assisted by Mr Jan MALINOWSKI, Executive Secretary,

between March 2022 and January 2023 examined the reports on the application of the Revised European Social Charter.

2. The role of the European Committee of Social Rights is to rule on the conformity of the situations in States Parties with the European Social Charter (revised), the 1988 Additional Protocol and the 1961 European Social Charter.

3. Following the changes to the reporting system adopted by the Committee of Ministers at the 1996th meeting of the Ministers' Deputies on 2-3 April 2014 the system comprises two types of reports. Firstly, the reports on the four thematic groups of Charter provisions, and secondly simplified reports every two years on follow-up to collective complaints for States Parties bound by the collective complaints procedure.

4. Thus, the conclusions adopted by the Committee in January 2023 concern the accepted provisions of the following articles of the Revised European Social Charter ("the Charter") belonging to the thematic group "Labour rights":

- the right to just conditions of work (Article 2),
- the right to a fair remuneration (Article 4),
- the right to organise (Article 5),
- the right to bargain collectively (Article 6),
- the right to information and consultation (Article 21),
- the right to take part in the determination and improvement of the working conditions and working environment (Article 22),
- the right to dignity at work (Article 26),
- the right of workers' representatives to protection in the undertaking and facilities to be accorded to them (Article 28),
- the right to information and consultation in collective redundancy procedures (Article 29).

5. The Committee recalls that States Parties were asked to reply to the specific targeted questions posed under various provisions. The Committee therefore focused on the information relating to those questions. In addition, it also assessed the replies to all findings of non-conformity, deferrals or positive conclusions pending receipt of information requested in its previous conclusions (Conclusions 2018 or Conclusions 2014 depending on the country concerned). The Committee recalls that no targeted questions were asked under certain provisions. Where the previous conclusion (Conclusions 2018 or Conclusions 2014) was a finding of conformity, there was no examination of the situation in 2022.

6. The following States Parties submitted a report: Albania, Andorra, Armenia, Austria, Azerbaijan, Belgium, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Estonia, Finland, France, Georgia, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Malta, the Republic of Moldova, Montenegro, North Macedonia, Portugal, Romania, Serbia, the Slovak Republic, and Türkiye.

7. No report was submitted by Ukraine due to the ongoing armed conflict.

8. No report was submitted by the Russian Federation which ceased to be a member of the Council of Europe in March 2022 and by consequence ceased to be a Party to the European Social Charter.

9. As noted above, States Parties which have accepted the collective complaints procedure are required to submit a simplified report every two years. In order to avoid excessive fluctuations in the workload of the Committee from year to year, the 16 States Parties which have accepted the complaints procedure were divided into two groups as follows:

- Group A, made up of eight States: Belgium, Bulgaria, Finland, France, Greece, Ireland, Italy, and Portugal;
- Group B, made up of eight States: Croatia, Cyprus, the Czech Republic, the Netherlands, Norway, Slovenia, Spain, and Sweden.

10. On this basis, the States Parties belonging to Group B² (were invited to submit reports on follow-up to collective complaints by 31 December 2021. The findings adopted by the Committee in this respect thus concern the following States Parties: Croatia, Cyprus, the Czech Republic, the Netherlands, Norway, Slovenia, and Sweden. The findings will be made public in March 2023.

11. In addition to the state reports, the Committee had at its disposal comments on the reports submitted by different trade unions, human rights institutions and organisations (see introduction to the individual country chapters). The Committee wishes to acknowledge the value of these various comments.

12. The Committee's conclusions as outlined above are published in chapters by State. The conclusions are also available on the website of the European Social Charter and in the Hudoc case law database that is also available on this website. A summary table of the Committee's Conclusions 2022 as well as the state of signature and ratification of the Charter and the 1961 Charter appear below.

Election of members to the Committee

13. The composition of the Committee is governed by Article 25 pursuant to which its 15 members are elected by the Committee of Ministers for mandates of six years, renewable once.

14. It is recalled that pursuant to Article 3 of the Turin Protocol members shall be elected by the Parliamentary Assembly. However, this provision is still not being applied in practice (pending the formal entry into force of the Protocol).

² With the exception of Spain having accepted the complaints procedure only in 2021)

15. Members shall be “independent experts of the highest integrity and of recognised competence in international social questions”. Election takes place every second year with a third of the seats (5) being up for election.

