45th meeting

Venue: Sliema, Malta

2-3 July 2025

Prepared by the Secretariat of the Lanzarote Committee

The Committee of the Parties to the Council of Europe Convention on the Protection of Children against Sexual Exploitation and Sexual Abuse ("the Lanzarote Committee)" held its 45th meeting in Sliema (Malta) on 2-3 July 2025. The agenda and the list of participants are appended (Appendices I and II) to this meeting report.

1. Opening of the meeting and adoption of the agenda

1. Maria José CASTELLO-BRANCO (Chairperson, Portugal) opened the meeting, following opening remarks by Hon. Michael FALZON, Minister for Social Policy and Children's Rights of Malta and Marja RUOTANEN, Director General of Democracy and Human Dignity of the Council of Europe (see item 3.1.1 below). The Committee adopted its agenda.

2. Monitoring of the implementation of the Lanzarote Convention

2.1. "Data collection mechanisms on child sexual exploitation and sexual abuse" – Examination and possible adoption of the draft report

2. Páll MAGNÚSSON (Bureau member, Iceland) chaired this item. He recalled that this draft implementation report was based on the information provided by 36 Parties in response to a survey of data collection mechanisms launched by the Committee in 2023. The Committee held a first reading of the draft report at its 44th meeting. Three rounds of written consultations then followed, and that at the 45th meeting the Committee was to examine effectively the third revised version of the report. He noted that the draft report did not necessarily provide guidance or answered Parties' questions on every aspect of data collection but could serve as a starting point for the discussion, which was notably to be continued at the capacity-building event scheduled to take place during the Committee's next plenary meeting, 18-21 November 2025. He further noted that it was open to the Committee to consider more specific follow-up on the report.

3. Following the discussion, the Committee adopted the report.

2.2. "Protection of children against sexual abuse in the circle of trust: legal frameworks" – Examination of the draft implementation report

4. Philippe OLIVIER (Vice-Chairperson, France) chaired this item, he recalled that in 2022 the Committee decided to return to the theme of the first monitoring round, namely the protection of children against sexual exploitation and sexual abuse in the circle of trust. The current monitoring round served to measure progress made in the 26 Parties that took part in the first monitoring round and to monitor the situation in the 22 Parties that had joined the Lanzarote Convention since 2015. The Committee adopted the questionnaire in 2023. 47 Parties replied to the questionnaire and 5 civil society organisations provided additional information. 2 Parties implemented child consultations that fed into the report. The Committee examined the responses received during its 41st, 42nd and 43rd meetings. It held a first reading of the draft report at its 44th meeting. 29 Parties provided additional information during the two written consultations that followed.

5. At the 45th meeting the Committee examined the second revised version of the report. During the discussions, the Committee identified the following themes for future work:

- The intersection between child sexual exploitation and abuse within the family and the criminalisation of "incest".
- The use of restorative justice measures in relation to child sexual exploitation and sexual abuse, notably in relation to children displaying or engaging in harmful sexual behaviours, the best interests of child victims under 18 years old, justice and healing for victims/survivors after they have reached the age of 18. The Committee noted the importance of obtaining informed consent before engaging in any such measures and the need to explore the specific considerations applicable in cases of child sexual abuse by a person in a recognised position of trust, authority or influence.
- Additional guidance on the notion of reporting in good faith to further clarify how States can protect professionals against the risk of negative repercussions when they report suspicion of child sexual abuse to the appropriate authorities.
- Promising practices in relation to the protection of child victims against disclosure of personal identifiable information in the media.
- Measures to ensure the supervision and/or monitoring of persons convicted of child sexual exploitation or child sexual abuse and the prevention of re-offending among this group. In this connection, the Netherlands informed the Committee that they published a report in June 2025 "Risk assessment for Dutch perpetrators of transnational child sex offences" (summary in English, full report only in Dutch).

6. The Committee adopted the report and thanked the rapporteurs involved in its preparation:

3.1. Follow-up to the Ministerial Conference at the occasion of the 15th anniversary of the entry into force of the Lanzarote Convention, 1 July 2025, Malta

3.1.1. Address by Hon. Michael FALZON, Minister for Social Policy and Children's Rights of Malta

9. Lorna MUSCAT (Malta) introduced Hon. Michael Falzon, Minister for Social Policy and Children of Malta, highlighting that Malta has introduced legislative reforms to increase public awareness, cross border co-operation and strengthen child protection systems.

10. Hon. Michael FALZON, Minister for Social Policy and Children of Malta, recalled that the Informal Conference of Ministers had taken place on 1 July 2025 to celebrate the 15th anniversary since the entry into force of the Lanzarote Convention. This conference focused on the prevention of child sexual exploitation and sexual abuse. A Final Declaration was adopted by all State Parties that participated in the Conference. The Minister referred to the discussions held at the Conference the previous day to stress the need to work in co-operation and to communicate across borders to effectively prevent and address child sexual exploitation and sexual abuse. He highlighted the steps taken by Malta over the recent years to strengthen its legal and policy framework to better protect children, citing as examples the extension of the limitation periods for the prosecution of child sexual abuse to 20 years and the introduction of mandatory reporting, as well as the current plans to abolish the possibility to marry before reaching the age of 18.

