The Council of Europe HELP Programme

The Council of Europe Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals (HELP) aims to enhance the capacity of current and future judges, prosecutors and lawyers in the 46 Council of Europe member states and beyond, to apply European human rights standards in their daily work.

This is done through the HELP online courses that cover a wide range of human rights and rule of law-related topics. National Justice Training Institutions (JTI) and Bar Associations (BA) are part of the pan-European HELP Network and can adapt courses to their national needs and audiences. By applying the HELP methodology, JTI and BA increase their institutional capacities to train legal professionals in the application of human rights standards at national level. HELP online courses are developed with CoE (including ECtHR) in-house expertise and cover various human rights-related topics. Apart from the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) and the case-law of the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR), HELP covers other instruments such as the European Social Charter (ESC) or CoE Conventions in key areas like data protection, violence against women, trafficking, cybercrime, bioethics, etc. HELP courses also cover the European Union (EU) legal system where applicable, by including the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights and relevant EU law and jurisprudence of the Court of Justice of the EU (CJEU).

HELP online courses are freely accessible, visual and practical and lead to certification. They enable legal professionals to better protect human rights at national level and keep up to date with the ever-evolving European standards and case-law of the European courts. They can be tailored to the different needs of countries, institutions, and professionals. Other professionals are increasingly interested in accessing HELP courses such as court staff, prison or probation officers, health practitioners, ombudspersons or non-governmental human rights organisations. University students (mainly law students) are also a natural target audience for HELP's online courses.

When contextualised to the national legislation and practice, HELP courses contribute to address training needs identified by various CoE monitoring mechanisms, including the execution of ECtHR judgments. They also contribute to achieving the objectives set in the EU Judicial Training strategy.

HELP's Mandate

Justice and Human Rights Training Division

The Justice and Human Rights Training Division (JHRT) of the Council of Europe functions within the Department for the Implementation of Human Rights, Justice and Legal Co-operation Standards, which is in charge of co-operation projects, programmes and activities designed to assist national authorities and other relevant stakeholders in two main areas: the effective implementation of the ECHR, and the independence and efficiency of justice. The JHRT Division assists relevant stakeholders in charge of training at national level to implement human rights training taking into account the needs of the beneficiaries and the existing circumstances.

Cooperation with international partners

Over the years, the Programme has built strong partnerships with international partners and organisations to enhance legal education and training across Europe and beyond, actively co-operating with other international and European institutions (UNHCR, EC, FRA, EUAA), and with various networks: the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN), the Council of Bar and Law Societies in Europe (CCBE), or the European Judicial Network (EJN). Representatives from these institutions are taking part in working groups on the development of HELP courses and regularly participate in launches of HELP courses. Some recent examples:

- Interplay between the ECHR and the EU Charter on Fundamental Rights - developed with DG JUST and FRA
- Temporary protection in the European Union - developed with UNHCR, FRA, EUAA and representatives of the EC DG Migration and Home Affairs
- Judges upholding the Rule of Law - developed with EJTN

As the HELP courses contain, alongside the CoE framework, the EU law and CJEU case-law, the contribution of FRA and other EU institutions is crucial in ensuring the high-standard reflection of the EU related content. Cooperation with the EU remains central to the HELP Programme, particularly through its privileged partnership with DG JUST, as well as engagement with DG NEAR. HELP courses aligned with EU priorities for 2025-2026 play a crucial role in supporting judicial training, promoting digitalisation, and strengthening the rule of law and fundamental rights.

