventive custody for more than 60 days;
- in case of physical or mental unfitness of the employee who no longer allowed him/her to perform the duties, a situation found by the medical expertise competent authorities;
- for professional inadequacy.

To protect the employee from unfair dismissal, for the last two cases of dismissal, the Labour Code establishes a measure that the employer must undertake before issuing dismissal decision: preliminary investigation.

Also as a measure of protection for these two dismissal situations as well as the case when the employment contract has ceased as a result of the request for reinstatement to the position occupied by a person wrongfully dismissed, the employer shall, before dismissal, to propose the employee other suitable job according to his/her profession or, where appropriate, his/her work capacity. If the unit has not such employment, the employer is required to address local employment agency to identify jobs appropriate to professional skills and health; the solutions proposed by the agency will be communicated to the employee. If the employee does not like any of the jobs that the employer recommends then the employer may decide to his dismissal.

The dismissal decision shall be issued in writing within 30 calendar days from the date of finding the case of dismissal and it must necessarily include the reasons for dismissal and the legal ground and court where that dismissal decision may be appealed. Lack of any of these elements determine absolute nullity of the dismissal decision.

B. Dismissal for reasons not related to the employee is to do away with the job occupied by an employee of one or more reasons not related to his person (art. 65 para. 1 Labour Code), and may be individual, affecting one or a small group of employees, or collective when affecting a number of employees, expressly set in the Labour Code.

In the case of collective redundancies employer shall draw up a social action plan, propose training programmes so as to avoid or minimize the jobs that will dissolve and consult with union representatives or employees on methods of avoiding collective redundancies or mitigate their consequences. In this regard, the employer shall notify in writing the trade union or employee representatives and territorial labour inspectorate, with a letter (usually it is called a restructuring programme) that includes:

- a) total number and categories of employees;
- b) reasons for dismissal;
- c) number and categories of employees who will be affected by redundancy;
- d) criteria envisaged by law and / or collective agreements, for prioritizing the dismissal;
- e) measures envisaged to limit the number of redundancies;
- f) measures to mitigate the consequences of dismissal and compensation to be granted to employees subject to dismissal under the law and applicable collective labour contract;
- g) date on which or period during which there will be redundancies;

h) term the union or, where appropriate, employee representatives may make proposals to avoid or reduce the number of employees dismissed.

The trade union must submit its proposals to avoid redundancies and the employer is obliged to respond in writing and motivate these proposals.

Another protection against unfair dismissal where the employer would justify the need for collective redundancies is the express prohibition to perform new employment on the jobs of employees dismissed, for a period of 9 months of collective dismissal.

If, however, such a measure is necessary for the employer, to fill jobs lost as a result of collective dismissal the employer has the obligation to recommit the employees who were dismissed, without competition or trial period. Only if these employees do not require this then the employer can make new employments of vacancies.

Employer making redundancies for reasons of work physical unfitness / mental and professional inadequacy and for reasons not related to the employee must provide notice to affected employees that can not be less than 15 days. The employee is required to effectively continue the work for which shall receive salary.

Employees who were dismissed for reasons not attributable to them are entitled to receive unemployment benefits (Law no.76/2002).

Also, employees dismissed for reasons not related to their person, benefit from active measures to combat unemployment and qualify for compensation as provided by law and applicable collective labour contract.

The dismissal decision is a unilateral act of the employer to be established in writing and communicated to the employee, it shall take effect only after the employee has been notified. The dismissal decision must be motivated in fact and in law and must contain:

- a) reasons for dismissal;
- b) length of notice;
- c) criteria for determining the order of priority (in case of collective redundancies);
- d) list of jobs available in the unit and the period within which employees will choose to fill a job vacancy (for the situations mentioned above).

If the employer has not complied with the procedure prescribed by law to make redundancies or reason for dismissal is not thoroughly justified (and legally), the fired employee may appeal to judicial authorities for its cancellation. Under the rules of civil procedure the competent court is the court in whose district is domiciled or resident the employee fired.

If the court considers employee's action justified , it will cancel the dismissal, will require the employer to pay compensation to the employee equal to the indexed wages, increased and updated and other rights he/she would have been entitled that if he/she had not been fired.

