I. INTRODUCTION

1. The Council of Europe Convention against Trafficking in Human Organs¹ (hereinafter “the Santiago de Compostela Convention” or “the Convention”), which entered into force in March 2018, requires criminalisation of illicit removal of human organs, the use of illicitly removed organs for purposes of implantation or other purposes than implantation, illicit solicitation, recruitment, offering and requesting of undue advantages and preparation, preservation, storage, transportation, transfer, receipt, import and export of illicitly removed human organs. The Convention provides a framework for national and international co-operation across the different sectors of the public administration, measures for coordination at national level, preventive measures at domestic and international level and protection of victims and witnesses. Furthermore, it foresees the establishment of a monitoring body to oversee the implementation of the Convention by the States Parties.
2. The Committee of the Parties to the Convention (also known as the “Santiago de Compostela Committee” or “the Committee of the Parties), established to monitor whether Parties effectively implement the Convention, decided that:

1. Following ratification and within six months from the entry into force of the Santiago de Compostela Convention in respect of the Party concerned, every Party to the Convention shall be required to reply to a questionnaire aimed at providing the Santiago de Compostela Committee with a general overview of the legislation practice, institutional framework and policies for the implementation of the Convention at the national, regional and local levels. Thereafter, the Parties should regularly inform the Santiago de Compostela Committee of any substantial changes to the situation described in their replies to the General Overview Questionnaire.

2. States having signed the Convention shall be invited to reply to the questionnaire referred to in paragraph 1 of this rule.

3. The secretariat shall compile the replies received and make them public on the Committee’s website².

3. In accordance with Rule 27 of the Committee’s Rules of Procedure:

2. The secretariat shall address such questionnaires to the Parties through the member in the Santiago de Compostela Committee representing the Party to be monitored and who will act as “contact point”.

3. Parties shall coordinate with their respective domestic authorities to collect replies, which shall be submitted to the secretariat in one of the official languages of the Council of Europe within the time limit set by the Santiago de Compostela Committee. The replies shall be detailed, as comprehensive as possible, answer all questions and contain all relevant reference texts. The replies shall be made public, unless a Party makes a reasoned request to the Santiago de Compostela Committee to keep a reply confidential.

4. The Santiago de Compostela Committee may also receive information on the implementation of the Convention from non-governmental organisations and civil society involved in preventing and combating trafficking in human organs, in one of the official languages of the Council of Europe and within the time-limit set by the Santiago de Compostela Committee. The secretariat transmits these comments to the Party(ies) concerned.

5. The secretariat may request additional information if it appears that the replies are not exhaustive or are unclear. Where warranted, with the consent of the Party or Parties concerned and within the limits of budgetary appropriations, the Bureau may decide to mandate an on-site visit in the Party or Parties concerned to clarify the situation. The Bureau shall establish guidance as to the procedure governing the on-site visits pending any official guidelines agreed by the Santiago de Compostela Committee.

4. The purpose of this general questionnaire is to collect information to provide the Committee of the Parties with an overview of the situation, which will constitute the general framework within which it will assess replies by Parties to the thematic questionnaire for the first monitoring round (see Rule 25 of the Committee's Rules of Procedure).

II. PRELIMINARY REMARKS

5. The provisions of the Santiago de Compostela Convention have been grouped under different sections in this questionnaire without necessarily following the structure of the Convention. This methodological choice in no way intends to prioritise the various provisions of the Convention: equal importance is attached to all rights and principles therein.
6. Parties will be invited to update their replies to this Country Profile Questionnaire when they will receive the next thematic monitoring questionnaire. Responses to a thematic questionnaire should therefore be interrelated and combined with the responses provided in the context of this questionnaire.
7. Parties are kindly requested to:
 - answer the questions with regard to central, regional and local levels to the extent possible. Federal states may, in respect of their sovereign entities, answer the questions in a summarised way;

III. GENERAL LEGAL FRAMEWORK AND ALIGNMENT OF THE CONVENTION

Question 1: Non-discrimination

Is discrimination, on grounds such as the ones mentioned in the indicative list in Article 3, prohibited in the implementation of the Convention, in particular in the enjoyment of the rights guaranteed by it? If so, please specify.

From the point of view of criminal law, we can explain that discrimination in certain circumstances can constitute a criminal offence. Namely, Article 131 of the Criminal Code (Official Gazette of the RS, Nos. 50/12 – UPB2, 54/15, 6/16 – UPB2p, 38/16, 27/17, 23/20, 91/20, 95/21, 186/21, 105/22 – ZZNSPP and 16/23) determines a criminal offence of “violation of equality” which can be committed by whoever, who due to differences in respect of nationality, race, skin colour, religion, ethnic roots, gender, language, political or other beliefs, sexual orientation, financial situation, birth, genetic heritage, education, social position or any other circumstance deprives or restrains another person of any human right or freedom recognised by the international community or laid down by the Constitution or the statute, or grants another person a special privilege or advantage on the basis of such discrimination. For this criminal offence a fine or imprisonment for not more than one year is prescribed.

If a criminal offence of “violation of equality” is committed by an official through the abuse of office or official authority, such an official shall be sentenced to imprisonment for not more than three years.

A similar agreement will be required with the other profiles involved.

If grounds exist for the suspicion that a criminal offence prosecutable ex officio has been committed, the police takes the necessary steps to trace the perpetrator of the criminal offence, to prevent that the perpetrator or the participant in the criminal offence goes into hiding or flees, to detect and secure the traces of the criminal offence and the objects which may be of value as evidence, and to collect all information that might be useful for the successful conduct of criminal proceedings. In order to carry out those tasks, the police may seek the necessary information from the persons, inspect the means of transport, passengers and luggage, restrict movement within a specific area for the urgently required period of time, take the necessary steps to establish the identify of persons and objects, send out a wanted circular for persons and objects; in the presence of the responsible person, conduct a search of certain facilities and premises of companies and other legal persons and inspect their documentation, and undertake any other necessary measures.

The main right and the main duty of state prosecutors is the prosecution of perpetrators of criminal offences. They have the jurisdiction: to take the necessary steps associated with the uncovering of criminal offences, the pursuit of perpetrators and the directing of pre-trial proceedings; to request that an investigation be undertaken; to file and represent indictment or motion of indictment before the competent court; to file appeals against court decisions that have not yet become final and apply extraordinary legal remedies against final court decisions.

The topic is part of the training programme on ethical issues in the field of transplant medicine at the Faculty of Medicine in Maribor and at the Faculty of Health in Ljubljana. It has also been regularly discussed for more than 20 years in many media interviews and scientific articles on a highly functional system in Slovenia as the best prevention; organ trafficking was also presented at the symposium on ethics at the University of Ljubljana for health care personnel and other participants. At the aforementioned symposium, the Convention of Santiago de Compostela was also presented and the requirements it entails that it is absolutely necessary to involve medical personnel to report suspicious cases.
