

Ms Leonor Ladrón de Guevara y Guerrero is a Spanish national. She is a medical doctor, specialist in forensic medicine and ophthalmology.

Ms Ladrón has worked as a medical examiner and police surgeon since 1983. Her professional activities involve the drafting of medical reports on victims of sexual violence, torture and terrorism, as well as age assessment reports, psychological damage assessments and forensic medical reports of detained persons. From 1980 to 1984, she worked as Associate Professor in the School of Criminology at Complutense University in Madrid, where she has been responsible for developing the subjects of legal medicine and clinical toxicology.

Ms Ladrón currently works as a medical examiner and police surgeon for Madrid's Central Criminal Courts number 1 and 4 (Juzgados Centrales de Instrucción, Audiencia Nacional). She is also Associate Professor of Forensic Medicine and Toxicology in the Medical School at Complutense University in Madrid.