Biennial report on exceptions

Creation Date: 2026-06

Deadline: 2026-09-15

Language: English

Submitted Date: 2026-09-24

Introduction

Article 9 to the Bern Convention permits exceptions from the obligations accepted by Contracting Parties in pursuance of Articles 4 to 8. The possibility of derogating from the mentioned articles of the Convention is subject to two very clearly defined general conditions, and some non cumulative specific reasons, listed exhaustively in Article 9.

The two general conditions that must be met are:

a. that there is no other satisfactory solution; and

b. that the exception will not be detrimental to the survival of the population concerned.

These two conditions are mandatory and cumulative.

The specific reasons for which the exceptions may be granted are the following:

i. for the protection of flora and fauna;

ii. to prevent serious damage to crops, livestock, forests, fisheries, water and other forms of property;

iii. in the interests of public health and safety, air safety or other overriding public interests (please, specify);

iv. for the purposes of research and education, of repopulation, of reintroduction and for the necessary breeding;

v. to permit, under strictly supervised conditions, on a selective basis and to a limited extent, the taking, keeping or other judicious exploitation of certain wild animals and plants in small numbers

vi. falconry (falconry is dealt with separately)

These specific reasons are mandatory and non cumulative.

According to Article 9§2, Contracting Parties shall report every two years to the Standing Committee on the exceptions made. The reports must specify:

a. the populations which are or have been subject to the exceptions and, when practical, the number of specimens involved;

b. the means authorised for the killing or capture;

c. the conditions of risk and the circumstances of time and place under which such exceptions were granted;

d. the authority empowered to declare that these conditions have been fulfilled, and to take decisions in respect of the means that may be used, their limits and the persons instructed to carry them out;

e. the controls involved.

Exceptions made

What exceptions have been made?

Derogations were granted for the capture of specimens of Aspius aspius for scientific research purposes. In 2023, scientific fishing authorisations were issued to the Research Centre for Genetic Resources “ACVAGENRESURS” and to the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University. In 2024, a scientific fishing authorisation was issued to the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University. The authorisations specified the fishing areas, permitted fishing gear, maximum numbers of specimens and the conditions under which scientific fishing could be carried out.

Reasons for issuing of licences (art. 9, i. to v.)

- [ ] v. judicious exploitation of certain wild plants in small numbers and under certain conditions

Please elaborate on the stated reasons for issuing of licences (art. 9, iv.)

(Regarding response 'iv.: for research / education / repopulation / reintroduction / necessary breeding').

The licences were issued for scientific research purposes, in order to carry out studies on aquatic ecosystems and fish communities.

In 2023, the scientific fishing licence issued to the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University was required for the implementation of research project No. 20.80009.7007.06 “Determination of changes in the aquatic environment, assessment of pollutant migration and impact, identification of patterns in the functioning of hydrobiocenoses and prevention of adverse consequences for aquatic ecosystems (AQUABIO)”.

In 2024, the scientific fishing licence issued to the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University was required for the implementation of Subprogramme No. 010701 “Assessment of the structure and functioning of the animal world and aquatic ecosystems under the influence of biotic and abiotic factors in the context of ensuring ecological security and population well-being”.

The capture of Aspius aspius specimens was therefore authorised exclusively for scientific research activities carried out within these research programmes.

What is the impact of the derogation on the species population?

The derogation is not expected to have a significant adverse impact on the population of Aspius aspius. The scientific fishing activities were carried out under specific authorisations, which established the permitted areas, fishing methods and gear, maximum numbers of specimens, and other conditions for conducting the research. The derogation was limited to scientific research purposes and did not constitute an authorisation for commercial exploitation of the species. No population-level adverse effects resulting from these scientific fishing activities were identified during the reporting period.

The conditions of risk and the circumstances of time and place under which such exceptions were granted

The derogations were subject to the conditions laid down in the scientific fishing authorisations. Scientific fishing was permitted only within the specified periods and areas, using the authorised fishing methods and gear and within the maximum numbers of specimens established by the authorisations.

In 2023, scientific fishing was authorised in the Nistru (Dniester) River basin and the Danube–Prut and Black Sea basin, for the periods specified in the respective authorisations. The authorisation issued to the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University was valid from 15 March to 31 December 2023.

In 2024, scientific fishing by the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University was authorised in the Nistru (Dniester) River basin and the Danube–Prut and Black Sea basin, from 27 March to 31 December 2024.

Potential risks to the species were limited through the restriction of fishing to scientific purposes, specified areas and periods, authorised fishing gear and maximum numbers of specimens, as well as through compliance with the special conditions established in the authorisations.

