Background and objectives

The Council of Europe has drafted a convention which constitutes, for the first time, an international treaty in the criminal law field dealing with the counterfeiting of medical products and similar crimes involving threats to public health (the MEDICRIME Convention).

Safeguarding public health through penal measures targeting criminal behaviour, protecting victims, promoting co-operation at national and international levels, and providing preventive measures are the principal aims of this Convention.

The core values of the Council of Europe are the protection of human rights and essential freedoms and the promotion of the rule of law and democracy. Our organisation aims to identify solutions to the challenges faced by today's society.

The counterfeiting of medical products and similar crimes threaten the right to life enshrined in the European Convention on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (ECHR). Incidences of counterfeit medical products and similar crimes undermine public trust in healthcare systems and the authorities' surveillance thereof.

The counterfeiting of medical products and similar crimes has spread worldwide, no country has been spared.

The Council of Europe has long been concerned about the absence of harmonised international legislation, the existence of non-deterrent sanctions in proportion to the harm caused to patients, and the involvement of criminal organisations which operate across borders.

Thanks to its pan-European membership and co-operation with States and regions beyond Europe, the Council of Europe has been able to develop an international criminal law treaty focusing on public health and with a truly global impact: mandated by the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe and supported by intersecretariat co-operation between the Directorate General of Human Rights and Rule of Law through its Criminal Law Division and the Directorate General of Democracy through its European Directorate for the Quality of Medicines & HealthCare (EDQM). The Convention was opened for signature in Moscow (Russian Federation) on 28 October 2011 and will enter into force on 1 January 2016 after the ratification of five signatories (Ukraine, Spain, Hungary, Moldova and Guinea).

Aim of the conference

The aim of this conference is make significant advances in the fight against counterfeit medical products and similar crimes in Europe and worldwide through seeking political support for the practical implementation of the MEDICRIME Convention. The objectives are the following:

1. to encourage states to sign and ratify the Convention;
2. to raise awareness among members of parliament, law enforcement agencies, NGOs, the media and professionals working in the field;
3. to discuss the benefits and challenges in ratifying the Convention;
4. to exchange experiences, know-how and make contacts.

Target audience

The target audience of the conference includes officials responsible for policy-making, representatives of judicial, health and enforcement authorities as well as State Prosecutors, Heads of Police and Customs Agencies, Heads of Medicines Agencies and members of relevant international and European institutions and organisations.
