Austria		Introduction of electronic monitoring
Belgium	Surpopulation Déficience des infra-structures	Le système de visites en Belgique est extrêmement large et varié, et permet de maintenir au mieux les relations entre le détenu et ses proches. De manière générale, les prévenus disposent d'un droit d'une heure de visite par jour au minimum, les condamnés de trois fois une heure par semaine. Mais la particularité est l'existence d'autres formes de visite plus spécifiques, comme les visites parents-enfant, organisées en collaboration avec des partenaires extérieurs. Il s'agit de visites où l'accent est totalement mis sur la relation entre le détenu et son/ses enfants, et qui d'ailleurs la plupart du temps sans que le partenaire soit présent. Autre visite particulière: la visite hors surveillance (VHS) qui, en Belgique, n'est pas spécialement perçue comme "visite conjugale". Ce type de visites est également utilisé pour des visites familiales et permet une rencontre entre le détenu et sa famille dans un cadre plus "intime" (càd sans la présence de personnel de surveillance) Les accès à la bibliothèque: de plus en plus de prisons ont des accords de collaboration avec les bibliothèques communales, ce qui permet au détenu d'avoir une offre exactement équivalente à celle d'un citoyen libre. Cela se concrétise notamment par la possibilité de commander les livres via un catalogue internet. Un proje-pilote est également en matière d'"e-learning": Le détenu peut suivre une formation à distance via une connexion internet sécurisée.

There are three Councils for Early Conditional Release – the Council for the penitentiary establishments in Western Georgia, the Council for the penitentiary establishments in Eastern Georgia and the Council for Juvenile convicts. The MCLA is certain that decentralization of conditional release system will make it more effective; Improvement of living conditions for prisoners, therefore improvement of infrastructure. 9 new penitentiary establishments were opened and others renovated.

As it stands today, about 35% of Icelandic prisoners partake in education whilst serving their sentence.
Italy	Problems of overcrowding and the contextual lack of resources and staff both of treatment and of Penitentiary Police; Very high percentage of not finally sentenced prisoners	The so-called "Prisons Plan" ("Piano Carceri"), an extraordinary national plan of action aiming, on the one hand, at increasing the capacity of the Italian prison system, by building new prison wings and new prisons.
