The Council of Europe HELP Programme

Executive summary

The Council of Europe Programme on Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals (HELP) main objective is to enhance the capacity of current and future judges, prosecutors and lawyers in all 46 Council of Europe Member States and beyond, to apply European human rights standards in their daily work. This is done through the HELP online courses that cover a wide range of human rights and rule of law-related topics. National Justice Training Institutions (JTI) and Bar Associations (BA) are part of the pan-European HELP Network and can adapt courses to their national needs and audiences. By applying the HELP methodology, JTI and BA increase their institutional capacities to train legal professionals in the application of human rights standards at national level.

Legal professionals are at the forefront of human rights protection and must know the European human rights standards to apply them effectively. They deserve high-quality training, which the Council of Europe (CoE) HELP Programme provides.

HELP online courses are developed with CoE (including ECtHR) in-house expertise and cover various human rights-related topics. Apart from the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) and the case-law of the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR), HELP covers other instruments such as the European Social Charter (ESC) or CoE Conventions in key areas like data protection, violence against women, trafficking, cybercrime, bioethics, etc. HELP courses also cover the European Union (EU) legal system where applicable, by including the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights and relevant EU law and jurisprudence of the Court of Justice of the EU (CJEU). HELP courses are often integrated as a training component in the CoE cooperation work.

The main institutional and financial partner of the HELP Programme is the European Union. HELP collaborates closely with the EU Fundamental Rights Agency (FRA). Other relevant partners are the EJTN, the CCBE, and for specific topics, UNHCR, EUAA and OSCE ODIHR.

HELP online courses are freely accessible, visual and practical and lead to certification. They enable legal professionals to better protect human rights at national level and keep up to date with the ever-evolving European standards and case-law of the European courts. They can be tailored to the different needs of countries, institutions, and professionals. Other professionals are increasingly interested in accessing HELP courses such as court staff, prison or probation officers, health practitioners, ombudspersons or non-governmental human rights organisations. University students (mainly law students) are also a natural target audience for HELP's online courses.

When contextualised to the national legislation and practice, HELP courses contribute to address training needs identified by various CoE monitoring mechanisms, including the execution of ECtHR judgments. They also contribute to achieving the objectives set in the EU Judicial Training strategy.

HELP's Mandate

The mandate of the Council of Europe HELP Programme stems from Recommendation \(2004\)4 of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe on the European Convention on Human Rights in university education and professional training. Thus, both the initial and continuous training of judges, prosecutors and lawyers, as well as the university education for students, related to the European Convention on Human Rights, are part of HELP's mandate.

HELP's role was reinforced with the 2010 Interlaken Declaration and the 2012 Brighton Declaration adopted at the respective High-Level Conferences on the Future of the European Court of Human Rights, as well as the 2015 Brussels Declaration following the High-Level Conference on the "Implementation of the European Convention on Human Rights, our shared responsibility."

The CoE's Parliamentary Assembly's Committee on Legal Affairs and Human Rights stressed the importance of solid training for law professionals on the European Convention on Human Rights, as interpreted by the European Court of Human Rights. The Assembly's work led it to adopt Resolution 1982 \(2014\) and Recommendation 2039 \(2014\) entitled: the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR): the need to reinforce the training of legal professionals. The texts stressed the crucial importance of good training for law professionals on the ECHR and the Court's case-law. The Assembly also recommended that the Committee of Ministers (CM) ensures that the budget allocated to HELP is consistent with the task assigned to it, namely, to provide different types of co-operation in the training of law professionals in any member state that requests it. Lastly, the Assembly also suggested that the CM update its recommendation 2004 (4) on the ECHR in university education and professional training, and monitor its follow-up.

In October 2019, the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe adopted the new Recommendation \(2019\)5 on the system of the European Convention on Human Rights in university education and professional training, which substantiated HELP's mandate and recognised HELP's contribution, including its courses, in raising awareness and knowledge on the Convention. The Recommendation encouraged member states to use the HELP courses and the HELP Methodology.

In March 2023, the Committee of Ministers decided that there is a need to deepen knowledge on Social Rights in member states and instructed the Governmental Committee of the European Social Charter and the European Code of Social Security (GC) to prepare a recommendation on the promotion of education and training on the Council of Europe social rights framework and on the role which the CoE Programme on Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals (HELP) might play in this connection.

HELP's Pillars

□ The HELP Network¹ which is the only European Network of national Justice Training Institutions for judges, prosecutors (JTIs) and Bar Associations for lawyers (BAs) in the 46 CoE Member States (and beyond). Its main partners at international/European level are EU, EJTJN, CCBE, UNHCR.

The representatives of JTIs in the HELP Network are the so-called HELP Focal Points and the representatives of the BAs are called HELP Info Points.

HELP Focal and Info Points work together during the HELP Network meetings (e.g. HELP Annual Network Conference, HELP in the EU Conference) to assess training needs and to discuss the development of appropriate training materials. They also act as contact persons between the HELP Secretariat and the JTIs or the BAs. They liaise regularly with their JTIs/BAs and the HELP Secretariat to coordinate the launching of HELP courses for judges, prosecutors and lawyers in their respective countries and they deliver public presentations on the HELP Programme and its courses within their respective countries.

□ The HELP human rights free online courses are available on the HELP eLearning platform². HELP courses (initially developed in English) have the potential to be translated into national languages, adapted to the national legal orders, and rolled out with selected categories of legal professionals.

Thus, HELP courses can be taken in two distinct formats:

- self-learning (free access on the HELP platform) or
- tutored in groups organised in co-operation with JTIs (National Justice Training Institutions)/BAs (Bar Associations) or universities.

□ A human rights training methodology for legal and other professionals and university students. The HELP methodology and its use of eLearning takes into account the heavy time pressure faced by legal professionals in their daily work. Its added value is that courses are drafted on a tailor-made basis, meeting learners' specific training needs and individual learning pace. In short, this allows flexibility for participants. The use of eLearning also constitutes a cost-effective way to reach as many legal professionals as possible across as many member states as possible.