The HELP Report

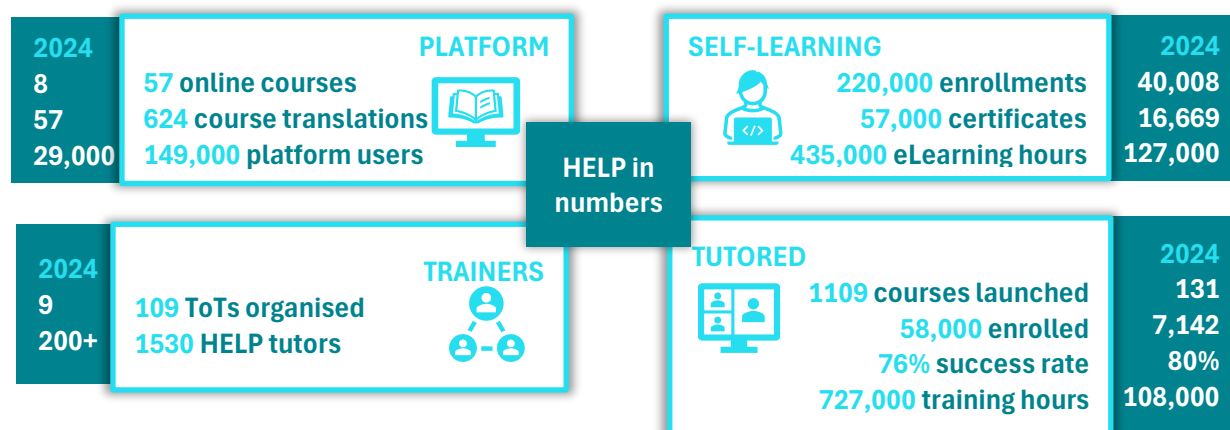

The present report will follow the work of HELP along the line of the HELP Methodology, with highlights and information related to its 3 main stages, namely:

- Development and update of HELP courses
- Implementation of HELP tutored courses
- HELP self-learning courses

It will also address the priority topics in terms of training of legal and justice professionals and present relevant data¹ concerning the HELP activities and results by the end of December 2024.

HELP IN 2024 – Some highlights

¹ Minor inconsistencies in the data presented throughout the report may occur due to the different dates the data was collected.

In 2024, HELP published eight new courses (Artificial Intelligence and Human Rights; Deportation of Children during Armed Conflicts; Gender Equality and Gender Mainstreaming; International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights; Judges upholding the Rule of Law; Quality of Justice – the Work of CEPEJ; Personal Data Protection in Publication of Judicial Decisions; Temporary Protection in the EU) and updated other three (Combating Trafficking in Human Beings; Combating Hate Speech; Right to Liberty and Security).

The implementation of CoE HELP courses contribute to the objectives set in the Council of Europe Committee of Ministers Recommendation CM/Rec\(2019\)5 on the system of the European Convention on Human Rights in university education and professional training and the EU Judicial Training strategy \(2021-2024\) as well as to meeting the training needs identified by various Council of Europe monitoring mechanisms, including the Execution Department with regard to the execution of the judgments of the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR). As most HELP courses cover both the Council of Europe (CoE) and EU legal systems, it helps legal professionals acquire skills and knowledge in a coherent way with regards to CoE/EU standards.

The HELP Network continued to be active and national representatives further explored ways of optimising HELP resources by intensifying the integration of courses in the national curricula and implementing them on their own. The 2024 HELP Network Conference, which also marked the Programme's 20th anniversary, provided a good platform for sharing such practices and exploring further avenues of cooperation for enhancing human rights training among justice and legal professionals. In the words of Judge Marko BOŠNJAK, then President of the ECtHR,

In such turbulent times of geopolitical upheaval, cooperation between the Council of Europe and domestic jurisdictions is as important now as it has ever been.

Ensuring effective protection of human rights in Europe requires continued collaboration in our system of shared responsibility, with a fully informed community of judges, prosecutors, practicing lawyers, and University students.

The HELP network and its offer of a multitude of courses provides a vital tool for maintaining democracy, the rule of law and respect for human rights in Europe.

The new HELP Consultative Board met regularly to set in place some priorities for their work and the Programme.

The number of users of the CoE HELP eLearning platform grew in 2024 with over 29,000 new users (with a total of 143,000 users by the end of the year, after having deleted users not active for the last 5 years).