The authority empowered to declare that the conditions have been fulfilled

Environmental Agency of the Republic of Moldova

The controls involved in identifying whether the conditions have been fulfilled

Compliance with the conditions of the scientific fishing authorisations was subject to control by the competent environmental authorities. Scientific fishing activities were to be carried out in compliance with the authorised periods and areas, permitted fishing gear, maximum numbers of specimens and the special conditions established in the authorisations. The fishing activities were coordinated with the Environmental Protection Inspectorate, as provided for in the authorisations. Compliance could therefore be verified against the conditions and quantitative limits specified in each authorisation.

Additional details

Where appropriate, please indicate:

Information on the conservation status of the derogated species

Aspius aspius is a species protected under Appendix III of the Bern Convention. In the Republic of Moldova, the species occurs in the Dniester and Danube–Prut river basins. No comprehensive quantitative assessment of its national conservation status was available for the 2023–2024 reporting period. Scientific fishing was therefore authorised under controlled conditions, with specified areas, periods, fishing gear and maximum numbers of specimens, in order to limit potential impacts on the species population.

Justification for derogation for a species in an unfavourable conservation status

No national assessment establishing an unfavourable conservation status for Aspius aspius was available for the 2023–2024 reporting period.

Alternative solutions considered and scientific data to compare them

No formal assessment comparing alternative solutions was documented in the scientific fishing authorisations. Scientific capture was authorised as part of the methodology required for the respective research activities, subject to specific limitations concerning time, place, fishing gear and maximum numbers of specimens.

Results of derogations (e.g. cumulative effects and compensation measures where relevant)

The derogations enabled scientific investigations of fish communities in the Dniester and Prut river basins during 2023–2024. The scientific fishing reports confirm the occurrence of Aspius aspius in the research catches and provide data on its relative abundance and distribution in different sampling areas and using different fishing methods. The results were used to assess the structure, diversity and ecological condition of fish communities. The available results do not indicate that the scientific fishing activities themselves caused an adverse population-level effect on Aspius aspius. The authorised numbers represented maximum limits and were not necessarily reached. No specific compensation measures were required.

Comments/notes

The numbers specified in the scientific fishing authorisations represent maximum permitted numbers and should not be interpreted as the actual number of specimens captured. The beneficiaries submitted reports on the results of the scientific fishing activities. These reports provide information on the occurrence, relative abundance, distribution and population structure of Aspius aspius in the investigated aquatic ecosystems. The scientific fishing results were used for the assessment of fish communities and the ecological condition of the Dniester and Prut river basins.

Exceptions made

What exceptions have been made?

Derogations were granted for the capture of specimens of Silurus glanis for scientific research purposes. In 2023, scientific fishing authorisations were issued to the Research Centre for Genetic Resources "ACVAGENRESURS" and to the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University. In 2024, a scientific fishing authorisation was issued to the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University. The authorisations specified the fishing areas, permitted fishing gear, maximum numbers of specimens and the conditions under which scientific fishing could be carried out.

Reasons for issuing of licences (art. 9, i. to v.)

Tick all that apply

- ☐ i. protection of flora/fauna
- ☐ ii. prevention of serious damage to crops, livestock, forests, fisheries, water and other forms of property
- ☐ iii. in the interests of public health and safety, air safety or other overriding public interests (which?)
- ☑ iv. for research / education / repopulation / reintroduction / necessary breeding
- ☐ v. judicious exploitation of certain wild plants in small numbers and under certain conditions

Please elaborate on the stated reasons for issuing of licences (art. 9, iv.)

(Regarding response 'iv.: for research / education / repopulation / reintroduction / necessary breeding').

The licences were issued for scientific research purposes, in order to investigate aquatic ecosystems and fish communities, including their species composition, distribution, abundance and population structure.

In 2023, scientific fishing by the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University was carried out within the research project No. 20.80009.7007.06 “Determination of changes in the aquatic environment, assessment of migration and impact of pollutants, establishment of patterns in the functioning of hydrobiocenoses and prevention of adverse consequences for aquatic ecosystems (AQUABIO)”. Scientific fishing by the Research Centre for Genetic Resources “ACVAGENRESURS” was carried out within project No. 20.80009.5107.24.

In 2024, scientific fishing by the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University was carried out within Subprogramme No. 010701 “Assessment of the structure and functioning of the animal world and aquatic ecosystems under the influence of biotic and abiotic factors in the context of ensuring ecological security and population well-being”.

The capture of Silurus glanis was therefore authorised exclusively for scientific research activities carried out within these research programmes.

