AIM of the Training Course

The training course aims to develop the competences of participants to act as trainers or multipliers for human rights education in the context of regional, national or local training courses organised by partner organisations making use of COMPASS and supporting the implementation of the Council of Europe Charter on Education for Democratic Citizenship and Human Rights Education.

Objectives of the Training Course

1. To strengthen participants' understanding of key concepts of human rights education with young people.
2. To review and address the essential competences, skills and attitudes for trainers working with human rights education in non-formal learning settings.
3. To familiarise participants with the approaches and activities of Compass (the manual on human rights education with young people) and with how to best use it and adapt it to local contexts and realities.
4. To analyse current developments and new trends in human rights education, including online learning and activism, throughout Europe.
5. To motivate and enable the participants to actively use information and communication technology as part of their own learning and in their human rights education activities.
6. To associate the participants and their organisations with the priorities of the Youth Department of the Council of Europe related to human rights education and to the implementation of the United Nations World Programme on Human Rights Education.
7. To contribute to the development of networks of trainers on human rights education with young people and to the mainstreaming of human rights education in youth work and non-
