Country action:

The French government is looking into ways of adopting measures to combat online racism, anti-Semitism and other hate speech that would allow authorities to shut down offending websites amid a recent rise in hate crimes in the country.

Cluj-Napoca in Romania is currently European Youth Capital. The SHARE Cluj-Napoca Federation which is implementing the project of the European Youth Capital (2015) has joined the No Hate Speech Movement as a new partner.

The Serbia National Committee for Combating Hate Speech Online has discussed its 2015 action which includes online and offline components. It decided to make contact with advertising agencies to define the visual identity of the national campaign and formulating appropriate messages to different audiences.

In the UK, a new campaign was launched to raise awareness of hate crime towards people with hidden disabilities. This campaign involved engaging with people with hidden disabilities and finding out about their experiences. They then work with a designer to create the campaign they are going to display in public places such as buses and supermarkets.

National campaign coordinators/activists are urged to use the reporting tool to document their work and keep the secretariat in Strasbourg informed.

The state of play of the national campaign committees can be found and checked on the website and on the new map of national campaign coordinators.

Hate speech, as defined by the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe, covers all forms of expression which spread, incite, promote or justify racial hatred, xenophobia, antisemitism or other forms of hatred based on intolerance, including: intolerance expressed by aggressive nationalism and ethnocentrism, discrimination and hostility against minorities, migrants and people of immigrant origin. For the purpose of the campaign, other forms of discrimination and prejudice, such as anti-gypsyism, christianophobia, islamophobia, misogyny, sexism and discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity fall clearly within the scope of hate speech.

For up-to-date CoE action please check the CoE website and the CoE Journal.

A preparatory meeting on the 2nd European Youth Work Convention was held in Brussels on 17-19 February. At their 1219th meeting (11-12 February 2015) the Ministers’ Deputies endorsed the Secretary General’s proposals for Immediate Action by the CoE to combat extremism and radicalisation leading to terrorism SG/Inf\(2015\)4 rev. The proposals include:

a) A Conference on 8 May in Brussels in co-operation with the Belgian Chairmanship entitled “Tolerance Trumps Hate” with the participation of Internet companies, other international organisations, civil society, young NHSM activists. The aim of the Conference will be to identify concrete steps to fight against hate speech online as well as for its prevention, building upon the experience and best practices gained from the “No Hate Speech Campaign”. To help strike the right balance between freedom of expression and the fight against hate speech, the Conference will look into the case-law of the European Court of Human Rights on freedom of expression and its limits as set out in Article 10 of the European Convention on Human Rights. The Additional Protocol to the Convention on Cybercrime concerning the criminalisation of acts of a racist and xenophobic nature committed through computer systems will also be discussed, as a tool to fight hate speech online. The Conference will explore how best to make sustainable the Council of Europe's action to fight hate speech. This Conference will be complementary to the Council of Europe Conference to be held in Strasbourg on 13-14 October 2015 on "Freedom of Expression is STILL the issue". Organised as a follow-up to the Thematic Debate on "Ensuring freedom of expression on the Internet", this Conference will focus on 3 key elements: freedom of expression as a fundamental value of democracy; challenges to freedom of expression posed by the Internet and possible answers; the role of the European Convention on Human Rights and the case-law of Strasbourg Court in the European legal landscape. Debates will focus on: the rules of the democratic game when there is conflict between fundamental rights; the context of increased social sensitivities; how to integrate Internet into the existing sphere of protection for freedom of expression. The Conference should mark an important milestone in the roadmap towards establishing a coherent regime to protect all public spaces for democratic debate.

b) Extending the "No Hate Speech Campaign" which was originally scheduled to end in March 2015. Moreover, the ECRI will prepare its General Policy Recommendation on Combating Hate Speech, which will provide guidelines for States when drawing up national strategies and policies, as well as a basis for a revitalised campaign.

The Advisory Council on Youth will be represented by Christian Scharling. The Congress is preparing a report on new forms of youth participation and how local and regional authorities can ensure a meaningful participation of young people.
