The European Network of Historic Gardens (ENHG) is a not-for-profit association promoted by the local councils of Lloret de Mar (Girona) and Aranjuez (Madrid) and the Laboratory of Heritage, Creativity and Cultural Tourism of the University of Barcelona, which on the one hand aims to serve as an umbrella organisation and stable network for the largest possible number of management entities of historic gardens in Europe, and which on the other hand aims to obtain the Cultural Route Mention of the Council of Europe for this historic and natural heritage.

One of the Network's main objectives is to promote and raise awareness about historic gardens, as defined by the International Historic Gardens Committee, ICOMOS-IFLA in the 1981 Florence Charter. Accordingly, the Network will design a high-quality cultural and historic offering aimed at developing the territories where the sites are located.

The main goals of the ENHG are as follows:

1. To promote and raise awareness about historic gardens through the European Network of Historic Gardens.
2. To promote relations with the Council of Europe and other European institutions, in close collaboration with the European Institute of Cultural Routes.
3. To promote dialogue and exchange of best practices in order to showcase cultural heritage.
4. To foster the collaboration of public authorities and private bodies in order to implement joint actions in relation to this cultural route.
5. To promote and initiate educational activities related to the historic gardens that form part of the route, aimed at young people, in order to strengthen their knowledge of their roots and to consolidate their European identity.
6. To harmonise, on the basis of sustainable development criteria, all the cultural and tourism activities carried out within the territory of the historic gardens.
