THE EUROPEAN COMMITTEE ON LEGAL CO-OPERATION

ince its creation in 1963, the European Committee on Legal Co-operation (CDCJ) has developed a large and wide-ranging number of civil law standards in the field of public and private law aimed at helping Council of Europe member states meet the challenges of rapidly evolving societies, whether they concern protection of the individual, the family, civil society, the courts and the judiciary, access to justice, the public administration, or private business.

With an output of 60 conventions and over 90 recommendations, resolutions or guidelines, the committee has provided a solid contribution to legal reform at European level. Its most recent key achievements include:

Rule of law

- ► Lobbying Recommendation of the Committee of Ministers on the legal regulation of lobbying activities in the context of public decision making (CM/Rec(2017)2)
- ► Whistleblowers Recommendation of the Committee of Ministers on the protection of whistleblowers (CM/Rec(2014)7)
- ► NGOs Recommendation of the Committee of Ministers on the legal status of non-governmental organisations in Europe (CM/Rec(2007)14)

Judiciary

- ► Independence 5-year Plan of Action on strengthening judicial independence and impartiality in Europe (2016-2021)
- ▶ Public prosecutors Recommendation of the Committee of Ministers on the role of public prosecutors outside the criminal justice system (CM/Rec(2012)11)
- ▶ Judges Recommendation of the Committee of Ministers on Judges: independence, efficiency and responsibilities (CM/Rec(2010)12)

Administrative law

- ► Public administration Recommendation of the Committee of Ministers on good administration (CM/Rec(2007)7)
- ► Handbook "The Administration and You" (2018)

Family law & children's rights

- ► Children Recommendation of the Committee of Ministers on the Nationality of Children (CM/Rec(2009)13)

CURRENT AREAS OF INTEREST TO CDCJ

E-justice

Ensuring access to justice in the digital age is a key concern for CDCJ. It is working on guidelines aimed at ensuring that online dispute resolution mechanisms are designed in compliance with Articles 6 and 13 of the European Convention on Human Rights. Guidelines on the use of electronic evidence in civil and administrative proceedings were prepared by CDCJ and adopted by the Committee of Ministers in 2019.

Legal Aid

Legal aid is fundamental for access to justice. Yet civil legal aid schemes are increasingly under financial pressure and their scope varies greatly between member states. CDCJ is working on policy guidance aimed at improving the efficiency and effectiveness of legal aid schemes (civil and administrative law).

Administrative detention of migrants

CDCJ is codifying existing international standards relating to the conditions in which migrants are held in administrative detention. The outcome of this work will enable national authorities and migrants' representatives to refer to a common set of standards in this area.

Family law & children's rights

Together with the Steering Committee for the Rights of the Child (CDENF), the CDCJ is preparing guidelines to protect the best interests of the child in situations of acrimonious parental separation and in domestic law proceedings by public authorities to limit parental responsibilities or place a child in care.

JUDICIAL REFORM AND LEGAL CO-OPERATION IN THE MEMBER STATES

The Council of Europe implements many cooperation projects with member states to support their justice sector reform. CDCJ and its members contribute to the success of these projects with their expertise, particularly when they concern the application of standards developed by the committee, for example in the areas of:

- Civil and commercial law
- Judicial reform
- Child-friendly justice
- Administrative law
- Mediation and ADR
- Civil law procedure

THE EUROPEAN COMMITTEE ON LEGAL CO-OPERATION (CDCJ)

Mission

CDCJ is an intergovernmental steering committee under the authority of the Committee of Ministers, the statutory decision-making body of the Council of Europe made up of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the 47 member states. It is the key point of reference for all questions of civil law and procedure in the areas of public and private law, and is responsible for standard-setting and facilitating co-operation between member states in these areas, drawing up proposals for binding and non-binding legal instruments and providing, on request, advice and expertise on their implementation. It reports directly to the Committee of Ministers on its work and future priorities for the Organisation.

Composition

CDCJ brings together representatives from all member States of the Council of Europe, mainly from the ministries of justice. Within their administration, CDCJ members are of the highest rank, with responsibility for planning, developing, co-ordinating and implementing all elements of government policy at national level within the remit of the committee.

Working methods

CDCJ meets in yearly plenary sessions at the head-quarters of the Council of Europe in Strasbourg. Its work is carried out, with the support of its Secretariat, in plenary meetings and by specialist working groups and committees of experts. CDCJ members represent their national authorities, provide their personal expertise to its work, and work collectively within the committee. A bureau of 7 members ensures the smooth running of the committee's work between plenary sessions.

The Council of Europe is the continent's leading human rights organisation. It comprises 47 member states, including all members of the European Union. All Council of Europe member states have signed up to the European Convention on Human Rights, a treaty designed to protect human rights, democracy and the rule of law. The European Court of Human Rights oversees the implementation of the Convention in the member states.