Justice and Human Rights Training Division

The Justice and Human Rights Training Division (JHRT) of the Council of Europe functions within the Department for the Implementation of Human Rights, Justice and Legal Co-operation Standards, which is in charge of co-operation projects, programmes and activities designed to assist national authorities and other relevant stakeholders (national human rights institutions, civil society, legal professionals, universities, etc.) in two main areas: the effective implementation of the ECHR, and the independence and efficiency of justice.

The main objective of the JHRT Division is to assist relevant stakeholders in charge of training at national level to implement human rights training taking into account the needs of the beneficiaries and the existing circumstances.

The JHRT Division oversees the HELP Programme and includes the HELP Secretariat, responsible for the harmonisation of methodology in all activities involving the use of HELP courses, including the training of HELP tutors. It ensures the functioning of the HELP Network through regular contacts with Focal points (for judges and prosecutors) and Info points (for lawyers) in the partner institutions, while supporting the development of online learning courses and regular updates of materials available on the HELP platform. All HELP materials are online, free to use and accessible to all those who create an account on the HELP platform. The team provides support in the planning and implementation of courses, as well as the training materials and the learning environment. In addition, the HELP Secretariat ensures synergies and cooperation with international organisations also involved in human rights training, relevant partners at international level and other international training providers (UN agencies, OHCHR, OSCE, ODIHR, FRA, EUAA, EJTN, CCBE, etc.), Council of Europe monitoring and standard-setting entities, etc.

The HELP Report

The present report will follow the work of HELP along the line of the HELP Methodology, with highlights and information related to its 3 main stages, namely:

- Development and update of HELP courses
- Implementation of HELP tutored courses
- HELP self-learning courses

It will also address the priority topics in terms of training of legal and justice professionals and present relevant data³ concerning the HELP activities and results by the end of December 2023.

³ Minor inconsistencies in the data presented throughout the report may occur due to the different dates the data was collected.

HELP IN 2023 – Some highlights

By the end of 2023, the CoE HELP Catalogue contained 50 online courses on various human rights related topics, including in direct link with the Rule of Law, with 618 national versions available online –in English or other European languages.

By December 2023, there were over 180,000 enrolments in the self-learning courses by the 140,000 users, out of which over 40,000 completed and obtained electronic certificates. This corresponds to approximately 22% of those enrolled as self-learners and is a high percentage considering that HELP courses are increasingly used as a knowledge repository by professionals who do not necessarily need to complete entire courses but refer to the content of specific modules in their day-to-day work.

HELP IN 2023

In 2023, HELP published four new courses (Introduction to Human Rights Protection in Europe – Interplay between the ECHR, the ESC and the EUCFR; Quality of Justice – the Work of CEPEJ, Rights of LGBTI Persons in Asylum Procedures; Transition of Refugee and Migrant Children to Adulthood) and updated other four (Prohibition of Ill-treatment; Admissibility Criteria in Applications Submitted to the ECtHR; Child-friendly Justice; Transitional Justice and Human Rights) .

83 new translations of courses were made available in 2023 in various languages of the CoE member states.

146 Council of Europe HELP courses were launched in 2023, many virtually or in hybrid format, but with a clear comeback of the face-to-face sessions.

The implementation of CoE HELP courses contribute to the objectives set in the Council of Europe Committee of Ministers Recommendation CM/Rec\(2019\)5 on the system of the European Convention on Human Rights in university education and professional training and the EU Judicial Training strategy \(2021-2024\) as well as to meeting the training needs identified by various Council of Europe monitoring mechanisms, including the Execution Department with regard to the execution of the judgments of the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR). As most HELP courses cover both the Council of Europe (CoE) and EU legal systems, it helps legal professionals acquire skills and knowledge in a coherent way with regards to CoE/EU standards. Hence, the HELP Programme contributes to a better protection of human rights and RoL in EU MS. Hence, in 2023, the new HELP course on the ECHR-EU Charter Interplay was produced. It was developed with EU funding and in cooperation with the EC and FRA, aimed at training legal professionals on the relation between the two systems and the practical application of European standards at national level.

Even through difficult circumstances (Covid pandemic, war in Ukraine), thanks to the support to the CoE HELP Programme from the JTI and BA and partners, the Council of Europe remains the top provider of online judicial training on human rights in Europe, contributing to the implementation of Human Rights standards in Europe. Operationally, the CoE HELP Programme is contributing to the implementation of the Council of Europe Plan of Action on Strengthening Judicial Independence and Impartiality and helps advance the CoE Digital Agenda. It also contributes to implementing the European Judicial Training Strategy 2021-2024.

The HELP Network continued to be active and national representatives further explored ways of optimising HELP resources by intensifying the integration of courses in the national curricula and implementing them on their own. The 2023 HELP Network Conference, the main gathering of the HELP Network members (Justice Training Institutions and Bar Associations) and partners such as European Judicial Training Network (EJTN), Council of Bars and Law Societies of Europe (CCBE), EU Agency for Fundamental Rights (FRA), UNHCR etc. provided a good platform for sharing such practices and exploring further avenues of cooperation for enhancing human rights training among justice and legal professionals. In the words of Judge Siofra O'Leary, then President of the ECtHR,

One of the great advantages of the HELP courses has always been their overview of both EU and ECHR standards on a particular topic. In this way they help judges, prosecutors and legal professions navigate the sometimes complicated waters of European human rights protection, understanding how these two European protection mechanisms interact. (...) It is essential for judges and practitioners to have a global overview of the mechanisms for human rights protection in Europe faced with a complex mix of national, international and supranational mechanisms for the protection of human rights.

The new HELP Consultative Board was elected during the Conference and held a side meeting to already set in place some priorities for their work.

The number of users of the Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals (HELP) Programme of the Council of Europe grew in 2023, adding over 25,000 new users to its platform (with a total of 140,039 users by the end of the year). The top users of HELP courses in the member states of the CoE for the reporting period came from Türkiye, Italy, Ukraine, France, Spain, Greece, Romania, United Kingdom, Georgia, Cyprus.

Legal professionals improved their capacities and skills after successfully completing HELP courses previously contextualised to national realities in cooperation with judiciary schools and bar associations.