The constant support from the European Union for the development of most courses and their national contextualisation was crucial. EU funding made possible the HELP projects in the EU, or HELP components in the joint EU-CoE Horizontal Facility for Turkey and the Western Balkans (funded as of 2023 by the HRTF), the South Mediterranean Programme and Central Asia. Many of the courses were developed with representatives from HELP's partners: EJTN, CCBE, FRA, EUAA, UNHCR, etc.

The asylum/migration HELP eDesks set up in March 2022 for lawyers in several European countries supporting those fleeing to find refuge from the war in Ukraine, continued to be used, with some 3,200 enrolled in them by the end of 2024.

The Justice and Human Rights Training Division also provided guidance to numerous CoE projects with JTIs or BAs as main partners and supported the mainstreaming of HELP courses in most CoE actions involving training of legal professionals.

New challenges are ahead in 2025, with, i.e. planned courses²: Human Rights and Drug Use*, Mental Health and Human Rights*, Protection of Children against Sexual Exploitation and Sexual Abuse*, Introduction to the ECHR Knowledge-Sharing Platform*, Abolition of Death Penalty*, Rights in the Digital Environment, as well as the update of several already existent courses: Anti-discrimination*, Business and Human Rights, Data protection, AI and Human Rights, Human Rights and Sports, Cybercrime and Electronic Evidence etc.

Work with universities

Through partnerships with universities and law faculties across Europe and beyond, HELP ensures that future legal professionals gain early exposure to human rights standards and European legal frameworks, strengthening their competencies from the start of their careers. This is reflected in the Council of Europe Committee of Ministers Recommendation (2019)⁵ which emphasises the importance of integrating the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) into university education and professional training, and which calls on member states to:

- Ensure university education on the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) system aligned with the needs and expectations of different audiences;
- Enhance the effectiveness of such education by providing access to the necessary tools to meet obligations under the Convention.

The yearly HELP in Universities online event aims at presenting opportunities of the HELP Programme and its courses to support teaching and mainstream human rights in the curriculum. In 2024 the event gathered more than 180 participants from 40 different countries.

HELP courses can be integrated in universities' curricula in several ways:

- As additional materials to the main curricula, by complementing the standard educational programme, or in preparation for legal clinics, moot courts etc.;
- Students completing HELP courses in self-learning format obtain an electronic certificate which professors can in turn accept for the purposes of crediting the students;
- In cases of longstanding cooperation between a university and the HELP Programme, certified ² Courses marked with * have already been published by the time of issue of the present report. They can be accessed on the CoE HELP eLearning Platform.

HELP tutors/professors can tutor HELP courses via specific dedicated space on the HELP platform.

Several universities³ have implemented HELP courses in tutored format in 2024, joining the increasing number of universities that include HELP courses as self-learning materials for students⁴. In 2024, a strategy was developed with the Ministry of Education of Ukraine to enhance the integration of HELP courses into Ukrainian higher education and strengthen the inclusion of HELP courses in universities across Ukraine, with endorsement at Ministerial level.

DEVELOPMENT AND UPDATE OF HELP COURSES

HELP courses provide high quality training on international and European human rights standards and good practices. They are interactive, visual and practical. They contain useful material on the international and European legal framework and jurisprudence (e.g. case-law of the ECtHR and the CJEU), case-studies, practical tips for professionals and useful explanations on how to invoke or implement human rights principles and standards.

IMPLEMENTATION OF HELP TUTORED COURSES

In contrast to self-learning courses, which can be taken individually, tutored courses are delivered to selected groups and are organised in co-operation with JTIs (National Training Institutions)/BAs (Bar Associations) or universities. There are three stages applied to tutored courses, namely:

- development of the national version,
- course launch and implementation, and
- course evaluation.

When launched in tutored format, HELP courses are usually proposed in a timeframe of 2-4 months, with about two weeks dedicated to each module at a pace of 1-2 hours of learning time per week. This does not include additional readings, but all compulsory materials and assignments.

HELP Certified Tutors

National HELP tutors are key actors in the process of implementing a HELP course for groups of legal professionals in collaboration with JTIs and BAs as well as for students at universities. Tutors (professionals designated by the JTIs/BAs who become certified upon successful completion of a HELP Training of Trainers (ToT) session), prepare the national adaptation of the course and have a primary role in the course implementation and its evaluation.

