EXECUTION OF THE EUROPEAN COURT OF HUMAN RIGHTS' JUDGMENTS

MAIN ACHIEVEMENTS IN MEMBER STATES

The present survey presents short summaries¹ of a selection of the main reforms and achievements reported in final resolutions since the Convention system was amended in 1998 by Protocol No. 11, with a clear focus on recent reforms referring, however, also to important earlier developments.

In view of the wealth of cases closed, the selection concentrates on those which have led to changes of legislation or government regulations or the adoption of new policies or general guidelines from superior courts. As a rule, the survey does not cover information on measures aiming at providing individual redress to applicants.

The presentation is organised country-by-country and reforms are, in principle, presented in the order corresponding to the thematic domains used in the Council of Europe's specialised database HUDOC EXEC and the Committee of Ministers' Annual Reports on the Supervision of the Execution of the European Court of Human Rights' judgments.

Many reforms address issues which appear to be on-going challenges in the member State. The effects of reforms adopted at one point in time may thus need to be monitored and possibly re-evaluated as conditions change.²

¹ The summaries are the sole responsibility of the Department for the execution of the judgments of the European Court of Human Rights.

² The presentation is limited to the information provided at the time of the adoption of the final resolution. It is recalled in this context that the Committee of Ministers has issued Recommendation \(2004\)5 on the verification of the compatibility of draft laws, existing laws and administrative practice with standards laid down in the European Convention on Human Rights.

➤ Risk of ill-treatment in case of expulsion

The Asylum Law was amended in 2011, regulating the procedure and deadlines for decisions on the right to enter and introducing judicial review proceedings for refusals to enter.

In 2014, the legal framework related to issues of asylum and residence of aliens was amended to provide that a court's revocation of the Ministry of the Interior's refusal of an alien's entry (and thus ordering his/her detention at the reception centre in the transit zone of the airport) entails the immediate release of the alien and his/her transfer to an asylum centre within the Czech territory.

➤ Right to liberty and security

➤ Length of detention on remand

Safeguards against excessive length of pre-trial custody were strengthened in the Code of Criminal Procedure in 2002 and maximum periods for different categories of offences fixed in this respect. The principle of a "detention hearing" allowing the defendant to appear before a judge was introduced in 2012.

➤ Placement in social care institutions

Amendments to the Act on Social Services and to the Act on Special Court Proceedings of August 2016 detailed the conditions under which a guardian of an incapacitated person can resort to his/her placement in a social care institution. Prosecutor's offices are now empowered to enter any social care institution, talk in private with any client of the institution and have access to all documentation in order to ascertain whether the legal conditions are met. In January 2019, the Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs published guidance for providers of social care services and public guardians under the new legislation. Previously, the new Civil Code of 2012 had strengthened the legal status of persons suffering from mental illness providing for a larger array of support measures and defining restrictions of legal capacity as measures of last resort.

➤ Functioning of justice

➤ Access to a court

A judicial review of decisions by administrative authorities was extended in two steps through changes of the Code of Civil Procedure in 2001 and 2003.

The right of appeal to the Constitutional Court was improved by special legislation in 2004 in order not to compel applicants to first have recourse to "extraordinary appeals" as the admissibility of such appeals was a question of discretion.

➤ Fairness of criminal proceedings

Following the Court's judgment, the impugned proceedings were reopened and the applicant was acquitted. His demands for compensation were settled in an out-of-court-agreement and he received an official apology for the illegal prosecution and execution of the prison sentence. The Constitutional Court developed its case-law to prevent the occurrence of similar cases on multiple remittals.

➤ Custody and public care of children

Child custody proceedings, including enforcement matters, were improved in 2008, notably through enhanced co-operation of local authorities. Decision-making was accelerated and a possibility of mediation was introduced. These options were further strengthened in 2011. Public care of a child can no longer be ordered solely because of the inadequate housing conditions or the poor financial situation of his/her parents and, in parallel, vulnerable families were granted improved rights to subsidised housing. As to international child abduction, the procedures under the Hague Convention were centralised in one court to ensure better respect of the strict time limits laid down.

➤ Filiation / paternity actions

The Special Judicial Proceedings Act was amended in 2017 to provide for the possibility to file an action for reopening of proceedings concerning declaration or denial of paternity even after the expiry of the statutory three-year time-limit after the contested decision became final. This possibility is notably afforded if "new evidence arises which relates to new scientific methods that could not have been used in the original proceedings".
