

Anna Knobbout is a (soon to be graduated) constitutional law master student from the Netherlands. They are a Bureau Member at the Advisory Council on Youth, responsible for coordinating portfolios regarding youth work and youth participation. They are the representative of Euro Youth Mental Health, a non-profit organisation which acts in order to raise the voices of young people to promote mental health and support to those impacted by mental ill-health across Europe.

Anna has given several talks about the impact that (the risk of) gender-based violence has on the mental health of girls, women and the LGBTQIA+ community. They are keen on creating a space where participants feel free and safe to discuss different perspectives around this topic and is eager to assist participants to include an inclusive youth perspective in this.