11. Marja RUOTANEN, Director General of Democracy and Human Dignity of the Council of Europe, thanked the Maltese authorities for having organised the informal conference of ministers and for hosting the 45th plenary meeting of the Lanzarote Committee. She welcomed the declaration adopted at the Conference, noted that its commitments concern the full spectrum of measures essential to building robust defences against child sexual exploitation and sexual abuse, and called upon States to marshal the resources, political will and sustained commitment necessary to implement them without delay. She pointed out that due to its unique composition and role, the Lanzarote Committee is exceptionally well positioned to guide and support the implementation journey. The Director General confirmed that the Council of Europe Secretariat is ready to support this endeavour.

3.1.2. Discussion on potential follow up to the Ministerial Conference

12. The Committee warmly thanked the Maltese authorities for prioritising the protection of children against sexual exploitation and sexual abuse under their presidency of the Council of Europe. Several themes were raised during the discussions including the need for children to receive education about the risks of child sexual exploitation and sexual abuse and how to get help, challenges related to travel and tourism for the purposes of child sexual exploitation as well as the need to work with financial sectors to better detect and prevent child sexual exploitation.

13. The following themes were identified as priorities to follow up to the declaration:

- Technology, including social networks and platforms, initiatives such as project Lantern (tech coalition) and NCMEC roundtable with tech industry. The need to pro-actively prevent future harm caused by the continued development of artificial intelligence was raised. In this respect the Committee considered the possibility of gathering promising practices in view of holding a thematic exchange with tech companies on this topic, potentially in the context of the on-going compliance procedure on the protection of children against sexual exploitation and sexual abuse facilitated by ICTs.
- Strengthening legal frameworks and aligning regulation across borders. In this context the on-going legislative reform initiatives at EU and UN level were mentioned in addition to the application of UN and Council of Europe Cybercrime treaties in the context of emerging technologies. The recent CDENF report on the exposure of children to pornography was mentioned in relation to the need to regulate the porn industry. General comment No. 24 (2017) on State obligations under the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights in the context of business activities, by the UN Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, was referred to specifically in respect of the banking and finance industry. The recent INHOPE mapping of CSAM legislation looked into the types of materials that are considered illegal, includes analysis of countries that criminalise content depicting an adult disguised as a child engaging in sexual activities.

- Enhancing child participation in the work of the Committee whilst ensuring the child participation processes are safe for the children involved. There was a call for the Committee to include child participation in each aspect of its work. The Committee invited Parties that are interested in bringing more child participation into the work of the Committee to contact the Secretariat.
- Preventing re-offending, including challenges linked to screening individuals that move to work in different countries and children displaying or engaging in harmful sexual behaviours.

14. The Committee also decided to hold an exchange on the follow-up to paragraph 25 of the Final Declaration at its 46th meeting (18-21 November 2025 in Chisinau, Republic of Moldova). Paragraph 25 calls on the Committee to “[e]nsure the Lanzarote Convention remains a living and forward-looking instrument addressing both current and evolving issues, with a view of upholding children’s protection in the context of an accelerating digital transformation.”

15. Mama Fatima SINGHATEH (UN Special Rapporteur on the Sale and Sexual Exploitation of Children) updated the Committee on her mandate and emphasised the importance of multilateralism to prevent child sexual exploitation and sexual abuse. She recalled that progress made in implementing the Lanzarote Convention also contributes towards the realisation of the UN Sustainable Development Goals and the implementation of the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography. She called for the Committee to continue strengthening co-operation with countries and stakeholders that are not Parties to the Lanzarote Convention and emphasised the need for the Lanzarote Convention to remain up to date in the light of technological and other developments since it entered into force 15 years ago.

He invited the Committee to co-ordinate with law enforcement at national level to identify potential priority actions to be included in this new cycle. He indicated that proposals for activities on training, operations, learning and exploring of trends, cooperation strengthening, were welcome.

19. Following these interventions the Committee held a discussion. Leah BUCK (United Kingdom) informed the Committee that AI-generated child sexual abuse material is already illegal under existing UK legislation but the Crime and Policing Bill, which is currently progressing through UK Parliament, will amend the existing 'paedophile manuals' offence under section 69 of the Serious Crime Act 2015 to include pseudo-photographs and prohibited images, and create a new offence making it illegal to adapt, possess, supply or offer to supply AI models that have been optimised to create CSAM which will be punishable by a maximum sentence of five years in prison. The Committee also discussed the potential ways to ensure that the Lanzarote Convention would remain a living instrument and that the work of the Committee would continue to adapt to emerging phenomenon. The Committee also made reference to the second edition of the terminology guidelines for the protection of children from sexual exploitation and abuse.