Some of the most demanded courses by HELP users and national JTI and BAs during the previous years continued to be: Introduction to the ECHR and the ECtHR, Violence against Women and Domestic Violence, Data Protection and Privacy Rights, Admissibility Criteria, Business and Human Rights, Asylum (developed with UNHCR), Access to Justice for Women, Bioethics (Key Human Rights Principles in Biomedicine), Refugee and Migrant Children and Family Law.

The constant support from the European Union for the development of most courses and their national contextualisation was crucial. EU funding made possible the HELP projects in the EU, or HELP components in the joint EU-CoE Horizontal Facility for Turkey and the Western Balkans (funded as of 2023 by the HRTF), the South Mediterranean Programme and Central Asia. Many of the courses were developed with representatives from HELP's partners: EJTN, CCBE, FRA, EUAA, UNHCR, etc.

To address the outbreak of the war in Ukraine, the Council of Europe HELP programme, in coordination with the CCBE, set up asylum/migration HELP eDesks for lawyers in several European countries supporting those fleeing to find refuge in neighbouring countries or onwards in other CoE member states. By December 2023, the eDesks has been used by over 2500 lawyers in Europe. Specific activities have also been carried out under a dedicated HELP project for Ukraine (HELP users from Ukraine have increased from 4,500 to 11,400 by December 2023).

As Justice and Human Rights Training Division, we also provide guidance to projects with JTIs as main partners such as the DG-Reform funded (via TPI) project “Promotion of the rule of law and fundamental rights through high-quality online trainings in the Croatian judiciary”.

Human rights and judicial training are essential to ensure -and promote- respect for Rule of Law (RoL). Training of legal professionals on Rule of Law is also fundamental to judicial independence. However, to be effective and appealing, training on the Rule of Law (otherwise perceived as too abstract) must be designed on concrete topics, which are closer to the daily work of justice professionals (ethics, anticorruption, freedom of expression, etc.). Moreover, training activities should be adapted to each national context. This is the approach followed by the Council of Europe and its Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals (HELP) Programme that supports justice training institutions and legal professionals apply European Human Rights standards at national level.

Work with law faculties continued though it remains on a very ad hoc basis.

New challenges are ahead in 2024, with, i.e. planned courses⁴ on Quality of Justice – the Work of CEPEJ; Personal Data Protection in Publication of Judicial Decisions; International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights; Temporary Protection Directive; Gender Equality and Gender Mainstreaming; Artificial Intelligence and Human Rights; Mental Health and Human Rights; Combating Sexual Exploitation of Children; Human Rights and Use of Drugs, Deportation of Children During Armed Conflict, as well as the update of several already existent courses: Combating Hate Speech, Combating Trafficking in Human Beings, Right to Liberty and Security.

⁴ Courses marked with * have already been published by the time of issue of the present report. They can be accessed on the CoE HELP eLearning Platform.

DEVELOPMENT AND UPDATE OF HELP COURSES

The relevant steps for the development of a new HELP course include the selection of the course topic, the selection of course authors and the team that will contribute to its drafting, and the various stages of the course building, with several Working Group meetings held at regular intervals over a period of approximately 12 months. The update of an existing HELP course follows the same main steps and takes approximately the same amount of time and effort, especially if both content and visual design are being substantially updated.

The HELP model course is developed in English and is made available in the HELP platform (which is based on Moodle).

HELP courses provide high quality training on international and European human rights standards and good practices. They are interactive, visual and practical. They contain useful material on the international and European legal framework and jurisprudence (e.g. case-law of the ECtHR and the CJEU), case-studies, practical tips for professionals and useful explanations on how to invoke or implement human rights principles and standards.

The course material, which is produced by the consultants, is transformed into an online learning format which is called SCORM. HELP courses are composed of several modules and apart from their text, they contain interactive materials that enable learners to deepen, improve and check their knowledge and skills. The total length of a HELP course ranges from 6 to 13 hours.

Several other courses in the making or under update have been also finalised by the date of publication of the current report: Combating Trafficking on Human Beings, Combating Hate Speech, Artificial Intelligence and Human Rights, Gender Equality and Gender Mainstreaming, International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights, Judges Upholding the Rule of Law, Personal Data Protection in Publication of Judicial Decisions, Temporary Protection in the European Union, Right to Liberty and Security.

Work has also started on new courses, planned for publication in 2024, such as Mental Health and Human Rights, Human Rights and Drug Use, Combating Sexual Exploitation of Children.

IMPLEMENTATION OF HELP TUTORED COURSES

In contrast to self-learning courses, which can be taken individually, tutored courses are delivered to selected groups and are organised in co-operation with JTIs (National Training Institutions)/BAs (Bar Associations) or universities. There are three stages applied to tutored courses, namely:

- ❑ development of the national version,
- ❑ course launch and implementation, and
- ❑ course evaluation.

National HELP tutors play a key role in all three stages.

When launched in tutored format, HELP courses are usually proposed in a timeframe of 2-4 months, with about two weeks dedicated to each module at a pace of 1-2 hours of learning time per week. This does not include additional readings, but all compulsory materials and assignments.

HELP Certified Tutors

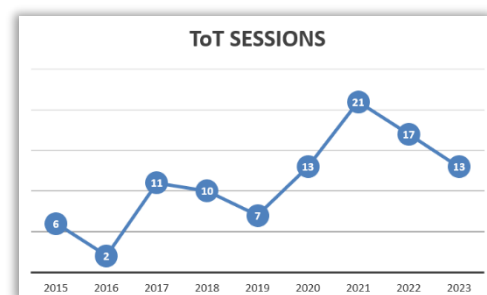

National HELP tutors are key actors in the process of implementing a HELP course for groups of legal professionals in collaboration with JTIs and BAs as well as for students at universities. Tutors prepare the national adaptation of the course and have a primary role in the course implementation and its evaluation.

A professional designated by the national institution can become CoE HELP certified tutor upon successful completion of a HELP Training of Trainers (ToT) session, which is organised by the HELP Secretariat. ToT sessions equip future HELP tutors with technical skills to implement a HELP tutored course on the HELP eLearning platform in line with the HELP Training Methodology.

