GENDERED DYNAMICS

- Far-right women play several key roles: recruiters, propagandists, organizers, and fundraisers
- Today, far-right women are taking to social media sites to recruit followers and build audiences for the movement. Unlike the dark web and fringe forums, these women prefer to spread their message on mainstream platforms like YouTube, Instagram, and Twitter.

CONCLUSION

- The impact of far-right extremist women in producing dominant narratives is crucial towards developing effective P/CVE interventions, which often overlook the importance of gender dynamics in shaping an individual's worldview
- Women in far-right extremism serve to legitimize and normalize the movement by presenting it through subtle framing and through content that is assumed to be non-political → this effect should be taken seriously in drivers of radicalization and terrorism