ToT sessions equip future HELP tutors with technical skills to implement a HELP tutored course on the HELP eLearning platform in line with the HELP Training Methodology. Participants are selected based on their professional expertise, preferably as regular trainers with their JTIs/BAs. Successful participants in the ToTs are certified by the HELP Programme and are added to a pool of HELP certified tutors in their respective countries, which is available on the HELP website.

Through its HELP ToT sessions, the CoE also contributes to upskilling the digital competencies of trainers of legal professionals, thus assisting national institutions in increasing the pool of trainers able to carry out online training.

2024 HIGHLIGHTS

Several ToT sessions have been held at national or regional level under various projects implemented by the CoE, alongside sessions organised in Strasbourg for international groups. ToT sessions were organised in Tunisia (1), Algeria (3), Morocco (1), Ukraine (2), or at the CoE premises in Strasbourg (2).

To support tutors, updated tutorials and step-by-step guides were circulated and made available on course pages, along with regular updates on new procedures such as online tutor reports and automated certificates issuance. A specific section dedicated to tutors and restricted to them only is accessible from their course pages and contains all the necessary links, instructions and resources to assist them in their task.

As of autumn 2024, the HELP eLearning platform is being enhanced, bringing changes to its methodology and layout. During this period, ToTs will be organised on a more limited basis until the platform and its new features become fully operational, expected by autumn 2025.

National Versions of HELP Courses

Each national version of a HELP course is developed on a specific and restricted course virtual space/page in the HELP eLearning platform, opened by the HELP Secretariat, which contains:

- the online course translated in the national language, i.e. the literal translation of a HELP online model course into the national language (in SCORM package format) and
- the national adaptation added by the national tutor, i.e. additional materials and resources related to the national legal order and practice (for example national laws and case law, articles, videos, practical exercises, etc.).

The national version of a HELP course can be used either for tutored training for a particular national group of professionals, or for self-learning once the national version has already been piloted in a country and is transferred to the (open) self-learning section of the platform. There may be either a single national version of a HELP course or different ones, aimed at different justice professionals. Thus, for example, there may be a national version for prosecutors, judges, lawyers and another one for prison officers within the same country.

2024 HIGHLIGHTS

Some national versions have been specifically created to address aspects raised in ECtHR cases pending execution before the Committee of Ministers, enabling their use and dissemination to relevant actors at national level for the implementation of systematic and targeted training.

Implementation of HELP Tutored Courses

HELP tutored courses are launched in cooperation with JTIs/BAs, at national or regional level, under various CoE cooperation programmes or at the initiative of the national partners. More and more HELP tutored courses are 'internalised' by the national partners, including the launch event and tutoring as part of the initial or continuous training for judges, prosecutors and lawyers.

Tutored courses are implemented for groups selected by JTIs/BAs but can also be rolled out as multinational and multi-professional courses. The choice of courses is done in consultation with the national partners and based on the needs identified at CoE level.

Following a first launch of HELP courses in tutored format, some JTIs/BAs use pre-set restricted course pages based on the national adaptation made for the tutored courses, on which legal professionals can enrol and complete the courses, obtaining electronic certificates recognised at national level

(through CPD or training points). This is the case for the Italian Bar Council, while others accredit the self-learning certificates obtained by legal professionals on the HELP eLearning platform (Belgium Bar Association, Cyprus Bar Association, Judicial Council of Andorra, etc.).

The flexible HELP Methodology allowed for high numbers of participants and optimisation of resources, scaling up efforts and adapting the format and methodology in order to allow for a wider, and more effective implementation of HELP courses without compromising on the thoroughness and quality of the training.