Participants in HELP ToTs are selected jointly with the HELP Network members, namely by the JTIs for judges and prosecutors and Bar Associations, based on their professional expertise, preferably as staff or regular trainers with their JTIs/BAs. Successful participants in the ToTs are certified by the HELP Programme and are added to a pool of HELP certified tutors in their respective countries, which is available on the HELP website.

By the end of 2023, HELP had carried out 100 ToT sessions following which over 1300 justice professionals became HELP Certified Tutors.

Through its HELP ToT sessions, the CoE also contributes to upskilling the digital competencies of trainers of legal professionals, thus assisting national institutions in increasing the pool of trainers able to carry out online training.

2023 HIGHLIGHTS

In 2023, the HELP Secretariat organised 13 ToT sessions, in person or online, following which over 200 justice professionals from several countries obtained their HELP Tutor Certificates. Several sessions have been held at national or regional level under various projects implemented by the CoE, alongside sessions organised in Strasbourg for international groups. National ToT sessions were organised in or for Tunisia (1), Türkiye (1), Kosovo* (1), Bosnia and Herzegovina (1), Ukraine (3), Georgia (1), Italy (1). Regional and multinational ToTs were organised for the Western Balkans (1), Central Asia (1) and the EU (2).

Several tutorials and step by step instructions have been updated/developed to support the tutors in their work managing the course pages they are in charge of. The tutorials have been circulated to all HELP certified tutors and are put at the disposal of each tutor on the course page once they start preparing the national adaptation. Tutors also receive regular information and instructions on the new ways of working, namely the online tutor report or the preparation of digital certificates. A specific section dedicated to tutors and restricted to them only is accessible from their course pages and contains all the necessary links, instructions and resources to assist them in their task.

National Versions of HELP Courses

Each national version of a HELP course is developed on a specific and restricted course virtual space/page in the HELP eLearning platform, opened by the HELP Secretariat. This course page will contain:

- ❑ the online course translated in the national language, i.e. the literal translation of a HELP online model course into the national language (in SCORM package format) and
- ❑ the national adaptation added by the national tutor, i.e. additional materials and resources related to the national legal order and practice (for example national laws and case law, articles, videos, practical exercises, etc.).

The national version of a HELP course can be used either for tutored training for a particular national group of professionals, or for self-learning once the national version has already been piloted in a country and is transferred to the (open) self-learning section of the platform. There may be either a single national version of a HELP course or different ones, aimed at different justice professionals. Thus, for example, there may be a national version for prosecutors, judges, lawyers and another one for prison officers within the same country.

By the end of 2023, there were 567 translations of HELP courses and over 550 national adaptations of HELP courses that have already been carried out throughout the Council of Europe member States and beyond. Many of these have been replicated and are also available on the HELP eLearning platform in self-learning format.

2023 HIGHLIGHTS

In 2023, 83 new HELP course translations were published on the Council of Europe HELP eLearning platform and many national adaptations have been also replicated to become available in self-learning format. National versions are useful additional resources for legal professionals who have not been involved in tutored courses but who can benefit from the materials and resources developed for selected group of participants. This contributes to increasing the impact and sustainability of the training materials developed under the national adaptations.

Implementation of HELP Tutored Courses

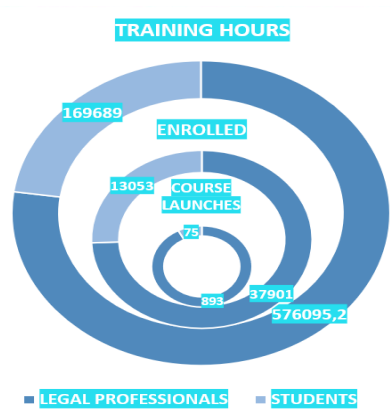

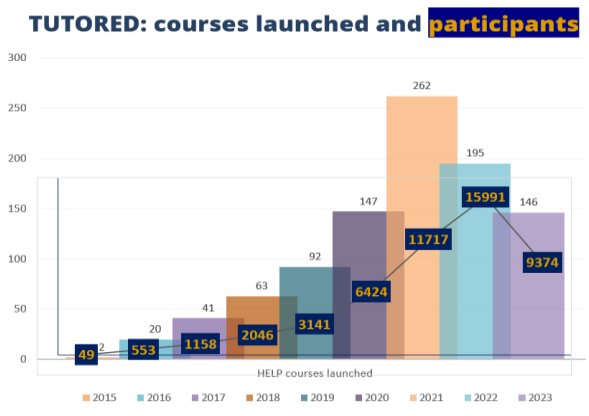

The scope of the HELP Programme covers national courses, i.e. courses to be implemented for a group selected by an JTI/BA (National Training Institution/Bar Association), as well as multinational and multi-professional courses. The choice of courses to be implemented is done in consultation with the national partners and based on the needs identified at CoE level.

The implementation of HELP courses consists of two phases. The first phase is the course launch, which is by definition the first event involving the HELP Secretariat, the national tutor, the representative from the JTI/BA, and the participants in the course.

The aim is to introduce participants to the HELP Programme and to provide them with all the relevant information about the course. This launch event is thus of great importance. It is usually held in person/face to face, but it can also be held online. The second phase is the delivery of the training. This stage is carried out entirely online. It is the most substantive phase for the participants, where they have the opportunity to use the interactive training material under the guidance of the tutor and to deepen their knowledge and skills.

HELP tutored courses are launched in cooperation with JTIs/BAs, at national or regional level, under various cooperation programmes of the CoE or at the initiative of the national partners. More and more HELP tutored courses are 'internalised' by the national partners, including the launch event and tutoring as part of the initial or continuous training for judges, prosecutors and lawyers.

By the end of 2023, 968 HELP tutored courses have been launched, with 50,954 participants enrolled and an average 75% success rate of completion, amounting to approximately 745,784 training hours (face-to-face and eLearning).

