BUILDING A EUROPE FOR AND WITH CHILDREN

The Council of Europe programme

THE LANZAROTE CONVENTION: a comprehensive human rights treaty

- ✓ Prevent sexual violence (in all settings)
- ✓ Protect the rights of child victim (including by ensuring access to child friendly justice)
- ✓ Prosecute the perpetrators (including when crime is committed abroad)
- ✓ Promote national and international co-operation

In achieving the above “4Ps”, the well-being & best interest of any child should be upheld without any discrimination & children’s views should be taken into account.

Prevention (examples)

- screening procedures for candidates to professions involving contacts with children
- sex education and information on the risks of sexual exploitation and sexual abuse
- encouraging involvement of the private sector, in particular the information and communication technology sector, the tourism and travel industry and the banking and finance sectors
- measures for sex offenders to minimize danger of them re-offending children

Protection (examples)

- early identification of child victims of sexual abuse (mandatory reporting)
- special telephone and/or internet SOS helplines to provide advice
- provisos for removing a child victim from the family environment but also to remove the alleged perpetrator from the home in order to avoid re-victimizing the child-victim.
- child-friendly procedures for victims
- limiting as much as possible the number of instances in which a child victim is to have contact with prosecuting authorities

Prosecution (examples)

- describing new legal concepts such as:
 - child sexual abuse: sexual activities with a child below the legal age according to domestic law or with any child (that is to say any person under 18) where use is made of force or threats; of a recognized position of trust; of a particularly vulnerable situation of the child
 - sexual abuse “within the family”
 - child prostitution including all involved parties
 - child pornography including all aware parties
 - “grooming”
 - child sex tourism addressing issues of country jurisdiction
- extension of the period for criminal proceedings

Promotion of international collaboration (examples)

- Collaboration with parties (member-states) with the aim of building consensus in required reforms and policies to be applied
- Synergies with other CoE's Departments or initiatives such as CAHENF, EPAS, GRETA etc.
- Alignment with other European and International Organizations and Agencies respective activities (UN, UNICEF, UNCRC, WHO, INTERPOL, EUROPOL, EU, FRA etc)
- Ongoing communication with international and domestic civil society's stakeholders to widen the basis of alliances to protect children

Participation (examples)

- Participation of children themselves to all levels of decision making that may affect them depending also on the age and maturity of the child
- Participation of children as agents for reform not just as passive subjects - recipients of policies that concern their protection
- Prioritization on the child's own perspective (children-friendly services/justice etc.) in redeploying all effective child protection policies

Lanzarote Committee: actions and initiatives (examples)

- Monitoring implementation of the Lanzarote Convention
- “One in Five” pan-European Campaign to stop child sexual victimization and developing awareness raising material
- Promoting collaboration and knowledge exchange in modes of forensic interviews and children friendly justice procedures in cases of child sexual abuse allegations
- Specific thematic initiatives such as:
 - Child protection from sexual victimization in sports’ context
 - Securing the rights of children and adolescents to choose sexual identity and orientation
 - Child protection from sexual abuse by the use of ICTs
- Focus on combating CSA within the circle of trust
- In situ visits in emergency situations with vulnerable children’s groups (i.e. children on the move)

Sexual victimization of children in sports: a not-so-uncommon phenomenon and how it was made known

- Firstly made known by decorated athletes, Olympic champions etc. who disclosed their personal narratives on their past victimization during childhood
- In turn it was realized that the phenomenon no so uncommon; and perpetrators could be either other children athletes or adult persons in positions of authority and trust
- A lot of empirical research was conducted since with some shocking outcomes published
- Surprisingly, male children's sexual victimization was found to be facilitated more in sports and environments in which male chauvinism and machismo prevailed...

Some of the empirical evidence

- Alexander et. al., (2011), UK: emotional harm (75%), sexual harassment (29%), physical harm (24%), self-harm (10%) and sexual harm (3%)
- Nielsen et. al., (1998), Denmark: 25% knew about or had experienced of CSA by a coach
- Kirby et. al., (2000), Canada: 3.2% flushing/exposing, 2.6% unwanted sexual touching
- Kirby et. al., (2002); Leachy et. al., (2002), reviews: between 2% and 8% of all children athletes
- Leachy et. al., (2002), Australia: 31% of female and 21% of male athletes CSA; of these, 41% of females, and 29% of males within the sports environment; 46.4%, of the elite group by sports personnel
- Fastings (2012), 10 European countries: sexual harassment in sport of 14%–73% and sexual abuse in sport of 2%–22%

 Presidency, Helsinki, 29-30/04/2019

Aims & objectives of child protection initiatives in sports

- Help create a safe sporting environment for children wherever they participate and at whatever level of sports activities
- Help professionals safeguard their work
- Provide a benchmark to assist sports providers and funders to make informed decisions
- Promote good practice and challenge practice that is harmful to children
- Provide clarity on safeguarding children to all involved in sport.