The court may order reinstatement to the position held previously the dismissal if this was expressly requested in action formulated by the employee. If by final court decision it was ordered reinstatement in his position and the employer refuses to execute the above court provisions, this is an offense and is punishable by imprisonment or fine.

The provisions of the Labour Code make effective protection against possible abuse of the employer. Thus, "subjective" redundancies are more limited and there is a specific penalty (absolute nullity) for those dismissals not arranged according to the law or that are not well-founded.

Collective redundancies, employees' information, consultation and procedure of collective redundancies are covered in Section 5 of the Labor Code – Law no. 53/2003, as amended and supplemented, and the Collective Unique Labour Agreement at national level 2007-2010, art. 78 - art. 82.

We mention that Labour Inspection by labor inspectorates check the intention notification of collective redundancies and of that of the final decision notification on collective redundancy to be recorded at their headquarters in the light of elements regarding:

- dismissal to be made timely;
- employers' consultations with trade union or employees' representatives;
- provision by employers of relevant information on: total number and categories of employees subject to dismissal;
- reasons for intended redundancies;
- criteria envisaged by law and / or collective agreements, for prioritizing the dismissal order;
- measures envisaged to limit the number of redundancies;
- measures to mitigate the consequences of dismissal and compensation to employees to be dismissed, according to the laws and / or applicable collective labor contract, date or period in which there will be redundancy.

Period within which the trade union or, where appropriate, the employees can make proposals to avoid or reduce the number of redundant employees.

At the reasoned request of either party, the Labor Inspectorate, in consultation with local employment agency can decide postponing decisions of dismissal issued within 10 calendar days if the issues related to collective redundancies can not be resolved by the date set in the notification of redundancies that is the date of dismissal decisions issue.

Labour inspection can determine whether the employer has complied with the law on collective redundancies, but groundless or unlawful dismissal cancellation is made by the court. The court is the only institution authorized that, through a final and irrevocable decision to oblige the employer to pay compensation equal to the waged indexed, increased and updated and other rights the employee, unlawfully dismissed, would have enjoyed.

Also, linking art. 31 para. (1) of the single national collective agreement for the years 2007 to 2010, with those of art. 27 para. (1) and (2) of Law no. 53/2003 – Labour Code, as amended and supplemented, to acquire and maintain an employee, any individual must be able to supply that work, both physically and mentally. It is therefore regulated medical examination, not only to individual employment contract, but also periodically during its execution.

It is possible that at some point, due to illness or work accident, or other causes, employee may lose he/she work capacity or be less able to work, which no longer allows the profession exercise. Physical incapacity and / or mental can be determined only by the competent body.

Art. 61 letter c) of Labour code, as amended and supplemented, law regulate the employer's decision to order dismissal where, by decision of the competent medical expertise body, there is physical incapacity and / or mental health of the employee, which does not allow him/her to fulfill properly the tasks of the job. This is required also for protection of the employee.

In addition, according to art. 25 letter. c) of Law no. 98/1994 on the establishment and sanctioning of infringements to the rules of hygiene and public health, republished, keeping a person in a job for which health authorities have established a temporary or permanent medical contraindication is an offense.

It shall be mention that, prior to dismissal, the employer shall propose the employee other vacancies in the unit, consistent with employment capacity established by the occupational health doctor, and in case he has not such places he shall seek the support of the territorial employment agency for the employee's redistribution (art. 64 of Law no. 53/2003 – Labour Code, as amended and supplemented). The employee has a period of 3 working days from notification to manifest expressly consent to the new job offer.

According to the provisions of art. 60 para. (1) of Law no. 53/2003 – Labour Code, as amended and supplemented, employees can not be ordered dismissal during temporary disability, established by medical certificate las to law provisions.

According to the provisions of para. (1) and (2) of art. 10 of the Law of trade unions no. 54/2003, as amended and supplemented, during the mandate and within 2 years after leaving office, the elected representatives in management bodies of trade unions can not be changed or canceled the employment contract for reasons not imputable to them, which the law leaves to the discretion of the employer, without the written consent of the elected governing body of collective trade union organization.

Are forbidden to modify and / or terminate individual employment contracts, both of the elected representatives in management bodies of trade unions and their members, from the employer's initiative, for reasons relating to trade union activity.
