

Question 1.d.

Section 125 – Close Person

A close person will be understood as a relative in a direct generation, adoptive parent, adoptive child, sibling, spouse and partner; other persons in family or similar relation will be considered close to each other only if a detriment suffered by one would the other reasonably feel as his own.