Several JTIs/BAs have integrated HELP courses either in their initial or continuous training curricula and implement them regularly on their own eLearning platforms⁵, such as the National Institute of Justice

⁵ The statistics related to the number of enrolled and certified participants in HELP courses run on the JTIs/BAs own eLearning platforms are not reflected in the present Report. Other JTIs/BAs may use similar systems, the examples

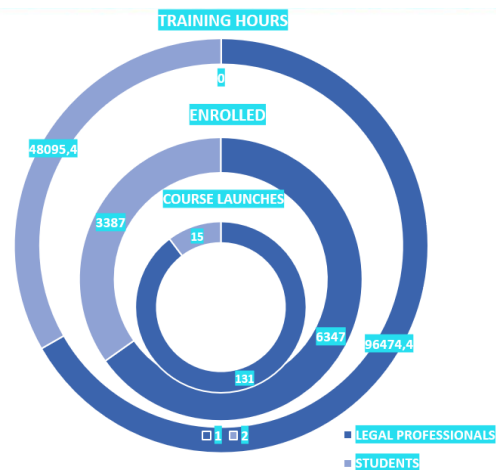

(Bulgaria), Judicial Academy (Croatia), Conseil National des Barreaux-Les Avocats (France), Justizakademie des Landes Nordrhein-Westfalen (Germany), Ministry for Justice (Malta), National Institute of Justice (Moldova), Centre for Judicial Studies (Portugal), the National Institute for the Training of Lawyers (Romania), the Judiciary School (Spain), Prosecutor's Training Center (Ukraine). In addition, and following a first launch of HELP courses in tutored format, some JTIs/BAs use pre-set restricted course pages based on the national adaptation made for the tutored courses, on which legal professionals can enrol and complete the courses, obtaining electronic certificates recognised at national level (through CPD or training points). This is the case for the Italian Bar Council, while others accredit the self-learning certificates obtained by legal professionals on the HELP eLearning platform (Belgium Bar Association, Cyprus Bar Association, Judicial Council of Andorra, etc.).

2023 HIGHLIGHTS

In 2023, there were 131 HELP course launches in 31 CoE members states and beyond, with 6,347 legal professionals enrolled in the tutored courses and an average success rate of completion of 76%, amounting to approximately 94,474 training hours (face-to-face and eLearning).

At the same time, 15 HELP courses were launched for law students, with 3,387 enrolled and a success rate of 71%, amounting to approximately 48,095 training hours.

Numbers naturally went down following full resumption of face-to-face events, with more effort and budget required to support these. However, the flexible HELP Methodology allowed for high numbers of participants and optimisation of resources, scaling up efforts and adapting the format and methodology in order to allow for a wider, and more effective implementation of HELP courses without compromising on the thoroughness and quality of the training.

Evaluation and Certification

As a minimum requirement for certification in HELP tutored courses, participants must complete the online course (the modules in SCORM format) and pass the test/assignment given by the tutors. Sometimes tutors also add in the evaluation criteria the reply to case studies and, more rarely, participation to the forum exchanges.

are illustrative.

Upon completion of the online course, participants evaluate the short-term impact of the course. In addition, the national tutor submits a report on the implementation and results of the course, based on the HELP template (which is provided) to the HELP Secretariat (and the national partners). The report includes the list of successful participants, evaluation of the course implementation, as well as identification of any challenges or problems that arose during the course, ways to improve the results and future needs.

On the basis of the list provided by the national tutor, the HELP Secretariat prepares certificates for those who have successfully completed the course. The HELP Certificate is normally issued jointly by the CoE and the JTI/BA.

■ 2023 HIGHLIGHTS

The new online tutor report has been put in place and gradually implemented in all tutored courses, allowing for an easier centralisation of data.

The certification process has gradually shifted from paper based to digital and automated certificates. As of 2023, a new way of automated certificates for successful participants has started being implemented. This allowed to simplify the process, reduce delays for issuing the certificates following the completion of the tutored courses and better respond to the substantial increase of the number of tutored courses (going from some 80-90/year before the pandemic to approximately 150 since then).

HELP SELF-LEARNING COURSES

All HELP courses are available on the CoE HELP eLearning platform, i.e. a platform based on Moodle, user friendly and accessible free of charge. The platform includes model HELP courses (in English), as well as translated HELP courses (in various languages) on a vast variety of topics.

The course pages may include supplementary materials from national versions of HELP courses that have already been implemented in a country and are transferred to the self-learning section. In this case, the course no longer benefits from interaction with a tutor or other participants. The main difference between "self-learning" and "tutored" courses is that in the former there is no national tutor moderating, no start, end date or imposed timeline for completion, and there is no certificate issued together with the national partner (JTI/BA). Any learner can go through the course at their own pace and use only self-assessment tools.

Participants that completed self-learning courses on the HELP platform can generate 'Statements of Accomplishment' directly from the platform. The self-learning certification system has been put in place in 2020, just a couple of weeks after the start of the COVID 19 pandemic and allowed users to complete training online and issue electronic certificates in proof of their acquired knowledge and skills. The Statements of Accomplishment can be generated only if all the online modules (SCORM packages) of the respective course are completed, and a minimum amount of time has been spent on the course.

HELP courses are accessible to all users that have an account on the HELP eLearning platform. In order to create an account, it is necessary to go to the CoE HELP eLearning platform, click "Log in" and then click "Create New Account" under the "Log in" button; choose a username and password and fill in the boxes with personal data; click "Create my new account" at the bottom of the page. An email will be sent to the given email address in order to activate the account.

To access a specific course, (s)he should click on the language icon (the language in which the user wishes to do the course) and will then be asked to login by using his/her name and password. Once logged in, the user has access to the self-learning course page and can start going through the modules of the course. All the courses in which a user is enrolled can be found by clicking the 'My Courses' button (in the upper right-hand corner of the screen).