JTIs/BAs continued integrating HELP courses in their initial or continuous training curricula and implementing them regularly on their own eLearning platforms⁵, such as the National Institute of Justice (Bulgaria), Judicial Academy (Croatia), Conseil National des Barreaux-Les Avocats (France), Justizakademie des Landes Nordrhein-Westfalen (Germany), Ministry for Justice (Malta), National Institute of Justice (Moldova), Centre for Judicial Studies (Portugal), the National Institute for the Training of Lawyers (Romania), the Judiciary School (Spain), Prosecutor's Training Center (Ukraine), etc.

The online tutor report has been implemented across tutored courses, streamlining data centralisation. Since 2023, automated digital certificates have replaced paper-based ones, speeding up issuance and accommodating the rise in tutored courses from 80–90 per year pre-pandemic to around 130.

HELP SELF-LEARNING COURSES

All HELP courses and their translations are available on the CoE HELP eLearning platform, i.e. a platform based on Moodle, user friendly and accessible free of charge.

Participants that complete self-learning courses on the HELP platform can generate electronic 'Statements of Accomplishment'. The self-learning certification system has been put in place in 2020, just a couple of weeks after the start of the COVID 19 pandemic and allowed users to complete training online and issue electronic certificates in proof of their acquired knowledge and skills. The Statements of Accomplishment can be generated only if all the online modules (SCORM packages) of the respective course are completed, and a minimum amount of time has been spent on the course.

HELP courses are accessible to all users that have an account on the HELP eLearning platform.

To create an account, go to the CoE HELP eLearning platform, click "Log in" and then click "Create New Account"; choose a username and password and fill in the boxes with personal data; click "Create my new account" at the bottom of the page. An email will be sent to the given email address in order to activate the account.

As access and navigation through the courses are completely open, legal professionals tend to come back to courses previously completed in order to retrieve practical information needed for their work. Thus, HELP courses are not only learning tools, but are also widely used as working tools by legal professionals.

2024 HIGHLIGHTS

The CoE HELP eLearning platform transitioned to an improved version, with gradual enhancements concerning user experience and accessibility. The homepage layout was redesigned, and course thumbnails were upgraded for clarity. A dedicated virtual space with tutorials on course access and platform navigation is now available on the main page. Self-learning course pages have been enriched with updated resources and recent developments, allowing for more frequent content updates outside the SCORM package. Further changes to layout and reporting are in progress, with new features and an improved navigation system to be deployed in 2025.

PRIORITY TOPICS AND RELEVANT HELP COURSES

B.4. Main themes of leading cases pending

Violations by subject matter 2024

Several CoE HELP courses address the training needs for ensuring a better application of human rights standards in the priority topics identified in the ECtHR and DEJ Annual Reports. Since many of these topics are recurrent ones and have been a priority for the past years, the CoE HELP courses have been developed with these issues in mind and in close cooperation with the ECtHR Registry, as well as with the Department for the Execution of the ECtHR Judgments. They are proposed for translation and launching in countries where training on these aspects is most needed.

JTIs and BAs can take up the relevant HELP courses and use them for large scale or systematic training of legal professionals on these topics, in order to comply with the measures needing implementation for the effective execution of ECtHR judgments in order to resolve especially persistent, structural or complex problems at national level.

HELP may be one of the major tools by which awareness raising and systematic training on the Convention may be pursued, in order to resolve especially persistent, structural or complex problems at national level.

In 2024 the DEJ actively participated in the HELP Annual Network Conference and numerous HELP course launch events on various topics (Ethics for judges, prosecutors and lawyers; Mental health and human rights; CPT standards etc.), as well as in project steering committees (for instance for the HELP in the Western Balkans project) focused on assessing the relevance of the planned interventions to the measures needed for a better implementation of ECtHR judgments.

In collaboration with representatives of the Registry of the ECtHR, HELP referenced and integrated the resources and materials developed by the Registry of the ECtHR from the ECHR Knowledge Sharing Platform (ECHR-KS) on the relevant course pages, thus ensuring that users have direct access to the ECHR-KS resources related to the topic of interest.

In 2024, a thematic short HELP course started its development on Introduction to the ECHR Knowledge Sharing platform in domestic legal practice. The course will provide guidance for navigating the platform efficiently and will be issued in 2025.

