

Glen Wise is the Co-Founder and CEO of Cinder, a company focused on internet safety and trust and safety operations. He previously worked as an engineer at Meta and has experience in threat discovery. Wise's work at Meta involved building tools to combat digital threats, including espionage and terrorism planning. After leaving Meta, he co-founded Cinder to provide digital-first businesses with similar tools. The company has raised $14 million in funding and is used by major organizations to manage trust and safety operations. Wise's vision for Cinder is to empower policymakers, moderators, legal teams, and investigators with the information and support needed to protect users and their reputations.