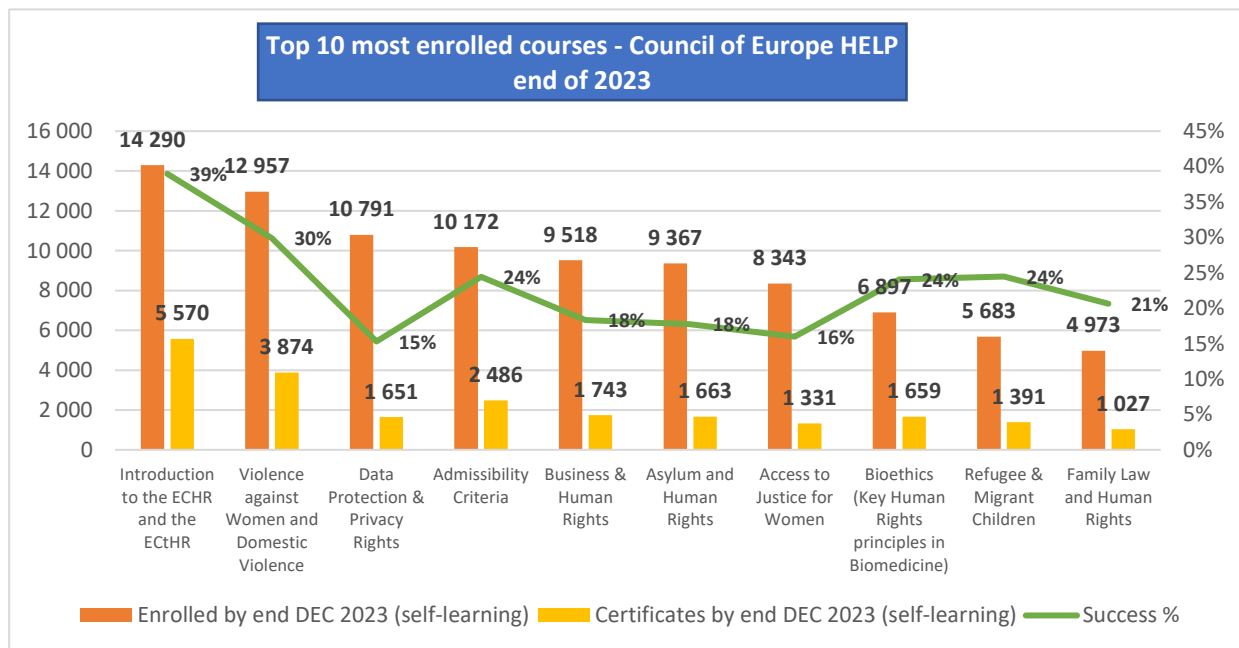

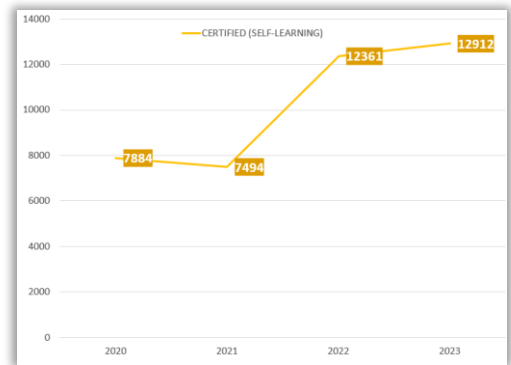

Courses are divided into sections (modules) and usually there is a separate SCORM per module. It is very easy to navigate through the SCORMs. The user just needs to click on the arrows to go forward or backward and (s)he can also search for a specific section through the index. As the user advances through the SCORM, the system will record his/her progress and will mark 'complete' when (s)he finishes the SCORM. The user can then proceed to the next course module (SCORM package).

Completion tracking is saved automatically, allowing users to start and stop at any time, by just closing the course window.

By the end of 2023, the HELP eLearning platform included 50 online courses on various human rights related topics, with over 618 language versions. They are all accessible freely, are self-paced and those who complete them can generate their electronic Statement of Accomplishment.

By December 2023, there were a total of 180,725 enrolments in these courses, with 40,641 generated Statements of Accomplishment, amounting to approximately 321,173 eLearning hours.

As access and navigation through the courses are completely open, legal professionals tend to come back to courses previously completed in order to retrieve practical information needed for their work. Thus, HELP courses are not only learning tools, but are also widely used as working tools by legal professionals.

2023 HIGHLIGHTS

The CoE HELP eLearning platform has been made more user friendly and adjusted for an easier access to information about the online courses, before having to log in or enrol. This way users can directly see the length of each course, have access to the course briefs (which include background information and course structure) and short course videos.

A virtual space / page containing tutorials on how to access and navigate the HELP online courses, as well as for other information related to the CoE HELP Programme has been made available on the main page of the eLearning platform.

Self-learning course pages have been also enriched with useful resources and recent developments, for participants to be able to keep up with the content information that may have evolved since the publication of the courses. This option allows for faster and more regular updates on the topic, which would not be possible with the same rhythm if it were done in the SCORM package.

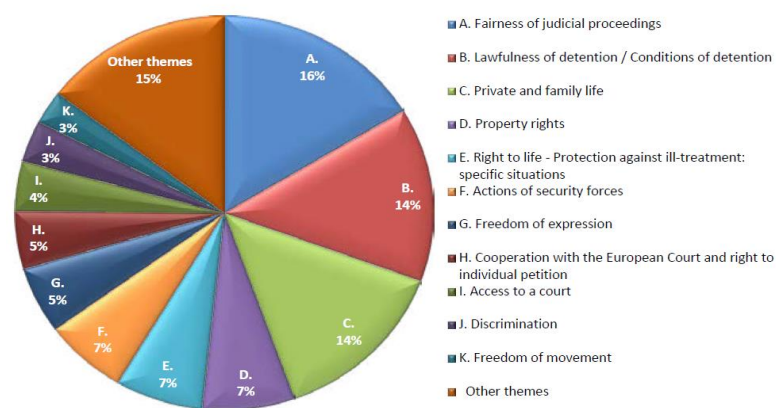

PRIORITY TOPICS AND RELEVANT HELP COURSES

Priority Topics Related to the European Convention on Human Rights

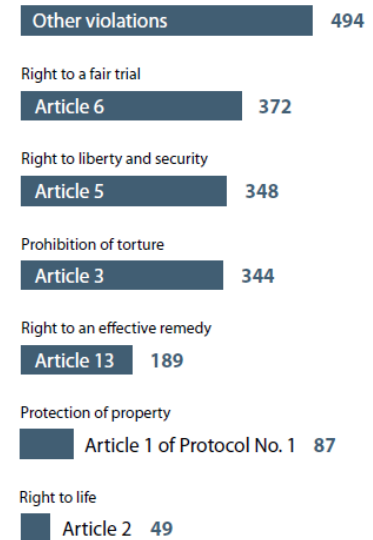

Priority topics based on the number of ECHR violations by subject matter in judgments delivered by the ECtHR (source: ECtHR Annual Report 2023).