Child protection from sexual victimization in the sports context

- Putting in place effective operational procedures:
 - Requirement for two persons of the same sex with children to be present in changing rooms
 - Defining and reserving physical contact in only necessary occasions for training purposes
 - Respecting preferences or reservations of children-athletes on issues of i.e. changing rooms etc.
- Providing information to children-athletes on issues like child sexual abuse; encouraging them to disclose to safe channels which they can trust if they happen to know any such occasion
- Appointing authoritative officers for reviewing reports, disclosures or allegations from children-athletes
- Availability of specified procedures for filling such reports or allegations
- Standardly discussing such reports in agendas of administrative bodies
- Monitoring “excessive involvement” of personnel...

But most of all...

- Do not facilitate an atmosphere of blind submission to adult figures of authority but enhance self-conscious discipline
- Do not facilitate the logic of success “at any cost”... or “whatever that might take”...
- Do not support male chauvinism or machismo in sports
- Facilitate an atmosphere of transparency and dialogue among all agents adults and minors, coaches, administrations, children and their parents
- Accept – do not deny

IOC Consensus Statement on Training the Elite Child Athlete

Protecting the health of the athlete is the primary goal of the International Olympic Committee's Medical Commission. One of its main objectives is the promotion of safe practices in the training of the elite child athlete. The elite child athlete is one who has superior athletic talent; undergoes specialised training, receives expert coaching and is exposed to early competition. Sport provides a positive environment that may enhance the physical growth and psychological development of children. This unique athlete population has distinct social, emotional and physical needs which vary depending on the athlete's particular stage of maturation. The elite child athlete requires appropriate training, coaching and competition that ensure a safe and healthy athletic career and promote future well-being. This document reviews the scientific basis of sports training in the child, the special challenges and unique features of training elite children and provides recommendations to parents, coaches, health care providers, sports governing bodies and significant other parties.

Scientific Basis of Training the Elite Child Athlete

Aerobic and anaerobic fitness and muscle strength increase with age, growth and maturation. Improvement in these variables is asynchronous. Children experience more marked improvements in anaerobic and strength performance than in aerobic performance during pubescence. Boys' aerobic and anaerobic fitness and muscle strength are higher than those of girls in late pre-pubescence, and the gender difference becomes more pronounced with advancing maturity. Evidence shows that muscle strength and aerobic and anaerobic fitness can be further enhanced with appropriately prescribed training. Regardless of the level of maturity, the relative responses of boys and girls are similar after adjusting for initial fitness.

An effective and safe strength training programme incorporates exercises for the major muscle groups with a balance between agonists and antagonists. The prescription includes a minimum of two to three sessions per week with three sets, at an intensity of between 50 to 85% of the one maximal repetition (1RM).

An optimal aerobic training programme incorporates continuous and interval exercises involving large muscle groups. The prescription recommends three to four, 40 to 60-minute sessions per week at an intensity of 85 to 90% of maximum heart rate (HRM).

An appropriate anaerobic training programme incorporates high intensity interval training of short duration. The prescription includes exercise at an intensity above 90% HRM and of less than 30 seconds duration to take into account children's relatively faster recovery.

About PSS and PSS+

The Council of Europe has a long standing commitment to promote a safe and healthy environment for athletes, and in particular the youngest ones. Beyond the norms and standards set up on this topic, it has been developing new approaches and concrete tools for public authorities and sport organisations with the support of the European Commission:

➤ Guidance, recommendations and training to sport administrators and coaches on physical, psychological and social well-being in sport → Pro Safe Sport project (PSS-2014-2015)

➤ Awareness raising tools and capacity building resources to increase the commitment of both governmental and non-governmental organisations towards sexual violence against children in sport → Pro Safe Sport + project (PSS+-2017).

These new tools will complete the “Pro Safe Sport” package launched in 2015.