Priority Topics Related to Other Key CoE Conventions

HELP has developed several online courses based on some key CoE Conventions in order offer a concrete solution to national JTs and BAs, but also relevant training providers, for training legal and justice professionals on the topic. These courses can be efficiently used for responding to recommendations for specific training, done under the various CoE monitoring mechanisms.

The HELP courses have been developed in close cooperation with the CoE services working on these thematics and include, aside from the core information related to the specific instruments, the relevant ECtHR case-law as well as references to the EU framework and case-law of the CJEU.

Impact

The HELP Programme continues to strengthen its role in advancing legal training supporting legal professionals and institutions in effectively applying of European human rights standards. Its successful cooperation with national training institutions and bar associations has proven that HELP courses became a key resource for training of judges, prosecutors, lawyers and also future legal professionals across Europe and beyond.

The impact of the HELP Programme is notably reflected in the way HELP courses contribute to strengthening compliance with European human rights standards at the national level. They have become an essential resource for addressing country-specific challenges, particularly in areas where violations of the European Convention on Human Rights have been identified by the European Court of Human Rights. By providing targeted training, these courses support the effective implementation of ECtHR judgments, ensuring that legal professionals are equipped to apply European human rights standards in practice.

HELP tutored courses adapted to national contexts for different target groups are essential in addressing recurring human rights concerns, such as family law issues (e.g., international child abduction), hate crime and hate speech, gender-based and domestic violence, ineffective criminal investigations involving vulnerable groups (children, Roma and LGBTI people, individuals with intellectual and mental disabilities, etc.), protection from torture and ill-treatment, unlawful and arbitrary detention in mental health facilities, access to courts, institutional placement, freedom of expression, detention conditions, and excessive length of proceedings. The HELP catalogue included 57 online courses by end 2024, on all mentioned human rights topics and beyond. Regular updates address emerging priorities and challenges with an aim to equip legal professionals with the knowledge necessary to uphold European standards in their daily work.

The success of the Programme is demonstrated through a list of good practices showcasing its effective implementation:

Integration into training curricula: HELP courses are more and more formally embedded in the training programmes of national training institutions (Bar Associations and Justice Academies) ensuring their sustainable use in professional training of legal professionals.

Partner-led course launches: Many HELP courses are now launched independently by national partners, demonstrating local ownership and commitment to continuous training.

Recognition of HELP Statements of Accomplishment: More institutions recognise HELP self-learning certificates as a proof of completed training, supporting professional accreditation and career progression. When HELP courses are a mandatory part of training curricula for lawyers, HELP certificates may serve to formally certify lawyers to deal with specific cases (i.e. North Macedonia).

eLearning Platform Transfers: Several Judicial Training Institutes and Bar Associations have integrated HELP courses into their own eLearning platforms, making them more widely accessible and using HELP courses as a basis for training of legal professionals.

HELP in Universities: universities increasingly use HELP courses as complementary resources to the classical curricula.

CONCLUSIONS

The HELP methodology and courses continue to be systematically integrated in Council of Europe capacity-building activities related to CoE and EU standards on human rights and rule of law, organised in beneficiary countries, including within the framework of several cooperation programmes. This methodology takes into account the heavy time pressure imposed on legal professionals in their daily work and their particular needs.

The transition to an enhanced eLearning platform has been a key milestone, improving the platform's accessibility, user experience, and reporting functionalities. While this transition is ongoing and expected to be fully operational by Autumn 2025, it marks a step toward a more dynamic and user-friendly digital learning environment.

Training legal professionals at large is of major importance in order to promote and effectively implement human rights standards at national level. According to the subsidiarity principle, national authorities have the primary responsibility for the effective protection of human rights. The whole CoE HELP Programme is based on this aspect of subsidiarity and constitutes a significant component of the credibility of the European human rights protection system. The HELP Methodology is an important tool for member states to "encourage the use of the most appropriate learning and training methods, taking into account the national context and the specific needs and expectations of the targeted public" (Recommendation CM/Rec (2019)5 of the Committee of Ministers to member states on the system of the European Convention on Human Rights in university education and professional training).