Priority topics based on the number of leading cases under enhanced supervision before the Committee of Ministers (source: Department for the Execution of Judgments \(DEJ\) Report 2023).

B.3. Main themes of leading cases pending

Violations by subject matter

Several CoE HELP courses address the training needs for ensuring a better application of human rights standards in the priority topics identified in the ECtHR and DEJ Annual Reports. Since many of these topics are recurrent ones and have been a priority for the past years, the CoE HELP courses have been developed with these issues in mind and in close cooperation with the ECtHR Registry, as well as with the Department for the Execution of the ECtHR Judgments. They are proposed for translation and launching in countries where training on these aspects is most needed.

JTIs and BAs can take up the relevant HELP courses and use them for large scale or systematic training of legal professionals on these topics, in order to comply with the measures needing implementation for the effective execution of ECtHR judgments in order to resolve especially persistent, structural or complex problems at national level.

HELP may be one of the major tools by which awareness raising and systematic training on the Convention may be pursued, in order to resolve especially persistent, structural or complex problems at national level.

As examples, the DEJ took part in the launch of the Greek version of the HELP course on Freedom of expression, the Croatian version of the HELP/UNHCR Course on Asylum and human rights and the Romanian version of the HELP course on Hate crime for Romanian prosecutors (in the context of the implementation of M.C. and A.C., Association Accept and Others and Lingurar cases). The DEJ also attended a meeting in Belgrade on the new "HELP in the Western Balkans" project, aimed at strengthening the execution of judgments in the region. The DEJ participated in the launch of the Labour Rights module for Polish and Lithuanian legal practitioners.

In collaboration with representatives of the Registry of the ECtHR, HELP referenced and integrated the resources and materials developed by the Registry of the ECtHR from the ECHR Knowledge Sharing Platform (ECHR-KS) on the relevant course pages, thus ensuring that users have direct access to the ECHR-

KS resources related to the topic of interest.

Priority Topics Related to Other Key CoE Conventions

HELP has developed several online courses based on some key CoE Conventions in order offer a concrete solution to national JTIs and BAs, but also relevant training providers, for training legal and justice professionals on the topic. These courses can be efficiently used for responding to recommendations for specific training, done under the various CoE monitoring mechanisms.

The HELP courses have been developed in close cooperation with the CoE services working on these thematics and include, aside from the core information related to the specific instruments, the relevant ECtHR case-law as well as references to the EU framework and case-law of the CJEU.

CONCLUSIONS

The HELP methodology and courses are systematically used in Council of Europe capacity-building activities related to CoE and EU standards on human rights and rule of law, organised in beneficiary countries, including within the framework of several cooperation programmes. This methodology takes into account the heavy time pressure imposed on legal professionals in their daily work and their particular needs.

All CoE HELP courses are available in self-learning format on the CoE HELP eLearning platform which is freely accessible. They can be used by legal and justice professionals individually. The HELP platform includes model HELP courses (in English), as well as translated HELP courses (in various languages) on a vast variety of topics. It also includes national versions of HELP courses that have already been implemented in a country and are transferred to the self-learning section. Self-learning courses (mostly covering CoE and EU legal systems) are available free of cost and accessible any time, and lead to certification upon completion.