16. At the 1450th meeting of the Ministers’ Deputies on 30 November 2022, the Committee of Ministers held the election to fill the five seats falling vacant on 31 December 2022 as well as the seat already vacant following the resignation of a member (see below). Ms Aoife NOLAN (Irish) and Ms Kristine DUPATE (Latvian) were elected for a second term, Ms Monika ŠIMŮNKOVÁ (Czech) and Ms Carmen SALCEDO BELTRÁN (Spanish) were elected as members for a first term in office. The term of office of these members begins on 1 January 2023 and ends on 31 December 2028.

17. At the 1457th meeting of the Ministers’ Deputies in 22 February 2023 the Committee of Ministers elected Mr Franz MARHOLD for a first term with immediate effect, the term of office ends on 31 December 2028.

18. The remaining vacant seat will be filled as soon as possible in 2023.

19. The Committee wishes to express its appreciation and gratitude to the three outgoing members,–Ms Karin LUKAS (Austrian), Mr Giuseppe PALMISANO (Italian) and Ms Barbara KRESAL (Slovenian) for their outstanding contributions to the Committee’s work and for their tireless efforts to promote social rights.

20. On 8 December 2022 a seminar in honour of the three outgoing members was organised in Strasbourg on the topic of Strengthening social rights in Europe.

Resignation of a member

21. Ms Ekaterina TORKUNOVA (Russian) resigned from the Committee on 22 March 2022. She had been a member of the Committee since 1 January 2019.

Implementation of the report on Improving the European Social Charter System

22. On 27 September 2022, at the 1444th meeting of the Ministers’ Deputies, the Committee of Ministers adopted the operational decisions to reform the European Social Charter system (CM(2022)114).

23. The reform covers the statutory reporting procedure as well as a new ad hoc reporting on critical or emerging issues. It also addresses certain procedural aspects of reporting on follow-up to decisions in the collective complaints’ procedure. Finally, it responds to the desire by States Parties for enhanced dialogue and other means of improving follow-up to the monitoring activities under the Charter.

24. Under the new system for presentation of reports, the Charter provisions will be divided into two groups with reports on one group due every two years (meaning that all Charter provisions will be reported on over a four-year period). The timing of ad hoc reports will be decided jointly by the European Committee of Social Rights and the Governmental Committee. As regards reporting on follow-up to decisions in collective complaints there will henceforth be only one single report for each decision to be submitted approximately two years after the adoption of the Committee of Ministers’ recommendation.

25. The implementation of the new system will start being phased in as of 2023 (the first reports under the new system to be submitted by the end of 2023 with a view to examination by the Committee in 2024).

Statements of interpretation

26. The Committee makes the following statements of interpretation:

- Statement of interpretation on Article 4§4

Following on from its statement of interpretation on Article 4§4 (2018), the Committee recalls that the question of the reasonableness of the notice periods will no longer be addressed, except where the notice periods are manifestly unreasonable. The Committee will assess this question on the basis of:

1. The rules governing the setting of notice periods (or the level of compensation in lieu of notice):
 - according to the source of the rule, namely the law, collective agreements, individual contracts and court judgments;
 - during any probationary periods, including those in the public service;
 - with regard to the treatment of workers in insecure jobs;
 - in the event of termination of employment for reasons outside the parties' control;
 - including any circumstances in which workers can be dismissed without notice or compensation.
2. Acknowledgment, by law, collective agreement or individual contract of length of service, whether with the same employer or where a worker has been successively employed in precarious forms of employment relations.

The Committee considers that in the event of the death of an employer who is a natural person, there is no obligation to give a notice period. However, it asks if there is a mechanism to protect the interests of workers employed by employer who is natural person in the event of the employer's death (contractual or statutory compensation).

- Statement of interpretation on Article 4§5

The Committee recalls that the deductions envisaged in Article 4§5 can only be authorised in certain circumstances which must be well-defined in a legal instrument (for instance, a law, regulation, collective agreement or arbitration award (Conclusions V (1977), Statement of Interpretation on Article 4§5). The Committee further recalls that deductions from wages must be subject to reasonable limits and should not per se result in depriving workers and their dependents of their means of subsistence (Conclusions 2014, Estonia).

