CEPEJ-GT-EVAL(2021)2

Methodology for calculation of CEPEJ Information and Communication Technologies indices - 2018

CEPEJ questionnaire includes 38 questions related to ICT. Some of them are simple questions on existence of ICT tools (see Q64-11). Others are more complex and should be answered only if the tool exists (see Q64.11.1). Such complex questions usually consist of several sub questions relating to the deployment rate of the tool; certain features of the ICT tool (for example if a tool for recording of hearings, a sub question requires to indicate if it records sound, video or both). Sub questions can also ask other information, for example if there is there a specific legal framework regulating the use of the ICT tool the question investigates. Each answer on these sub questions is given in a specific “cell” (see one below highlighted yellow).

For the creation of the indices, the answers in each cell has been given a certain value (weight). The weight of each cell is provided in Annex 1.

- Examples of simple question (64-11), complex question (64-11.1) and “cell”. In this example a cell corresponding to 100% deployment rate of tools for recording of hearings or debates in the Civil and/or commercial area is highlighted yellow:

64-11 Recording of hearings or debates (sound or audio-visual recording during the investigation and/or trial phase(s))

Yes No

64.11.1 If yes, please specify the following information:

Each question can be analyzed individually or in combination with other questions. CEPEJ has created composite indices that combine several questions and sub-questions that are grouped based on their topic and relevance. Not all questions are included in the calculation of the ICT indices. In particular, 24 questions have been selected for their appropriateness of their contribution to the creation of Information and Communication Technologies indices. So, for example, questions relating to the governance model adopted by the justice administration are considered separately, as the model should be assessed in relation to its capability of supporting the development and deployment of ICT tools, the respect of justice values and its fit with the justice system in which it operates.

Furthermore, an important characteristic of the selected questions is that their answers can be easily ranked, evaluated and weighted.

There are nine ICT indices . They are calculated for each of the three matters (civil, criminal and administrative). Each of these matters is further broken down on three ICT categories relevant for courts' work (Decision support; Courts and case management; Communication with courts). Therefore, one ICT index is defined by a case type and ICT category (e.g. Civil cases-decision support)

It is important to note that each ICT category (Decision support; Courts and case management; Communication with courts) encompasses several sub-categories that are relevant for that category (see the list below). Distribution of the maximum possible absolute weigh within each category and sub-category is given in the table below together with the standardized weights values.

Categories/sub-categories	Absolute weights	Standardised
decision support	3,5	10
database of court decisions	1 ¹	2,86
record criminal convictions	0,5	1,43
writing assistance tools	1	2,86
voice recording	1	2,86
courts and case management	11	10
case management system	6	5,45
Budgetary and financial management systems of courts	3	2,73
Workload assessment tools	2	1,82
Technologies used for communication between courts, professionals and/or court users	12	10
e-filing (submit a case)	3	2,50
transmit summons	1,5	1,25
electronic communication between courts and lawyer other than lawyers	3	2,50
on-line specialised procedures	0,5	0,42

Videoconferencing	1,5	1,25
Recording of hearings or debates	1,5	1,25

The list of individual cells of the questions included in the calculation of the index is attached as Annex1. This list includes the maximum possible value, category in which the question belongs, matter and sub-category (tasks) for each cell.

Sum within each category and within each matter is then calculated for each country and standardized on a scale 1 to 10 as mentioned above.

Total ICT index is calculated as an average of the indices per matter.