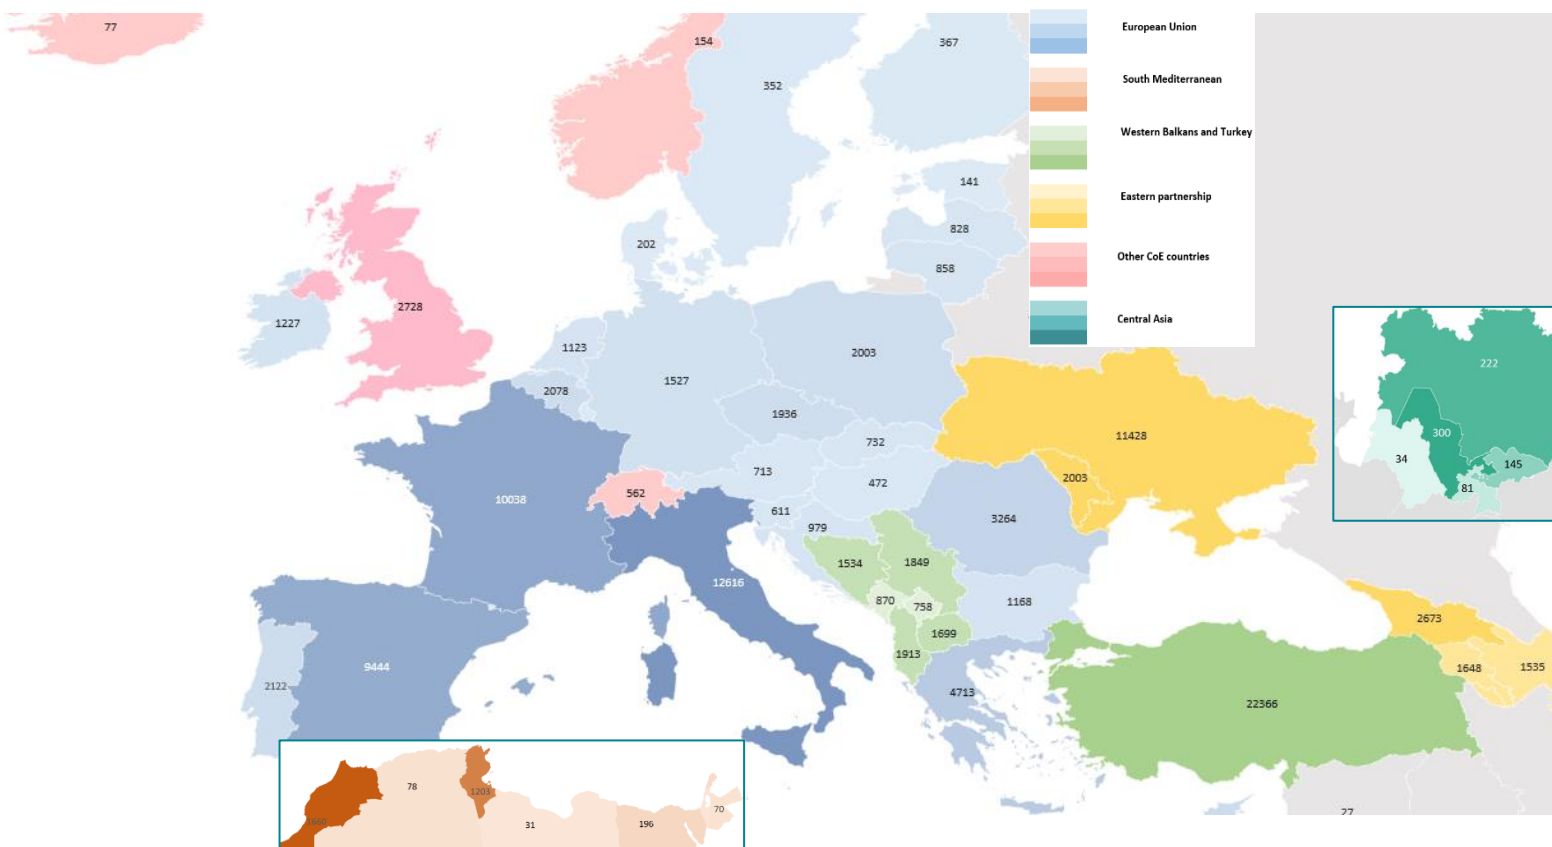

Training legal professionals at large is of major importance in order to promote and effectively implement human rights standards at national level. According to the subsidiarity principle, national authorities have the primary responsibility for the effective protection of human rights. The whole CoE HELP Programme is based on this aspect of subsidiarity and constitutes a significant component of the credibility of the European human rights protection system. The HELP Methodology is an important tool for Member States to "encourage the use of the most appropriate learning and training methods, taking into account the national context and the specific needs and expectations of the targeted public" (Recommendation CM/Rec (2019)5 of the Committee of Ministers to member States on the system of the European Convention on Human Rights in university education and professional training).

When contextualised to the national legislation and practice, HELP courses contribute to address training needs identified by various Council of Europe monitoring mechanisms, including the execution of ECtHR judgments. They also contribute to achieving the objectives set in the EU Judicial Training strategy.

2. HELP basic concepts

Model HELP online course

This is the core HELP online course on the topic (like a textbook on a particular subject). It is developed in English, centrally by the HELP Secretariat of the Council of Europe (CoE) with participation of colleagues from various relevant CoE entities, including lawyers from the European Court of Human Rights and experts in the topic (CoE consultants). The model HELP course can exist in many languages, but its content in all languages is identical (as a literal translation of a textbook). It is available in the HELP online platform for all its users for self-learning. It may be modified only by the HELP Secretariat or authorised HELP consultants in coordination with the HELP Secretariat. They are built in SCORM format (see below).

Module of a HELP online course

A section of a HELP course is like a chapter in a textbook. Modules can be taken as part of a full HELP course (e.g. the HELP course on Data Protection and Privacy Rights) or individually (e.g. the module on media within the HELP course on Data Protection and Privacy Rights).

Translation

A literal translation of the model HELP course into a national language. It is usually provided for by the HELP Secretariat, and the national tutor may be asked to proofread it (without adding or deleting information from the model HELP course).

National version of a HELP online course

It is composed of two parts:

- The literal translation of a HELP online model course (SCORM) into the national language
- Additional materials related to the national legal order and practice (e.g. national laws and case law, news articles, videos). There may be either a single national version of a HELP course or different ones aimed at different justice professionals (e.g. a version for prosecutors, judges, lawyers and another one for prison officers).

SCORM

Online format in which HELP courses are built (both model course and the translations). SCORM stands for "Sharable Content Object Reference Model". The SCORM format presents the course content in an interactive way. Just as figures are better presented in Excel sheets and text in Word format, eLearning is better delivered in SCORM format.

HELP eLearning Platform

The Council of Europe eLearning platform for online courses for legal professionals. It is as user friendly as Facebook or WhatsApp.

HELP online courses are accessible in the HELP online platform:

<https://help.elearning.ext.coe.int/>

It is based on Moodle.

HELP trainer / tutor

Expert specialising in a particular topic who successfully attended HELP training-of-trainers (ToT) and is familiar with the HELP online platform and its functionality.

ToT (Training of Trainers)

Special trainings offered by HELP Secretariat to teach the basics of the HELP Methodology, including HELP eLearning platform functionalities and specific online training methods applied to, and effective for, human rights training of legal professionals.

The Council of Europe Programme for Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals (HELP) is the main education programme of the Council of Europe (CoE).

The HELP Programme supports the Council of Europe member states in implementing the European human rights standards at the national level. This is done by enhancing the capacity of legal and, where relevant, other professionals, to apply European human rights standards in their daily work.

The HELP Programme develops and implements online courses in various human rights related topics, aimed at enhancing both the knowledge and skills of justice professionals. Apart from the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) and the case-law of the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR), HELP courses cover other CoE instruments and, as of 2015, systematically integrate the European Union (EU) legal system and the case-law of the Court of Justice of the EU (CJEU).

Take a few moments to familiarise yourself with the HELP website and explore the available HELP online courses.

The Council of Europe is the continent's leading human rights organisation. It comprises 46 member states, including all members of the European Union. All Council of Europe member states have signed up to the European Convention on Human Rights, a treaty designed to protect human rights, democracy and the rule of law. The European Court of Human Rights oversees the implementation of the Convention in the member states.