What is the impact of the derogation on the species population?

The derogation is not considered to have had a significant adverse impact on the population of Silurus glanis. Scientific fishing was carried out under authorisations specifying the areas, periods, fishing methods and maximum numbers of specimens permitted. The available scientific fishing results do not identify adverse population-level effects attributable to these activities. On the contrary, the 2023 monitoring results recorded an increase in the abundance of younger age groups of Silurus glanis in both the Dniester and Prut rivers. The scientific fishing activities were limited to research purposes and were conducted under the conditions established in the respective authorisations.

The conditions of risk and the circumstances of time and place under which such exceptions were granted

The derogations were subject to the conditions laid down in the respective scientific fishing authorisations, which specified the periods and areas of activity, permitted fishing gear, maximum numbers of specimens and other conditions applicable to scientific fishing.

In 2023, scientific fishing was authorised in the Dniester and Danube–Prut/Black Sea river basins. The authorisation issued to the Institute of Zoology of the Moldova State University was valid from 15 March to 31 December 2023. In 2024, scientific fishing by the Institute of Zoology was authorised in the same river basins from 27 March to 31 December 2024.

Potential risks to Silurus glanis populations were limited by restricting the activities to scientific research, defining the areas and periods of fishing, prescribing the fishing gear and establishing maximum numbers of specimens that could be captured. Scientific fishing was required to comply with the specific conditions laid down in the respective authorisations.

The authority empowered to declare that the conditions have been fulfilled

Environmental Agency of the Republic of Moldova, as the competent authority responsible for issuing scientific fishing authorisations and establishing the conditions applicable to such activities.

The controls involved in identifying whether the conditions have been fulfilled

Compliance with the conditions of the scientific fishing authorisations was subject to control by the competent environmental authorities. Scientific fishing activities were required to comply with the authorised periods and areas, permitted fishing gear, maximum numbers of specimens and the specific conditions established in the authorisations. The activities were to be coordinated with the Environmental Protection Inspectorate, as provided for in the authorisations. Compliance could therefore be verified against the conditions and quantitative limits specified in each authorisation and on the basis of the scientific fishing reports submitted by the beneficiaries.

Additional details

Where appropriate, please indicate:

Information on the conservation status of the derogated species

No comprehensive quantitative assessment establishing the national conservation status of Silurus glanis was available for the 2023–2024 reporting period. However, scientific fishing results confirm the presence of the species in both the Dniester and Prut river basins. Monitoring carried out in 2023 indicated an increase in the abundance of younger age groups of Silurus glanis in both rivers. The species was recorded in scientific catches at different sampling sites, providing information on its distribution, relative abundance and population structure. The available scientific fishing results do not indicate a deterioration of the population attributable to the scientific research activities covered by the derogations.

Justification for derogation for a species in an unfavourable conservation status

No national assessment establishing an unfavourable conservation status for Silurus glanis was available for the 2023–2024 reporting period.

Alternative solutions considered and scientific data to compare them

No formal assessment comparing alternative solutions is documented in the available scientific fishing authorisations and reports. Scientific capture formed part of the methodology used to obtain data on fish species composition, distribution, relative abundance and population structure. The activities were subject to specific limitations concerning the period and place of fishing, permitted fishing gear and maximum numbers of specimens. The scientific fishing results provided data necessary for assessing fish communities and the status of aquatic ecosystems.

Results of derogations (e.g. cumulative effects and compensation measures where relevant)

The derogations enabled scientific investigations of fish communities in the Dniester and Prut river basins during 2023–2024. Silurus glanis was recorded in the scientific catches, providing data on its distribution, relative abundance and population structure. The 2023 monitoring results indicated an increase in the abundance of younger age groups of Silurus glanis in both the Dniester and Prut rivers. The available results do not identify adverse population-level effects attributable to the scientific fishing activities covered by the derogations. The authorised numbers represented maximum limits and were not necessarily reached. No cumulative adverse effects or specific compensation measures are documented in the available scientific fishing authorisations and reports.

Comments/notes

The numbers specified in the scientific fishing authorisations represent maximum permitted numbers and should not be interpreted as the actual number of specimens captured. The beneficiaries submitted reports on the results of the scientific fishing activities. These reports provide information on the occurrence, distribution, relative abundance and population structure of Silurus glanis in the investigated aquatic ecosystems. In 2023, monitoring results indicated an increase in the abundance of younger age groups of the species in both the Dniester and Prut rivers. The scientific fishing results were used for the assessment of fish communities and the ecological condition of aquatic ecosystems.