With a view to making an in-depth assessment of national situations the Committee has considered it necessary to change its approach. Therefore, the Committee asks States Parties to provide the following information in their next reports:

- a description of the legal framework regarding wage deductions, including the information on the amount of protected (unattachable) wage;

- Information on the national subsistence level, how it is calculated, and how the calculation of that minimum subsistence level ensures that workers can provide for the subsistence needs of themselves and their dependents.
- Information establishing that the disposable income of a worker earning the minimum wage after all deductions (including for child maintenance) is enough to guarantee their means of subsistence (i.e., to ensure that workers can provide for the subsistence needs of themselves and their dependents).
- a description of safeguards that prevent workers from waiving their right to the restriction on deductions from wage.

- Article 26: Statement of interpretation on online harassment related to work

The Committee notes that the Charter applies to harassment in all places and circumstances related to work. These include a worker's usual workplace, as well as in situations in which a worker is working remotely (including at home) or where the worker works at a client's or contractor's workplace or home. It also applies where a worker is engaging in work-related activities such as conferences, training, work trips, work-related corporate events or social activities. The Committee considers that the rights and obligations deriving from Article 26 of the Charter apply to incidents of online harassment. Online harassment may occur through a range of different media, including digital technologies/information and communication technologies ("ICT"), such as e-mails, text messages, chats/instant messages as well as video conference and social media platforms and virtual spaces. Online harassment may result in very speedy propagation of information, mass dissemination and the availability of information for a long period of time.

The Committee recalls that Article 26 of the Charter imposes positive obligations on States Parties to take appropriate preventive measures against online harassment and to take all appropriate measures to protect workers from such conduct. In particular, States Parties should, after consulting employers' and workers' organisations, provide information, carry out awareness-raising and training programmes in order to help workers identify, understand and be aware of online work-related harassment and its manifestation and effects, as well as their rights and responsibilities in this regard. Furthermore, information should be provided to workers on how to report and respond to online harassment (such as reporting the harassment to their employer, the online platform, the labour inspection or the police, or blocking/closing accounts). Moreover, workers should be informed about the procedure to follow and the remedies available. There must be protection from retaliation where workers report incidents of online harassment.

Furthermore, Article 26 of the Charter requires that victims enjoy effective protection in law and in practice against online harassment. This protection shall include the right to challenge the offensive behaviour before an independent body, the right to obtain adequate compensation and the right not to be retaliated against for having pursued the respect of these rights. Victims of online harassment must have effective judicial remedies to seek reparation for pecuniary and non-pecuniary damage. In addition, the right to reinstatement should be guaranteed to workers who have been dismissed or pressured to resign for reasons linked to online harassment.

Finally, responsible persons should be held accountable with a view to preventing the recurrence of online harassment. It must be possible for employers to be held liable when online harassment occurs in relation to work. States Parties shall ensure that the employer is under a formal obligation to report alleged incidents of online harassment to the competent investigating authorities.

Other statements

Statement regarding Article 2§1 of the Charter – seafarers’ weekly working hours

27. The Committee makes the following statement regarding Article 2§1 of the Charter – seafarers’ weekly working hours:

Under Article 2§1 of the Charter, weekly working time shall not exceed 60 hours and the Committee has held that this also applies to seafarers.

There are four States in respect of which the Committee in the past reached conclusions of non-conformity on the ground that the working time of seafarers was excessive. These States are: Ireland, Italy, Estonia and Iceland.

As seafarers are a category of workers carrying out very specific nature of work in a very particular environment, the Committee will re-examine their situation in the future, taking into account other international instruments in the area. When re-examining the situation and possibly making an exception to the maximum weekly working time of 60 hours, the Committee will have regard to rest periods for seafarers.

For the purposes of the present reporting cycle and Conclusions 2023, in respect of Ireland, Italy and Estonia the Committee will note in these conclusions that the issue of seafarers’ working hours will be re-examined and will reserve its position on this point.

Statement on information in national reports and information provided to the Governmental Committee

28. The Committee draws the attention of States Parties to the obligation to systematically include in the national reports replies to requests for information by the Committee. Moreover, the Committee recalls that States Parties must always include in the report any relevant information previously provided to the Governmental Committee, whether in writing or orally, or at least to refer to such information, and of course to indicate any developments or changes that may have intervened in the period since the information was provided to the Governmental Committee.

Next reports

29. The next reports on the accepted provisions, which were due by 31 December 2022, concern the following Articles belonging to the thematic group "Children, families and migrants": 7, 8, 16, 17, 19, 27 and 31. States having accepted the collective complaints procedure and belonging to Group A were due to submit a simplified report on follow-up to complaints also before 31 December 2022.