When contextualised to the national legislation and practice, HELP courses contribute to address training needs identified by various Council of Europe monitoring mechanisms, including the execution of ECtHR judgments. They also contribute to achieving the objectives set in the EU Judicial Training strategy.

Development of the national version	Translation into national language
	Adaptation to national legal system and context by HELP tutor on the HELP course page
Launch and implementation	Preparation and selection of participants by national partner
	Launch (face-to-face event)
	Online education
Evaluation and certification	List of successful participants and Tutor report
Self-learning	Model course and translations added to the self-learning part of HELP eLearning platform

■ Lead – HELP-CoE

■ Lead – National Partners (JTs/BAs)

2. HELP basic concepts

Model HELP online course

This is the core HELP online course on the topic (like a textbook on a particular subject). It is developed in English, centrally by the HELP Secretariat of the Council of Europe (CoE) with participation of colleagues from various relevant CoE entities, including lawyers from the European Court of Human Rights and experts in the topic (CoE consultants). The model HELP course can exist in many languages, but its content in all languages is identical (as a literal translation of a textbook). It is available in the HELP online platform for all its users for self-learning. It may be modified only by the HELP Secretariat or authorised HELP consultants in coordination with the HELP Secretariat. They are built in SCORM format (see below).

Module of a HELP online course

A section of a HELP course is like a chapter in a textbook. Modules can be taken as part of a full HELP course (e.g. the HELP course on Data Protection and Privacy Rights) or individually (e.g. the module on media within the HELP course on Data Protection and Privacy Rights).

Translation

A literal translation of the model HELP course into a national language. It is usually provided for by the HELP Secretariat, and the national tutor may be asked to proofread it (without adding or deleting information from the model HELP course).

National version of a HELP online course

It is composed of two parts:

- The literal translation of a HELP online model course (SCORM) into the national language
- Additional materials related to the national legal order and practice (e.g. national laws and case law, news articles, videos). There may be either a single national version of a HELP course or different ones aimed at different justice professionals (e.g. a version for prosecutors, judges, lawyers and another one for prison officers).

SCORM

Online format in which HELP courses are built (both model course and the translations). SCORM stands for "Sharable Content Object Reference Model". The SCORM format presents the course content in an interactive way. Just as figures are better presented in Excel sheets and text in Word format, eLearning is better delivered in SCORM format.

HELP eLearning Platform

The Council of Europe eLearning platform for online courses for legal professionals. It is as user friendly as Facebook or WhatsApp.

HELP online courses are accessible in the HELP online platform:

<https://help.elearning.ext.coe.int/>

It is based on Moodle.

HELP trainer / tutor

Expert specialising in a particular topic who successfully attended HELP training-of-trainers (ToT) and is familiar with the HELP online platform and its functionality.

ToT (Training of Trainers)

Special trainings offered by HELP Secretariat to teach the basics of the HELP Methodology, including HELP eLearning platform functionalities and specific online training methods applied to, and effective for, human rights training of legal professionals.

The Council of Europe Programme for Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals (HELP) is the main education programme of the Council of Europe (CoE).

The HELP Programme supports the Council of Europe member states in implementing the European human rights standards at the national level. This is done by enhancing the capacity of legal and, where relevant, other professionals, to apply European human rights standards in their daily work.

The HELP Programme develops and implements online courses in various human rights related topics, aimed at enhancing both the knowledge and skills of justice professionals. Apart from the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) and the case-law of the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR), HELP courses cover other CoE instruments and, as of 2015, systematically integrate the European Union (EU) legal system and the case-law of the Court of Justice of the EU (CJEU).

Take a few moments to familiarise yourself with the HELP website and explore the available HELP online courses.

ENG

The Council of Europe is the continent's leading human rights organisation. It comprises 46 member states, including all members of the European Union. All Council of Europe member states have signed up to the European Convention on Human Rights, a treaty designed to protect human rights, democracy and the rule of law. The European Court of Human Rights oversees the implementation of the Convention in the member states.
