

Bahaa El-Taweal

Human Rights Policy Team, Google

Bahaa El-Taweal is a Global Policy Lead at Google's Global Affairs Organization, responsible for advising senior leadership, and teams across Google on the potential human rights impacts of emerging technology, including AI; conducting human rights due diligence; and engaging human rights experts and stakeholders globally.

Over the past 15 years Bahaa has worked on various global security, and technology issues. He served as a senior policy operations manager and a team lead on YouTube's counterterrorism and crisis response teams, tackling complex tech-related challenges, primarily the adversarial use of tech to cause harm in the context of terrorism, armed conflicts, and influence operations.
